MITCHELL SAYS WAR IS NOT ON UNIONS, BUT ON FAIR PAY TO MEN

Interprets Attitude of Michigan Copper Mine Operators.

Tells Congressmen Conditions There Are Worse Than in Butte.

Washington, March 23.—John Mitchell, the labor leader, today testified about conditions in the Michigan copper mines before the house committee investigating the Calumet strike.

Of comparisons of conditions in the Michigan field and at Butte, Mont., Mr. Mitchell declared "life and labor conditions in Butte are much superior to life and labor conditions in the Michigan copper field." He said the Butte miners were paid on the basis of the selling price of copper, with a minimum wage of $3.50 per day; had an eight-hour day, and were not forced to trade in company stores or live in company houses.

Chairman Taylor pointed out the contention of the Michigan operators that the Western Federation of Miners was founded on "red socialism."

Basis of Trouble.

Mr. Mitchell said that the Socialist party was organized and circulating a newspaper in the Copper country before any attempt was made to unionize the laborers.

"It would seem," he said, "that the opposition of the mine operators is not against the political Socialist, but against organized employes; the opposition is to paying a fair wage to workmen, rather than to any political party or propaganda."

He added that any effort to organize a union, independent of the present international unions, would be futile and would leave the workmen "just as helpless as they are now."

Would Bar Armed Guards.

Mr. Mitchell urged legislation to prohibit the importation of armed guards, and had a spirited discussion on that point with Mr. Emery of counsel for the operators.

Questioned by Chairman Taylor, Mr. Mitchell testified that while the Western Federation of Miners had participated in the organization of the Industrial Workers of the World, the Federation at present had nothing in common with the I. W. W.

Mr. Mitchell also recommended legislation to prohibit the interstate shipment of strike-breakers unless they were fully informed of conditions in the strike district.

Questioned by Representative Casey, Mr. Mitchell explained at length the organization of the American Federation of labor, and explained that the organization had no connection with the Socialist party or the Industrial Workers of the World.

Moyer Indictment Stands.

Houghton, Mich., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A motion to quash the indictment for conspiracy against President Charles H. Moyer and thirty-seven other officers and members of the Western Federation of Miners was denied today by Circuit Judge O'Brien.

The motion to quash having failed, attorneys for the Western Federation of Miners today filed pleas in abatement which will further delay the prosecution of the conspiracy cases against President Moyer and others.

No effort to bring Moyer and the other defendants back to Houghton will be made until all the preliminaries have been disposed of, it was announced by Special Prosecutor Nichols. Nichols said that he was confident the cases would be ready for trial at the September term.

BITTER CAMPAIGN IS ON IN ILLINOIS

Three Hundred Townships Will Vote on Saloons April 7.

Chicago, March 23.—With election day scarcely more than a fortnight distant, Illinois today started on the last lap of a political contest which, though no great state or national offices are at stake, rivals in intensity even a presidential election.

The question before the electors is, shall the sale of liquor be barred from approximately 300 townships in which local option petitions have been filed. Anti-saloon forces in most instances raised the question, and in many localities a house to house canvass was begun today, lining up the voters. The opponents of the saloon look for victory in most of the townships, through the votes of the newly enfranchised women.

Several of the larger cities of the state also will vote on the liquor question on township election day, April 7, among them being Springfield, Rockford, Canton and Freeport.

In thirty-six counties there will be no vote on the liquor question. The sharpest contests are in the northern part of the state. South of a line from East St. Louis to Danville, only fifteen townships will vote.

EARTHQUAKE SHOWN BY SEISMOGRAPH.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 23.—The siesmograph in the observatory at St. Ignace college here recorded an earthquake this morning, starting at 3:15 o'clock and ending at 6:24. The maximum was at 4:25. Rev. Father Odenbach believes the disturbance was as far away as the Indian ocean.

Postpone De Knight Hearing.

Washington, March 23.—The senate lobby committee changed its plans at the last moment today and postponed until tomorrow further inquiry into the alleged activities of C. W. De Knight, a Washington lawyer, in connection with the passage of the Panama tolls law.

AWAIT NEWS OF ROOSEVELT

Family and Friends Have Little Knowledge Regarding Accident.

New York, March 23.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt's family and friends were anxiously awaiting further advices today regarding the accident by which his party lost its entire equipment in the rapids of a Brazilian river. While no concern, it was stated, was felt for the safety of the former president, it was desirable to learn just how and when the accident occurred, and whether the expedition would be abandoned, especially as the party was so far from a base where new equipment could be acquired.

The news of the mishap came in a brief message from Anthony Fiala, a member of the party. It was dated at Santarem, Brazil, and read:

"We have lost everything in the rapids. Telephone my wife of my safety."

Santarem is in the state of Parn, at the confluence of the Tapajos river with the Amazon, and the dispatch was probably sent there by courier.

Probably on "River of Doubt."

The accident, in all probability, occurred on an unknown river which Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., today said his father, in a letter to him, had called the Rio Dulvata, or "River of Doubt."

Col. Roosevelt, in a letter written on Jan. 18 from Tapirapoan in Matto Grosso, a province in the south central part of Brazil, and received last week by Frank M. Chapman of the American Museum of Natural History, said that he expected to explore this unknown river.

Col. Roosevelt does not state in any of his letters what means of transportation he would use in descending the unknown river. It is believed that nothing heavier than canoes could have been carried on the 500-mile journey on horseback from the headwaters of the Paraguay to the "River of Doubt."

Some Specimens Safe.

The specimens of natural history collected by the party on its trip up the parana and Paraguay rivers are safe, it is understood here, as the colonel had indicated he would ship them before he reached the Brazilian wilds. The loss in the rapids, outside of food, arms, camp material and instruments, undoubtedly included the birds and animals killed and photographs taken from the time the party started on the horseback trip over the plateau.

BLOODY BOAT FOUND; ALSO WEDDING PAPER

Oar Smeared With Blood and Woman's Hair Is in Craft.

Seattle, Wash., March 23.—A rowboat half filled with bloodstained water and with one oar smeared with blood was found on the beach here Sunday. The police believed a woman who was heard quarreling with a man in the boat Saturday night was murdered. Strands of a woman's hair and pieces of scalp were clotted on the bloody oar.

The boat was hired Friday by a man who gave his name as MacDonald. A marriage certificate issued at Grangeville, Idaho, June 22, 1901, was washed up on the beach and is believed by the police to afford a possible clew. The certificate was issued to Alfred Bowman and Elinora Delage of Grangeville, by Justice J. E. Jacques, and bore the names of J. W. Wilkes and J. E. Davis as witnesses.

LESS TENSION OVER ULSTER

Asquith Gives Assurance Government Plans No Conflict There.

Army Commanders Go to London for Conference.

London, March 23.—A much easier feeling has been created in the British Isles by the reassuring statement given out by Premier Asquith to the effect that the troop movement in Ulster had been ordered only as a precautionary measure for the protection of government property. The inference is generally drawn from the premier's remarks that the government's intentions toward army officers who did not desire to serve against the Orangemen had been misinterpreted.

The public in all parts of the United Kingdom awaited eagerly today the explanation of the cabinet in the house of commons, to which place the Irish controversy has been transferred.

Paget Too Severe.

In some quarters there was an inclination to believe that Gen. Sir Arthur Paget, commander-in-chief in Ireland, had placed a much graver interpretation upon the government's inquiries as to the feelings of army officers in the Irish garrisons than was intended.

He presented an ultimatum to the officers that they must serve or resign. Sir Arthur always has taken a serious view of the threatened refusal of officers to serve in Ulster. It is understood that he followed his public warning to them by a private intimation that their resignations would not be quietly accepted by the war office.

Commanders at London.

Gen. Paget, Brig. Gen. Hubert Gough, commander of the cavalry brigade at the Curragh, and other officers attached to the Irish garrisons reached London this morning and immediately went to the war office to confer with

SOUTH DAKOTA ALL READY FOR PRIMARY

Both Factions of Republican Party Confident of Victory.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 23.—With the exception of a few closing rallies in different parts of the state, everything now is about in readiness for the primary election to be held throughout South Dakota tomorrow. On the same day a primary election is to be held in a congressional district in New Jersey, but the election in South Dakota will be the first state-wide primary election held in the United States this year.

With the campaign practically closed so far as their work is concerned, the managers of the majority and minority Republicans have made their final forecast of Tuesday's election. Managers for both sides put up claims for victory.

The majority state ticket is led by Governor Byrnes for re-election. Coe I. Crawford is seeking a nomination to the United States senate on the same ticket. Pitted against him on the minority ticket is Congressman Burke. Byrne and Crawford are the leaders of the Progressive Republican faction in the state. Great interest is centered in the outcome of the senatorial race. Burke is the leader of the stalwart faction.

NO SHOTS FIRED IN KILLING OF BENTON, SAYS BRITISH CONSUL

Perceval's Report Is Received at Washington—Stabbing Inferred.

John Lind's Talk With Rojas Brings Nothing Definite.

No Attack Yet Made on Torreon or Suburbs.

Washington, March 23.—British Consul Perceval's official report on the killing of William S. Benton at Juarez, received at the embassy here today, says "no pistol shots" were fired in the fight which ended in the ranchman's death, leaving the inference that he was stabbed.

Consul Perceval's report was the result of his investigation conducted at the order of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador. It does not make any definite charge as to the manner of Benton's death, further than to establish that it was not by shooting, as was first said by Villa, who explained that the Englishman had been executed by a firing squad after courtmartial. Friends of Benton on the border charged that Villa himself had shot the ranchman with a pistol.

Officer Is Suspected.

The broad inference that Benton was stabbed is regarded as especially significant in connection with other information here that the Constitutionalist commission which investigated the affair has found that Benton was stabbed by one of Villa's officers, who is expected to be tried for the crime.

Consul Perceval's report also states that Benton went to Villa unarmed and to protest against the theft of his cattle, and that finding agrees with the contention of Benton's friends.

Lind's Talk Unimportant.

Information thus far received by President Wilson indicates that the parleys at Vera Cruz between John Lind and Senor Portillo y Rojas Huerta's minister for foreign affairs, have not reached the stage of formal negotiations or definite proposals. The president told callers today that noth-

MRS. JONES IN PRISON AGAIN

Mine Workers' Official Declares It Case of Kidnaping.

Walsenburg, Colo., March 23.—After a week's freedom, "Mother" Mary Jones is again a military prisoner in the strike zone. The aged strike leader was taken from a south bound Colorado & Southern train here at 5:30 this morning by Capt. H. C. Nicherson, acting under orders of Adjt. Gen. John Chase, and lodged in the county hospital under military guard.

Capt. Nickerson left Trinidad last night under orders to arrest "Mother" Jones at Walsenburg, when the announcement was made that she was leaving for Trinidad. The militia officer boarded the train at Pueblo, and as it neared Walsenburg, ordered "Mother" Jones to alight with him at that point.

Aged Woman Protested.

"I am acting under orders," replied the officer.

John Brown, an organizer of the United Mine Workers of America and known as "Mother" Jones' bodyguard, who accompanied the aged strike leader, also left the train, but was not placed under arrest.

Calls It "Kidnaping."

Trinidad, Colo., March 23.—"It's a plain case of kidnaping; nothing else," declared John R. Lawson, international board member of the United Mine Workers, when advised that "Mother" Jones had been taken from a train at Walsenburg by the military authorities while on her way to Trinidad.

"Mother Jones was going through the place, and so far as I know there is absolutely no charge against her. I hope the supreme court will act in the matter at once."

PRICELESS PAPYRUS GONE FROM LOUVRE

Paris, March 23.—An Egyptian papyrus of great value is missing from the Louvre, according to a Paris newspaper. It was presented to the museum in 1887 by Adolphe Cattani, a noted Egyptologist. Wishing to consult the papyrus in connection with work he is doing, he asked to see it recently. No one knew anything about it, nor could it be found.

The papyrus is a magnificently illuminated example of "The Book of the Dead." It measures seven feet.

GERMAN BLUEBEARD BEHEADED FOR ACTS

Druggist Was Convicted of Four Murders and Other Attempts.

Frankfort on the Main, Germany, March 23.—Carl Hopf, the druggist of this city who has been named the "Bluebeard of Germany," was beheaded today for murdering his father, his first wife, and two children. The accused man was found guilty of the charge in January, and also of attempting to murder his second and third wives and several other persons.

DULUTH STEEL PLANT READY FOR OPERATION IN THE SPRING OF 1915

Official Announcement Is Made in Judge Gary's Report.

Portland Cement Plant to Be Opened About Same Time.

Large Additions Are Being Made to Construction Forces.

At the last annual meeting of the United States Steel corporation, it was announced by Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors, in his address to the shareholders that the Minnesota Steel company's plant here would be completed ready to go into operation in the spring of 1915, and that the Universal Portland Cement company's plant would be finished at about the same time.

Referring to the plant here he said: "Construction work on the new steel plant at Duluth, Minn., and the connecting railroad to serve the same, proceeded during the year, additional expenditures having been made at a cost of $5,912,027. It is expected this plant will be completed for operation in the spring of 1915. The plant will comprise two blast furnaces, ten open hearth furnaces, one forty-inch blooming mill, one combination twenty-eight and eighteen-inch rail and shape mill, one combination sixteen, twelve and eight-inch merchant mill, and a by-product coke plant of ninety ovens, together with the necessary complement of auxiliary departments, such as power plants, pumping stations, machine and other shops. There has been laid out adjacent to the plant a subdivision on which work has been commenced in the building of houses for use by employes. The total expenditures made to the close of 1913 for acquirement of the land for site of steel plant and subdivisions, for construction of plant, development of subdivision and building of the railroad, was $13,445,648, all of which has to date been advanced from the current assets of the corporation. There is under consideration a suggestion to reimburse the treasury for a substantial part of this outlay, and additional outlays yet to be made in connection with the work, through an issue and sale of bonds secured on the property.

Cement Plant.

"Work was commenced during the year on the construction of an additional cement plant located adjacent to the new steel plant at Duluth, Minn. This cement plant will have an annual capacity of 1,400,000 barrels. It is being constructed by the Universal Portland Cement company, a subsidiary company. The plant will utilize in the manufacture of cement blast furnace slag from the steel plant. It will probably be completed for operation in 1915."

Operations at the steel plant site are now being vigorously pushed. About 200 additional men have been taken on at the various departments during the last few days, and it is intimated that contractors will still further augment their forces within the next two or three weeks. The putting in of foundations for more buildings is to be proceeded with as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

INVITE WILSON TO ELIZABETHTOWN.

Washington, March 23.—Members of the New Jersey congressional delegation and a committee of citizens from Elizabeth, N. J., today invited President Wilson to attend the 250th anniversary of the founding of Elizabethtown on Oct. 28. It was there that the first settlement in New Jersey was made, and Princeton college was first established in the town. The president said he hoped to go, and while making no definite promise, indicated that he might attend.

PROF. PECK IS SUICIDE

Once Figured in Suit Based on Letters to Woma[illegible]

Stamford, Conn., March 23. — Harry Thurston Peck, a former professor at Columbia university, committed suicide at a rooming house here today by shooting himself in the head with a revolver.

Was Asked to Resign.

New York, March 23.—Harry Thurston Peck, who committed suicide by shooting today in Stamford, Conn., was formerly a professor in Columbia university in this city. He severed his connection with the university in 1910 after a heated clash with President Nicholas Murray Butler, whose administration of university affairs Prof. Peck criticized sharply. In the course of the trouble Prof. Peck made the declaration that there was virtually a "state of revolution" among the members of the faculty, against Dr. Butler.

Some years ago Mr. Peck was divorced by his first wife, and a short time afterward he remarried. Shortly before his resignation was asked by President Butler, Peck was made the defendant in a suit based on letters he was said to have written between the divorce and the second marriage. These letters were addressed to a stenographer, and with the publication of the news of the suit, Peck's resignation was requested. He refused to resign without the formal preferring of charges, and the controversy with Dr. Butler resulted.

VENEZUELA GETS FOURTEENTH TREATY.

Washington, March 23.—A new treaty has been signed between the United States and Venezuela by which all questions not capable of settlement by diplomacy shall be submitted to investigation by an international commission for at least one year. It is the fourteenth of Secretary Bryan's peace treaties.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon.

Lobby committee postponed further hearings until tomorrow.

Senator Sutherland introduced an amendment to the radium bill to permit the government to control the exportation of ores.

Senator La Follette's resolution, to have the record of the interstate commerce commission's investigation of increased freight rates published for public information, was passed.

Senator Thornton denounced resolutions adopted at a New Orleans St. Patrick's day celebration which attacked him for his support of the Panama canal tolls exemption repeal.

HOUSE.

Debate was continued on the rivers and harbors bill.

President Wilson's allusion to a filibuster on the river and harbor bill to delay a vote on the Panama tolls exemption repeal was followed by hurried consideration of the river bill and delay of other business.

WILSON HOST TO DYING BOY

President Grants Earnest Wish of Pennsylvania Lad.

Washington, March 23.—A pale, smiling lad of 12 lay on a stretcher in the blue room of the White House early today, and beside him sat the president of the United States. The scene was the culmination of weeks of yearning and the kind response of President Wilson to the little boy's plea.

Paralyzed in limb, and his life slowly ebbing away, Harry Winthrop Davis of Sewickley, Pa., was the president's early caller. He came in a motor ambulance and three hospital attendants bore him into the White House to the blue room. The president came and chatted for several minutes with the little fellow, whose eyes beamed with joy, and who was at first too happy to speak. Finally he asked about Mrs. Wilson and left some flowers for her.

President's Eyes Dimmed.

The president's eyes were dimmed as he turned away to his day of work and the little boy was carried out on his stretcher to the ambulance and away to the railroad station, and on to Atlantic City.

The visit to the president was arranged after Mrs. A. L. Davis, the boy's mother, had written Mrs. Wilson telling how her little boy had been praying to see the president and how she earnestly hoped it might be arranged. She suggested that the little fellow could be brought to the White House, and the president promptly gave his consent.

BUSY YEAR FOR RESERVES

Will Have Annual Cruise Aug. 10 to 14 on Great Lakes.

According to information received this morning the annual cruise of the naval reserve fleet of the Great Lakes will begin Aug. 10 and end Aug. 24. Another thing which will be of greater interest to the members of the Minnesota naval reserves is that they will likely be called upon in the early part of December or probably sooner to go East and ship for the fleet's trip through the Panama canal.

Brig.-Gen. Goethals says that the canal will probably be opened for commerce about next October, but that the formalities attending the formal dedication of the canal to the world's commerce will not take place until Jan. 1, 1915. In this event the mobilization of the fleet for the formal trip to and through the canal will be necessary at least a month earlier, it is believed.

Commander Guy A. Eaton of the Minnesota contingent said this morning that he has received word concerning the annual cruise, but nothing as to when the trip through the canal will be made, other than that it may be about Jan. 1.

Commander Eaton expects his entire contingent of three companies to make the trip. Much interest is felt and for some time the applications for membership have been coming in thick and fast, he says, and he does not expect to have any trouble in filling his battalion to its full quota.

Commander Eaton expects the trip from New York, through the canal and to San Francisco to take about three months. The return will be made from San Francisco by rail.

As to the annual cruise, the point of rendezvous has not yet been determined, but several days will be spent in the vicinity of Macklnaw island and the cruise will end at Detroit. Eight vessels will take part.

ASKED TO GIVE ADDRESS.

St. Louis County Superintendent May Appear Before State Gathering.

N. A. Young, county superintendent of schools, has been asked to appear on the program for the annual conference between county school superintendents and the state department which will be held at the law building of the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The subject assigned to him is "Teachers for the Rural Schools."

A two-day session will be held at which the following subjects will be discussed: "Supervisions of Rural Schools," "Consolidation," "School Progress Through School Boards," "Relation of Other State Activities to Rural Schools," "Plans for School Buildings," "School Libraries," "Examination and Issuance of Certificates," "Rural School Aid" and "Employment of Teachers."

ADMITTED MISS BREITUNG IS THE BRIDE OF GARDENER

JULIET BREITUNG.

Chicago, March 23.—Edward N. Breitung, banker and hotel owner, with a financial rating of "multi-millionaire," left on Saturday evening for New York, after admitting that he was having detectives ferret out the record of Max Frederick Kleist, a gardener, who was secretly married to his daughter, Juliet Breitung, in New York last November. "Kleist's own father disowned him," said Mr. Breitung. "That's one of the things my investigators dug up. It is one of the reasons why I don't want him for a son-in-law. My wife knows more about this man than I do. My lawyers will get everything straightened out and then I'll make a statement."

Records in the marriage bureau show that Dr. Charles L. Slattery of Grace church united in marriage, on Nov. 22 last, Miss Juliet Breiting, daughter of Edward Breitung, living at the St. Regis hotel, and Max Frederick Kleist, a machinist, living at 626 Lexington avenue.

The records further show that Miss Breitung is white, is 19 years old, has no occupation, was born in Marquette, Mich.; that her father, Edward Breitung, was born in America, and that her mother's maiden name was Charlotte Kaufman. The Miss Breitung who took out the marriage licenses on Nov. 20 and was married two days later had never been married before, according to the records.

Well Known in Society

Mrs. Charlotte G. Kaufman Breitung, Miss Breitung's mother, is well known in New York society and in Marquette, where the Breitungs have a fine summer home. She is also known in Chicago and in Detroit, which was originally her home. Mrs. Breitung is a partner in her husband's business.

Miss Juliet Breitung is tall and slender, with dark hair and brown eyes.

The marriage license return shows that Kleist, after giving his name, said he was white, lived at 626 Lexington avenue, was 23 years old, was born in Manistique, Mich., that his father was William Kleist, born in America; that his mother's maiden name was Willamina Knuth and that she was born in Germany

Kleist wrote "no occupation" on the license, but this was crossed out, apparently by the clerk, and the word "machinist" was written above. It is significant that Kleist did not know how to spell his mother's first name correctly. Despatches from Manistique say that his mother's name is Wilhelmina Knuth Kleist.

Now Working in Arizona Mine.

The young man is said to be now working in a silver mine in the Mongolian mountains, Gila county, Ariz.

He was employed as a gardener on the summer estate of Thomas Farrell at Marquette, Mich., last summer. The Farrell home is next to the summer home of the Breitungs. Kleist left Manistique in the fall and came to New York, where he hired a furnished room in a boarding house at 626 Lexington avenue, which is near Fifty-fourth street and only three blocks from the St. Regis.

Mrs. Breitung discovered Albert Linquist, a Chicago tenor, and she and some of her friends sent him abroad to study. About a year ago she became interested in Theodore Kittay, a New York street singer, and helped to send him to Europe to obtain a musical education. She has been called "the best groomed woman in the West." Her husband gave her a pearl necklace worth $50,000 for Christmas last year.

Certain-teed

Quality Cert-ified Roofing Durability Guaran-teed

They have not realized that service to their customers builds the best business for themselves.

The dealer who is doing the biggest roofing business in his community is the dealer who handles Certain-teed Roofing—because he recognizes service to his customers as the biggest part of his job—and more customers as his reward.

He knows, just as you know, that Certain-teed Roofing will give you the best, the longest and the guaranteed service. When you buy roofing of such a dealer as this, you know it is the best roofing service you can buy for your buildings because it is Certain-teed—guaranteed for fifteen years—backed by the world's three biggest roofing mills, endorsed by your local dealer whom you know and who meets you face to face when he sells it to you.

There is a dealer of this calibre in your neighborhood. He will sell you Certain-teed.

Certain-teed Roofing is sold at a reasonable price everywhere by dealers who believe in giving unsurpassed quality at a fair profit. The amount of Certain-teed Roofing required for an average roof, say ten squares, will cost less than $5 over the cheap, mail-order grade. POISONED WOMAN IS MYSTERY IN CHICAGO

Husband, Who Left Her There Saturday, Is Hurrying Back.

Chicago, March 23.—Explanation of circumstances which involve a woman suffering from poison and a husband hurrying to the hospital where she lies, were expected today by the police on the arrival of R. J. Widney, who notified the hospital that Vera Lyons who was found unconscious in a downtown hotel was his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Widney were registered as from Seattle. Widney left the hotel Saturday paying the bill for another day. Sunday a telephone call from the hotel to a friend of the woman led to the discovery of her condition and her removal to a hospital.

Physicians declared the woman was suffering from an opiate. She has not been able to tell any of the circumstances surrounding the taking of the poison, and the police do not know whether she took it intentionally. Her recovery is doubtful. Widney telegraphed to the hospital from Kansas City that he would reach Chicago today.

YALE HONOR SYSTEM DETAILS GIVEN OUT

Students Will Vote March 30 on Adoption of Plan.

New Haven, Conn., March 23.—Details of the honor systems in examinations, recommended by the academic senior council at Yale, with approval of the faculty, and acceptance of which is to be voted on by the students March 30, were made public today.

The plan provides for the withdrawal of all supervision by the faculty of the honesty of examinations and of other work in the college, and leaves the question of honesty to each individual and to the public sentiment of the college as a whole. Each student, on entering college, is to sign a card signifying his acceptance of the system. At the end of each examination paper the student is to certify that he has complied with the requirements, but no one supervises him to see that he has done so.

There is no student or faculty provision for penalties for violation of the code.

SABATHS GUILTY ON GAMBLING CHARGES

Chicago, March 23.—Morris Sabath and his son, Harry Sabath, were found guilty today of keeping a gambling house in a saloon formerly owned by them.

Attention was directed to the offense of which they were convicted by a statement by Fred Bell, a grocery clerk, accused of embezzlement. Bell declared that he lost the money he was accused of stealing while gambling in Sabath's saloon. Judge Petit, who heard Bell's plea, refused clemency and said that he would interest charitable women so that Mrs. Bell would not suffer while her husband was in prison.

The Sabaths denied that there had ever been gambling in their place. Morris Sabath is a second cousin of Congressman A. J. Sabath, and is active in politics. He was fined $200 and his son was fined $100.

TRUST PROGRAM IS TAKING SHAPE.

Washington, March 23.—No suggestion has come to President Wilson from congress to have anti-trust legislation postponed. The president told callers today that he saw no reason for such a postponement, but that on the contrary the trust program was rapidly being worked into shape.

WILSON NOT ACTIVE ON EXCHANGE BILLS

Washington, March 23.—When asked today if he were taking any part in proposed legislation to regulate stock exchanges, President Wilson replied that he had not passed judgment on the question, because he had not felt familiar with the operation of the exchange. He told callers that his ignorance of exchange methods was due largely to his lack of "wherewithal" to engage in stock speculation at any time.

EPISCOPAL PARISH HOUSE IS BURNED.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 23.—The handsome parish house of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal church at Sewickley, a fashionable suburb, was destroyed by fire today with a loss of $60,000. The church was saved after hard work by volunteer firemen of neighboring boroughs. Rev. Alleyne C. Howell, the rector, is in New York.

NO TRACES YET OF MISSING WOMAN.

Chicago, March 23.—Possibility that Mrs. Selma Hemmen, missing wife of John Hemmen, a Waukegan photographer, may be in Chicago either wandering about or a patient in a hospital, was suggested by detectives who began a search here today.

Mrs. Hemmen disappeared last Tuesday, and since then the woods and marshes around Waukegan have been searched in vain by organized parties of citizens, soldiers and school boys.

Many of the searchers fear that Mrs. Hemmen was trapped in the quicksands of a marsh known as Big Dead lake, not far from Waukegan.

GRAZING LEASE BIDS.

County Auditor Will Receive Them Up to April 14 for State Land.

Bids on leases on state swamp and school lands for grazing and pasturage purposes will be received by County Auditor Halden up to April 14.

The law provides that land not sold at the regular state land sales may be leased for a period of not more than five years. The annual rental must not be less than 10 cents per acre and at the end of the term the lessee must remove all fences and temporary structures erected on the property.

The county auditor retains 10 per cent of the gross amount received for rents of such leases, the balance being paid over to the state. All leases are executed subject to a sale of the land at any time. Eighty leases of this kind were executed by the county auditor last year.

POLICE MAKE GOOD CATCH

Arrest Man Believed to Be Responsible for Many Burglaries.

Found Wandering in Alley—Confesses When Loot Is Discovered.

With the arrest at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning of Fred Jackson, 30 years old, of 224 East First street, the police have cleared the mystery of eleven burglaries since Dec. 18, 1912, entailing a loss of approximately $1,200. Jackson is said to have confessed to the eleven burglaries this morning to Lieutenant of Detectives Norman Terry. The arrest of Jackson is considered by the police to be one of the best catches made in several years.

Police Were Worried.

For more than a year the police have been worried by the many burglaries reported in the downtown district. The situation had already become a delicate one and the department was being censured for its inability to solve the mystery of the burglaries. The confession of Jackson this morning makes clear mysteries that have been worrying the detective department for weeks.

Jackson was arraigned before Judge Cutting shortly before noon on the one specific charge of having burglarized the hardware store of A. O. Geise, 103 West First street, on March 10 last, when $25 was stolen from the cash register and several watches, fountain pens and razors were taken from the store. The prisoner was held for an examination and his hearing was set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. No bail was allowed by the court.

Shortly after Jackson was taken into custody a search of the prisoner's home at 224 East First street was made and much of the plunder was found by the authorities. The property included silverware, table linen, groceries and other articles, all of which the prisoner this morning admitted having stolen.

The list of offenses which Jackson has confessed includes the burglarizing of the Gustav Hennecke art and picture store at 211 East Superior street; the residence of W. R. Stone, 110 West Third street; two burglaries at the residence of J. D. Zien, 131 East Second street; two burglaries of the George Clifford store at 219 East Superior street; two burglaries at the L. C. King store at 18 Second avenue east; the Oasis saloon, 15 Fourth avenue west; the John Peterson saloon, 11 East Superior street, and the A. O. Geise hardware store, 103 West First street.

Arrested on Suspicion.

Jackson was arrested by Patrolman Ricketts at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning as he stood in an alley at the rear of 217 West Superior street. The officer saw him leaning against a building and believing him drunk, ordered the patrol and Jackson was brought to headquarters on a charge of drunkenness. It was only as the result of a "hunch" on the part of Capt. Fiskett yesterday morning that the prisoner was discovered as the perpetrator of the many burglaries.

Jackson was endeavoring to gain his freedom yesterday morning, when Capt. Fiskett arrived on duty. The case was referred to the latter, in the absence of Chief Troyer, who has gone to Missouri for a prisoner, and the captain immediately demanded of Jackson his reason for prowling about an alley at 1:30 o'clock in the morning. Jackson's explanation was unsatisfactory and Capt. Fiskett decided to investigate further. He sent Detectives Terry and Bradley to Jackson's home, the prisoner accompanying them, and there they found the stolen articles. Jackson and his loot were brought back to headquarters and the prisoner locked up on the more serious charge.

The man under arrest this morning admitted that he worked alone in committing these burglaries. He has lived in Duluth since November, 1911, and until recently was employed as a teamster for the Duluth Oil & Grease company. He has been married five years and has two children.

The First Offense.

The first of the burglaries, to which Jackson this morning confessed, occurred on the night of Dec. 18, 1912, when Jackson broke into a rear window of the Gustav Hennecke art and picture store at 211 East Superior street and stole a large quantity of stationery. The stationery was found at Jackson's home yesterday morning and when asked where it came from, he later admitted having burglarized the Hennecke store.

The L. C. King store at 18 Second avenue east was the next store robbed. It was entered on the night of Jan. 13, 1913, and groceries and meats valued at $35 were stolen. On Jan. 31 the store was entered again and the second burglary netted Jackson twenty pounds of cheese, thirty dozen eggs and twenty-five pounds of butter. Just two days previous to the last burglary at the King store, Jackson broke into the W. R. Stone residence at 110 West Third street, where he obtained about $200 worth of silverware and table linen. Most of these articles were found at Jackson's home yesterday morning.

The Largest Haul.

The next and largest haul was made at the J. D. Zien residence, 131 East Second street, just a few days after the Stone robbery. It was entered again a week later and altogether about $800 worth of silverware, table linen and clothes were stolen. An unsuccessful attempt had been made to burglarize the house on Jan. 29, but the burglar failed to gain entrance. Jackson admitted this morning that he made the attempt and later succeeded in entering twice.

The George B. Clifford store had been entered three times in the last three months, but Jackson has confessed to but two of these buglaries. He admitted this morning that he entered the store on Jan. 20 last and again last Wednesday morning. He obtained about $75 in groceries. The third burglary was committed last December, but it is not laid to Jackson.

The other burglaries were also committed recently. The A. O. Geise hardware store at 103 West First street was entered on the night of March 10 and $25 in cash taken from the register, together with several watches, fountain pens and razors. The Oasis saloon and the John Peterson saloon were entered last Wednesday night and about $50 in money and liquor taken from the two places. Entrance in the three buildings were gained by breaking through a rear window in each instance.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—"Monte Cristo."

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Lou Anger and Hans Roberts Are Features of New Vaudeville Bill.

Probably Andrew Carnegie, multimillionaire and peace advocate, never heard of Lou Anger, German comedian, but Lou Anger, in his humble way, may be doing as much for peace as Andrew Carnegie.

Lou Anger reaches anywhere from 8,000 to 20,000 people a week with a fine little lecture on international peace. The lecture is sugar-coated with comedy to make it a monologue, and Lou is delivering it at the Orpheum this week. His jests on the futility of war might be stripped of their German setting and seriously delivered as arguments against war. The thousands of people whom Lou reaches are the people who would have to bear the burden of a war, and the effects of his little personally conducted campaign cannot be inconsiderable in the course of a year. Besides that, Lou is a very good comedian as well as a propagandist. So all in all he is far from being an unuseful citizen.

Miss Sophye Barnard, former comic opera prima donna, and in real life Mrs. Anger, has a singing turn of a high class. She opens with a medley of beautiful old Irish melodies, and later gives a travesty on grand opera selections. She has a big voice of great range and much natural beauty. She also makes a most attractive stage picture.

Hans Roberts of "Checkers" fame is headlining the bill this week.

Mr. Roberts has for his vehicle a sketch called "A Daddy by Express," in which he is assisted by a clever juvenile actress, Pauline Curley, and Miss Mabel Mortimer. The sketch is by Edgar Allen Woolf. It is full of improbabilities and the plot is weak in spots, but Mr. Roberts and his two capable assistants manage to get it over, and it seemed to please the Sunday night audience. It has some good comedy situations, with the contrast of an occasional touch of pathos.

The value of a little pantomime comedy is shown by a comparison between the act of the Reed Brothers, which closes the bill, and that of the Power Brothers, which opens it. The Powers work hard at some routine acrobatic tricks, and do them well without attracting particular attention. The taller of the Reed brothers is a good pantomime comedian, and his work makes their act stand out. He would do well, however, to confine himself to pantomime, as some of his side remarks are none too delicate, and when an audience does not laugh at a joke, it may sometimes be a sign of superior rather than inferior intelligence.

Etta Bryan, Roy Sumner and Louis Chevalier offer a comedy sketch called "A College Proposal," which contains some good comedy possibilities, and is fairly well presented.

Sam Weston and Sidney Clare offer a singing and dancing turn which proved popular last evening, and the interesting new motion pictures complete a good average bill.

AT THE LYCEUM.

"The Quaker Girl" and "Mutt and Jeff" Are Coming.

"The Quaker Girl" will be presented at the Lyceum theater Friday and Saturday, March 27-28, with the New York company, headed by Victor Morley. It was originally produced in London about four years ago at George Edwardes' Royal Adelphi theater and immediately scored a tremendous hit, remaining at that playhouse for two entire years.

Of course, when the news of this success reached New York, all the American managers who make a practice of bringing English successes to this county, sent their emissaries to see "The Quaker Girl" and report on its chances as an American show. One and all these dramatic scouts reported that the piece, while dainty and entertaining and exceedingly tuneful, was too quiet for American audiences.

So, in spite of the London success of this play, the American rights were not sought until the late Henry B. Harris, who had never produced a musical show, took a chance and bought the rights. The result was amazing.

The company which is coming to the Lyceum theater played one year in New York, ten weeks in Chicago, twelve in Boston and eight in Philadelphia, and is now packing theaters in the larger cities. The estimated profits from the American rights for this production are over $200,000.

The latest "Mutt and Jeff" series, entitled "Mutt and Jeff in Panama," will be the next attraction at the Lyceum Wednesday matinee and night. In the new piece the favorite newspaper cartoon orations of Bud Fisher appear under various captions and guises.

Manager Gus Hill has selected a large and competent cast of fifty people who help to provide the entertainment.

Three short acts are presented in seven scenes.

The story of the play is well known, but no amount of repetition causes the interest in the play to lag. The account of Edmund Dantes, the successful young sailor, who becomes the victim of a plot and is arrested on a false charge of conspiracy with Napoleon, on his wedding day; his incarceration in a dungeon by Villefort, the judge, who lets his ambition thwart justice; the misery and suffering of the prisoner in a dungeon for nineteen years; his association with an abbe, also imprisoned on false charges, and his mastering of languages and acquiring a profound education in the dungeon; his final escape in the dead abbe's winding sheet after being thrown over the cliff into the sea as a corpse; his finding of the vast riches of Monte Cristo, revealed to him by the abbe, and his return to the world as the Count of Monte Cristo, seeking revenge, are all dramatically told in the tabloid drama. It is a play full of action, startling in the unfolding of its plot, and picturesque and gripping in action, which characterizes every situation. All in all it is a rare old entertainer.

Chester Bishop in the title role, interpreted the varied role of the hero in a capable manner and he was surrounded by a good cast.

Those who were very favorably received were: John Higgins, as Caderousse, Miss Boulton as Mercedes, James Craig as Fernade, Joseph La Vallere as Danglers and Frank Brinkman as Villefort. George Witter was a good Morel and Lucilla La Villiere as Caderounte, wife of Caderousse, played well. "Monte Cristo" will be the attraction until Thursday, when vaudeville and feature films will again be presented.

At the Empress.

"The Count of Monte Cristo," the famous Dumas masterpiece, dramatized in tabloid form, was the offering at the Empress yesterday.

This great novel, which is a storehouse of dramatic situations and sustained by a gripping plot, has gained a stronghold on the theatrical public by its annual rounds and through the able presentation of James O'Neil and other noted actors. The play in tabloid form is something new and the comprehensiveness and force contained in the abbreviated play is remarkable.

DOCTOR GUILTLESS OF MALPRACTICE

Cloquet Physician Cleared of Charge By Jury.

Dr. Alexander Barkley of Cloquet was exonerated on the charge of malpractice by a jury which returned a verdict in district court Saturday in a damage suit brought against him by John Kindberg. Kindberg, a woodsman, fractured one of his legs Jan. 12, 1913, while engaged at unloading lumber at Poupore's Siding. He was taken to Cloquet and was attended by Dr. Barkley.

Kindberg claims that by reason of alleged unskillful methods employed by the surgeon, the bones of the broken leg did not form a proper union and as a result one leg is shorter than the other. Kindberg charged malpractice and sued for $5,000. The case was started a week ago and was concluded Friday evening. The jury brought in a verdict Saturday.

ANOTHER RAILROAD FOR GRAND FORKS

Midland Continental to Be Extended There If Terms Are Observed.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks will get a Southwestern railroad within the next two years if the proposition submitted to the Commercial club by the Midland Continental railroad is worked out. Grand Forks must provide right-of-way from Sharon, N. D., to Grand Forks, and already the Commercial club has an agent in the field engaged in an endeavor to comply with this proposition.

Is on Firm Basis.

The Midland Continental, the early activities of which were clouded with uncertainty, has come through the preliminary stages successfully, and is now on a firm basis. The road has been constructed from Edgeley, N. D., to Wimbledon, N. D., with Jamestown as the headquarters.

The Grand Forks extension of the line would cross Griggs, Steele and Grand Forks counties, touching Cooperstown, Sharon and Northwood. Sherbrook, the county seat of Steele county, is exceptionally anxious to get the road, the only difficulty in making that point being the grade, which is too great.

NURSERY STOCK BARRED BY MAILS

Canada Makes Objection; Greenhouse Products Are Admitted.

Nursery stock, including shrubs, trees and vines, is barred in Canadian mail, according to an order received here Saturday from Joseph Stewart, second assistant postmaster general. The Canadian authorities object to the sending of nursery stock and recently requested the United States postal authorities to issue an order to that effect. Greenhouse stock will be permitted in Canada, however, provided the sender states in detail on the outside of the package what he is sending.

"The postal administration of Canada has informed this department under date of March 13, 1914, as follows:

"Under a regulation of the department of agriculture, which took effect on the first day of March, 1914, the importation into Canada of nursery stock, including trees, shrubs, vines, grafts, scions, cuttings or buds, is prohibited through the mails, excepting greenhouse grown florists' stock, cut flowers, herbaceous perenials and budding plants, which will be admitted, provided that a detailed statement of the contents is attached to the parcels containing such matter. Postmasters and other postal officials will please take due notice of the foregoing.

DULUTH—SUPERIOR—VIRGINIA

ELEVATOR MEN FEAR TAXES

Have Quit Buying Grain for Their Superior Storehouses.

Action of Tax Commission May Give Duluth New Elevators.

As a result of an intimation by the Wisconsin state commission to the effect that all stores of grain in the elevators at Superior would be assessed up to full limit in this year's tax levy on May 1, dealers at the Head of the Lakes have been forced to discontinue buying grain in the country for storage in the houses over there.

It is explained by members of the Duluth board of trade with elevator connections on the Superior side of the bay, that they cannot afford to buy grain on a competitive basis and submit to a tax that will average about 1½ cents per bushel upon everything they may have in their houses on May 1. They point out that in past years it has been the custom of the Wisconsin state commission to levy upon about one-third of the value of the grain in store. That was considered fair as being practically on a parity with the personal tax assessment on other lines of business, which is based on the equity of the assessed party in the goods. It is contended that though the bulk of the grain is carried upon loans by the banks on warehouse receipts, it is now proposed to tax holders up to its full value without taking into account that situation.

May Not Build.

The falling off in the grain trade at the Duluth-Superior terminals since the first of the year is largely attributed to the action of the Wisconsin authorities. It has already led to the suspension of projected elevator improvements and extensions at Superior. The building by the Great Northern railroad of the proposed 6,000,000-bushel addition to its plant over there has been deferred and it is intimated that with the situation remaining as it is, will not be built.

On the other hand the Minnesota state assessment law, under which the tax levy is based upon the aggregate amount of grain passing through the Duluth elevators during the year prior to March 1, is considered fair. Under the circumstances it is now regarded as probable that considerable new capital will be invested in elevator extensions here in the near future. The first forward step in that direction was made by the Consolidated Elevator company in the building of a 900,000-bushel extension to its plant here, bringing it up to 10,000,000 bushels capacity.

It is contended that many interests are at present sustaining severe losses through the elimination of buying on the part of the Superior elevator operators. Grain growers throughout the Northwest are being deprived to a large extent of the benefits of their market at the Head of the Lakes. Inspection and elevator staffs at Superior have been cut down to a minimum, and the number of train crews employed in drawing grain this way materially reduced. Furthermore the volume of grain traffic to be credited to the Duluth-Superior harbor is being materially lessened.

Discussing the situation an elevator man on the Duluth Board of Trade, said this morning: "Though our house at Superior is only about half full, we are out of business now in so far as new buying is concerned. We cannot afford to take any chances as we do not know definitely what taxes we may have to pay over there."

It is to be noted that with a rated elevator capacity of 33,325,000 bushels at the Head of the Lakes, 15,525,000 bushels is to be credited to the Duluth and 17,800,000 bushels to the Superior houses. Present stocks in store, aggregating approximately 20,575,000 bushels, are divided about equally between the elevators on each side of the bay.

RECIPES OF OUR PIONEER MOTHERS

for the home treatment of disease were wonderfully dependable. True, they knew nothing of drugs, but owed their success to the roots, herbs and barks of the field. It is interesting to note that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most successful remedy for female ills we have, was originally prepared for home use from one of these recipes. Its fame has now spread from shore to shore, and thousands of American women now well and strong claim they owe their health and happiness to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

PREMIUMS ARE TOO HIGH

Insurance Commissioner to Appeal to Legislature for Fire Rate Relief.

Tables Show Immense Cost With Only Small Loss.

During 1913 Duluth paid out in fire insurance premiums $714,496.89 and her losses by fire during the same year amounted to only $240,478.87. From 1909 to 1913, inclusive, the total amount of fire insurance premiums paid by Duluth was $3,156,586.27 and during that period fire losses in Duluth amounted to $1,986,195.59.

During the same period last mentioned the entire state has paid out in fire insurance premiums $40,886,956.46, and the fire losses have amounted to $22,498,404.74. During the last twenty years premiums paid by Minnesota have amounted to $122,000,000 and losses have been $65,000,000.

The state insurance commissioner, J. A. Preus, believes that these figures prove that the rates paid to fire insurance companies are entirely too high and will ask the next legislature for relief. He wants fire prevention made a part of the statutes.

Showing the increase in the premiums paid in Minnesota, the fire loss, and the great difference in favor of fire insurance companies operating in the state, the insurance commissioner has prepared a table covering fire insurance business in Minnesota for the past five years, and it follows:

FARM HANDS' WAGES GROWING FASTEST

Have Increased 36 Per Cent Since 1902, Say Reports.

Washington, March 23.—Wages of farm laborers have increased more rapidly than those of the city workman during the last twenty years, department of agriculture investigation has revealed. During the last year the pay of the farm hand increased 2½ per cent. The increase has been 11 per cent in the last four years, and 36 per cent since 1902.

SAYS HUSBAND WAS CRUEL AND ABUSIVE.

On the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, Lillian Sandin, 19, has started suit for divorce in district court against her husband, Erick Sandin, 26, to whom she was married in this city on Dec. 19, 1911. On various occasions, Mrs. Sandin alleges, he has struck her with his fists, pulled her hair, pinched her arms and otherwise maltreated her. She also complains that as a result of a tongue-lashing received from him on one occasion, she fainted. She left him, she says, on Dec. 12, 1913, after he had abused her. She asks the court for a decree of divorce, alimony and the right to resume her maiden name, that of Lillian Washlund.

Collector Nominated.

Washington, March 23.—The long controversy over the appointment of a collector of internal revenue for the district of Delaware and Maryland ended today when President Wilson nominated Joshua W. Miles of Princess Anne, Md. The appointment was hailed in some quarters as victory for the anti-organization forces in Maryland.

IN DULUTH PULPITS

NEED VIRTUE COMMISSION

Would Offset Effects of Vice Commissions, Says Pastor.

"Whatsoever Things Are True, Honest, Just Pure, Lovely."—

That a virtue commission is needed to offset the work of the vice commission was the claim made by Rev. George R. Gebauer in his sermon at the First Unitarian church yesterday morning.

Mr. Gebauer, while he did not quote The Herald in his sermon, supported the stand taken by The Herald in a recent editorial on "The Repeal of Reticense," and emphasized the fact that too much prominence is given the discussion of vice in the theaters, books, magazines, newspapers and in many other ways.

"The things we hear about, read about, think about, our mental furniture, determine the state of our mind, our soul," he said. "There is so much apprehension of evil in the world largely because it is put so much in the foreground of public interest. There always have been untoward social conditions, vice and misery, but it has not so dominated social thought as now. If a man were dependent for his knowledge of human nature upon our daily papers, our theatrical plays, the reports of our vice commissions, etc., he might believe that he is about the only decent fellow living. There is doubtless much truth in what we read in the papers, but it is not the whole truth, nor the best, the life-giving truth. It is the truth which kills joy in life and faith in God, and leaves us weak.

"But there is another side. If there are bad people, there are so many more who are good; and if so many are fallen, there are so many more who walk uprightly. And on the positive side of life, on the light side, we must live if we would be happy and do our best for those who are on the dark side.

"Realize ever that there are vice commissions not merely because there is so much vice, but because there is so much virtue which is disgusted with vice. If you read about brutes in society, keep in mind that we should not talk about beastliness if there were not much more true manliness. If you hear about the many criminals, bear in mind that a former criminal is striving for the highest honor the state of Oklahoma may give. If you hear stories about the underworld, realize that in that world is still some light, and that men of hard lives have proved themselves heroes when the occasion called for. If you are becoming distrustful of men, recall the many trusty, noble men you have met on your path of life. At any rate, if you want to live the life, remove from the walls of your soul the pictures of hell and put in their place the paintings of your household saints. Avoid literature which will simply give you the deathly truth of evil. Do not go to see plays which appeal to your lower self and disgust your soul with humanity, and destroy your faith in morality itself. We may need the knowledge of evil, but the thought of evil must at no time overshadow the truth of good, of life.

"Indeed, only by bringing the positive good in the foreground of life can the world be truly helped to better and higher things. After the vice commission has done its negative work, the virtue commission ought to do its much more needed work. Indeed, just because virtue was not sufficiently exalted, vice has had its day. That raving against evil, as if it were the only real fact in society, has done but little good in our day and much harm, I fear.

"See how the crusade against the social evil has called up a putrid literature which pretends to preach reform, but makes evil sensational and mysteriously attractive to morbid minds. Yes, to become the victim of sensuality is today about the quickest way to achieve sensational notoriety and public sympathy. Notice how our theaters have commercialized this mania of quick reform. I doubt if at any time in the memory of men have been presented plays so utterly harmful as now, when the theater is going into the anti-vice business. And if these plays are not inciting the young minds to evil, they are at least most apt to make them callous, and are destroying that purity of soul, that sacred regard for chastity, which is the most natural safeguard against yielding to temptation. Never can mere signs 'Beware,' never can any prudential teachings, take the place of a high ideal of morality. If in this matter we are today falling behind the status of our fathers, it may not be so much because children are left to grow up in ignorance, which has been the unfortunate habit of all ages, but because our social atmosphere is surcharged with ideas about immorality and is obsessed by them. At any rate, showing up the evil will not by itself bring about the good. To make the world better, we must exalt the good, the pure, the noble. Instead of talking about the curse of vice, we must speak about the blessings of virtue. Instead of prating about the failure in marriage, we must speak of the great successes of marital life. After we get through with raking muck, we must turn about and say with Paul, 'Finally brethren, whatsoever things are true, honest, just, pure, lovely, of good report, if there be any virtue, anything to praise, let us think on these things.' By doing so we establish the proper mental and moral balance again; we let in the light of the kingdom of heaven. And in that light there is not only joy for us, but strength to do. Yes, filled with the thought of good, we become a power for good. We turn away from all moral quackery that would heal the old disease of humanity on short notice by the laying on of hands, and we demand that the evil about us must be met by the display of greater good, by education of soul and mind in the things which are beautiful, true and good."

Sewers for Park River.

Park River, N. D., March 23.—Park River is to have a sewer system. Plans have been placed on file providing for a system the estimated cost of which will be $20,000. The town officials will dispose of the matter at the next regular meeting. The improvement has been urged for several years but the opposition on account of the expense has prevented favorable consideration until the present time.

"NECESSITY" IS NO EXCUSE

Dr. Hovis Condemns Philosophy of Plays on "The Traffic."

Says Education in Home and School Is Only Remedy.

The modern plays and films that ruthlessly expose vice conditions and thus arouse public sentiment against that form of wickedness are commendable from this point of view, but absolutely malicious and wrong in their philosophy, which holds out the idea that poverty makes vice a necessity.

Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, so described yesterday morning the plays on the white slave traffic now going the rounds both on the legitimate stage and the picture screens. He said he had gone to see some of the plays dealing with that subject for the purpose of studying them and had come to the conclusion that the plays were teaching the wrong principle.

"What we want," said Dr. Hovis, "is not a play where a girl is driven to a fallen life by necessity, but rather a play in which a girl is willing to give up her life and see all her family perish rather than to sell her soul and body for a price."

The speaker discussed "The Traffic" at length, describing how Agnes Burton, the heroine, struggled for an existence, how her sister was a victim of the terrible white plague, and, finally, how Agnes, for her sister's sake, sold her virtue for a price to save her from the ravages of disease.

No Excuse for Vice.

"This play, as the others dealing with vice, have done a great deal to expose the evil conditions of society, the poverty of the working girl, the awful conditions of the sweat shop, the avarice and low principles of many employers and the evil effects of low wages; they expose the truth more or less—and the truth shall make you free—but there is no condition of adversity or misfortune that should be given as an excuse for vice or the selling out of virtue," said Dr. Hovis.

The speaker then spoke of Victor Hugo's great masterpiece, "Les Miserables," and the story of Jean Valjean, how the miserable ones were the victims of circumstances, falling by necessity and then rising by force of will. Summing up Hugo, he said:

"The Bible, Shakespeare and Hugo in my mind are the three most important parts of all literature and I would rather read them than all the other literature in the world if I were to be forced to make a choice, but Victor Hugo based his great story upon the wrong principle—that of necessity. This was given as an excuse for crime.

In summing up the whole situation, Dr. Hovis said that despite low wages and all other conditions that tend to cause women and girls to fall, the victims were the sub-normal—those below par in mental and moral stamina—and that education in the home and in the schools was the only cure for vice. He did not, however, condone conditions or offer any excuses for low wages or those who tempt the unfortunate, but urged that the sub-normal be raised to the normal standard and that girls be taught that it were better to die in the fight for integrity and virtue rather than sell out to save themselves and their relatives from death of the body, which was far better than the death of virtue.

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

Washington, March 23.—A gradual return to normal spring temperature with generally fair skies during the coming week, predicted by the weather bureau for all sections of the country east of the Rocky Mountains.

"There will be frosts the first part of the week," however, said the bulletin, "in the east Gulf and South Atlantic states, except Southern Florida. West of the Rocky Mountains, fair weather and normal temperatures are probable during the week.

"There is nothing to indicate marked storm activity over the country during the week. A disturbance of moderate intensity will appear in the northwest Wednesday or Thursday, crossing the Middle West about Friday and the Eastern states near the end of the week; this disturbances will be attended by local areas of precipitation and be followed by a change to clear weather in the Northern states east of the Rocky Mountains."

GOVERNOR WILL ANNOUNCE PLANS

Reiterates That Conference Violated Primary Law—Visit Non-Political.

Governor Eberhart, who was in the city for a few hours on Saturday night, a guest of the Duluth temple of Camels, did not talk politics much, except to reiterate that he has yet no announcement to make. He declared, however, that the action of the anti-machine conference of March 19, concentrating on William E. Lee of Long Prairie to lead the opposition forces for the governorship nomination, is a direct violation of the primary law.

The governor has been saying that ever since the conference was proposed and the machine press has been answering the statement with echoes of the same. He intimated that this week some time he would make an announcement of interest. This, it is taken for granted, will be an announcement of his candidacy and the platform on which he will stand—or fall.

The governor came in with the Minneapolis Camels at 7:20 Saturday evening and left on the late Northern Pacific train which was held for him until 12:30.

NEW HAVEN'S PLANS READY

Anti-Trust Suit Is Averted By Agreement With Government.

Elliott Gains Concessions in the Final Negotiations.

Washington, March 23.—With the danger of an anti-trust suit out of the way, the next step in the untangling of the New Haven railway system, must be taken by the road's directors, by its thousands of stockholders and by the Massachusetts legislature. Chairman Elliott and counsel for the road, who have spent much of the last three months in Washington, left yesterday for New York and Boston, and they are not expected to appear at the department of justice for several weeks.

The New Haven road officials are expected to meet in New York on Thursday, and then the agreement between the road and government officials will be considered.

Chairman Elliott has been confident that his directors will approve the action taken here by himself and counsel, and with their approval, he believed the agreement could be submitted to the stockholders and ratified within a month.

Elliott Gains Concessions.

Chairman Elliott gained important concessions for the road in the final stages of the negotiations. The most important was that the court may extend the time for the sale of the Boston & Maine road beyond the two years and ten months set for this transfer in the agreement. In addition the court may extend the time set for the sale of all other properties from which New Haven must be separated.

Another concession gained by Mr. Elliott was the extension of the agreed time for the sale of the Boston & Maine from two years and a half to two years and ten months.

Chairman Elliott issued a statement expressing the belief that the agreement would have a very wholesome effect on the industrial situation in New York.

One Phase Still Obscure.

All phases of the announcement are explicit except that with regard to the disposal of the so-called Sound steamship lines.

It is merely announced with regard to the Sound lines that the question of their retention by the road has been referred to the interstate commerce commission.

Under the agreement the legislature of Massachusetts will be asked to remove the prohibition against the Boston Holding company's disposal of the stock of the Boston & Maine. This will be turned over to five trustees and sold prior to Jan. 1, 1917.

The agreement further stipulates that the stocks under control of the companies in charge of the Connecticut and Rhode Island trolley properties shall be turned over to trustees—five for each state—to be sold within five years from July 1.

To Dispose of Holdings.

The other holdings of the New Haven will be disuosed of as follows:

Majority stock of the Merchants & Miners Transportation company turned into hands of three trustees, to be sold within three years from July 1; the minority stock of the Eastern Steamship corporation to be sold in three years from July 1, and in the meantime be deprived of its voting power; the Birkshire trolleys to be sold within five years.

The ratification by the Massachusetts legislature of the Boston Holdings company proposal is assured from agreements of the leaders of that body.

ARGUMENTS ON CODE ELECTION

Attorneys Debate Legality of the Hicken Saloon Ordinance.

Final arguments on the Hicken liquor ordinance referendum election contest were started in district court before Judge Dancer Saturday, Hugh J. McClearn appearing as attorney for W. W. Clayton, contestant, and Harvey Clapp, city attorney, appearing for the respondent, city of Duluth.

At the hour of adjournment Saturday, the arguments had not been concluded and the hearing was continued. It will be taken up this week.

Attorney McClearn argued that there was a sufficient number of illegal votes cast at the referendum election last September to affect the result, and for this reason the adoption of the so-called Hicken liquor ordinance should be declared invalid.

Attorney McClearn also argued that testimony which had been taken showed that a great many of those who had voted were not registered voters and were not administered the oaths by the election judges as required by law.

The court will pass upon these questions and will consider whether or not the grounds are sufficient to declare the election null and void. The contention of the city is that if there was a violation of the law it was purely technical and should not affect the voter's right to exercise his franchise.

UREAMIC COMA BRIGHTS DISEASE

A young man called and asked if we knew him. He looked to weigh 200 pounds and was the picture of health. He proved to be George W. Newton, with the S. P. R. R. company, Sacramento, Cal.

His previous visit was nearly 10 years ago. He came with his father. He was drowsy with ureamic poisoning due to Bright's disease and was in the edge of coma. His physician had told his father he could live but a short time.

Fulton's Renal Compound was administered with eliminatives to help restrain the pending crisis. In three months he was able to go home. The above is the sequel.

The ability of Fulton's Renal Compound to oppose Renal degeneration and reduce albumen in many cases of Bright's disease is not a matter of opinion but a FACT IN PHYSICS. We will mail formula for albumen test that will show the percentage from week to week. As the albumen declines improvement commonly follows, recoveries having been reported in thousands of cases. Formula and literature mailed on request. John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco. For sale at druggists.

WANTS RABBIS TO PREACH IN ENGLISH.

New York, March 23.—"The sermon in the synagogue must be in English if traditional Judaism is to become intelligible to the younger generations of Jews in this country," said Dr. Samuel Schlechter, president of the United Synagogue of America, in an address before the second annual convention of that organization. Large numbers of young American Jews, he said, were not familiar with Yiddish and were "altogether out of sympathy with the methods and arguments and the peculiar diction of the old ritual.

Dr. Schechter insisted, however, on the maintenance of the traditional character of the liturgy and the Hebrew language for prayer.

Though an effort was made to procure again the services of Dr. Schechter as president of the organization, his plea that, owing to his advanced years, the office be transferred to another prevailed. A new office, that of honorary president, was created for him. Dr. Cyrus Alder of Philadelphia was elected president.

Discuss Dairy Topics.

Prof. R. M. Washburn, assistant to Prof. T. L. Hecker of the dairy department of the university, will be present and take part in the program on Wednesday, April 15. In view of the fact that they are organizing a co-operative creamery at Meadowlands, Prof. Washburn's topic of "Successful Co-operative Creamery Management," will be a timely one.

Prof. A. C. Arney of the Minnesota agricultural school, agronomy department, will be present on the last day of the course and will talk on seed education and the making of alfalfa hay.

KANSAS WHEAT IN FINE SHAPE

Claim Made That Conditions for Big Yield Are Perfect.

Now begins the open season for winter wheat crop scares and boosts, and it will continue from now on until the crop is in. Several bad reports already received, have thrown the market into fits and again the usual denials would come. However, dispatches being received from Kansas points are to the effect that the wheat crop in Kansas can lose 20 per cent from its present stage and still run more than 100,000,000 bushels. The western counties of the state, so dispatches say, have suffered some slight drouth and they are the only ones that have suffered in this way this year. Most of the wheat area, observers say, is provided with enough moisture to carry it with little damage through a long spell of dry weather.

Faced with the prospects of such an enormous yield, grain men, farmers, the railroads and the state employment bureau already are making preparatons to handle it. Railroad men say that with such an unusual yield in Kansas, with a corresponding large crop in Oklahoma and Nebraska, a car shortage is inevitable.

Because of the previous crop failures in Western Kansas and the killing of the corn crop last summer, farmers in Western Kansas will rush their wheat to market as soon as it is harvested in order to get money to put in the next crop and to pay off their obligations. Anywhere from 30,000 to 40,000 men will be needed in the harvest fields.

In preparation for the new crop grain men say they must clear out their elevators of all the old wheat and they probably will have to build storage sheds for millions of bushels of it.

DUELLIST IN PRISON; OUSTED FROM ARMY.

Metz, Germany, March 23.—Lieut. von La Valette Saint George of the Ninety-eighth German infantry regiment, was sentenced to thirty months imprisonment in a fortres for killing Lieut. Haage in a duel on Feb. 26. He was also dismissed from the army. The court found that the prisoner, by his conduct, had provoked the duel and had gravely wronged the honor of Lieut. Haage.

AGED COUPLE DIE WITH HANDS CLASPED.

New York, March 23.—Gas poisoning caused the death yesterday of Hiram J. Collins, 82 years old, and his wife, Anna W., aged 81, in a furnished rooming house in Brooklyn. They were found with hands clasped.

In his youth Mr. Collins had been a friend of President Hayes and an associate of Samuel J. Tilden, governor of New York. For a time he engaged successfully in the oil business, but later succumbed to competition.

The couple had been in straitened circumstances for some time. A small grip found in the room contained all they owned.

Eat Six Teachers.

Sydney, N. S. W., March 23.—Natives in the north of Malekula island of the New Hebrides group have murdered and eaten six native teachers from the Walla island mission station.

STATE DEMOCRACY HAS GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

Republican Mix-Up Gives the Party Which Furnished John. A. Johnson an Opening to Give the State Such Another Leader and Bring It Out of Political Chaos—Republican Snarl Not Untangled Yet—May Be Eruption in Anti-Machine Ranks Over "Jobbing" of Iverson, Peterson and Elwell.

Now that the long-looked-for anti-machine conference has passed into history, already dissatisfaction is rearing its ugly head and there are those who predict that long before the primaries of June 16 there will be war within the ranks of the anti-machine men and that there will be the very dickens to pay.

At any rate it is conceded by a large percentage of the state press that never since the days of John A. Johnson has the Democracy of Minnesota had so golden an opportunity to dominate the situation and place one of its own men at the head of the state. The citizens of the state as a whole seem to be very much disgusted with the condition within the Republican party, and no wonder. For months the Republicans have been squabbling in a general grab for office and the sudden attack of unselfishness which each apparently acquired just before the conference of last Thursday met, did not quite seem so genuine as party well-wishers could have hoped for. Each was ready and waiting for a bolt until it was seen that the delegates were really representive; and it is still believed that the friends of some of them will secretly knife the nominee.

The story is going about that W. E. Lee, the successful candidate before the conference, had quietly been laying his wires for months in all parts of the state, and that he stole a march on the others. It certainly seems peculiar that at the very first crack out of the box he had such a tremendous majority over the other candidates, getting 563 votes while all other candidates combined received only 395 votes, thus giving Lee a clear majority of 168 votes over the rest of the field. Of course the Minneapolis Journal denies the story of a frame-up but a good many are looking askance on the result, and it would not be a bit surprising were a row to start if, on investigation, it is found that there was a frameup.

Jim Peterson of Minneapolis, a first-class two-fisted trouble maker, is lil.ely to start something. He is just the sort of man who will not cast aside his ambition to be governor without trying to find out if he has been "bunked" or not. And if he does find this out it will be pretty nearly a certainty that there is rough riding ahead for Mr. Lee, for James will talk right out in meeting and won't mince his language either.

* * *

As to the opportunity of the Democrats there are several reasons why that party has the chance of an age. One is the dissension in the ranks of the Republicans; another is that no matter which faction of the Republican party wins the other side is going to knife it; but the best reason of all is that the Republicans themselves admit that there is rottenness within the party.

"It's a dirty bird that fouls its own nest," is an old saying and that is just what the Republicans are doing. This is well expressed in the following editorial from the St. Cloud Times:

State Auditor Iverson in defining his position as a candidate, referring to the power behind the Eberhart throne said there had been raised up and enthroned "a keen and resourceful dictator with unlimited power, who insolently resists every law for the control and regulation of his clients' business. This dictator is both a system and a personality; and the enemy of every ennobling uplift movement."

The "dictator" referred to is the renowned Ed Smith, and the gentleman who thus arraigns Governor Eberhart's administration is a distinguished Republican state officer.

Why, when condemned out of the mouths of its own members, retain the Republican party in power in the state?

"Turn the rascals out!"

The Democratic conference which is to be held a week from Tuesday in St. Paul, and for which county conferences will be held tomorrow evening, may settle the situation in the governorship fight. At that conference there will gather the representative Democrats of the state and an attempt will be made to settle on a candidate for governor. Of course Daniel W. Lawler has already filed for the nomination but it is pretty nearly a cinch that he will not be the choice of the conference. The delegates will hardly in the face of the opportunity that exists for a big and creditable candidate, allow themselves to be swept off their feet for some candidate because of some personal feeling for him.

Judge Charles W. Stanton of Bemidji was a good suggestion—made by Frank A. Day of the Fairmont Sentinel, and generally taken up by the state press—but the judge does not take so kindly to it as others do.

Senator Ole Sageng of Ottertail county has been suggested, and the suggestion has met with great favor. The recent editorial of The Herald in support of Senator Sageng has swept the state and is being generally reproduced with very favorable comment.

That the state could do far worse than choose him there is no question. His record is remarkable, both for its cleanliness and for the ability he has shown; and were he governor there would be mighty few things of the woodchuck variety get by him; and there would—at last—be efficiency in the executive department.

Congressman Hammond is still talked of as a very strong candidate if he can be won over but nothing definite has been announced in this connection.

* * *

The St. Louis county conference is called to meet at the city hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, at which time fifty-two delegates to the state conference will be named. It is urged that there be a good turnout tomorrow night in order that the conference be representative.

* * *

There is much speculation about what State Auditor Iverson will do now that he has been eliminated from the governorship race. Some believe that he will file for his old office again; in which case there will be a mess of things in general. However, he may decide that one trimming in a year is about all he cares for.

* * *

It is said that I. A. Caswell, clerk of the supreme court, is going to have opposition in the primaries, the man now talked of as his opponent is G. D. McCubrey of Moorhead, clerk of courts for Clay county. However, anybody that beats Caswell will have to rise early and retire late. He has the solid support of the supreme court justices and a host of friends in all parts of the state.

* * *

For the information of prospective candidates the following pointers as to requirements of them are given:

May 7 will be the last day on which candidates for congress, the legislature, supreme and district court judgeships and state offices can file under the 1913 primary law.

Candidates for county offices can file at any time up to May 27.

Tuesday, June 16 is the primary date, and Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith has ruled that June 2 and 9 will be the registration days for the state primary.

Election judges must be chosen at least twenty-five days before the primary.

Filings in St. Louis county up to the close of business at the auditor's office on Saturday were as follows:

For state senatorships—Senator Thomas M. Pugh in the Fifty-eighth; George M. Peterson in the Fifty-ninth; and Representative John A. Healy of Hibbing in the Sixtieth.

For representatives—J. H. Gill of Virginia and Solmon Sax of Eveleth, in the Sixty-first; Charles R. Woods of Chisholm and Fred Bessette of Gheen in the Sixtieth.

For sheriff—Sheriff John R. Meining of Duluth.

For county commissioner—John Tischer, Gustav Collatz, A. C. Osman and Thomas Holden in the Second district; Martin Nelson of Virginia, Andrew Hawkinson of Virginia, John Glode of Eveleth, P. R. Cosgrove of Gilbert and Charles Penttila of Eveleth in the Sixth; U. S. Grant McMahon of Ely in the Fourth.

There are lots of other candidates announced who have not yet filed. Alex McKnight will be a candidate for the senatorship in the Fifty-seventh; Richard Jones will be a candidate for the senate from the Fifty-eighth; Frank Magie and Charles W. Miller will be candidates for sheriff; and many others are talked of.

* * *

So far there are only filings for representative from the Sixty-first district. J. H. Gill of Virginia and Solomon Sax of Eveleth. Regarding the latter, the Eveleth News expresses the hope that nobody else will file, for the News wants to see Mr. Sax in the state house of representatives. Mr. Sax is a pioneer merchant of the range.

GUNMEN APPEAL FOR PUBLIC SYMPATHY.

New York, March 23.—Convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal and sentenced to die in the electric chair in the week beginning April 13, the four gunmen in the Sing Sing death house have issued a statement "to the public."

Alleging that they are left to die unjustly, while Former Lieut. Charles Becker obtained a new trial, they had their counsel, Charles G. F. Wahle, give out their appeal for "justice" and "fair play" which they had already prepared when he visited them yesterday. They reiterate their innocence and charge Harry Vallon and "Bridgie" Webber with the Rosenthal murder.

HOW FRENCH PEOPLE CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

A household remedy of the French peasantry, consisting of pure vegetable oil, and said to possess wonderful merit in the treatment of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles, has been introduced in this country by George H. Mayr, who for twenty years has been one of the leading downtown druggists of Chicago and who himself was cured by its use. So quick and effective is its action that a single dose is usually enough to bring pronounced relief in the most stubborn cases, and many people who have tried it declare they never heard of anything to produce such remarkable results in so short a time. It is known as Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and can now be had at almost any drug store. It is now sold here by Wirth's drug store.

TELEPHONE ACHIEVEMENTS

TELEPHONE SERVICE OF TODAY THE CREATION OF THE BELL CO.

In no line of human endeavor has the inventive brain of the scientist contributed more to the world's progress than by the creation of the art of telephony, of which the Bell system is the embodiment.

When the telephone was born, nothing analogous to telephone service as we now know it existed. There was no tradition to guide, no experience to follow.

The system, the apparatus, the methods—an entire new art had to be created. The art of electrical engineering did not exist. The Bell pioneers, recognizing that success depended upon the highest engineering and technical skill at once organized an experimental and research department which is now directed by a staff of over 550 engineers and scientists, including former professors, post-graduate students, scientific investigators—the graduates of over 70 universities.

From its foundation the company has continuously developed the art. New improvements in telephones, switchboards, lines, cables, have followed one another with remarkable rapidity.

While each successive type of apparatus to the superficial observer suggested similarity, each step in the evolution marked a decided improvement. These changes, this evolution, has not only been continuous, but is continuing. Substantially all of the plant now in use, including telephones, switchboards, cables and wires, has been constructed, renewed or reconstructed in the past ten years.

Particularly in switchboards have the changes been so radical that installations costing in the aggregate millions have frequently been discarded after only a few years of use.

Since 1877 there have been introduced 53 types and styles of receivers and 73 types and styles of transmitters. Of the 12,000,000 telephone receivers and transmitters owned by the Bell Company January 1, 1914, none were in use prior to 1902, while the average is less than five years.

Within 10 years we have expended for constructions and reconstruction an amount more than equal to the present book value of our entire plant.

Long-distance and underground transmission was the most formidable scientific problem confronting the telephone experts.

The retarding effect of the earth on the telephone current often impaired conversation through one mile underground as much as through 100 miles overhead. Overhead conversation had its distinct limitation.

No possible improvement in the telephone transmitter could of itself solve these difficulties.

The solution was only found in the cumulative effect of improvements, great and small, in telephone, transmitter, line, cable, switchboard, and every other piece of apparatus or plant required in the transmission of speech.

While the limit of commercial overhead talking had increased from strictly local to over 1,000 miles as early as 1893, it was not until 1905 that conversation could be had over long-distance circuits of which as much as 20 miles was in underground cables. By 1906 underground talking distance had increased to 90 miles. By 1912 it was possible to talk underground from New York to Washington.

It was then that the construction of underground conduits from Boston to Washington was determined upon,—not that it was expected to get a through underground talk between those places, but in case of storm or blizzard, to utilize intermediate sections in connection with the overhead.

Our persistent study and incessant experimentation have produced results more remarkable still.

We have perfected cables, apparatus and methods that have overcome obstacles heretofore regarded as insuperable both to long-distance overhead and underground conversation.

Underground conversation is now possible between Boston and Washington, four times the length of the longest European underground line. This enables the Bell System in the recent great storm, so destructive on land and sea, to maintain communication for the public between all the principal points on the Atlantic seaboard.

Telephone communication is established between New York and Denver, is potentially possible between all points in the United States, and by 1915 will be an accomplished fact between New York and San Francisco.

In our use of methods or apparatus, we are committed to no one system. We own, control or have the right to use inventions necessary to operate any system recognized or accepted as the most efficient. The Bell System must always recognize, and in its selection must always be governed by the necessities of a national service, with its complex requirements, which is infinitely more exacting than local or limited service.

These achievements represent vast expenditures of money and immense concentration of effort which have been justified by results of immeasurable benefit to the public. No local company unaided could bear the financial or scientific burden of this work. Such results are possible only through a centralized general staff, avoiding wasteful duplication of effort, working out problems common to all, for the benefit of all.

The pioneers of the Bell System recognized that telephone service as they saw it, was in the broadest sense a public utility; that upon them rested a public obligation to give the best possible service at the most reasonable rates consistent with risk, investment and the continued improvement and maintenance of its property.

Without this expenditure of millions and concentration of effort, the telephone art as it exists could not have been developed.

What we have done in working out these great problems in the past should be accepted as a guarantee of what we will do in the future.

THEO. N. VAIL, President.

FOURTH ATTEMPT TO WRECK FAST TRAIN.

Chicago, March 23.—An attempt Saturday night to wreck the Olympian special, one of the trains de luxe of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, was the fourth to be made within a few weeks, railroad officials admit. The wreckers are believed, from their familiarity with railroad construction, to be four former section hands, all foreigners. Their motive is revenge for the accidental death of a comrade, railroad detectives assert. Previous attempts to wreck this train were made at Mayfair, Pacific Junction and at one other point, according to P. L. Rupp, superintendent of the terminals. About fifty detectives have been patrolling the right-of-way from the Union station to the city limits for many days.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets. These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet company, Columbus, O. All druggists.

SCIENCE BIG LOSER IN WELLESLEY FIRE

Work of Years Has Been Lost, Say College Officials.

Wellesley, Mass., March 23.—Some tragic features of the fire that consumed college hall Tuesday became known only when it was announced that the fruits of years of special research work for the advancement of science, which had attracted international attention, had been utterly destroyed. All notes, specimens and apparatus used in original investigations in the fields of eugenics, zoology, histology and embryology were lost and college officials say it is probable that some of the experiments can never be repeated.

For six years Prof. Marion E. Hubbard had devoted her energies to research in variation and heredity in beetles. The work meant the building up of a new strain of a certain species of beetle, by breeding through a long series of generations. In view of the increasing interest in eugenics, scientists awaited the results with keen anticipation.

The fruits of three years' experiments with the brains of ants by Prof. Carolyne B. Thompson of the zoology department and 4,000 slides in use in her course in histology and embryology, which she had been eight years collecting, were lost, together with a mass of notes soon to have been published in connection with her work with certain deep-sea forms dredged by the bureau of fisheries and the University of California.

Young Aviator Killed.

Basel, Switzerland, March 23.—A 19-year-old aviator named Borrer was killed Sunday during a flight at an aviation meeting. Borrer's machine had reached a great height when it plunged straight downward and was dashed to pieces against the earth.

Johnston's Grandson Is Killed.

Colorado Springs, Colo., March 23.—While repairing a revolver Sunday, F. S. MacJohnston, 56 years old, a cabinet maker, grandson of the famous Confederate general, Albert Sidney Johnston, accidentally shot himself in the breast. He died twenty minutes later.

NEGRO LYNCHED IN MISSISSIPPI.

Inverness, Miss., March 23.—A mob broke down the doors of the county jail here Saturday night, removed an unidentified negro accused of killing a white man, and hanged him from a railroad trestle. The negro was charged with slaying Samuel Lusco, who was in charge of a car of fruit en route from New Orleans to Memphis.

Killed by 22,000 Volts.

Coffeyville, Kan., March 23.—M. A. E. Patten, president of the Coffeyville Gas & Fuel company, was killed by 22,000 volts of electricity when he accidentally came in contact with a high-tension wire.

Lincoln, Neb., March 23.—A uniform system of simplified spelling is to be used in all university publications at the University of Nebraska. This was the decision of the university senate.

Woman's Realm

A meeting of the board of advisors and the medical staff of the Children's Home was called Saturday to consider the improvements needed at the home, the best ways to avoid waste and duplication of efforts, and to attain co-operation

Mrs. G. Herbert Jones outlined the purpose of meeting by saying:

"Not only the directors of the Children's Home, but also the women of this city who for twenty-six years have maintained this home, unite with me in most earnest thanks for your generous response to this call for a suggestive advisory meeting.

"In response to my own letter of inquiry on ways and means of maintaining homes for children, Julia C. Lathrop, chief of the children's bureau at Washington, D. C., has written 'It might be well to stimulate a public sentiment which would see that there should be no rivalry, but only co-operation in the case of children. It is impossible that there should be too much time, thought, effort or money expended at this time on the welfare of children, but unless it is done with co-operation and understanding, there will certainly be a great waste.'

"To demonstrate the need to the city and county for this home, you have been asked here to inspect the home, and to see its present family of eighty-eight babies, for they are all tiny tads under 12 years of age. Don't be startled if they call you papa or mama in your visit, for so they seem to regard us. The small ones will tell you they are 'Miss Geggor's children,' for their love for her is the merited tribute of her careful work as our matron.

"In nearly every case, a father, mother or volunteer guardian is struggling to pay half the cost of maintaining his or her child until he or she can provide a home.

"Some will return home tomorrow, some will stay until they are 12 years old, when they will have obtained some schooling and can be of real help to an unfortunate father or mother. New cases will enter tomorrow.

"Death, illness, insanity, fire, temporary loss of work and work to be obtained only where children are not allowed, constitute some of the reasons that make these children temporarily homeless. Last year forty-one mothers and thirty-nine fathers re-established their own homes. If it had not been for the timely help of this home, even though persons wished to retain their babes and fondly clung to them, they would have had to become waifs, forced to be wards of the state and given away in adoption, in any possible case of disposition a big added charge to the county and city. We have saved the city and county this class of care for twenty-six years.

The Home's Funds.

"Last year we received from these parents, $5,073.94 and from charitable donations, and our charity entertainments $8,182.05, together with added volunteer gifts of clothing and supplies. More of these gifts are always most acceptable.

"The city allowed us $400 as a donation and we paid back to the city for water and gas $329 and a street paving assessment of $431.08. In 1910 we were better treated though we had an average of eighty children a month over an average of sixty-nine children a month last year. In 1910 we received $500 and our water and gas bills amounted to $170.64.

"We have been notified our regular donation from the city of $400 a year will cease March 31, but we have the promise from Mayor Prince that further assistance by an ordinance is now being considered on the petition we presented Feb. 1 asking for other and further financial aid on and after March 31, for this non-sectarian home for needy children.

"We need this aid and trust you will agree that the home merits it. We are eager to meet the demands made upon us by increasing our capacity and capability.

"We need more detention room for the illnesses of children and for the isolation of the little new guests until safely assured of no contagious developments.

"Detention room is especially desired, as we have the assurance given at the county commissioners' meeting Feb. 5, that on or before July 1 the county children will be sent here on the same terms of contract as given Mrs. Finkle for the past year—that is $100 a month for care of up to the eighth child, and $15 a month for each child above the eighth.

"The record of county children last year at Mrs. Finkle's was 108—in January, 4 children; Febuary, 6; March, 6; April, 14; May, 14; June, 8; July, 8; August, 8; September, 5; October, 10; November, 15; December, 10.

"At the county commissioners' meeting Feb. 5, they said if they agreed to discontinue the Finkle home as the county home, we must agree—

"First, to shelter all their children, whether they had been exposed to disease or not, and slightly ill ones.

Second, agreed they would send diphtheria and scarlet fever cases to the detention hospital.

"Third, agreed to send their very sick children to St. Luke's hospital.

"Fourth, said we must agree to take care of orphans or cripples until they could be admitted to the state institutions, which sometimes covers a period of six months on account of overcrowded institutions of the state.

"Fifth, the fourth class must include children over 12 years up to 15 years, because a roof must be provided somewhere for utterly poverty stricken, deserted and dependent children found on homesteads and in small villages all over St. Louis county where there is no help.

We, the Children's Home, can take all, but the Y. W. C. A. or other homes must take those older than 12 years. The rest we can take now, but want more sick rooms.

The members of the board of directors present are: Mrs. G. Herbert Jones, Mrs. H. B. Paull, Mrs. R. M. Hunter, Miss Anna Macfarlane, Mrs. F. D. Day, Miss Elizabeth Hoatson, Mrs. W. C. Winton, Mrs. C. G. Traphagen, Mrs. T. L. Chapman, Mrs. James Wanless, Mrs. G. G. Hartley, Mrs. T. F. Cole, Mrs. M. L. Fay, Mrs. D. B. McDonald, Mrs. D. C. Rood, Mrs. Watson S. Moore, Mrs. F. D. Harlow, Mrs. S. R. Kirby, Mrs. A. L. Agatin, Mrs. J. H. Crowley, honorary member.

Those who spoke at the meeting were: Dr. Robert Graham, Mrs. McGonagle, J. H. Hearding, Dr. C. H. Schroder, Dr. A. L. Mowbray, Dr. I. J. Murphy, W. A. Hickel, Mayor Prince. Among the others present were: Miss Bertha Rowles, Miss Meeker, Mrs. A. M. Miller, S. G. Knox and Dr. A. G. Schulze.

AT PILGRIM CHURCH.

Apollo Club Heard At Vesper Services.

A large audience attended the pre-vesper organ recital and the vesper services at Pilgrim Congregational church yesterday afternoon. Miss Faith Helen Rogers presided at the organ. The "March Slav," by Tschaikowsky, with striking orchestral effects, was a particularly brilliant number.

The Apollo club sang at vespers. Amongs its selections were De Koven's arrangement of Kipling's "Recessional," "Glory Song" and "Lead, Kindly Light." The quartet of Pilgrim church sang "Abide With Me," with solos by Miss Florence Hyland and Mrs. O. J. Larson.

The pastor, the Rev. C. N. Thorp, gave the vesper address, telling the story of Samson as it might have appeared in newspaper form in "The Gaza Herald," had Samson lived in the day of modern journalism. He said, in part:

"Samson lived in a cruel, barbarous age, and his people were in such bondage to the Philistines that organized warfare was impossible. He believed himself to have been devoted from birth to great deeds of patriotism, to the infliction of the utmost injury possible upon the enemies of his country and his God. So he ranged along the border for years, feared by the enemy, but beloved and idolized by the Hebrews. His long locks, floating in the wind, symbolized his consecration to his life work. As long as he clung to his supreme purpose he was free, joyous and efficient. But the loss of his hair, under the spell of Delilah, meant that a tragic inward change was taking place; it meant that he had swerved from his chosen and appointed path; had lost his grip on his high purpose and broken with God. Here is a man in Duluth who for years did faithful work as a Christian hero; he not only attended church, but he put his strength into all those high pursuits in daily life that the church stands for. Others were turned toward God because this man walked that way. In some fatal moment he dropped out of the habit of church-going. 'A very little thing, a mere outward habit,' you say. That may be, but to many of us church-going is the symbol of loyalty to the church and to God. The outward loss of the church service was attended in this man's inward life with the gradual loss of high ideals, of broad vision and of the forces that lift to higher levels.

"To such a man life takes on a dull monotony as it did to blind Samson turning the mill. Moreover his strength and influence, once devoted to the church and to high things, are now turned against the best forces in the community. Nothing can save him, unless, as did Samson, he renews his consecration, and gets back into working relations with God. God grant that no one of us, having seen the vision of service to humanity and to God, should lose that vision and with it all that makes life worth living."

Nearly all the Wellesley students left the town, many going the day of the fire.

Miss Ellen Fitz Pendleton, president of Wellesley college, is quoted in a dispatch as saying that notwithstanding the paralyzing effects of the fire which destroyed College hall, it was expected that the academic work and the social life of the institution would continue uninterrupted from the opening of the spring term on April 7 until commencement day.

This announcement was made possible, she added, "through prompt and generous offers of assistance from Tufts college, University of Pennsylvania, Harvard university, Massachusetts institute of technology and Clark university. AN OMINOUS REPLY.

Los Angeles Times: Mrs. Pankhurst, at a dinner in New York, said that the militant suffragettes could not love their country as now constituted—they could not love her till, transformed, she gave votes to all.

"We are in the position, omitting the ignominy of it," Mrs. Pankhurst said, "of the beautiful chorus girl of 17 who married Gobsa Golde, the septuagenarian millionaire.

"The day of the wedding, speeding California-ward in Gobsa Golde's magnificent private car, the old man took his bride's hand in his and said:

"'Dear do you love me for what I am or for what I was?'

"Tightening her cigarette in its long tube of gold and amber, the beautiful girl answered calmly:

"'I love you, Gobsa, dear, for what you will be.'"

SALADS.

HOT POTATO SALAD.

Woman's World: Wash and boil small potatoes in their skins. When done, drain, peel and slice, or if very small leave whole. Have ready in the frying pan several slices of fried bacon, the amount depending upon the number of potatoes to be used. There should be enough hot bacon gravy to season the potatoes nicely. When the bacon is crisp remove it and add to the bacon gravy one-third as much good cider vinegar as there is bacon gravy, salt and paprika to taste and onion juice if desired. Stir well and add the potatoes. Stir again and serve hot, with the strips of bacon and chopped parsley sprinkled over the top.

COLD POTATO SALAD.

Cut into dice shape two quarts of cold boiled potatoes (better if cooked with their skins on), cut or slice one large Spanish onion, two heads of celery and four hard cooked eggs. Mix well with salad dressing, and serve cold.

JOKE ON THE JOKESMITH.

"But how on earth," he cried, "do you write twenty jokes a day?"

"With a typewriter," the other answered, and he smiled.

But Senator Lodge's retort was ready.

"Oh, is that so?" said he. "I thought you used some copying process."

BARR BARS SLOVENS.

Los Angeles Times: Capt. Barr of the Carmania, who distinguished himself in the Volturno rescue work, is a strict, but just, disciplinarian.

Of Capt. Barr, who insists on spotless neatness always, they tell a story in shipping circles.

A very dirty young diver, it appears, was boasting in a hotel smoking-room about the dangers of his calling.

"Yes," said the young man, as he relighted the stub of his cigar—"yes, you sailors, Capt. Barr, think you lead a dangerous life, but I, let me tell you, I carry my life in my hands."

"Oh, I see," said Capt. Barr, "and that's why you never wash them, eh—for fear you'll drown yourself."

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Save a Percentage of Your Earnings.

A man remarked to me as he settled back in his office chair: "If I had my life to live over again I'd save nearly twice as much money and live just as well." He seemed regretful, and continued, "I have been very foolish and careless with money in the past. Much that I have spent I might just as well have thrown away, as far as any good it ever did me or mine, or for any pleasure derived from it."

I have heard many men, and women, too, express themselves in this same vein. The sorry part of it is that men, as a rule, awake to the necessity of saving money too late in life. They spend freely of what they earn from a generous spirit. Seldom do they realize that they may not always be able to toil and wrest a good living from the world. This realization is borne in upon them, as a usual thing, when their powers begin to lag a little bit.

The best safeguard against poverty in old age that I know of is the habit of thrift learned in early life. Few but have opportunities to save something if they only will. Most of us are like my friend in that we could have saved much more than we have and not been miserly or uncomfortable in the accomplishment. But, unlike him, many of us have saved nothing, having merrily spent what might better have been saved in a lot of foolishness that profits us not a thing.

Hoarding money never appealed to me. Going without earthly comforts in order to accumulate a fat bank account is not my idea of saving. I believe in living as well as one can without stretching the expenditures to the last penny and beyond. But it is well also to have a thought for the future and lay by a certain percentage of one's earnings with a view to protection against want.

The young man of today who does not, as a rule, marry until he is close to 30, has a splendid chance to lay the foundations for a nest egg in the years preceding that event. If he does not form the habit then, it is quite unlikely that he will after marriage, with the expenses increasing year by year, keeping equal pace with any increase in salary.

Start in with the idea of saving something, however small. This, to my mind, is the only sort of an old age pension that the average man needs, and the one he should avail himself of.

THE CITY'S GATEWAY.

First impressions are deep, and often lasting.

Therefore we feel disposed to utter a cheer for Commissioner Hicken because of his determination to clean up the territory around the passenger stations in order to improve the looks of the city as the incoming visitor sees it.

The city guest who sees a squalid, dirty, disorderly section when he lands in the community acquires an impression which it takes a good deal to efface. This is a beautiful city, if you see it right. There is no reason why it should not be a beautiful city from every possible viewpoint.

Commissioner Hicken is doing a good thing for the city in determining to improve its looks from the viewpoint of the man stepping out of one of the passenger stations.

Incidentally, in this connection it is only justice to say that this is one of the good works to which the Rotary club has applied some of its abundant energy and lively public spirit.

Now that spring is officially here, it will be perfectly proper to complain of that sensation of indescribable lassitude.

PUBLIC UTILITIES UNDER NATIONAL AND PRIVATE OWNERSHIP.

Criticizing severely Postmaster General Burleson's arguments for government ownership of wire service, the New York Times says: "It would be fatal to adopt his plan, because governments palsy whatever they touch. They develop nothing, even if it were to be admitted that they could keep a machine running. The future belongs to private initiative and the progress made by unofficial men of science. All experience must be violated for this not to be true, hereafter as heretofore."

Doubtless the Times believes this. Doubtless it believes that there can be no progress under the palsying influence of government ownership, and that the day private ownership dies, progress dies also.

Yet it is hard to see how such a belief can be sincere with the world still ringing with praises for the government's handling of the Panama canal work.

It is hard to see how anybody can believe sincerely that "governments develop nothing," when the postoffice service has developed postal savings banks and the parcel post, to say nothing of the best postal service on earth.

It is curious to note that on the same day the Times published these reflections the New York Evening Post, another uncompromising opponent of government ownership of wire service or any other service, in speaking of the "blizzard-proof" wires that connect London with the outside world, said: "The cost thus far is stated to be about ten million dollars. But as the telegraph and telephone are government-owned, the enterprise can be carried out with the motto of 'hang the expense.' Such pecuniary lightheartedness is, of course, IMPOSSIBLE FOR PRIVATE COMPANIES."

In short, while one enemy of public ownership is declaring that governmental ownership is an affliction of palsy and that governments develop nothing, another enemy of public ownership is demonstrating that under public ownership there can be developments that would be impossible under private ownership!

There can be no better answer to the assertions of the Times than the facts innocently disclosed by the Evening Post.

The test of a project under private ownership is, "Will it pay—in DIVIDENDS?"

The test of a project under government ownership is, "Will it pay—in SERVICE?"

Many a needed improvement in service is foregone under private ownership because it would not pay in dividends, which could be enjoyed under public ownership because it would pay in service.

The aim under both is the same—to make it pay. But the difference between paying in dividends and paying in public usefulness is as wide as the world—as wide, say, as the difference in viewpoint between those who favor public ownership if public ownership means a public benefit, and those who believe in private ownership at whatever cost to the public interest.

Maybe Dr. Wiley's indorsement of the health conditions in Duluth will discourage some of these chronic knockers. That is, it would if a chronic knocker were capable of being discouraged.

THE TREATY AND THE SUBSIDY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

What is this canal tolls row all about? I supposa I ought to know, but I don't. INQUIRER.

Duluth, March 20.

It's very simple.

> The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and war of all nations on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise.

That's plain enough to anybody who can read and understand the English language in its simplest forms.

In the law governing tolls to be charged in the Panama canal is this clause:

> No tolls shall be levied upon vessels in the coastwise trade of the United States.

That's equally plain. What by the treaty we bound ourselves specifically not to do, we sought to do in the Panama canal act.

Whether the bargain we made was a good one or a bad one, a wise one or a foolish one, is utterly beside the point. The point is that we made it and should stick to it.

The clause exempting coastwise vessels from paying tolls is objectionable also because it is a ship subsidy, which all the people must share in paying and from which only the trust which owns the coastwise marine will benefit.

Seeing that human nature is what it is, it seems safe to assume that Huerta considers himself a most persuasive arguer because whenever he tells a rich Mexican to contribute a little more money, the funds are promptly forthcoming.

THE INTERSTATE TRADE COMMISSION.

The amended bill for a trade commission is in the house of representatives, and the season for discussion is open.

It provides for an interstate trade commission of three, not more than two of whom may belong to the same political party. They are to be appointed by the president with the advice and consent of the senate. Their terms are to be six years, and their salaries ten thousand dollars. The new body would absorb the bureau of corporations, but the new bill does not provide, as the old bill did, that the commissioner of corporations shall be a member of the commission.

The commission is to have jurisdiction over all corporations, engaged in commerce which congress has power to regulate, that control property worth five million dollars or more.

Its powers are to be as follows:

1. To exercise all the powers of investigation now possessed by the bureau of corporations, extending to all interstate corporations except common carriers.

2. To receive annual reports from all corporations having a capital of five millions or more, and to require such special reports as it deems advisable.

3. Upon the direction of the president, the attorney general or either branch of congress, to investigate the organization, management and business of any corporation engaged in interstate commerce, and to make a report which may include recommendations for readjustments to bring about conformity with law, or in case investigation uncovers unfair practices not prohibited by existing law, to recommend suitable legislation.

4. At the request of a Federal court in which a suit in equity is pending under the Sherman act, to investigate any question relating to the relief to be granted, or any proposed decree, and to report to the court.

5. To ascertain the manner in which decrees in cases brought under the Sherman law are carried out.

The power to investigate on complaint of individuals, which was provided by the original bill, has been eliminated. The commission is given ample power to compel the production of witnesses and evidence. All questions of publicity for information in its possession will rest in the discretion of the commission.

As it stands the bill provides, evidently, for a mere investigating commission—a very different body, manifestly, from the powerful one sought by the Roosevelt followers. Its chief functions will be to co-operate in the enforcement of the Sherman law and to provide information needed for an intelligent study of the trust problem in all its bearings.

The enactment of this law will be a long step forward—but it will be but the first step in a journey the end of which no man see.

The wife of the mayor of Chicago has taken to writing fairy tales. Thus we see the influence on the wife when the husband is in politics.

THE MISLEADING GREAT SEAL OF MINNESOTA.

Have you ever given a thought to the great seal of the state of Minnesota?

It was adopted in 1858, and it reflected the conditions that prevailed then. It does not, of course, reflect at all the conditions that prevail now.

Skilling's Mining and Market Letter of this city suggests that the seal, like the Constitution, needs revision. It says:

> What of the great mining and maritime industries? A new design for a state seal should be adopted by the next legislature, and it should contain something recognizing iron mining and lake commerce. It should be borne in mind, too, that a great iron and steel industry is now being developed, and that it is the nucleus of kindred industries. The design, for example, might contain a view of one of the lofty steel headframes that may be seen at so many mines, and a glimpse of the harbor at Duluth showing a vessel approaching. A further glimpse of a steel plant might be included. Possibly the artist could combine the mining and the steel industries. The importance of Minnesota as a lumbering state should long ago have been recognized on the state seal.

When the great seal was designed, the farmer was just crowding the redskin off the prairie. Now Minnesota is great in agriculture, great in maritime and other commerce, great in mining, great in timber, and she will soon be great in manufacturing.

Unless the old seal is to be retained solely for its historical interest, and despite the fact that it is utterly misleading in its reflection of the state's condition, the suggestion of a change seems a good one.

Now for a pretty race between Kipling and the poet laureate to get out the first poem on the Ulster trouble.

Iron Ore and Terror

St. Louis Republic: Shipments of iron ore from the Lake Superior iron country by lake and rail in 1913 were only a little less than 50,000,000 tons and all records of iron shipments were beaten. Since the Lake Superior mines generally produce more than four-fifths of all the iron ore mined in the country this record is a good index of production.

Shipments of ore by rail are always insignificant in comparison with shipments by water, so that it is fair to say that this tremendous movement of ore did not begin until well into the spring of 1913, after the ice was out of the harbors. That would date the beginning of the movement about five months after the election of 1912, when, as we are told, the Democratic victory struck terror into the hearts of business men.

Surely there could not have been very much terror in the hearts of men who piled up such stocks of iron ore for immediate use and in anticipation of future consumption through the season when navigation is closed.

Luck.

That which we humans know as Fate
Is but the outcome of some unknown cause;
Ill luck and good for certain people wait—
Ofttimes to follow without break or pause.

Men struggle, strive—do all that men can do,
The noblest efforts oft bring dire disgrace.

Who has not seen unworthy humankind
Endowed with comfort, affluence and might?
Some creature, vicious both in flesh and mind,
Encompassed ever with content's delight.

No faith in luck, fate, fortune, destiny!
Then why such wealth, such ease for worthlessness?
Some unknown cause for one makes misery
And for another earns the world's caress!

"In the Interests of Morality."

Agnes Repplier in the March Atlantic: We are gravely assured that the drama has awakened to a high and holy duty, that it has a "serious call," in obedience to which it has turned the stage into a clinic for the diagnosing of disease, and into a self-authorized commission for the intimate study of vice. It advertises itself as "battling with the evils of the age,"—which are the evils of every age,—and its method of warfare is to exploit the sins of the sensual for the edification of the virtuous, to rake up the dunghills with the avowed purpose of finding a jewel. The doors of the brothel have been flung hospitably open, and we have been invited to peer and peep (always in the interests of morality) into regions formerly closed to the uninitiated. Situations once the exclusive property of the police courts make valuable third acts, or become the central theme of curtain-lifters, unclean and undramatic, but which claim to "tell their story so clearly that the daring is lost in the splendid moral lesson conveyed." Familiarity with vice (which an old-fashioned but not inexperienced moralist like Pope held to be a perilous thing) is now advocated as a safeguard, especially for the young and ardent. The lowering of our standards of taste, the deadening of our finer sensibilities are matters of no moment to dramatist or to manager. They have other interests at stake.

Against the Insects.

Ireland's Sons in the United States

From the New York Sun.

During the last ninety years Ireland has lost over 2,000,000 of her people through migration, and of this number it is probable that at least 1,250,000 have come to America.

In Boston one out of every three foreigners is Irish, while the proportion in New York city is one to five. In Boston there are only about 4,000 more native Americans with native parents than there are Irish. Even in the city of New York there are only about twice as many pure Americans as sons of Ireland, while in Philadelphia and Chicago the rate is one to three and in Pittsburg and Cleveland one to four.

While most of them go to the cities, over 1,000 Irish found their way to California, or a greater number than took up residence in Connecticut. Arkansas, Mississippi, New Mexico, North and South Carolina seems to have been slighted by this class of immigrants, for less than ten of them made homes in any one of those states.

Equipped with good health and vigorous constitutions, one-fifth of the Irish immigrants work as laborers for a while, at least, after coming to America. They build railroads, level hills and are employed in the great cities, while one-sixteenth of the newly arriving Irishmen do laboring work on farms.

At this time, when there is much agitation as to whether or not illiterate persons should be allowed to make homes in the United States, it is interesting to know that in 1912 only about one Irish immigrant in every 100 who were over 14 years of age could not write. In comparison with the Scotch and English immigrants the latter two made a showing twice as high.

It cannot be said that the cheerful, mirth-loving people of Ireland who come to America are to be recorded as liabilities, for in 1912 this branch of immigration brought more than $1,500,000 in its pockets, which averaged $50 a person.

Not all who land in America from Irish homes come as immigrants. In 1913 10,000 of the better class Irish arrived in the United States. As more than that number of Irish left this country during that time it may be supposed that those who were prosperous went back to Ireland and the others went to Canada, leaving only an additional 25,000 sons of Erin under the United States flag at the end of the year.

Some foreigners maintain such loyalty to their European governments that American naturalization comes to them as a slow and solemn thought. Not so with the Irishman. He considers that his love for his own green land will abide always, even though he willingly renounces allegiance to his king. It is due partly to this fact and partly to his inborn love to talk of politics, to be a part of its machinery, that the average Irishman loses little time in becoming a full-fledged American citizen with all the rights and privileges of the native-born men of the land.

It was in 1853 that 163,000 Irish came to America. This meant that about 450 arrived every day during the year. During the last ten years an average of 105 sons of Erin have come to America every day.

In the present congress are Michael Donohoe of Pennsylvania, and G. Francis O'Shaunessy of Rhode Island, both of whom were born on Irish soil and brought up by Irish parents.

James Gamble, who built the Baltimore & Ohio tunnel under the city of Baltimore, and William H. Maxwell, for years superintendent of public schools in New York, are both native Irishmen.

McClure of magazine fame; Victor Herbert, known through his music, and the Cudahy brothers form an Irish group which furnishes food to mind, soul and body.

The infusion of about 6,000 persons of purely Celtic stock helped to form the vital force of New England. Later, when the north of Ireland sent over its flax-raising sons and daughters and its spinning wheels, the linen industry received its great boost.

By the time the Revolutionary war had become a certainty there were 500,000 Irish in the New World. Patrick Henry was of Celtic parentage. One-half of the Continental army was composed of brave Irishmen who did not find that their love for England had been increased in the New World.

Today Irish-Americans point back to Richard Montgomery, the first general of the American army to fall in conflict, and to Ebenezer Sullivan, who performed one of the first acts of the Revolution by helping to seize the military stores at Fort William and Mary; to John Stark and to Mad Anthony Wayne as being of their kith and kin.

If Irish representatives of the American army of George Washington's time should be sought, the names of nine signers of the Declaration of Independence and six signers of the Constitution would be found as belonging to that class.

In the March American Magazine Ray Stannard Baker reports the development of the Progressive party and of progressive ideas in the West. In a letter to Mr. Baker, William Allen White, the famous Kansas journalist and politician, says, in part, with relation to the future of the progressive movement:

"The movement is not in its '56 nor in its '60. It is along in the forties as near as I can guess. We will come into power—if at all as a party—in the twenties. But perhaps we shall not come into power at all as the Progressive party. I know no leader who cares much one way or another. What we have done is to set America thinking of altruism in politics, to consider justice before prosperity, and to change definitely the trend of American political thought from an egotistic philosophy to an altruistic philosophy. Our leaders are for the most part glad we did not win last year. Victory in 1912 would have been a calamity. We would not have made good. We should have injured our cause by getting ahead of public sentiment. * * * Whether or not we shall sow for the Socialists to reap I don't know. I don't care. But I do know we are sowing good seed."

The Birds Are Mere Groundlings.

London Chronicle: It is even more difficult to estimate height than distance, and when one reads how once again the height record has been broken by some daring aviator, one is puzzled how to realize what the figures of his record really mean. Well, at any rate, we have the birds as a standard of comparison. Compared with Mr. Raynham's recent 16,000 feet, the common birds of England are mere groundlings, for generally they fly at no greater height than 300 feet. When migrating, however, they mount higher, though even then the wild goose (the loftiest of them) seldom reaches 2,000 feet. The highest flier in the world is the great condor, who sometimes rises five miles.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, Mass., is thrice eligible to be a charter member of the Harvard Association of Youngest Members of Congress.

A great many of our Youngest Members of Congress were turned out of Harvard six or seven years ago. The association includes Rogers and Billy Murray, both of Massachusetts, and Lathrop Brown of New York, none of whom had accumulated much more than the thirty years necessary for membership in congress at the time of his election, Lathrop Brown even now is barely 31, and is not only the youngest member of the present congress, but has the daintiest, cutest little mustache in the entire house. Just a year or two ahead of these young chaps at Harvard was Franklin Roosevelt, youngest person ever assistant secretary of the navy. His uncle, Theodore, who is one of the greatest as well as one of the best known living ex-presidents of the United States, was also a Harvard man. Many more cases could be cited.

All this teaches us, or ought to, that being sent to Harvard cannot keep a man down if he has the stuff in him. People who go about cracking crude jokes at the expense of Harvard university and twitting those who have attended that school, might perhaps employ their time more profitably in other lines. A young man of the right sort can go to Harvard and get just as good an education as he could at any institution in the country.

But this little piece started out to be about Representative John Jacob Rogers, and not a learned dissertation on higher education.

? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ?

Yes, why, indeed, is Rogers, three times eligible to be a member of the Harvard Association of Youngest Members of Congress?

Oh, simply because he has been graduated from that place three times as often as any other of the Youngest Members. He has three degrees from there, whereas none of the other members boasts—if he does boast about it—of more than one. A. B., A. M., LL. B.—these are his degrees. It took him seven years to get them, but at the end of that time he was a regular scholar—though still a human being. He is probably the most scholarly man of his years in congress. His disposition is to go clear down deep into a subject and try to bring up a handful of gravel off the bottom.

From early boyhood Rogers has had a desire to see and to know. When he was 9 years of age it occurred to Rogers that he would like to know more about the properties of sulphur matches. His parents seemed to have certain information about matches that they were trying to keep from him, and the mystery of it preyed on his mind. One afternoon when his parents were away, Rogers got a box of the forbidden matches and went up into the hayloft of the family barn where he could be alone and experiment. His plan was to strike the matches one at a time and make careful observation of what happened.

* * *

When Rogers' father returned and found only ashes where his barn had been before, he said things that discouraged the boy from studying things in the concrete. From that time on he has had a tendency to stick to the abstract. Up to the time he came to Washington Rogers probably could not have named off-hand a dozen members of congress. Yet he knew a great many things about American constitutional history and had spent considerable time abroad studying various forms of government from the point of view of the scholar. His favorite method of ascertaining how to proceed with a given proposition is to read two or three dozen large books on the subject. Let us suppose, for example, that Rogers was interested in a bill to regulate hack stands in the District of Columbia. His first move would be to dash over to the Congressional library and find out what the Medes and Persians did in regard to hack stands. Gradually he would trace the thing down to modern times.

However, coaxing cats out of books is not the only way Rogers has of learning about the world in which he lives. He may look at things from the scholarly angle, but he always looks. For instance, since he has been in congress he has never failed to walk when journeying between his home and the capitol and has never made the trip twice over the same route. In that way he has covered practically every little cross street in that part of Washington. Then, with those and other streets fresh in his mind, a map of the city before him, he sits down and reads histories of the national capital.

Rogers has today a burning ambition, and that is to explore Washington even farther, by means of a pair of roller skates. With miles and miles of streets as smooth as a ballroom floor, and newsboys roller skating everywhere, why not a congressman on skates? Should a humble newsboy have rights and prerogatives that are denied congressmen? Being young and full of enthusiasm, and having the courage of his conviction, the chances are that if Rogers desires to roller skate about the streets he will up and do so. He may skate quietly and unostentatiously after nightfall, but he will roller skate.

God Not to Blame

Chicago Evening Post: It is refreshing to note that the preachers of St. Louis in commenting on the recent holocaust in that city put the blame on human carelessness and inefficiency.

It used to be the fashion to blame God for such disasters, or at least to speak of them as "mysterious visitations of Providence." We have outgrown that unintelligent and cowardly viewpoint. "Criminal stupidity and criminal obstinacy" are the causes assigned by a St. Louis Unitarian minister, while a Methodist preacher saw in the disaster evidence of the "shallow fashion in which men accept social responsibility."

This is plain speech and sensible—the kind that helps to betterment. The passing of theological sentimentality from the pulpit in dealing with such matters is a wholesome and hopeful sign of the times.

Women and Children First.

Atchison Globe: Man never gets a fair deal. If, for instance, a baby happens to have a good disposition every one will insist that it takes after its mother.

Imported From North Britain.

London Chronicle: There is in circulation another genial story about a Scot. A Caledonian chieftain won a million pins in a penny raffle at a bazaar. Three days later he called, very wan and weary of aspect. "See here," he said to the bazaar secretary. "I've counted them. They're three short."

The State Auditorship

Press Comments on the Rines-Preus Contest.

So Would Lots of Others.

Fairmont Sentinel: The people, regardless of party, have reason to love Henry Rines for the enemies he has made. In his contest for auditor he will be opposed by every man in the state connected with the booze business. We would like to be a Republican long enough to cast a vote for him in the primaries.

Sam Gordon's View.

Browns Valley Tribune: We have nothing to say against Mr. Preus as a man, but Henry Rines, through his long service in the legislature, has won the right of support from the voters of this state, and he ought to be named as the candidate of his party for state auditor.

The Way Is Clear.

Elk River Star-News: A little technical impediment to the candidacy for state auditor having been removed by the supreme court, Mr. Rines is now a legitimate candidate for that important office. While we are not boosting anybody's candidacy for office, the position of Mr. Rines appeals to us and we hope he will have no difficulty in rounding up the nomination. If the people are on the job he will go in with a whoop, his record as a public official being of the best and in line with the progressive politics all good citizens are in harmony with. The issue between him and his opponent is so apparently in his favor that it does not seem possible for the people to go wrong.

A Pace-Maker.

Crosby Crucible: Henry Rines of Mora continues to gain laps on Jake Preus in the auditorship race. He's a pace-maker that no machine candidate should attempt to follow.

If He Isn't a Machine Man He's an Ingrate.

Deerwood Times: Just because Jake Preus has chosen to file for the Republican nomination for state auditor it does not necessarily mean that he is a "machine man." His idea on the subject might be appreciated by the state press, who are always anxious to learn who are the machine candidates and who are not. If ye can only find where Jake stands——?

Thinks He Can.

Perham Enterprise: The state supreme court has decided that Henry Rines, the Mora publisher, who is a candidate for state auditor, can run. We have a doggone good notion that he can, too.

Subject to Popular Approval, of Course.

Princeton Union: No further question of Henry Rines' eligibility. The court of last resort in this state has spoken and Mr. Rines may be state auditor if he so desires.

Here's a Word Puzzle for Bird Lovers

Kansas City Star: Do you know the birds? If you do, then you can solve this bird puzzle, which is taken from the Oklahoma Bird Day Book, published by J. B. Doolin, state game and fish warden:

1. There's a bird whose name tells if he flies fast or slow,
2. And one which boys use when with long strides they go;
3. There is one that tells tales, although he can't sing,
4. And one who flies high, but is held by a string,
5. By one a high rank in the army is held,
6. There's another whose name with one letter is spelled,
7. There is one that a farmer in harvest would use,
8. And one you can easily fool if you choose.
9. What bird, at dessert, is it useful to hold,
10. And which in the chimney place oft hung of old?
11. Which bird wears a bit of the sky in its dress?
12. Which one always stands in the corner chess?
13. There is one built a church, of London the pride.
14. We have one when we talk with a friend by our side.
15. What bird would its bill find useful at tea,
16. And which would its tail use to steer us at sea?
17. Which proudly a musical instrument wears?
18. And which the same name as a small island bears?
19. Which bird is called foolish and stupid and silly,
20. And which always wanting to punish poor Billy?
21. Which bird is an artisan, works at its trade,
22. And which is the stuff of which flags are made?
23. One, we're told by the poet, at Heaven's gate sings,
24. And there's one which, in Holland, the new baby brings.
25. What bird have we with us in eating and drinking?
26. One, used for a fence, you can say without thinking,
27. What bird is a scoffer, a scorner, a jest?
28. What one is too lazy to build her own nest?
29. From a high wind at evening one name is inferred,
30. Guess all these, you're as wise as Minerva's own bird.

The "Movies."

New York Evening Post: The amazing development of the motion picture industry is indicated with fair precision in the latest available report of the national board of censors for motion pictures, covering the year from October, 1911, to October, 1912. The report estimates that 98 per cent of all films exhibited in the country pass under the board's inspection. The total number of sample reels inspected during the year in question was 4,460, or, at 1,100 feet of film to the reel, 4,460,000 feet. Every sample is reproduced 100 times on an average, so that, for the amateur of pure numbers, there is a delight in the thought that the board's authority was effective over 446,000,000 feet of film. It is the board's professed aim to prevent the production of obnoxious films rather than to destroy films after production. Nevertheless, out of 4,330 films presented for inspection, thirty-three were condemned altogether and 240 were subjected to partial elimination, involving the destruction of more than 40,000 feet of sample film, at a cost to the manufacturers of nearly $62,000. The activities of the board extend to the programs of nearly 16,000 moving picture theaters, with a daily attendance, during the period cited, of about 7,000,000.

Forgiveness.

My heart was heavy, for its trust had been Abused, its kindness answered with foul wrong;
So, turning gloomily from my fellow men,
One summer Sabbath day I strolled among
The green mounds of the village burial place;
Where, pondering how all human love and hate
Find one sad level; and now, soon or late,
Wronged and wrongdoer, each with meekened face.
And cold hands folded over a still heart,
Pass the green threshold of our common grave,
Whither all footsteps tend, whence none depart,
Awed for myself, and pitying my race,
Our common sorrow, like a mighty wave,
Swept all my pride away, and trembling I forgave!

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

A Realist.

New York Tribune: President Wilson likes novels of an idealistic rather than a realistic trend.

At a reception in Washington a lady mentioned a realist who had just produced a shockingly depressing and unpleasant book.

"How would you define a realist?" some one asked, and the lady said:

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer (though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE GARBAGE PROBLEM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I would like to make a few suggestions through your valuable Open Court. I note our commissioner of public safety is trying to solve a problem whereby to bring about better sanitary conditions, which I believe is one of the most needed conditions of any in our city. Just think of what a fine method of disposing of the garbage we have in effect now, those of us who live a mile or so further away from the city burning plant. All we have to do is call up a dray and he will load our little can up and charge us $1.50, that is if we want our garbage can brought back. We cannot blame the drayman. It takes time to go there and back. I say, pass some ordinance on this garbage proposition. Make it compulsory for every family to purchase a good sized can with a good cover on it. Hire teams or make a contract to collect the garbage once a week and return the cans. This would pay the hauler, for he could load at least a dozen cans and haul them for 15 cents per can. At present it costs too much.

AN ACROSTIC.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Aroused by all your street car schemming,
Revolving in my brain the other day,
Thought I, "Poor B. N. D. is dreaming,
He'll never solve the question in that way."
Until I hit upon my simple answer
Right in the middle of a history class,
Unevenly as any tango dancer,
Solutions through my fertile brain did pass.
Perhaps you'd like the answer to your question.
Everyone will take it with a rush,
And so: Move "downtown" from Lakeside
Resulting in avoidance of the crush.

THE LOST JEWELS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Permit me, please, a little valuable space in your Open Court. I read a while ago where a certain woman lost $3,500 worth of diamonds, and also read where this same woman offered a $500 reward for the return of them.

Now in the paper I see where this lady accepted a $300 settlement. Dear Editor, where, oh where, does justice come in? In the first place, this lady who found the diamonds could have returned them to their rightful owner without getting 1 cent reward.

But what gets me is this lady losing the diamonds offering a reward of $500 and then coming across with $300, and that was done through an attorney.

Now, I don't know either one of these ladies, but I do know that the finder was entitled to the full amount offered in big print in the newspapers.

Thanking you for your space, I remain, yours truly,

SAM GOLDISH.

THE FACE UPON THE FLOOR.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Here is a copy of the poem, "The Face Upon the Floor":

'Twas a balmy summer evening, and a goodly crowd was there,
Which well nigh filled Joe's barroom on the corner of the square;
And as the songs and witty stories came through the open door
A vagabond crept slowly in and posed upon the floor.

"Where did it come from?" some one said. "The wind has blown it in."
"What does it want?" another cried. "Some whisky, rum or gin?"
"Here, Toby, seek him, if your stomach's equal to the work—

In fact, he smiled as though he thought he'd struck the proper place.
"Come, boys, I know there's kindly hearts among so good a crowd—
To be in such good company would make a deacon proud.

"Give me a drink—that's what I want—I'm out of funds, you know;
When I had the cash to treat the gang this hand was never slow.
What? You laugh as though you thought this pocket never had a sou;
I once was fixed as well, my boys, as any one of you.

"There, thanks; that's braced me nicely; God bless you, one and all;
Next time I pass this good saloon I'll make another call.
Give you a song? No, I can't do that; my singing days are past;
My voice is cracked; my throat's worn out, and my lungs are going fast.

"Say, give me another whisky, and I'll tell you what I'll do—
I'll tell you a funny story, and a fact, I promise, too.
That I was ever a decent man, not one of you would think;
But I was, some four or five years back. Say, give me another drink.

"Fill her up, Joe, I want to put some life into my frame—
Such little drinks, to a bum like me, are miserably tame;
Five fingers—there, that's the scheme—and corking whisky, too.
Well, here's luck, boys, and, landlord, my best regards to you.

"You've treated me pretty kindly, and I'd like to tell you how
I came to be the dirty sot you see before you now.
As I told you, once I was a man, with muscle, frame and health;
And but for a blunder, ought to have made considerable wealth.

"I was a painter—not one that daubed on bricks and wood,
But an artist, and, for my age, was rated pretty good.
I worked hard at my canvas and was bidding fair to rise,
For gradually I saw the star of fame before my eyes.

It brought me fifteen hundred pounds, and added to my name.
And then I met a woman—now comes the funny part—
With eyes that petrified my brain, and sank into my heart.

"Why don't you laugh? 'Tis funny that the vagabond you see
Could ever love a woman, and expect her love for me;
But 'twas so, and for a month or two her smiles were freely given,
And when her loving lips touched mine it carried me to heaven.

"Did you ever see a woman for whom your soul you'd give,
With a form like the Milo Venus, too beautiful to live;
With eyes that would beat the Kohinoor, and a wealth of chestnut hair?
If so, 'twas she, for there never was another half so fair.

"I was working on a portrait, one afternoon in May,
Of a fair-haired boy, a friend of mine, who lived across the way;
And Madaline admired it, and, much to my surprise,
Said that she'd like to know the man that had such dreamy eyes.

"It didn't take long to know him, and before the month had flown
My friend had stolen my darling, and I was left alone;
And ere a year of misery had passed above my head
The jewel I had treasured so had tarnished and was dead.

"That's why I took to drink, boys. Why, I never saw you smile;
I thought you'd be amused, and laughing all the while.
Why, what's the matter, friend? There's a tear drop in your eye.
Come, laugh with me; 'tis only babes and women that should cry.

"Say, boys, if you give me just another whisky I'll be glad,
Give me that piece of chalk with which you mark the baseball score,
You shall see the lovely Madaline upon the barroom floor."

Another drink, and, with chalk in hand, the vagabond began
To sketch a face that well might buy the soul of any man.
Then, as he placed another lock upon the shapely head,

—T. Antoine D'Arcy.

The Herald is indebted to several for copies of the poem, "The Face Upon the Floor." Copies were received from Lillian M. Doble, Duluth; C. Van Brocklin, Virginia; Ed. The above copy, the first to arrive, was sent by W. Van Brunt, Duluth.—The Editor.

TOO IMPORTANT FOR MERE JESTING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

At first the article written by the "Expert" looked to my simple mind as a black, high and impenetrable mountain, and behold, through the empty space I saw a veil surrounding it which was dense. I made myself bold and came nearer and the mystifying veil disappeared and there stood a man gesticulating like a wild man with an ax to grind. This is meaningless and the article as a whole was a meaningless jest. But I say, let us not waste the valuable space in The Herald with personalities, or nationalities, or other valueless dope, as I know chiefs who do not know how to regulate a pump valve or regulate a governor which is more simple than to find out the actual amount of air needed for a complete combustion. (Of course, the expert microbes must have air lest they die and go up in smoke.) We know coal is composed of molecules and as the temperature rises it makes them circulate faster, and combined with oxygen, which is in the air, makes a combustion. Not that, Mr. Expert, because an engineer or a janitor fires, that the air becomes poisonous like from dead matter and that this deadly poison closes around your microbes and makes smoke. Oh, what nonsense! Yours truly,

CARL SEVERSON,
Engineer and Fireman.

Duluth, March 21.

CALLED DOWN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Would respectfully call your attention to first page cartoon of issue of March 20, 1914, entitled "The Duluth Way Spells Success." Said picture representing "United Support" of this city's civic and other bodies in furthering Duluth's prospective annual summer festival and pageant, beginning in 1915, does not mention "The New Duluth Commercial Club" as one of the branches of this movement, although in fact our civic body was one of the first to acknowledge receipt of invitation to join with Duluth proper in this matter and to offer its hearty and unanimous support, the president appointing a committee of three to act in conjunction and assist in every way possible to make the proposed festival a success.

The writer, as secretary of the New Duluth Commercial club, and in behalf of said organization, would likewise call your attention in a general way to the fact that your paper, although enjoying quite a liberal patronage in New Duluth, has failed in many instances in the past to give our particular part of the city proper recognition, and continually confuses New Duluth with West Duluth, West end and Gary.

The latest instance is now being called specifically to your attention, in the hope that some time in the near future The Duluth Herald may know and understand for all time to come that such a place as New Duluth exists. If you or one of your brilliant representatives would get aboard the Fond du Lac train some fine day, the writer would be very glad to meet you in New Duluth and show you about our city and introduce you personally to some of the patrons of your paper that have been supporting your paper for these many years.

Trusting that you may fully understand our feeling in this matter, and that The Herald will endeavor to "toto" fair in the future, I am, very truly,

LOUIS R. TAYLOR,
Secretary.

New Duluth, March 21.

The correction is duly noted, and the omission is duly apologized for. If Mr. Taylor will notice, the West Duluth Commercial club appeared in that cartoon twice, and what happened is that the cartoonist made a clerical error. His intentions were better than his execution. No organization responded to the appeal in behalf of the summer festival with better spirit than the New Duluth Commercial club, the support of no organization was more welcomed.—The Editor.

EAST ENDER'S RETORT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Friend B. N. D. comes back at me
And wants me to suggest
A plan that's satisfactory
(While Warren does the rest.)

That will permit a Lakeside man
To journey home in peace,
And carry package, pail or can
Or go-cart, or valise,

Or any other little thing
Which may their fancy strike,
Or "wifey" phones, "Be sure to bring Ere for the car you hike."

I could suggest a simple plan
That would, I think, suffice.
But as I'm not a Lakeside man
With me, "It cuts no ice."

Therefore I shall repudiate
(Repudiate is good)
Your statement. Work out your own fate
(As many think you should.)

I don't believe you're "up the flue"
So early in the game;
And if you keep on trying, you
Will "get there, just the same."

So, B. N. D., success to thee.
I'm proud to call you friend.
Don't put the matter up to me.
I live in the East end.

BILL.

THE FRANK CASE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Your editorial on the Frank case was admirable and timely. How different is the spirit of law and order as expressed by a deliberative and impartial press to the sensational frenzy of a hysterical populace seeking an outlet for its feelings!

Two of Georgia's most brilliant legal lights, assembled and presented 115 reasons why Frank should be granted a new trial. On this occasion justice carried a broadsword and a wide—very wide—fold. The trial judge was unconvinced of the prisoner's guilt, but could not interfere with the law. Later the supreme court could see grounds for a new trial, neither in any of the reasons presented, nor in the trial judge's expression of uncertainty, in the prisoner's guilt. Time was when the defendant received the benefit of the doubt, but the mob spirit reverses judicial precedents. The state can do no wrong, the Lock Foster case in Ohio and others elsewhere to the contrary notwithstanding. So now, altogether—"My Country 'Tis of Thee," etc. Yours truly,

HERMAN GINSBERG.

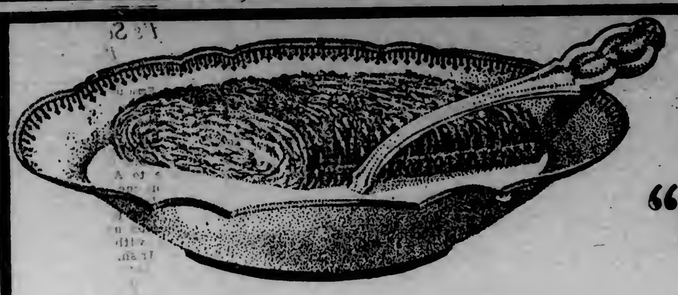
CRIPPLED BABE CURED AT STATE HOSPITAL.

One year in the state hospital for crippled and deformed children has worked a wonderful transformation in the appearance of 2-year-old Alma Lindgren, a ward of Charles Shogran, clerk of the poor commission.

When Mr. Shogran was appointed guardian of the child a year ago, the little one was suffering from rickets and her limbs were enlarged and otherwise deformed.

Saturday she left the state hospital and was brought back to Duluth. She is now as healthy as the average child of her age.

The whereabouts of the girl's mother are unknown.



Not "Bleached"!

The Department of Agriculture at Washington has been defeated in its efforts to prevent the bleaching of white flour with chemicals. This is a defeat for the people as well as the Department of Agriculture. The controversy over "bleached flour" does not disturb the household that knows

Shredded Wheat

It contains all the body-building nutriment in the whole wheat grain, is not "bleached," nor "treated," nor "compounded" with anything; contains no yeast, baking powder or chemicals of any kind. Its purity, cleanliness and food value stand unchallenged, being endorsed by the highest health and dietetic authorities.

Always heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with hot milk or cream will supply all the energy needed for a half day's work. Deliciously nourishing when eaten in combination with baked apples, stewed prunes, sliced bananas or canned or preserved fruits. Try toasted Triscuit, the Shredded Wheat wafer, for luncheon with butter, cheese or marmalade.

DIET TO FIT MAN FOR LIFE

Dr. Wiley Says Every Dining Table Should Be Training Table.

Commends Duluth for Low Death Rate and Healthful Conditions.

That every dining table should be a training table and that a person's diet should be such that it would equip him for the struggle of life as an athlete's diet fits him for the gridiron or track, was the keynote of the lecture given by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former chemist of the department of agriculture of the United States, at the First M. E. church Saturday evening. The noted exponent of pure food spoke under the auspices of the Housewives' league.

Dr. Wiley's lecture covered a wide range of topics, all, however, hinging on the subject of pure food. His flow of humor, his epigrammatic style of address and the pithiness of his treatment of his subject held the closest attention of his audience.

Death Rate Low Here.

In speaking of the importance of health in a community, he said:

"If it were generally known and the fact appreciated throughout the country that the death rate is lower by five out of 1,000 in Duluth, the hordes would flock here in such numbers as to crowd the city even beyond the top of the hill back here."

Referring to the nature of his lectures, Dr. Wiley said he was preaching what to him was religion and that he differs from other ministers only in the fact that they are trying to get their flocks to heaven while he is trying to postpone as long as possible the time when they shall enter the golden gates.

The speaker allied himself with the statement recently made by ex-President Taft that a man may still be of service after he has reached the age of 60. He said man reaches his state of greatest efficiency after 40 and that in the United States human life is held so cheaply that the average length of it is but 44 years.

"I was pleased in talking with your health commissioner this morning to learn that Duluth ranks high among cities where life is long," he said. "Here your death rate is only 8 or 9 out of every 1,000, while the average is 14 per 1,000.

"I frequently am amused in hearing or reading of plans cities are making for the future. Elaborate park systems are provided for, but did you ever hear of one of them making a point of the public health? Not often, at least. This is a great country, but I could not conscientiously enter into a Fourth of July oration with the same enthusiasm that is annually displayed by an army of eagle-spreaders. You hear them speak of this as the land of freedom and the home of the brave, or something like that. Did you ever hear one of these speakers say that it is the land where human life is held more sacred and is guarded more safely than elsewhere?

Life Cheap Here.

"As a matter of fact, there is no country, with the possible exception of Mexico, where human life is cheaper. There are 9,000 lives taken by murderers each year, and retribution overtakes only about 100 of the criminals. If man, made desperate by the crazing pangs of hunger, steals a loaf of bread, we get him nine times out of ten, and he pays the penalty. If, however, he kills a fellow, he is likely to go unpunished.

"There are killed in railway accidents annually 12,000 persons, and 150,000 are injured.

"It is harder to get appropriations for health projects than it is for any other public undertaking. The state of New York set aside $100,000,000 to deepen and widen the Erie canal, and it will take as much again to complete the work; it has refused, thus far, to appropriate $150,000 for a work that would decrease the number of blind in the state."

Telephone's Drawbacks.

That dirty food is often as dangerous as adulerated food and even more dangerous is the opinion of Dr. Wiley. He urged housewives to patronize merchants who take the trouble to keep their places clean. He regards the telephone as a curse because so much marketing is done at long distance that housekeepers know little of the stores from which their food comes. "Instead of spending three hours at the bridge table spend one at the market," he advised.

Good food, clean food and good cooking were requirements he gave for good health, and good cooking as a remedy of the drink evil. "You can no more drive a husband from a good table than you can a cat," he said, adding, "what we want in this country is fewer pianos and more stoves."

Dr. Wiley gave a few statistics to show what an important factor eating is in our lives. A person 60 years old who has eaten and "Fletched" as he should has spent three hours a day at the table or seven and a half years. Eight hours a day are spent in getting food and preparing it, in a life of 60 years this amounts to twenty years. Sleeping is a part of eating because the repairs upon the body are made then. If eight hours of each twenty-four are spent in sleep they will amount to twenty years in the life of one lives to be 60. During a life of 60 years a person spends forty-seven and a half years in getting and preparing food, eating and sleeping and "Everybody's doing it," Dr. Wiley said.

He made a special plea that clean food and proper food be given babies. Of the 1,000 infants born in a day 127 will be dead before the end of a year and three-fours of these deaths may be traced directly or indirectly to improper food. The death rate is particularly high during July and August. During these months nearly 1,000 infants less than a year old die each day.

Dr. Wiley pointed out the contrast between the little attention given to diets of persons and the great attention given to the diets of domesticated animals. Agricultural colleges teach just how much food and just what kind should be given to each animal on the farm, but little is said regarding the food of human beings.

Dr. Wiley commended the members of the Housewives' league who are trying to get cleaner and purer food. "Go to the source of things," he said, "as George Ade said, 'If you want to uplift, get underneath.'"

Dr. Wiley, who left for Madison, Wis., after having been the guest of W. C. Sherwood during the day, was introduced by Mrs. C. E. Spring, president of the Housewives' league of Duluth. He was entertained at the Kitchi Gammi club for luncheon, and he visited the Commercial club in the afternoon.

THE LANPHER HAT

PREDICTS DRY YEAR IN DAKOTA.

George E. Robson of the grain firm of Turle & Co., has just returned from a trip through the Red River valley and North Dakota, and does not bring very encouraging news.

"It may be early for crop predictions," said Mr. Robson this morning, "but people out in that country are already apprehensive and I fear that they have a good right to be. Every indication is for a dry year. The frost does not seem to have gotten into the ground to any significant depth, there is but little snow, and last fall there was little rain. The ground is like powder and on digging a hole in the ground, which is easy enough, one will find that the subsoil is unusually dry.

"Farmers out that way and business men in the cities all fear another dry year for 1914; and I believe that high priced grain is bound to come."

WILL TRY GORKI FOR BLASPHEMY.

St. Petersburg, Russia, March 23.—Court proceedings are to be brought immediately against Maxium Gorki, the Russian novelist on the charge of blasphemy, according to an order issued by the public prosecutor of the district court of St. Petersburg, Gorky, who is suffering from tuberculosis, declared by his friends to have been contracted during his incarceration in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul, recently returned to Russia from the island of Capri after an exile lasting eight years.

The charge of blasphemy was preferred against Gorky in 1908 in connection with his novel entitled "Mother," in which he is alleged to have insulted the national faith. If found guilty, the novelist's sentence, according to the Russian law, would be exile to Siberia, which in his present state of health, his friends believe, would be equivalent to a sentence of death.

Pitt Statue at Washington.

London, March 23.—Lady Paget, wife of Sir Arthur Paget, who formerly was Miss Stevens of New York, and other American ladies resident in England, have communicated Francis Durwent Wood, the sculptor, to make a statue of William Pitt for the capitol at Washington to commemorate the peace centenary.

Peace Treaty Concluded.

Washington, March 23.—Secretary Bryan and Senor Riano, the Spanish ambassador, have signed the final ratification of the general arbitration treaty between the two countries agreed to recently by the senate. The exchange merely was the formal acknowledgement of acceptance by Spain and the United States.

HE DEPLORES RADIUM LOSS

Director Holmes Says U. S. Let Europe Get the Advantage.

Declares America Was Too Slow to Appreciate Its Power.

Washington, March 23.—How the American people failed to recognize the importance of radium as a cure for cancer until the European countries had secured possession of all the present available radium, is graphically told in the annual report of Director Joseph A. Holmes of the Federal bureau of mines, just made public.

This report tells in detail of the bureau's unsuccessful efforts to obtain a quantity of radium sufficient to supply the twenty or more hospitals of the public service and "serve in part to meet the needs of the various cancer hospitals of the country."

It is estimated by Director Holmes that "in the United States 75,000 persons die each year from cancer." Explaining that radium is considered the most promising cure for certain types of cancer, the director says the most serious barrier to progress is demonstrating this is the scarcity of radium.

The report attracted unusual interest, as congress is preparing to enact legislation to develop and conserve the country's radium resources.

Supply Very Limited.

"There is probably not more than 30 grams of radium now available for use in such treatment in all countries," the report says:

"Of this amount there is probably not more than two grams of radium bromide in the United States in the hands of a few surgeons.

"Probably 15 grams of radium bromide was produced during 1912, and of this 15 grams nearly 11.5 grams were extracted in various European countries from ore shipped to them from the United States—mainly from Colorado and Utah.

"During 1913 there was a total production of 2,140 tons of radium-bearing ores in the United States, of which 45 per cent of the ore and a little more than 50 per cent of the radium contents were shipped abroad. The exports of radium promise to be much larger in 1914.

Americans Cannot Get It.

"Meanwhile the American hospitals are vainly endeavoring to purchase and bring back to the United States for their own use some small part of this radium, even at such prices as $120,000 to $160,000 per gram, or $500,000 to $800,000 for the five grams of radium that a large hospital should have or have access to for special cases."

STEAMER DRAGGED DOWN BY BARGE

Evansville, Ind., March 23. — Capt. Arch Hollerbach, 69 years old, government contractor of this city, was drowned early today when the steamboat Old Reliable sank in the Ohio river a few miles below Golconda, Ill. Nine members of the crew escaped by jumping into the river and swimming ashore. A barge of rock towed by the boat sprang a leak, and before the crew could cut the tow ropes it sank, dragging the steamer down in thirty feet of water.

When members of the crew jumped into the river, Capt. Hollerbach ran back to his cabin for a pair of shoes and the boat went down before he regained the deck.

Naples, March 23.—The police believe that Prof. Giuseppe Mercalli, director of the Vesuvian observatory, who was burned to death on March 10, was murdered. It is believed thieves broke into his residence, took the money, strangled the professor, saturated the body with petroleum and then set fire to it to conceal the crime.

BIGGEST AMERICAN WARSHIP LAUNCHED

Philadelphia, March 23.—The superdreadnought Oklahoma, one of the largest and most powerful American battleships afloat, was launched today without a hitch from the yard of the New York Shipbuilding company at Camden, N. J., in the presence of a large number of invited guests.

The giant sea fighter was christened with champagne by Miss Lorena Jane Cruce, daughter of the governor of Oklahoma. In the christening party were the secretary of the navy and Mrs. Daniels, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, members of the congressional naval committees, United States Senators Owen and Gore of Oklahoma, congressmen and state officials from Oklahoma, naval officers, and invited guests from a number of Eastern cities.

EMPLOYES WILL NOT TIE UP CANAL WORK

Men's Organization Is Reported to Washington Offices.

Washington, March 23.—Organization of the mechanical forces on the Panama canal zone to resist reduction in the present rates of pay have been brought to the attention of officials here. It was said at the canal commission offices, however, that there was no danger of interference with the completion of the canal, because a provision in the urgent deficiency appropriation bill continues the present rates of pay until the waterway is finished. While the canal may be open to commercial traffic under certain limitations within three months, a great deal of work will remain to be done before the canal can be said to be actually finished.

The new Panama canal act provides that employes in the zone may be paid not to exceed 25 per cent more than the wages current in the United States. It is estimated the present scale is from 40 to 50 per cent higher than in this country.

Dorr's crime was the murder, on April 11, 1912, of George E. Marsh, a millionaire retired soap manufacturer of Lynn. Marsh was trustee of a fund of $100,000 for Miss Orpha Marsh of Stockton, an aunt of Dorr, who lived at her home. It was the contention of the government that the motive for killing Marsh lay in Dorr's knowledge that this fund would go to his aunt on the death of its custodian, and that eventually it would revert to him.

HOUSEHOLD ELECTRICITY.

New York Sun: This new household servant will sweep the floors, clean the rugs and furniture, dust the walls and ceilings, the mattresses and bedding, etc., using a vacuum cleaner. It will suck up all the dust and dirt and bag it up so that it can be carried out of the house.

In the kitchen the small motor will do all the rough work, such as washing the dishes, peeling the potatoes, polishing the silver, sharpening the knives, chipping and grinding the food, freezing the ice cream and grinding the coffee. It will also pump the water, sift the ashes, polish the hardwood floor, drive the sewing machine while tired feet rest, can run the washing machine and wringer and dry the clothes. It is one of the handiest little things ever invented, and requires so little care that anybody can get along with it.

A motor of half a horse power will do all the work of the ordinary household, and the wages paid to a servant for a few weeks will buy one. For people who are not of a mechanical turn of mind all the newest household machines are made to be driven by a tiny electric motor attached directly to the device itself, and connected directly to the nearest lamp socket. It is so light that anybody can easily carry it from place to place in one hand and so adaptable that anybody can attach it to any machine.

One of the prettiest ornaments made possible by electricity is the portable fountain. It can be placed anywhere not too far from a lamp socket and requires no connection with a water supply. When once it has been filled with water and the plug inserted in the lamp socket it will continue to play as long as the current is turned on. Good use can be made of one in the conservatory. It costs little to operate.

A BUSINESSLIKE SUITOR.

CAMELS HAVE BIG NIGHT

Duluth Temple Visited By Twin City Members of the Order.

Governor Eberhart Among Distinguished Guests—Baby Temple's Record.

Duluth Temple No. 186, Camels of the World, had distinguished guests on Saturday evening, and its display of membership made a deep impression on the minds of those who saw the big parade down Superior street to K. P. hall, where the ceremonies took place.

W. R. Hampden, national organizer, who began his work here only a few months ago, has quietly brought the membership of this baby temple up to almost 1,000, and will have it there by April 17 next, at which time the charter closes. So the affair of Saturday night was something of a surprise.

The guests consisted of about 100 members from the Minneapolis and St. Paul temples, among them being Governor Eberhart. A huge delegation from Duluth temple met the 7:29 train, to which was attached several special cars for the Camels, and all of them paraded up street, headed by a band. In the evening K. P. hall was filled to overflowing, so great was the crowd, and fifty novitiates were trotted across the hot sands and impressed with the fact that they should speedily learn to go eight days without a drink, the most widely advertised characteristic of a camel. Following the initiations came speeches by Governor Eberhart, William N. Brown, ruler of the Minneapolis temple; Henry H. Adams, past ruler of Minneapolis temple and past grand master of Masons of the state; C. H. Morris, international organizer of the Camels; W. R. Hampden, national organizer, and others.

The governor spoke of the principles of the order of Camels and Henry H. Adams spoke on "Fraternalism." Both speeches were good and received much applause.

The growth of Duluth temple has been remarkable. It was instituted on Aug. 15 of last year with 78 members and now is rapidly approaching the 1,000 mark. Its officers are:

Incidentally the president denied that Charles O'Shaughnessy would resign, unless it was on account of ill health, and he hoped that would not be necessary.

Interest in official circles was focused almost entirely on the battle at Torreon. Administration officials do not expect that peace parleys or negotiations will crystallize until after the battle.

Although full reports of the conference between John Lind and Senor Rojas have been received here, the disposition of the American government is to make no changes in its policy towards Mexico or express itself on any of the new proposals reported to have been made until after the battle of Torreon is fought.

More Friendly Feeling.

Officials declined to say what new proposals had been made by the Mexican cabinet officer. Reports that a more friendly feeling prevails between the Washington government and those officials of the Huerta administration who are seeking a peaceful settlement of the difficulty are borne out by dispatches received here by Charge Algara of the Mexican embassy.

Brig. Gen. Bliss, commanding the border forces, reported today that in expectation of a battle below Guerrero, Mex., opposite Zapata, Tex., a detachment of Troop L, Fourteenth cavalry, had been dispatched from Fort McIntosh to Zapata. Rear Admiral Fletcher reported conditions in Vera Cruz and Tampico unchanged.

Secretary Bryan said he had no information of the nature of the conferences in which Mr. O'Shaughnessy had participated in Vera Cruz.

Escaped and Crossed Line.

Del Rio, Tex., March 23.—Twenty-seven Constitutionalist soldiers of the garrison of Las Vacas, Mex., opposite Del Rio, Tex., escaped when attacked by Federal troops yesterday and surrendered to the American border-patrol here. This was the garrison reported annihilated in yesterday's Eagle Pass dispatches.

No Battle as Yet.

El Paso, Tex., March 23.—Published reports that the rebels began an attack on the Gomez palacio and Lerdo, important suburbs of Torreon, yesterday, were without official confirmation today either here or in Juarez. The last word received at 1 a. m. today, when the Juarez telegraph office closed, was that there had been no fighting.

Defenses Are Modern.

Bermejillo, Mex., March 23.—Officers from the extreme front returned today after viewing some of the Federal fortifications through powerful field glasses. They reported that the defenses were elaborate and laid out according to the latest approved methods so that troops may move from trench to trench without exposing themselves. Fresh earth, the appearance of which seemed to be artificial, was understood to mark the lurking places of the enemy's big guns. Some of the barbed wire entanglements were visible through the rarified air.

Gen. John Seely, secretary for war, and Field Marshal Sir John French. This conference was followed by a full meeting of the cabinet.

Vague Statement in House.

The interest in the disaffection of the army resulting from the peculiar phase of the home rule situation was displayed in the house of commons this afternoon when the house was crowded to listen to a statement from Col. Seeley, secretary of state for war.

The communication made by Col. Seeley was very brief and utterly vague. The gist of it was that some officers had informed Gen. Sir Arthur Paget, commander in chief in Ireland, that they could not serve in certain eventualities. There was, he said, a misunderstanding, and these officers had been ordered to rejoin their regiment. The movement of troops, he concluded, was solely in order to protect the stores of government arms and ammunition.

Both Premier Asquith and Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, recognized the widespread anxiety for an exhaustive debate on the subject by agreeing to a motion for the adjournment of the house immediately after the secretary for war had spoken, in order to discuss the Irish situation.

Criticism By Opposition.

The leader of the opposition declared that the government's procedure was a most amazing instance of paltering with the house of commons. The danger of the British army being destroyed before the country's eyes had, he said, come on the government like a bolt from the blue. He had, he declared, received proof from other quarters, apart from the cavalry regiments, that resignations of officers had occurred.

Mr. Law then read a letter stating that officers who would not fight against the Ulster men would be dismissed from the service.

The action of the government in moving troops, Mr. Law declared, was foolish, as there was no new situation in Ulster nor any threatened outbreak.

Premier Asquith authorized the Times to make the following statement in his behalf, in order to remove the misapprehension in the public mind as to the government's intentions:

"First," he says, "the recent movements of troops in Ireland were of a purely precautionary character, as it is obvious that the policy of using small bodies of troops in Ulster would be perfectly useless from a strategic viewpoint. The intention was simply the protection of the arms and ammunition depots from a possible raid. As for the so-called naval movements, they simply consisted of the use of two small cruisers to convey a detachment of troops to Carrickfergus, without marching them through Belfast. No further movement of troops is contemplated.

No Arrests Contemplated.

"Second, the rumor that warrants had been issued for the arrest of the Ulster leaders never had the slightest foundation. Doubtless Sir Edward Carson and his supporters honestly believe the rumor, but the government has never taken and does not contemplate any such step.

"Third, there seems to be a widespread impression abroad that the government contemplates instituting a general inquisition into the intentions of officers in the event of their being asked to take up arms against Ulster. No such action is intended, if only for the reason that the employment of troops against Ulster is a contingency which the government hopes may never arise."

MIKADO PROROGUES THE JAPANESE DIET

Resignation of Cabinet Is Predicted Over Naval Budget.

Tokio, March 23.—The Japanese diet was prorogued today by the emperor, owing to the inability of the house of peers and the house of representatives to agree upon the appropriations for the navy. The lower house had reduced the naval estimates by a considerable sum, and the house of peers afterward further diminished them; but this was not agreed to by the members of the house of representatives, and a deadlock followed.

In political circles it is generally believed that the cabinet will resign.

While members were hotly debating, an imperial edict suspending the session for three days was read to the house. As parliament adjourns on March 25 in the usual course, this was equivalent to a prorogation.

The situation thus brought about is serious, as the budget has not been passed.

WOMEN IN PRISON IN PARIS MAY MUTINY

Resent Favors Shown Mme. Caillaux By the Authorities.

Paris, March 23.—A mutiny was threatened today among the 800 women incarcerated in the St. Lazare prison, all of whom object to the granting of so many privileges to Mme. Caillaux. The punishment cells of the jail are filled with refractory women, who continue to shriek protests against "discrimination."

Attorneys representing a number of the prisoners awaiting trial in the penitentiary made representations today to the ministry of justice, demanding that the cells should be heated and that better food should be supplied to their clients.

Before Magistrates Again.

The reappearance before the investigating magistrates of Mme. Caillaux, assassin of Gaston Calmette, aroused great interest in Paris today. She was taken from the St. Lazare prison to the police of justice in custody of a number of detectives. Strong guards were placed in the vicinity of the law courts to prevent demonstrations.

It is announced that M. Labori, Mme. Caillaux's counsel, will call the princess of Monaco, Mme. Thobald Chartran and the Princess Mesagne-Estradere to the witness stand in support of Mme. Caillaux's claim that she shot M. Calmette in order to prevent the publication of private letters. The Princess de Mesagne-Estradere was society editor of the Figaro, but on March 1 retired on the ground of ill health.

MEN ARE FIRED FOR UNAUTHORIZED STRIKE.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 23.—Supt. A. G. Michell of the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad today declared forfeited the jobs of freight trainmen who Saturday struck and tied up the freight business of the division. The men were ordered to turn in such free transportation as they might have, and to call at the office of the paymaster for the wages due them. The strike is not sanctioned by the railroad brotherhoods.

ESCAPE IS FRUSTRATED

Soft Heart of Duluth Prisoner Prevents Attack Upon Officer.

C. J. Fischer Had Planned to Escape on Way to St. Paul.

Because he is averse to seeing anyone hurt, James Sorenson, a prisoner at police headquarters, yesterday afternoon informed the police that Charles J. Fischer, 31 years old, who was arrested Saturday afternoon for the St. Paul authorities on a charge of grand larceny, was planning to make an escape by attacking the St. Paul officer while on the way to the Saintly City. An investigation proved the information correct and Fischer's plans were frustrated before any attempt was made.

Fischer, using lavatory fixtures, had prepared a weapon from a flush in the large cell room. This casting, about 14 inches long, Fischer had hidden in his trouser leg and it was the plan of the prisoner to attack the officer while being taken to St. Paul.

When Sergeant Roberg and Detective George P. Dawson of St. Paul, who arrived yesterday afternoon to get his prisoner, stepped into the cell room, Sorenson stepped up to them and disclosed Fischer's plan. Sorenson told the officers he was afraid someone would get hurt and he was therefore volunteering this information. The officers immediately searched Fischer and the casting was found hidden in his trouser leg.

Fischer had planned to first make his escape from the local jail, but was prevailed upon by Sorenson to abandon his plans. It was then that Fischer decided to attack Detective Dawson while on the way to St. Paul and thus make his getaway.

Detective Dawson left with his prisoner yesterday afternoon, and the latter will be arraigned in St. Paul this morning on a charge of grand larceny. Fischer was arrested Saturday afternoon by Patrolman Boland and a few minutes later twenty-five revolvers, alleged to have been stolen from a St. Paul store on March 12, were found in Fischer's suit case. The arrest was made while Fischer was attempting to sell a revolver in a West Superior street second-hand store and the suit case was found in Fischer's room at a local hotel.

CLOSE VOTE LIKELY ON THE TOLLS BILL

President Has Sunday Conference on the Panama Question.

Washington, March 23.—Believing that the foreign policy of the administration depends on the vote of the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption, President Wilson and his advisers were in consultation yesterday, canvassing the situation.

It is unusual for the president to be at his office on Sunday, but he spent most of the afternoon there with Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Tumulty. They talked with administration leaders in congress, and learned that while there was little reason to doubt the ultimate triumph of the repeal, a very stubborn opposition had arisen, particularly in the house, and those in charge of the administration fight there would have to work hard to overcome it.

One of the peculiar phases of the situation is that Speaker Clark, Majority Leader Underwood, Representative Kitchin, Representative Fitzgerald and others usually aligned with the administration in its policies, are opposing it now. With this opposition are many Republicans and Progressives, and the probability of a close vote is daily increasing.

ANOTHER SUITCASE THIEF ARRESTED.

Another suitcase robber was arrested at the union station Saturday evening, when Louis Curtis, 24 years old, was taken into custody by Patrolman O. Olson. Earlier in the week a man was arrested while in the act of walking out of the station with a suitcase and he was given sixty days on the work farm.

About 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening Patrolman Olson saw Curtis in the act of walking out of the station with a suitcase.

Curtis pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was fined $40 and costs or thirty days on the work farm.

MOTHER! THE CHILD IS COSTIVE, BILIOUS

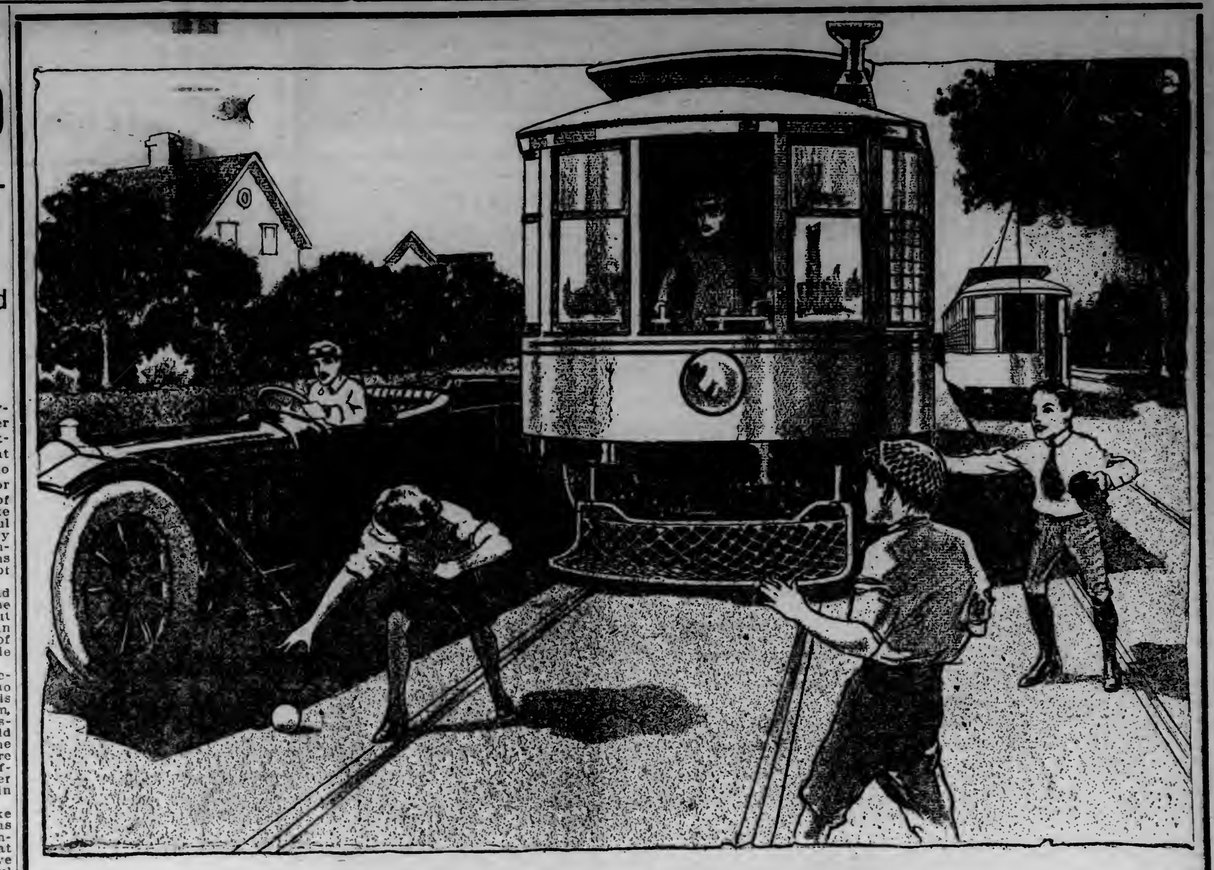
If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!



THE STREET IS A DANGEROUS PLAY GROUND

The street is never a safe playground, but if boys must play in the street they should be warned by their parents and teachers not to choose a busy highway. The child is naturally thoughtless. Moments of carelessness cause the bad accidents. It is the duty of parents and teachers to train children to think of SAFETY FIRST. Their whole future happiness is at stake, and may be sacrificed to one moment when they "didn't think."—

The Trinity congregation was organized in November, 1912, and now has a membership of about 130 communicants. A class of fifty more have made application to join on the first Sunday following Easter.

The programs for the dedication and cornerstone laying are being prepared under the direction of Rev. F. O. Hanson, pastor of the church. In addition to the program for Palm Sunday, the young people are planning special festivities for Easter Sunday.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get soared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. Agent, Wirth's Red Cross Drug store, 13 West Superior street.

Scott and Larson had separated last Thursday and each one went his own way. When they met again Saturday evening, they were in the hands of the law.

After an investigation the police allowed Scott to go, as the evidence against him was not considered sufficient. Larson drew a suspended sentence in police court this morning.

Finley, N. D. Fire.

Finley, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire in a hard coal stove in the city hall set the building on fire and also destroyed the village fire apparatus. There was a twenty-four-man hand pump engine, a chemical engine, several hundred feet of hose and other articles. The office of the Finley Beacon caught on fire. All the equipment except the cylinder press was moved out but the building was saved. There was no insurance on any of the burned property.

Goiters, Tumors, Large Swellings, Ulcers, Rheumatism, Neuralgia From Concretions in the Blood, Curable By Electro Medical Methods

Many people suffer from ailments caused by weak, impoverished nerves. This nervousness is caused by poisons in the blood, which, if left in the system, will bring on the most dangerous diseases, such as tumors, goiters, inflammation of vital organs, such as heart, stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and bladder. Appendicitis is a frequent result. Pain in the groins points to uterine or cyarian inflammation. Backache means rheumatism or kidney disease. Headaches and dizzy spells with weakness and sallowness of the face, with burning in the eyes, points to stomach, liver and female troubles. Many have these symptoms and have doctored for years without results. With our Electro-Medical Methods on hand we ask those who have given up all hope of ever getting well to investigate our system free of charge. We will never fail to convince you of the great superiority of our treatments to strong drugs. Our patients are mainly those who come through those we have cured. We have proven that we are here to stay and make absolutely good.

PRINCIPLE ADOPTED ON CARLOAD RATES

Commerce Commission Announces Rule Applying to All Freight.

Washington, March 23.—The interstate commerce commission today announced this principle, which applies to all freight traffic:

"A carload minimum weight, which is reasonably adapted to the needs of the carriers and the great majority of shippers, will not be increased because one shipper, by the expenditure of exceptional effort and expense, finds himself able to load more heavily than can his competitors; neither will this commission under such circumstances prescribe a lower rate than 100 pounds conditional upon the use of a higher minimum weight as the measure of the carload."

QUICK RESULTS ASTONISH DULUTH

There is astonishment in Duluth at the QUICK results received from simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This simple mixture drains such great amounts of foul matter from the body that A SINGLE DOSE relieves constipation, sour stomach and gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY. The speedy action of Adler-i-ka is surprising. W. A. Abbett, druggist, 205 West Superior St.

FREDDY WELSH is one of the smartest fighters in the world—if not the smartest. His bright orb is intent upon the dollar. Being wise Freddy realizes and utilizes the value of publicity. Also he is some press agent.

After the defeat of Rivers recently and also decisively, while we are upon the subject, Welsh cabled to the king, told of his victory and of the happiness of the English subjects in the United States.

King George promptly cabled back and the incident will be worth columns of space in the leading newspapers of the country and also thousands of dollars. This Freddy one is a heady one—shove him the polished mitt.

The Horrid Spendthrifts.

THE Federal league to date has spent $2,500,000. This statement is wired forth from the headquarters of the league—and the league officials wouldn't lie over the painful subject of money—would they? They would.

But whether the figures are correct—speaking of money now—the fact remains that thousands and other thousands have flowed into the hands of people connected with baseball. It will cost the latest league officials lots of nice money to open the doors—wonder what it will cost after the doors are opened. Rush for the clairvoyants.

The Insistent Rah Rahs.

JAMES A. TEN EYCK, father of our James, was made a fabulous offer to coach the Yale crew. But he would have to take orders from an advisory coach who was thrown out of the Naval academy because of his lack of knowledge of the game. The question of money was all hunkey dory—but Ten Eyck Pere bucked over the matter of taking advice from one of the rusty rah rahs.

Likewise Wray at Harvard, according to his contract, must coach any crew that the captain selects for him. Thus if the college stude should become huffy and turn the freshmen crew over to Wray, he would have to coach it and get along the best he knew how.

Thus do we see that life is funny and filled with intellectual bumps.

He's Some Player, Anyway.

WHATEVER this court tennis game is, the Jay Gould lad is some player. We understand that in our fair city is at least one man who has in the past played the court game. Please mail in diagrams. We are baffled.

Looking at some of the records it will be ascertained that one Cox of England held the championship of the court game away back in 1810. Cox must have been the molasses, for he clung to that old title til 1824—going some.

George F. Covey was the world's champion and then along comes our Jay Gould and wins it. This is another case of our taking one more of the perilously few remaining titles from dear old England.

"Punch" Fairs was the world's champion back in 1905 and he was considered the greatest exponent of the game. But some of the more critical of the critics claim that Jay Gould could have beaten "Punch" the most exuberant day he ever lived. Oh isn't this just splendid!

Wait Until the Fall.

UNDER a Chicago headline we notice that Coach Stagg is optimistic. It must be over football. Stagg is optimistic over football in the spring and pessimistic in the fall. As the author of bear stories the Alonzo is the daddy of them all. If all his bear stories had been saved and were to be published, they would for pure volume and copiousness make the editorial efforts of Doc Elliott look puerile and puny.

They Are Forming in Line.

CUB LaJOIE, one of the most energetic and best known of the local fans, has thus early nominated his choices for the approaching season.

The Philadelphia Americans, the New York Giants and the Chicago Federals are dearly beloved for first places by the Cub.

In the way of a postscript the Cub explains that he takes the Giants for the simple reason that they have no teams against them. Two chairs, it might be added, separate the Cub and Garry. It is well.

* * *

This Is Very Misleading.

A LARGE headline says—"Running Races in Mexico." Having read much concerning the Mexican character and also knowing there is war in the midst of the country, one might well wonder whether the running races applied to contests between horses ridden by jockeys or soldiers ridden by fear.

Some one might be mean enough to believe that the running race was between the armies of the opposing factions.

That's the Question.

AFTER the opening of the baseball season the Federals will have to hustle around to maintain the grand average of the double headline.

FRANK BRYANT HURT IN THE DETROIT RACES.

In a letter received from Frank Bryant today the little Duluth roller skater states that he was thrown into the railing during one of the races at the world's champion professional meet at Detroit, and is out of the big contest.

According to the related details of the accident, Bryant was leading the bunch in the tenth lap when Frank Bacon caught Bryant's skate from behind and the Duluthian was plunged head foremost into the railing.

"I was going fine at the time of the accident," writes Bryant, "and I believe that I had an excellent chance of winning the contest. This may put me out of the finals. If I am able to get around you can say that I will be 1-2-3 in the big events."

FINAL GAME OF SEASON

Curling Club Hockey Team to Meet City Leaguers.

The hockey contest of this evening at the Duluth Curling club between the curling club team and the Northerns, Lakes and Big Duluths will wind up the season.

Each of the three crack Duluth Amateur league teams will play a period of twenty minutes against the big team. The total score of the three league teams is to stand against the score of the curling club aggregation.

With the members of the three league teams in the very best of condition, the game should be one of the best that has been seen here during the season.

This contest will provide the opportunity of showing the appreciation of the fans for the work of the members of the curling club team during the season that comes to an end this evening.

The proceeds of the contest will go to Andy Grenner, a league player who was hurt during the season, and also to purchase some suitable and appropriate gift for each member of the curling club squad.

On its merits the contest promises to be a corker—and there is the additional incentive of making it the opportunity of showing just what the fans think of the individual members of the team that has this year given Duluth the best hockey in the history of the game.

It is quite needless to state that the Big Duluths, Northerns and Lakes are in grand condition. These teams have just completed the league season and have shown the best hockey ever played by any amateur teams produced in Duluth.

The curling club team members are also in the best of shape, having been on the ice every day since the triumph over the Vics of Winnipeg, and therefore the season will doubtless be brought to a triumphant close with some real hockey.

Incidentally this contest will give the fans the opportunity of learning just how the teams of the Duluth Amateur Hockey league and the curling club compare.

THREE TEAMS CLASH.

Doubles in Bowling the Sunday Events at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 23.—Three teams classed among the leaders in the two-man event of the American bowling congress tournament here yesterday. Two changes took place in the individual high standing.

L. Schenkel and E. H. Smith of Pittsburg, took second place in the doubles, with a score of 1,242. E. Guston and W. Miner of Chicago, landed in eighth place with a score of 1,201 while W. G. Cook and H. H. Prue of Philadelphia, bowled 1,196, taking tenth place.

J. C. Ameling of St. Louis rolled high among the individuals, taking third place in the standing with a score of 653. William C. Knox of Philadelphia, who bowled a 300 score in the American bowling congress tournament at Toledo last year shot 647 with scores of 231, 195 and 221, taking fifth place. His wonderful performance in the singles gives him third place in all events with a score of 1,845.

DULUTH BOY IS INJURED IN THE ROLLER SKATING MEET FOR PROFESSIONALS

FRANK BRYANT.

KETONEN TO MEET CURTIS

Little Finn Will Wrestle Halstad "Freak" at Grand Forks.

Waino Ketonen and the famous Loren Curtis are to meet at Grand Forks on March 26.

According to the statement of Otto Suter, manager of the freakish wrestler of the Platte, North Dakota people and other followers of Curtis believe that he is invincible and are willings to wager large junks of the coin of the realm that he will pin the shoulders of the little Finn to the canvas.

It is quite needless to state that close followers of the game around here who have seen Waino in action are also willing to take some chance on the Finn against any man in the world of the royal order of 158 pounds.

If Curtis is as good as the enthusiastic followers of the game in the northern part of the state and sections of North Dakota claim, the coming contest will be a classic and one worth riding miles in close and ill-smelling cars to witness.

Shrewd followers of the game of merry grapple state that Curtis is a wonder. Some of these handlers of econiums believe that the lean Loren one can beat many of the light heavyweights in the game. If this is so, then Waino is going to be opposed by one of the real classy boys of the game.

Is After Big Game.

Since Otto Suter assumed the management of Curtis—which was after Loren gave Suter one of the most artistic beatings of his career—the long and somber countenance of the Halstad, Minn., wrestling freak has been carefully pointed in quest of the world's middleweight championship.

Suter has wrestled both Ketonen and Curtis and leans slightly to the following of Curtis. Suter is a veteran of the game—also one of the greatest welterweights that wrestling can boast of—and his judgment, if weighed without prejudice, should be sound.

Curtis is a freak in general architectural construction. You hand yourself a good laugh when you gaze at him. His legs and arms are attenuated, even exiguous; and yet they do say that he is one of the greatest leg wrestlers in the world and that his leg scissors around the body has crushed the "pep" and ambition out of many an aspiring grappler.

For some reason or other Curtis has never been able to get on with very many of the good ones. Loren met and defeated Sailor Jack and Joe Carr, according to his own statement, and the other night won the first fall from Al Francis of St. Paul, the chunky Apostle being hurt during the progress of the second bout.

Yokel is one of the men of the scintillating brigade of 158-pounders that Curtis would like to meet—but then he has the more pressing and immediate proposition of Ketonen—and it is some proposition.

WELSH LEAVES THE WEIGHT TO CROSS.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 23.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of Great Britain, and Leach Cross of New York are matched for a twenty-round boxing contest to be held here the night of April 28.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Referring to the account of Saturday evening's contest at the Curling club, as reported in Sunday's issue of the News Tribune, I have wondered just why the writer of the article was pleased to term the victory of the Lakes a "moral victory" for the Northerns. Somewhere lurking in his imagination is an idea which is not clear to me. These two teams fought a battle royal for two full halves, at the close of which the score stood 2 to 2. It was during the second overtime period that the Lakes scored the winning goal and won fairly the honor of holding the cup for which both teams worked so hard. The writer states that the goal was a "fluke." Well, what of it? So was one of the goals made by the Northerns, but he neglected to mention that fact. Unfortunately, for the losers in hockey, football and some other games, "flukes" count and many a hard-fought contest had been won or lost on a "fluke." I have known hockey players to score against their team by putting the rubber into their own net. This is a rule of the game. Now let us analyze the score.

It stood 2 to 2 in favor of the Lakes, each team making a "fluke" goal. We will, therefore, use our imagination, as did this writer, and throw out these much despised "flukes" and have two "fair" goals for the Lakes and one for the Northerns. It is not my purpose to enter into any lengthy argument, but I wish to call the attention of the News Tribune writer to the first two games between these two teams. The Lakes won the first by a decisive score, but the second contest was one of those heart-breaking scoreless games and won by the Northerns by a 1 to 0 score, made in the first few moments of play.

The goal could have been called "of the 'fluke' variety." Why not, then, Mr. Writer, declare the victory of the Northerns a "moral victory" for the Lakes and declare them the winners of the league series as well as winners of the cup? Let us be fair. I am frank to say that I am a Lake man and have a warm, personal interest in every players of the team. I have known them all of their lives and have found them to be a clean, manly lot of boys. I can say as much for the three or four Northern boys whom I know. Concluding, I wish to say in the interest of clean sport, that in "rooting" it is a vicious principle, to say nothing of bad taste on the part of spectators, to apply offensive epithets to players. You can sheer on your side without this. Hockey in Duluth is in its infancy, and is just beginning to be appreciated as a winter sport. It seems to me, therefore, that it should be kept free from everything which would tend to hurt or wound.

We have some promising young players and it is up to those older in years and experience to set a better example in sportsmanship in the future than has been shown in certain quarters in the past two seasons.

EUROPE TAKES FOUR AMERICAN TRAINERS.

New York, March 23.—The ranks of former famous American athletes now serving as Olympic trainers in Europe will be augmented Thursday with the sailing of Alfred Forbes Copeland to assume his position as head coach of the Austrian Olympic team for the Berlin games of 1916.

Copeland is the fourth trainer with a brilliant American athletic record to be signed to coach foreign track and field teams for the athletic contest two years hence. He follows the footsteps of Ernest H. Hjertberg, Sweden's coach; Alvin C. Kraenzlein, Germany's coach, and W. R. Knox, England's head trainer. In addition to these men, other famous American athletes of past decades, including James Lightbody and Joseph Horner, have either signed or are considering secondary or specialty coaching positions abroad. Copeland said today:

"So far as my work in Austria is concerned, I have only mapped it out in a general way. I shall be governed largely, of course, by the desires of the Olympic committee. While we shall work with the 1916 games in mind, the chief object is to develop a better, broader and more competitive spirit in Austrian athletics."

ASSOCIATION SCHEDULE OUT

Cleveland Replaces Toledo; Home Games When Naps Are Away.

Chicago, March 23.—The schedule of American association made public here today by President Chivington, contains a number of unusual features. The addition of Cleveland as the home town of one of the clubs in place of Toledo was responsible for some of them, particularly for the arrangement of dates which gives the new Forest City team fewer home games than any other team in the league. Because the series provided for Cleveland conflicted in sixteen dates with games of the American league there, these sixteen contests were transferred to other towns, and are so indicated on the schedule. The Cleveland association team will not play at home until May 14—a month after the opening of the season.

The schedule for the first time has not been drawn with the idea of avoiding conflicts with the Louisville races, and the league will compete for patronage with them. This new feature was also attributed to the addition of Cleveland.

It was said that the new schedule gives Columbus a decided advantage over its three Eastern neighbors, for the Cleveland team must play a large number of its games away and must create a new group of friends in a new home; the Indianapolis club will have some competition at home from the Federal league, and Louisville's dates conflict with the race dates.

The season opens April 14 and closes Sept. 27.

STILLWATER FIVE STATE CHAMPIONS.

Northfield, Minn., March 23.—Completely outguessing their opponents, the Stillwater high school basket ball team won the state championship Saturday night by defeating Winona high school 29 to 4. Teams from every section of the state participated in the tournament held here the past three days.

LAKE HARDWARE TEAM WINS FROM NORTHERNS

Championship Is Won By Score of 3 to 2 in Extra Time Period---Mike Taylor Shoots Deciding Goal After Both Teams Struggled for Eight Minutes of Extra Time.

The Lake Hardware Hockey team has the championship.

This title was won Saturday evening in a rousing game at the curling club, when the Northerns were defeated by the score of 3 to 2 in the decisive contest of the post season championship.

It is peculiar, and yet a fact eloquent of the even ability of the two teams, that were they to play again this evening the followers of the game would be extremely puzzled in nominating their choice.

No championship contest or series ever had more exciting surroundings than the series that was brought to a close on Saturday evening.

First the Lakes won and then the Northerns came back with even a more decisive victory. The third game went to extra time and was won by the Lakes by the margin of a single and somewhat fluky score—can you beat it, Bill!

The game of Saturday evening was one of the fastest ever played between city teams. At times the spectators stood on their feet and yelled with wild abandon. It was so close that it hurt; staunch followers of both teams held their breaths and simply hoped.

Lakes Start Scoring.

Shortly after the timers had registered the first three minutes of play, Curly Harris took the puck down the ice and near the opposing goal slipped it over to Woods, who slipped it in.

This was the signal for a burst of shouts, the blowing of horns and other means of making the welkin ring.

But the exuberant joy of the followers of the Lakes was short-lived. Just past the six-minute mark, Nelson received a clean and clever pass from McCormick, and shot a goal from a difficult angle.

That ended the scoring in the first half. The play was fast and fierce. The puck was rushed from Lake territory into Northern territory, but so tense and alert was the defense of both teams that every chance to score was foiled.

"Beanny" took the puck down near the side lines, dodged neatly and then slipped it over to pal Curly, who neatly negotiated the net.

Scores seemed to come together. Just one minute and a half after the Lake goal came the final Northern count of the evening.

McCormick, the ever working Turk, took the rubber down into the Lake territory and then passed to Parsons, who scored and set off the vocal pyrotechnics of the Northern following.

The half came to an end with the score knotted, two all. If the two periods of play were filled with some of the most desperate playing ever witnessed at the big club arena, the extra-time periods was one blaze of tempestuous effort.

For eight minutes—minutes that seemed hours—the members of the two teams that came out of the stretch of the season racing neck and neck, raced for the wire of coveted hockey honors, straining every nerve, every muscle, as you have seen thoroughbreds struggle to the wire.

The Deciding Score.

In a desperate effort the Lakes rushed the puck down the ice. There was a scrimmage in front of the Northern goal. It was difficult to follow the progress of the tangled players.

Mike Taylor took a healthy crack at the rubber and it struck Swanstrom's stick and then bounced by Richards and into the net.

The members of the Lake team skated over to the fence, and assembling, gave three mighty cheers for their vanquished rivals. It was a gracious act and one that was appreciated by even the defeated players—for it is exceedingly difficult to appreciate anything in the moment of blackest defeat.

FEDERALS MAKING THEIR SCHEDULE

Have to Dodge Dates of Four Other Leagues.

Baltimore, Md., March 23.—Federal league baseball magnates went into session here today to decide on a playing schedule for the coming season. With four other circuits, (National, American, International and American association) to dodge, they were confronted with a difficult problem.

It was recognized that conflicts in dates cannot be avoided in Chicago and St. Louis, where there are two opposing major league clubs. The fact that Baltimore is in the Eastern section of the International and Buffalo in the Western division, while both are in the Eastern section of the Federal league, also presented another difficulty.

President James A. Gilmore and Secretary Lloyd Rickert reached Baltimore early today with a preliminary draft of the playing dates. President Robert B. Ward of the Brooklyn club came yesterday and throughout the day was in conference with several of the Baltimore delegates relative to a schedule he had prepared.

Relative to the talked of transfer of Tom Seaton of Brooklyn to Chicago, for Pitcher Hendrix, both Gilmore and Ward said that the matter would be arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned.

TENNIS PROGRAM TUESDAY.

No Arrangements Yet for Davis Cup Series, Says Wrenn.

New York, March 23.—R. D. Wrenn, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, announces that the list of tennis tournament dates will not be ready for publication until tomorrow.

No report has been made by the Davis cup committee, he said. No place for deciding the international matches has been chosen and no choice will be made for a month or more, as the committee wishes to make certain that the condition of turf and accommodations for spectators would be perfect before making a final selection.

Ten clubs were elected to membership in the association, including the Allegheny County club, Pittsburg; Bellefield club, Philadelphia; Northwestern association, Minnesota; Trafford Tennis club, Pennsylvania, and Rangeley Tennis club, Pennsylvania.

Kossick Wants More.

Fargo, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A return match with Labe Safro is sought by Leo Kossick of Moorhead. They fought two fifteen-round draws and in their last meeting Safro won in the second round with a knockout. Kossick says he was careless in the first of the second round and left the opening Safro wanted. He fights best at 138 while Safro can't get much under 145, but he thinks he can win even with the seven-pound handicap and is endeavoring to arrange another match. He would like to meet Safro before one of the Wisconsin clubs.

Give Your Blood A GOOD Searching Bath

An astonishing record of serious blood poisoning is daily brought to our attention. And most if not all these conditions could be averted were the blood primed, toned and purified in advance by that wonderful remedy known everywhere as S. S. S. Few people realize how quickly the system becomes infected with the acids and ferments from undigested food, constipation and inactive kidneys.

The symptoms of fever, thirst, excitability, dry skin followed by rash, and many indications are often wrongly diagnosed as Ptomaine poisoning. Many people who act hastily from violent temper are simply suffering from the effects of poisoned blood, produced by faulty elimination. But by far the greatest peril is the daily danger from bruises, contusions, the scratch of a rusty nail, and vocational poisoning.

The medicinal properties of S. S. S. are relatively just as essential to well balanced health as are the nutritive properties of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food. And if you will bear this fact in mind and get your blood under the dominating influence of S. S. S. you will not only drive out those impurities that cause Rheumatism, Catarrh, Eczema, Pimples, Boils and thin anemic blood, but you will feel anew the thrill of health than can come only from a purified blood stream.

Do not accept anything else in place of S. S. S.; pay no attention to the "Just as Good" claims of those who would sacrifice your health to make an extra profit. S. S. S. contains no minerals, no crude drugs, nothing but the most beneficial materials. So be sure and get S. S. S. and avoid disappointment. THOMAS LIPTON DONATES BEAUTIFUL ROWING CUP

Duluth Crews Will Be Given Chance to Compete for Emblem.

BY BRUCE.

Sir Thomas Lipton has donated a rowing trophy to the Winnipeg Rowing club that is valued at $5,000. The beautiful emblem is 44 inches in height and over 500 ounces of silver has been used in the construction of the massive figure—and this cup is to be competed for by the various clubs of the Northwestern International Rowing association.

It is likely that the beautiful Lipton donation may be brought to Duluth as the titular property of the local club.

While all of the rules have not been formulated as yet governing the competition, C. S. Riley, president of the Winnipeg Rowing club, has suggested that points be scored for first, second and third, and that the junior single event represent the minimum score and that the senior eight event represent the high number of points that can be counted for the winning of any one event of the regatta.

Would Look Nice Here.

Along with some of the other cups that are permanent property of the Duluth Boat club and others that are in the keeping of the club, the Lipton cup would look extremely well. It would make a great showing in one of the Superior street windows—during pageant week, for instance.

Under the rules of competition suggested by Con Riley, it looks as if the local club has an excellent opportunity of winning the trophy. We will have one grand senior eight, one corking senior four and also the prospects are very bright for the development of a fast junior four, as all of the bantams are back with the exception of Williams.

While Winnipeg may have it on us in the sculling events, no follower of the Duluth Boat club is willing to admit that any club in the country has better sweep men than the local organization has turned out during the last two years, and the wonderful record of the club bears out this flattering opinion of the prowess of the club.

When Sir Thomas Lipton visited Winnipeg he was told of the fine record of its crews. After the return of the world renowned sportsman to London the order for the beautiful emblem of athletic supremacy, perhaps one of the most gorgeous in the world, was given to Elkington & Co., a very prominent jewelry firm of London—and this is the trophy that the crews of this city will attempt to win.

Real Work Starts Today.

Speaking of the aspirations of the Duluth crew candidates, it might be stated that the real hard work of the season starts today. Every man in the squad is expected to be on the job every day. The long grind has begun and it will be continued until after the National at Philadelphia.

Road work and work on the machines will comprise the conditioning of the squad members until the various crews take to the water. It looks like an early start on the bay this year, and this will be just to the liking of Ten Eyck, who has a multitude of green men to instruct in the various details of the art of rowing.

CENTERBOARD DISPUTE REVIVED BY CHALLENGE

New York, March 23.—The announcement that Sir Thomas Lipton's cup challenger Shamrock IV will be equipped with a centerboard has renewed the old controversy as to whether this feature of the modern yacht was an American or European invention. An English yachting authority in an article on the subject summarizes as follows:

"The centerboard was invented or rather adopted from some form of leeboard by Capt. Schank of the British navy, some time prior to 1771. Perhaps it is because Capt. Schank built a centerboard boat at Boston, Mass., in 1771 for Earl Percy, afterwards duke of Northumberland, that the centerboard has come to be regarded as an American invention. The illustration of this boat is the oldest authentic record of the sliding keel. The sliding or lifting keel, or centerboard, which Capt. Schank fitted to Earl Percy's boat, was a long rectangular board, which extended for about three-quarters of the length of the keel of the boat. In 1780 Capt. Schank induced the admiralty to build a centerboard boat, or rather a small centerboard vessel, for she was a cutter sixty feet long, of twenty feet beam, and six feet six inches draught of water. This craft was called the Trial. Instead of having one long board like the first boat built at Boston, she had three centerboards, one amidships and one at each end.

"The centerboard which many years afterwards became popular in America and which, it is true, has been much more closely associated with American than British, was not shaped like Schank's invention, but was triangular below the water—that is to say, instead of dropping equally fore and aft, the board was pivoted at the fore end through the keel and the after end only was dropped, so that when the board was down it formed a triangle below water. This, then, is the so-called American centerboard. It was not, however, invented by an American, but like the first centerboard was the invention of a British naval officer. Capt. Schuldham, R. N., invented this centerboard in 1809, whilst he was a prisoner of war at Verdun, a fortress on the northeast frontier of France on the river Meuse. Capt. Schuldham made a model of his centerboard while in prison and fitted it to a model boat, which he also constructed, and the plate was made of lead, which, of course, for the period, was really extraordinary. It scarcely differs from the centerboards of the present day. The Shamrock centerboard, therefore, can hardly be claimed to owe its origin to trans-Atlantic naval architecture.

Attract Attention Later.

"After Shuldham's invention in 1809, not much was done in the construction of centerboard boats for thirty or forty years, but between 1840 and 1850, the Americans began building fast centerboard sloops, capsizable boats with very shallow draught and when in 1851 the great victory of the schooner America at Cowes—she was not a centerboard yacht, but a model of a New York pilotboat—attracted the attention of English yachtsmen to the speed of the Yankee designs—the centerboard, which by that time had become popular in America, was talked about in England.

"The subsequent history of centerboard craft is fairly well known. As a type, the centerboard in the United States has always been more favored than in British waters."

Boston, Mass., March 23.—Reports from the New England shipyards that are building the three aspirants for the defense of America's cup against the fourth Lipton invasion next fall, show the Bristol yacht to be 75 per cent, the Bath yacht 50 per cent and the Neponset yacht 33 per cent completed.

The launching of the Bristol boat under construction for six present and former flag officers of the New York Yacht club has been fixed for the week of April 12 and will probably be on April 16. This yacht is said to be fully planked and decked in, so that it could go overboard at any time. The planking is of metal. The deck is aluminum covered with canvas and cork.

The Defiance, which a syndicate of Boston and Philadelphia men are building at Bath, is expected to go overboard during the week of May 10, with May 12 as a tentative date.

The yacht building at Neponset for A. S. Cochran of New York, probably will go into commission about a week before the first race, which is fixed for June 2, off Glencove.

MICHIGAN AGGIES WIN RIFLE CONTEST

Establish New Record in National Intercollegiate Shoot.

Washington, March 23.—The Michigan agricultural college has won the national indoor rifle shooting championship, having won every match of the series just closed and established a new intercollegiate record of 994 out of a possible 1,000 points.

Second place was taken by the Massachusetts aggies, who suffered only one defeat, and the Iowa state university finished third.

In Class B, the Washington State college carried off the honors with eleven straight victories. Cornell university and the United States naval academy tied for second place.

In Class C the honors went to the University of Illinois, who shot through the series without a defeat.

CHAMPION SENIOR FOUR TO ROW AT THE CIRCUS.

The Duluth senior four—the crack National winning junior four of last year—will give an exhibition on the machines at the Y. M. C. A. circus tonight and tomorrow night. The rowing machines will be set up in the middle of the gymnasium floor and this will give the spectators an opportunity of seeing how a four—the greatest in the United States—trains.

GREATER ELABORATION.

Program of International Horse Show Promises Much.

New York, March 23.—The tentative program for the international horse show at London, beginning on June 4, indicates that the coming exhibition will be upon more elaborate lines than in the past. Close to $70,000 will be offered in prize money, cups and plate. The trophies include the King George V, and King Edward VII cups, two of the most valued horse show prizes in the list.

Both France and Russia have two legs each on the King Edward cup and rivalry for this prize is extremely keen since a third victory by either country will give permanent possession of the trophy. Entries are assured from all parts of the world. The United States and Canada will be represented as well as Australia, Argentina and continental Europe. The coaching Marathon which has been won several times by American entrants, will again be a feature of the exhibition.

Real Spenders, These.

Chicago, March 23.—The Federal league has spent so far in its campaign the sum of $2,500,000, according to figures given out today by President Gilmore. The expenditures include rental of ground for playing fields, money spent for stands and building, and advance salaries given ball players.

TRAINING THE TRICK MULE

Word has been received by telegram at the Jingling Brothers' Circus headquarters that the one and only original world famous mule trick is being shipped today.

This message came at 10:35 this morning, and those in charge state that the management has arranged for Maud and her trainer to appear at the Jingling Brothers' two-ring circus to be given tonight and Tuesday at the Y. M. C. A.

Everything that a trained mule can do, and thousands of things that a trained mule cannot do and would never think of doing, Maud of the Y. M. C. A. mammoth organization of sawdust circles and sideshow barkers is expected to do, and the course of training to which she is subjected is by no means so simple as it sounds or seems.

The other day Maud was going through her paces before her trainer. She entered the arena with a notable wrinkle in her back as though she had been carrying too heavy a load.

"This will never do at all," said the critic. "Back up the hindquarters there almost a foot and hold the head up there. Maud isn't hitched to a hearse, not yet. Keep step there."

"A mule doesn't keep step," said the man in charge of Maud's head.

"How's that," said the hindquarters. "I mean the off foot forward and the rear foot back should meet in the center and vice versa," went on the critic patiently. This caused the hind quarters to caper, but the forward legs moped. "I'm afraid I didn't quite follow you," said Maud through her mane and neck. "If I've got to keep these ears, eyes and mouth in commission and give Maud a truly humorous appearance I can't be expected to pay too much attention to whether my off foot is going or coming. Now the fellow back of me ought to signal when he wags the tail so I can wag an ear."

"Great spavins, we've got to get the fundamentals down first. It's of primary importance I tell you that Maud keeps together during the show and doesn't disintegrate in the middle of her act. You fellows will have to forget your natural instincts and not make the performance too natural. If a mule balks she balks all over and don't go to pieces like that. You'll wreck everything."

Then a face emerged from under Maud's near hip, mopped the perspiration from the brow and opened itself thusly:

"Say, you leather-headed idiot (just like that in the Y. M. gym) I can see plainly that I'm miscast in this part. You get in here and wag this tail awhile instead of that tongue. Anybody that's so intimately acquainted with the psychology and physiology of the genus mule is bound to make a big hit. Keep away from me or I'll kick the stuffing out of you."

LAST OF THE CONCERTS

Series of Entertainments at Masonic Temple Brought to Close.

Purpose Is to Pave Way for Duluth Symphony Orchestra.

The last of this season's free concerts was given at the Masonic Temple yesterday afternoon before a large audience.

The organ numbers included compositions by Mendelssohn, Brahms and Beethoven, concluding with Wagner's magnificent "Tannhauser" overture. Short talks were given, illustrative of the "Midsummer Night's Dream" music and the opera "Tannhauser," which added to the intelligent appreciation of the selections.

The vocalist was Miss Florence Hyland, soprano, who gave an artistic rendering of several ballads. Neidlinger's serenade, and Spross's dainty song, "Will o' the Wisp," were especially enjoyable. The success of the songs was enhanced by the capable and sympathetic accompaniments played by Miss Vera Bronson, who is among the most promising of Duluth's younger piano students.

The speaker of the day was Leonard Young, principal of the Central high school, who spoke in place of Supt. R. E. Denfeld, who was prevented by sickness from being present. Mr. Young gave a straightforward and enlightening talk on "Vocational Education." He spoke of the problems confronting the modern educator, of the demands of the public, and of the general efforts being made in this country toward these demands. He then told just what is being done along these lines in the city of Duluth at the various schools; how pupils are being instructed in manual training, domestic science, commercial branches, pottery, mechanical drawing and art. He gave apt illustrations of the causes of apparent failures, and spoke of ideals which educators hoped some day to realize, concluding with the emphatic statement that co-operation between the schools and the general public was essential.

Average Attendance.

There have been twelve concerts in this season's series. The largest attendance, which was on Washington's birthday, was 915; the smallest was 350; the average attendance for the whole series being 625. A glance at the programs will show the class of music that has been given. They include compositions by Bach, Handel, Beethoven, Mozart, Brahms, Chopin, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Gounod, Strauss, Wagner, Bizet, and many others of that ilk; selections have been given from the best operas, ancient and modern; dances characteristic of various nations; movements from symphonies and sonatas; and in many instances short talks were given explanatory of the selections. Nor has music of a lighter vein been neglected. Stirring marches by Sousa, Pryor, Godfrey and other "March Kings" have appeared on the programs, together with lilting Strauss waltzes and other dance music. On special occasions selections of national and patriotic music of different nations have been played. The vocalists have given examples of the best ballads, new and old. Such occasions as the "Old Settlers'" day and the G. A. R. celebration drew audiences that taxed the capacity of the building, and the new departure of having a short talk from some prominent citizen has proved to be a most successful innovation. All this would go to prove that these concerts are succeeding in the object for which they are given, namely to provide the public an opportunity of becoming acquainted with and enjoying, free of cost, really good music by the best composers, and to create in Duluth people an appetite for the best along these lines, which will never be satisfied by anything less than the establishment of a Duluth symphony orchestra.

ABANDON TUG IN THUNDER BAY

Fishermen in Precarious Position on Island Near Alpena.

Alpena, Mich., March 23.—Forcing their way through three miles of heavy broken ice, Capt. George Whitten and three members of the fishing tug Fannie A., who were forced Saturday to abandon their craft in Thunder bay and take to a ten-foot yawl, succeeded in reaching a small uninhabited island late that night. Half frozen and almost exhausted, the men started a bonfire, around which they huddled until yesterday when they were rescued by a tug and brought back to this port.

With Capt. Whitten were Engineer Frank Morley, Frank Hoppe and John Cameron. They had taken Capt. Bennett, light keeper on Thunder bay island, to his post and on their return trip the tug was caught in the ice.

Commissioners Say Northern Pacific Has "Played Horse" With Them.

No More Concessions Until It Changes Its Attitude.

The city of Duluth doesn't propose to allow the Northern Pacific railroad to "play horse" with it any longer.

At the council meeting this afternoon Mayor W. I. Prince or Commissioner Murchison, head of the works division, will introduce a resolution citing various matters in which the railroad has been derelict and declaring it to be the sense of the council that no further concessions will be granted the Northern Pacific until it shows a change in its attitude.

"The Northern Pacific has pursued a procrastinating, dilatory and very unsatisfactory policy in its dealings with the city," said Mayor Prince today in discussing the proposed resolution. "We do not intend to stand for it any longer. The officials of the road have not shown by their actions that they are willing to co-operate with the city or to meet us half way. They interpose delay after delay on one proposition after another. We never know their true position. It is time that we declared ourselves. The resolution will set forth our position and we will abide by it until such time as the Northern Pacific demonstrates that it will play fair."

Its Sins of Omission.

The resolution will state that the Northern Pacific has been negligent in the maintenance of the Sixth avenue viaduct; that it has not responded to the city's requests relative to lights over its crossings; that it has done nothing towards the construction of a subway under its tracks at Gogebic street, at Smithville, which is an essential preliminary to the extension of the street car line to Smithville; that it proceeded to build a viaduct over South Seventy-first avenue west without consulting the city, compelling the officials to stop the work until permission was granted; that it has torn up the planking of the crossings over its tracks along Railroad street, causing both the city and the public much inconvenience, and has shown a contrary disposition in other particulars.

Mayor Prince explained that the position taken by other railroads and the public service corporations in the city has contrasted strongly with that of the Northern Pacific. He asserted that they have been willing to do all in their power to further the general welfare, while the Northern Pacific appears to have been doing what it could to obstruct it. He added that of the various requests made of the Northern Pacific, the only one with which it has complied has been the wiring of the roof of the train sheds at the Union station, ending the nuisance caused by the flocks of pigeons which formerly roosted in the rafters.

The mayor stated that the council will approve a franchise for a spur track asked by the Duluth Corrugating and Roofing company along Forty-ninth avenue west, to furnish railroad facilities for the new factory which the firm intends to erect at West Duluth. He said that the same would likely be done with other factories desiring connections with the Northern Pacific, as it is not the administration's intention to hamper the industrial growth of the city.

The other business scheduled for transaction at this afternoon's meeting is of a routine nature. The city attorney will report that the petition asking that blocks 109 and 110, Sixth division of West Duluth, is sufficient, and a resolution will be passed advertising the ordinance for a public hearing. The paving of Third alley between Lake avenue and First avenue west, estimated to cost $1,093.68, will be ordered.

HONOLULU FLOWER FESTIVAL IS A BIG FEATURE OF THE MID-PACIFIC CARNIVAL

FLORAL PARADE.
Princess in Pa-u Costume.

It will be of interest to Duluthians, who are now arranging for the mid-summer festival for 1915, to note the widespread interest in festivals of various kinds and the attention they direct toward the cities and communities in which they are held. Publicity of the best kind is given the world over to events of this nature.

The annual flower festival has just been held in Honolulu. It was a feature of the great Mid-Pacific carnival. There were decorated automobiles and bands of natives in the old native dress. The most striking figures in the parade, perhaps, were the native princesses in Pa-u costumes, riding astride and surprising the visiting tourists with their horsemanship. In connection with the carnival were water sports in which the Hawaiians are especially expert.

ARRESTED BY TOLL COLLECTOR

Fugitive Caught While on His Way to Superior.

Stefant Pilas, 21 years old, succeeded in evading the police for about half an hour early yesterday morning, but when he passed J. H. Scott, toll collector on the bridge, who had been given a description of Pilas, the latter stopped the man and notified the police. Patrolman Barber was then sent down to the bridge and Pilas was placed under arrest on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree.

Pilas, according to Joe Semerysryn, who was rooming Saturday night with Pilas at the Montreal hotel, had left the room about 2 o'clock, taking with him $63 belonging to Joe. The latter awoke about 2:30 o'clock and finding Pilas gone, immediately suspected him. He notified the police and a search for Pilas was started.

Pilas was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. He asked for a hearing and the examination was set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

FIGHT NOT ABANDONED

Duluth Dairy Product Interests Battling for Northwest as Whole.

Lake Lines Will Be Compelled to Make Refrigerating Provision.

In relation to the victory which the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club, the Bridgeman-Russell company and the Northern Cold Storage & Warehouse company have obtained in the dairy products cases, by which the package freight lake lines will have to install refrigeration equipment in their lake carriers to a sufficient degree to handle their East-bound business, one matter should be made clear, in the opinion of G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the club. The Herald a few days ago, in telling of the victory, might have given the impression, some believe, that now that the Duluth interests are to be taken care of, the fight for the rest of the Northwestern diary producers and creameries was to be dropped.

"That is not the case," said Mr. Hall today, "and it would be unfortunate to permit that impression to go abroad. Mr. Bridgeman made a strong fight before the lakes lines' representatives to have a sufficient provision for the rest of the Northwest's possible shippers, but for the time, at least, the lake line men decided not to do this. But we have not stopped fighting for this and I have a notion that the lake lines will find it much better to install such equipment before long than to delay, for the Duluth interests do not propose to quit fighting simply because they have enough for their own use."

The impression spoken of was feared from the statement that the lake lines had come to the decision mentioned owing to the lack of interest displayed by other possible shippers of the Northwest, none of whom appeared, although invited and urged to. It is a fact that they did so neglect to appear, but it is believed here that it was either through lack of fully understanding the case or failing to appreciate what it means to them. However, the Duluth men will look after their interests without them.

WOOD OIL TREE.

Indianapolis News: The Chinese wood oil tree is the subject of a circular by David Fairchild, recently published by the United States bureau of plant industry, the purpose of the publication being to advocate an extensive culture of the tree in this country, where it has been grown in a small way since 1906. The importance of this recommendation is shown by the fact that 5,000,000 gallons of wood oil (also known as tung oil), made from the seeds of this plant was imported from China last year, and the product is said to have had a voluntary effect on the varnish industry of the United States.

SUE FOR SEASON'S FISHING PROFITS

Goldish Company Asks Damages for Failure to Deliver Engine.

Delay in the delivery of a motor boat engine cost L. Goldish and T. Goldish, fish merchants, a season's profits, according to claims made in a lawsuit brought to trial before Judge Dancer and a district court jury this morning.

The Auto Engine Works of St. Paul and Wieland & Wade of West Duluth, the company's agents, are defendants in an action brought by L. Goldish and T. Goldish, doing business under the name of the Lake Superior Fish company, to recover $1,852.80. Of this amount, $700 is claimed as damages for the loss of profits on a season's fishing.

The fish merchants assert that they ordered an engine for their fishing boat last April from Wieland & Wade of West Duluth, agents for the Auto Engine Works, and that it was agreed that the engine should be delivered in time for the fishing season.

It is alleged that delivery was not made until the season was well over and it was too late to secure another engine. The plaintiffs are seeking to recover $700 for this loss and the money paid on account for the engine.

HORSE-CHESTNUT CARVING.

The Parisians have found a use for hrose-chestnuts which no one else seems to have thought of, says Lily Rutler in the Strand. Horse-chestnut carving, in fact, is becoming quite the fashion in various parts of artistic Paris.

It was one of the most expert workers in the new art—no less a person, indeed, than the Comte Jean de Berenger—who let me into the secrets of the new craze, after I had admired with wondering eyes the originals of some of his strange works which have found places in the Salon de Humoristes. The Comte was quite willing to give me some information about his fascinating recreation.

With the countless little instruments—knives, scissors, brushes, pincers, and other things—which are scattered about his work-table he has fashioned from an uninspiring multitude of every-day horse-chestnuts the most wonderful gallery of grotesque sculpture it is possible to imagine. TheComte gets his chestnuts from a special tree which grows on his estate in Normandy, close to the celebrated Abbaye de Junieges. Their only distinction is that they are of large size, and when divested of their outer brown envelope and carefully peeled become, when carved, to all intents and purposes very similar to the most beautiful smooth ivory.

Draining the Zuyler Zee of Holland will be undertaken in parts. The first dam will reclaim 500,000 acres.

TANGOS OF OTHER TIMES

Answers: Just as the tango has now taken the dancing world by storm, so did the waltz a century ago.

There was the same outcry about it, too. Coming to us from Barlin, by way of Paris, it was denounced as "this imp of Germany brought up in France."

But the younger generation, both men and women, took to it enthusiastically, and in a little while the waltz had practically ousted the older dances. its popularity continued unabated for above twenty years, when it was temporarily eclipsed by the polka craze.

The polka came originally from Bohemia, where it has been danced by the peasants from time immemorial. Its introduction into fashionable society was due to Josef Neruda, who saw a girl dancing it one Sunday afternoon in the market place of Elbeleinitz, and noted down the melody and steps.

The craze for the new dance broke out first at Prague, and spread thence to Vienna and Paris. A French dancing master named Cellarius brought it to London, and reaped a fortune by his enterprise.

Duchesses waited their turn for hours in the ante rooms of his salon in Piccadilly. His terms were high, ranging from six to eight guineas for half an hour's lesson. Nevertheless, he was so greatly in request that it was said that he had only one hour free, between 2 and 3 a. m., and that he selfishly insisted upon keeping this hour for slumber.

The polka mania of 1844 seems to have exceeded even the tango craze of 1913 in its intensity and virulence. People thought and spoke of little else, so that the Times was induced querulously to complain that its news columns remained unread, "for neither politics nor anything else interests the public today—only this new and all-absorbing pursuit, the polka."

Ten or twelve years later another new dance, the now well-known lancers, took the fashionable world by storm, although, probably owing to the intricacy of its very elaborate figures, it did not all at once become so universally popular as had been the case with the waltz and the polka.

The lancers were introduced to London society by four young ladies who were exceedingly popular at the time. They were Lady Georgina Lygon, Lady Jane Fielding, Hon. Miss Berkley and Mlle. Olga de Lechner, daughter of the Russian ambassador.

It was danced for the first time in a London ballroom by these ladies and four young gentlemen whom they had initiated into its mysteries at a grand ball given at the Turkish embassy, while the assembled company looked on. Among the guests at that particular ball were Queen Victoria and the prince consort, and so delighted were they with the new dance that they ordered it to be included in the program of the state balls at Buckingham palace, where now it is never omitted.

Besides the above, there has been, almost from the earliest beginnings of English dancing, a more or less constant succession of what may very properly be termed "freak dances," among the very latest examples being the bunny hug, the turkey trot and other similar calisthenic abominations, mostly of American origin.

Long years ago, however, quite as queer-sounding dances, of purely English origin, were popular over here. How strange it would sound in a modern ballroom to hear the steward say: "Now, gentlemen, take your partners for 'Lumps of Pudding!'" Or to be told to dance "Under and Over," "The Bath," or "Up Tails Up."

Yet once upon a time each of these was a well known dance, to say nothing of even more curiously entitled ones, as, for example, "The Slaughter House"—what a name for a dance!—"The Ladies' Misfortune," "An Old Man's a Bedfull of Bones," "Rub Her Down with Straw," and "Have at Thy Coat, Old Woman."

ACCUSE MINOT BANKER.

Arrested in Minneapolis, But Alleges Spite Work.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 23.— H. H. Kemper of Minot, N. D., former president of the Citizens' bank of that city, quietly submitted to arrest by Minneapolis detectives early Sunday in his room at the West hotel, on what he characterized a trumped up charge of embezzlement.

The warrant for Kemper's arrest was issued at Minot late Saturday. He was known to be in Minneapolis and the Minneapolis police were requested by telegraph to take him into custody.

The warrant charges that Kemper appropriated $265 of the bank's funds to his personal account. The complaint was sworn to by B. H. Bradford, vice president of the bank. Minot dispatches said that, in a sworn statement to State's Attorney R. A. Nestor, Vice President Bradford made nine accusations, involving a total of approximately $3,700, against Mr. Kemper.

Mr. Kemper was president of the Citizens' bank from the time of its organization in 1910 until January, 1913, when he sold his interest in the institution to Peter Ehr, who had been vice president up to that time. After his arrest Kemper declared that after the sale to Ehr the latter had come to the conclusion that he had paid too much for the bank stock. Kemper angrily asserted that he believed the prosecution was instigated by Ehr as a result. He emphatically pronounced the embezzlement charge false.

Mr. Kemper was taken to police headquarters after his arrest and was locked up in the city jail. He dispatched a telegram to his attorney, Francis Murphy of Minot. Whether he would oppose extradition, he said, would depend upon Mr. Murphy's advice. He predicted that he would return to face the Minot charge without a fight.

TO PRESS EXTRADITION.

Grand Forks Officer to Try and Bring Back Cooper.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor West of Oregon, whose absence from Salem, Or., delayed the hearing on the requisition for the extradition of McLain Cooper, wanted here charged with bribery, has returned to Salem. Deputy Sheriff Doty of Grand Forks will immediately present the requisition for Cooper.

The delay has been made necessary by the fact that the lieutenant governor of Oregon, who is acting governor in West's absence, has refused to hear the case.

Young Cooper, in the meantime, is out on $5,000 bail. He is now at Portland, Or., with relatives, although originally arrested at Hood River, Or.

FREE COUNTY FAIR.

Stark County, N. D., Will Continue Not to Charge Admission.

Dickinson, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Stark county fair will become a permanent institution, and it will be maintained on the same basis as last year—without charge for admission, thereby differing from any other in the Northwest in that respect. It was placed on a free basis through the action of the board of commissioners of Stark county, who granted aid on the condition that no admission be charged.

A permanent organization will be perfected under the direction of a committee, of which Frank Kreuger is the chairman.

Otherwise Will Have to Answer for Attempting to Kill Husband.

Negaunee, Mich., March 23.—It is up to Mrs. Elizabeth Fashion to either leave this city and the state of Michigan for ten years or stand trial for trying to poison her husband. This alternative has been given her by Judge Van Ran. She has been unable to furnish the $2,500 bonds required and the judge said if she left the state for the period named the bond would not be exacted and prosecution would be stayed. Prosecuting Attorney Kennedy granted her a stay of two weeks, in order to give her time in which to dispose of her furniture.

Bismarck, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Assessors, charged with the enrollment of voters in accordance with their party designation, for participation in the primary election in June, will be exempted this year from the duty of enrolling women, the non-partisan school election law bringing this condition about.

Under the non-partisan law, candidates for county superintendent of schools, and state superintendent of public instruction, are placed on a separate ballot, without party designation.

Blame Jail Breakers.

Balfour, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two men, believed to have escaped from the Ward county jail recently, held up William Arnevitch, the Soo line telegraph operator here, obtaining only $10.

Hibbing, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Buffalo-Susquehanna open pit mine, located within the village limits, will ship 1,000,000 tons of ore during the 1914 season, according to reports current among mining men. With the ore market prospect as at present mining men say there will not be as much activity as usual in the non-Bessemer producing mines of the range. Among the non-Bessemer producing properties closed are the Scranton, Whitesides, Woodbridge, Seville and a number of others, while it is said that any considerable cut in last year's price levels will also result in the closing of several other properties.

Speculation as to ore prices is still rife and the opinion is coming to be more generally accepted that there will be no reduction from last year's prices.

Laborers Are Coming Back.

No matter what the condition of the ore market, it is certain there will be much activity in the Hibbing district as there is contemplated sufficient development work to make conditions normal even if shipments of ore are not as heavy as usual.

The labor situation is much better than a year ago, when the opening of the shipping season found men in demand all over the range. The usual condition exists in regard to skilled underground men. Baking Helps

Valuable Suggestions

By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, Exponent of the Art of Baking, as taught by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill

Helpful Cake Making Hints

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

Always use K C Baking Powder.

Biscuit Helps

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times.

Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled. The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuit when it comes out. It is easier for K C Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir up with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board.

With K C Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K C. 30

He died a few minutes later, death having been due to heart failure.

According to several members of the crew, Donovan had just sarted the fire in the stove and was on his way to heat a pot of porridge, when he suddenly swooned. He gave no warning to any one and did not even utter a cry. He was dead when several of the men reached his side.

The body of Donovan was yesterday brought to Duluth and is now being held at the Crawford undertaking rooms. It is believed that the deceased has a sister, Myrtle, living somewhere in Duluth or vicinity and the remains will be held at the undertaking rooms until she is heard from.

ENDS LONG ILLNESS.

Miss Marie Hayes Succumbs at St. Mary's Hospital.

Miss Marie Hayes, 22 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hayes of Two Harbors, died at St. Mary's hospital here Saturday afternoon after several days of acute suffering from spinal meningitis.

She had been ill for several months, but only recently did her condition become serious. Last Tuesday her parents started with her for a sanitarium in Duluth in the hope that a rest would restore her health. While on the train the young woman appeared seriously ill and it was decided to bring her to the local hospital.

Miss Hayes was very widely known on the range and was very popular among the younger people in Two Harbors. She was graduated from the Two Harbors high school in 1911 and later attended Villa Scholastica in Duluth. During the last two years she had been employed as abstract clerk in the dock office of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad at Two Harbors. She was compelled to give up her work there about two months ago.

Besides her parents, Miss Hayes is survived by five sisters and one brother. They are: Margaret, Gertrude, Burnidette, Lucille, Virginia and John, all of Two Harbors. The body will be taken to Two Harbors for interment. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

WANTED TO KNOW

The Truth About Grape-Nuts Food.

It doesn't matter so much what you hear about a thing, it's what you know that counts. And correct knowledge is most likely to come from personal experience.

"About a year ago," writes a N. Y. man, "I was bothered by indigestion, especially during the forenoon. I tried several remedies without any permanent improvement.

"My breakfast usually consisted of oatmeal, steak or chops, bread, coffee and some fruit.

"Hearing so much about Grape-Nuts, I concluded to give it a trial and find out if all I had heard of it was true.

"So I began with Grape-Nuts and cream, soft boiled eggs, toast, a cup of Postum and some fruit. Before the end of the first week I was rid of the acidity of the stomach and felt much relieved.

"By the end of the second week all traces of indigestion had disappeared and I was in first rate health once more. Before beginning this course of diet, I never had any appetite for lunch, but now I can enjoy the meal at noon time."

Light to killing frost occurred last night over Louisiana and the Carolinas, and light frost over Florida. During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours light snow or rain fell over the lake region, Ohio valley, New England states, Washington and Western Montana."

HITS COST OF FOOD BY MAIL

Postoffice Department Offers Means to Join Farmer and Patron.

La Crosse Is Among the Cities Chosen to Start Plan.

Washington, March 23.—Preliminary steps have been taken by the postoffice department to perfect its plan for reducing the cost of living by having the parcel post carry the products of the farm directly to the door of the consumer.

Ten cities were selected to begin the work of establishing direct connections between producer and consumer, Postmaster General Burleson having already issued an order permitting the use of crates and boxes for butter, eggs, poultry, vegetables and fruit shipped by parcel post.

Orders went yesterday to the postmasters at Boston, Atlanta, St. Louis, San Francisco, Baltimore, Detroit, La Crosse, Lynn, Mass., Rock Island, Ill., and Washington, D. C., directing them to "receive the names of persons who are willing to supply farm products in retail quantities by parcel post." Printed lists of these names, showing kind and quantity of commodity available, will be distributed among town and city patrons.

Save Going to Market.

"By the use of the lists," said First Assistant Postmaster General Roper, "the city consumer will be able to get in touch with a farmer who will fill his weekly orders for butter and eggs and other farm produce. The consumer will receive the product fresh from the country, and the personal relations established will no doubt tend to improve the quality. The farmer will be relieved of carrying his produce to market, as the rural mail carrier will make daily collections at the farmer's own door of these retail shipments to city consumers.

"The point has been raised that difficulty will be experienced in the return of hampers and other containers. This problem does not appear to me to be difficult of solution. The farmer may use inexpensive hampers whose value would not warrant their return, or he may use the higher grade hampers, for which he may include an additional charge, to be credited to the consumer upon the return of the hamper by parcel post."

Expects Good Results.

The postmaster general has the firm conviction that this plan is the one thing necessary to enable the people of this country to enjoy the potential benefits of the parcel post. No one has ever questioned the possibility of reducing the cost of living by establishing direct relations between the ultimate consumer and the original producer. The postmaster general's plan is designated to provide this agency for the most economical distribution of those products which are consumed in the form and condition in which they are produced.

HAVE YOU HAD THE GRIP?

There are certain disorders, such as the grip, that especially debilitate and make the body an easy prey for more dangerous diseases. Ask those who have had the grip regarding the present condition of their health and most of them will answer: "Since I had the grip I have never been well." They still have profuse perspiration, the persistent weakness of the limbs, the disordered digestion, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart caused by the thin-blooded condition in which the grip almost always leaves its victim after the fever and influenza have subsided. They are furthermore, at the mercy of relapses and of complications, often very serious. In an attack of the grip there is a rapid thinning of the blood and not until the blood is built up again is complete health restored.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills quickly make the blood rich and red, drive out the lingering germs from the system and transform despondent grip victims into cheerful, healthy men and women.

FOUND INJURED BESIDE CAR TRACKS

Woodsman From Cloquet Picked Up and Sent to Hospital.

Edward Wise, 49 years old, was found lying alongside the street car tracks at Tenth avenue west and Superior street late Saturday evening, with his lower jaw fractured and a severe gash over his left eye. It is not known whether he had been struck by a street car, or had injured himself in falling.

The conductor of the street car asserts that he saw Wise lying alongside the track and that he stopped his car to investigate. He is positive in his assertions that his car did not strike Wise, but is of the opinion that the latter had fallen and sustained his injuries in that way.

Wise was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where his injuries were attended by Dr. L. Q. Greeley. The hospital attendants said this morning that Wise is very much improved and that he will leave the institution within a day or two. Wise came from Cloquet several days ago, where he had been employed in Camp N of the Northern Lumber company.

VIRGINIA MAN ROBBED AND BEATEN

Albert Johnson Tells Police He Was Waylaid By Five Men.

His face bleeding and clothes disarranged, Albert Johnson, a laborer, came into police headquarters shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday night with a tale of having been waylaid by five men on South First avenue east and robbed of $70 and a watch. The men beat him badly, he said, after they took his money. Johnson was unable to give a description of the men.

Sergt. Roberg was detailed to go out with Johnson, after he had received medical attention, in an effort to locate the robbers. They were unsucsessful in locating the men, as Johnson had failed to obtain a satisfactory description of any one of them.

Johnson lives in Virginia and came to Superior last Thursday. He is rooming at the New Branch hotel.

WILL COMPLETE ST. JAMES' SCHOOL

Construction work was resumed this morning on the St. James school and auditorium building which is being erected on the St. James Catholic church property south of the church on Fifty-seventh avenue west. Bowe & Burke, the contractors, expect to have the building completed on Aug. 1.

The building will be a handsome two-story affair with a full basement whose elevation will be enough above the ground to warrant its being used for school purposes. The building has a frontage of eighty feet on Fifty-seventh avenue and is 111 feet deep. An addition 16 by 44 feet is also being constructed in the rear which will be used for the heating plant.

The first floor and basement was completed early in December at which time work was stopped for the winter. The second floor will now be added and work pushed to the completion of the building.

The first floor or basement will be arranged for a gymnasium, club rooms and a large lodge hall in which a number of the Catholic societies will hold their meetings. The front part of the basement floor will be so arranged that they can be converted into school rooms if found necessary.

The second floor will be used exclusively for school rooms. Six of these will be provided. The top floor will have as its principal feature an auditorium with a seating capacity for 1,000 people. Two school rooms will also be arranged on this floor. The stage of the auditorium is being planned so that it can be converted into school rooms purposes if necessary.

The building, when completed and equipped, will cost close to $50,000. The contracts let so far call for an expenditure of $39,000. Much of this money has already been raised by the congregation.

DISSOLVES WRIT.

District Judge Fesler Saturday afternoon dissolved the writ of attachment issued against the stock and fixtures belonging to Carl J. and Mary C. Petruschke in the Grand hotel and saloon, Fifty-third avenue west and Ramsey street.

The attachment was secured a few days ago by M. Kamerer, who alleged that the Petruschkes intended to sell or dispose of the property and evade their financial obligations to him.

Several affidavits were produced by the Petruschkes Saturday, stating their intentions not to be such and on this showing the court dissolved the writ of attachment previously issued at the instance of Kamerer.

Judge Fesler has taken under advisement an application which has been made for a receiver to take charge of the business.

MAY BE IRON ORE.

Workmen Digging Sewer Find Traces of Ore Deposit.

Workmen digging a sewer at the residence of J. P. Brandenhoff, 309 Fifty-ninth avenue west, have dug up what several people have pronounced to be iron ore. It is of the color of ore. Those who have seen it are wondering if it is not indicative of an iron deposit.

Made Himself at Home.

That there is nothing like making oneself at home whether welcome or not, must have been the way a man who gave the name of Hill and said he lived on Sixty-fourth avenue west, felt when he was awakened out of a sound slumber yesterday morning in front of the heating stove in the home of Joseph McDougall, 5813 Wadena street.

Hill was curled up on the rug in front of the stove when Mr. McDougall came down to light the kitchen stove fire. Mr. McDougall did not awaken him but called his wife, who aroused their son, Ray, to do the job. After administering several resounding kicks to the soles of Hill's feet, he slowly raised himself to a sitting position, blinked his eyes and then rolled a cigaret. He said he did not know how he got into the house but had an impression that he was in his own home.

"I came home at 1 o'clock Sunday morning," said Ray McDougall, "and finding that two other young fellows staying at the house were not in, I left the door unlocked. This man evidently stumbled in. He did not disturb anything. He had the appearance of having gotten the worst of some battle during the night's spree, as his forehead was cut and bleeding. We never thought of calling the police."

COURT HEARS SHOLUND PLEA

Application for Injunction Against City Officials Under Advisement.

Judge Cant in district court Saturday afternoon took under advisement the application of Charles Sholund, saloon keeper, for a temporary injunction restraining the city authorities from enforcing a revocation of his license to operate a saloon at 101 East Michigan street, pending a hearing on the writ of certiorari returnable in the state supreme court April 7.

McCoy & Hanson, attorneys for Sholund, appeared in court Saturday afternoon and presented arguments to the court in support of their contention that Sholund has the right to operate his saloon until the supreme court passes upon the revocation question. William P. Harrison, assistant, assistant city attorney, appeared in opposition to the motion for a temporary injunction.

Three Points Attacked.

The action of the city council in revoking the saloon license and in attempting to prevent Sholund from doing business pending the return of the writ of certiorari in the supreme court is attacked on three grounds. First, it is alleged that the writ of certiorari suspends the judgment of revocation until the action of the council is reviewed by the supreme court. Second, it is alleged that the action of revoking the license was unlawful, and third that the ordinance under which the action was taken is unconstitutional.

Judge Cant heard arguments only on the question of whether the writ of certiorari operated as a stay of further proceedings and suspended the council's judgment of revocation. The court indicated to Sholund's attorneys that should it dispose of this question in the city's favor, that it would hear arguments on the other two phases of the question before granting or denying the injunction.

Grounds for Injunction.

The application for an injunction now being considered by the court is based on the same grounds on which an application for a writ of habeas corpus was made in the case of Henry Johnson, a bartender for Sholund, who was convicted of selling liquor without a license after the Sholund license had been revoked by the council, and following the writ of certiorari which was obtained by Sholund's attorneys from the supreme court.

The court denied the writ, holding that the relief sought could not be obtained through habeas corpus proceedings and that it rested in an appeal from the judgment of the municipal court. The court suggested that the other questions involved might be disposed of in an application for a writ of injunction against the city authorities. McCoy & Hanson immediately proceeded along this line and raised the same points again.

Death followed an illness of two weeks of pneumonia. He leaves a widow and one daughter. The funeral will be held Wednesday at 1 p. m. from the Sacred Heart cathedral.

A WOMAN'S START IN BUSINESS

In the Woman's Home Companion a successful business woman tells how she made her start. She was a widow and was left with children to support. Her husband, Archie Haines, left a running business at the time of his death, which, if it had not been continued, would have netted very little real cash for the family to live on. Following is an extract from the story, showing how she made her start:

"My aimless walk has brought me to Archie's office.

"'Oh, Mrs. Haines,' said Miss Blake, Archie's stenographer, 'something very important has come up, and your father's off buying wheat, and I can't reach him by wire or telephone. You know about the option on the Ross land, out by the falls. The Conroys, whose barrel factory burned down last week, have decided not to rebuild along the railroad tracks but outside the city limits. Everybody who owns a foot of ground is after them, but I think we have the best site of all. If only your father were here.'

"'Did Mr. Haines want to sell the Ross land for a factory?' I asked.

"'Yes. There's more land than the Conroys can use; but if we got one factory located out there, others would follow. And what Mr. Conroy would pay—'

"'Why, Mabel Conroy and I went to school together. I know Mr. Conroy very well. If I sent you down there to see him, perhaps—'

"The upshot was that I went to see Mr. Conroy, armed with figures and arguments provided by Miss Blake. But I did not use these until the end of the interview. Mr. Conroy was so nice and fatherly that I caught myself telling him, not how desirable the Ross site was, but how much I wanted to manage my own affairs.

"'I've got to support Archie's children,' I said at the finish. 'I can't turn them over to my father and mother. They're mine, and in years to come I want them to feel that I took their father's place as well as I could.'

"'Do you mean that you're going to keep Archie's office open?' Mr. Conroy asked.

"'I can't tell yet; but I know that most of Archie's money is tied up in this option and I must get it out for the children. Here's the blue print and I've ordered a good rig to take us out. Will you go?'

"It was not a very business-like proceeding, but it turned out all right. When Father returned, Mr. Conroy was ready to close the deal for ten acres. I had learned the difference between a sale and an option, and several manufacturers had learned that the water-power on the Ross land was worth more than railroad sidings.

"That was the way my business career began."

A NATURAL CAKE OF SOAP.

St. Nicholas: An odd and useful plant of our Pacific coast is the soaproot. The grasslike, crinkled leaves appear close to the ground in the spring, and are known to every California country dweller. They grow from a deep rooted bulb incased in coarse fiber. If the fiber is stripped off and the onion-like bulb crushed between the hands, is rubbed in water as one uses a cake of soap, a plentiful lather results, as cleansing as any soap bought in a store.

NON-RELIGION, THE TRAGEDY

Ablest Duluth Business Men Deny the Divine, Says Dr. Hoffman.

The great tragedy of Duluth is that so many men of intellectual and business attainments refuse to accept the divine attainments. No disaster can be compared with that which this superficial view of life produces.

This was the keynote of the sermon preached by Dr. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First M. E. church, in opening the week's series of noon-day services at the Lyceum theater today. An immense audience greeted the speaker and a large chorus led the singing. John Koneczny and Charles O. Applehagen sang "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." Dr. Hoffman's text was: "Man Looketh on the Outward Appearance, But God Looketh on the Heart." The sermon in part follows:

"Viewing a landscape of rich color and rugged beauty one sees in it an opportunity for palette and brush, another estimates the value of its forests and the tonnage of its ore banks, while a third regards it as so much acreage for the cultivation of grain and corn. In company with a friend we entered an art gallery to enjoy a famous work of genius. We were piloted quickly to the one celebrated painting and soon stood before it. It seemed at first glance to our untrained eye a mere daub of color, without form or feature. But we shifted our position, we changed it again and again until at last, from the right angle, we beheld the splendid study of the artist.

Proper Point of View.

"A Raphael or a Murillo will never yield its beauty until the eye sees it from the proper point of view. Practical life illustrates the same necessity. Here are the facts of commerce and of industry. One man sees in them profit and loss, material gains and material goods. Another regards the same facts as essential elements in the vast humanizing process of life. It really does not matter what aspect of daily experience we select, variety of viewpoint appears. The artist and the merchant, the pessimist and the optimist, the hopeless and the hopeful, each views life from some chosen angle. We are not concerned with the reasons underlying and creating these differences in point of view; simply do we desire to state a fact of everyday observation.

"Moral life, no less than other forms of experience, exhibits in sharp antithesis vast differences in point of view. Samuel, an ancient prophet of God, discovered this diversity and reminded us that 'God looketh upon the heart, and man looketh upon the outward appearance.' Size, bulk, externals appeal most to the eye of the human; quality, soul, character, most to the divine. The Almighty views the facts of moral life from within the soul, while too many practical men regard them largely from the aspect of conduct.

"Here, then, are the divine and the human points of view. With God the emphasis falls chiefly on the disposition of the soul, the motives of the life, the affections of the spirit. With our practical men it is the act, the deed, the conduct. The great thing is the outward—if it be proper, all is safe and sound. Consequently, with this average practical man, reformation is the commanding word, while with God regeneration is the fundamental idea.

Right Motive Necessary.

"God discerns within humanity the necessity for a new disposition, a new motive, a new soul life if conduct is to be eternally right and true. Society is forever talking about sins, while God is eternally warning us against sin. Mankind speaks of profanity, murder, adultery. Christ reminds us of envy, hatred, lust. Some men flatter themselves that conformity to conventional moral standards is sufficient. Jesus Christ cries out 'You must be born from above'. Too many forget that one may be quite honorable from motives of policy and very respectable for prudential reasons, yet at heart be cruelly selfish and hopelessly conceited. One may not utter an oath nor commit lust yet cherish hatred and immodesty within. The personal world without may be very proper, but the world within may be a veritable pesthouse. It is the secret loves and hates which determine life in its fullest experiences and its greatest destiny.

"There is a radical and eternal difference between the two view-points. One is thorough, the other is superficial. 'God looketh upon the heart,' where motives are born, thoughts catch their moral quality and actions take their rise. The great question, the supreme one for each and for all is whose view-point is to be accepted. Are we to believe that actions are the great elements in life and determine the ultimate worth of personality, or does the disposition of the soul measure the validity and the eternal value of character and conduct? Action there must always be—that is not our controversy. Conduct must always exhibit itself as proper and ideal. We find no fault with this. We must never forget, however, that men may not steal yet be covetous, they may not cheat yet be selfish, they may not kill yet never pray, never worship, never be grateful to God.

Conduct Often Superficial.

"Whose view-point are we to accept? We must settle this beyond a peradventure. If we endorse the divine ideal of life as a practical guide we cannot get along without prayer, without worship, without God, without the incomparable regenerating power of Jesus Christ. Before the will of man enthrones a new executive in the soul the kingdom of motives, of incentives, of affections must be cleansed by the divine.

"A man's actions do not in every instance represent the real underlying motives of his inner life any more than a palace indicates the moral character of those who live in it. The glaring defect of the man who realizes no need of God is that his moral standard of conduct and character is not eternal but communal, or social or personal form of life is simply the net product of a mixed past in which good and evil have combined. That our present ideals are far lighter than those of earlier centuries does not argue that they are adequate for life. That the man who seeks to harmonize thought and life with these communal ideals is infinitely better than the drunkard and thief is self-evident. The tragedy of his life lies not in his superiority to the common sinner but in his stupid folly in repudiating the final criterion for character exhibited in Christ. Progress and growth are possible only as we seek to measure up to the infallible life in Christ and aim to realize in practice the Divine passion for perfect purity, perfect goodness, and perfect usefulness.

"'God looketh upon the heart.' This is the Divine angle from which man is regarded. Sin becomes, therefore, not an error in thought, not a defect in culture, not a weakness in our logic, but a terrible and fearful disloyalty to God. We may fix our eye on the foul word, the heartless action, the supercilious mind, the prayerless life, but these are mere symptoms. The cause lies in the soul that is disloyal to the Infinite, that will not accept the authority of God. It is a spiritual condition, not a mental one. Men do not love God, they have no real affection for Jesus, they have no relish for things heavenly. Our clothes fit well, our culture is comfortable, our homes are artistic, our manners are proper, but we get along without the regeneration of Jesus Christ.

Duluth's Great Tragedy.

"This is the tragedy of Duluth. Men of fine business ability, of keen mental attainments, of splendid craftmanship, yet they deny the Divine viewpoint. No disaster can be compared to that which this superficial view of life produces. It affects our eternal destiny. It undermines the broadest readers of character and the highest aspirations of the soul. 'Ye must be born from above' is the ringing declaration of One who knew and revealed the mind of God as no prophet has ever done. The source of motive, of thought, of action, of conduct must be cleansed and related to the Infinite power of the eternal God. 'God looketh upon the heart, man looketh upon the outward appearance.' Whose viewpoint are you accepting, God or society, Christ or self?"

NO NEED FOR WORRY NOW

Employment Agents Will Not Be Forced to Move for Year.

Commissioner Hicken, head of the safety division, was visited by a delegation of employment agents located on Michigan street between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, this morning.

They felt that Commissioner Hicken's announcement that he desired to improve the appearance of the block meant that they would be obliged to move immediately. The commissioner stated that all who had leases could remain until their expiration and in order that no injustice may be done he agreed that the others ought to be given one year from the date of the passage of the ordinance in which to set new quarters.

This understanding was entirely satisfactory to the employment agents who called upon the commissioner.

The purpose of causing the removal of the employment offices is to better the appearance of the block which is at the gateway of the city. If the employment offices are moved they will not serve to attract the crowds of men who now loiter in that part of the city. The patrol box in front of the union station will also be transferred to avoid attracting crowds when men are placed under arrest, and the drays will be transferred to the block west of Sixth avenue west.

MANAHAN MAY SEEK STATE LEGAL JOB

Will Decide Later Whether to Go After Attorney Generalship.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, March 23.—Representative James Manahan of Minnesota today declared that he had not made up his mind as to his political plans, particularly with reference to the suggestion of the Tri-State Farmers' convention, which met at Minneapolis Saturday and urged him to run for attorney general.

"I have not seen the resolution of the tri-state convention," said Manahan, "and do not know the reason for it. I shall, of course, have to make some sort of reply, but I shall not do so until I have had the opportunity to go home and get in personal touch with the situation. I expect to be in Minneapolis April 7, when I shall come to some definite conclusion regarding my political plans."

It has been the impression here that Manahan would run for congress in the new fourth district, but he may change his mind in favor of the attorney generalship if he finds things favorable.

H. C. OF L. BOOSTS POULTRY CULTURE

There has never been so much interest shown in St. Louis county in literature on poultry culture as there is this spring, according to Miss Frances Earhart, public librarian. It is believed this is due to the high cost of living.

The demand has been so great this spring that the books on this subject now in stock are out of the library about all of the time. As the demand cannot be supplied under present conditions, Miss Earhart has prepared a big list of the best pamphlets and books on this subject and will send for the books at once. These probably will reach the library in two weeks.

Miss Earhart said today that she thought the high cost of living was arousing this interest in poultry raisin. The high quotations of meats and other provisions was stirring up people in the city and rural districts to raise chickens to supply the household with meat and eggs.

Gran Case Dragging.

Slow progress is being made in the examination of witnesses in the Gran divorce trial, which has been on before Judge Cant in district court since Wednesday of last week.

The morning session today was devoted almost entirely to cross-examination of witnesses called by the plaintiff, Victor H. Gran, Saturday. The cross-examination was conducted by Attorney B. M. Goldberg and the witnesses on the stand were Elizabeth Sandell, a domestic employed at the Gran home, who told what she observed in the way of John R. Heino's attentions to Mrs. Gran, and Police Detectives J. L. Bradley and H. Toewe, who conducted the raid upon Heino's office, which resulted in the arrest of Heino and Mrs. Gran.

Shortly before the noon adjournment, William Signeur was called as a witness for the plaintiff by Attorney A. E. McManus. Signeur testified to overhearing certain conversations which passed between Heino and Mrs. Gran by using telephone taps which had been secretly installed by Gran, who suspected his wife's unfaithfulness.

ENGINEERS WANT "RAISE"

The force of the city engineering department will be seriously crippled unless increases in salary are granted them.

Two assistant engineers, a transit man and the office assistant have been offered better positions by railroads or private companies which are preparing to send crews into the field and have notified City Engineer Wilson that they will be obliged to accept unless the city pays them more money. It is stated that they would prefer to remain with the city, being surer of steady positions, and for that reason would be willing to accept advances less than offered them.

O. E. Brownell, office engineer, now receiving $130 a month, asks $146 a month. B. A. Overland, field engineer, now receiving $110 a month, asks $125. Wallace Quimby, office assistant, now receiving $85 a month, asks $95, and H. E. Brown, transitman, now receiving $80 a month, wants $90.

In setting the facts before Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, the city engineer states that with the season's work just opening up his deparement would be greatly handicapped if these men are allowed to leave. He says that new men would have to have time to become familiar with their duties and that the department's efficiency would be lessened considerably. He expressed the opinion that it would only be good business policy to retain them at the advances asked.

Commissioner Murchison has the same view of the matter but will transmit the engineer's letter to the council when it meets this afternoon. What action will be taken will be determined by the commission, as the charter requires that all salaries shall be fixed by the council.

BIG TASK BEFORE CITY CLERK PALMER

Richard Watson of Boston has written City Clerk Palmer asking for the date on which he voted in this city. The only information which he gives is that he was born in East Grand Forks. To ascertain this date it would only be necessary to run through tens of thousands of names. Watson may have voted here at the last election or it may have been ten or twenty or thirty years ago. Unless he furnishes more specific data it is likely that Watson will have to be satisfied with guessing the date.

CHARGED WITH LARCENY.

Youth Jailed for Alleged Stealing of Suit Case and Clothes.

Frank Scholewski left a suitcase full of clothes at a West Superior street second-hand store the other afternoon and when ho called for it Saturday night, he discovered that some one had come ahead of him and taken his property. Yesterday afternoon he saw Steve Kavalski, 23 years old, walking down Michigan street, wearing his suit of clothes, he alleges.

Scholewski notified Patrolman Montgomery and a few minutes later Kavalski was under arrest on a charge of having stolen the suitcase.

Kavalski was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of petit larceny. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

CATCH BOARD BILL JUMPERS.

While in Duluth on their way to New York Saturday night, John Pailtask, 19, and John Paludnik, 33, were arrested by Patrolman Westerlund and Danielson for the authorities at Eveleth, where they are wanted by the police on a charge of having defrauded an innkeeper.

According to the police at Eveleth, Pailtask and Paludnik had packed their grips at Eveleth Saturday morning, and, while the proprietor of their rooming house was busy, left the building. Their absence was discovered later and immediately a search of the city was begun. It was then learned that the two men had left for Duluth, on their way to New York. The Eveleth authorities telephoned to Duluth and a close watch was kept of all the trains coming in from the range. They were arrested just as they stepped off a Duluth, Missabe & Northern train by the two officers, who had been detailed to make the arrest.

An Eveleth officer arrived yesterday and took Pailtask and Paludnik back to the range town where they will be arraigned today on a charge of defrauding an innkeeper.

Mr. Searles will be in Duluth about three weeks and during his stay will be at the Holland hotel.

I. C. C. POWER FINAL IN THE RATE CASES

Federal Judge Adams So Rules in St. Louis Court.

St. Louis, Mo., March 23.—The interstate commerce commission has exclusive jurisdiction over the regulation of interstate railroad rates, it was decided by United States Circuit Judge Adams here today. Judge Adams dissolved a temporary injunction restraining the Wabash railroad from filing new rates for shipments from the Illinois Glass works at Alton, Ill.

Joseph W. Folk, chief counsel for the interstate commerce commission, said that the decision clears the way for the proposed 5 per cent increase of freight rates on Eastern lines if the interstate commerce commission grants it, in that it would prevent shippers from enjoining the enforcement of the increased rates.

A NEW ERA IN ROSE GROWING.

The Country Gentleman: The nature of the tea and hybrid roses has undergone a decided and favorable change within the last ten years. It has been a matter of world wide regret that tea roses as a class are not hardy beyond Southern limits. The hybrid teas are somewhat hardier, but are still classed as tender roses. No rose of either strain has heretofore been hardy, as the term applies to the hybrid perpetuals, mosses, ramblers, rugosas, and numbers of common garden roses. Safrano, the famous old English tea, is the hardiest of its class, hardy enough for Northern gardens, and it needs protection. Happily this order is changing. Some new and beautiful strains of teas and hybrid teas have appeared with constitutions so hardy that they have created a new era in the history and the culture of roses.

The Maman Cochet group, originating in France, was the first of this celebrated class. Prominence is also given the Killarney, the Irish rose, semi-double, in a beautiful shade of pink. I know it only in Southern gardens, but the most experienced rose growers in Northern sections say that it is as hardy as the Cochets. The judgment of a discriminating public in almost every instance has given the Killarney pre-eminence over every other popular rose in existence, not excepting the American Beauty. The merits of these two roses of fashion and fame are balanced in favor of Killarney. It is a true ever bloomer in outdoor gardens, and in conservatories is a magnificent rose of winter, invaluable for long stemmed cut flowers. It requires no special treatment summer or winter.

The American Beauty is a very exacting rose, requiring expert treatment and an expensive mode of culture. Then its superb roses are produced only for the winter season. Not belonging to the ever blooming teas or kindred strains, it is not a summer bloomer; it has never been everybody's rose, adjustable to garden everywhere. This is where the Killarney—the only rival of the American Beauty, long the famous rose of the world—rises in importance. The Killarney is everybody's rose.

ALWAYS GAVE SOMETHING.

Pearson's Weekly: At a recent banquet in New York W. F. McCombs told a story of a discussion on public generosity in a club smoking room in which several well known philanthropists were mentioned and praised to the skies.

After they had been speaking for some time, Mr. McCombs said, a man in the corner remarked: "Your philanthropists are all right, but I think it is only just that my next door neighbor should be included."

"Is he generous?" asked one.

"I should just say he is," was the emphatic reply. "No matter how

"You don't mean it," exclaimed one of his hearers.

"I do," replied the other man. "He always gives them something; he always gives them a letter of introduction to me!"

THE POOR RICH.

Lippincott's: The assessor glared at Mr. Fatchops as that well-known figure in the world of big money settled himself in the chair, and, having polished his gold-rimmed spectacles, beamed benignantly at his inquisitor.

"You say you have no taxable property," the assessor continued, "but you live in a very fine house on a very fine street."

"Of course I do," retorted Mr. Fatchops. "I have to live somewhere, don't I?"

"Don't try to be flippant, Mr. Fatchops. You are the owner of that house, are you not?"

"I!" Mr. Fatchop's mouth expanded into an excited circle. "Why, bless you, young man, I don't own anything!"

"Who does own it, then?"

"I believe it belongs to the Fatchops Realty association."

"Aren't you the Fatchops Realty association yourself?"

"Oh, no, sir; I'm just a minor stockholder. I can show you the books at any time."

"You have an ocean yacht."

"No, sir; but I cruise sometimes in a boat belonging to the Fatchops Pleasure and Outing league."

"How about that country home in Virginia?"

"It belongs to the Fatchops Country Life corporation."

"And that camp in the Adirondacks?"

"The Fatchops Open Air society bought that from me long ago."

"At least, Mr. Fatchops you have some personal property in the way of stocks and bonds to declare."

"Then you declare on your oath that you own absolutely nothing which can be taxed?"

"Yes, sir; I do."

And stepping into the sixty horsepower motor owned by the Fatchops Touring and Automobile guild, Mr. Fatchops proceeded to investigate some building lots which the Fatchops Investment agency had recommended most highly to the Fatchops Joint Stock company.

BACK AT HIM.

Everybody's: A good story is told of W. J. Fox, a free trade colleague of John Bright. Fox was a clever debater and unexcelled in repartee. His chief heckler in Oldham was a local baker, who once had the misfortune to be fined by the magistrate for selling short weight bread. Fox also had the misfortune to separate from his wife. On one occasion, after he had delivered an address to his constituents, the baker got up and said:

"Mr. Fox, there is just one question I should like to ask you. What has become of your wife?"

"Sir," replied Fox, "she has been weighed in the balance and found wanting."

TRANSFERS FROM A MACHINE.

Electric Railway Journal: A marked departure in the method of issuing transfers has been made possible by a new transfer issuing and recording machine. This machine prints, records and issues transfers to passengers on street cars. The printing and recording mechanism includes elements which will print time to the minute, a directional indication, date, lines to and from which transfers are issued, the number of the machine, the number of each transfer, the company rules and regulations and a record of all transfers issued. It is believed that this device will materially decreaze the time of issuing transfers at crowded transfer points, reduce misuse of transfers by passengers and prevent waste of transfers through improper punching.

WHEAT STRONG TO THE CLOSE

Market Sells Slightly Higher With Strength in Coarse Grains.

Flaxseed Advance Continues on Better Cables and Crushers' Demand.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 23.—The market was strong up to the close. May wheat closed ½c up and July ¼c up. May durum closed unchanged and July unchanged.

Oats closed ⅜c up at 37¼c. Rye closed unchanged at 55@57c for the best grades. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 36⅞c bid and July at 38¼c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at 91⅛c asked and calls at 91⅝ @91½c asked.

Traders on the long side in wheat were helped today by the strength in corn at Chicago. Primary receipts were liberal, showing an increase of 213,000 bu over last year. That was largely brought about through the continued rush to Minneapolis of grain being shipped out of North Dakota elevators to escape the tax levy on April 1. Receipts there were 503 cars against 438 last year. It is thought by operators that receipts down there will drop to small proportions after the end of the month.

An improvement in marketings is being shown at Winnipeg, arrivals there coming to 196 cars against 235 a year ago. Inspections at Duluth came to 28 cars compared with 80 cars for the three days last year, and there were on the tracks for the day 52 cars of all grain. Receipts here last week were in slightly better value, amounting to 469,000 bu of all grains, while shipments, including amounts taken out by the mills, were 103,000 bu.

The American visible supply for the week showed a fair decrease, and that aided somewhat in sustaining the market. Operators reported a slightly better Eastern inquiry, and some business was advised to have been booked. Traders are still bullish on the market outlook for spring wheat and old winter wheat. Advices from over the Middle West and Southwest were bearish, with the high condition of the wheat plant being maintained in all sections.

Liverpool cables were unchanged to ½d lower on heavy world's shipments and favorable European crop news.

May wheat opened unchanged at 92⅜c, and it gained fractionally during the first three hours' trading. The July option opened unchanged at 93⅜ @93½c and it advanced ¼c.

Business in durum was merely nominal. The May option opened unchanged at 91⅝c and it eased off ¼c.

Flaxseed Higher Again.

Flaxseed was strong again today under the influence of higher cables. Trading was in small lots, but there was good demand on the part of crushers and operators. Receipts were in light volume, creating a bullish situation in the cash seed. Final quotations were at the top showing advances of ⅝@⅞c in the day.

Foreign markets closed as follows: Buenos Aires, ¼c up; Anwerp, 1¼c up; and London, ⅞c up.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.60½ and it closed ⅞c up at $1.61⅝. The July option opened unchanged at $1.60⅝ and closed ⅝c up at $1.63. The September seed was closed up nominally at $1.63¾.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.41 and July at $1.43⅜ bid.

Estimating the wheat crop of the United States at 763,000,000 bu and allowing 90,000,000 bu for supplies in all positions on July 1, 1913, the Daily Trade Bulletin figures that aggregate supplies for the twelve months would be approximately 853,000,000 bu. Allowing 525,000,000 bu for consumption, about 80,000,000 bu for seeding during the harvest year and 112,000,000 bu exported to date, accounts, for 717,000,000 bu—and there would remain for export during the current four months and for supplies on hand July 1, 1914, about 136,000,000 bu. The exports from March 1, to July 1, 1913, were about 35,000,000 bu.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: Wheat—Ample world's shipments and continued favorable European crop advices and increasing socks here, served to offset the effect of the comparative steadiness in Winnipeg on Saturday, and opening values were unchanged. During the morning, the market was very dull with no price changes and at 1:30 p. m., prices were unchanged. Plate offers are firmer as well as Australian but America and Russia are taking care of the bulk of the demand. Corn opened ¼d lower for July and this option further declined ½d during the morning. Near positions are strong on the light world's shipments. There is firmness in spot on increasing local stocks, but distant positions are easy with freer Plate offers and fine weather in Argentina."

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: "Corn traders generally anticipated a lower opening on Monday, believing that there was still a fair quantity of weakly held grain to come out, but some of the conservative operators were looking for a rally after an early break, claiming that the technical position of the market had been greatly strengthened by the free selling in the past two days and that the local element were short at the close. Bears declared that the edge was off the cash demand for some time, and that feeders had taken all they cared for the moment.

"Export business in new hard winter wheat became a reality on Saturday. New York exporting 40,000 bu sold abroad during the day for July-August shipment, presumably for the gulf. It was intimated that sales recently were larger than the trade in general believes."

* * *

Stocks of wheat in Duluth and Minneapolis elevators as on last Saturday were 35,296,000 bu, as compared with 41,201,000 bu last year. Duluth supplies were 15,188,000 bu, compared with 19,626,000 bu last year, and at Minneapolis there were 20,108,000 bu, against 21,575,000 bu a year ago.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, March 23.—Indifferent cables and the continued good outlook for the domestic winter crop made the wheat market today incline to sag. Heavy exports from Canada appeared to be displacing any need for shipments to Europe from the United States. Opening prices which were unchanged to ⅛c lower, were followed by some additional declines.

After warm weather in the week when corn turned upgrade. A big decrease in the visible supply helped. The close was easy, but ⅛c to ⅛@⅜c net higher.

In the corn crowd, an increase of rural offerings in Iowa had a bearish influence. Diminished urgency of cash demand tended also to weaken the market. Prices at the outset were a shade to ⅛@¼c lower, and a further setback ensued.

Attempts by shorts to cover disclosed that the market had been oversold, and a decided upturn was the result. The close was steady at ⅞@1c to 1⅛@1¼c net advance.

Commission houses seemed to have only selling orders for oats. What little demand there was came from shorts.

Provisions held steady with hogs. The market was apparently disposed to keep within 2½c either way from Saturday night's level.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Early Gains and Subsequent Reaction Followed By Brisk Rise.

Advance Continues in Late Afternoon and Close Is Firm.

New York, March 23.—Trading came almost to a standstill today and prices barely changed from last week's close after an early rise and subsequent reaction. Settlement of the New Haven negotiations, the decrease in idle freight cars shown in the fortnightly report and an increase in freight movement on Western lines, supplied ammunition to the bulls for operations at the pending, but the inquiry was not sufficiently broad to maintain prices.

Traders who covered on the rise late last week put out new lines when it became apparent that the market had lost strength. Copper shares made relatively a better showing than other stocks owing to the increased demand and higher prices for the metal both here and abroad.

Bonds were irregular.

The New Haven dissolution agreement caused an advance of 1¼ in the stock at the opening of the market today, but most of this rise was quickly lost. Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific advanced 1. The tone of the market as a whole was strong and most of the favorites were marked up by substantial fractions on the opening transactions.

The rather poor response which the market made to the New Haven settlement led to professional selling on the initial rise. New Haven lost all of its advance, and Lehigh sold a point below Saturday's close. Can and Reading also were distinctly heavy.

Speculative sentiment became hopefully disposed again when a brisk demand for the Hill shares lifted Northern Pacific 2 points. Buying all around was more active and broader and the high figures of the forenoon were equalled or passed.

The advance continued with vigor in the late afternoon. It was assisted by rumors of impending favorable developments in the Mexican situation.

The market closed firm. Profit-taking and weakness of Rumely shares caused a fractional reaction. Northern Pacific lost a point of its four-point gain.

HOUSEKEEP WITH YOUR BRAIN

The Modern Housewife Must Plan Ahead to Succeed.

Belle Squire in Woman's World: There is no question but that in the early days, and until our era was ushered in, the home was a paying investment. It was a factory where many of the things of life were manufactured, actually made by hand, as the word implies, and the family had little save what they themselves made or produced. They never dreamed of the problems that haunt us today, while we are in danger of forgetting the nature of the problems that so troubled them. We are likely, too, to forget the lessons of frugality and thrift that they were forced to learn until they become habits, the lessons that made them so capable, which gave them such strong and noble characters in both men and women.

So it has come about that not only has the mode of living been revolutionized by the tremendous changes that have taken place, but problems of the greatest kind have arisen for the solving, of which there is no experience in histor to guide us. In fact, not only is there a "woman question," but a "man question" as well, though perhaps it would be more correct to say that there is really a tangle of questions involving men, women and children.

To make the home a paying investment today takes business ability, keen brains, willing hands and feet, high ideals, as well as considerable degree of self control. But there is no money return in the modern home. If it pays, it must pay in human satisfaction, in human welfare, in human achievement.

Perhaps it will simplify matters to say at once that woman has exchanged her spinning wheel, her loom, her candle molds, her churn and much of the machinery of the ancient home for a new tool, a very simple one, but one which shows how much the character of her work has changed. That she often spurns the use of it, that she does not esteem it as she ought, and that she does not even recognize it as a tool, is perhaps the reason her problem seems so difficult to solve, or that she has so often failed; for her new tool is a simple pencil, or perhaps a fountain pen, and her work, to be efficient, must be as much mental as manual. In fact, she should work with her brain more than with her hands. If she is to succeed, she must learn to look ahead, to lay plans and carry them out. If she does this she will find many uses for her pencil or her pen.

It should never be forgotten that not what is earned as much as what is boughted determines the value of the money received. It is in reality a matter of arithmetic, of strict business, not of sentiment. It is a problem to be solved by pencil and paper; a matter of daily, weekly, monthly and yearly accounts; a balancing of income against the outgo. In fact, the problem is to convert the outgo of money into an income of human welfare and satisfaction. It also involves the problem of keeping the money income equal to or in excess of the money outgo. So far it is strictly a matter of arithmetic, of business and has nothing to do with the heart.

THE TIDAL WAVE OF INDECENCY.

Editorial from the Century: The tidal wave of indecency which has been swelling enormously these several years, and which now, let us sincerely hope, is at its crest, is not a freak of civilization, nor a sign of degeneracy, nor a triumph of evil-mindedness, nor the first swift steps of our plunge into the utter annihilation of wickedness, nor any other of the horrible phenomena suggested by short-sighted and frightened persons.

Shocking though some of its latest manifestations are, it is really nothing to be seriously alarmed about—any more than seasickness or any other abnormal accompaniment of change. Civilization is crossing seas just now, and the ship is rocking most unpleasantly between moorings.

We have cast off most happily the grim and fettering old convention of unnatural silence about natural facts, and we have not yet laid firm hold upon the new and natural and decently frank and altogether livable convention which will be established when civilization determines the kind and extent of the reserves necessary to make living sensitive and high-minded and noble under the conditions of our new intellectual honesty, our increased knowledge and our finer civilization.

Meantime, without compass or steerage way, we roll a little in the trough. It is history for the thousandth time repeated.

Therefore let us not waste emotion bewailing a temporary condition. Let us take our dose as calmly as possible. Let us see in the license of some of our plays a feeling about for limits and let us enjoy the spectacle of the inevitable utter discomfiture of those who pass them. Let us recognize in the self-degradation of a few conspicuous periodicals an attempt to exploit for profit an assumed moral rottenness in a generation which, its curiosity once sated, is already beginning to prove itself sound, and let us, during the next several years, watch with amused comprehension their disorderly scuttling back into the safety of convention. As for the heralded eccentricity of modern dress, that carries its own cure. At worst it is a safety valve; and one may trust in all conditions the collective taste of American women.

Again, let not our judgments be impaired by the prominence and large circulation of several of these periodicals. After all, they are as one to thousands of those which like the Century, will realize in their pages only the restrained freedom and the soundest taste of our newer and honester and more enlightened times.

JUST A JOKE.

Los Angeles Times: The late Timothy Woodruff once attended an alumni dinner in New York—the dinner of a co-ed college—and at this dinner, in the course of a toast, the president of the college said:

"You can always tell a woman who has taken a university degree."

"Tell her!" Mr. Woodruff interrupted. "What can you tell her? You can't tell her anything. She knows it all."

OWN A HOME

AND CHEAT THE RAINY DAY

That every man can be a property owner needs no discussion, but that only a small percentage do, needs some comment.

Five, ten or fifteen years ago had you purchased a home on the easy payment plan, on payments no bigger than the monthly rent, it would be free and clear today and working for you every minute. It would have greatly increased in value. But it's never too late. In fact, there never was a better time to buy than now, never a time when the prospects for a bigger and better Duluth looked better, or a time when cozy, comfortable homes can be purchased on such easy terms. That monthly rent will do it, and to do it is a duty.

Every day The Herald's Real Estate Columns call to you with lists of payment plan homes. Look them over. You'll find what you want.

ULSTER TROUBLE AND ARMY DEFECTION MAY OVERTHROW ASQUITH

Rank and File of Liberal Party Dissatisfied Over Situation.

London, March 24.—The dissolution of the British parliament has been hastened by the events of the last few days, according to the opinion expressed today in political circles. The surrender of the government to the officers of the army who declined to serve against the Ulstermen is particularly significant in this connection.

The Irish Nationalists, it is pointed out, will not accept home rule with Ulster permanently excluded, while the government has found it impossible to compel Ulster to come under a Dublin parliament.

It is argued that the only way out of the difficulty is to hold a general election, and no one would be surprised if the government, during the second reading of the home rule bill next week, should offer to dissolve parliament on condition that the home rule, the Welsh disestablishment and the plural voting bills be passed.

Liberals Dissatisfied.

The dissatisfaction of the rank and file of the Liberals with the government's treatment of the army officers is another factor which is likely to hasten a general election. Many radicals would like to join forces with the labor members and make an appeal to the country on the refusal of officers to act against striking working men.

The provincial Liberal papers, as is usual, are even more outspoken on the subject of the government's surrender to the officers than are their London contemporaries. The Manchester Guardian says:

"It is with the deepest regret, and some shame, that we have heard of

BOY OF 15 GIVES POLICE HOT FIGHT

Terre Haute Lad Surrenders Only When Seriously Wounded.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 24.—After a fight with the police, during which more than fifty shots were exchanged, Ernest McWilliams, aged 15, surrendered when his clothing was soaked with blood from many wounds.

The boy was caught early today in the gunshop of Edward Tetzel and when called upon to surrender, replied with a fusillade of shots. While the police armed themselves with riot guns, McWilliams barricaded himself in an automobile in the rear of the store and kept up a continuous fire. All the window panes in the store were broken and the automobile was riddled with bullets from the policemen's guns.

After being wounded many times, McWilliams screamed that he would give himself up, and, with arms above his head, staggered out of the store. He was sent to a hospital, where it was said his condition was serious.

Five loaded revolvers were found in the boy's pockets and he had placed a number of loaded rifles and shotguns in the automobile where he had made his stand against the police.

WOMAN IN CANADA MRS. BELLE GUNNESS?

Northwest Mounted Police Keep Watch on Homesteader Near Neville.

Swift Current, Sask., March 24.—After several weeks of rumors which at first they were inclined to discredit, officers of the Northwest Mounted Police today placed a watch on a woman homesteader near Neville, under the suspicion that she may be Mrs. Belle Gunness, the La Porte, Ind., murderess.

The watch will be maintained until officers from the United States, who personally knew Mrs. Gunness, arrive to prove or discredit reported identification.

MRS. FRANCES SQUIRE POTTER NEAR DEATH.

Chicago, March 24.—Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, for many years a conspicuous figure in the fight for woman suffrage, was reported today to be near death at her home here. Mrs. Potter has been ill for two years. She was for a number of years professor of literature at the University of Minnesota.

GERMAN SCIENTIST DROWNS HIMSELF.

Stuttgart, Germany, March 24.—The body of Prof. Otto Harnack, one of three celebrated brothers, was found in the Neckar river today. The professor, who was connected with the school system here, had been missing for a month. It is supposed that he committed suicide during a mental breakdown.

3,000 NURSES AND PATIENTS VACCINATED.

STATE-WIDE VOTE IS HELD

South Dakota Holds First General Primary of the Year.

Milwaukee Has City Primary—Voting in Other States.

Pierre, S. D., March 24.—Candidates for the United States senate, for congress in three districts and for state offices will be nominated at South Dakota's primary election—the first state-wide primary to be held in the United States this year—which is in progress today with prospects of a heavy vote.

Campaign managers of United States Senator Coe I. Crawford, candidate of the majority Republican faction, who is seeking renomination, and Congressman Charles H. Burke of the Second district, are claiming victories for their candidates by substantial majorities. Burke is opposing Crawford on the minority ticket.

Dick Wood of Sioux Falls is opposing Congressman Dillon, who is seeking renomination in the First district. Attorney General Johnson and Judge McNulty are candidates for the Republican nomination in the Second district, and Judge Rice and State Senator Bartine seek nomination for congress in the Third district.

Three Would Head Ticket.

In the three-cornered fight for governor, Governor Byrne, majority candidate, is opposed by R. O. Richards and H. B. Anderson.

For congress, Third district—H. L. Gandy, Wasuca.

For governor—J. W. McCarter, Bowdle.

Milwaukee Polls Open.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24.—Milwaukee city and county are today holding a primary election for the nomination of candidates to go before the people on April 7 for the office of mayor and other city and county officials, including boards of aldermen and supervisors. Fourteen hours, or from 6 a. m. to 8 p. m., have been set apart for voters to cast their ballots.

PENNSYLVANIA BANK ROBBER NOT CAUGHT

Cashier and Customer Whom He Wounded Will Survive.

Altoona, Pa., March 24.—After a twenty-four hours' search, the police have failed to find a clew to the identity or whereabouts of a bandit who yesterday shot up the Union bank and stole $2,882. The police believe the robber has escaped from this section of the state.

The wounded cashier and a customer who was shot while entering the bank are in no danger.

THREE FIREMEN IN CHICAGO OVERCOME.

Chicago, March 24.—Three firemen were overcome by smoke and a score of families were driven from home today by a blaze which caused $50,000 damage to a four-story brick building at 1644 Girard street, occupied by several manufacturing concerns. The fire was caused by crossed electric wires, and was extinguished before several hundred men and women employed in the building had reported for work.

DIGS UP 1884 LAW ON TOLLS

Senator Chamberlain Would Repeal It With Panama Bill.

Offers Resolution Asking Data on U. S. Waterways.

Washington, March 24.—Basis for an important phase of the argument against the administration proposal for repeal of the tolls exemption provision of the Panama canal act was placed before the senate today when Senator Chamberlain of Oregon introduced a resolution which would pave the way toward repeal of a section of the rivers and harbors act of July 5, 1884, providing that no tolls or operating charges be charged on any vessels "through any canal or other work for the improvement of navigation belonging to the United States."

After setting forth in detail the purpose sought by the government in the act of 1884, the Chamberlain resolution, which calls upon the secretary of war for information relating to the maintenance of rivers and canals, declares:

"Whereas, If the free tolls clause of the Panama canal act is to be repealed and tolls are to be levied upon vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States, the policy of the government is to be completely reversed, and the act of July 5, 1884, ought to be repealed and tolls charged on all the improved waterways and canals of the country so that there might be uniform system for the use of these utilities;

"Reversal of Policy."

"Therefore, In anticipation of a possible repeal of the free tolls clause of the Panama canal act, and of a reversal of the time honored policy of the United States with reference to river and harbor improvement and canal construction and operation of these governmental utilities free of charge to all commerce, and in order to ascertain the facts in reference to these improvements; therefore be it

Resolved, "That the secretary of war

EX-U. S. MARSHAL ACCUSED OF HOLDUP

"Big Bill" Richards May Go Back to Iowa Prison.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 24.—William Richards, popularly known as "Big Bill" Richards, who for twenty years was a deputy United States marshal for the Southern district of Iowa, is in jail here today facing possible return to the penitentiary at Fort Madison as the result of a charge of attempted robbery last night. Richards, who is 59 years old, recently was released from an 18-year term on a parole.

Richards was arrested by the police on the charge of Mrs. H. B. Lafore that he was one of three masked men who entered her home last night and at the point of a pistol compelled her to be silent while his two companions searched the place. Mrs. Lafore broke away and notified the police and Richards was captured as he was trying to escape.

The former officer was said to be one of the most daring in the service of the government. His most notable case was when he trailed a gang of gamblers and green goods men from Missouri to Oklahoma and finally to Chicago, where, without aid, he arrested them. He was convicted several years ago of an attempted robbery at Indianola and after a long legal fight began his term in the penitentiary.

Depew, N. Y., March 24.—Daybreak found Depew an armed camp. The Forty-seventh regiment of militia, ordered out at the request of Sheriff Frederick C. Becker, whose force of deputies was unable to handle the rioting strikers at the Gould Coupler works yesterday, began to arrive before dawn, and by 6 a. m. the plant was under military protection.

The question of placing the whole town under martial law was discussed by the national guard officers at a conference later in the day.

The special train on the Lackawanna railroad which was held up and wrecked yesterday came through from Buffalo to the plant today under military protection. A detail from the Seventy-fourth regiment guarded the Transit road crossing, the scene of yesterday's rioting, in which one man was killed and several injured. There was no sign of trouble there today.

Used Bayonets on Crowds.

Groups of the strikers and their sympathizers gathered near the main entrance of the coupler works when the train arrived. The crowd dispersed when ordered to leave by the officer in charge, but quickly reassembled at another entrance. There Company D, under Lieut. Oberfield, had to use their bayonets freely before the mob would

CONVICTS JOY RIDE IN WARDEN'S MOTOR

Joliet, Ill., March 24.—After escaping from the Joliet penitentiary and spending a night joy-riding over Chicago's boulevards in Warden Allen's automobile, Edward Smith and James McGee, two trusties serving life sentences, were taken into custody four blocks from the institution as they were on their way back to surrender.

The men told the guards who arrested them that it had carefully planned the escape and intended to abandon the automobile in Chicago, but after a night of joy-riding decided to return to prison.

"Warden Allen treated us mighty well and we thought it best not to violate the confidence he placed in us," they said.

WILL HEAR ROADS AGAIN

Plea in Eastern Rate Case Granted By Commerce Commission.

No Decision Likely to Be Given Until Late in April.

Washington, March 24.—The interstate commerce commission will take additional testimony of the railroads before deciding the Eastern advance rate case. As April 20, 21 and 22 are the first days available, such an announcement today is taken to indicate no decision before that time.

The statement issued by the commission follows:

"The carriers have expressed their desire to present, at an early date, additional testimony touching their financial requirements, and also to have an opportunity to offer evidence in rebuttal of the testimony recently introduced in opposition to the proposed increase in rates.

"Having no other date available in the near future, the commission has thought it wise to postpone until further notice the argument on the spotting question now assigned for March 30 and 31, and to devote those dates to the hearing of such further evidence.

May Continue Hearing.

"If the carriers are not able to complete this additional testimony at the close of March 31, the hearing will be continued on April 20, 21 and 22, those being the earliest available additional dates.

"As none of the commissioners were able to be present when the testimony was given on this subject by the representative of the railroad commissions of the states of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, he has been requested to appear again on March 30 to restate in substance the testimony already given by him."

KOETTERS' TRIAL IS BEGUN IN CHICAGO

Family of Accused Man Is Attending the Sessions.

Chicago, March 24.—The state today began its case against John B. ("Handsome Jack") Koetters, accused of killing with a hammer Mrs. Emma Kraft of Cincinnati, in a hotel here Nov. 14, 1912. Koetters' mother, father and two sisters came from Cincinnati to be with him during the trial.

Stephen Malato, assistant state's attorney, who will prosecute Koetters, declared in his opening address that the state would prove that Koetters, under promise of marriage, lured Mrs. Kraft, who was advanced in years, to this city, borrowed large sums from her and finally crushed her head with a hammer to be rid of her.

GOMEZ PALACIO HAS FALLEN; TORREON IS NOW BEING ATTACKED

Sanguinary Fighting Marks Villa's Capture of Suburb.

Defense By Federals Is Surprise to Attacking Force.

American Return of Shots Across Border Approved Officially.

Juarez, Mex., March 24.—Gomez Palacio was in the hands of the rebels this morning, according to information given out at the office of Gen. Chao here, and Gen. Benavides, at the head of the Zaragosa brigade, was moving against Torreon. No statement of casualties in the desperate street fighting in Gomez Palacio last night was available, though the fighting there is said to have been of the most sanguinary character. The rebels took the water tank on Cerro de la Pilar, the Brittingham soap factory and the cuartel. The cuartel caught fire and the rebels were compelled to abandon it. Streams of wounded were taken to the field hospital at El Verjel, and as fast as possible were sent back to the general hospital at Bermejillo. Losses on both sides are reported heavy.

Villa Is Confident.

Although desperate fighting still was in progress at Gomez Palacio, at the gateway of Torreon, at 11 o'clock last night, Gen. Villa felt so confident of victory that he returned to the main base at Bermejillo. This was for the purpose of behuahua and other points with refering able to telegraph directly to Chihuahua and the movement of his troops.

The rebels are reported to have Torreon closely surrounded, and last reports were that the whole army was confident of the early fall of the Federal stronghold. The occupation of Lerdo, practically without resistance, and the assumed victory at Gomez Palacio leave only Torreon to be taken, and the first important stage of the revolution will be over. The conquest of Mazatlan, Saltillo and Monterey is taken for granted, once the main Fed-

SIMS BILL IS MADE TO WAIT

House Drags Along on Rivers and Harbors Measure.

Telegrams for and Against Repeal Are Read in Senate.

Washington, March 24.—There was no prospect of getting the Sims bill to repeal the Panama tolls exemption before the house today. Consideration of the rivers and harbors appropriation bill again dragged along.

Administration leaders hoped the tolls drebate might begin Thursday.

Chairman Henry of the rules committee was waiting to bring in a special rule for immediate consideration of the repeal bill with fifteen hours of general debate, and barring any amendments or other intervening motions except a motion to recommit to the committee on interstate commerce.

"Staggering Blow."

Senator O'Gorman had read in the senate chamber today letters and telegrams commending his opposition to the repeal. One telegram from the New Orleans Association of Commerce declared repeal would be a "staggering blow to American aspirations for re-establishment of our merchant marine."

Another, from the San Francisco chamber of commerce, urged the senator to fight repeal to the last.

Senator James had read a telegram from Former Senator Blanchard of Louisiana to Senator Thornton, declaring that public sentiment in Louisiana overwhelmingly favored the repeal as urged by President Wilson.

CONFERENCE ON POSTMASTERSHIP

Miller and Burleson Discuss Change at Duluth Office.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, March 24.—The fact that Postmaster General Burleson and Representative Miller had an hour's conference yesterday afternoon on the Duluth postmastership became known today, but both the participants were reticent about the matter. Representative Miller said today that he called at the department at Mr. Burleson's request and went over the situation fully. He refused, however, to say anything as to the probable developments in the case. Mr. Burleson also declined to give any information on the subject.

The nomination of W. E. McEwen to be postmaster has been before the senate nearly a week, but so far the committee on postoffices and post roads has not acted on it. Mr. Miller has said that he opposed McEwen's confirmation at present, because Postmaster Cook's removal was decided upon without good cause. He is trying to have Mr. Cook serve out his four-year term which expires in June.

BIG CROWD AT NOON SERVICE

Dr. Hoffman Exhorts Men to Strive for Spiritual Attainments.

Dr. Burns Leads Prayer Service and Miss Hyland Sings.

Another immense noon-day audience greeted Dr. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First M. E. church, today, when he gave the second of his series of sermons at the Lyceum theater. The first two floors of the theater were crowded and even the second gallery was well filled. The keynote of Dr. Hoffman's sermon was that the business man should apply himself as diligently in rounding out his spiritual nature as he does in building up his business.

Dr. M. P. Burns, district superintendent of the M. E. church, led the prayer service and Miss Florence Hyland sang "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

Dr. Hoffman said in part:

"Men of unusual ability are rare. The history of humanity shows but few who attain the rank of genius. The writers, the workers, the thinkers who command the homage of the world, are easily counted. Creative energy has been quite sparing in its prophets of the mould of Isaiah, in its scientists of the fame of Newton, in its poets of the insight of Shakespeare, in its statesmen of the mentality of Gladstone, in its emancipators of the humanity of Lincoln. We dare not aspire to this royal company of the elect of every nation. The invisible Sovereign who distributes endowments severally as He wills, has excluded us from those of giant powers but not from the alert, the enterprising, and the wide-awake. Invention may not be among our gifts. Acute reasoning powers may not be among our possessions, but we can ever be wide-eyed and keen-visioned.

Interest in Life.

"Alertness depends not upon brilliancy of mind; it arises out of a deep personal interest in life. It is not an endowment by the Almighty; it is a development of the will. It hinges upon one's appreciation of the meaning and value of life rather than upon one's collegiate and academic training. It perceives an opportunity not so much because of higher mental gifts as because of a keen relish for achievement. The fact that some people are always tardy in every enterprise, a little in arrears in every movement, somewhat unfortunate in entering the openings of business and professional life is not due to an ill-starred course but to sleepiness.

Must Have Broad Purpose.

"Nor is this sufficient. We must go deeper and find the reason for the failure of some, for the tardiness of others, and for the fatal blundering of many in a purpose that is too narrow, too limited, too superficial. Never could the disciples have slept after Pentecost. Purpose had widened and deepened. It then included a living experience of the breadth and heights of life. Many a father is missing the grandeur of living. He is a keen, active, energetic man of trade. He is thoroughly unfounded in matters of finance. He is a man of real integrity and of high honor. His business methods are fair, his commercial aims are conventional. He buys at the right time and sells at the opportune moment. His children and clerks are drilled in skill and competency. The finest our schools can offer, the best that travel can do, the highest that money can buy are bestowed freely in his family. In the administration of business opportunities, in the employment of cultural resources of society, and in the appreciation of the practical affairs of the home, this alert man of trade is all that one can desire. But his purpose is narrow; it does not include God. Strange, is it not, how ambitious many women are to be known as well informed on current topics and how solicitious for social advancement and yet how ordinary in moral culture and how ignorant in religious development. We dread being called an ignoramous in literature but rather pride ourselves in our stupidity in piety. In matters of etiquette, of practical wisdom, of the management of the mill and shop we are brilliant, but we present a sorry spectacle when we undertake to deal with the soul and Christ. There are those who are men of sagacity in affairs political but in matters of eternity their ignorance is as dense as a Hottentot.

Missed Golden Opportunity.

"These drowsy disciples missed the contents of a conversation, which did our sobbing, sorrowing, heart-broken world but know, might have saved much bitterness and wretchedness. This is the eternal sadness of a life whose interests are not as broad as humanity and whose purposes are not universal as God. The knowledge we should have, the message we should give, the inspiration we should furnish, we cannot. Our vision was not wide enough. Opportunity passed by, never to return. One day the lad asks: 'Father, why are we so poor?' 'Because, boy, your father slept when the vision splendid shone in the way.'

Alert to God.

"'I have missed it at last,' with a sob and a groan the dying man exclaimed. The Christian physician spoke to him of the thief on the cross, he urged him to remember the laborers called at the eleventh hour. It was of no avail. Bitterly he recalled the past. He had cultivated skill of hand but not God. His interest and purpose in life were mental not moral, commercial not spiritual, material not religious. No matter how broad any benerous we conceive the love of God, the young man made a mistake that was fatal; he suffered a loss that was irrecoverable. Does your alertness include the whole of life? Our enterprise should include Christ as well as grain, God as well as ore.

Dr. Hoffman's topic for tomorrow will be "Materials and Use." Miss Mary Gladys Reynolds will be the soloist.

Probably Additional to Those Suspended at Duluth's Protest.

Washington, March 24. — Material increases in class and commodity freight rates from Duluth, Minn., to various points proposed by the Great Northern and Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railways were suspended today by the Interstate commerce commission until July 23. Some of the changes proposed are reductions, but most are advances ranging from 8 per cent to 50 per cent.

G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, believes the rates mentioned in the Washington dispatch to be additional ones besides the specific ones protested against by the Duluth traffic commission. Those were suspended to July 23 some time ago.

The motion was made after the plaintiffs' case had been presented. MAY LOSE LAKE LINE TO CHICAGO.

Because of inability to obtain proper wharf accommodations in Chicago, the Crosby Transportation company of Chicago, according to a letter just received by G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Commercial club, from F. A. Bixley, general freight agent of that line, may have no boats running to Duluth instead of two as was intended. Last year one boat was on the route but this year increased business seemed to make an additional boat imperative.

The Booth line will be much affected by this change in plans as it handled all of the business going along the north or south shores from here.

DEFENSE HAS ITS INNING

Witnesses Tell of Alleged Immoral Acts By Victor H. Gran.

The defense is having its inning today at the Gran divorce trial which has been dragging along in Judge Cant's division of the district court since Wednesday last.

Testimony was introduced this morning in support of charges af adultery preferred by Mrs. Olga Gran in a cross bill against her husband, Victor H. Gran, a local attorney. Gran is suing his wife for divorce on the grounds of adultery and she is retaliating with specific accusations of similar unfaithfulness against him.

Albert H. Callow, Butte, Mont., attorney, formerly employed as a clerk in the law office of Heino & Gran, testified that during the month of July, 1908, he had accompanied Gran to a house of ill fame at Bovey, Minn., and that on Christmas eve of the same year, he had visited the "White Castle," a resort in the restricted district of Superior, in company with Gran.

On cross-examination, Callow denied that John R. Heino, now co-respondent in the Gran divorce case, had advanced him the money with which to put himself through law school, but admitted that he had been active since February last in helping secure witnesses to testify against Gran.

Max Dreger, taxicab driver, testified he carried Gran and an unknown woman as passengers in his car from Duluth to the Leslie hotel at Superior on the night of March 15, 1913, and that he called for them at 2 o'clock on the following morning and brought them back to Duluth. Upon returning, he testified, Gran and the woman went to the Imperial hotel. M. J. Kippo, a bookkeeper, testified that he had seen Gran, in company with a woman, enter the hotel.

Edward Bouchey testified that whole he was managing the Imperial hotel, he had furnished Gran and a woman a room.

John Stokke, former president of the village of Floodwood and now tie inspector for the Great Northern railway, testified that he had visited Boyle's cafe on numerous occasions with Gran and that they had private dining rooms with girls while there.

Trades for Seaton.

Chicago, March 24.—Four players, including Cad Coles, outfielder, will be added to the roster of the Brooklyn Federal league club as part of the deal by which Tom Seaton, the former Philadelphia National pitcher, is transferred to the Chicago Federals. This news was contained in dispatches today from Shreveport, the training camp of Manager Tinker's team. One of the four whom the Chicago club will give is a young pitcher, according to Tinker.

STRIKE-BREAKERS ARE AT PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 24.—Two carloads of railroad men arrived here during the night from the East to take the places of striking freight crews, who have almost completely tied up the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad since last Saturday. It was said today that an effort would be made to move the accumulated freight, much of which is coke and coal, on sidetracks in the Connellsville region. The strike is not recognized by the railroad brotherhood, and the strikers are endeavoring to extend it to other divisions by their own efforts.

J. B. Hendricks, general chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors, said today:

"The strike is not sanctioned by the railroad unions, and the men have been notified that they will certainly lose their membership in the brotherhoods as they appear to have lost their jobs with the railroad."

ITCHY SALT RHEUM

Sometimes Called Eczema---Removed By Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Salt rheum is one of the worst and unfortunately one of the most common of all diseases. How it reddens the skin, itches, oozes, dries and scales, and then does this all over again! Sometimes it covers the whole body with inflamed, burning patches and causes intense suffering.

Salt rheum comes from humors in the blood. This is why local applications do so little good. It will continue to exist, annoy, pain and perhaps agonize, until these humors have been removed.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. It goes to the source of the trouble. It cleanses the blood of the humors that cause salt rheum. It has given perfect satisfaction in thousands of cases. Get it today.

FIGHTING NEW DULUTH'S CASE

Traffic Commission Protests Against New Switching Charges.

The New Duluth Commercial club recently protested against an action of the Northern Pacific road which abolished the recognition of New Duluth as a switching zone, making all switching from there to other parts of the city chargeable at distance tariff rates. Formerly, to Jan. 1 last, it was Zone No. 3, and the charges were accordingly lower.

Now the protest has taken official form and has been forwarded to the state railroad and warehouse commission through G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, the petition requesting the commission to investigate the matter and to order a refund of a portion of the switching charges collected under the new orders. These advanced the rate considerably, and, it is claimed, cripple industries in that end of the city.

RECRUITS WILL SEE THE CANAL

Any young man joining the United States navy at the present time will have an opportunity of taking the cruise through the Panama canal at the opening in January, 1915, according to Chief Quartermaster Erickson, who is in charge of the local recruiting station.

Quartermaster Erickson said this morning that a young man joining the navy now will first be sent for a short course at the training stations either in the East or in California. This will last for about six or eight months, after which the recruit is detailed to a battleship.

It is the plan of the navy department, Quartermaster Erickson said, to utilize every available battleship for the parade through the canal. This will mean that practically every man in the service of the navy at the beginning of next year will have an opportunity to go through the canal and take part in the ceremonies marking the opening of the ditch to the world.

Consumption Takes 350 People Daily

in the United States and the deadly germs claim more victims in cities than in rural districts, due no doubt to the increased number of indoor workers in confining quarters and their lack of sunshine.

Tubercular germs always attack when the system is weakened from colds or sickness, overwork, overstrain, confining duties or any drain which has reduced the resistive forces of the body. But nature always provides a corrector and the best physicians emphasize that during changing climate our blood should be kept rich and pure and active by taking Scott's Emulsion after meals; the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion warms the body by enriching the blood—it peculiarly strengthens the lungs and upbuilds the resistive forces of the body to avoid colds and prevent consumption.

If you work indoors, tire easily, feel languid or nervous, Scott's Emulsion is the most strengthening food-medicine known; it builds energy and strength and is totally free from alcohol or any stupefying drug—every druggist has it.

NOT ENTITLED TO DAMAGES

City Not Responsible for Injury to Boy, Court Holds.

Five-year-old Clement Emmett Boyd, who was injured by a falling timber while playing under a bridge on Grand avenue near Eightieth avenue west on Sept. 7, 1912, was a trespasser within the meaning of the law and is not entitled to recover damages from the city, according to an opinion handed down in district court yesterday by Judge Bert Fesler in connection with an order setting aside verdicts for $1,000 and $500 which have been awarded to the boy and his father. Judgment of the jury in each case was reversed and entered in favor of the city.

The lad was playing under the bridge on the day of the accident. While watching workman engaged in the repair of the bridge, a timber became dislodged, fell and struck him on the foot. The blow left him a cripple for life. Alexander Boyd, the boy's father, brought two actions to recover damages, one for the benefit of the boy and the other for his own loss. After verdicts had been returned against the city, Harvey Clapp, city attorney, moved the court for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial. A. E. McManus, attorney for Boyd, opposed the motion.

In granting the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, Judge Fesler held that there was no evidence produced at the trial to show that the bridge or highway was unsafe for travel at the time of the accident. The court also held that the city owned the boy no duty other than not to injure him wilfully and that there was no evidence of wilful negligence at the trial. The court stated in its memorandum that because the lad was under the bridge in a place of danger the city should not be held liable for damages. His appearance there, the court ruled, was traspass.

An interesting game has also been scheduled for tomorrow evening between a rink skipped by Mr. Mallory and another skipped by Kenneth McDonald. These two men have the distinction of still having to win their first game this season. Melvin Olson has offered a box of cigars to the winning rink.

WILL CONSIDER CONSOLIDATION

The quarterly conference of the Merritt Memorial Methodist church will meet in the church tomorrow night. The conference will take up the question of whether or not to join with the Asbury Methodist congregation in the consolidation of the two churches. A similar question will be taken up by the quarterly conference at the Asbury church on Saturday evening.

Following the action taken by the conference, if that action is favorable, the congregation of each church will be asked to vote on the subject. It is intimated that there will be considerable opposition to the proposition from the Merritt congregation, many of whom object to having the church moved toward the center of West Duluth.

Rev. M. P. Burns, superintendent of the Duluth district for the Methodist church will preside at both conferences.

RECEIVER FOR HOTEL APPOINTED.

District Judge Bert Fesler yesterday afternoon appointed Emil J. Zauft as receiver for the Grand hotel and saloon property at 5219 Ramsey street. The action of the court was taken after M. Kamerer and C. J. and Mary C. Petruschke had failed to arrive at a settlement of their financial difficulties out of court. Saturday the court dissolved a writ of attachment issued against the property at the instance of Kamerer and the court gave the litigants until yesterday afternoon to settle their affairs out of court. They failed to do so and a receiver was appointed. Mr. Zauft will take charge of the hotel and saloon and will conduct the business under the receivership.

FACES ONE CHARGE FOR ELEVEN CRIMES

Fred Jackson, who yesterday morning confessed to eleven burglaries since December, 1912, entailing a total loss of about $1,200 to the several victims, this morning waived examination when brought before Judge Cutting in police court and he was bound over to the May term of the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree.

Although Jackson admits having committed burglary in eight different places in the last fifteen months, he was arraigned yesterday morning on the one specific charge of having burglarized the hardware store of A. O. Geise at 103 West Superior street on March 10 last, when $25 was stolen from the cash register and several knives, razors and fountain pens were also taken from the store.

When arraigned yesterday morning Jackson asked for a hearing and the examination was set for this morning. He waived this right when brought before Judge Cutting this morning and he was bound over to the grand jury. It is probable that Jackson will plead guilty before one of the district court judges before the grand jury meets in May.

Jackson was arrested early Sunday morning while standing in an alley at Second avenue east. He aroused the suspicion of Patrolman Ricketts, who took Jackson to headquarters, where he was booked up on a charge of drunkenness. Following an investigation Sunday it was discovered that Jackson had considerable of the stolen property at his home, and the more serious charge of grand larceny was then placed against him.

Thin Folks Who Would Be Fat

Increase in Weight Ten Pounds or More

A Physician's Advice.

"I'd certainly give most anything to be able to fat up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every excessively thin man or woman. Such a result is not impossible, despite past failures. Thin people are victims of mal-nutrition, a condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead of getting into the blood, all the fat and flesh producing elements stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste.

To correct this condition and to produce a healthy normal amount of fat the nutritive processes must be artificially supplied with the power which nature has denied them. This can best be accomplished by eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a scientific combination of six of the best strength-giving fat-producing elements known to the medical profession. Taken with meals, it mixes with the food and turns the sugars and starches into rich, ripe nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect is remarkable. Reported gains of from ten to twenty-five pounds in a single month are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless. Sargol is sold by the Boyce drug store and other good druggists everywhere and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Caution: While Sargol has produced remarkable results in the treatment of nervous indigestion and general stomach disorders, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh producing effect be used by those who are not willing to increase their weight ten pounds or more.

ACCUSE GOVERNOR IN MOYER'S PLEAS

Houghton, Mich., March 24.—Charges that Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris of Michigan influenced the Houghton county grand jury before that body assembled to consider the copper mine strike cases, are made in one of the pleas of abatement filed with Circuit Judge O'Brien by counsel for Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, and thirty-seven other officers and members of that organization now under indictment for conspiracy. Judge O'Brien yesterday denied a motion to quash the indictments.

The six pleas of abatement follow: That Governor Ferris attended the grand jury session without legal authority, and by his presence intimidated the grand jury into bringing the indictment.

Wrote to Grand Jurors.

That Special Prosecutor Nichols attended the grand jury sessions without authority, and only to influence the jury to bring indictments.

That Special Prosecutor Nichols was not appointed by the court to act as prosecutor before the grand jury.

That Attorney General Fellows attended the sessions without authority, and that he coerced the jury to bring the indictment.

That Attorney General Fellows suggested the indictments that were brought, and therefore they were not the free expression of the jury.

Nichols Will Reply.

Special Prosecutor Nichols is preparing answers to the pleas, and will present them at the opening of the April term of court.

Mr. Nichols said that if the pleas of abatement were overruled at that time, he would take the necessary steps to bring Moyer and the men indicted with him back for trial.

For Freckled, Rough or Spotty Complexions

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation. —Advertisement.

A WARNING TO MANY

Some Interesting Facts About Kidney Troubles

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patients' urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1912, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper, enclose ten cents and they will gladly forward it to you by Parcels Post.

Swamp-Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c. and $1.00.

NOT ENTITLED TO DAMAGES

City Not Responsible for Injury to Boy, Court Holds.

Five-year-old Clement Emmett Boyd, who was injured by a falling timber while playing under a bridge on Grand avenue near Eightieth avenue west on Sept. 7, 1912, was a trespasser within the meaning of the law and is not entitled to recover damages from the city, according to an opinion handed down in district court yesterday by Judge Bert Fesler in connection with an order setting aside verdicts for $1,000 and $500 which have been awarded to the boy and his father. Judgment of the jury in each case was reversed and entered in favor of the city.

The lad was playing under the bridge on the day of the accident. While watching workman engaged in the repair of the bridge, a timber became dislodged, fell and struck him on the foot. The blow left him a cripple for life. Alexander Boyd, the boy's father, brought two actions to recover damages, one for the benefit of the boy and the other for his own loss. After verdicts had been returned against the city, Harvey Clapp, city attorney, moved the court for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial. A. E. McManus, attorney for Boyd, opposed the motion.

In granting the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, Judge Fesler held that there was no evidence produced at the trial to show that the bridge or highway was unsafe for travel at the time of the accident. The court also held that the city owned the boy no duty other than not to injure him wilfully and that there was no evidence of wilful negligence at the trial. The court stated in its memorandum that because the lad was under the bridge in a place of danger the city should not be held liable for damages. His appearance there, the court ruled, was traspass.

CURLERS WILL HONOR MALLORY

All members of the Western Curling club are expected to be at the rink tonight to take part in festivities planned for the evening. The occasion is in celebration of the birthday of George J. Mallory.

Mr. Mallory has put up a box of cigars which the members will play for. Sides have been chosen with E. H. Wade on one side and Melvin Olson on the other. Four rinks will play on each side and the winners of the aggregate score will get the cigars.

GEORGE J. MALLORY.

An interesting game has also been scheduled for tomorrow evening between a rink skipped by Mr. Mallory and another skipped by Kenneth McDonald. These two men have the distinction of still having to win their first game this season. Melvin Olson has offered a box of cigars to the winning rink.

WILL CONSIDER CONSOLIDATION

The quarterly conference of the Merritt Memorial Methodist church will meet in the church tomorrow night. The conference will take up the question of whether or not to join with the Asbury Methodist congregation in the consolidation of the two churches. A similar question will be taken up by the quarterly conference at the Asbury church on Saturday evening.

Following the action taken by the conference, if that action is favorable, the congregation of each church will be asked to vote on the subject. It is intimated that there will be considerable opposition to the proposition from the Merritt congregation, many of whom object to having the church moved toward the center of West Duluth.

Rev. M. P. Burns, superintendent of the Duluth district for the Methodist church will preside at both conferences.

A WARNING TO MANY

Some Interesting Facts About Kidney Troubles

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patients' urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1912, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper, enclose ten cents and they will gladly forward it to you by Parcels Post.

Swamp-Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c. and $1.00.

RECEIVER FOR HOTEL APPOINTED.

District Judge Bert Fesler yesterday afternoon appointed Emil J. Zauft as receiver for the Grand hotel and saloon property at 5219 Ramsey street. The action of the court was taken after M. Kamerer and C. J. and Mary C. Petruschke had failed to arrive at a settlement of their financial difficulties out of court. Saturday the court dissolved a writ of attachment issued against the property at the instance of Kamerer and the court gave the litigants until yesterday afternoon to settle their affairs out of court. They failed to do so and a receiver was appointed. Mr. Zauft will take charge of the hotel and saloon and will conduct the business under the receivership.

FACES ONE CHARGE FOR ELEVEN CRIMES

Fred Jackson, who yesterday morning confessed to eleven burglaries since December, 1912, entailing a total loss of about $1,200 to the several victims, this morning waived examination when brought before Judge Cutting in police court and he was bound over to the May term of the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree.

Although Jackson admits having committed burglary in eight different places in the last fifteen months, he was arraigned yesterday morning on the one specific charge of having burglarized the hardware store of A. O. Geise at 103 West Superior street on March 10 last, when $25 was stolen from the cash register and several knives, razors and fountain pens were also taken from the store.

When arraigned yesterday morning Jackson asked for a hearing and the examination was set for this morning. He waived this right when brought before Judge Cutting this morning and he was bound over to the grand jury. It is probable that Jackson will plead guilty before one of the district court judges before the grand jury meets in May.

Jackson was arrested early Sunday morning while standing in an alley at Second avenue east. He aroused the suspicion of Patrolman Ricketts, who took Jackson to headquarters, where he was booked up on a charge of drunkenness. Following an investigation Sunday it was discovered that Jackson had considerable of the stolen property at his home, and the more serious charge of grand larceny was then placed against him.

ACCUSE GOVERNOR IN MOYER'S PLEAS

Houghton, Mich., March 24.—Charges that Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris of Michigan influenced the Houghton county grand jury before they investigated the copper mine strike cases, are made in one of the pleas of nonconsent filed with Circuit Judge O'Brien by counsel for Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, and thirty-seven other officers and members of that organization now under indictment for conspiracy. Judge O'Brien yesterday denied a motion to quash the indictments.

The six pleas of abatement follow:

That Governor Ferris attended the grand jury session without legal authority, and by his presence intimidated the grand jury into bringing the indictments.

Wrote to Grand Jurors.

That Special Prosecutor Nichols attended the grand jury sessions without authority, and only to influence the jury to bring indictments.

That Special Prosecutor Nichols was not appointed by the court to act as prosecutor before the grand jury.

That Attorney General Fellows attended the sessions without authority, and that he coerced the jury to bring the indictment.

That Attorney General Fellows suggested the indictments that were brought, and therefore they were not the free expression of the jury.

Nichols Will Reply.

Special Prosecutor Nichols is preparing answers to the pleas, and will present them at the opening of the April term of court.

Mr. Nichols said that if the pleas of abatement were overruled at that time, he would take the necessary steps to bring Moyer and the men indicted with him back for trial.

For Freckled, Rough or Spotty Complexions

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the discolored skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggists. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't seem unusual, but the complexion gradually acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful tint.

While good as weather worry or illness are lost sight of by a single application of beautiful tissue, dissolve a 2-oz. cake of Mercolized wax in a pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation. —Advertisement.

NOW PREFER REGULATION

Objectors to Raising Lake Level Change Point of View.

Will Now Bend Efforts Toward Securing an Equable Level.

The general opinion of the objectors who recently appeared before the International joint commission to protest against allowing the level of Lake Superior to be raised, appears to be that they should direct their efforts towards regulation instead of toward preventing the raise.

Manager D. A. Reed of the water and light department, who represented the city government at the hearing at Detroit, has been corresponding with the railroad men and others who were opposing the grant to the Michigan Northern Power company. He has submitted their views to Mayor Prince. They seem to feel that as both the Federal and Canadian governments favor the project, the objectors could better further their interests by insisting that sufficient sluiceways be provided to maintain an equable level than by attempting to block any raise.

The joint commission adjourned the hearing to April 7, when it will hold its semi- annual meeting at Washington. The application of the power company will again be taken up. The objectors planned to hold a conference to outline a definite method of procedure to be followed at that time, but thus far no final arrangements to that end have been made.

"JOKE" PLEA FAILS IN ROBBERY CASE

Stefan Pilo, Who Robbed Roommate, Bound to Grand Jury.

Judge Cutting wasn't much in a humor this morning to appreciate a robbery as a joke, so he bound Stefan Pilo, 22 years old, over to the May term of the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree.

When questioned on the stand Pilo told the court this morning that he robbed his roommate, Joe Semcysryn, of $63 last Saturday night just for a joke. The court could not see it that way and Stefan will have to see if the district court judges or the grand jury can appreciate such a joke.

Pilo and Semcrysryn were rooming at the Montreal hotel Saturday night and about 2 o'clock the latter awoke to find Pilo gone. He looked for his money and found that also missing, so he notified the police and a search was immediately made for the missing man. The trail led to the interstate bridge, but here the officers lost track of Pilo and they left word with the toll collector to be on the watch for the fugitive. Shortly after Pilo attempted to cross and he was held by the collector until the police arrived and placed him under arrest.

"The Quaker Girl"—she of the lilting song and the graceful dance—is coming to the Lyceum theater Friday and Saturday, March 27 and 28 to tell in a burst of song the tale of her trials and triumphs, her piques and relentings. It is a story of love and romance seductively charming, embellished with coaxing melody and contagious comedy. The success that has attended the career of this musical comedy has amazed even its producers. It has been indorsed in London, where it ran for two years at the Gaiety and Adelphi theaters; one year in Paris, one year in Australia, one year at the Park theater, New York, and is now making a limited tour of the United States and Canada, where it is being greeted by capacity houses. There is only one company presenting the piece this season and that is the original No. 1, which is headed by Victor Morley and includes Harry Macdonough, Jr., Bernice McCabe, Dixie Girard, William Elaisdell, Mlle. Corday, Connie Mack, Carol Parson, Murray Stephen, Phil J. Moore, Harry Sinclair and Charlotte Manning. The chorus and ballet are features of the performance and include some stunning young women. A special orchestra is also a feature.

Little did "Bud" Fisher think when he conceived the idea of "Mutt and Jeff" in cartoon series that they would be the most remarkable success a newspaper artist ever achieved, nor that his effort would be the nucleus of a play that will live as a great laugh producer for young and old.

Every year a "Mutt and Jeff" show is sent out to tour the country. It is a new one in everything but the title this year. No matter how many seasons the old title may be used, the material in the entertainment is not permitted to retrograde. "In Panama," the vehicle used for laughing purposes this season, will be seen at the Lyceum tomorrow matinee and night, when the big "Mutt and Jeff in Panama" production, requiring a full sixty-foot carload of scenery and properties, with fifty star performers, will appear.

Mr. Robert is headlining the Orpheum bill this week. He is well known to Duluthians for his appearance here in the title role of "Checkers" and for his vaudeville vehicle he has a comedy drama in one act called "A Daddy By Express."

"'Artistic temperament,' said Mr. Robert, "is only another name for a badly swollen head. You never hear of some unknown actor or singer having an artistic temperament. But when they become so puffed up with the sense of their own importance that they think their own whims of more importance than anything else in the world, they have artistic temperament. But the fad for having such a disease is going out. Managers are not so lenient with stars in these days as they used to be. They may have their whims and their eccentricities for publicity purposes, but the managers are coming to insist these days that they act like sane people. A manager with $50,000 invested in a production isn't going to jeopardize it because the star finds that a pink dressing room does not match her complexion. I have had some experience with temperamental stars, and I never saw a case yet where it was not simply a case of conceit. I should think that when a person made a big success of any work, he would feel so good about it he would radiate good feeling instead of crankiness."

HANS ROBERT.

ENGINEERS ARE NOT GIVEN "RAISES."

No action was taken by the city council yesterday afternoon relative to the increases of salaries which will have to be paid four members of the city engineer's office if they are to remain in the city's employ. The men, two engineers, a transitman and the office assistant, have received better offers from a railroad which is planning to make a physical revaluation of its property.

If they are to continue two ask $15 raises and two want $10 more per month. City Engineer Wilson states that losing them at the beginning of the season will seriously cripple his force.

The commissioners discussed the matter informally after the council meeting yesterday. They felt that while it might be advisable to retain the men in the interests of efficiency, such action might cause dissatisfaction among other employes which would be still more disastrous. They concluded to take the matter up at a later meeting. Some said that if one or two of the men were given raises it might offer a solution which would not work too much hardship upon the engineering department.

Last fall the commission decided that all increases of wages would be made at the beginning of the year, when all salaries would be fixed. The announcement was that no changes would be made in the interim and this is being taken into consideration relative to the situation which has arisen in the engineer's office.

POLICE MAY HAVE ANOTHER BURGLAR

Prisoner Suspected of Theft From Superior Street Jewelry Store.

The arrest in Superior yesterday of Herbert McCall, 37 years old, the local police believe, will clear the mystery of the burglary at the D. A. Miller store, 217 West Superior street, on March 15 last, when $1,500 worth of jewelry was stolen from the show window.

McCall was arrested by the Superior police yesterday afternoon while in the act of selling some jewelry to a pawnbroker. He was searched by the officers and a bracelet and some other jewelry were found in his clothes. These, he declared, belonged to his wife.

Last evening McCall was brought to Duluth and he is now being held at police headquarters pending an investigation. Detective Irvine and Sergeant Roberg are working on the case and are making an effort to locate the stolen jewelry before making any specific charge against McCall. The prisoner denies having burglarized the Miller store by breaking the front show window and declares that the jewelry found on his person rightfully belongs to him.

McCall was arrested on Jan. 7 on a charge of having tapped the Duluth-Edison company's wires at the Meyers' hotel at Oneota. He pleaded not guilty and was later discharged by a jury.

SCARLET FEVER MOST PREVALENT

Many Mild Cases Are Not Reported to Health Department.

Scarlet fever is the most prevalent of contagious diseases in the city, according to the records of the health department. Several new cases are being discovered nearly every day. About fifty are now listed and of these thirty are patients at the city contagious hospital at Thirteenth avenue west and Third street.

The health department officials state that it is spread because of the failure of persons who have mild cases to summon a physician. They do not realize what ails them and they continue to move about among others, infecting them. The authorities state that all persons who have a rash or pronounced fever should see a doctor, not only for the sake of themselves, but for the protection of the general public.

Grip Left Me With a Cough

If during the winter you had the grip and are still suffering from the after effects, now is the time to get rid of it. Peruna is your remedy.

A Very Bad Cough.

Mrs. S. J. Kountz, 1015 Scovel St., Nashville, Tenn., writes: "I have had a very bad cough nearly all my life. I have taken almost every kind of cough medicine, but none did me much good. I would have spells of coughing that I thought I would cough myself to death. I took Peruna, and last winter and this winter I have had no cough and I know that Peruna cured me.

"I was always thin and delicate, very easy to catch cold, but I am well now and enjoying good health. I feel that I owe it all to Peruna."

A Severe Case of Grip.

Mr. W. S. Brown, R. F. D., 4, Box 82, Rogersville, Tenn., writes: "I recommend Peruna to all sufferers of catarrh or cough. In the year of 1909 I took a severe case of the la grippe. I then took a bad cough. Everybody thought I had consumption. I had taken all kinds of cough remedies, but got no relief.

"I then decided to try Peruna. After taking five bottles my cough stopped and my catarrh was cured. Any one suffering with catarrh in any form I will advise them to take Peruna."

FOR DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP---25 CENT DANDERINE

Girls! Girls! Save Your Hair! Make It Grow Luxuriant and Beautiful.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

RECAPTURED PAIR BREAK JAIL AGAIN

Crawl 200 Yards Through Sewer of Military Prison.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 24.—Lloyd Bitzberger and Bert Adams, who escaped from the United States military prison here March 15, were captured last Thursday in Omaha and returned to the prison Saturday, have again escaped by sawing their way out of the "solitary" cell in the prison basement and crawling 200 yards through a three-foot sewer. The escape was not discovered until several hours after the men were gone. After sawing their cell bars, the men made their way to an opening to the sewer and dropped twenty feet down to the sewer level.

Adams, prison officials said, was an incorrigible prisoner. Since first imprisoned for desertion from the army, he has been tried fifty-two times for breaking prison rules.

At the time of their escape a week ago, Adams and Bitzberger placed dummies in their bunks, tore up a strip of carpet from the prison chapel to make a rope, then slid down thirty feet to the ground from the chapel window.

SCORES NEW YORK CIVIL SERVICE.

New York, March 24. — The Civil Service Reform association has laid serious charges against the state civil service commission before Governor Glynn, and has asked him to "take some action to correct the situation."

The association told the governor that its investigation of the work of the commission during 1913 "had shown a lack of appreciation by the present civil service commissioners of a decent standard of official and personal conduct and attitude toward the dignity of their office."

The charges declare that the commission has exempted 198 places from examination during the year, "making an abnormal record;" that it has abused the provision of the law which permits appointments without examinations, to positions calling for peculiar and exceptional qualifications of a scientific, technical and educational character; and that a large number of relatives or close personal friends of all three commissioners have been given positions in the state service without examination.

The letter to the governor calls attention to the fact that the commissioners were appointed by Governor Sulzer and cannot be removed except with consent of the senate.

LARGE SUMS FOR SCHOOLS

Magnificent Donation Toward Education Is Made By the State.

Close to $1,500,000 This Year; To Reach $2,000,000 in 1915.

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—This year Minnesota is distributing close to $1,500,000 as aid to its public schools. In 1915 the total will just nick the $2,000,000 notch. This is in addition to $1,000,000 or so for the university and something over $2,000,000 distributed through the general school fund. This $1,500,000 or $2,000,000 is where the state puts its hand in its pocket and gives $2,200 a year here for a good high school, $750 in the next village for a good graded school, and $2,500 where agriculture, manual training and domestic economy are taught, and $1,000 where the high school does something to train teachers for the country schools, and $350 where a graded school runs part of the high school course, and various sums from $75 up to $150 for the little red schoolhouse, and from $760 to $1,500 for the consolidated rural school. These items for doing some particular work, or for encouraging higher standards, come to $1,500,000 this year and close to $2,000,000 next year.

From Small Beginnings.

In thirty years this magnificent donation toward education has grown from very small beginnings. In 1881, when the university was first emerged from chaos, it occurred to some of the statesmen that if the state was going to run a university, it must make some provision for fitting the children for the university and so an act was passed to encourage higher education. It created a high school board composed of the governor, the superintendent of education and the president of the university, and instructed them to go out and visit the high schools in the state—if they did not have time to go to all of them they could hire some competent person—and each high school that was doing good work was to have $400. The appropriation allowed $20,000 a year for this purpose. That was all for nearly fifteen years.

In 1895 some educators raised the question why should high schools alone be encouraged; why not encourage the common schools—they were doing much worse work than the high schools and needed all the incentive there was for improvement. Moved by this argument, the state appropriated $10,000 a year to allot $200 each to the common schools that were doing a little more than absolute necessity required. Four years later the same arguments were adopted with regard to rural schools and the legislature was moved to allow $50 a year to every country school doing a little better than it actually had to, to the amount of $35,000 a year in all.

Allowances Are Increased.

At the same session the laws for state aid were for the first time codified—the schools were classified, requirements were set up which they must meet to qualify for state aid, and the allowances were increased to a maximum of $800 for high schools, $200 for graded schools, $100 for semi-graded and $75 for rural schools. Two years later the legislature thought they were not doing enough for the schools—the high school award was increased to $1,000, the graded school to $400, the semi-graded to $200 and the rural to $100. The total allowance that year was $250,000 and the state loudly applauded this magnificent liberality.

In 1903 it appeared to the legislature that $1,000 was not sufficient to encourage the high school to do everything that public enthusiasm in behalf of education would urge, and it was agreed that a very good high school should have $1,500 a year.

Another Move Forward.

Beginning at the next session in 1905, a great movement swept over the state for making the schools useful, as never before. The first grant of $20,000 for county schools of agriculture proposed a bold scheme which seems never to have been carried out. The habit in Minnesota has been to develop the district school rather than to create county institutions. So in 1909 the legislature allowed that any school, either high school, or graded school, or consolidated school, on the state list, which would set up agriculture, manual training and domestic economy, might be reimbursed for two-thirds of its outlay up to $2,500 a year. At first only ten schools were to be admitted. Twenty-five thousand dollars was sufficient for the first two years. Since then the arrangement has been created by which country districts might affiliate with a central school, and earn an addition of $150 for each of the associated districts.

In 1911 an alternative was given of a $1,000 grant for any school that carries an agricultural course with either manual training or home economics. At the last session this was increased to $1,800.

Since 1905 the state has been giving $750 a year to high schools that will help train teachers, increasing the allowance to $1,000 at the last session.

These items reach the respectable sum of $1,500,000 this year and $2,000,000 next year. There is perhaps no appropriation made by the state that is more widely approved. There is no other single item nearly as large, no other that is growing so rapidly from the timid $20,000 a year in '81, from the deprecating $10,000 addition in '96, to the present magnificent stream of state aid. Nobody has been heard to suggest that the amount should be diminished. The question before the house is rather—is there any way in which the expenditure of this sum can be made more effective?

WOULD OUST OIL TRUST FROM OHIO.

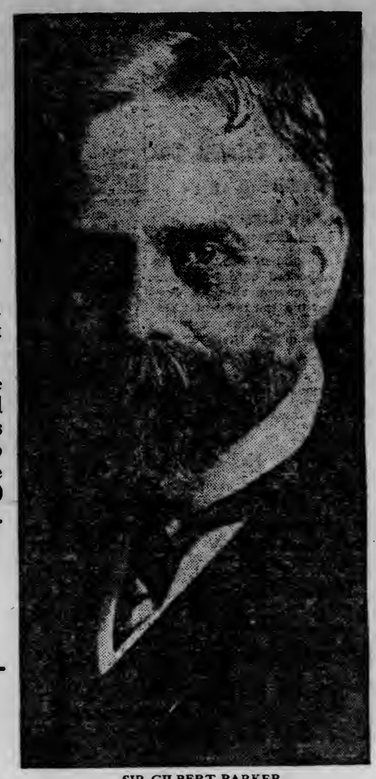
Columbus, Ohio, March 24.—In a suit filed in common pleas court here, George H. Phelps, an attorney of Findlay, Ohio, seeks to have the courts compel Attorney General Horgan to institute proceedings to oust the Standard Oil company and several of its subsidiaries from doing business in Ohio.

The Standard Oil company, the Ohio Oil company, the Solar Refining company, the Buckeye Pipeline company and the Imperial Oil company of Canada are the corporations named in Phelps' petition. He avers that the Standard Oil company and its subsidiaries named have continuously violated the Sherman anti-trust law and the Valentine anti-trust statute of this state.

MRS. TROUT TO BE SUFFRAGE CHAIRMAN.

Chicago, March 24.—Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association, was chosen to be chairman of the general suffrage rally here May 2, vice Mrs. John Bass, who resigned because she is going abroad. Mrs. Trout said the meeting would not be held in the Chicago American league ball park, but that the suffragists had another place under consideration.

Sir Gilbert Parker's Great New Novel "You Never Know Your Luck" Published Complete in the April Munsey



SIR GILBERT PARKER
Author of "The Right of Way," "The Money Master," "Seats of the Mighty," "The Judgment House."

WHEN this novel goes into book form after it has appeared in The Munsey, it will cost you $1.50; in Munsey's Magazine it will cost you 15 cents, and in The Munsey you get it first.

Sir Gilbert Parker is unquestionably one of the first novelists of the day, and one of the most popular. His books, at $1.50 a copy, sell up into the hundreds of thousands—some of them as much as 400,000. With so tremendous a sale at $1.50, what ought the sale to be at only 15 cents? Four million copies, I should say, but as the edition of Munsey's Magazine for April is limited to 500,000 copies, there will be, on this theory, 3,500,000 disappointed persons.

If, therefore, you want to make sure of this new Parker novel at a cost of 15 cents, you would do well to get busy with your newsdealer before his supply of the April Munsey is exhausted.

MUNSEY

with a full book-length novel published complete each issue, has hit a new high place in magazine making. I have been studying for a dozen or fifteen years to find a way to give the public brand-new, high-grade books at a price not to exceed 25 cents a copy. I have just now solved the problem through publishing them in my magazine—not serial publication, but as complete as if actually in book form. And in The Munsey they are printed on fine book paper, from large, clear type, and are profusely illustrated.

The Munsey is jam full of good stuff. Its complete novel covers only one side of it. The other side is rich in illustrations, worth-while articles, short fiction and other material—a magazine practically double the size of the average magazine.

On all news-stands, 15 cents a copy; $1.50 a year.

West End DULUTHIAN IS SUICIDE

Body Found By Street Car Men Making Last Trip.

John A. Gustafson, a cutlery salesman, who formerly lived at 2709 West Second street, committed suicide by shooting himself with a 38-caliber revolver shortly after midnight this morning at the South Shore railroad crossing at Twenty-eighth street and Tower avenue, Superior. The cause of the suicide is unknown.

Gustafson was discovered mortally wounded but still alive, by a street car crew returning on its last trip from South Superior. They immediately notified the police department, which sent an ambulance for the man. When it arrived the man was dead.

The body was taken to Z. A. Downs' undertaking rooms. Coroner Downs said this morning that no trace of liquor had been found on the man. The bullet had entered the left breast and penetrated the lung.

"It has all the indications of a suicide," said Coroner Downs. "The gun was lying near the man, and a gold watch and considerable money were found on his person, showing that he had not been attacked for money. There was nothing to indicate that he was not perfectly sober when he shot himself."

Inquiries made by the authorities at 2709 West Second street have revealed little regarding the man's relatives. He made his headquarters in the West end. Gustafson was a member of the Odd Fellows and carried his membership card in one of the Superior lodges.

ITCHING ERUPTION ON ARMS AND LIMBS

Became Red and Pimples Formed. Could Not Keep from Scratching. Clothing Irritated It. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Cassoday, Kansas.—"Some two or three years ago the trouble began with irritation and itching on my arms and lower limbs. The affected parts became red and pimples or eruption formed. The itching was so severe that I could not keep from scratching and some sores formed on my face and limbs. The clothing irritated at times and made the itching worse.

"I tried various remedies relieving to some extent the trouble but I continued to suffer and finally the malady spread over my body but was very bad on my head and face and around my waist. The skin became rough and thick and sores formed on my face. The itching and burning often kept me awake at night. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment last winter. I bathed with the Cuticura Soap and hot water at least once a day and used the Cuticura Ointment two or three times a day. In five months I was cured." (Signed) E. Cameron, Sept. 17, 1913.

The regular use of Cuticura Soap for toilet and bath not only tends to preserve, purify and beautify the skin, scalp, hair and hands, but assists in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mothy and other unwholesome conditions of the skin. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

"THE DISTRICT OF BEAUTIFUL STREETS"

"West end, the district of beautiful streets" is the way residents of this end of the city intend that it shall be referred to in the future. Property owners on various thoroughfares are planning a system which, if carried out, will make the district one of the most desirable in the city.

Along two thoroughfares petitions have already been signed asking the city to plant trees along the streets. The property owners are those along Twenty-fourth avenue between First and Tenth street, and Piedmont avenue from the junction of Tenth and Twenty-third avenue to Fourteenth street.

Spurred on by this move, other property owners on recently improved thoroughfares are planning similar petitions. It is the intention of the owners on Twenty-seventh avenue to ask the city to perform similar service from Michigan to Fifth street and when First street and Vernon streets are improved shade trees will be asked for those thoroughfares.

It is proposed to ask that the trees be placed at regular intervals and of a uniform size. The cost of the work the owners ask to have assessed against the benefited property.

CLUB DINES AND LISTENS TO MUSIC

Rotarians Have Monthly Meeting—Business Is Routine.

The Rotary club had its regular monthly dinner at the Elks' club last evening, and entertained about fifty members. After the dinner adjournment was taken to the music store of Smith & Allen on the ground floor of the building where a business session was held, following which a musical program was given.

So far as business is concerned a committee appointed to follow up the matter of obtaining a street railway extension to the steel plant reported that the matter was in statu quo; that Manager Warren gave it as his personal opinion merely that as soon as the present franchise-annulment suit is settled, the company will know what to do, and not until then.

The committee on public markets reported that it is co-operating with the committee of the Commercial club and that a joint meeting will be held on Saturday morning of this week.

An invitation was received from the Superior Rotary club to join with it on April 1 in celebrating the anniversary of its foundation. Many of those present last evening pledged themselves to attend.

The railroad committee of the club reported that it is working for additional train service between Duluth and nearby points and feels encouraged with the progress made.

The musical program was an excellent one and very much enjoyed. A further addition to monthly entertainments will soon be furnished in view of the fact that George H. Madison is organizing a quartet and declares that the club contains good material to pick from.

Washington, March 24.—Investigations conducted by the United States senate between Feb. 9, 1910, and March 13, 1914, cost the government $163,514.72. Senator John Sharp Williams, chairman of the committee on contingent expenses, furnished the figures to the senate and urged that investigations should not be ordered into everything that some one insists should be inquired into.

In her local lecture and demonstration Miss Lawson will be assisted by a little pupil, enabling the audience to see the practical application of the interesting theories worked out by M. Dalcroze. The lecture will be given at the assembly room of the Y. W. C. A. Monday, March 30. The hour has been set for 4:30 o'clock to enable as many as possible of the teachers of the city to attend.

"Eurhythmics" is the rather unusual word to describe the art which the interesting M. Dalcroze has brought to the attention of the world. The theory is not exactly new, however, except to moderns, for the system was worked out by the Greeks of old, and there are writers who ascribe to their understanding of rhythm the wonders of the Greek cvilization which still influences the world greatly.

The system originated as an aid to music study. Dalcroze who was then teacher of harmony at the Geneva conservatory found that not one in ten of the advanced pupils who came to him played with any musical feeling. They had no powers of expression, only of imitation. The first step toward feeling music is beating time. Children sing better so and the most unlearned keeps time with head or foot when he is really enjoying himself. Acting on this hint Dalcroze wrote a series of "Gesture Songs" for his pupils, which met with great success. His progress in the art was constant and thorough, and his ideas attracted not only the attention of musicians, but of educators in general. The system soon outgrew its original purpose and aimed at nothing less than the liberation of the spirit by establishing complete correlation between mind, muscles and nerve paths.

Writing of his system, M. Dalcroze ends thus: "I have devoted my life to the teaching of rhythm, being fully satisfied that thanks to it, man will regain his natural powers of expression, and at the same time his full motor faculties, and that art has everything to hope from new generations brought up in the cult of harmony, of physical and mental health, of order, beauty and truth."

Miss Lawson, who will appear here has completed a two years' course at the college in Germany, and many of the local teachers and students are looking forward to her lecture and demonstration with much interest. This is one of the special features of the club year for which tickets will be sold to others than club members.

Lecture Postponed.

Ernest Lachmund's address to the public school teachers on "Hansel and Gretel" which was to have been given this evening at the Y. W. C. PURE, CLEAN FOOD.

President of National Housewives' League Gives Advice.

Similar to Dr. Harvey A. Wiley's advice to Duluth women to patronize dealers in food stuffs who go to the trouble to keep their places clean, was the recent message of the president of the National Housewives' league, Mrs. Julian Heath of New York, to local leagues throughout the country. Mrs. Heath also put great stress upon the purity of food. She said:

"One of the most important phases of the work of the Housewives' league is to find and patronize those merchants who stand for reliable goods, pure foods, fair prices, honest weights and clean shops.

"There has been so much criticism lately in regard to the quality and price of foodstuffs that one might be led to believe that there were no pure foods on the market and that every merchant was trying to cheat the consumer.

"This is not so.

"While we know that the quality of some of the manufactured foods is appalling and unfit for consumption, that the ingredients used are anything but what they ought to be, and that in many instances the consumer has been exploited in regard to prices; yet there are plenty of honest merchants who give full weight and full measure; there are plenty of sanitary shops; there are plenty of pure foods sold at fair prices; there are plenty of sanitary bakeries, meat markets, dairies, laundries, delicatessen grocery and confectionary stores.

"From the inception of the Housewivers' league movement this fact was fully recognized and the whole work of the league was bent toward searching for the honest merchant, the pure product and the clean shop."

TALKS ON MILLINERY.

Club At Bryant Social Center Hears Mrs. Sibbitt.

Mrs. J. Sibbitt talked before the Junior Women's club of Bryant Social center last evening on "Millinery as a Business Career for Women." Mrs. Sibbitt tried to make her audience realize that every one who can put a hat together is not a milliner. Those engaged in producing hats are divided into two classes, those who prepare hats for the trimmers and those who put the trimming on. Those in the first class make hats under the direction of the head trimmer. They may do excellent work but because they can cover a frame neatly and prepare the hat for the trimmer is no indication they are milliners. The artistic ability of a milliner is an inherent quality and cannot be taught, she said. A real milliner understands the blending of colors, shapes that are suited to certain faces and has the knack of putting a feather on at just the right angle, giving the proper twist to a bow or placing a flower so it will give the most artistic touch.

BOOKS FOR THE LONELY

Duluth Public Library Gives Worn Out Volumes to Lighthouse Keepers, Lake Sailors and the Lumber Camps.

Many profitable and pleasant hours are spent on lake freighters and in lumber camps as well as by patients in the hospitals of the city in reading old books and magazines, discarded by the Duluth Public library. Such literature, after it has become so badly worn for use in the library, is boxed up and disposed of in such a way as to provide entertainment and instruction to those who are not in a position to obtain literature by other means.

"The number of books discarded each year is not very great," said Miss Frances Earhart, librarian, today, "but there are many magazines and a fairly good number of books that become unfit for use at the library each year. These we send to the poor farm, the hospitals, lumber camps, work farm, light houses, lake boats and other places where we think they will be of service. Every year we get letters from lake captains telling us how much good has been done through the books we send to the crews on the boats. Many of the best books, also, are sent to the lumber camps, and these invariably come back in excellent condition."

The boats are supplied with books as far as possible in the spring and go the rounds on the boats and the lighthouses. In the lighthouses especially where there is little companionship to be had by the keepers the books are invaluable friends and shorten the long hours.

"TETE-NEGRE" AND "CHARTREUSE"

"Ear-Ring" Hats, "Liziere" Straw, and "Stove Polish" Ribbon Included in the New Style Language.

With Easter less than two weeks off it is time for women to discuss hats and gowns very energetically and eloquently while the reading lamps and after-dinner cigars are getting in their soothing work.

Of course only the initiated can understand what is meant by tete negre—the new shade of brown that is almost black, and by chartreuse—that new yellow, but almost any one can be made to understand that a certain hat is a "love," or a "dear" or "absolutely too chic for anything."

One of the newest things in millinery is the "ear-ring" hat. One of the Duluth hat departments is showing a model in black straw trimmed in black moire, with a tab of the silk, ending in a long jet bugle, hanging over each ear.

Among the new straws is the "liziere," and the latest thing in ribbon is that called "stove polish," of a sheen that the stove in every perfect kitchen has. The combination of liziere braid and stove polish ribbon is ideal for an all-time utility hat.

Gold feathers are used. An attractive model of Alice blue is trimmed with gold ostrich feathers that vies with a band of gold colored ribbon. A nobby sailor is trimmed with four pairs of small wings that have been metalized.

Among the popular colors are chartreuse, poppy red, Russian green, tete negre, and all shades of blue. Hats are trimmed high at the side. Bandeaux have come back, often trimmed with flowers. Fruit, wheat and a perfect riot of flowers will be used this spring.

One of the most attractive gowns that has been displayed has a skirt of two-tone taffeta, orchid and emerald green. The bodice is of Japanese chiffon in blouse effect. A silk cord in a rich shade of gold finishes it at the neck.

Request Program.

The annual request program of the Matinee Musicale will be given this evening at 8:15 o'clock at the First Methodist church. Members of the club may bring guests. The recital is open to prospective members of the club.

Suffrage Parade.

At a joint meeting of the Political Equality club and the Equal Suffrage association of Minneapolis, plans were adopted for the suffrage celebration to take place in Minneapolis May 2 as part of the nation-wide suffrage demonstration set for that date. The Minneapolis women who are working for equal suffrage will probably parade and will ask St. Paul, Duluth and other towns in the state to send marching companies. If present proposals are carried out Governor A. O. Eberhart will be asked to proclaim a half holiday, and the merchants asked to close their stores for half a day at least.

Mrs. Crystal Eastman Benedict of New York, representing the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, was the most enthusiastic woman at the meeting. She said:

"It will be such a help to the nation-wide demonstration May 2. Ten states with 4,000,000 women voters give us actual power in Washington, and we are working to exercise it. The Federal legislation must come, as the suffrage bill has been reintroduced."

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Women Are Not Stingy By Nature If Given Proper Chance.

It is a generally accepted belief that women are stingy, at least in money matters. Storekeepers have always had this grievance against women and complained that they were mean and stingy when it came to paying a fair price for things. Women, poor things, have the reputation of haggling longer over a few cents than men would over the same number of dollars.

Man, on the other hand, is the very personification of generosity as compared with women in the eyes of the populace. No matter what he buys, he simply asks the price, thrusts his hand into his pocket, and pays without demur. And woman, for the economics she practices in the interest of man, is called stingy. Stingy, because for her toil she receives no pecuniary reward if she is a wife; stingy, because she has no ready pocket filled with money.

Most always it is the man who is stingy and miserly with the woman he has made his wife. Of course, if both husband and wife are obliged by circumstances to make every penny do the duty of two, there can be no question of stinginess on either side. The great trouble with men who withhold money from their wives is, that they do not seem to consider that the work the wife does in superintending the home is work of the hardest kind, and that she should share in the family income.

Some men have the old-fashioned idea that women are not to be trusted with money, and that a home, food and a certain amount of clothing is all that is necessary and all she can reasonably expect. When she wants a little money it is doled out to her, if she asks for it, and often given under protest.

Sometimes death steps in and takes the toiler around whom everything that pertains to home revolves. Then the man who has been so exacting that every penny should be accounted for, awakes to a realization that he never even dreamed of. It dawns upon him that no person outside of a wife, or possibly a daughter, would stand for the treatment he has meted out.

He will find that in the future he must pay to have his meals cooked, his children washed and dressed and his home kept tidy. It will cost him money to have clothes made for his children and he will have to pay for every single thing that is done for him and his.

MUTINY IN THE BRITISH ARMY.

It is a very peculiar situation that is created by the acts of British army officers in resigning when called upon to act in Ulster.

These officers are not all Irish Nationalists. Many are not Irish at all. The feeling that prompts these embarrassing and demoralizing resignations goes much farther and deeper than that.

To understand the situation thoroughly, it should be remembered that British army officers are largely chosen from the aristocratic class—a class that seethes with indignation over the monstrous leveling processes of democracy as it is applied by the Liberal government. It is a class that hates income taxes, hates land taxes, hates inheritance taxes, hates the many measures for the common good that Lloyd-George has put through, hates above all the political faith that inspires these acts and the followers of that faith.

In the privileged families of Great Britain there is usually a son for the army and, if there are enough to go around, one each also for the clergy and politics.

This class sees success for the empire only in the benevolent rule of a fat and smug aristocracy which feathers its own nest first and then is supposed to take care of the commoners from a fraction of what is left. Popular rule, and especially a distribution of taxes which makes the privileged class pay according to its ability to pay, are in their minds destructive of everything they hold sacred.

It is this class which opposes home rule. It is this class which officers the army. It is the representatives of this class who, now when for the first time they are called upon to act for the government that has perpetrated the enormities of land, income and inheritance taxes, are resigning in the face of duty.

If it leads to officering the army from the middle classes which in the past have largely had to content themselves with filling the ranks, it will be only a sort of poetic justice.

Reports are that the Roosevelt party got swamped while traveling on "The River of Doubt." If this is true, the event had quite a political setting.

THE PASSING OF AN EXPRESS COMPANY.

Americans are tender-hearted people, and very likely many of them have felt some qualms of conscience over the news that the United States Express company has been forced out of business by the parcel post.

They need not suffer from this sympathy. To soothe it, it is only necessary to note that United States Express company stock went up on the news that it was going out of business, instead of down as sympathizers might expect.

Why? Because going out of business meant the cutting of a very juicy melon.

In point of fact, the thing of chief interest about the passing of this express company is the new revelation it makes of what the express companies were doing to us before the parcel post came along.

The express companies, performing a service which either the postoffice or the railroads always should have performed, starting business on a shoestring and owning little but a privilege, made tremendous profits.

Indeed, their profits were so big that even with frequent watering of stock, they did not dare put them out as dividends. Their dividends were large, and there were frequent dividends of stock which thereafter drew good dividends also.

But not even this disposed of all the earnings. The rest—many millions—they invested in interest-bearing securities, this adding greatly to their capital out of earnings. Moreover, by their ownership of stock in a large variety of industrial, financial and commercial corporations, their influence was immensely widened. It was very largely through their influence—often unsuspected—in other powerful corporations that they were able to delay the parcel post so long.

What made United States Express stock go up in the markets when its dissolution was announced was the realization that this meant a distribution of these more or less hidden assets. It is said that the company could have continued to pay pretty good dividends merely on the income from its old investments out of earnings, and without handling another pound of express.

No, no tears need be wasted on this dying express company. Instead, let it be cheers for the parcel post, which has put an end to the fatness that made the death of the United States Express company so rich a tragedy for its stockholders.

Also, one wonders whether Col. Roosevelt had as much trouble swimming that river in South America as another eminent citizen once had in getting across the Tiber.

THE MASONIC CONCERTS.

It is gratifying to know that the series of free concerts given at the Masonic Temple by the Scottish Rite Masons of Duluth has been a success. The twelfth and last of the season was given Sunday. The attendance has been good, ranging from 350 to 915 with an average of 625.

The purpose of the Scottish Rite Masons is public-spirited and good. It is to encourage the growth of a sound musical taste in Duluth, in the hope that thus a foundation may be laid for the establishment of a Duluth symphony orchestra.

This is going about it in the right way, undoubtedly. To be entirely frank about it, there is evidence enough that such work is needed. Good musical attractions do not, as a rule, do as well here as they should. One of the best of the season was given recently in the Lyceum before a pitiful handful of people. With no better assurance of patronage than there is now, it would be the height of folly to establish a symphony orchestra in Duluth today.

Clearly, the thing to do, then, is to foster a taste that will demand such an institution and will support it when it comes. This is the task the Masons have undertaken, with very encouraging results so far. They have struck beautifully the balance between music so "popular" that it is entirely frivolous, and music so "classical" that it amounts to esoterics and, worse than "caviar to the vulgar," is absolute mystification. Those who hold with Tolstoi that the true test of art is the universality of its appeal can find little patience with the latter class; and at any rate it is not material for cultivating a popular taste for good music, and the Masons have been shrewd in avoiding it.

They have provided good music—"good" in every sense of the word—and in so doing they have served a splendid public purpose and are entitled to the thanks of those who wish the community a well-rounded well-being.

THE PARCEL POST—MIDDLEMAN.

The latest development of the parcel post system under the intelligent and progressive administration of Postmaster General Burleson is easily the most interesting yet.

The postmasters at ten cities—Boston, Atlanta, St. Louis, San Francisco, Baltimore, Detroit, La Crosse, Lynn, Rock Island and Washington—have been directed to receive the names of persons willing to supply farm products in retail quantities by parcel post. The lists thus secured will be printed and distributed among city patrons.

The purpose is, manifestly, to make the postoffice an agency for getting the producer and the consumer together for their mutual advantage.

There are city folks who would be glad to get their butter, eggs, chickens and vegetable supplies direct from the grower if they could establish the proper connection.

There are growers who would be glad to sell their products direct to the consumers if they knew how to reach them.

The parcel post facilities now fully reach the need of both these classes. What is lacking is machinery for getting them together.

Experimentally in these ten cities, the postoffice is to supply that machinery. The experiment will be watched with keenest interest.

If Charge O'Shaughnessy should really resign, here's hoping his successor will be somebody with a name that will fit more readily into a head line.

The Broken Engagement.

Lippincott's: In the little town of H—— lived a young man who was not likely to "set the river afire," not overbright, to put it plainly and truthfully.

He had been telling of his engagement to a belle of the town, but no one took his announcement seriously. One day he gave out that he had broken his engagement.

"So you really broke the engagement, Henry?" he was asked.

"That's what I did," he boasted.

"Dear me, tell us why you were so cruel?" one of his hearers begged.

"Well, it's like this," explained Henry; "Hattie told me she wouldn't marry me and I ain't goin' to be engaged to any girl what won't marry me!"

The Real Wilson, As Pictured By Himself

Washington correspondence of the New York Evening Post.

President Wilson's unexpected revelation of himself to the members of the National Press club is the most amazing thing he has done since he has been in Washington. Amazing because it was so human, so natural, so unaffected, and so lacking in all restraint. It the first time he has disclosed the inner workings of his mind so fully, so freely, so clearly, and so vividly, even to his few intimates.

One is tempted to say that this speech is the only character sketch of Mr. Wilson that has ever been printed that is worth the paper it is written on. It is an authentic piece of autobiography. In it Mr. Wilson has shown an unsuspected capacity to describe his inner self and his mental operations as detachedly and as brilliantly as he has on occasion described a political situation or condition.

The speech really marks a turning point in Mr. Wilson's career at Washington. It means a readjustment of attitudes and of relations in the Washington scene. It gives that large number of persons here at the capital to whom Mr. Wilson is necessarily the chief figure in the scene a new point of view, and a new and truer conception of the man with whom they have to deal. In a personal sense, and from a purely local viewpoint, Mr. Wilson's disclosure is, perhaps, the most important, as certainly it is the most interesting utterance he has made since he became president.

The mere disclosure will make Mr. Wilson's way easier in Washington. It will be helpful to him in that it will enable the people who come daily in contact with him, members of congress and others, to know him.

It is evident from what the president says that he has chafed under the general misunderstanding and misconception of himself; that he has read the many "character sketches" that have been printed about him. It is evident, too, that he recognizes that clearly there exists at this juncture an inextinguishable thirst for larger knowledge of his personality, his convictions, his opinions, his views, and his habits.

Every person residing at Washington who may have occasion from time to time to visit other cities is made acutely conscious of this phenomenon. Such a person on his wayfaring will find here and there groups of persons interested in the literacy test in the pending immigration bill, and side by side with them others who have never heard of the literacy test and who when it is explained to them do not care two straws whether it is retained in the bill or dropped. What they want to know is whether the railroads will get the 5 per cent increase in freight rates. They will maintain vehemently that that is the overshadowing question of public importance at Washington. Others are interested in the repeal of the tolls exemption provision. They regard the repeal of free tolls as the first pressing duty of congress and the administration.

Still others shake their heads over the Mexican problem and declare it to be the black spot on the horizon which must be dissipated before Washington attends to other business. A smaller number here and there ask questions about the program of anti-trust legislation, and whether labor unions and farmers' associations are to be specifically exempted from the provisions of the anti-trust act. But all of these people thirst for news about President Wilson. What sort of a man is he? Is he a cold, severe, austere recluse, or is he a tactful, considerate, warm-hearted person of generous impulses?

Everywhere about the country people seem to accept eagerly little tidbits of gossip that serve to throw a light, however faint, on the president's personality, his characteristics, his habits of thought, what he says in private conversation. They demand illuminating anecdotes, and there are none. They seek to create a Wilson legend, to get some intimate knowledge of the man. There can be no doubt that Mr. Wilson interests the country; that he has provoked widespread curiosity about himself. There has been little authentic material until the present astonishing self-revelation, with which to appease this curiosity and this desire for an intimate portrait conveyed by word of mouth from first-hand association and observation.

Persons who by virtue of their positions or for one reason or another have frequent and ready access to President Wilson have related that he is restive under the accusation that he is cold and detached and without capacity to mingle in familiar intercourse with his fellowman, and this is now proved to have been the case. One of these intimates has reported a conversation in which Mr. Wilson expressed regret that he was obliged to begrudge his time; that he could not in the nature of the case be more of a mixer. "But what else can I do? I have all these vital things to attend to and there is only so much of me."

This surprising charge is brought against Mr. Wilson by a man who sees him often and without any barriers to their intercouse: That he is diffident and touched with shyness. This is a difficult thing to believe, but it may be true. Mr. Wilson gives the appearance always of being absolute master of himself. This confidante of Mr. Wilson says: "I have only known Mr. Wilson since he became president, and I have found him a man with a lively sense of humor and tactful, sympathetic and considerate in all of his dealings. I think the austerity and the aloofness that some of his callers have charged him with is diffidence, and inability to be hail-fellow well met at the first contact with a stranger." This, of course, is not the popular impression, nor the impression received by a larger number of persons who see Mr. Wilson.

Hitherto there had come from no source any definitive, authoritative analysis of Mr. Wilson's personality. Aspects of it are known to the country, and aspects of it were known to Washington, but the whole had not been disclosed. Mr. Wilson's processes of thought were not charted by Washington. The people in congress and out of it do not know under any given set of circumstances what Mr. Wilson will say or do, or by what roads he will arrive at his conclusion. He moves very directly along any path that he takes, but he does not hesitate to about face and march in an opposite direction when circumstances justify or demand it. He can change his mind and when he does it he makes no explanation or apology. Witness the Panama tolls case.

The Doom of the Fake Circulation

From the Editor and Publisher.

The insistence of general advertisers that they be told how circulations are obtained is slowly working a change in circulation methods. Advertising managers are no longer content with the old-fashioned circulation statements even when sworn to before a notary public. Mere bulk does not interest them. They ask for analyses of circulations—they want to know how they were secured, how distributed, and the character of the readers. They want to be told of the standing and influence of a publication and how it compares with others in the same class. If they are not furnished all this information, or if, when given, it is not satisfactory, the chances are they will not use such mediums for advertising purposes.

Air bubble circulations, therefore, are not popular with advertisers. This means the ultimate death of popularity and other coupon contests that are being employed to force distribution. The reaction has already begun in England, where such competitions originated and where they have aroused great interest because of the costly prizes awarded. Answers, a popular weekly having a circulation of 800,000 copies, which has probably conducted more contests than any other English publication, in its issue of Feb. 28 announced in a two-column statement, signed by the editor, that it would withdraw all of its mammoth competitions.

In this country the popularity of circulation contests has perceptibly waned during the past two years. The consensus of opinion seems to be that they do not pay, although there are instances in which the results have produced a large immediate cash revenue. But the trouble lies in the fact that only a comparatively small number of subscribers procured in this way renew the second term or year. Moreover, contests, disorganize the soliciting staff. The members are driven at express speed while they last and resort to methods to get subscribers that they would be ashamed to employ at another time. And after it is all over it takes the office a long time to get back to normal conditions.

Then, too, there is a moral principle involved. Coupon contests develop and promote the spirit of gambling. An unwholesome competition springs up in which feeling sometimes runs so high that lifelong friends become bitter enemies and social organizations that have participated in them are frequently disrupted.

Again, while the prize winners are delighted at their success, those who are defeated, inevitably a much larger number, are disappointed, chagrined, and even resentful. It is, therefore, a serious question as to whether such contests do not create many more foes than friends for the papers that conducted them.

Admitting, for the sake of argument, that these big prize contests do add many subscribers to the paper's list and do pay from a circulation viewpoint, when considered from the advertisers' viewpoint they are worthless. Why? Because in competitions requiring the sending in of coupons taken from the paper great bundles of copies are purchased merely for clipping purposes and are then thrown away.

Such a circulation is without value, and advertisers know it. In the same way subscriptions taken merely for the purpose of boosting a candidate's vote belong to the same class, for in a majority of cases the wrappers are not torn from the copies when received.

The circulation that is all wool and a yard wide, the circulation that is sound to the core, that is pure gold all the way through, is the kind that is bought and paid for and read, because the subscribers really want the paper.

There are numerous legitimate methods for getting subscribers which alert publishers may use to advantage. The arguments employed to win readers are based on the worth of the paper itself.

The Telephone.

Whenever Mother telephones
She talks about a lot of things,
So Father only sits and groans
Whenever anybody rings.
"The season's earlier this year."
"I haven't got my new straw hat."
"I can't, because my child is here."
"What did her husband say to that?"

And Father only says, "Hello!"
And takes the 'phone up in his hand.
"Is that you, Hawkins? This is Snow.
I wired Chicago. Understand?
I think our man intends to fight,
But we can best him if we try.
You'd better do so, then, tonight.
See you tomorrow. Well, good-by."

And Sister says, "Oh, is that you?"
And then she fixes up her hair,
'S if anybody could see through.
"Oh, I don't know. Oh, I don't care."
"I think I can, if you insist."
"And wasn't yesterday a dream?"
"There's seven on the waiting list."
"I do love strawberry ice cream!"

But what I do is just to say
To Annabel, or Lucy White,
"Can you come over here and play?"
And then they answer me: "All right!"
Perhaps when I am really grown—
I'm only seven and a half—
I'll get my friends upon the 'phone,
And talk and talk, and laugh and laugh!

Beautiful Real Estate.

Philadelphia Telegraph: The conversation at a recent social function turned to matrimony, when Congressman John A. Moon of Tennessee was reminded of the engagement of a beautiful girl named Miss Smith.

Miss Smith, who lived in a Southern state, was seen at many social affairs with a certain young lecturer, and it was generally supposed that they would marry. Hence the surprise of the community when it was announced that Miss Smith was engaged to a rich land owner.

"Is it true, dear," asked a close girl chum on hearing the news, "that you are going to marry a rich land owner?"

"And we all thought differently," continued Carrie. "How did you come to choose him instead of your young lecturer?"

"It was this way, dear," smiled Miss Smith. "Deeds, you know, speak louder than words."

Reclaimed Swamp Land.

Washington, Ind., Herald: Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president and United States senator from Indiana, bought 12,000 acres of waste swamp land in Illinois, reclaimed it by an expenditure of $70,000 on levees and drains, and on it produced last season 200,000 bushels of corn, 6,000 hogs, several thousand cattle and gave employment to 200 persons. Before it was reclaimed the land was a marsh given over to ducks and wild animals.

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative and Senator-elect Robert F. Broussard of Louisiana is kin to about half the people in that state, or at least, about every other man he meets in a campaign calls him "Cousin Bob." He speaks Louisiana French, which is a language entirely distinct from young-ladies'-finishing-school French or Learning-to-speak-French-for-$18 French. Speaking their language as he does, "Cousin Bob" has a strong hold on the people of his section of the state, and their main religion is to vote for Bob Broussard without question and without stint whenever he runs for anything.

When Broussard was running for the United States senate, Representative James B. Aswell was seeking election to the lower house of congress. Aswell was talking to a man in the section where Broussard is best known, and asked him for his vote.

"No, I'm going to vote for Bob—Bob Broussard," said the man.

"That's all right. You can vote for Bob and for me, too," Aswell explained. "We're not running for the same thing."

The man shook his head. "No," says he, "I'll just vote for Bob. Then if you're entitled to have an office, Bob can appoint you to it."

Representative Simeon D. Fess of Ohio neither smokes nor drinks, in consequence of many years as a school and college teacher when he feared to set a bad example to the growing youth of the land.

When Representative Watson of Virginia—the man who presided as judge over the famous Beatty murder case—set out to study law, his father gave him one piece of advice. "Keep out of politics," said his father. So Watson went at once into politics. When he was 21 years old he became a state senator.

After all, Luck, or Chance, cuts a good deal of a figure. Take the case of Louis Fitz Henry, member of congress from Illinois. Fitz Henry started out unknown and practically penniless to build up a law practice. It might have taken him years and years to pass the starvation period—except for Luck.

Within a day or so after Fitz Henry was admitted to the bar, a good friend of his employed by a railroad company had a leg cut off. Knowing that Fitz Henry was just starting out and needed help, the friend kindly employed him as his attorney to sue the railroad for contributory negligence.

That case gave Fitz Henry his chance. He won it and then got many more damage cases. Nobody thought of losing an arm or a leg without retaining Fitz Henry for attorney as soon afterwards as possible. In that way he quickly built up a reputation as a good damage lawyer in his locality and made a good deal of money.

But he knows himself that it was largely luck. If he hadn't had the good fortune to have a friend lose a leg, he might have struggled along in obscurity for years and years.

Representative Claude Weaver, a bright-eyed little representative from Oklahoma, rarely turns a book agent from his door empty-handed. His office looks like a branch library and the books are learned books. None of your George McCutcheon and Harold McGrath for Weaver. Moreover, every book on his shelves has its pages cut. Weaver has books to read and not merely to take the place of wainscoting, or to impress visitors. He probably has read more books for each year of his life than anybody in congress, because he got an earlier start. The first book he ever read was Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy"—at an age, mind you, when his playmates were just beginning to take an interest in the Rollo books. By the time he was 12 years old, Weaver could repeat nearly all of Shakespeare from memory.

Maurice Splain, after thirty years of long, hustling hours as an astute and painstaking Washington political correspondent, found himself the United States marshal for the District of Columbia. The hours were short and the work light. For years Maurice had thought how nice it would be to hold a job that paid a comfortable salary without much to do. Now he had just such a place. Along toward 9:30 on the evening of the day in office, Splain met his friend, Hastings MacAdam of the St. Louis Republic.

"Come on," Splain greeted him, effusively; "let's go and have a little lunch and a chat."

"Lunch! Watchuh talkin' about, lunch?" said MacAdam; "it isn't 10 o'clock yet. If I were like you and didn't have to work for a living, I would, gladly. See me at midnight when I'm all through for the day and I'll be pleased to have lunch with you."

"You're right, you're right," muttered Splain. "I didn't realize it was so early. I'll meet you when you're through work."

"But," he added, gloomily, "I don't see how I'm going to put in the time for the next couple of hours."

Representative Samuel E. Winslow, skate-maker of Worcester, Mass., is said to be the best after-dinner speaker in New England. The chances are that he is also the best in Washington. He is one of the few after-dinner speakers we ever heard, who, in manner and language, is really and truly funny.

War With Mexico!

Madison State Journal: Don't forget that in a war with Mexico, the plain, common people of the United States will shoot down the plain, common people of Mexico. Not much different from taking down your gun and shooting your poverty-stricken, uneducated neighbor around the corner.

Where's the glory?

Don't forget that the fellows who are shrieking for war are not going to fight. The men who will have to fight fevers, smallpox, jungle horrors and the poor, downtrodden peons down in Mexico are our own boys of the mill and shop and field.

You'll find no plutocrats, politicians or warlike newspaper editors on the firing line!

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Maybe He'll Find It Out in November.

Deerwood Times: Governor Eberhart says "it is better to travel about the state, meeting the men and women who do things, than it is to stay at the capital shaking hands with politicians." He is right, without a doubt, but the men and women who do things in Minnesota, live in Minnesota—not in New York, Washington or Illinois. It might be well for some one to inform the governor of this fact.

Long May It Wave!

Biwabik Times: Walt Smith and his smile will go through the primaries and election and win in a walk. When the range does send men down to St. Paul they are of the class that win. Walt just happens to be of the breed that can't help making friends. And he can have that old office of state treasurer as long as he can keep smiling.

Why Spoil Your Boost?

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The state Democracy, or a certain element of it, is trying to induce Congressman Hammond to run for governor. Hammond is a good man and we are firm in the belief that he can be elected this year against any man or men put up by the Republican and Progressive opposition. But what's the matter with Dan Lawler?

And Vice Versa.

Princeton Union: If Governor Eberhart's proverbial luck deserts him and he should fail to make connections at the ensuing primary election he can charge it up to Mr. Alphabetical Preus' candidacy for state auditor.

Just About That.

Preston Times: R. L. Johnson of Austin has filed for state treasurer. Nothing particularly the matter with R. L. but he stands as much show of defeating the genial Walter J. Smith, the present treasurer, as would the man in the moon. Johnson will come out in the scrimmage a sadder and a wiser man, also poorer.

The Many Roads.

Although the Gift of Gifts was offered to her keeping,
Her eyes were blinded to its priceless worth;
For she was young and gay, her man a merry scamp
Whose roving eye would seek a comelier sight
Than shapeless wifehood sitting dull at home.
Life's many roads stretched out, from gold to gray—
They chose a pleasant avenue, with Youth and Laughter:
"Keep we these glad companions while we may!
Why dim with cares these first bright years?" they said.

She lives alone and listens to the rain—
The sighing winds around her silent house,
She hears outside her window, sobbing fitfully,
Sad little voices asking her the way to go;
"O little wandering souls," she cries, "God pity you!—I cannot tell!
I only know the road my feet have trod
Leads downward to the Hell of Childless Age,
To darkening years of utter loneliness, and vain regret!"

Taft Not Considered.

Chicago Evening Post: Secretary Tumulty categorically denies that President Wilson has considered the name of William Howard Taft for any judicial appointment, or even that the former president's name has been suggested for a place on the bench.

The rumor sounded strangely in our ears. The people of the United States rejected Mr. Taft because of his attitude on certain great questions of public policy. The reasons that made him unacceptable as a nominee for the presidency apply with equal force to the consideration of his name for the supreme court.

With every respect for the amiable personality of William Howard Taft, we demur at the idea that the supreme court, any more than the presidency, should be a reward for amiability.

Easily Answered.

Philadelphia Telegraph: The divorce question came up at a dinner, a few evenings ago, when Miss Almira M. Winchester, a prominent kindergarten woman, was reminded of an incident that happened in a Western court.

Among the witnesses in a certain case was a rather pretty woman, and, of course, when she was called to the witness stand everybody began to sit up and take notice.

"Madame," said the lawyer party, after the witness had been sworn, "will you kindly tell the court your full name?"

"Edythe Marie Washington," was the ready response of the pretty one.

"Very good," responded the legal party.

"Now, then, will you please tell us whether you are married or unmarried?"

THAT REWARD AGAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is a recognized fact that the only way to recover lost articles is by advertising and it is always more effective to offer a reward for their return.

Lost articles, which are of value to no one but the original owner, can in most cases be recovered by simply inserting an ad. But when jewels valued at $3,500 are lost, it is only right to offer and pay a goodly reward for their return.

Now, I think that a party losing jewels valued at such a figure, and advertising a reward of $500 for their return, would be as honest as the party finding and returning them, instead of turning it over to an attorney with a view to making a settlement for a less amount.

I may not know any of the facts concerning the deal, as I am not acquainted with either party, but from my point of view it looks like a cheap piece of business. F. D.

GETTING CLOSER TO THE PRESIDENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I don't want to take up any space in your valuable paper, but I do want to say that everyone should read that "masterpiece" understandingly talk of President Wilson to the national press representatives at Washington recently.

Any man who talks as he did at that meeting is a man to be honored and revered. If every man tried to fulfill his oath of office and do justice to everyone and everything, like our president, he would be emblazoned in history, but our president is not doing it for that; it is his way and he could not do otherwise. He always puts himself last. What a beautiful character the man has, so unusual in this age among public men. Even if he does make a mistake, (which he hasn't), after all he is only human and not infallible. We must always think he thought it was for the best. It surely must keep a man so conscientious as he is, working overtime trying to do his duty, as he is justice personified.

We have heard and read of other presidents, and many of your readers have known him personally, but in my estimation we have a second Abraham Lincoln in our present president, and that heart to heart talk of his, which is so uncommon with us, but which draws us nearer to each other and makes us think after all we are only human, and that we must not expect too much of one another, but after all is said and done what a good impression such talk leaves with us and how different we feel to each other.

Our prayer book says to pray for our rulers, and do we? When we have such a man to represent us as our present president, we should ask the Great Ruler of all to help him in his office when he is trying so hard to serve us.

I firmly believe that if we gave more flowers to the living and honor to whom honor is due, this would be a much better world to live in.

No wonder he is the "people's choice," and it is to be hoped that he will stay where he is until he accomplishes what he has started, and if the Lord spares him, he will yet prove and go down to posterity as the grandest man of the twentieth century.

AN ADMIRER.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

After reading your editorial, "The Unemployed," in tonight's paper, I feel compelled to ask that you kindly allow space in your Open Court for the following:

If the writer of that editorial were sincere in his expressed hope—or wish—"that something tangible—something practically and constructively helpful" will come of the attention to their deplorable mode of existence that the unemployed are now forcing on the general public, yea, on the newspapers themselves, why does he not propose something more tangible than merely "bringing the man and the 'job' together?"

To get the man and the job together there is, perhaps, no surer way than to separate the child from the job. Why not, then, propose the enactment of a law prohibiting child labor? Such a law would, no doubt, greatly enhance the chances of the unemployed adult male to find an occupation suited for his needs. This would, incidentally, benefit the child, too. For, surely, the child should fare much better were it held in its place, which is not the work shop but rather at play, when not in school.

And here is another law whose enactment should aid in solving the unemployed problem: Pass a law—an effective law—against the exploitation of prison labor for the enrichment of private individuals. The products turned out by the prison labor of the country are of no mean significance. And if the prison-made goods were barred from the general market and confined to the use of the prisoners themselves and, possibly, to consumption by governmental and municipal departments, then the market would open for the products of free labor where prison-made goods are now encroaching. And here is where another bunch of unemployed would be disposed of.

But should even this prove inadequate for the need, then there always remains the option of reducing working hours for those that are now employed and forced to work three times as long hours as is good for any man. Limit the work day to eight hours by law, and lo! the unemployment problem is gone.

But, while we're at it, why not go the limit and reduce working hours some more, setting the limit at, say, six, or even better, four hours? But that, of course, would necessitate that that other class of unemployed, the idle rich, would be compelled to take a hand in the game of production.

Now I've said it! See if it gets an audience. In the hope that it does get one, I thank you for the space, and am, yours truly,

ALGOT ENGE.

STOP! LOOK! AND LISTEN!

To the Editor of The Herald:

I would like to enter a few lines in the Open Court of your paper in answer to the teamster and his troubles, in regard to Mr. Hicken and the smoke ordinance, and a flagman between Sixth avenue west and the Soo Line depot. Now, it appears to me this man is not very well posted on what he is writing about, as anyone reading the daily papers ought to know that Mr. Hicken did not introduce the smoke ordinance. And as the writer has worked around there off and on for the last eight years, I believe I am able to state a few facts about the place in question. I have seen teamsters, and in fact, see them every day sit on their wagons and not pay any attention to engines or cars. And right here I want to state that accidents are prevented more times by the engineers and switchmen's good judgment than by some of the teamsters that I have seen.

Now, at Fifth avenue west there are gates and a flagman. But men, women and children will go by these gates and take chances between engine and cars and not pay any attention to these warnings and precautions taken for their safety. It seems to me that any person with common intelligence would look to both sides before crossing a track. I see people every day come walking or driving without looking to see whether or not the track is clear. If people would only try to stop and think what they are doing there would not be any such thing as accidents any more. But they will not do it. Now, it's not very pleasant for an engineer to see these things, as a man on an engine has got two rails to go by and he can't go either to the right or left to prevent an accident. In case of a close call the engineer uses every effort to stop and avoid an accident, and they will either laugh or make a face at him, thinking, I presume, what a joke it was, when the engineer has probably damaged his engine drivers and got ten days coming to him without pay. Yours truly,

J. J. SCHALLENBURGER.

WHAT HAVE I DONE?

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wrote a little poem concerning Lakeside cars, and also Lakeside people, their packages and jars. I only meant the jingle should create a little fun, but when I see The Herald I cry: "What have I done?" For when I read my paper each evening after tea, the trouble that I started is very plain to me.

Such an eruption of "pomes" for the editor
Makes every poet The Herald's life creditor.
I am advising
Rates advertising
Poets should pay for the public's chastising.

Poems projected like smoke from a mountain top
Sizzling like seltzer from out of a fountain top,
Rhymes without reason,
Words without season,
Making a crime far more heinous than treason.

Poems in meter like that which the gas measures,
Limping on feet like the four the ass treasures,
Dance a fandango,
Wild as the tango.
Wish we knew where we could make the whole gang go.

"A VOICE FOR WAR"

By SAVOYARD

Washington, March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Since parliamentary government got its firm foothold with the people who speak our tongue, it is not too much to say that Charles James Fox was the most extraordinary and the most prodigious of all the men who have made Republican institutions the soul of Anglo-Saxon polity. As a debater he never met his match, and Pitt and Burke were his contemporaries, and neither the commons house of parliament of England nor either branch of the American congress ever produced his equal—not even in Burke in England or Webster in America.

Had he been a virtuous man, in social walk, he would stand today the greatest Englishman. But he sounded the entire gamut of debauchery as debauchery then was, yet he had a mind of fire and a heart of gold.

* * *

Where am I going? This is not a chapter on Charles Fox. What I intended to cite was that Fox declared that it was absolutely impossible for any man to be as wise as Lord Thurlow looked. And what I wish to emphasize is that it is impossible for any man to be as patriotic as the Honorable Fall, United States senator from New Mexico, says he is in his speech denunciatory of President Wilson's policy regarding Mexico.

Now, look here, my fellow citizens, I'm older and more experienced than most of you, though, perhaps, not so patriotic as some of you; but whenever you see a statesman washing his hands with invisible soap in imperceptible water, and shrieking, "O, my country, how she bleeds!" you turn Levite as you go down to Jericho and pass him on the other side to be taken care of by some fool Samaritan who "don't know nothing about politics, nohow."

O, the Samaritans are there—may the tribe of the Levite increase!

* * *

This Senator Fall wants war with Mexico, if he is not talking arrant nonsense. He was at it last summer and has been at it ever since. It was such men as he that forced McKinley into the causeless, unnecessary and inglorious war with Spain. If the yaller papers of the country and the yaller statesmen of congress had to go to purgatory for the wickedness of one, and the stupidity of the other, the revenues of purgatory would more than serve to finance all the monopolies of the planet Jupiter, on the J. Pierpont Morgan plan as displayed in the New Haven railroad sample of high finance.

And so I looked up the Honorable Fall and found that the Honorable Fall owns some mines in Mexico. That is what he says in his biography writ by himself in the Congressional Directory. Now I submit, that under the common law—so deservedly extolled by Sir Edward Coke—the Honorable Fall is not a competent witness. He is interested and would summon the best young blood of our land to be spilled to make Mexico behave, and, of course, incidentally his mine would be profitable. Also, of course, I acquit the Honorable Fall of any deliberate plan to get dividend from blood; but when an American capitalist invests in Mexico he is not to be depended on to tell us what to do with Mexico.

* * *

Since the war of 1861-65 the greatest calamity that has come to the G. O. P. was the defeat of Thomas B. Reed for the nomination at St. Louis in 1896. And since that war the greatest blessing that has come to the country was the Democratic nomination of Woodrow Wilson at Baltimore in 1912. Had Reed been president there would have been no Spanish war. Wilson is president and I do not believe that all the imps of hell will be effectual to force him to a war with Mexico.

Let me get back to where I began. In his day Sir Robert Walpole was forced into a disastrous war with Spain. His administration, the most illustrious, though perhaps not the most glorious, certainly not the most brilliant in English history, was in turn assailed by Bolingbroke, Carteret, Chesterfield, Argyle, Pulteney, Wyndham, Doddington, Pitt, Lyttleton, Pope, Swift, Grey, Arbuthnot, Fielding, Johnson, Thomson, Akenside.

That is an imperfect list. There were others. Who are assailing Wilson? Well, Hearst is all I can right now recall. Yes, there is Fall, and maybe Willie Alden Smith will fall in. There also is the sylph Raker of California.

AN ALL YEAR ROUND CITY

Duluth Is Becoming That in Opinion of Local Banker.

Savings Deposits Not So Freely Drawn on in Winter Months.

A better call for capital for lumbering and woods operations is noted, and the requirements of manufacturers and in the various branches of the building trades are also heavier. A waiting policy is being pursued in some lines, pending the opening of navigation and an announcement as to prices of Lake Superior iron ores upon which contracts by the independent steel operators are to be based during the year.

Taken on the whole, financial men agree in the statement that the situation here is fully normal for the season, with general trade on a firm foundation.

"A feature to which too much importance can hardly be attached is the substantial expansion showing in the operations of some of our industries," said an official of the American Exchange bank today. "Some of them are shipping products to distant points, meaning the return of large sums of money. This new money may be said to have been created through the labor expended upon the raw material under the direction of the bright business minds in charge of the plants located here. It is a good thing to see that we are apparently working towards a condition when there will be sufficient employment to keep labor occupied the year round. Industrial development is our hope in getting away from a condition that has ruled up to the present, in which a large proportion of wage earners save their money during the summer only to draw upon it during the winter months. We can see a betterment in that respect this year in that savings bank accounts have not been drawn upon to the extent that has prevailed in other years."

Financial Conditions.

Financial conditions continue favorable at Chicago and in the Eastern cities. The call for funds in the usual spring channels has not developed to any extent as yet and discount rates on commercial paper are comparatively easy. It is reported that the banks in the West and South have returned $35,000,000 of the $40,000,000 of the government funds put out last fall to facilitate the crop movement.

Referring to the business and financial outlook, the Fourth National bank of New York in its last circular says:

"The chances are good for a fair revival in general trade this spring. People are feeling better than they did about the outlook, as is evidenced by the altogether remarkable broadening of the investment inquiry for really high grade securities. There is, of course, some uneasiness felt over the outcome of the recent developments in Mexico but the situation there is largely what it was a month ago. In a few industries, it is evident that the adjustments called for by the lowering of the tariff have not been fully completed, but business men are hopeful, and there are indications that trade in general is gradually improving. The situation is all the sounder for the fact that men in control of large enterprises are proceeding cautiously with the idea of making the improvement absolutely sure. This as it should be in view of the hardships encountered during the last twelve months and the disinclination to take undue risks."

BABY HANGS SELF BY BONNET STRING.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 24.—William Henry Yeomans, baby of Henry Yeomans, a wealthy mine owner, was left alone in its cab on the porch of its home yesterday afternoon. When the nurse returned she found that a string on its bonnet had caught on a hook at the side of the buggy, and in turning over the infant had strangled itself to death.

A train on which the father was traveling to his Colorado properties was stopped near Chicago by means of a long distance telephone message. Yeomans will return to Cleveland at once.

Omaha, Neb., March 24.—Yesterday, the first anniversary of the Easter Sunday tornado which caused more than 100 deaths and did immense property damage in Omaha, the relief committee made its final report and went out of existence. The report showed the collection of $420,000, of which $282,000 went to aid in the restoration of homes destroyed or damaged, and $129,000 for emergency relief. Of the 678 homes demolished or damaged over 97 per cent have been completely restored.

SCOTT BUILDING IN WINNIPEG BURNED.

Winnipeg, Man., March 24.—Several office employes were slightly burned when they climbed down the fire escapes of the Scott block, one of the largest office buildings in Winnipeg, which was destroyed by fire late yesterday. No one was seriously injured. The loss is $150,000.

A large number of clerks who were working on the fourth floor of the building when the fire broke out were cut off by the flames, which spread rapidly to all parts of the building. There was no panic or crowding and officials believe that the order which prevailed probably saved several lives. Most of the clerks escaped down the fire escapes, but it was necessary for a few to hurry to the back of the building and slide down the hot drain pipes. The cause of the fire is not known.

DENY AMERICANS APPROVE CARSON.

St. Louis, Mo., March 24.—The United Irish societies of St. Louis have sent a cablegram to Sir Edward Carson denying that Americans approved his policy in Ulster. The cablegram said:

"Cable quoted you as saying you received letters of sympathy and encouragement from United States. No true American will aprove your unpatriotic policy of fomenting armed opposition to a native parliament in Ireland against the expressed will of overwhelming majority of her people. I challenge you to publish letters with names of writers."

OFFERS TO SUPPORT WAYWARD HUSBAND.

Galesburg, Ill., March 24.—Pleading for the release of her husband, who had been arrested for wife abandonment, Mrs. Charles Nelson, a colored woman, told the judge that she would gladly support her wayward spouse if he would return to her. Nelson had explained to the court that he left home because his wife refused to support him.

"Will I take him back?" exclaimed the woman. "I should say I would! Do you think I want to lose him, after the way he has beat me up?"

Nelson was released and the reunited couple went away happy.

NOBODY IS BLAMED FOR ST. LOUIS FIRE.

St. Louis, Mo., March 24.—The coroner's jury that investigated the death of thirty persons in the Missouri Athletic club fire two weeks ago could not fix the blame for the disaster, because the city ordinances do not provide for the regulation of buildings used for club purposes.

Whether the fire started from a cigarette thrown among the draperies of the dining room, or from defective electric wiring, the jury could not determine.

TAKE SODA IF FOOD SOURS IN ACID STOMACH

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to get a package of ten grain Sodagen tablets from any pharmacy and swallow one tablet anytime followed by a tumbler of water which instantly neutralizes these acids; stops food fermentation, absorbs the gases and sweetens the entire digestive system.

This suggestion should prove valuable to stomach sufferers here who can trace their indigestion to acidity. A local druggist is the authority that these tablets are entirely harmless being composed of Soda, Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate U. S. P.

COUNCIL GRANTS FRANCHISE BY A RESOLUTION ONLY

Charter Provides That Ordinance Is Necessary in Such Cases.

New License Code Presented—Sharp Stick for Northern Pacific.

"No perpetual or exclusive franchise shall ever be granted, nor shall any franchise be granted except by ordinance."

Yesterday afternoon the city council passed a resolution, prepared and submitted by City Attorney Harvey Clapp, granting the Northern Pacific a franchise to use a part of Forty-ninth avenue west, crossing Rene, Halifax, Magellan and Oneota streets. The spur will provide railroad facilities for the Duluth Corrugating & Roofing company, which will locate a large plant in that part of West Duluth.

The wording of the charter states that no franchise shall be granted except by ordinance. Every ordinance is required to take three readings, and then it must lay over thirty days before it becomes effective. A resolution can be prepared and put through the council without the citizens knowing what is coming. They would have no opportunity of presenting their objections—and not infrequently they might have some to present. That was the purpose of the framers of the charter in providing that no franchise shall be granted except by ordinance.

Other Franchises.

The council has granted other franchises by resolution upon the recommendation of City Attorney Clapp, who has prepared all of them.

Dec. 8, 1912, a franchise for a spur track was granted to the Comstock Lumber company at West Duluth. It reads as a perpetual franchise, it is claimed, although the charter states that no franchise shall be granted for more than twenty-five years. When it was presented the city attorney said that the wording made no difference, as the charter would prevail.

July 14, 1912, the council passed another resolution granting a franchise. This ran to the Soo railroad, giving it permission to cross avenues and alleys on Rice's Point, enabling it to build elevated tracks to connect with the trestle of the Duluth terminal. And it also reads as a perpetual franchise, it is claimed.

Several other franchises have been granted by the council, but these have been in the forms of ordinances prepared by the city attorney. Two of them are for periods of not more than twenty-five years and one is revokable at the will of the council. In all cases the franchises provide that the railroads shall pay assessments for their share of street improvements, but in one or more instances this provision was not inserted until the resolution or franchise was presented to the council.

New License Ordinances.

The council yesterday afternoon heard the first readings of twelve license ordinances. They are consolidations of old ordinances, the provisions of which are not changed except in minor particulars. Those who are required to file bonds make application to the city clerk, as has been the case, but the others apply to the city treasurer, instead of to the clerk. The latter simplifies the issuance of licenses and saves the applicant unnecessary trouble. The ordinances introduced yesterday were: Licensing dogs, raising the fee from $1.25 to $2; regulating the peddling of fresh meat; regulating bowling alleys and pool and billiard halls; licensing junk dealers; regulating bill posters; licensing pawnbrokers and second-hand dealers; regulating hackmen, cabmen, draymen, chauffeurs and prescribing standing places; regulating the depositing of building material on the streets; regulating runners; licensing transient merchants, hawkers, peddlers and canvassers; regulating auctions; regulating shows, exhibitions, moving pictures and public amusements.

War on Railroad.

Commissioner Murchison's resolution reciting the instances in which the Northern Pacific has failed to cooperate with the city and declaring that until the road takes steps to fulfill its obligations, no further concessions will be granted it by the city, was passed unanimously. The resolution stated that the Northern Pacific has been derelict in its position on the maintenance of the Sixth avenue viaduct, the construction of the Jensworld street viaduct, the building of a subway at Smithville, in furnishing service to Michigan street shippers, the crossings on Railroad street, the Sixty-sixth avenue crossing and the maintenance of lights over its crossings.

Bert Farrell appeared before the council to ask that an appropriation of $3,000 be allowed for the improvement of the Kenwood road, which leads to the country back of the city. He said that the county commissioners have agreed to expend that amount. The council was favorable to his request but took no action upon it.

N. J. Upham wished to know the commission's position relative to continuing the water and light department in its present quarters in the Commercial building. Fourth avenue west and First street. Commissioner Merritt declared that he was not favorable to that location, considering it inadequate, but he said that as the council did not approve erecting a new building he would be willing to enter into a lease for another year. The matter will probably be acted upon at the next meeting.

For Horses' Welfare.

The Young Citizens' association of the Longfellow school asked the council to provide a tap at the intersection of Grand avenue and Central avenue, West Duluth, in order that teamsters may water their horses during the winter months. They stated that many farmers will not go to a livery stable, where they would be obliged to buy feed, and that the result was that their horses went all day without water. They declared that they considered this cruelty to animals and hoped that action would be taken before next fall.

The communication of the West End Hillside Improvement club, protesting against the continued use of the rifle range on the ground that it is dangerous, was referred to Safety Commissioner Hicken. The part protesting against the city bring the Twenty-seventh avenue paving up to specifications for the reason that the burden would fall upon the general taxpayers, was referred to Works Commissioner Murchison.

Petitions were received for a sanitary sewer in First alley from Thirty-first to Twenty-seventh avenue east and for the grading of Railroad alley from Sixtieth avenue east to Lester river.

D. H. Clough was granted an extension of time to July 1 for the completion of the middle system reservoir, the construction of which was begun last fall.

A settlement of $275 with D. C. Thompson was authorized. His property was damaged last winter by the breaking of a water main at Fortieth avenue east and Superior street.

The petition asking that blocks 109 and 110, Sixth division of West Duluth, be designated as a residence district, was approved by the legal department and a hearing ordered called upon the ordinance.

Lights were ordered discontinued over the Northern Pacific right-of way at Central avenue, Fifty-seventh avenue west, Ramsey street and Forty-second avenue west. Henceforth it is understood that they will be maintained by the railroad company and the resolution was passed to notify the Edison company that the city will no longer pay for them.

Ordinances appropriating $18,000 for sprinkling, $178.20 for the purchase of miscellaneous tags, $875 for a portable rock crusher and engine for the park department, and $5,000 for lumber for maintenance purposes, were given their third reading and passed.

The paving of Lake avenue from the canal to Twelfth street was ordered and will be done this year if the city has sufficient funds. The various estimates for a 30-foot roadway were: brick, $25,173.57; asphalt, $23,385.07; reinforced concrete, $19,942.62; creosoted blocks, $26,943 02.

Supreme Court Recesses.

INTERESTING PEOPLE WHO ARE DOING INTERESTING WORK HERE

To spend to the best advantage $60,000 every year among the poor of St. Louis county is the work to which Charles Shogran, clerk of the county board of poor commissioners, has devoted himself.

Administration of the poor office affairs is a task larger than most people realize. It is not a case of simply dishing out the county's money freely to all comers. On the contrary it requires careful scrutiny of individual cases and the exercise of good business judgment.

To make the money available count for the most has been the constant aim of Mr. Shogran during his years of association with the county poor work. With him it is a matter of personal pride that during the year 1913, although St. Louis county led all other counties in the state in the amount expended for the poor, the cost of administering public charity was less than one-half of what it was in Hennepin county, where the city of Minneapolis is located.

The bulk of the expense is for the upkeep of the three institutions at the county poor farm, the almshouse, hospital and tuberculosis sanitarium. In addition to this, considerable money is expended for groceries and fuel.

Mr. Shogran estimates that between 150 and 200 poor families in the county receive aid every month in grocery and fuel orders varying from $4 to $16 a month.

MRS. NINA RYBERG DIES AT ST. MARY'S

Well Known Duluth Woman Succumbs After Operation.

Taken suddenly ill last Wednesday, Mrs. Nina Ryberg, 24 years old, wife of Arthur L. Ryberg, manager of the Lake Hardware store, died at 2 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's hospital, where she was operated on Saturday.

Mrs. Ryberg was taken ill at her home last Wednesday and on Friday was removed to St. Mary's hospital, where an operation was deemed necessary. She had a relapse following the operation, ending her untimely death early this morning.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Ryberg is survived by two sons, Donald, 6, and Clyde, 5 years old. Her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Niebling, and a brother, Paul Niebling, both of Minneapolis, also survive her. Mr. and Mrs. Ryberg were married in Minneapolis eight years ago. They lived at 4727 Robinson street, Lakeside.

The body of Mrs. Ryberg has been removed to the Crawford undertaking rooms, where the funeral arrangements will be made this afternoon. Her mother and brother are expected here for the funeral, which will probably be held Thursday afternoon. Interment will be at the Forest Hill cemetery.

TRACTION TRAFFIC GOOD.

Street Railway Weekly Earnings Advance 13 Per Cent.

The road's earnings for the second week of March were reported at $23,844, an increase of $2,764 or 13.1 per cent over last year. For the year to date, the system's revenue aggregated $240,526, an increase of $22,344 or 10.5 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

This record is regarded as indisputable evidence that the city's population is growing steadily and judging by present indications it is thought that earnings of the present year will set a new high record.

On account of the pending court decision in the city's action against the company, trading in its stock on the Eastern exchanges has been limited for some time back. The issue was quoted at $63, on the Toronto Stock exchange at the end of last week.

KILLED INSTANTLY BY FALLING TREE

Gust Schroeder's Term at Work Farm Has Sudden End.

Gust Schroeder, 62 years old, a prisoner at the joint city and county work farm, was instantly killed by a falling tree yesterday afternoon.

The accident happened while Schroeder and the other prisoners were at work cutting brush and hewing trees under the direction of Superintendent Ward, who is endeavoring to clear a large section of the newly opened farm. Schroeder had just hewn a large tree and had apparently failed to get out of the way in time. The other prisoners turned around when they heard the crash and Schroeder was seen lying underneath the fallen tree. He was dead when the others reached him.

Coroner McComb was notified and he ordered the body removed to the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms. It is being held there pending word from the dead man's daughter, who is believed to be living at Saginaw, Mich. No funeral arrangements will be made until she is heard from.

Schroeder was a widower and had lived in Duluth the last eighteen years, working as a laborer at odd jobs. He was sentenced last Saturday to serve a term of thirty days on the farm, following his arrest Friday night on a charge of drunkenness.

POISON LABEL ON WHISKEY

The New York legislature is considering a bill requiring the placing of a poison label, with skull and cross bones, on all bottles or receptacles of beverages containing more than two per cent alcohol. Scientists claim that alcohol is a poison and should be labeled thus the same as any other poison, especially where it is used as a beverage.

That alcohol is accumulative poison which must be eliminated from the system of the drinker before the appetite or craving for liquor can be overcome is the theory on which the Neal Institute has been working for years and which accounts for the great success of that treatment over other forms of treatment.

The Neal treatment for the drink habit is a perfectly harmless vegetable remedy, taken internally, with absolutely no bad after effects, which in a very short time turns craving for alcohol into loathing. There are no hypodermic injections.

Write at once for our latest booklet, "The Modern Method of Treatment for Alcohol and Drug Addiction." It is sent free on request—in a plain sealed wrapper.

WILL GIVES $20,000 TO THE SOCIALISTS.

Grand Junction, Colo., March 24.—William Sawyer, who died here recently, left his entire estate of $20,000 to the Socialist party, upon the death of his sister. In the will some small bequests are made to Socialist newspapers and the residue to the national executive committee of the party.

OPPOSE SALE OF MONTANA COAL.

Washington, March 24.—Vigorous opposition has developed in the senate to the bill proposing to sell to the Republic Coal company, a subsidiary of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company, the coal rights of some 2,000 acres of land in Montana. Senators Norris, Fall and Poindexter attacked the measure as special legislation. They said, however, that they favored general legislation at this session of congress which would open the coal resources of the country.

Cattle Men Arrested.

Grand Junction, Colo., March 24.—T. B. Bowman, S. D. Mitchell and George Hughes, all prominent cattle men in western Colorado, have been arrested here on an indictment charging them with the murder of Peter Swanson seven years ago. Swanson was shot to death by a band of cowboys while guarding 2,000 sheep.

Katy Road Loses Appeal.

Washington, March 24.—The supreme court dismissed the appeal of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway company from the judgment of the Oklahoma courts awarding Mrs. Jyolus B. West of La Bette county, Kansas, $15,000 for the death of her husband, William B. West. West was express messenger on the "Katy Flyer," killed in a railroad collision in Oklahoma.

Milwaukee Counterfeiter Sentenced.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24.—John Wizgard pleaded guilty yesterday to making and circulating counterfeit silver dollars and was sentenced by United States Judge F. A. Geiger to five years in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan. A complete set of counterfeiting molds was found in his possession at Kenosha, Wis.

Farmers Organize.

Rogers, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers and stockmen of this vicinity have organized a shippers' association. The principal objects are to improve the market conditions for both. The grain will be shipped by the association and an effort made to secure the highest possible prices for the members by selling direct to millers and Eastern shippers instead of to local elevators or through commission men in the larger centers.

Raw cotton from Africa and Asia imported into England and re-exported to the United States during January-April weighed 58,000,000 pounds.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore, stomach sufferers should, wherever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

MANY FEATURES AT JINGLING SHOW

Large Crowd Enjoys the Antics of Amateur Entertainers.

Replete with original and varied features, the Jingling Bros.' circus was a complete success at its opening performance at the Y. M. C. A. last night. A large audience witnessed the performance, and there was a unanimous sentiment of approval expressed at the completion of each turn.

Of course, the rube band, with its burlesque features, was a pleasing card and the slack wire walker, the four-oared crew, the tango and folk dancing all fitted nicely into the program.

When the whistle sounded at 8:15 o'clock the grand pageant began its circle around the arena, with acrobats, jugglers, clowns, menagerie, mules, bands and improvised calliopes.

There were twelve displays, and the rube band started off the fun with some really thrilling stunts on the horizontal bar.

The Jefferson school pupils under the direction of Prof. Ailetzhaeuser, physical director of the Duluth schools, did a very fine drill. The pupils appeared to be well trained and marched in unison and precision.

Peter Petkoff, as "Hercules," astounded the audience by lifting a 300-pound weight with one hand until a small clown grabbed up the whole apparatus of the athlete and ran away with it. The mouth organ band under the direction of N. D. McLeod gave a performance that caused the audience to sit up and take notice.

A knock-about act, shadow boxing and a knockout were features that delighted the most exacting of the ring fans.

The clown band, while not strong on harmony, filled the void with burlesque and carried off a good share of applause. The elephant squad turned out to be spring-board performers.

There was a roller hockey game in which the "Victorias" went up against the D. H. C. team, and the match ended in a free-for-all fight, the referee falling upon the puck.

The dental clinic caused roars of laughter as the dentist applied screwdriver and ice tongs. The "male quartet" gave several "sad ballads" and the educated donkey showed considerable intellect.

Douglas Moore, Max Rheinberger, David Horak and Philip Moore, introduced as Duluth's best four-oared crew, plied valiantly at the oars for five minutes.

Two storks and a "physician" proved to be good entertainers in the "barrel of fun" act.

Director Olson handled the legerdemain feature, with a Japanese puzzle and pyrotecnic display. Pete Petkoff threw Emil Niemi in a "raslin" match that was worth seeing. Many other interesting features were shown.

"Seventh, what classes of vessels, whether domestic or foreign, are permitted to pass through or into each of these rivers and harbors and canals, and what discrimination, if any, is made in favor of domestic shipping.

"Eighth, what amount might be realized by the United States if a reasonable toll were charged on all shipping passing through said rivers and harbors and canals.

"Ninth, what, if any, treaties are in force between the United States and any other foreign power which would prevent the United States from charging tolls against such foreign governments, even in cases where it might be determined to charge a toll on its own vessels passing through such rivers, harbors and canals.

"Tenth, what is the present cost per annum to the United States for maintaining and operating said rivers, harbors and canals."

Referred to Committee.

Senator Chamberlain's resolution asserts in its preamble that "the Panama canal has cost the United States more than $400,000,000 and is built upon soil which to all intents and purposes belongs to the United States and forms a part of the United States coast line."

The resolution was referred to the committee on inter-oceanic canals.

The departure of the First battalion of the Seventy-fourth regiment from Buffalo was delayed half an hour because of the refusal of the motormen, acting under orders from their union officials, to move the street cars after the soldiers went on board. It had been arranged to carry the guardsmen from the armory to the Lackawanna station on the street cars, and thence by special train to Depew. The motormen brought the cars to the switch in front of the armory, but when the first soldier stepped on board, all left their posts.

Maj. Kemp ordered the motormen to leave their controllers on the controller boxes, and all but one of them did so. When he refused to give it up he was promptly knocked down with the butt end of a rifle. The cars were then manned by supervisors of the International Street Railway company and one or two soldier electricians.

The street car men who deserted their posts were suspended. The union officials later demanded their reinstatement today, and rumors of a threatened street railway strike were current.

The First and Third battalions of the Seventy-fourth regiment are guarding the coupler plant, while the Second battalion is held in reserve at the Buffalo armory. The Sixty-fifth regiment has also been ordered to assemble, but will not be brought to Depew unless the situation grows more serious.

Clash Over Cars' Use.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 24.—The refusal of International Railway company employes to move street cars carrying national guardsmen created a sharp issue today between the company and the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway employes. President E. C. Connette of the International confirmed the action of the supervisors in suspending the motormen and conductors comprising the crew of the six cars.

When this word was carried to the headquarters of the street car men, a call was at once issued for a meeting of the grievance committee and it was announced by President C. F. Conroy of the local union that a formal demand would be made for the reinstatement of the men.

"Contrary to Agreement."

"When these cars were turned over to the National Guard our men were no longer required to run them," said President Conroy. "Their suspension is contrary to our agreement with the International, and we shall demand their reinstatement and back up that demand with all the resources of our association. The men were outrageously treated, one of them being knocked down by a soldier because he would not give up his controller."

President Connette declined to discuss the situation, stating that the men had been suspended and so far as the company was concerned the matter rested there.

In addition to the crews of the six cars, fourteen other men who refused to take their places were promptly suspended by the company.

contest for the nomination for mayor. In addition to Mayor Gerhard A. Bading, non-partisan, Theobald Otjen and David S. Rose are running on the same ticket, a fourth candidate being Emil Seidel, Socialist. The two receiving the largest number of votes will oppose each other at the election two weeks hence.

Rose and Seidel Favored.

The betting around town is slightly in favor of Rose and Seidel for the mayoralty nomination. It seems likely that Bading and Seidel or possibly Bading and Rose will be nominated. Judging from the betting Otjen will run fourth. Candidates for mayor represent these principles:

Bading—Full value for taxes.

Otjen—Economy, efficiency and courtesy.

Rose—Lower taxes and better government.

Seidel—Public ownership of public utilities.

About 200 candidates are after sixty-four nominations for aldermen in the various wards and at large. There are fewer candidates in proportion for other offices.

City and county employes will get a half-holiday this afternoon, and factories are planning to comply with the law which provides for a half holiday on primary election day.

Six Democrats on Ballots.

Boston, Mass., March 24.—Primaries for the selection of nominees for congressman from the Twelfth district were held here today. The election, which will take place on April 7, was necessitated by the resignation of Congressman James M. Curley after his election as mayor.

The district has been strongly Democratic and there were six Democratic candidates in the primaries. James B. Connelly was the only Progressive candidate, and Frank Deier was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Vote in Seventh New Jersey.

Paterson, N. J., March 24.—A primary election in this, the Seventh, New Jersey district is in progress today to determine who shall be the nominees for the seat in the house of representatives made vacant by the death of Robert G. Bremner of Passaic, a Democrat, who was elected with President Wilson in 1912. Congressman Bremner died in Baltimore of cancer after heroic efforts had been made to save his life by the use of radium. Five Democrats, 11 Republicans, 1 Progressive and 1 Socialist are in the race. The election will be held on April 7.

Premier Asquith's given partial acceptance of the doctrine that officers have the right to lay down for themselves the conditions under which they will continue to serve the king.

Rich Men and Poor Men.

"They are so treated because they are rich men and because they have the prejudices of their classes. Not only is there one law for the rich man in the army and one for the poor, but there is one standard for the Tory officer's loyalty to his oath and another standard for the private soldier whose sympathies are with the laboring man."

Similar comments appear in the Liverpool Post, also a strong Liberal paper.

Seely Will Explain.

Col. John Seely, secretary of state for war, today promised in the house of commons that he would tomorrow lay on the table all the material and written documents which he said would clear up the whole mystery of the recent crisis among the officers of the army in Ireland. He gave this promise when he was asked by a member to confirm or deny the statement that a written assurance had been given to Brig.-Gen. Hubert Gough that the troops would not be used to force home rule upon Ulster.

Redmond is Confident.

"There certainly will be no dissolution of parliament until the home rule for Ireland has been passed."

This statement was made to the Associated Press today by John E. Redmond, the leader of the Irish Nationalist party. Mr. Redmond added that the second reading of the bill would be taken by the house of commons on March 30, and that the bill would be proceeded with until it became law.

GOMEZ PALACIO HAS FALLEN; TORREON IS NOW BEING ATTACKED

Surprised at Defense.

The defense of the city came as a surprise to the rebels, who assumed that only a nominal resistance for the purpose of inflicting such damage as might be safely administered would be made by the Huerta forces. The reinforcements reported to have been rushed into the city by Gen. Velasco were totally unexpected, and when the last reports were received last night, it was not known definitely on which banner victory would settle, although the rebels express perfect confidence in the outcome.

Their confidence, in the opinion of the local military men, was justified by the capture of the main Federal fortifications on Cerro de la Pilar, a mountain 2,000 feet high, surmounted by a great water tank.

The whole local population was astir early today, eager for further news of the battle.

O'Shaughnessy Is Better.

Mexico City, March 24.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, who returned here yesterday from Vera Cruz, is much improved in health. He said that the report that he had determined to resign his post was erroneous.

Colquitt Worries Washington.

Washington, March 24.—Governor Colquitt's offer of a reward of $1,000 for the delivery upon Texas soil of five Mexicans suspected of being the murderers of Celmente Vergara, has caused state and war department officials serious concern for international complications.

The five Mexicans sought are Capt. Apolonce Rodriguez, Nito Ceara, Juan Castillon, Andreas Rodriguez and Dinomisio Martine. In his report today, Brig. Gen. Bliss says the men named are charged in the newspapers with complicity in the death of Clemente Vergara.

The right of the governor to offer a reward for the apprehension of a fugitive from justice is not denied by the officials, but in this case it is feared that the offer may lead to an attempt to kidnap the Mexicans and bring them into Texas, which would be in violation of the extradition treaty between Mexico and the United States, and afford the Mexican government ground for a demand for the punishment of the kidnapers, with all manner of subsequent entanglements.

Shot at U. S. Troops.

Further reports on the incident near Del Rio, Tex., where Mexican Federal soldiers fired across the Rio Grande at American troopers, say more than 500 shots were directed at the soldiers to whom the fleeing Constitutionalists surrendered. Frank approval of the action of the American troopers who returned the fire was expressed here in official circles. News of the incident was received at the war department as an incident of border patrol work, and created no stir. Army reports told of the exchange of shots, and announced that twenty-nine Constitutionalists had been taken into custody after fifteen had been killed as they fled across the Rio Grande from the Federals. There was no mention, however, of any Federals killed or Americans wounded.

Firing Was Deliberate.

According to the official report, about forty-five Constitutionalists attacked by 250 Federals, sought refuge across the river, and as they came upon American soil were met by a detachment of Troop E, Fourteenth United States cavalry. The pursuing Federals were pouring their fire upon the fugitives, and as the Constitutionalists reached the Texas side, according to the report, the shots were deliberately directed at the Americans. The report merely added that the fire was returned.

The war department stands squarely behind Brig. Gen. Bliss, commanding the United States forces at this point, in his determination to punish Mexicans of any faction who wilfully fire across the line and endanger American life and property.

Some time ago Gen. Bliss, after having repeatedly warned the Mexican military commanders against indiscriminate shooting across the line, instructed the officers in command of the American border patrol to return any such fire if they were satisfied that American soldiers were the targets.

This was not the first instance in which the border patrol has been called upon to protect itself by replying to Mexican fire, similar occurrences having been reported from points on the Arizona boder.

Small Number Involved.

San Antonio, Tex., March 24.—Only two United States troopers engaged in the exchange of shots with Mexican Federal soldiers at McKee's Crossing, according to the official report of Capt. George W. Winterburn. Capt. Winterburn stated that the detail was made up of eight men, and that while two of the men engaged the Mexican soldiers, the others rounded up the fugitives as they reached the Texas side of the Rio Grande. His report did not say as to the casaulties on the Mexican side.

CONVENE IN VIRGINIA.

Duluth Woodmen Will Take Special Train for Convention.

Duluth members of the Modern Woodmen are making preparations to attend the county convention of the order to be held in Virginia the first week in April. At that time delegates will be elected for the state convention, which will be held at Stillwater early in May.

The trip to Virginia will be made in a special train, and delegates will be chosen from Imperial camp, No. 206; West End camp, No. 2346; West Duluth, Proctor, Hermantown and New Duluth. At least sixty-four delegates are expected from Duluth.

Bagley Wins Both.

Bagley, Minn., March 24.—The local girls' and boys' basket ball teams closed the season by each winning a game, the former, 6 to 0, and the latter, 58 to 4.

TWO SOUTH DAKOTA ELEVATORS BURNED.

McVille, S. D., March 24.—The elevators of the Winter Ames company and the Farmers' Elevator company were destroyed by fire and the Kukke lumber yards at Kloten, six miles southeast of here, badly damaged today, causing a loss of more than $100,000.

Winter's Chills Breed Kidney Ills

Chilly, damp, changing weather is hard on the kidneys. Even more irritating are colds, grip, pneumonia, tonsilitis, quinsy and other infections. The kidneys get congested and inflamed, and this causes backache and disordered kidney action. Though serious in its latter stages, kidney disease is not hard to conquer if a good kidney remedy is used when the first signs of kidney trouble are noticed.

Spring is Breaking; Backs are Aching

Backache is often the first signs of some form of kidney disease that has been coming on for months. Look for the other signs;—lame back, sharp pains when stooping or lifting, dizzy spells, nervousness, or despondency, with irregular, painful or distressing action of the kidneys; if these signs exsist, decide that the kidneys need attention, ere the trouble turns to gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease.

DULUTH PEOPLE TESTIFY

Sixth Avenue West

A. Siden, tailor, 17 Sixth Ave. West, Duluth, says: "I was troubled by weak kidneys especially when I caught cold. Doan's Kidney Pills strengthened my kidneys and removed the trouble. The relief has been permanent and now I don't have any sign of kidney complaint or backache, although I work hard every day. I am glad to have you keep on publishing the endorsement I gave Doan's Kidney Pills after I first used them."

West Superior Street

Mr. W. F. Humerichous, 1803 W. Superior St., Duluth, says: "For several years I had attacks of backache. Sometimes when I stooped over and then straightened up quickly I got dizzy. I didn't have much ambition. I tried different medicines but without much success, and as I had often heard and read about Doan's Kidney Pills, I finally used them. They helped me and I got another box. After using this box, I improved in every way. The backache stopped and my health was much better. I wouldn't be without a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills in the house. The endorsement I have given them before still holds good."

West Second Street

Harry Vaughan, 2530 W. Second St., Duluth, says: "While suffering from rheumatic pains in my back, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and was thoroughly relieved of the attack. Doan's Kidney Pills took away the swelling in my feet, strengthened my kidneys and regulated their action. I use Doan's Kidney Pills now when I have to, and a few doses always fixes me up in good shape. The endorsement I gave Doan's Kidney Pills when they first helped me so much, holds good."

West Twenty-third Ave.

Mrs. R. Elde, 714 W. Twenty-third Ave., Duluth, says: "My back and kidneys hurt me a great deal and in the morning the pains were worse. I didn't pay much attention to the trouble at first, but it got so bad that I had to do something. Knowing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I began using them and they made me feel fine. They cured the pain in my back, too. I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills when they helped me so much and I am glad to endorse them again."

East Sixth Street

J. C. Gilman, electrician, 1007 E. Sixth St., Duluth, says: "My back and kidneys hurt me, especially if I caught cold. Someone told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did. They soon relieved all the trouble and the relief has been permanent. I haven't needed any kidney medicine whatever since. You can certainly keep on using the endorsement I gave Doan's Kidney Pills a short time ago."

Nineteen One-half Ave. W.

Mrs. A. Christianson, 413 Nineteen and One-half avenue west, Duluth, says: "For several months my kidneys weren't working right. My back was so weak that I couldn't lift anything, and my hands and arms seemed to lose all their strength. My kidneys were badly disordered, too. I was glad to get prompt relief after taking Doan's Kidney Pills a couple of days, and my back and kidneys soon got strong. Since then I have used Doan's Kidney Pills when I have had to and they have always fixed me up all right in a short time."

South Street

George Holt, South street east, Duluth, says: "I had kidney and bladder complaint two years ago and it was a bad case. The pains in my back were terrible and often the pains went into my hips and sides. It hurt me to lift or stoop, and when I caught cold it was much worse. I had dizzy headaches and the trouble about laid me up. Nothing did me any good until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They soon gave me relief and I have never had any serious kidney trouble since."

LIVE SPORTING GOSSIP

By BRUCE

HENRY WARNACK, whoever he is, is classed as a high brow. In the pink sporting edition of the Los Angeles Times, Hi goes through a two-column interview with Freddy Welsh. It is good; in fact, it is immense.

For instance Hi has Fred saying:

"Wilde never got down to business until he went to jail, and then he began his sincere work when it was too late. His essay on 'Intentions' was beautiful, but he never struck the note of humility with which life deserves to be approached until he wrote 'De Profundis' and the 'The Ballad of Reading Goal.' There is in both of these works a cry from the heart.

"Maeterlinck is another big influence in the world, but people slight the good substantial food in his essays in order to be entertained by his plays— * * *"

This is from the professional champion pugilist of England. He is the friend of Fra Elbertus Hubbard, it might be added. This is the chap who cabled the king of his victory over Jose Rivers. Take it from his conversation, this Welsh is some guy, one possessed of a fine intuitive knowledge of how to bask in the limelight of kindly and even kingly publicity.

Maybe Ed Walsh Is Through.

OUT on the sunshiny coast the other day large Edward Walsh gave that famous arm a trial. After the trial there were those who shook their heads dubiously and doubted much whether the famous spitball pitcher will ever come back.

It is said that Walsh merely lobbed the ball over: that his arm was so sore and lame that he was hardly able to use it.

Truly it does look bad for Walsh. Chesbro went the same way, and now perhaps has come the turn of one of the greatest and surely the most enduring pitcher in the world.

It was the wonderful amount of work that large Ed did that perhaps hastened the end of his usefulness, if he is through, as it appears. Day in and day out he went in the box and pitched out of turn. The arm of steel stood the strain—but they are all human, you know, and it may be curtains for one of the greatest of all time.

Some Sizzling Interest.

CHARGES and counter charges have grown out of the playing of the post season hockey series between the Lakes and Northerns. This is a potent indication of the vast amount of enthusiasm shown in the games. But now that the series is over, the officials of the league, the players of the two teams and the followers, should forget the unpleasant details and get down to harmony.

Never before in the history of Duluth has there been the interest in any league that has been aroused over the Duluth Amateur Hockey league. The only fly in the ointment has been the unpleasantness arising over the final games. Let everyone forget the wrangling and work for the success of the league next year, for hockey has sure received a fine boost and it would be a shame to let any unsportsmanlike conduct injure the future standing of the game.

The Task of the Feds.

ONE of the largest tasks of the Federal league officials was the focusing of public attention. This was accomplished in the signing of Joe Tinker, one of the best advertised players in the world. Now the other large task confronting the Feds is the keeping of a large share of this attention to themselves.

Whether the Feds will be able to do this is one of the questions the baseball officials throughout the land are interestingly speculating upon. There are more really good players in the Federal lists than most of the fans believed it possible for the Federal officials to corral. But there are also some players that obviously do not bear the stamp of major league caliber, and when the league season opens the question is just whether the fans will tolerate the class of baseball that may result from more or less patched up teams.

Major league fans are used to the best baseball in the world, and are therefore intolerant and more or less captions. The Federals may be asked to come through with baseball of the same class as that played in the National and American leagues—and there is a question whether the demand can be met.

The Minnesota Schedule.

IN commenting upon the football schedule of next season's Minnesota team, the Minnesota Alumni Weekly has the following more or less terse comment to offer:

"Some football schedule we have for next season! We left Nebraska off the list this time so that we could play North Dakota and some other teams that will be easy to beat! That's the idea—give us the schedule that will be easy for us! Great!"

All of this, or at least some of it, leads to the opinion that some of the laborers on the college sheet are not at all pleased with the teams that Minnesota is to meet next season.

The Touring White Sox.

IF all the baseball players that have been signed by the Honorable Darby O'Brien are taken on the trip—at one time—it will require several cars to transport the troupe.

At the present writing O'Brien has many legions, one might almost say, under contract. If one fourth of the young men come up to fond expectations, it also might be stated that we will have some team.

Let us hope for the best.

Start a Rowing Club.

The Duluth Boat club will help you obtain a complete racing and practice equipment consisting of

One eight-oared racing shell.
One four-oared racing shell.
Two four-oared barges (practice boats equipped with coxswain's seat.)
Four, four-oared lapstreak boats.

In order to promote the sport of rowing and to make room for new equipment purchased this season the Duluth Boat club offers the above equipment of eight racing boats for sale at the ridiculously low price of $600. Terms cash.

All of these boats are in excellent condition and subject to inspection before purchase.

This is a wonderful opportunity for a new organization to take up the sport as the above outfit could not be duplicated at less than $2,500. Interested parties may correspond with J. E. Ten Eyck, rowing coach, Duluth Boat club, Duluth, Minn.

DATES SET FOR LAWN TENNIS TITLE GAMES.

New York, March 24.—The official list of dates and awards of lawn tennis championship tournaments for the coming season is announced by R. D. Wrenn, president of the United States National Lawn Tennis association. The list includes 134 tournaments, the all-comers national tournament being set for the Casino, at Newport, R. I., to begin Monday, Aug. 24. The women's national tournament will again be held at the Philadelphia Cricket club, beginning June 8. The national clay court championship begins July 13 at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The striking feature of the list, which is larger than usual, is the increase in the number of women's tournaments. There is a marked growth in the list as scheduled for the West and South. The famous Longwood meeting and the Eastern doubles are scheduled for Boston to begin July 20, the New York state championship for the Crescent Athletic club, Brooklyn, on July 29; and the sectional national doubles for Onwentsia, Chicago, on Aug. 4. The Western championship will also be decided there beginning July 25.

Altogether, the list is the most comprehensive that the national association ever has issued and contains few conflicting dates. The list included:

July 18—Deephaven, Minnetonka, Minn., Northwestern championship. Aug. 1—Deephaven, Minnetonka, Minn., Minnesota state championship. Aug. 3—Detroit Tennis club, Detroit, Mich., Michigan state championship. Aug. 17—Iowa Lawn Tennis association, Des Moines, Iowa, state championship of Iowa.

FEDS ADOPT SCHEDULE; TO FIGHT FOR PLAYERS

Baltimore, Md., March 24.—When the directors of the Federal league met this morning to go over the playing dates arranged by the schedule committee it was expected that the spirit of co-operation that prevailed at yesterday's sessions would result in speedy action upon the schedule and early adjournment today.

President R. B. Ward of the Brooklyn club came out emphatically against his team playing Sunday baseball and the schedule makers arranged the dates in the West accordingly.

"The ball players must work the same as bankers to maintain their standard and to improve in efficiency," said Mr. Ward. "If they fall behind they are dropped. That's why they should have their rest as anyone else.

"I'm not straight-laced, but I do believe in proper observance of Sunday, and because of my belief my players will have the same relief from duty."

The playing schedule of the Federal league of baseball clubs was adopted last night at a meeting here of the officials of the league.

The schedule was drafted in its entirety after two sessions were held. It was announced that some minor change may be made that would entail an extra session and that the schedule probably would be given out the latter part of this week.

The most important business at the meeting, other than the drafting of the schedule, was the determination to apply for an injunction to restrain Pitcher Blanding from playing with the Cleveland Americans. President Gilmore telegraphed E. E. Gales of Indianapolis, counsel for the league, instructing him to appty for the injunction at Grand Rapids, Mich., Blanding being a resident of Michigan. Blanding, who played with the Cleveland Americans last year signed with the Kansas City Federals but later rejoined Cleveland.

Vice President Mullen of the Buffalo club, said that Pitcher Kahler of last year's Cleveland team who returned to Cleveland after having signed a contract with the Buffalo Federals either would play in Buffalo or not at all.

President Gilmore announced that the pennant winners of the Federal league will issue a challenge to the winners in the National and American leagues to play for the championship of the world.

"If either of the successful teams in those two leagues refuses to meet our leaders," he added, "we will claim the championship by default."

A dinner in honor of the visiting baseball men was given by the Baltimore Federals.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 24.—Vice President E. S. Bearnard of the Cleveland American league club said last night that the Cleveland club will give Pitchers Fred Blanding and George Kahler the best obtainable legal backing in case the Federal league seeks to enjoin them from playing with Cleveland.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 24.—S. H. Cammitz and "John Doe," representatives of the Pittsburg Federal league baseball club, were enjoined temporarily by the circuit court here yesterday from interfering with in any manner, speaking to, writing to, or communicating with members of the Pittsburg National league team now in training in this city.

The injunction was asked by the Pittsburg Athletic association, owners of the Pittsburg National league club, and was sought under an Arkansas statute which prohibits interference with persons whose services have been pledged by contract. No date has been designated for the hearing.

Boston, Mass., March 24.—Jimmy Collins, a star third baseman for many years and manager of the world's champion Boston Americans of 1903, said yesterday that he would go to Buffalo on Sunday to confer with the owners of the Federal league franchise there regarding his acceptance of the management of that team. Collins said he would be a candidate for third base position if he became manager.

SUPERIOR URGED TO GET INTO ROWING GAME

Jimmy Ten Eyck Offers to Coach the Superior Oarsmen Free of Charge to Encourage Organization of a Club.

BY BRUCE.

If Superior wants to get into the rowing game, the opportunity is knocking with ironclad knuckles on the door of the Superior Boat club.

There are a number of fine boats for sale at the Duluth Boat club, and James E. Ten Eyck yesterday offered to coach the candidates for the Superior crews free of charge, if a club was placed in the rowing game.

A rowing club at Superior would work wonders for the rowing game hereabouts. It would cause greater rivalry at the Duluth club and consequently greater interest. Also, it would assist in the gathering movement of securing the national regatta for Duluth.

Duluth is after the national—don't make any mistake about that. Just as Jimmy Ten Eyck has plans worked out for taking a crew to the English Henley in quest of the world's championship—so have the officials of the local club worked out plans for holding the national regatta at the Head of the Lakes.

With every natural condition favoring the organizing of a rowing club, the only wonder is that the people of Superior have not placed a rowing club in the game long before this.

The Northwestern International Rowing association would welcome a Superior club with open arms. As a matter of fact new blood is needed in the N. W. I. R. A., and needed badly. As another matter of pertinent fact, it is not too late to send a crew to the 1914 regatta, which will be held at Kenora this coming July.

Ten Eyck Would Help.

"I would be only too glad to assist in every way in the organization of a rowing club in Superior, and also assist in the coaching of its crews," said Jimmy Ten Eyck yesterday.

"The organization of a rowing club in Superior would be a fine boost for the game. It would mean more competition for us and it would also mean that we could arrange a number of races during the season. This would be the best possible training for the two crews.

"In many ways Superior has more natural rowing advantages than Duluth. I mean in regard to the layout of courses. There are a number of ideal courses over on the other side of the bay. It would be of the interest of rowing to organize a rowing club at Superior and the officials of the Duluth club stand ready and even anxious to assist in every way possible."

The arrival of the new consignment of boats at the local club gives the Duluth Boat club one of the largest equipments in the entire country. Some of the boats that will be disposed of are practically new and are in splendid shape.

With a continuance of the present brand of weather Ten Eyck expects the crews on the water during the coming week. Last year the men did not get out until May. But the weather conditions were radically different.

Practically all of the ice is out of the lower bay now. Another week of this kind of weather will mean that the crews will take to the water.

BESTED FIGHTER CLAIMS ILLNESS

Levinsky Suffering From Gastritis Following Moha Mix—Other Fights.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24.—"Battling" Levinsky, Philadelphia heavyweight boxer, following his 10-round bout with Bob Moha, Milwaukee, in which he was outpointed, last night, suffered an acute attack of gastritis and had a temperature of 102½. He is resting at a hotel here today and is said by his manager, Dan Morgan, not to be in any danger.

Morgan said this morning that Levinsky could hardly see after the first round last night, and that outside of a few blows which brought blood from the nose, the Battler did not have a mark of punishment.

Levinsky's engagements at Youngstown, Ohio, and in Butte, Mont., in the near future, will be cancelled, according to his manager.

Moha had the advantage of seven out of the ten rounds. In the second round the Milwaukee boy drew blood from the Easterner's mouth, which he peppered frequently with rights and lefts. In this round also Levinsky received a terrific right to the body, which slowed him up quite noticeably.

Moha forced his opponent to back up in almost every session outside of the fourth and fifth. The only flash of real fighting by Levinsky was in round five. Moha finished without a mark.

New York, March 24.—Sam Langford defeated Bill Watkins of Memphis, Tenn., in the first round of what was to have been a 10-round bout here last night. A right over the ear made Watkins take the count of ten.

NEW BOXING CLUB READY

Mike Gibbons and Gus Christie Stars on Hudson Card.

Hudson, Wis., March 24.—Mike Gibbons and Gus Christie and Tommy Gibbons and Billy Miske will be the principals figuring in the grand circuit of the new Hudson arena here this evening.

Mike Gibbons is idolized by a legion of followers from the Twin Cities. Not since the days of Jack Dempsey has a more remarkable fighter been developed, in the opinion of many of the best qualified judges of ringmanship.

The St. Paul flash is the present holder of the world's welterweight title, having won it when he stopped "Wild Cat" Ferns in two rounds at New Orleans. And in addition to holding the welterweight championship, Gibbons is the aspirant to the much disputed middleweight title.

In Gus Christie, the eldest of the Gibbons boys will meet one of the toughest of the trial horses around the 160-pound mark. Christie is tough and strong. Mike's friends don't expect the Dutchman to land and even go so far as to believe that Gibbons, with that newly discovered kick in the trusty right, will drop Christie for the count.

Miske Has Following.

Billy Miske, who made so good a showing against "Spike" Kelly recently, is expected by some to hold Tommy Gibbons to a draw.

While it is generally believed that Gibbons is the cleverer of the two, it is also generally admitted that Miske packs the harder punch.

There has been a great deal of rivalry between the pair. Both Tommy and Billy are St. Paul boys. They started their ring careers at about the same time and have grown up in the newly awakened boxing atmosphere of St. Paul.

Both of the boys have a large personal following and there will be a lot of partisan rooting at the ringside.

The new Hudson arena is one of the largest in Wisconsin. It will seat 6,000 people and was constructed to meet the demand for more seats caused by

MANY YOUNGSTERS IN THE NORTHERN

All Clubs in Burmeister League Have Signed Young Players.

Winona, Minn., March 24.—If only a small percentage of promising recruits brought within the corral of each of the Northern league clubs passes through the development stages predicted for them, the standard of the Northern league will be materially elevated in 1914. Every club in the league has been eagerly seeking the youngsters, probably inspired by the profitable experience of Owner William Sommer of Superior in 1913. He took from the amateur ranks of North Dakota Rube Schauer, a pitcher who had the ear-marks of a "phenom" and with a few weeks of tutoring developed a heaver whom he sold to the New York Giants for $7,500. Both Sommer and Manager Curtis realized handsomely on the player.

Few of the clubs will launch the training season in the next few weeks with less than ten to a dozen untried players who come from the corner lots and the amateur teams of the Northwest. A handful of players who were with the teams last year will form the backbone of all of the teams in 1914, but there will be many new faces. From every section of the wheel have come stories of the uncovering of "finds" who will burn up the circuit in 1914.

One of the recruit players who is being highly touted is Don Keller of Gays Mills, Wis., who has signed a contract to pitch with the Winona champions. He is tall, wiry and only 20 years old.

The Fargo club, under the direction of Bob Unglaub, has stolen a march on the other seven sister clubs. The training squad accompanied the Millers to the camp at St. Joseph, Mo., and the two teams will work together. The early lead of the Flickertails may make that club the dark horse in the pennant race.

OXFORD HAS TROUBLE WITH PLACING CREW.

London, March 24.—The Oxford and Cambridge crews have entered the last week of training for their annual eight-oared race over the famous 4¼-mile course from Putney to Mortlake on the Thames.

Thus far everything has gone in favor of Cambridge for the big event on March 28, the crew being the best which has come from that university for years. The reverse has been the case with the Oxford men who were for a long time unable to decide either upon the composition of the crew or on the positions of the oarsmen. They have in fact had the same troubles that fell to Cambridge last year, when the light blues had difficulties right up to the day they arrived at Putney. Oxford, however, is even more backward than was Cambridge last year.

The only advantage the dark blues have is that they have more men of experience in their boat and if Cambridge goes stale may get up enough steam to snatch victory from the light blues.

LEAGUE HOCKEY TEAMS MAKE GREAT SHOWING

Curling Club Seven Held to a 5 to 4 Score By Opponents.

BY BRUCE.

All through the hockey season that was brought to a close last evening there has been speculation as to how some of the teams of the Duluth Amateur league would compare with the hockey team of the Duluth Curling club. Last evening three of the D. A. H. L. teams competed against the club and the final score of the contest was 5 to 4 in favor of the curling club, which presumably answers the protracted series of thought flights as to just how the teams would compare.

It was one of those "moral victory" things, regarding which there has been some comment, for the Big Duluths, the Lakes and the Northerns, for there were times when the league teams outplayed their opponents, and taking the game as a whole, the margin of difference was so small as to be distinctly surprising.

The members of the curling club have given a much better exhibition of the game than the one of last evening. But this is not in the least detracting from the valiant game played by the members of the three league teams. The smaller players never let up for one minute, and on the play of last evening showed the larger team men up at several stages of the contest.

Lakes Show Strong.

The Lake Hardware Hockey team played the first twenty minutes against the curling club team and scored two goals against the curling club's two. The feat of holding the curling club team to a tie delighted the many followers of the hardware bunch. As a matter of fact, the crowd was heart and soul and lungs with the league representatives and gave them the good mitt upon every opportunity.

The Northern Hardware seven also made a great showing against the large team, the big leaguers, if you are disposed to be charitable or humorous. The Northerns scored one goal against two by the curling club team.

In the final period of play the Big Duluths scored one goal and the curling club team scored the final goal of the contest.

Handsome Roy Pryor, the world's champion bench player, was heard to remark after the game that horse shoes were gracefully curved around the necks of the members of the younger teams.

Jimmy Owens made a score when he was merely attempting to knock the puck out of the possession of one of the Northerns, the rubber bounding back and directly into the cage. Who is the bold-faced tyrant who will stand and declare that this was not luck?

Mr. Pryor and all of the other members of the large team should be tickled to death to give the younger teams all the credit in the world. The youngsters played a surprising game and the exhibition marks a real epoch in the hockey of Duluth. The time is coming when these league teams will provide all of our hockey.

Beanny Brown for the Lakes, Harris for the same team and Bartlett played great games for the hardware men in the first period. One should not forget the work of Mahan at goal, for he made some really remarkable stops.

Oulette played a sterling game for the Big Duluths at goal. This youngster sallied forth time and time again and stopped shots, blocked them cleverly with his stick and also stopped several with his body. Taking the whole exhibition, it was one grand and luscious evening for the members of the three league teams—and let us add, purely from the spirit of fair play and consideration—that it was also one screamingly exciting evening for some of the fair blondes and stately if small brunettes who came with the players and lent inspiring aid during the contest.

When seen by a Herald representative early today, Manager Harris of the Lakes said that he had nothing to say at the present but was preparing a statement. Manager Ed doesn't think any more of that team of his than he does of his right eye.

DIVORCED AFTER THIRTY YEARS

Brookston Woman Given Freedom From Husband on Infidelity Charge.

Minnie Belle Haining, 47, Brookston, obtained a divorce yesterday in Judge Fesler's division of the district court from Frank Allison Haining, 47, to whom she was married thirty years ago. The decree was granted on the grounds of infidelity.

A singular circumstance in connection with the granting of the divorce was that the decree was signed by the court on the day following her thirtieth wedding anniversary. The Hainings were married March 22, 1884, and divorced March 23, 1914.

The Hainings are parents of seven children, ranging in age from 14 to 28 years. Under the order of the court Mrs. Haining is granted the custody of the minor children, $40 attorney's fees and $6 a week alimony.

ATTACK WOMAN'S WILL.

Relatives of Mrs. Trowbridge Claim She Was Incompetent.

New York, March 24.—A suit involving more than $1,000,000 in the estate of the late Mrs. Minnie Hackett Trowbridge, has been brought on behalf of several relatives, who seek to set aside her will bequeathing this money to public institutions and to friends. The contestants declare that the will filed for probate was not Mrs. Trowbridge's last will, and that her mind was unsound when she executed it. Among other bequests in this will was $100,000 left to Syracuse university for the erection of a law school.

The whole Trowbridge estate was valued at more than $2,000,000. Half of this sum was bequeathed to Mrs. Trowbridge's husband, whom she survived, and his share goes automatically to his nearest relatives, one of whom is James K. Hackett, the actor. Hackett, who was Mrs. Trowbridge's half uncle, was, along with other relatives, cut off in the will.

The suit was filed by A. Oakey Hall of New York, a first cousin of the testator.

PRAYER DEDICATES WARSHIP TO PEACE.

Philadelphia, March 24.—Just before the super-dreadnought Oklahoma, the latest and most powerful acquisition to the American navy, was lauched today from the yard of the New York Shipbuilding company, was given its name yesterday at Camden, N. J., by Miss Lorena Jane Cruce, daughter of the governor of Oklahoma, Bishop E. E. Hoss of Muskogee, Okla., in a brief invocation, dedicated the ship to "the errands of peace and Christianity." The invocation was at the suggestion of Mrs. Reynold Hall, president of the Ship Sponsors' society, and it was said to be the first time in more than half a century that a battleship launching was preceded by prayer.

PUT CORNEA FROM PIG IN BOY'S EYE.

Baltimore, Md., March 24.—What is believed to be the first operation of its kind in this country, was performed yesterday at a local hospital when the cornea of a pig's eye was taken off and grafted on the sightless eye of a 3-months-old boy. It was said that previous operations, in which rabbits' eyes had been used, were unsuccessful, but that experiments with pigs' eyes had led scientists to believe that they were more adaptable. Two cases are said to be on record where the grafting of human corneas gave sight to tally blind eyes.

What Is Woman's Beauty But Health

And the Basis of Her Health and Vigor Lies in the Carefnl Regulation of the Bowels.

If woman's beauty depended upon cosmetics, every woman would be a picture of loveliness. But beauty lies deeper than that. It lies in health. In the majority of cases the basis of health, and the cause of sickness, can be traced to the action of the bowels.

The headaches, the lassitude, the sallow skin and the lusterless eyes are usually due to constipation. So many things that women do habitually conduce to this trouble. They do not eat carefully, they eat indigestible foods because the foods are served daintily and they do not exercise enough. But whatever the partfcular cause may be it is important that the condition should be corrected.

An ideal remedy for women, and one especially suited to their delicate requirements, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of women endorse highly, among them Mrs. C. S. Vance, of 511 S. Ray St., New Castle, Pa. At times she had spells of indigestion so severe that she thought she would die. Syrup Pepsin regulated her stomach and bowels, and she attributes her excellent health today to this remedy.

All the family can use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, for thousands of mothers give it to babies and children. It is also admirably suited to the requirements of elderly people, in fact to all who by reason of age or infirmity cannot stand harsh salts, cathartics, pills or purgatives. These should always be avoided, for at best their effect is only for that day, while a genuine remedy like Syrup Pepsin acts mildly but permanently.

MRS. C. S. VANCE.

It can be conveniently obtained at any drug store at 50 cents or $1 a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. You will find it gentle in action, pleasant in taste, and free from griping, and its tonic properties have a distinct value to women. It is the most widely used laxative-tonic in America today and thousands of families are now never without it.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

A RECIPE FOR A COLD

An Ohio inquirer writes:

"Will you please give me a recipe to cure a cold? I have a cold, and it hangs on persistently. I have spent $20 in drug store medicine, and also greased my lungs with mustard, turpentine and lard mixed, but the cold still persists. I spit up lots of phlegm when I come from work. My cold seems worse when I am in the house than when I am out of doors. At least more phlegm comes up. My trade is helper to a boilermaker, and I perspire a great deal. I have consulted one of the physicians here in my town, and he gave me some medicine to take while at work and told me not to go out at night after I return from work. I have taken his medicine; but still the cold hangs on, and makes me feel all choked up when I am in the house. My head doesn't bother me, but I have been a great sufferer from rheumatism and throat trouble in the past, but am now much better since wearing an electric ring on my finger. Whenever I take cough syrups of any kind, either from the doctor or the drug store, my bowels cause me a lot of trouble. After I take this kind of medicine I am compelled to take physic to move my bowels, and I cough very hard sometimes. Is it possible for you to give me any help?"

You will never get well by taking a lot of medicine into your stomach until you know exactly what is the cause of your cold. It may be that your system is oversaturated with poison and that your cold will persist until these poisons are removed. If you were a patient of mine, I would first of all take your temperature, analyze your urine and carefully study your bowel movements. I should also want to know about your blood pressure and would test your blood. After such information would be procured, you would be in shape to be treated intelligently as to the cause of your trouble.

It may be that there are some tubercular germs lodging within your lung tissues, and possibly these have set up more of a chronic irritation than you can now realize. There is no magic medicine, although I realize that many sell medicines advertised to produce such results. Under the circumstances, the best thing you could do, in my judgment, would be to clean yourself out thoroughly with two ounces of castor oil, then live exclusively upon a fruit diet of figs, dates, oranges, grapes and raisins for at least one week. This will give your system a chance to balance itself up. If by this time you do not notice any marked improvement, by all means pick the best doctor in your town. Go to him promptly, explain your situation and tell him to give you such treatment as your condition needs. That is what you are paying him for.

FOR SWOLLEN GLANDS UNDER THE ARMS.

Mr. D. G. G. writes:

"For the last ten days I have been bothered with a swollen gland under my right arm. It interferes with my work and will not go away, although I bathe myself daily. What causes these glands to swell? What will cure them? I have tried salves and liniments that are widely advertised to effect a cure, yet they have done nothing toward benefiting me."

The glands under your arms swell because of some local irritation in their immediate vicinity. There is some poison filtering into the glands which you must get eradicated from them somehow. I have been wondering on reading your letter whether you have been subject to any venereal disease. The disease syphilis causes swollen glands. On the other hand, if you never had any venereal disease, it may be that there is some irritation from your clothing, or some nest of germs which are located in the various air particles of your armpit, and that these have set up such a degree of irritation as to affect your glands. Do this: Thoroughly cleanse your system with a five-grain dose of powdered calomel, followed two hours afterward with two ounces of castor oil. Take a hot-water bath in a tub every day for the next week, and follow it with a cold-splash bath and a brisk rub-down. Get some one with a pair of sharp scissors to cut all the hair from your armpit and then paint the glands with five or six applications of a strong tincture of iodine. Live upon the simplest kind of diet for the next week or so, and, if the gland is not reduced in size, go consult your physician, procure his advice, then follow it.

UNION ENDS INDEFINITE

Socialism Gives Labor Its Program, Says John A. Keyes.

'No Strike Has Ever Failed,' Says McEwen in Reply.

That trade unionism had never had a definite enough program to mould national politics until the Socialists came forward and crystalized reform principles was the context of an address delivered by John A. Keyes at a meeting of the Men's club of the Unitarian church, last evening.

To prove his point Mr. Keyes discussed trade unions from ancient days down to the present time in a brief way, and quoted the noted archeologist, Ward, who has written books recently showing that trade unions existed before the time of Solomon.

"When Solomon wanted workmen to build his temple, he went down to Tyre and negotiated with Hiram, who was the head of the builders' union."

Wants Definite Program.

In discussing unionism he said that a definite program was necessary in attaining the ideals sought for. Aimless drifting, he said, would never bring the desired results. The Socialist program was cited as something definite and tangible, offering a doctrine that would lead all conditions of men to attain the ideal.

William E. McEwen, who spoke on "Socialism and Trade Unions," took a different point of view from Mr. Keyes. He said he did not believe in a cut and dried program as the Socialists did, but rather the evolutionary process that conserves the rights of the individual.

Speaking of the evolutionary character of the trade union Mr. McEwen said that the unions had never lost a strike. The temporary victory might be with the corporation and the union might be whipped so far as immediate demands were concerned, nevertheless, the victory was costly and the principles sought were made so apparent that indirect results were attained, which made conditions easier for the workingmen coming after. In this way definite results were being accomplished, and the ends toward which the unions were striving were being attained.

Sermon on the Mount.

"Socialism, in its final analysis," said Charles S. Mitchell, "is only the sermon on the mount applied to daily life—something which has taken us 2,000 years to realize, and which we are just beginning to comprehend.

"We are all Socialists, no matter what we call our pet theories for the betterment of conditions."

Mr. Mitchell discussed "Socialism in Germany," and described the "red" Socialist of Germany and the monarchial or paternal form of Socialism. He emphasized the fact that the Socialists had a definite program and referred to the plan of organization they had effected in the lecture and literary field.

This is Guaranteed to Stop Your Cough

This plan makes a pint of better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer an ordinary cough—relieves even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite, and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, spasmodic croup, bronchitis, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy has often been imitated, though never successfully. It is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Duluth Library Making Unique Experiment in Extension Work.

Parcel Post Brings Valuable Books Within Reach of Farmers.

The recent parcel post ruling that allows books to go through the mails at parcel post rates and the provision made by the Duluth Public library extending the use of all books except new fiction to a practically unlimited territory about Duluth, are proving invaluable aid to farmers and homecrofters. Call for books on agriculture and homecrofting are being constantly received. Both farmers and persons living in small towns are steady patrons of the library.

It is believed that the Duluth library is the only one in the country that is extending the use of its books to an unlimited clientele. Towns as distant as Brainerd are making use of the generous offer. Mayor Prince, as well as Miss Earhart, the librarian, is a hearty advocate of the library extension and he is co-operating to make the library limits extend as far as possible. This policy is simply in keeping with the plan of making the library of the greatest possible use to the greatest possible number.

The new parcel post rate on books is so low that persons living a long way from Duluth are put to little expense in sending for books. And so gererous are the library regulations that those who have books mailed are put to no expense until after they have read the books. Then they return the price of mailing with the book. So far nobody has failed to remit the postage.

The Duluth library has a fine collection of books of interest to farmers and homecrofters. Each of these books is the work of a practical specialist, and is suitable for the farmer, gardener, horticulturist, and in fact to every person with a farm or country home. They deal specifically with gardening, country life, flower gardens, forage plants, fruits and fruit culture, greenhouses, landscape gardening, school gardens, spraying, vegetable gardens, window gardening and poultry. In many cases there are a dozen or more excellent works on each of these topics.

The interest in scientific agriculture, domestic science and kindred topics is constantly increasing the demand for such literature, and the Duluth library is gradually becoming a great asset in helping to solve the high cost of living and beautifying the city and rural home.

SIMPLE SPELLING BODY INCORPORATES.

Chicago, March 24.—"The Simpler Spelling Society of the North Central States" has filed a certificate of incorporation with the secretary of state. C. Fallows, Dr. W. A. Evans, Dr. W. E. Barton and E. O. Valle.

The board of directors of the society is the same as the executive board of the simplified spelling committee of the Illinois State Teachers' association. The new organization plans to take in sympathetic persons and organizations outside of the membership of the original society.

$12,000 VERDICT FOR INJURY OF YOUTH.

Seattle, Wash., March 24.—A jury in the United States district court has returned a verdict against the Southern Pacific railroad company for $12,000 damages in the case of a youth thrown off a passenger train while stealing a ride. The plaintiff in the suit was Mrs. Elizabeth Gobel, who alleged that her son, Harry C. Gobel, had been permanently incapacitated.

Young Gobel and a companion, George Vallier, were thrown from the roof of a Southern Pacific train at Redding, Cal., in August, 1910. Vallier died of his injuries. Months afterward Vallier's mother, who had spent a fortune in the search for evidence, caused the arrest of Daniel Fleming, a railroad policeman, who, after a bitterly contested trial, was convicted of manslaughter. Recently the California supreme court granted Fleming a new trial and the prosecuting attorney then moved the dismissal of all charges against him.

BREITUNG ANNOUNCES DAUGHTER'S MARRIAGE.

New York, March 24.—Edward N. Breitung last evening authorized the statement that his daughter, Miss Juliet Breitung, was married last November to Max Kleist, a gardener, formerly of Manistique, Mich. The statement follows:

"I am advised that on the 22nd day of November, 1913, at Grace church, in New York city, my daughter, Miss Juliet Breitung, went through a marriage ceremony, as appears from the record of the church, and immediately thereafter returned to our home at the St. Regis hotel where she has since lived, and where she desires to continue to live."

MOVE TO CALL OFF THAW CASE FAILS.

Albany, N. Y., March 24.—The Golden resolution, censuring state officials for efforts to have Harry K. Thaw extradited from New Hampshire, was overwhelmingly defeated in the assembly last night on a viva voce vote. Assemblyman Golden pleaded that after spending $250,000 on Thaw the state should make no further effort to have him returned to its jurisdiction.

OFFICERS TAKE FIGHTING PAIR

Chisholm Judge Then Fines Each of Accused $103.

Chisholm, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Masters Monday fined Frank and Mike Schuhovich, two Austrian miners, who got into an altercation with John Okel at the Clark mine location Sunday evening, $103 each.

Mike was about to use a stove shaker on Okel when the location policeman heard the racket and entering found himself outnumbered so badly that he telephoned for help. Sergeant James Leighty and Officer Frank Grams hurried to the scene and had no more than entered when the men turned on them.

Officers Overpower Pair.

A struggle ensued and the officers overpowered and handcuffed them and brought them to the station. Blood on their clothing and bruises on their heads and faces indicated that a fierce battle raged for a time, Okel getting the worst of it. They paid their fines and in leaving the police station made some threatening remarks in Austrian.

FAVOR MAKING FRISCO DISPLAY

Two Harbors Commercial Club Indorses D. M. Neill's Campaign.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—At an adjourned meeting of the Commercial club which was very well attended, the raising of funds for proper representation of this state at the Panama-Pacific exposition was discussed at length. A communication was read from D. M. Neill, president of the Minnesota Federation of Commercial clubs, who has charge of the campaign. The members were enthusiastic over the various plans discussed and were unanimous in their belief that the state should be fittingly represented. A committee consisting of E. A. Daniels, J. D. Budd and Walter Murphy, was appointed to thoroughly investigate the matter and report on April 3. It was also recommended that definite information be secured from Mr. Neill as to the manner of raising funds.

Discuss Proposed Road.

J. P. Paulson, G. W. Small and Thomas Owens of the county development committee were instructed to thoroughly investigate the matter of securing an outlet for the large colony in Lake county, north of Highland. It appeared from the discussion that it would require the construction of only about two miles of road to make it possible for the colony to have a good road to Two Harbors. The advantage of having such a road was clearly admitted by all as it will enable the farmers of that region to market their products and transact their business in this city.

Thomas Owens gave an interesting talk in regard to his recent visit in the East.

Hibbing Is Interested.

Hibbing, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—So that Minnesota may be represented at the exposition at San Francisco with a handsome building, the commercial clubs of the state have been asked to guarantee $50,000, this amount to be paid by the legislature at their next session, according to a letter received this week by President Galloway of the local club, who has been appointed a member of the committee.

The subject will be one of the principal ones to be discussed at the April meeting of the club and there is little doubt but what Hibbing men will guarantee the proportion allotted to this village.

ATHLETIC STUNTS FOR TWO HARBORS.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another athletic program will be given at the Y. M. C. A. gym next Friday night under the direction of Physical Director Stowell. These programs are always well attended as they furnish an opportunity for the parents to learn the nature of the gymnasium work.

An additional feature for Friday night will be a girl's basket ball game. The best players will be selected to represent the city in the game on Saturday night with the Y. W. C. A. of Duluth. The girls have been practicing weekly and Coach Conliff declares he has fine material for a winning team.

ARE RECOUNTING CHISHOLM VOTE

Ballots Cast at March 10 Election Are Being Gone Over.

Chisholm, Minn, March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorneys Harry Austin and C. R. Woods aided by a third person, today are making a recount of the ballots cast at the village election, March 10. The recount results from an action started against President-elect Joseph Austin whom it is claimed received votes that belonged to Henry Fuguere, the other and closest candidate for the office of president. It is also claimed that votes were counted for Austin that should not have been counted at all and other claims are made.

The result of the recount will be a large factor toward deciding whether the contest will be carried further in to court. Austin had a lead over Fuguere of twenty-eight votes and the total vote cast was between 900 and 1,000. One of the judges in the largest precinct where 730 votes were cast offered to bet a year's salary that the total in that precinct would not be materially changed. Attorneys Austin and Wood who represent opposing factions, agreed upon a third party to be present and assist in the count.

VISITING NURSE'S HIBBING WORK

Mrs. Riggs Made Seventy-Three Calls During Last Month.

Hibbing, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seventy-three calls were made by Mrs. Riggs, recently appointed visiting nurse for the village, according to her report for February made public by the health department. Several of the cases were of a serious nature requiring the expert attention of the nurse, sixteen were cases that had been turned over by the school physician in which it was necessary to give advice as to operations for adenoids and tonsils, two were eye cases and twelve children were treated for scalp disease. During the month twenty-four baths were given by the nurse.

In addition to the medical attention clothing was collected and distributed where needed.

Work Is Important.

"The work of the nurse is very important to the village," said Dr. Morsman, village physician, in discussing the report, "and when the people become better acquainted with her and what she is trying to do, she will be still more valuable. Many of the cases that she treated last month were of a nature that if allowed to proceed would have become critical. Her work in the homes also tends to better the sanitary conditions among the foreigners and though some opposition has been shown, the general attitude has been friendly. During the summer I feel that the nurse will be the means of saving the lives of many of the children who do not ordinarily receive proper care."

WOOD ALLEGES HE IS SPITE VICTIM

Former Warden Claims His Prosecution Is Result of Arrest.

Hibbing, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the indictment returned against him for burglary in the third degree by the grand jury of Itasca county was urged by the complaining witness as revenge for his conviction on the grounds of illegally having furs in his possession is the claim made by George Woods, former range game warden, who returned last evening from Grand Rapids, where he was arraigned, entered a plea of not guilty and was released on his recognizance. The trial of the case against Woods and J. E. Cummings, charged with the same offense, will be called on April 6.

Cameron, the complaining witness, is a "shacker" on lumber company land and has his two boys as witnesses. It is their claim that Wood and Cummings broke into the shack to secure the furs, which were later sent to the state, while the game wardens assert that the door was partially open and that they saw the furs. The Cameron boys were convicted of the charge and fined, afterwards instituting the suit.

SOCIALISTS FIRST.

Their Lake County Candidates Are Already In Field.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Socialists have already announced four candidates for Lake county offices: August Omvedt, the present city clerk, for auditor; Ira Foote for treasurer of the school board; T. E. Murphy for register of deeds, and A. G. Nelson, chief of police, for sheriff. It is expected that the Socialists will place candidates in the field for every office.

None of the other party candidates have announced themselves but it is expected that a large number of the present officeholders will seek re-election.

HIDES SENT BACK.

St. Louis Firm Offers Less Than Owner Wants for Them.

Chisholm, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. A. Caldwell, who has two valuable fox skins he trapped last winter, had them returned to him by parcel post from a St. Louis hide and fur company. He valued them at about $2,500, but the fur company made an offer so much below this that he would not accept it. One of the skins seemed to contain fur of a reddish tinge on one side which probably had much to do toward reducing its value.

A number of valuable fox hides were brought from the Sturgeon Lake country the past winter and but a few have proved to be of exceptional value. A peculiar feature with the furs there is that they seem to be slightly off color and run slightly to a reddish tinge which keeps them out of the choice class.

One of the skins sent away for pricing was a black and the other silver grey.

SCARLET FEVER CASES DEVELOP

Virginia, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several cases of scarlet fever have developed among the school children within the past few days, and the city and school health departments have begun a campaign to stamp it out. Those who have been found to have the disease are in quarantine, and others who have been exposed age under observation until the period of incubation has passed. The disease so far is in a mild form and has appeared simultaneously in a number of the range towns.

Dr. H. E. Michelson, school physician, yesterday made an examination of the fourth grade pupils at the Roosevelt school and several who were suspected of being afflicted with the disease were removed and will be kept under observation until the danger has passed. While there is no danger of an epedemic, the health department asks the co-operation of the people at large in promptly stamping out the disease.

Stork and Cupid Cunning Plotters

Many a New Home will Have a Little Sunbeam to Brighten it.

There is some dread in every woman's mind as to the probable pain, distress and danger of child-birth. But, thanks to a remarkable remedy known as Mother's Friend, the period is one of joyful anticipation.

Mother's Friend is a penetrating, external application. It makes the muscles of the stomach and abdomen pliant so they expand easily and naturally without pain, and with none of that peculiar nausea, nervousness and other symptoms that tend to weaken the prospective mother. Thus Cupid and the stork are rated as cunning plotters to herald the coming of a little sunbeam to gladden the hearts and homes.

Thousands of women know from experience Mother's Friend is one of our greatest contributions to happy motherhood. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Especially recommended as a preventive of caking breast.

SPREE ENDS IN JAIL.

Giant Woodsman in Delirium Imagines He Will Be Hanged.

Foemfel is under the delusion that he is to be hanged. He believes that in drinking whisky he has been guilty of a crime, and that he will be executed for his wrong doing. His suspenders and shoe strings have been taken from him for fear that he will hang himself and he is confined in a cell where he cannot injure himself.

His father, who, according to the prisoner, lives at Granton, Wis., has been notified and Foemfel will be held for the present.

During the earlier stage of his spree Foemfel was fined for drunkenness after creating a disturbance over being robbed. His money was found in one of his shoes.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

OBITUARY

James Parker, former lieutenant commander in the United States navy, veteran of both the Mexican and Civil wars, and said to have been the oldest living graduate of the United States naval academy, died at his home in Perth Amboy, N. J., March 23, in his 83rd year. Commander Parker was born in Newark, Ohio. He entered the naval academy in 1846, and served in the Mexican war as a midshipman under Farragut. He was promoted to a lieutenancy in 1855, was made a lieutenant commander by President Lincoln in 1862, and took part in many of the important sea fights of the Civil war.

At the close of the war he engaged in the business of marine insurance and the practice of admiralty law. He compiled a record of American and foreign shipping for the use of marine underwriters, said to be the first of its kind ever published, and founded the Shipmasters' association.

When the Schley-Sampson controversy over the battle at Santiago arose, Commander Parker was chosen by Admiral Schley as one of his advisers at the inquiry. He was former president of the Marine association of New York, and an officer of the Loyal Legion.

Nelson D. Allen, a resident of La Crosse, Wis., since 1862, prominently identified with the lumber business in the days when lumber and allied businesses were the chief industries of La Crosse, is dead, after a six months' illness with uremia. He was 74 years old. Mr. Allen was born at Chelsea, Vt. He was educated in the village schools and at the Newbury, Vt., academy, and went to La Crosse in 1862. For three years he was a clerk on a Mississippi steamboat, later becoming a member of the grocery firm of Giles & Allen. He became connected with the Colman Lumber company, remaining with the firm up to six years ago, as superintendent of the Colman lumber yards in Minnesota and South Dakota. For the last six years he had lived virtually in retirement. Besides his widow, he is survived by two brothers, Nathan of Charlestown, Mass., and Philip of Winona, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Robinson, living in California.

Count Charles Bozenta Chlapowski, husband of Mme. Modjeska, the actress, is dead in Krakow, Poland. Count Bozenta, was 76 years old. He died Friday, the announcement says, and will be interred today.

Thomas J. McGuire, veteran theatrical manager, who lived and talked and sang for ten years without a tongue, is dead at New York of cancer. He smoked from twenty-five to thirty cigars almost every day for more than twenty years. Cancer of the tongue developed. One operation failed, and in March, 1904, Mr. McGuire greeted his friends for what he believed was the last time, and submitted to the operation in which practically the whole tongue was removed. To the surprise of the surgeons, the patient, several months later, discovered his power of speech had not been destroyed.

Stephen A. Clewell, a veteran newspaper man of Stillwater, Minn., is dead in his eighteith year. He had been ill a week of heart trouble. The day before he was stricken he issued his paper, the Weekly Messenger, the oldest paper in Stillwater. He was in newspaper work in Hudson, Wis., from 1857 to 1875, when he went to Stillwater and engaged with H. A. Taylor in publishing the Lumberman. The Messenger was founded in 1856. He is survived by his wife and a daughter, Miss Mary Clewell.

MORE CIRCUS DAYS FOR CITY

Henceforth Duluthians can go to circuses on Saturdays, the Fourth of July and Labor day.

When the new license ordinances were introduced at the council meeting yesterday afternoon Mayor Prince suggested that the provision refusing licenses to circuses on those days be stricken out and the other members of the council concurred.

"Barring circuses on Saturdays or holidays, or any day except Sunday, is a four-corner-settlement proposition," said the mayor. "Duluth has outgrown its swaddling clothes; it is past its village days and has become a city. Placing such restrictions upon circuses is a small town idea and it is proper that it should be eliminated."

Saturdays and holidays are the best days for the people who wish to attend circuses," said Commissioner Merritt. "The city should not prevent them from enjoying themselves on any day they wish."

The amendment to the circus ordinance was passed by the old common council.

The license fee will hereafter be regulated by the number of cars carrying the circus instead of by seating capacity. Circus of twenty-five to thirty cars will pay $50 a day; thirty to forty cars, $100 a day; forty to fifty cars, $150 a day, and over that number, $250 a day.

BOXCAR THIEVES UP FOR SENTENCE

That breaking into box cars is an unprofitable pastime was evidenced this afternoon in Judge Dancer's division of the district court, when seven men, each charged with a box car theft, were brought before the court for sentence.

Louis Charrier, 19, and Paul Knocezak, 23, entered pleas of guilty to a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, on information filed by County Attorney Greene. They admitted having stolen eighteen hides of beef, worth $15, from a Soo line freight car on March 13. They were arrested following an attempt to sell the hides to a West end butcher.

Andrew Aho, 33, also pleaded guilty on information to a charge of having stolen $9.50 worth of beef from a refrigerator car belonging to the Armour company, also on March 13.

Emil Bobolz, convicted of stealing two sacks of flour valued at $4.50 from a Soo line box car on Feb. 17. John Sayne, jointly indicted for the same offense, who pleaded guilty to the charge, and Frank Wilson, alias Frank Fisher, who was convicted last week of having on Jan. 20 broken into a Northern Pacific box car and stolen a cheese, kit of herring and a fish spear, were also in court this afternoon for sentence.

Fiala's dispatch was dated from Santarem, Brazil, and relieved the anxiety of the Roosevelt family and others here, as no definite word had been received previously regarding Col. Roosevelt and the other members of the expedition.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Mary: I have found that face powder clogs the pores and causes that rough, scaly condition of your skin. Make up and use this inexpensive lotion and you will be delighted with the results: Dissolve 4 ounces spurmax (which you get at the druggist's) in ½ pint hot water or witch hazel. After cleansing and drying the skin, apply the spurmax lotion, rubbing lightly, until it vanishes. This lotion imparts a clearness and velvety softness to the skin and restores the rose-tint of healthy maidenhood. The spurmax lotion is especially nice for sallow, "muddy," oily skins and is superior to powder, as it is invisible when on and will not rub off in patches.

Annie L.: Powdered delatone is the most effective thing of which I know for removing stubborn hairy growths. Get an original package and mix enough powder with water to cover the hairs not wanted. Apply and in 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a quick, harmless method and seldom needs repeating. Be sure it is delatone you get.

Belle S.: Your pain in the small of the back, constant headaches and loss of weight is the result of poison-laden blood. Here is my formula for an old-fashioned system-tonic which, if taken regularly for awhile, will restore you to perfect health: To ½ pint alcohol (never use whisky) add 1 ounce kardene (get from your druggist) then ½ cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. The dose is a tablespoonful three times a day. This is gentle in action, cleanses the blood of all impurities and is unsurpassed for clearing the skin of discolorations and restoring the healthy glow of youth to the complexion.

Mrs. B.: Quite right! Your brittle, falling hair is evidently caused by washing with an alkali preparation. Here is my way of cleansing scalp and hair so both are kept in perfect health: Dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup hot water and pour a little at a time on the head while rubbing briskly. This works up into a thick, creamy lather that stops irritation and dissolves every particle of dandruff and excess oil. After rinsing the hair dries rapidly with a soft fluff and beautiful gloss. Canthrox shampoos stimulate a healthy condition in the scalp and induce the hair to grow thick and long.

Mrs. Al.: Your excess fat will soon vanish after a short course of the parnotis treatment, made by getting 4 ounces parnotis from your druggist and dissolving in 1½ pints hot water. The dose is a tablespoonful before meals. This gradually dissolves the fat and when your weight is sufficiently reduced your skin will be firm and free from wrinkles. No diet or exercise is necessary, as it cannot possibly do any injury.

Mrs. S. T.: To make your eyes sparkle I would suggest using simply crystos tonic which is inexpensive and easily prepared. Just dissolve 1 ounce crystos in a pint cold water and it is ready. Putting a few drops in each eye frequently soon relieves the smart and ache and will give to them a sparkle and expressiveness truly charming. This is excellent for weak eyes.

X. O.: Your dull, streaky hair indicates an impoverished condition of the scalp and hair-roots. I am giving you a simple recipe, which if you make up and use, will banish your scalp-troubles and make your hair grow thick, silky and fluffy. Get from your druggist 1 ounce quinzoin, pour into ½ pint alcohol, then add ½ pint water. Massage the scalp once or twice a week. This stops the irritation and overcomes dandruff and puts your scalp and hair-roots in a healthy, vigorous condition.

Dora. M.: For banishing your wrinkles you will find a plain almozoin jelly-cream quick and certain in its action and also splendid for clearing the skin. It is made as follows: Stir 1 ounce almozoin into ½ pint water, add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine and let stand over night. Apply a thick coating of the jelly-cream on retiring and massage well into the skin. Allow to remain on until morning, then wash off and rub some more on. This is unfailing and dispels freckles, blotches, pimples and other beauty defects. It is also excellent for chaps or tender skin.

Superior HEAVY VOTE BEING CAST

From the manner in which the citizens of Superior have turned out to vote during the forenoon and up to 2 o'clock this afternoon, indications are that at least 5,000 votes will be cast. This is about a normal vote on a general election day for the city.

The people of Superior are picking a candidate to oppose Mayor J. S. Konkel, whom the people have petitioned to recall. Five candidates are in the field for nomination to oppose him. Six candidates are running for councilmen to serve six years, two of whom will be picked as the candidates for the general election.

Only in the Fourth ward is a special watch being kept on the voters. Rumors were recently circulated that a large number of illegal voters had registered in this ward on the registration day a week ago. Watchers and challengers are stationed at each of the voting booths. The Fourth ward is the district west of Hammond avenue and south of Water street, and includes what is commonly known as the "red light" district.

MAY STOP CITY FROM OPENING BIDS.

Property owners on Ogden avenue may stop the city from accepting the bids recently received for the paving of the thoroughfare from Fifth to Belknap streets. They assert that the bids do not provide for a reimbursement for the bituilthic material now on the street, which is to be used in surfacing Susquehanna avenue. The removal of the material is to be assessed against the property at the rate of 10 cents a yard, whereas the property owners say that in some instances the lots should be reimbursed as high as $20 per 25 feet of property.

SHIELDS EXPECTS SOCIALISTS TO WIN.

Robert Shields, former mayor of Superior, returned yesterday after an absence of three weeks, and said this morning that he had no statement to make regarding the political situation in the city. He maintained that he was "out of politics."

Mr. Shields said that while the results of the election would not concern him one iota he was almost certain that Socialist candidates for both mayor and councilman would be represented in the general election.

EIGHT GIVE BAIL ON POKER CHARGE.

The eight young men who were arrested Saturday night for playing poker in the rear of a cigar store on Tower avenue pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. Hearing was set in each of the cases for March 30. The members of the party were allowed their freedom on giving bail amounting to $15 each.

OPPOSE CENSURE OF LOBBY CONDUCTORS.

Washington, March 24.—Arguments against a resolution to censure Representative McDermott of Illinois and officers of the National Association of Manufacturers for activities disclosed in the lobby investigation, were heard today before the house judiciary committee.

Representative MacDonald argued that the committee should make no recommendations, but leave the house free to act.

James A. Emery, general counsel for the manufacturers, one of those named in the resolution, argued that the house had no right to adopt a resolution censuring private citizens without first giving them an opportunity to be heard at the bar of the house.

Mr. Emery also argued that the only basis for a resolution of censure was contempt of the house, and he declared that no such contempt had been shown. He also contended that the jurisdiction of a congress to punish cases for contempt expired with that congress.

VERRY DENIES BANK CHARGE

Accused Park River, N. D., Banker Will Have Hearing on April 13.

Claims Money He Is Alleged to Have Loaned Was Not Bank's.

Grafton, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. R. Verry, former cashier of the Farmers' Security Bank of Park River, arrested yesterday on an embezzlement charge, will have a hearing April 13.

The accused maintained that the business dealings out of which his arrest grew were of a private nature, between himself and the Northern Fire & Marine Insurance Company of Grand Forks. He contends that funds loaned out by himself for the insurance company, were not on deposit with the bank.

Bank Claims Funds.

The bank maintains that the funds belonged to it.

Verry is well known throughout this district. He was recently engaged in the automobile business at Grand Forks.

President Martin Johnson of the bank, making the complaint, will not comment on the case except to maintain that the money alleged to have been wrongfully apportioned, came from other sources than the insurance company.

Mr. Dunlop is the present deputy postmaster.

BURY CIRCUIT RIDER.

Dr. Levi Hall, Aged Mill City Preacher, Laid to Rest.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 24.—The Hennepin Avenue M. E. church was crowded this afternoon when funeral services were held for Dr. Levi Hall, the venerable preacher and one time Ohio circuit rider, who died here Sunday, aged 81. He had lived in Minneapolis since 1875. Dr. Hall was born in Delaware county, Ohio, and was a graduate of the Ohio Wesleyan university of Delaware, in 1854, later receiving the degree of master of arts from his alma mater. He was married April 10, 1855, to Lucinda Mitchell, who died in September, 1900. Immediately after graduation he entered the Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church and was one of the old original "circuit riders," serving many charges in Southern and Southeastern Ohio. In 1875, he came West, being transferred to the Minnesota Methodist conference, and served pastorates at Austin, Minneapolis, Litchfield, Dover and High Forest. Giving up the ministry in 1880, he took up the study of medicine, graduating from Hahnemann Medical college, Chicago, in 1882. Since that time he practiced medicine continuously in Minneapolis.

In May of 1902, he was married to Hester A. Synder of Plain City, Ohio. She survives him. His surviving children are Albert H. Hall and Dr. P. M. Hall of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Willis McDonald of Excelsior, Minn. Besides these there are five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

MAKES COMPLAINT AND IS CONVICTED.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 24.—The jury trying the case of Henry E. Bergrud, a well known young man of this city who was charged with attempting a criminal asault, returned a verdict of guilty. A strange feature of the case was the fact that Bergrud sought the aid of the county authorities in investigating the attack. This investigation centered the guilt upon him and he was arrested. He made a full confession, pleaded guilty in municipal court, then in circuit court, then withdrew his plea of guilty and stood trial.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24.—The revolver with which John Schrank attempted to kill Col. Theodore Roosevelt in Milwaukee in October, 1912, will be presented to Mr. Roosevelt together with five unused cartridges which remained in the weapon when the assassin was seized and handed over to the police.

This was the understanding when a man named E. E. Minter, who claims to have wrested the gun from Schrank, made a request to Judge A. C. Backus of the municipal court, in which Schrank was tried, for possession of the firearm.

Judge Backus granted the request after ordering a promise from Minter that he would hand the gun and cartridges to Mr. Roosevelt when the latter returntd to this country from his South American trip.

FAKE ARREST IS VERY EXPENSIVE.

Barron, Wis., March 24.—Representing himself to be the sheriff of Barron county and trying to "arrest" Stella Stilson, aged 15, of Cameron, got John Quackenbush, aged about 35, into a peck of trouble. He accosted the girl at the Omaha depot as she was waiting for a train to go home and told her it was unsafe for her to go home, and that he would take her there in a livery rig. He told her to wait in a barn while he got the rig. The girl fooled him by going to a nearby home and making complaint. Quackenbush was arrested for impersonating an officer, and on his plea of guilty, fined $200.

WHEAT WEAK NEAR CLOSE

Market Sells Off at Finish, Leaving Small Gains for Day.

Flaxseed Again Closes Higher, With Exports Reported at Winnipeg.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 24.—The market turned easy at the close on weakness at Winnipeg. May wheat closed ¾c up and July ¼c up. May durum closed ¼c off and July ¾c off.

Oats closed ¼c off at 37c. Rye closed unchanged at 55@57c for the best grades. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg May oats closed at 36⅜c, and July at 35⅝c.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at 91@91⅛c bid and calls at 91¼@91⅜c asked.

Reported dry weather in sections of the Southwestern wheat belt led to a strong market today. Strength in corn at Chicago was another factor. It was reported from Chicago that shorts are nervous and that bulls are looking forward to a drouth scare on which to advance prices. For a starter in that came increasing reports of high winds and lack of moisture from Kansas. Thus far no damage could be located, but it was intimated that unless rains materialize in the near future, deterioration will result.

Increased cash and export inquiry was advised, leading local houses with foreign connections to bank upon working some business in the near future.

The European visible supply showed an increase of 264,000 bu, Bradstreets stocks up to 83,616,000 bu, Bradstreets reported a decrease of 2,508,000 bu in the world's visible supply, and it now stands at 191,017,000 bu against 205,726,000 bu a year ago.

Liverpool cables were slightly off as a result of good reports coming to hand over there regarding the condition and prospects of the American winter wheat crop. The Eureopean crop summary was generally favorable, with a high condition reported in practically all the countries.

American primary receipts were light, amounting to 488,000 bu against 549,000 bu last year. Receipts at Duluth were only 33 cars against 64 last year. Arrivals at Minneapolis were 168 cars, compared with 175 cars a year ago. Duluth grain men reported small marketings at interior points and the opinion is generally entertained that the quantity of grain remaining in first hands to come out is small.

At Winnipeg receipts shot up to 478 cars for the day against 160 last year. Weakness was brought about up there through heavy selling of May wheat by a prominent operator. He was reported to have sold 500,000 bu during the morning.

May wheat opened ⅛c up at 92¾c and gained ¼c more up to the closing hour. The July option unchanged at 93⅝c and advanced ⅞c. Trading in durums was lifeless and the market in it took on a sagging tendency. The May option opened unchanged at 91⅞c and sold off fractionally.

Flaxseed Still Advances.

Reported export business in flaxseed at Winnipeg and higher cables led to a strong market in the early part of today's session. Both options bulged sharply during the first few minutes' trading and then prices rested. A recession was in evidence later but a rally came at the close leaving final quotations showing gains in the day of ⅞c.

There was steady demand from crushers and operators, but operations were confined mainly to small lots.

Foreign markets closed as follows—Antwerp ⅝c up; Buenos Aires 1⅞c up and London ⅞c up.

May flax opened ¼c up at $1.61⅝, and it closed with an advance of ⅞c at $1.62¼. The July option opened unchanged at $1.63 and closed ⅞c up at $1.63⅞. September flax was closed up nominally at $1.63¾.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.41⅝ bid and July at $1.44⅝ bid.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Steadiness in Winnipeg and firmness of Plate offers caused support at the opening here and values were unchanged to ⅛d higher. Later there was short covering in March, which further gained ¼d. There is a fair demand for cargoes with spot markets steady and millers buying on an expected fair decrease in the visible supply here. American crop prospects are generally favorable. At 1:30 p. m. the undertone was steady, ¼d higher.

Corn opened with July ¼d higher and a further gain of ⅛d was made as trading progressed. Strength in America, firmness in Buenos Aires, strong spot situation both here and on the continent and decreasing supplies helped the advance. At 1:30 p. m. prices were ⅜d higher."

Increased powers in controlling Canadian elevators from Port Arthur and Fort William to the ocean are to be conferred upon the Dominion grain commissioners, according to an announcement just made by Hon. George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce. The minister claims that at present the government has not sufficient control over that branch of the grain trade. There are private elevators, railway elevators, government elevators and elevators owned by the harbor commissioners. As a result there is frequent confusion, so it is considered desirable that the government should establish and control a uniform system of handling the grain trade. It is said that interior elevators under government control are to be established at Saskatoon, Moosejaw and Calgary, a transfer elevator in British Columbia and an elevator at Hudson Bay.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Big Demand for Feed Boosts Prices of Corn.

Chicago, March 24.—Surprising demand for feed Southwest and West in the face of a sharp advance carried the corn market today upward again. Selling pressure comparatively was light, but increased somewhat on the renewal of the bulge. It was said that rural offerings had shown no sign of becoming more free. Opening prices, which varied from a shade off to ⅛@¼c gain, were followed by a gradual rise all around.

Dry weather in Minnesota and North Dakota, as well as Kansas, led to a further display of strength, but the effect failed to last when corn began to weaken. The close was easy at the same as last night to ⅛@¼c net lower.

Wheat hardened with corn and because of reports of high winds in Kansas. Some attention was also given to the seantiness of primary receipts. Prices started unchanged to ⅛c higher, and slowly continued to mount.

Reports that some of an Argentine cargo at Galveston was from the new crop brought about a setback. The close was nervous as last night's level to ¼c down.

Trading in oats was mostly between pit speculators.

Provisions followed the lead of corn. Provisions had but little life. The market held steady within narrow limits.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Extreme Quiet Marks Session in the Wheat Pit.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 24.—Extreme quiet prevailed at the opening of the local wheat market today and the same conditions prevailed through the forenoon. FOREIGN CROPS.

International Institute Reports on the Estimates.

Washington, March 24.—A reduction of 12 per cent in the combined wheat crop of Argentina, Australia and New Zealand from the previous year's crop, was reported today to the department of agriculture by the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome. The total estimated production of all wheat in these countries was placed at 250,133,333 bushels.

Argentina's estimated area of corn which will probably be harvested is placed at 10,260,000 acres, or 8.4 per cent more than the previous year's area.

Raw beet sugar for 1913-14 in Russia, Roumania, Germany, Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Hungary, Italy, Netherlands, Switzerland and the United States was placed at 8,960,000 short tons, or 2.3 per cent greater than the previous year.

India's estimated raw cane sugar was placed at 2,534,112 short tons, or 12.8 per cent less than the previous year.

The estimated rice production of Spain, Italia, United States, India, Japan and Egypt is 82,544,000,000 pounds, or slightly less than the previous year.

India's flax area is estimated at 2,723,000 acres, or 21.2 per cent less than the previous year.

Production of oats in Argentina and New Zealand is 87,500,000 bushels, or 33.1 per cent less than the previous year.

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Vigorous Buying of the Preceding Session Is Lacking.

Active Liquidation of Corn Products Causes It to Drop.

New York, March 24.—The vigorous buying of the preceding session was lacking today and the market was susceptible to pressure. Although prices held well for a time, bullish traders did not venture to take the initiative and the market fell slightly. Stocks which recently have been vulnerable, such as Lehigh, New Haven and Steel, again reflected professional selling, the effect of which was increased by realizing sales.

Weakness again developed in some of the low-priced stocks. Rumely common at 9 and preferred at 25¾ made new low records. Central Leather lost part of its recent gain. Prices in general moved narrowly and there were indications of underlying strength despite the easier tone.

Bonds were irregular.

The market was well supported today, but the demand was not sufficient to bring about active resumption of yesterday's advance. New Haven, Biscuit and General Electric were heavy. Pacific Telephone rose 1½. Otherwise changes were small and irregular with a majority of slight gains.

Stocks put up yesterday by force of covering were less firmly held, and the whole list was inclined to sag after business got well under way. Lehigh Valley lost ⅝ and New Haven 1.

Inability of some specialties to resist bear selling increased the pressure against the standard stocks. Baltimore & Ohio made a response to yesterday's unfavorable February earnings.

Speculation in the railroad stocks was languid in the latter part of the session. With no definite impulse one way or another, prices hardly moved, although there was more selling of obscure specialties.

The market closed easy. Active liquidation of Corn Products followed publication of President Bedford's pessimistic remarks as to the value of the stock in the event of a decision against the company in the government's dissolution suit. The common stock fell 2¾ and the preferred 5⅝. Harvester rose 2 points, but elsewhere prices shaded.

BULLISH TONE IN COPPER STOCKS

Mining stocks were strong at Boston today, with buying of the best class reported in the leading issues. Further moderate advances were recorded through the list.

Calumet & Arizona was the day's trading feature, closing $1 higher at $69.75; Butte & Superior closed 25c up at $36.87, and North Butte was strong on the declaration of its regular quarterly dividend of 5c a share. It is payable on April 25 to stock of record April 3.

Gay & Sturgis received the following wire from Boston, relative to the situation in the market: "All indications are that prices for copper metal will be further advanced in the near future. The market this morning was quoted strong at 14½c after heavy purchases on Monday at that level by both foreign and domestic consumers. The buying by the latter was a feature, and it is believed that their wants are far from being satisfied.

At St. Louis—Lead closed weak at $3.85@3.90, and spelter at $5.12@5.15.

Present strength in the copper market is attributed largely to the continued record-breaking exports of the metal. So far this month, nearly 68,000,000 pounds of copper have been exported, and it is estimated that exports for the month will reach nearly 100,000,000 pounds. That would bring exports during the last five months up to nearly 415,000,000 pounds as compared with sales of 215,000,000 pounds for domestic consumption.

REFUSES TO RETURN HERE

Extradition Papers Are Needed for "C. Howe," Alleged Forger.

C. Howe, 35, arrested Friday at Richland, Mo., and held for the local authorities on a charge of forgery, refuses to return to Duluth without extradition, according to advices which County Attorney Warren E. Greene received yesterday from Chief of Police C. H. Troyer, who made the trip to Richland to bring the prisoner back.

Howe, the police say, has been operating throughout the country for the last four years and is wanted in several large cities. His operations have been brought to the attention of the American Bankers' association and through circulars sent out by this organization he was recognized and arrested at Richland, Mo. The prisoner is also known by a string of aliases, such as C. Wade, C. West, C. Weston, C. Wood, and C. Harris.

On March 4, last, Howe succeeded in cashing a $300 cashier's check on the City National bank of this city. The check was a bogus one. It is claimed by the police that he forged the name of F. Risland, cashier of a bank at Freeport, Ill., to the paper. While attempting to cash a check on a bank at Richland, a teller suspected him and caused his arrest.

BRITISH WAR CHIEF RESIGNS AS RESULT OF IRISH IMBROGLIO

Asquith Refuses to Release Him—Churchill Is Reprimanded.

Written Guarantee Given Army of No Fighting in Ulster.

London, March 25.—Premier Asquith refused today to accept Col. Seely's resignation as secretary of state for war in the British cabinet.

After the sympathetic reception by the house of commons of the secretary of war's explanation of his action regarding the army officers in Ireland, the premier decided that he would not sacrifice his lieutenant.

The house of commons buzzed with excitement and was crowded to its utmost capacity when Lord Charles Beresford opened the attack on the government by demanding information as to the naval movements in connection with the situation in Ulster.

"Was the battle squadron ordered to steam at full speed from Spanish waters to the Irish coast and ordered to embark field guns?" he asked.

Churchill Lost Temper.

Amid ministerial cheers and derisive laughter from the Unionists, Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, admitted that the battle squadron had been ordered to Lamlash "so as to be in proximity to the coast of Ireland in case of serious disturbance arising. When it was clear that the military precautionary movements had been carried out without opposition it was decided that this movement of the fleet could be delayed until the Easter leave period of the crews was over."

The statement of the first lord was immediately followed by a cyclone of questions. A unionist member asked if Mr. Churchill expected that "this precautionary movement of troops would lead to fighting."

In a moment the first lord flared up: "I repudiate the hellish suggestion!" he shouted.

When the consequent uproar had subsided, the speaker reprimanded Mr. Churchill, saying that such an expression should not have been used.

The first lord regretfully withdrew it and the storm passed.

Seely Defended King.

The resignation of Col. Seely came quickly after the publication today of the "White Paper," giving details of the crisis in the British army, whose officers refused to participate in active operations against the inhabitants of Ulster who had prepared to offer armed resistance to the introduction of home rule.

Col. Seely, in his valedictory address to the house of commons, denied that King George had taken any initiative of any kind in the army crisis. He said:

"The suggestion absolutely is without foundation in the broadest sense. His majesty took no initiative of any kind."

The correspondence between Col. Seely and the officers in Ireland had

STONES FLY IN RIOT IN BELFAST SQUARE

Party Riot There Is Put Down By the Police.

Belfast, Ireland, March 25.—A party riot occurred in Oromac square early this morning. Stones and other missiles were thrown and revolver shots were fired. A large force of police dispersed the rioters.

Many persons were slightly injured and several were arrested.

FIRE DRILLS RECALL TRIANGLE DISASTER

Show Advance New York Has Made for Saving Lives.

New York, March 25.—A city-wide demonstration, extending from Brooklyn to the Bronx, was held today on the third anniversary of the great Triangle Waist factory fire in which 147 lives were lost. The ringing of gongs in hundreds of factories brought forth orderly streams of employes until the streets in some districts took on a holiday aspect.

This colossal fire drill, which included most of the factories and a great many of the schools in the city, was planned by Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson, working in conjunction with several safety organizations. In a truer sense it was not a commemoration of the Triangle fire, but a celebration of the progress in fire prevention since that time.

Mayor Saw Drill.

Commissioner Adamson, who invited Mayor Mitchel to review some of the larger fire drills with him, visited a large tobacco factory in Brooklyn which employs 3,500 workers. Here the drill ran off with machine-like perfection, two and one-half minutes sufficing to bring out the total number of employes, with the safes locked and the roll called.

"I hope," said Commissioner Adamson, "that no one will take this as a token that New York thinks she has solved the problem of fire protection. We have only been seriously at it for a little over a year, and there are innumerable obstacles that remain to be overcome.

"By a system of inspection in which we have been assisted by the safety organizations, we are rapidly acquainting ourselves with present deficiencies and evasions of law. Some of the conditions that made the Triangle fire possible have been remedied, but not all."

MARTIAL LAW IS IN FORCE AT DEPEW

Shots Are Fired at Guards, But Nobody Is Injured.

Depew, N. Y., March 25.—With the entire town under martial law, quiet prevailed today among the strikers of the Gould Coupler works. The streets of the village were patrolled all night by squads of militia. The day shift of workmen was accompanied from Buffalo to the plant by a battalion of guardsmen.

Just about daybreak today four shots were fired from a distance through the Erie railroad gate of the coupler plant. This point was guarded by special deputies, but no one was injured and the shots were not returned.

The announcement that the company will refuse to reinstate any of the strikers under any conditions, and the threatened eviction of the men from the company houses, have added to the spirit of unrest and the militia will be kept on guard for an indefinite period.

CONVICTS ARRESTED WHILE JOY RIDING

Chicago, March 25.—The two trusties at the state penitentiary who stole the warden's automobile and came to Chicago for a lark, were arrested here Monday night for speeding, it has been learned. A South Park policeman in another automobile pursued the runaways down Michigan avenue for three miles before he overtook them. He said they were going thirty-five miles an hour.

Edward Smith said he was the owner of the machine. He gave his age at 48 and his occupation as master mechanic. He produced a cash bond, and after looking over the station with McGee, the two left.

URGE KANSAS CITY CLAIMS TO BANK.

Washington, March 25.—Chairman Owen and Senator Reed of the senate banking committee discussed with President Wilson today the merits of Kansas City, Mo., as a location for one of the new regional banks.

Although members of congress have been quietly urging the various cities, this was the first instance, so far as known, in which members of the banking committee had urged any particular city.

It was said at the White House that no decision had been reached either on the Federal reserve banks or members of the Federal reserve board. Senator Reed urged the president to appoint Dr. J. T. M. Johnson, president of the National Reserve bank of Kansas City, Mo., to membership on the board.

Accuse Winona Mail Clerk.

Winona, Minn., March 25.—William S. Crozier, 34 years old, was arrested Monday by George H. Drake postoffice inspector charged with robbing parcel post mail. According to the authorities the prisoner has confessed. He was arraigned before Court Commissioner Lamberton waived examination and was bound over to the May term of the Federal court. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon.

Naval affairs committee decided not to report the bill to restore Capt. Templin M. Potts to the active list of the navy.

Ambassador Page's much-discussed London speech, with its references to the Panama canal and the Monroe doctrine, was received from Secretary Bryan without comment.

HOUSE.

Met at noon.

Debate was resumed on the river and harbor bill.

The legislative ways were cleared for actual launching of the Panama tolls exemption repeal fight, which is expected tomorrow.

J. F. Murray of San Francisco urged the postoffice committee to report the Hughes bill authorizing investment of postal savings funds in district school bonds.

A senate bill for a postal rate of half a cent a pound on seeds, bulbs and cuttings was favorably reported.

SEIDEL AND BADING WIN IN MILWAUKEE; COE CRAWFORD LOSES

Primary Elections Cause Some Surprises to Politicians.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 25.—Mayor Gerhard A. Bading, non-partisan, and Emil Seidel, Socialist, were nominated for mayor at yesterday's primary and will figure in the municipal contest for chief executive of Milwaukee April 7.

With all but one precinct heard from, the returns show that Seidel led the field with 21,054 votes against 20,022 for Bading, giving the Socialist candidate a plurality of 1,034. Former Mayor David S. Rose ran third with 17,511 and Theobald Otjen a poor last, having only 2,875 votes. All but Seidel were on the non-partisan ticket.

Nominations for other city officers are:

For city treasurer—Joseph P. Carney, non-partisan, and C. B. Whitnall, Socialist.

Socialists for Aldermen.

While the returns for aldermanic nominations are far from complete, the indications are that the Socialists have nominated six aldermen at large, they being carried along with the vote for Seidel.

Yesterday's primary was the first non-partisan contest ever held in Milwaukee.

While Emil Seidel, Socialist, polled over 21,000 votes yesterday against 17,000 at the primary of two years ago, he received some 30,000 when he was elected mayor four years ago.

Whether the Socialists are gaining or losing ground in Milwaukee will not be shown until the real election takes place on April 7.

HEAD OF BANK THAT FAILED IS WOUNDED

Bloodhounds Fail to Run Down Capt. Adams' Assailants.

Superior, Neb., March 25.—Bloodhounds put on the trail of two men who last night shot and wounded Capt. C. E. Adams, president of the failed First National bank here, did not uncover any clew which would lead to the assailants' identity.

Since the failure of the bank Capt. Adams has received a number of anonymous threatening letters. He is one of the pioneer residents and business men of Southern Nebraska. He has long been prominent in political and Grand Army circles and was a candidate for commander-in-chief of the National G. A. R. at its last meeting.

Liberty, Tex., March 25.—Suit asking penalties of $1,252,000 has been filed by county authorities here against the Santa Fe Railroad company. Operation of an engine not equipped with brake appliances as prescribed by Texas laws is alleged.

Savannah Wharves Burn.

Savannah, Ga., March 25.—Fire of unknown origin today caused damage estimated at $200,000 to the resin and cotton wharves of the Atlantic coast line railway here. The British steamship Farley was slightly damaged by the flames.

SENATE HAS PAGE SPEECH

Complete Document From Ambassador Is Submitted By Bryan.

Deals With Panama Tolls and the Monroe Doctrine.

Washington, March 25.—Ambassador Walter H. Page's celebrated London speech, in which he was accredited with having interpreted the Monroe doctrine as meaning the United States "preferred" that no European governments should gain more land in the New World, and as having made certain references to the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption, was forwarded to the senate today by Secretary Bryan in response to Senator Chamberlain's resolution calling for an explanation. Mr. Page's speech, some 2,500 words in length, was furnished to the senate in full.

As to the Canal.

The portion relating to the Panama canal was as follows:

"I will not say that we constructed the Panama canal even for you. For I am speaking with great frankness and not with diplomatic indirection. We built it for reasons of our own. But I will say that it adds to the pleasure of building that great work that you will profit by it. You will profit most by it, for you have the greatest carrying trade.

"I can say a similar thing about the recent lowering of our tariff. We did not lower it in order to please you. It was for purposes that we considered economically sound for ourselves. Nevertheless, it added to the pleasure of doing that, to reflect that thereby we should have more trade with you.

"Concerning the recent message of the president I take upon myself, on my own responsibility, to say this: He delivered that message, not to please you, but to express the true sentiment and self-respect of the American nation. As I interpret it, his was the voice of the people. Nevertheless, it adds to the pleasure of hearing that voice to know that it does please you."

On the Monroe Doctrine.

The portion referring to the Monroe doctrine follows:

"May I put in another parenthesis,

DROPS THEORY THAT WOMAN WAS SLAIN

Mrs. Simpson's Father Now Thinks Death Was Accidental.

Chicago, March 25.—Dr. William H. Wilder asserted last night that a second autopsy on the body of Mrs. Laura Wilder Simpson, his daughter, had convinced him that she shot and killed herself. The body was exhumed at Lexington, Ky., where Mrs. Simpson lived, last Saturday by two medical experts from Chicago who were accompanied by Dr. Wilder.

They found from powder burns that the shot had been fired close to the head, and undoubtedly had been fired by Mrs. Simpson herself. As there was no reason for suicide, this, Dr. Wilder says, clearly indicates she came to her death through accident, and clears up any mystery for all time.

Mrs. Simpson, a popular graduate of the University of Chicago, was found dead in Lexington on Feb. 22. A revolver was near the body. She was found by her husband, Lawrence Simpson, and physicians declared she had been dead two hours. A coroner's jury returned an open verdict.

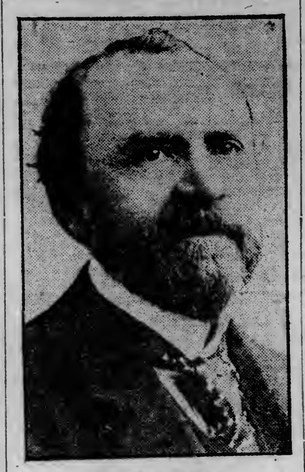
SERIOUS REVERSE OF VILLA'S ARMY AT TORREON REPORTED

RESIGNS AS DIRECTOR OF STEEL CORPORATION



HENRY PHIPPS.

New York, March 25.—Henry Phipps, identified with the United States Steel corporation since its organization, today announced his resignation from the directorate and the finance committee of the corporation. James A. Farrell, president of the corporation, succeeds him on the finance committee. It was said that Mr. Phipps wished to devote his time to private enterprises and philanthropic work.

It is understood that the name of Henry Phipps, Jr., will be presented to succeed his father on the board.

HUERTA IN GOOD SHAPE

In Better Health Than When He Undertook the Presidency.

Mexico City, March 25.—After a year in office Gen. Huerta appears in better health than when he undertook the presidency. The difficulties he has encountered have left no stamp upon his features. Six months ago some of his friends and most of his enemies predicted early physical collapse, and there were some who would not have been surprised had his intellect suffered as the result of the enormous odds.

"Take things as they come," seems to have been the life-long philosophy of Huerta, tempered always, however, with the belief that all things come to him who waits, especially to him who waits for and seizes the big opportunity. Worrying has never been one of Huerta's failings. Nor is he a creature of routine. Regularity does not characterize his methods. He does his work when and where it suits his convenience and all members of his official family, the public, and his private family as well have to yield.

Long ago he tired of the regular cabinet meetings and announced that conferences with his ministers would take place whenever he summoned them, and there would be no place regarded as sacred to that ceremony. And so it has come about that questions of the greatest import are as likely to be discussed in his private home as in the national palace, and not at all infrequently he sends word to his ministers suddenly that he would like to meet them that very morning in the woods about Chapultepec castle.

Chase Through the Park.

To the famous and ancient park in which the castle is located he drives in his automobile. His ministers, also arriving in their cars, wonder in just what part the president is going to see them. Their chauffeurs or aides sight the presidential car ahead on one of the many drives and there begins a chase which may come to an end beneath one of the great shade trees, or beside the lake. Ministers and president alight, sit on the benches or walk along one of the intersecting footpaths and there talk of affairs which perhaps are of international importance. Back of all is the president's whim. He may be late. The ministers wait. He may have altered his mind regarding affairs of state, and the ministers are told to meet him later in the day or night at his home.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy lately was the innocent cause of forcing the ministers

CROWN PRINCE HAS TO GIVE UP HIS TRIP

Parliament Would Not Pay Expense, It Is Said.

Berlin, March 25.—The trip to Africa which the crown prince had purposed this year has been definitely abandoned. It is understood that the reason for this step is the emperor's objection to the crown prince's interrupting his work on the general staff of the army by such a long absence. Another reason put forward in some quarters is that the imperial parliament would refuse an appropriation to cover the expense of such a trip.

FIGHTING IN PROGRESS.

Juarez, Mex., March 25.—"Fighting is in progress this morning in the outskirts of Torreon."

This was the text of a message from the South given out officially here today. There were no details and official prophesy was readjusted to the effect that it might be some days before the Federal stronghold is taken.

Washington, March 25.—The Mexican embassy has received the following cablegram from the City of Mexico, dated last night:

"The rebels were repulsed today in an attempt to reach Torreon. Gen. Velasco well prepared for attack."

"With Heavy Loss."

El Paso, Tex., March 25.—Miguel Diebold of the Mexican Federal consular service said today that he had been officially informed that the rebels were repulsed with heavy loss at Torreon, and that some of them were driven back twenty miles.

Hordes of Wounded.

Bermejillo, Mex., March 23.—(By courier to El Paso, March 25.)—Rebel wounded from Gomez Palacio and the lesser recent fights in the vicinity are being brought north in large numbers, and it is officially admitted that the Federals put up an unexpectedly strong resistance at Gomez Palacio.

A trainload of injured soldiers started north from Brittingham Junction today, it is reported. They will be deposited at all water tank stations along the railroad north of there where hospitals have been established.

Gen. Villa has the largest medical corps ever attached to a rebel army in Mexico, but the doctors and nurses are exhausted from having had to work day and night.

No Word at Juarez.

Juarez, Mex., March 23.—The vigil of officers at rebel headquarters here throughout the night lengthened to nearly noon today without authoritative information as to the outcome of the fighting at Torreon.

No definite news had come over the wires since the receipt of Associated Press dispatches from Chihuahua at 5 p. m. yesterday that fighting was still in progress at Gomez Palacio, the important railroad suburb of Torreon.

Officials here were silent and the fact that no press dispatches came through was regarded as significant in view of the statement at Mexico City that the rebels had been repulsed in an attack on Torreon.

Terrazas to Die.

El Paso, Tex., March 25.—An authoritative private letter dated Chihuahua, March 23, received here today, states that Luis Terrazas, Jr., is to be executed today unless he delivers the equivalent of $250,000 in gold to Gen. Villa.

Mexico City, March 25.—President Huerta's financial stress will be relieved, it is declared, by a plan adopted yesterday which will bring into the treasury 100,000,000 pesos, which at the present exchange, practically 3 to 1, is $33,000,000 in gold. Fifty million pesos will be immediately available, the balance as required.

The plan involves the issuance of treasury notes against the unsold balance of bonds authorized in May, 1913, to the amount of $100,000,000, for a portion of which a Paris bank syndicate subscribed, but of which practically half remains unsold.

In return for the assistance rendered by the banks, President Huerta promises definitely to abandon the scheme for a Federal bank, and likewise the proposed 1 per cent tax on the capital of corporations and individuals.

The plan has been the subject of many conferences between the leading bankers and the finance minister, and before its final adoption was submitted to Jose de Limantour, the ex-minister of finance, who is now in Paris. He responded at great length, giving his approval of the project as a sound measure.

The bankers commenting on the measure, while regarding it as the best procedure, foresee future difficulties in which the banks will be unable to offer further assistance, since the present measure forces all the institutions of issue to the fullest possible extent.

Arms Reach Embassy.

The first instalment of arms and ammunition sent by the United States war department to the American embassy for the protection of American citizens in the event of disturbance in the Federal capital, was delivered yesterday.

The consignment, which includes 250 rifles and two machine guns, had been held at the customs house under orders issued by Provisional President Huerta, for fourteen days. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, anticipates no further trouble in getting the remainder of the rifles and the machine guns.

THIRD FIRE WRECKS BANK AT ISHPEMING.

Ishpeming, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Miners' National bank building here was destroyed by fire of unknown origin this morning. The loss is estimated at $35,000, part of which is that of the attorneys and others occupying the second floor. Eight years ago a gas explosion wrecked the building causing three deaths.

WILL CELEBRATE SILVER JUBILEE

Our Saviour's Church Plans Big Meeting Next Sunday.

The Twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street, will be fittingly celebrated next Sunday. Many of the former pastors of the church have promised to be present on the silver anniversary celebration.

Rev. O. Dahle of Starbuck, Minn., who was the first pastor of the local congregation, will be present and deliver the principal jubilee sermon on Sunday morning. In the evening addresses will be given by other former pastors, among them being Rev. J. Madson of Manston, Wis., and Rev. J. A. Bjerke of Park River, N. D. Rev. J. C. Reinertson, the present pastor, and pastors of other United Norwegian Lutheran churches of Duluth and Superior will take part in the exercises.

The local church was built in the spring of 1889. It was one of the first churches built in West Duluth proper.

TWO SUBWAYS MAY CONNECT HILLTOP

Two subways, both of which will connect West Duluth with roads leading over the hilltop, may result from conferences between officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad and city officials. The agreement to build both subways hinges, it is said, on obtaining the vacation of some street crossings between Fifty-seventh and Sixty-fourth avenues west.

The principal subway will be that planned under Highland street, which will connect the Getchell road with the city streets. The other, now under consideration, will come under the railroad's Keene creek bridge and will connect with the present Proctor road above the tracks and will lead from Worden and Sixty-third avenue on the lower side. The roadway will lead along he creek, taking the best grade possible. There is said to be still a question whether the east or west side of the creek would be the best way down the hillside.

Members of the West Duluth Commercial club will discuss the proposition Friday evening. The club will also hear a report from its Polk street sewer committee and its banquet committee.

The banquet committee has planned a special meeting to take place Saturday evening in the clubrooms.

IN WEST DULUTH POLICE COURT

Four men were brought in from New Duluth this morning and found guilty in police court of having been drunk and disorderly. The men are alleged to have been shooting firearms within the city limits, although on the arrival of the officers at the place where the men were arrested no firearms were found on them. Several pistol shots were said to have been fired into the air. The men were Anton Skufe, William Gorjop, Leo Junko and John Podict. Officers L. A. Root and Fred Anderson of the New Duluth station arrested the quartet.

* * *

Gust Heckala made his second appearance this year before Judge Lanners on a charge of being drunk. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs or five days at the work farm. He chose the latter.

* * *

Joseph Gerreck was turned over to the police yesterday afternoon by Conductor Stamupt of the Canadian Northern passenger train on a charge of disorderly conduct. In police court yesterday afternoon he was found guilty and sentenced to pay $5 and costs. Gerrick paid the amount and left the city for Minneapolis.

LAST CURLING OF THE SEASON.

Only two of the four games scheduled for last evening at the Western Curling rink were played. Ittis won from Olson by a score of 7 to 2 and Wade won from Brown 8 to 4. This leaves the Wade side in the contest for a box of cigars one score to the good. This evening the ownership of the cigars will be determined by games between Wade and Judson and between Wieland and Zauft.

A game scheduled for tonight between Mallory and McDonald for a special box of cigars will be the feature of the evening. Tonight's games will be the last of the season according to statement made this morning by F. H. Wade, president of the club.

Those taking part were: Mrs. Milton Fish, Mrs. Mae Baillie, Mrs. George Jewell, Mrs. Irma Hutchinson, Mrs. E. Ward Anderson, Miss Clara Goodhand, Mith Ruth Glover, Miss Minnie Milne, Miss Maud Leonard, and Mrs. Auxier. George Jewell and Fred C. Hanson assisted the women in the latter play.

Fifty members of the society were present, each member equipped with an apron. During the business session candidates were initiated and plans made for the dancing party to be given by Pocahontas lodge on April 13 at Dormedy's hall. SEEK ACCESS TO THE WATER

Jobbers Offer City $500 to Vacate Part of Minnesota Avenue.

Rights of City Have Been in Question for Years.

The city commission met informally in the council chambers this morning to consider the request of the Gowan-Lenning-Brown company for the vacation of part of Minnesota avenue, but no conclusion was reached. The matter will be taken up again Friday afternoon.

The Gowan-Lenning-Brown company wishes to acquire a strip 120 feet in length and 30 feet wide, which lies between the property on which it plans to build on the slip. The city has been offered $500 to cede any rights which it may claim to that part of the avenue.

The rights of the city to that part of Minnesota avenue lying along the slip, of which the piece desired by the wholesale firm is a part, have been in question for some years. Former Mayor Marcus B. Cullum contended that the city controls this water frontage and held that it should be used as part of a system of municipal docks. It was decided to sustain the city's rights in the courts but the matter has never been litigated.

Finance Commissioner Fred J. Voss said this morning that the city should not act hastily upon the question, as the issue involved is one of considerable importance to the municipality. He stated that he was inclined to favor court procedure so that the rights of the city may be definitely determined. He pointed out that that portion of Minnesota avenue occupies a valuable part of the harbor and that at the best the city has altogether too little accessible water frontage. He held that it should not lightly pass over the application to have the city release the rights which it may have.

Those who favor the move state that the erection of a big wholesale house will add a big item to the taxable property of the city and thus increase its revenue; that it will be encouraging the development of the city, and will improve its appearance. It was also stated that if the city should determine its rights in court and be successful, the city might receive $2,000 in return for the concession.

IRON RULES FOR FLEET

Pittsburg Steamship Company Is Emphatically for Safety First.

Committees on Each Ship; Vessel Officers Are Appointed.

At a meeting of the Pittsburg Steamship company's officials and masters, held in Cleveland Monday, safety first was the keynote of the discussion and the officials gave it out that there must be no cutting of corners to attempt to escape the outside course or other relaxing of vigilance during the shipping season of 1914 or thereafter. The question of "going north about" on Lake Michigan was also unanimously adopted. Delays, said President Coulby, are to be preferred to disaster.

Committees will be appointed on each ship of the Pittsburg company during the season of 1914 in an effort to reduce the number of personal injury cases. The first mate and first assistant engineer will be members. Prizes will be offered for the smallest number of accidents and each committee will have a safety pennant. A shore committee also will be appointed to suggest safety measures. Capt. J. W. Morgan, who retires on pension under the age limit, will be a member and will go aboard ships and report conditions as he sees them.

Besides Capt. Morgan of the steamer Cole, Capt. J. A. Walsh of the Gates and Capt. John Sproule, a barge master, were put on the pension list. They were retired on the age clause.

President Harry Coulby spoke on the safety question, which was the leading topic.

No ship of the fleet will go out this spring without a wrecking cloth aboard and it was insisted upon that each vessel's barometer be reliable. It was also recommended that each master send to President William Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association a postcard whenever a light is found to be either out of order or in an incorrect position and when bridges fail to swing promptly.

Any mate who is caught sitting down while in charge of the navigation of a ship will be discharged and it was decided to remove stools from pilot houses that wheelsmen must remain standing while on duty.

Thomas L Roy, mate on the steamer Rockefeller, was awarded first prize for the best kept log. J. Jack of the steamer Dickson, J. B. Allair of the Rogers, J. C. Dobson of the Empire City, W. F. Meister of the Linn and Fred Tholey of the Mariska were commended for the logs kept by them.

PRISON FOR WANDERER

Frank Wilson, Born on Ocean, Is Victim of Wanderlust.

Frank Wilson, alias Frank Fisher, soldier of fortune and ex-convict, was born with the wanderlust germ in his system, if the life story he told to Judge Dancer in district court yesterday afternoon is to be believed.

Wilson was brought before the court and sentenced to Stillwater penitentiary on the indeterminate plan. A jury found him guilty last week of having on Jan. 20 last broken into a Northern Pacific box car and stolen a cheese, kit of herring and a fish spear.

Wilson told the court that he was born on the high seas thirty-five years ago. His parents, he said, were on a trans-Atlantic voyage. Since early boyhood, he said, he had been shifting from one place to another and had visited nearly every part of the world.

While in Wisconsin in 1912, he said that he was arrested and convicted of burglary and sent to Waupun prison for a year. He was released three days before Christmas last year after having served eleven months. He had been in Duluth but two days before his arrest.

* * *

Paul Konczak, 23, and Louis Cherrier, 19, were sentenced to the St. Cloud reformatory after they had pleaded guilty to information charging them with having stolen eighteen beef hides from a Soo line box car March 13. In the case of Cherrier, however, the court suspended the sentence and placed the young man on parole. Konczak was convicted of a similar offense in 1911 and was given a chance to reform at that time but did not. He will serve his sentence.

* * *

John Sayne and Andrew Aho, also box car thieves, were given work farm sentences. Sayne, who was jointly indicted with one Emil Bobolz for the theft of two sacks of flour from a Soo line box car Feb. 17 pleaded guilty, was given sixty days over the hill and a like sentence was imposed on Aho, who helped himself to $9.50 worth of meat from a refrigerator car belonging to the Armour company on March 13 last.

* * *

The court took under advisement the sentence of Emil Bobolz, 49, who was convicted of second degree larceny by a district court jury last week of the same crime in which Sayne was involved.

HENRY K. FRENCH IS SUMMONED

Father of Prominent Duluthian Passes Away at Ripe Old Age.

Henry K. French, 89 years old, father of George A. French, president of the French & Bassett company, died at 3:30 o'clock this morning at his son's residence, 2121 East Second street, where he had made his home for the last six years.

Mr. French had been very weak the last few years, due to old age, and his death was expected at almost any time by members of the family. He came here about six years ago to make his home with his son. His wife died in 1898 at Peterborough, N. H., the family home. There are no other survivors of Mr. French besides his son.

A private funeral will be held at the residence at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and tomorrow evening the body will be taken to Peterborough for interment.

NAVIGATION WILL OPEN ON APRIL 12

The first steamer to leave Duluth harbor this spring will be the America of the Booth line, which will depart for Port Arthur, Isle Royale, Grand Marais, Fort William and intermediate points, Sunday, April 12. The vessel will carry passengers and supplies.

L. P. Hogstad, division superintendent of the Booth line, said today that the lake at the Duluth end is well cleared of ice, although there was some floating ice still to be found. He said he did not know what the ice conditions were farther down the lake.

Last year the first vessel sent out by the Booth line was on April 27, which makes this season's opening just two weeks earlier. If the weather continues as favorably as is expected the lake will be in excellent condition by April 12.

A SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

End Itching Scalp and Stop Falling Hair—At Once.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

We have the COLD CASH and are desirous of loaning it on first-class REAL ESTATE SECURITY. NO DELAY and every consideration granted our customers. See us to furnish the money to take up your present loan or furnish the money for that new house.

SAY LUMBER WILL SOAR

Log Shortage Expected to Be Severely Felt This Coming Summer.

Season in the Woods Was Shortened By Seven Weeks.

According to a Duluth lumberman the warm weather during December and January and the early thaws during March have cut the logging season short at least seven weeks. Hauling of logs in the woods ceased at least ten days ago, and the supply available is insufficient to keep the Duluth mills running through the summer. The shortage of logs is said to be without precedent in the history of the state. The same weather conditions are said to have affected the Canadian lumbermen, and reduced the Canadian supply at least 30 to 40 per cent.

When asked if the reduction in tariff would not help to reduce lumber prices, a lumberman said: "The American lumbermen either already control or will buy up practically all the Canadian output, and they will certainly not underbid themselves in the market on this side of the boundary. Builders will not be benefited by free imports of lumber."

Demand Better.

In speaking of business conditions this lumberman said that building prospects and lumber sales were picking up, and the demand was far better than a year ago. Negotiations are now under way with Eastern capitalists for several large orders. Contracts for low grade lumber have been numerous and higher grades are meeting with excellent demand. Quotations on Southern lumber, also, have gone up recently, averaging about a $1.50 advance to the thousand feet. The three factors—shortage, increased demand, and control of the Canadian output threaten to boost prices to a startling degree.

It is said that the Canadian camps around Georgian bay and in Western Canada have met with extremely bad weather conditions, which will greatly reduce the output from those places. In Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin the output is said to be the shortest in history of the logging days. Log hauling usually begins the last week in December, this lumberman said, and ends the first week in April. This season hauling began about Jan. 20 and ended about the first week in March, making about seven weeks shortage of time this season. The output, however, for February was good.

The weather has probably hurt the small, independent loggers far more than the large companies. The independents have always depended upon snow roads for hauling while the large companies have been able to make ice roads.

BROKE PAROLE AND WIFE'S NOSE

James C. McNie Is Given Two Months on Work Farm.

For breaking his parole of one year and also his wife's nose, last evening, while in a drunken state, James C. McNie, 39 years old, will have to spend the next two months on the work farm.

McNie was arrested last evening on the complaint of neighbors living next to the McNies at 628 West Third street. They reported that McNie was abusing his wife. Sergeant Barber and Patrolmen Westerlund and Peter Barber were sent to the home and they found that McNie had struck his wife, breaking her nose.

Police Surgeon Murphy attended to Mrs. McNie's injury and McNie was brought to police headquarters by the officers. He was recently placed on parole for one year after having been found guilty of drunkenness. He pleaded guilty when arraigned this morning on a charge of violating his parole and the court gave him the straight two-month sentence, without the alternative of a fine.

SHERIFF IS KILLED BY TOO MUCH WORK.

Sacramento, Cal., March 25.—David Ahern, sheriff of Sacramento county who suffered a nervous collapse recently, while supervising the "army of unemployed" here, dropped dead in his home here last night. Physicians said death was from heart disease superinduced by nervous strain and overwork.

SAYS ASSAULT CHARGE WAS MERE SPITE WORK.

At the trial this morning of John H. Kerns, 18 years old, clerk at the Sixth avenue hotel, it was claimed that Lempi Jarvi had made a complaint against the former, charging him with assault, because young Kerns had caught her stealing a box of his candy and had chastised her for it.

The young girl was formerly employed as a chambermaid at the hotel and she testified in court that Kerns had attempted to commit indecent assault last Friday morning. It developed, however, that Kerns had caught her stealing a box of candy from his room and that when he took it away, Lempi struck him. He then pushed her away in an effort to guard himself and she fell over on the bed. The charge was a case of spitework the defendant claimed.

After hearing the testimony of both plaintiff and defendant, Judge Cutting entered a verdict of not guilty against Kerns and dismissed the case.

Kerns formerly attended Central high school and for the last year has been assisting his father, John Kerns, in the management of the Sixth avenue hotel.

"SIZING UP" HOTEL GUESTS

Rooms Assigned According to Part of Country Visitors Hail From.

Rooms in Duluth hotels are often assigned to guests according to the parts of the country from which they come.

"Yes," said C. A. Hine, clerk at the Spalding hotel yesterday afternoon. "It gets so you can size up a guest when he registers and you can give him a room that will make him feel at home.

"Last night, for instance, there was a man in here from away up in Saskatchewan. I think it was Swift Current. Now, as soon as he had registered and I had seen what part of the country he came from, I knew at once that he wanted a room that was away from the noise and bustle of a city. So I gave him a room where the only noise was the whistle of the wind and I'll bet he thought he was in Swift Current all the time.

"If I had given him a room on the second floor, facing the street, he would have been awake all night."

"I always make it a point to observe what section of the country my guests are from before I assign them to a room," said Roy Quigley of the Holland. "If a man should be from New York or Chicago I generally place him on one of the first three floors. They rather like this and the reason for it, I think, is that they like the reflection of the lights in their room all night long. They are close to the noise and I guess they feel at home.

"I usually place guests with children as near the top floor as possible. The reason I do this is because children like to ride on elevators and it is their greatest delight to be near the top so that they can get a good long ride.

"And another thing. People from the South always want warm rooms and I always remember that. People from the West are different and all they usually want is a place where there is plenty of fresh air."

ANOTHER COLD WAVE IS COMING

Rubbers and "Creepers" Will Be Needed By Duluthians.

Another cold wave approaches. Weather Forecaster Richardson gives out this interesting information just when the sleet on top of what snow has fallen, is in first-rate condition for a freeze. It will be fine for the youngsters and almost unendurable for adults—especially the heavy ones.

It is expected that the wave will reach here tonight and the thermometer will go down to about 5 deg. above zero in Duluth. More snow flurries will accompany it. What its duration will be is, as yet, not known.

But rubbers—new ones that will prevent slipping—will be good things to have.

AMENDS BILL ON MONTANA COAL.

Washington, March 25.—By a vote of 32 to 24, the senate amended the pending bill to authorize the secretary of the interior to sell coal lands in Montana to the Republic Coal company for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, so as to make action optional with the secretary. Action on the bill itself was delayed by a debate of another amendment by Senator Gronna, proposing that one-half of any royalty received under the measure should go to Montana for schools.

OFFER HELP UNSOLICITED

Members of B'nai B'rith Appoint Summer Festival Committee.

Unsolicited, Covenant lodge, No. 569, Independent Order of B'Nai B'Rith, at its regular monthly meeting held last evening in the Temple Emanuel vestry room, voiced its unanimous approval of the midsummer festival and pageant for 1915 and also appointed a committee of three to act with the general Duluth committee that will have complete charge of the affair.

The B'Nai B'Rith committee named consists of A. B. Kapplin, secretary, chairman, Dr. Maurice Lefkovits and Louis Zalk. The members of the committee were given full power to represent the local fraternity in the preparation for the pageant.

Including the local B'Nai B'Rith lodge, there are now twenty-two civil and fraternal organization that have already voiced their approval of the 1915 pageant and which have appointed committees to take part in the preparations for the affair. These committees, it was announced yesterday, are to be called in a general conference very shortly and active work in preparing for the midsummer entertainment begun.

Discuss Pageant.

At the meeting of the B'Nai B'Rith lodge last evening the pageant was discussed at length by the members and a motion by Dr. Lefkovits that the local fraternity voice its unanimous approval of the project and appoint a representative committee was passed without a dissenting voice. Although not solicited by those in charge, the local lodge feels that the entertainment in 1915 promises to be a Duluth affair and that the active support of every fraternal and civic organization is needed to make it a success.

The Independent Order of B'Nai B'Rith is the representative Hebrew organization of the world, there being branch lodges in almost every part of the globe. The order maintains an orphan asylum at Cleveland, several tuberculosis hospitals in different parts of the country and a home for aged in New York.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR MRS. RYBERG

Body Is Taken to Mill City for Final Ceremonies.

The funeral of Mrs. Nina Ryberg, 24 years old, wife of Arthur L. Ryberg, manager of the Lake Hardware store, who died early yesterday morning at St. Mary's hospital following an operation, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Crawford undertaking rooms. Rev. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated.

At 3:30 the body was taken to Minneapolis on the Great Northern railroad and another funeral service will be held there tomorrow afternoon, with interment at the Lakewood cemetery.

MRS. ARTHUR L. RYBERG.

The pallbearers, who bore the body of Mrs. Ryberg to the railroad station, are all intimate friends of Mr. Ryberg. They are: W. J. North, W. C. Harris, F. H. Hamm, Clyde Fenton, C. C. Husebsch and W. A. Abbott.

Accompanying the body to Minneapolis are Mr. Ryberg and Mrs. Ryberg's mother and brother, Mrs. Elizabeth Niebling and Paul Niebling, both of Minneapolis, who arrived here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryberg were married in Minneapolis eight years ago and had made their home at 4727 Robinson street. She leaves two sons, Donald, aged 6, and Clyde, aged 5 years.

ARRESTED AGAIN FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH.

East Woodstock, Conn., March 25.—Mrs. Amanda U. Lawson was arrested yesterday on a bench warrant charging her with the murder of her husband, Jonas P. Lawson, a well-to-do farmer, at their home here on Aug. 15, last. This is the second time that Mrs. Lawson has been under detention charged with his death, being released the first time because the grand jury failed to indict her.

EXPECT BIG CUYUNA SALES

Contracts Covering Present Year's Ore Output Nearly Cinched.

Mines Are Preparing to Make Immense Shipments.

Announcements of some important contracts with Eastern furnace interests, covering the coming season's outputs of properties on the Cuyuna range, are expected within the next few days. In these cases, negotiations that have been under way for some time are reported to be making satisfactory progress.

On account of the new problems presented in the magniferous deposits of the new range, iron men have been inclined to go slow in making deals, and the ores have been subjected to careful tests to determine the best furnace methods for handling them. It is now intimated that the results in at least three instances have been so satisfactory that the consuming companies are prepared to contract for tonnages. The unusual delay this year in announcing ore prices has led to more or less curtailment in mining and development work on the Cuyuna range during the last few weeks, but the indications for extensive operations after the opening of navigation are regarded as most promising.

It is the general impression in the trade that iron ore figures will be a shade lower than last year on some classes of product, but to counterbalance that shippers hope to secure some concessions in lake and rail freights and in handling charges at the lower lake ports.

"We are preparing for a bumper season. I am naturally gratified in the fact that more properties in which we are interested will enter the shipping list with substantial outputs this summer," said E. J. W. Donahue, of the Locker-Donohue company today.

Big Shipments Planned.

The expectations now are that the Cuyuna-Mille-Lacs mine will be shipping between 180,000 and 200,000 tons of maganiferous ore during the season. An additional pump with a capacity of 2,600 gallons per minute, has been installed, and it is thought it will be sufficient to cope fully with the water problem at the property. Over fifty men have been engaged all winter, and mining is proceeding at the 125 and 205-feet main levels, and at the 85, 105, 146 and 165-feet sub-levels. The timber shaft has been fully timbered to the bottom at the 205-feet level, and the workings are said to be in splendid shape.

A stockpile of respectable proportions has been accumulated at the Cuyuna-Duluth Iron company's Ironton mine. Ore is being raised from the 200-feet main level and from the 110, 140 and 165-foot sub-levels.

Shipments of from 175,000 to 200,000 tons of ore are counted upon for this year.

The three-compartment shaft at the Duluth-Brainerd Iron company's mine, is reported to have been put down to 125 feet. It will be sunk twenty-five feet lower, when a drift will be run over to the ore body seventy-five feet distant.

McCullough & Cheney of St. Paul, the contractors for the extension of the Northern Pacific's spur to the property from the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine, are pushing the work as rapidly as possible with a large crew. They are now driving the piling across the Narrows at Lake Mahnomen. They expect to reach their objective point by April 30. The company proposes to ship up to 20,000 tons of ore during the season.

Ore of Great Value.

The Cuyuna-Iron Valley company, another promotion of the Locker-Donahue company, has two drills at work on its property north of Rabbit Lake. Each of them is reported to be in ore running into high values.

The Cuyuna-Sultana Iron company is working in its sixth hole on the Campbell forty. It is claimed by the management that drilling work up to date has disclosed fully 7,500,000 tons of merchantable manganiferous ore. The company is also developing a second property near Deerwood that promises well.

It is reported the Iron Mountain Mining company has received a favorable offer from an Eastern furnace concern that recently tried out a test shipment of its ore, and that a contract may be closed up within a short time.

LITTLE GIRL HAS DESIRE TO ROAM.

For the second time in the last week little 7-year-old Ethel Silver has wandered away from her home at 21 Second avenue east and each time her adventure has landed her in police headquarters. Yesterday afternoon the young miss boarded a street car and when unable to pay her fare the conductor stopped in front of police headquarters and placed her in charge of an officer. She was later returned to her home. A week ago Ethel wandered away from her home and after a four-hour search was found at the home of her aunt.

Joplin Mayor Renominated.

Joplin, Mo., March 25.—In the first primary election ever held in Missouri under commission form, J. F. Osborne, present mayor, and Hugh McIndoe, a former state senator, were nominated for mayor. They will oppose each other in the municipal election April 7. During the day temperance workers paraded the streets and visited the polling places, accompanied by a band.

How To Darken Gray Hair

By a Specialist.

A very satisfactory preparation which darkens gray hair and acts as a corrective agent for dandruff and other diseases of the scalp can be made at small expense and in your own home by dissolving a small box of Barbo Compound in 7 ounces of water and then adding an ounce of bay rum and a quarter ounce of glycerine. Any drug store can furnish these ingredients. This is to be applied once a week until the hair is sufficiently darkened, then every two weeks to keep the hair soft and glossy and the scalp in a healthy condition. It may be used with equal success in darkening the beard. This is a preparation that gives splendid results, both as a hair darkener and a remedy for all scalp disorders, and is well worthy of a trial. You will find it far superior to the ordinary store preparations and much less expensive.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC SHOWS UP WELL

Recent Cold Weather Increases Movement of Forest Products.

Officials of railroads operating from Duluth aver that the volume of freight offering is showing steady improvement, and that in many lines traffic is now comparing favorably with last year. The colder weather of the last ten days has given an impetus to the movement of forest products. Shipments of general merchandise over the West are good and westbound traffic is in liberal proportions.

The American Railway association's last statement showed a total surplus of freight cars on March 15 of 132,010, a decrease of 27,470 cars in the fortnight. The demand for coal cars and gondolas was heavy, a decrease of 25,689 being shown in them, while idle miscellaneous cars fell off 785 and box cars 1,030.

Compared with the corresponding period last year, there was an increase in the total car surplus of 74,012 cars. It is thought that the increased number of cars now on hand is partially accounted for in the fact that the railroads have received considerable new equipment during the last twelve months.

MAN IS HELD RESPONSIBLE

Must Answer for Waste of Opportunity Says Dr. Hoffman.

Much Interest in Noon-Day Service; Miss Reynolds Sings.

Interest and attendance at the noon-day religious services at the Lyceum were at high tide again today. Large numbers of business and professional men are taking advantage of the noon-day recess to hear Dr. John W. Hoffman of the First M. E. church, who is speaking daily this week. The sermon this noon was on "Material and Its Uses." The keynote was that God supplies man with everything necessary to make life a success; man is responsible for the uses he makes of his opportunities.

Rev. F. E. Plum of the Bethel led in prayer, and Miss Mary Gladys Reynolds sang, "The Shepherd of the Fold." Dr. Hoffman said in part:

"Life is wonderfully rich. It has an abundance that is fabulous. God has stored the mountain with uncounted millions. He has charged the atmosphere with a wealth incalculable and immeasurable. The earth and the sea yield an opulence that dazes the mind of man. The Almighty has endowed man with talents as varied as are the legitimate needs of life. The past bequeathes to us its mental, its moral, its social resources. Man is the recipient of this multiform material. It all comes trooping to his hand pleading to be used. All about him are the items of experience, the events of the day, the contributions of a splendid past, waiting for the moulding of his touch and the direction of his mind.

Different Methods of Use.

"It is instructive to note how men regard and employ this variety of material, which constitute our opportunity. For one man life is 'an awkward business,' as a great philosopher put it, and he therefore spends his time reflecting over it. For another it is a hopeless and helpless puzzle full of bitterness and chagrin; he bemoans its badness. A third sees in life an opportunity for self-enrichment and self-advancement; he helps himself to everything within his reach. But here is one who gluttonizes and debauches himself with the bounty of God. Surely none of these men have the highest attitude toward the materials of conduct and character. Life is too serious for one to remain a mere spectator, it is too good for one to degenerate into a pessimist, it is too generous for one to employ it selfishly, and it is too precious for one to turn prodigal and waste it.

"One thing, however, is self-evident; each and every man is solely responsible for the attitude he sustains toward the resources of the world and self. The use we make of the wealth of mind, of heart, of history, of air and land, comes at last, not to God, but to us. The golden grain will prove itself a blessing or a curse according as we employ it. A blessing if converted into food for the toiler and strength for the worker. It will minister to the world's life and show itself one of our great civilizing forces. It will become a curse if distilled into spirituous liquors and made the daily drink of man. It muddles his brain, paralyzes his moral sense, brings poverty to the home, and becomes a menace to the city and the nation. Let it find its way to the nerve centers of the modest girl and the clean boy, and it reproduces itself in the coarse jest, the low song, the degrading debauch. Nitre, charcoal, and sulphur are invaluable in medicine, in industry, and in commerce, but when combined in certain proportions they become an instrument of slaughter, for war would be impossible without gunpowder.

Man Is Responsible.

"Do you not see that man, and not God is responsible for the use we make of life's opportunities, of its resources, of its materials. God made the grain, He does not distill the liquor. God is responsible for the action of gravitation and the conservation of energy, but not for man's greedy and avaracious use of either. God created the coal and the ore, but He cannot be held accountable for the fact that they become at times ministrants to a wicked self-indulgence. Sometimes we are told man is but the creature of circumstances and the product of ancestral forces, and therefore is not to be praised or blamed, but simply to be regarded as fortunate or unfortunate. Not so! From the same parents, the same training, the same home will come saint and sinner. In the last analysis that which determines character is how we use the wealth of life we find about us. We may convert the timber of our hills into whisky barrels or into wheelbarrows. God is responsible for our personal gifts, but not for our use of them.

"No man can evade responsibility for his attitude toward life and for the character he is building out of the resources at his command. Neither can he escape a judgment, a final appraisement of his moral worth, based absolutely on his use of life's opportunities. The final valuation of his personal experience and service will rest neither upon 'native ability nor upon the abundance or scantiness of his resources, but upon the use he made of them. The withering condemnation of Jesus falls upon Dives, not because of his wealth, but because of his stupid failure to employ it righteously. Stewardship is a real fact of life, it constitutes its glory if appreciated, it causes its ruin if we are blind to its meaning and value. A man may flatter himself that he is free from the vices of humanity. What a pity he fails to discern the significance of Christ: "I was an hungered and ye gave me no meat." "Depart ye cursed," not because of profanity, or theft, or lust. There was no appreciation of the stewardship of the goods of life, of the sympathy of life, of the beauty of life, and he found no place in heaven.

Contrasts in Life.

"What a striking contrast men present in their use of life's resources and life's treasures! Felix debases himself, degrades his companions, and converts life into a hell. Paul ennobles society, enriches human thought, and saves the wohld. The ineradicable difference between these two men is not due to mental attainments, nor temperamental attitudes, but solely to their deep anl vital regard for Jesus Christ. Selfishness and conceit are inevitable where men are divorced from God. If the Almighty is a pigmy in our thought and our affections, the will is linked to no mighty moral force, the emotions experience no spiritual impulse, the imagination knows no cleansing from eternity. We have shut ourselves off from eternal life. We cannot inherit it from our parents, we will not receive it from God. We have doomed ourselves to a selfishness that is destructive and a use of life's materials that God cannot approve."

Dr. Hoffman's theme for tomorrow will be "An Amazing Word." The special music will be given by a quartet; Mrs. Mark Baldwin, soprano; Mrs. James F. Walsh, contralto; Dr. F. A. Amundson, tenor, and Robert Drummond, bass.

Superior

J. R. HILE VS. JOE KONKEL

Socialist Comes Second in Superior's Mayoralty Primary Election.

Commissioner O'Hare Receives Largest Vote; Gillette His Opponent.

James R. Hile will be Mayor J. S. Konkel's opponent for the executive office of Superior on April 7, as a result of the recall primary election held in that city yesterday. He outran all of his opponents for the nomination, being nearly 500 votes ahead of E. T. Harris, Socialist, his nearest opponent.

Charles N. O'Hare, running for reelection, his term being about to expire, received 1,700 votes, 699 votes ahead of his nearest opponent, A. D. S. Gillette, who received 1,001 votes, while the third man, John F. Jensen, Socialist, polled 747 votes, thus giving Gillette and Jensen, combined, only forty-eight votes more than O'Hare.

Cockroaches Rats and Mice

Nothing is more disagreeable than a home infested with vermin. Destroy them with Stearns' Electric Rat and Roach Paste, the standard exterminator for thirty-five years.

It kills off rats, mice and cockroaches in a single night. Ready for use; no mixing. Does not blow away like powders.

Directions in 15 languages in every package. Two sizes: 25c and $1.00. Sold by retailers everywhere.

O'Hare and Gillette will oppose each other at the election, April 7.

The result of the vote for the mayoralty was taken as showing that a large number of Konkel supporters voted for Harris, the Socialist, believing that he would be the easiest to beat April 7. Harris also received far more votes than other Socialist candidates, which seems to bear out the theory.

The vote for commissioner: Andrews, 85; Ekstrom, 448; Gillette, 1,001; Jensen, 747; Kellogg, 305; O'Hare, 1,700.

The election was quiet and no disturbances were reported. A total of 4,206 votes was cast for mayor.

In addition to the mayor and commissioner, candidates were selected for constables, as well as supervisors in the various wards. The constable candidates nominated were James Baker, W. A. Woods, W. O. Streeter and Gust Anderson.

Will Probe Death.

A coroner's jury will be called upon to probe into the death of John A. Gustafson, who was found with a 38-caliber bullet wound in his left side Monday morning on South Tower avenue. An autopsy will be held this afternoon. Friends of the man intend to fully probe into the manner in which Gustafson met his death, many scouting the suicide idea and maintaining that he was murdered by a highwayman.

Receipts Increase.

Postoffice receipts have increased about $10,000 in the last year, according to a statement just issued by Fred S. Thompson, assistant postmaster. The receipts so far total about $85,000, compared with that of the year previous amounting to about $77,000. Ninety-eight per cent of the revenue is derived from the sale of stamps and stamped papers.

WOMEN BARRED FROM COURTROOM

Not Permitted to Hear Evidence in Gran Divorce Case.

Women will not be permitted to join the curiosity squad which has packed Judge Cant's courtroom since the inception of the Gran divorce trial.

When court adjourned shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Judge Cant stated that in view of the nature of the testimony which was being brought out, he would ask women to refrain from visiting the courtroom.

The court observed a fair sprinkling of women in the crowd of spectators yesterday and in remarking upon the subject said:

"I presume that these women are good women and want to remain good. Any good man knows that this is not a good place for any good woman. It is not a particularly good place for either men or women."

Morbidly curious men fill the court room every morning long before the court session opens. In order to hold their seats, some of the spectators remain in the courtroom through the noon hour.

UNEMPLOYED RUN DAILY NEWSPAPER.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 25.—"The Unemployed Worker," a daily paper while it lasts, was issued yesterday from the camp of "General" Morris Rose's unemployed army in this city. Rose is editor-in-chief. The paper will serve two purposes, according to the "general" and his lieutenants. It is expected to produce a revenue from street sales at 5 cents a copy, and it supplies an alibi for every member of the army accused of vagrancy. Each man in the camp is listed as an editor, reporter, printer or newsboy.

The first issues classes John D. Rockefeller, Gen. Harrison Gray Otis and a number of other wealthy men as "employes."

"ROYAL BENEFIT" FUNDS "JUGGLED."

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—Juggling of funds and other irregularities are charged to the Royal Benefit society by the state superintendent of insurance, R. M. NINE SWEDISH SOCIETIES PLAN SUMMER FESTIVAL

JACOB GRANLUND,
Vice President.

O. W. OLSON,
President.

Elaborate arrangements are under way for the midsummer festival that will be held in Lincoln park on June 24 under the auspices of the Swedish-American National league of Duluth, which represents nine Swedish societies of the city. So far only preliminary arrangements have been made, but details will be determined upon soon.

This is an annual event, being an Americanization of the celebration of midsummer day as observed in Sweden. It is one of the important holidays of the yearly calendar in the home land, and the sons and daughters of Sweden in this country keep up its observance here.

Instead of a huge marching parade such as has been the custom in past years, this year the opening affair will take the form of an auto parade, with boys and girls attired in national costumes. Many prominent speakers will be engaged to take part in the program, and an unusually fine program of music will be given. Following are the officers of the league:

O. W. Olson, president; Jacob Granlund, vice president; J. O. Larson, secretary, and Charles Bostrom, treasurer.

The committees named by the various orders embraced by the league are as follows:

Vasa Order No. 170—C. E. Johnson, O. W. Olson, Jacob Granlund, J. O. Larson and Swenti Carlson.

Svea Glee Club—S. G. Peterson, Dr. Peterson, Albert Melander, Gust Westman and John Ek.

S. H. & E. F.—Charles Bostrom, Carl Hogstrom, Richard Hogstrom, Charles Edgren and Rudolph Lindquist.

Vasa Order No. 255—F. A. Thorwall, John Brander, H. A. Nelson, C. A. Carlson and Charles Jackson.

I. O. G. F. No. 11—C. G. Carlson, Gust Hjerpe, Ed Sundquist, Viken Isakson and Elof Stromback.

Vasa Order No. 243—N. H. Henrickson, Gottfred Johnson, Gust Enquist and Peter Ruse.

Zenith City Band—John E. Hanson, H. E. Magnuson, Ernest Mandelholm, John Johnson and Charles Westrom.

Program—C. E. Johnson, chairman; H. A. Nelson, Dr. Peterson, Charles Edgren and H. E. Magnusson.

WILL TRY TO PROVE MURDER

Odd Fellows of Superior Will Probe Death Mystery.

John A. Gustafson, who was found early yesterday morning near the South Shore tracks on Tower avenue, with a bullet wound in his left side, may have been murdered by a highwayman, according to the theory being advanced by his friends. It is stoutly mantained that Gustafson never carried a revolver and that he had been in good spirits Sunday and Monday.

Members of the Odd Fellows lodge of Superior, of which he was a member, intend to make a thorough investigation of the matter. The police scout the murder theory and say that Gustafson committed suicide. Coroner Downs, also, holds to the theory of the police.

Gustafson made his home for the last six years with Mr. and Mrs. A. Heglund, 2709 West Second street. He was known among his friend to be very thrifty and according to statements made by Mrs. Heglund was very regular in his habits, seldom staying out after 9 o'clock in the evening. He is known to have had plenty of money with nearly $3,000 on deposit of which about $1,000 is in a St. Paul bank while the other amounts are in Duluth and Superior banks. In addition to $27 found on his person there was also found $20 in his room.

"When Mr. Gustafson left Monday morning he was apparently in the best of spirits," said Mrs. A. Heglund this morning. "I do not believe that he killed himself. He was never known to have a revolver."

Gustafson lived in Duluth about twenty years. His only known relatives is a sister living in Sweden.

Setterlund Funeral.

The funeral of Carl, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Setterlund, 2313 West Eleventh street, who died Monday evening, was held this afternoon from the family residence. Burial was made in the Lutheran cemetery.

PUPILS IN CANTATA.

Lincoln School Will Raise Fund for New Piano.

Sixty children representing the best singers in the Lincoln school will present the cantata, "A Dream of Fairyland," at the St. Jean Baptiste school hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, Friday evening. The proceeds will be used to make the final payments on a piano which the pupils have purchased for the institution.

Some time ago the children and faculty decided that the school should have two pianos, one for each of the floors. By giving minor entertainments at the school, part of the cost has been raised and paid on the instrument. The cantata to be given Friday night is the biggest venture that the pupils have attempted and since the mid-winter holdays they have been practicing and rehearsing their parts.

There will be two choruses, one composed of boys and the other of girls. All of the costumes to be worn by them have been designed and made by the children in the domestic science department. A feature of the entertainment will be the presentation of twenty of the children dressed as brownies and a like number in stripes.

The leading parts will be taken by Marion Barton and Ruby Deatheridge, girls of the eighth grade. Little Miss Ruth Carlson, a student of the eighth grade, will play the piano accompaniment for the entire cantata.

Miss Ensign, principal of the school, assisted by Miss Mae Malone, Miss Bertha Byington, Miss Leona Monaghan and Miss Pearl Elevitch, teachers in the school have been directing the rehearsals.

SENATE WILL WORK ALONE

Will Not Wait for House Action on Anti-Trust Bills.

Ignore Revision of Proposed Trade Commission Measure.

Washington, March 25.—That trust legislation long under consideration by committees in both branches of congress will be considered in the senate independently of house action was practically assured after a meeting of the senate interstate commerce committee. The committee is drafting a single bill to embrace all features of proposed regulations to supplement the Sherman law.

It is probable, according to senators particularly interested in the pending legislation, that the senate will take up the subject for general debate before the house committees have completed the bills upon which they have been engaged. Senator Newlands, chairman of the senate committee, said that no part of the proposed legislation would be reported from the committee until all features have been embodied into one bill, and he predicted that this measures would not require extended debate in the senate.

Ignore House Bill.

Ignoring the revised house bill to create an interstate trade commission, the senate interstate commerce committee has prepared, as the keynote section of the proposed anti-trust bill, a measure which differs from the house measure. It proposes a commission of five instead of three members and would extend to the commission more authority than does the house bill.

For one thing, members of the senate committee insist that the committee should have authority to inquire of its own initiative into alleged violations by corporations of the anti-trust laws instead of awaiting directions from the president, attorney general or either house of congress, as provided in the house bill.

The senate sub-committee renewed consideration yesterday of the evils of holding companies and language to be incorporated in the anti-trust bill which would prohibit forms of holding companies held to be injurious. This, it was said, would differ materially from the separate bill to regulate holding companies recently introduced in the house.

Other Features.

Other features of the senate bill will include provisions prohibiting certain forms of interlocking directorates and to regulate the issuance of railroad securities.

Hearings on the anti-trust bills will be reopened Thursday by the house judiciary committee to allow William H. Ingersoll of New Jersey, a watchmaker, to discuss price fixing. No other witnesses will be heard.

HAWAII NEAR WATER FAMINE.

Honolulu, March 25.—After two extremely dry years, Honolulu in particular and the whole group of Hawaiian islands in general, are threatened with the severest water famine the territory has ever known. Unless heavy rains fall soon—and the records of past years do not indicate them at this season—loss to planters and much domestic inconvenience are certain.

No unusual restrictions have been imposed on domestic consumption thus far, but if the shortage continues, irrigation privileges will have to be suspended in certain districts soon.

MITCHEL'S POLICE BILL IS BEATEN.

Albany, N. Y., March 25.—The New York police bill has been defeated in the assembly by a vote of 94 to 49. The bill was designed to increase the power of the New York city police commissioner. The measure was introduced at the request of Mayor Mitchel after he had asked Col. George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama canal, to accept the police commissionership, and the colonel had replied he could not consider the office unless given wider authority than is allowed at present. Col. Goethals said that the commissioner's decision in matters of police discipline had not been final. At present a police officer who has been discharged or disciplined may take his case to the civil courts for review.

PRESBYTERIANS SUSPEND PASTOR.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 25.—Rev. John R. Ellis, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Bloomington, Ind., has been found guilty and suspended as a minister of the church in the United States by a commission of the Indiana presbytery, it is announced. The charges against Mr. Ellis concerned a number of women of Bloomington. The names of the women and the exact nature of the charges were not made public.

In the verdict the commission recommended that Mr. Ellis spend a year in recuperation out of doors, indicating that the commission was of the opinion that Mr. Ellis was guilty of only such conduct as might be caused by a nervous and mental collapse.

After the charges were filed against him, Mr. Ellis resigned as pastor at Bloomington and spent several weeks in a New York sanitarium. He denied the charges.

It was said Mr. Ellis would appeal to the synod.

Seek Montana Land.

Lewiston, Mont., March 25.—A rush for land in Musselshell county is on, homesteaders camping all night before the doors of the land office. A tract has been thrown open under the 320-acre homestead laws.

Woman's Realm

The "request" program of the Matinee Musicale was given last evening at the First Methodist church. The program was a fitting conclusion of the Matinee Musicale season. It was composed of numbers given at regular meetings of the club that members asked to have repeated. It was impossible to give all the numbers that interested members asked for, but the committee in charge chose the most popular ones and those that would go well together in a program.

Perhaps the musician who is most in the minds of the audience today is Mrs. Jay Frederick Finkelson, whose name was down on the program as Miss Valborg Gunderson. It was only about an hour before the recital began that Miss Gunderson had became Mrs. Finkelson. Mrs. Finkelson's violin number was Wieniawski's "Souvenir de Moscow." She was accompanied by Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury.

Miss Mary Bradshaw's voice was heard at its best in "Spring," that song being the most suitable to her notes. "Sehnsucht" was enthusiastically received. In fact, all Miss Bradshaw's selections charmed her hearers. Among her numbers was a group of three by Sidney Homer—"Requiem," the words of which are those of Robert Louis Stevenson; "Dearest," dedicated to the composer's wife, Louise Homer, and a "Banjo Song." Miss Carlotta Simonds accompanied Miss Bradshaw.

The Mabel Daniels songs that have attracted so much attention in the musical world lately were given by Miss Mary Gladys Reynolds, Miss Florence Hyland, Mrs. Mark Baldwin, Miss Perlina Allen, Mrs. O. J. Larson and Mrs. J. C. Currie, the accompaniment being played by Miss Valborg Gunderson (Mrs. Finkelson), Miss Emily Smith and Miss Isabel Pearson.

Miss Faith Helen Rogers delighted all with her finished production of a concerto by Grieg. She was assisted at the second piano by Mrs. D. H. Day and at the organ by Miss Isabel Pearson.

The program was arranged by Mrs. G. Herbert Jones and Miss Barbara Rupley.

PLAYED IN PUBLIC ONE HOUR AFTER HER WEDDING

MRS. JAY F. FINKELSON.

JAY FREDERICK FINKELSON.

The first number of the program of the "request" program at the First Methodist church last night was scheduled like this:

"Souvenir de Moscow" ..... Wieniawski
Miss Valborg Gunderson, accompanied by Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury.

That would have been correct an hour before the concert began, but when the program opened, it was incorrect. Not a soul except the performer and one other in the auditorium of the church was aware of the error, and they were not saying a word.

The explanation is simple. The concert began at 8:15 o'clock, but at 7:30 Miss Gunderson became Mrs. Jay Frederick Finkelson.

Monday night the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gunderson of 1611 East Fourth street, announced, through the Herald, the engagement of their daughter and Mr. Finkelson, and very few knew that the marriage was to follow so quickly. At 7:30 last evening, at the parsonage of Rev. J. H. Stenberg of the First Norwegian Lutheran church, the ceremony took place in the presence of only immediate friends. Miss Gunda Gunderson, sister of the bride, was her attendant, and Palmer Harbison was groomsman. Then Mr. and Mrs. Finkelson went to the First Methodist church, where the bride was on the program. She played her parts, and then with her husband departed for a wedding trip. In a short time they will be at home to their friends at 613 East Third street.

The wedding will come as a very great surprise to the friends of both. Mrs. Finkelson has made for herself an enviable reputation in the musical circles of the city, and is recognized as one of the leading violinists of the state. Mr. Finkelson is prominent in a business way and is manager of the Postal office in the Board of Trade.

At the business meeting that followed the banquet reports were given by the secretary, treasurer and chairmen of various committees of the society. The following officers were elected: President, Arden Sheperdson; first vice president, Gertrude Hegardt; second vice president, Louis E. Wade; third vice president, Gordon Hegardt; secretary, Martha Ostby; treasurer, Harold Wieland, and reporter, Thomas Beatty.

MODERN DANCES.

Miss Stoughton Will Appear at Social Center.

There will be an open meeting at Lakeside Social center this evening at 8 o'clock. The following program will be given:

Several selections were read from "Gitanjali," his book best known to English readers.

At the close of the literary program Mrs. J. H. Crowley was prevailed upon to serve again as chairman of the department of education for the coming year.

The only obstacle in the way of beginning the work will have been removed as soon as a suitable nurse deaconess can be obtained to take charge of the enterprise. A visiting nurse will also be installed.

The officers of the northern conference met the women of the city yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to discuss plans. The visitors, all from Minneapolis, were: Mrs. H. G. Leonard, conference president; Mrs. J. A. Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. F. Safford, treasurer.

Officers were elected to serve until the annual meeting and election July 7. They are: Mrs. J. C. Swan, president of the new corporation; Mrs. M. C. Burns, first vice president; Miss Mabel Franklin, recording secretary; A. C. Barthe, financial secretary; and J. T. Melvin, treasurer.

At the next meeting to be held Tuesday, April 7, new opportunities under the new organization will be outlined.

There were two piano solos, "Die Sorelle" (Schubert), by Miss Dora Williams, and "Magic Fire Scenes From Die Walkuhre" (Wagner-Drassin), by Miss Bernice Haverty. Miss Edna Cargill's reading of "Prior to Miss Belle's Appearance" called for an encore, which also was well received. Miss Jess McGhie was heard in a vocal solo, "Mother Macree," which called for an encore. Miss Esther Larson's rich contralto voice was heard in "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "An Irish Lullaby." A very comprehensive paper on "The Early Colonization of the Irish in America" was read by Mrs. Hugh Brown. The current events were very well selected and read by Miss Mae Maloney.

Rt. Rev. Bishop McGolrick talked to the club about home rule in Ireland. Mr. Murphy of Boston gave a short talk on the Irish in general and said that this club was better than any he had seen in the East.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Woman Overdo Their Attention to Pet Animals.

A noted divine recently remarked: "It would be to the credit of women to foster childhood instead of dogs. The noblest thing that a man or woman can do when they have no children of their own is to take charge of a child and train it up." In view of the care, time and money that is lavished on pet poodles, cats, canary birds and other household pets, it would do well for some of these folks to take these remarks to heart.

I do not say this to deride or undervalue the influence of pet animals in the home. I have always a deal more confidence in the man, woman or child who has a love for dumb animals and to whom animals attach themselves, than I have for those who show no affection for God's dumb creatures, and to whom the animals are not attracted.

But some women overdo their attention to pet animals. A dog or cat is often treated with far more consideration than falls to the lot of the average child. I have heard women say that they could not think more of a cat or a dog if it was a child, and I have sometimes believed that they spoke the truth. Cats and dogs are not useless, to be sure, but they are very nearly so, compared with the possibilities that lie either alive or dormant in every human being.

When a man and woman have no children of their own and have means that will permit them to care for another life, it ought almost to be compulsory for them to take an interest in the upbringing of the orphaned and unfortunate children. If you are married and have none of your own, or if you are single and have the means to do for some child, there is no greater service that you can render mankind than the one of helping some unfortunate child to at least a part of his birthright.

Some childless people have intimated that the only thing that restrains them from adopting a child is the fear of hereditary taint. It must be a cruelly disappointing thing to give some alien the love and care that would have been lavished on your own and have him turn out to be an ingrate and worse.

But I wonder is the serpent's tooth less sharp and penetrating when your own flesh and blood prove unworthy. And, after all, in the case of any child that needs a home and good influences to give him the opportunity of becoming a man, if you furnish these in good faith and feel a responsibility for him until he is able to take care of himself, you have done all that should be expected of you. Such an act upon your part will weigh heavily in the balance against your shortcomings through eternity.

Amusement Notes.

The ever popular "Mutt and Jeff" production will open at the Lyceum this evening. This year the adventures of the two comic cartoon heroes are laid in Panama, and the production is said to be new throughout.

* * *

The offering at the Lyceum theater on Friday and Saturday, March 27 and 28, will be "The Quaker Girl," one of last season's musical successes in New York city. The company is headed by Victor Morley, who was featured in the leading comedy part last season, and who will be remembered by local theater-goers as featured comedian with the orginal production of "The Three Twins." Other prominent names in this season's cast are Harry Macdonough, Jr., Bernice McCabe, Dixie Girard, Connie Mack, William Blaisdell, Murray Stephen, Carol Parson, Phil J. Moore and Harry Sinclair, all of whom have been identified with "The Quaker Girl" since its initial performance at the Park theater, Manhattan.

The story of the play briefly is: Princess Mathilde, an exiled Bonapartist princess, has fled with her maid, Phoebe, to an English country place, settled largely by Quakers, and has taken up temporary refuge at an inn called "The Chequers." There she makes the acquaintance of Prudence, a pretty Quakeress, and the girls become warm friends. Tony Chute, naval attache at the American embassy in Paris, happens by the village, and the moment he sets eyes on Prudence, realizes that there is not so much in bachelorhood as he had been inclined to believe. Tony, however, is something of a sportive creature, and the prim little Quaker maiden, though she evidences no visible distaste for him, feels somehow backward in becoming too friendly with the too gay young man.

Capt. Charterls, king's messenger, traces the princess to the village and urged her to retire to Paris. Mathilde suggests to Prudence that a little bit of Paris might educate her.

The Quaker girl is next seen as one of the attendants at the fashionable modiste establishment of Mme. Blum, in the house of the Moulin Rouge. The princess, to hide her identity, also obtains employment with Mme. Blum. Here many complications ensue.

The principal songs are entitled "A Quaker Girl," "The Bad Boy and the Good Girl," "Come to the Ball," "Barbison," and "Tony From America."

SEIDEL AND BADING WIN IN MILWAUKEE

fent before Congressman Charles H. Burke, the minority candidate, who was nominated for United States senator in yesterday's state-wide primary election, according to incomplete returns today.

Congressman Dillon, latest reports indicate, was renominated over his minority opponent, Richard Wood, in the First congressional district. Both Attorney General Johnson and Frank McNulty are claiming the nomination in the Second district. Judge W. G. Rice probably has received the congressional nomination in the Third district.

Byrne in the Lead.

Although the minority Republicans do not concede the defeat of their candidate for governor, H. B. Anderson, returns indicate the renomination of Governor Byrne, the majority state ticket leader. P. O. Richards, the independent Republican candidate for governor, polled a surprisingly large vote.

Straggling reports from the country districts early today increased the lead obtained by Congressman Burke in the large towns of the state, and his campaign managers placed his lead over Senator Crawford at more than 10,000. Burke polled a heavy vote in the western part of the state, and made surprising gains in territory which six years ago was swept by Senator Crawford.

A severe storm throughout the state delayed returns, but it is not believed that belated reports will change the general situation.

The Democratic slate, as agreed upon at a party conference, was nominated without contests, E. S. Johnson of Yankton being the candidate for United States senator.

Kenosha Nominees.

Kenosha, Wis., March 25.—Complete returns from the primary election yesterday indicate the nomination of M. J. Scholey and Dr. William M. Farr for mayor.

Gallivan Wins in Boston.

Boston, Mass., March 25.—James A. Gallivan, former street commissioner, won the Democratic congressional nomination in the Twelfth district primaries, in a six-cornered contest. He will be opposed by James B. Connolly, unopposed in the primary. The election will be held April 7 to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of James M. Curley after his election as mayor.

Four After Bremner's Seat.

Paterson, N. J., March 25.—The nomination of four candidates for the seat in congress left vacant by the death of Representative Robert G. Bremner, Democrat of the Seventh New Jersey district, opens here the first political campaign involving national issues that has been waged since the enactment of the new tariff bill and the other important Federal legislation under the Wilson administration.

The result of the election on April 7 is awaited as the first indication by ballot of how these changes suit the American voter. Four parties, Republican, Democratic, Progressive and Socialist, nominated candidates yesterday.

At yesterday's primaries the Republicans divided nearly 9,000 votes among eleven candidates and chose Dow H. Drukker by a plurality of 1,203 over the nearest candidate. The Democrats selected James J. O'Byrne, secretary to United States Senator Hughes, by 438 plurality. The total Democratic vote was 4,500, divided among five candidates. The Progressives polled 400 votes and the Socialists 700, but each of these parties put up only one candidate.

all on my own account, and correct an impression that a part of your press seems to have about the attitude of the United States government concerning the investment of your colossal earnings in states of Central America that have volcanic tendencies? I sometimes read that the United States is entering upon a policy to discourage foreign investments there. That is untrue. I think that some events are happening there that have discouraged them somewhat, but I hope that they cannot be charged to the United States.

"There is a policy forming in the minds of our government and our people which is not new that would discourage such investments or such concessions as would carry with them the control of the government of any of those states, and only such; for so far as the United States is concerned, you know how heartily we have welcomed your investments in our land and still welcome them and always will.

None of America's Business.

"You may be assured that it is none of the business of the United States to put any let or hindrance upon any legitimate investments of yours anywhere in the world, and they most heartily welcome your investments in any part of the Americas, provided only you do not make them so that you may possibly take the country with them.

"The Monroe doctrine meant this when it was first formulated: That the United States would object to any European governments taking more land in the New World. In those days the only way that a foreign government could gain land was literally to go and take it. Now we have more refined methods of exploitation, and there are other ways to take it. That is the only protest that the United States has ever whispered.

"You will, I am sure, understand why the United States prefers that no land in the New World should be acquired in these new subtle ways. Would you do us the kindness clearly to understand that and possibly to correct the misimpression that has gone abroad?"

astounded the country, and in the opinion of seasoned politicians demanded one of two courses—the cashiering of the secretary for war, or the resignation of the entire cabinet. The first course was decided on at a protracted cabinet council early this morning. Later in the day, in the house of commons, Premier Asquith, in reply to a question, made it clear that the instructions given to Gen. Sir Arthur Paget before his interview with the officers under him had emanated directly from the war office, and were not submitted to the prime minister by the secretary of war.

Guarantee to Officers.

Documents made public today disclose officially the fact that the British government gave officers in Ireland a written guarantee that they would not use the army to crush Ulster's present opposition to the home rule bill.

The correspondence, however, points out that the government retains its right to use the army to maintain law and order.

The orders issued by the war office in respect to the duties of the army in Ireland, chiefly in connection with the protection of government stores, arms and ammunition, are given very completely. The correspondence, however, omits the verbal communication made by Sir Arthur Paget to the officers at the Curragh camp, which led to their resignations and which the government argues was the result of a "misunderstanding."

Law's Version Seems Right.

That the version of Gen. Paget's communication read by Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, in the house of commons on Monday, was substantially correct, seems clearly indicated. Mr. Law on that occasion read a letter in which Gen. Paget stated that "active operations were to begin against Ulster, and that it was expected the country would be in a blaze by Saturday." The Irish commander-in-chief wrote that he was in close communication with the war office, and had received instructions from headquarters to notify his officers that those of them domiciled in Ulster would be allowed to disappear and be afterward reinstated. They must, however, give their word of honor not to fight for Ulster.

In the published correspondence, Brig.-Gen. Hubert Gough underlines phrases such as "active operations," when asking for further information, and it appears evident that he was quoting the remarks of Gen. Paget.

Say King Did It.

The Unionist morning papers fully admit that it was the king's influence which obtained the reinstatement of Gen. Gough and the other officers. They express great indignation at the attack of the Laborites on the army and king, and say the labor men are under a misapprehension in supposing that the officers were so ready to fire on strikers.

According to the Daily News' Dublin correspondent, Gen. Gough obtained a written guarantee only after a tenacious struggle and a stormy interview in which Field Marshal Sir John French severely criticized the action of Gough and his fellow officers, as meriting the severest punishment. Then Field Marshal Lord Roberts intervened and restored a calmer atmosphere.

Determined efforts were made at first to get Gen. Gough to accept a verbal guarantee. These failing, a long document, couched in intricate legal phraseology, was presented. Gen. Gough objected, saying they were plain soldiers and could not understand legal terms. He then wrote: "Do we understand that we are not to be asked to bear arms against Ulster or to enforce the present home rule bill and we can return and tell our officers so?"

Copies were then made in legal form for Gen. Gough and the other officers.

The same correspondent asserts that heavy siege guns were ordered to Ulster, but the orders were suddenly countermanded "and the lamentable attempt to dragoon Ulster collapsed completely."

Officers "Susceptible."

The Daily Citizen, a labor organ, today openly ascribes the crisis to the interference of the king and the court, and says:

"The king has interfered. He has been interfering all through for months. The court has been a conservative committee in the activities of which titled women have been playing a leading part, headed by Lady Londonderry; and whoever knows an army officer knows his susceptibility to feminine influence. Fortunately distinguished officers like Field Marshal French and Gen. Paget have no part in the conspiracy and can be relied upon to do a soldier's duty, should the necessity arise.

"The Citizen" yesterday hinted that Lady Londonderry had actually visited the Curragh camp to influence the officers.

The Times says that evidence is accumulating to confirm the reports that the government's intended coup d'etat in Ulster was on a larger scale than the public is yet aware, and that a large fleet was ordered to support the military movement, the order being countermanded only when the Curragh officers refused to serve.

In an editorial the Times acquits Premier Asquith and "his more responsible colleagues" of any effective share "either in the conception or the mishandling of the Ulster plot."

Commons Hear Explanation.

The mutiny of a section of the officers of the British regular army in Ireland when they believed they were to be ordered to fight the Ulster men was again before parliament today.

The correspondence between the war office and the army officers in Ireland which led to the recent wholesale resignations and reinstatements was made public in the shape of a "white paper," or official communication to the houses of parliament.

It can be seen from this correspondence that the war office was informed early in December of the possibility of resignations of officers in case the Ulster situation came to a crisis. In consequence of this information, Col. John Seely, the secretary of state for war, interviewed the general officers in command, and explained to them that an officer of the British army was compelled to obey orders to shoot "only in case the order was a reasonable one under the circumstances."

Refusal to Obey Justified.

The secretary for war told them that no one, from a general down to a private, was expected to use more force than was required to maintain order and the safety of life and property. He continued:

"If, therefore, officers and men of the British army have been led to believe that there is a possibility that they might be called upon to take outrageous action—for instance, to massacre a demonstration of Orangemen who are causing no danger to the lives of their neighbors—bad as would be the effects on discipline in the army, nevertheless it is true that they are in fact and in law justified in a refusal to obey.

"There never has been and is not now any intention, however, of giving outrageous and illegal orders to the troops.

Support Civil Power.

"The law will be respected and must be obeyed. What must now be faced is the possibility of action being required by troops in supporting the civil power in protecting lives and property when the police is unable to hold its own.

"Attempts have been made to dissuade the troops from obeying lawful orders given to them when acting in support of the civil power. These attempts have amounted to the claim that officers and men of the army could pick and choose between lawful and reasonable orders, saying they would obey in one case and not in another."

Declaring that there had not been a single case of lack of discipline in this respect in the British army, Col. Seely says:

"At the same time, as views and statements uttered in the press and elsewhere made my position clear, I informed the general officers that I would hold each of them individually responsible to see that there was no conduct in their commands subversive to discipline. I told them they could let it be clearly understood that any such conduct would be dealt with under the king's regulations.

If Any Resigned.

"If any army officer should tender his resignation, I told the generals that they should ask for his reasons, and if he indicated that he desired to choose which order he would obey I would submit to the king that the officer should be removed from the army."

This document was followed by a letter dated March 14, from the war office to Gen. Sir Arthur Paget, commander-in-chief in Ireland, in which Sir Arthur was informed:

"In consequence of reports received by the government that attempts may be made in various parts of Ireland by evil-disposed persons to obtain possession of arms and ammunition and other government stores, it is considered advisable that you should at once take special precautions for safeguarding the depots and other places where arms and stores are kept, as you may think advisable.

"It appears that Armagh, Omagh, Carrickfergus and Enniskillen are insufficiently guarded, being specially liable to attack."

Keep Stores Guarded.

Orders also were given to the officers in command of barracks where arms and ammunition were stored or located, that they would be held responsible for the safety of that property and that such places never should be left unguarded. It is pointed out that this order referred to the whole of Ireland.

Gen. Paget telegraphed to the war office on March 20 that all the officers of the Fifth Royal Irish Lancers stationed in Dublin had resigned, with the exception of two. He said he feared that the same conditions prevailed among the officers of the Sixteenth Queen's Lancers stationed at the Curragh, and that the men would refuse to move.

That same evening Gen. Paget telegraphed to the war office that the brigadier general and fifty-seven officers of the Third cavalry brigade at the Curragh "prefer to accept dismissal if they are ordered to the North." The war office replied to Gen. Paget: "You are authorized to suspend from duty any senior officers who have tendered their resignations or in any other manner have disputed your authority. The resignations of all officers should be refused."

Gough Ordered to London.

The war office also said that other officers were being sent to relieve Brig.-Gen. Hubert Gough, commander of the Third cavalry brigade, and the commanding officers of the Fifth and the Sixteenth Lancers, who were ordered to proceed to London.

Brig.-Gen. Hubert Gough, in reporting the feeling in his brigade—as the result of a communication from the war office conveyed to him verbally by Gen. Sir Arthur Paget—said:

"The officers of my brigade are unanimous in the opinion that further information is essential before they should be called upon at such short notice to take decision so vitally affecting their whole future, and especially that a clear definition should be given of the terms 'duty as ordered' and 'active operations' in Ulster.

"If such duty consists of the maintenance of order and preservation of property, all the officers, including myself, are prepared to carry out that duty. If, however, the duty involves the initiation of active military operations against Ulster, the following officers would respectfully and under protest prefer to resign."

Fifty-Six Resigned.

The names of fifty-six officers of the Third cavalry brigade follow.

After an interview with Col. Seely, Brig.-Gen. Hubert Gough wrote to the war office:

"One of the first questions asked by our officers will be: 'In the event of the present home rule bill becoming law, can we be called upon to enforce it on Ulster under the expression of maintaining law and order?' This point should be made quite clear. Otherwise there will be renewed misconceptions."

In reply to this, Brig. Gen. Gough was given a letter initialed by Col. Seely as secretary for war and by Field Marshal Sir John French, in which he was authorized to inform the officers as follows:

"The army council is satisfied that the incident which has arisen in regard to their resignations was due to a misunderstanding."

Council Is Glad.

The letter continues that it is the duty of soldiers to obey commands for the protection of life and property, and in support of the civil power in the event of disturbance, and the army council is glad there never has been and never will be any question of disobeying such orders. It continues:

"The government must retain its right to use all the forces of the crown in Ireland, or elsewhere, to maintain order and support the civil power in the ordinary execution of their duty, but it has no intention whatever of taking advantage of this right in order to crush political opposition to the policy or the principles of the home rule bill."

Bemidji Mill to Start.

Bemidji, Minn., March 25.—The big Crookston sawmill which has been at rest during the winter months will open for the summer sawing next Monday morning and will continue with a full day and night crew until the ice next winter prohibits the work. The work of cutting an ice channel from the dock to the mill has been completed. The mill will employ about 450 men during the sawing season.

HOW THE BRITISH TROOPS ARE PLACED IN IRELAND

KING GEORGE V.

Civil war in Ireland, predicted and feared for many years by those who have followed the fight for home rule, seemed imminent when, in the latter part of last week, the British government ordered several thousand troops of the regular army into Ulster. As shown by the map, government troops numbering nearly 25,000 men are stationed at the towns marked with a star. Belfast Lough is guarded on both sides, as that city is the center of the predicted outbreak. Two warships already are anchored in the lough. Although all of Ulster is generally regarded as opposed to the home rule bill now framed, the really active opposition is coming from only four counties—Londonderry, Antrim, Down and Armagh. Belfast, an independent organization, is the center of the anti-home rule feeling, and it is there that Sir George Edward Carson, leader of the Unionists and opposed to home rule, has established his headquarters. The crisis has seemed so imminent that King George himself has taken a personal and active part in seeking to avoid a serious revolution in Ireland.

to waste what doubtless was valuable time. They were walking with the president in the Chapultepec grounds when the American charge d'affaires drove by. The president recognized his car, and remembering that there was something that he wanted to talk to the American representative about, signalled him to stop. O'Shaughnessy alighted, joined the official group and was preparing to continue his drive when the president asked him to get into his car with him. The two drove off together, leaving Ministers Blanquet, Alcocer and other counselors of the president staring after the car. Half an hour later Huerta set O'Shaughnessy down near his own car and resumed the interrupted cabinet meeting.

Meetings at Midnight.

It is not uncommon for the president to summon his ministers to a meeting during the middle of the night and cabinet meetings, or what would pass for cabinet meetings, have taken place in cafes.

Huerta does not indulge in physical exercise as a means of recreation. He derives his recreation in talking astronomy with anyone who can interest him in the subject—and the man who does must be an expert—or in dining and visiting with his intimate friends. The time he retires appears a matter of indifference, as does his arising in the morning. Usually he is up early. The lightest kind of breakfast, coffee and rolls, he gets as soon as he is awake. A little work, if he thinks of anything to do, and then almost every morning a walk up and down on the sidewalk in front of his house in the district known as San Rafael. After that more breakfast and then a lot of work. He may go to the Chapultepec woods or to the National palace but it is just as likely he will do his morning's work at his home, summoning to him there all who may have business with him. Without much routine, and with executive mastery shoving all he can onto his subordinates, he ploughs through the day's work until 7 or 8 o'clock when he is ready for dinner.

Dines Where He Pleases.

Dinner may be in his own home or in that of one of his friends—Huerta's ideas of democracy do not prevent him from dining where he pleases—very likely in one of the public restaurants. There is one central restaurant that has received the greater part of his patronage. Here the entrance of the president accompanied by one or two of his aides, perhaps a personal friend or two and possibly a member of his family, has long since ceased to be a novelty. In the days of Porfirio Diaz the visiting of a public dining place was something of a state ceremony. His coming and his going was carefully staged and those privileged to witness it were reckoned among the fortunate. To the music of the national hymn he entered and retired while all others stood. A restaurant keeper would have felt himself justified in raising the prices on his menu if Diaz had happened to "drop in."

But Huerta is conducting a democratic regime. He likes to dine in public and he does not like formalities. He marches in with no apparent concern, selects a table and orders his dinner. The orchiestra does not interrupt the piece it is playing merely because the president is entering and the other diners, grown accustomed to being co-patrons with the president, do little more than crane their necks to see who it is dining tonight with Huerta.

Klondike Election Contest.

Brainerd, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. C. Anderson has contested the election of William Syreen as assesor of Klondike township. Although assessors generally are elected only in odd numbered years, Mr. Syreen was elected in 1913 and served it is claimed, and an election, if held in 1914, had little value.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Agent, Wirth's Red Cross Drug store, 13 West Superior street.

Nature Built Health

Strong Drugs Work While You Sleep—
Later, They Prevent Your Working While Awake

Health is such a condition of the vital organs that their presence is never felt in the human body. Soon as you feel the presence of lung, heart, kidney, liver, stomach and bowels, be sure that the organs felt are in distress. This is a sign of nature's warning, for you to beware. Most of us come into this world healthy, but because of ignorance, carelessness or abuse, few remain so. Disease comes like a thief in the night. Then you remember the time when your stomach was strong, your bowels were regular and you felt hale and hearty. Your bowels became irregular, then they were coaxed with gentle laxatives. They became more irregular, then stronger drugs had to be used. Little later headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness and stomach unrest appeared. Thus the conditions went on from bad to worse with the following diseases appearing: Backache, torpid liver, muddy complexion, discolored eyes, dizziness, dyspepsia, indigestion, palpitation of the heart, chronic coughs, acid stomach, gas pressure and coated tongue. Little later catarrhal inflammation of nose, throat, stomach and bowels develops and leaves destruction in the wake of their course such as gallstones, appendicitis, cysts and tumors. All these grave diseases come from poison in the blood caused originally by imperfect waste elimination. You used drugs right from the start and they did not stop the little ailments; will they now cure the full grown disease?

No. Why then not listen to God's laws in Nature, where there is a cure for all diseases. Electro Medical Doctors are students of that law which will cure, where unnatural drugs will only make you worse. Do you suffer? Learn free of charge that you can get well. Office hours, 9 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 1.

PARK WORK IS OUTLINED

Mayor Prince Has a Heavy Schedule for Coming Season.

Includes Surfacing, Driveway Construction, and the Planting of Trees.

Mayor W. I. Prince has outlined an ambitious program of park improvements for the coming season. The schedule is a heavy one, and indicates that more work will be done this year than for several seasons past. The purpose of the mayor is to make the parks as attractive and as accessible as possible in order that they may afford pleasure to the greatest number of people.

This year's betterments will include resurfacing of roadways, the construction of comfort stations, tree and flower planting, the building of driveways and numerous repairs. All operations will be under the supervision of Henry Cleveland, manager of the park department. The program includes:

The building of an addition to the western extension of the boulevard, from Earle street to the Thomson road.

Replacing the gutter at the entrance of Congdon park.

Constructing a comfort station and laying stone steps at Chester park.

Widening the boulevard on the ledge between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues east.

Grading and planting Lake Shore park.

Overhauling the pergoda at Cascade park.

Planting and cultivating Central park and renewing paths.

Constructing comfort station and repairing stable at Lincoln park.

Restoring grades at Harrison and Merritt parks.

Constructing comfort station and fencing in right-of-way of Canadian Northern at Fairmont park.

Cultivating Mission square and renewing paths.

If it can be reached Mayor Prince will also make provision to renew the Twin Lakes on the boulevard. The dam which kept them filled was washed away a number of years ago. The lakes were one of the pretty spots along the drive. Estimates of the cost of rebuilding the dam are being prepared.

The block between Michigan and Superior streets on Eleventh avenue west and that on Fifth avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets will be beautified but most of the expense will be borne by the property owners.

INTERESTING PEOPLE WHO ARE DOING INTERESTING WORK HERE

DR. ROBERT DIXON.

Dr. Robert Dixon is the earliest riser in the employ of the city.

Not that Dr. Dixon is not fond of sleeping late but because the nature of his work makes it necessary that he should start on the job about 5 or 5:30 a. m.

He is the city veterinarian and is connected with the health department. In that capacity he tests for tuberculosis, the cows which furnish the city's milk supply. The temperatures have to be taken every few hours after the tuberculin is injected. The last temperature is taken the first day late in the afternoon and the next must be taken at 6 o'clock the next morning. So in order to be there the doctor must get an early start and the further he has to go the earlier he must arise. Asked if he couldn't shift the hours so that they would be more convenient, he explained that he would be kept out until late at night, as the temperatures must be taken a definite number of hours apart. Being as broad as it is long, he stated that he preferred to be out early in the morning.

The health department aims to test every cow in the city at least once a year. And many new cows are being added to the herds and they must be examined. All those which are found to be tubercular are condemned and killed. In this way the spread of tuberculosis through milk is prevented to a large extent. The number of cows tested each month varies, running from 100 to over 200.

Dr. Dixon entered the city's employ as veterinarian last December. He was formerly connected with the Minnesota State Livestock Sanitary board. In addition to testing cows, which is his principal work, he attends the horses owned by other city departments, most of which are in the fire department.

HEROINE FOR FIVE YEARS

Little Frances Levean Helped Support Family When 12 Years Old.

Desire for Pretty Things Finally Got the Better of Her.

One of a family of thirteen children, Frances Levean, now but 17 years old, left her home on a farm near Sturgeon Lake when but 12 years old, that she might help her father pay off the mortgage on the eighty acres. It was hard work for a father of thirteen children to feed and clothe them, and make his annual payment on the farm.

So when but a slip of a girl, Frances left the farm and went to work. There were ten payments yet to be made on the mortgage when she left home, but five older brothers and sisters also promised to aid their hard-working parents.

The three older sisters soon married and their payments stopped. The two brothers also ceased sending home money after a time, Frances says, and the work was finally left to her. She never forgot the farm, her parents and the six smaller brothers and sisters at home waiting for her little contribution each month.

For the last five years Frances has never once failed to send some money home each month. Now she declares there are but four more payments to be made on the mortgage, and the eighty acre farm will then belong to her father. And then she hoped to be able to dress a little better and perhaps save a little money for herself.

But today the young girl's plans met with a severe setback. Last evening she was arrested by the police on a charge of stealing a French plume from her employer and now she is without work and must go to the industrial home for girls, where she is to be under the care of the matron for two months.

In police court this morning Frances pleaded guilty to the charge of petit larceny and was fined $50 and costs or sixty days in the county jail. This noon Judge Cutting suspended sentence and ordered Frances taken to the industrial home, where she might receive proper instruction the next two months, instead of being sent to jail. She may be given an opportunity to work while staying at the home.

The Third regiment, which is under the command of Col. F. E. Resche of Duluth, comprises the following companies throughout the state: Companies A, C and E of Duluth, Company B of Anoka, Company D of Zumbrota, Company F of Eveleth, Company G of Princeton, Company H of Olivia, Company I of Crookston, Company K of Stillwater, Company L of Red Wing, Company M of Hibbing and the machine gun company of Rochester.

ASKS $5,092 FOR FALL.

Action Against L. S. & S. Loeb for Defective Stairway.

For injuries alleged to have been sustained in a fall down an old stairway in the Canal block, 342-344 Lake avenue south, Anton Johnson is seeking $5,092 damages from L. S. & S. Loeb company, owners of the premises. The case was brought to trial before Judge Dancer and a district court jury this morning.

On April 6, 1911, Johnson asserts that he went to the Canal block to visit Mike Rinne, a friend, who occupied rooms on the second story. In descending the stairs, he alleges, he was caused to stumble and fall, owing to the defective condition of the stairway. Both bones of his left leg were fractured below the knee.

G. A. E. Finlayson is attorney for the plaintiff and Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes are defending.

ARRESTED FOR NON-SUPPORT.

Samuel Michaelson was arrested yesterday in a lumber camp on the Alger-Smith line by Deputy Sheriff Stevens on a charge of non-support preferred against him by his wife, Sophia Michaelson.

The plaintiff claimed in her complaint that from Sept. 5 he had failed to provide for her or for their two children, Wilho, aged 3, and Impi, aged 1 year. Michaelson has been out of the city all winter and all efforts to locate him failed until he was finally discovered in the lumber camp and was yesterday brought to Duluth to answer the old charge.

Michaelson asked for a hearing when arraigned in police court this morning and the examination was set for 10 o'clock Friday morning. He is in jail.

POLK DEMOCRATS ARE HARMONIOUS

Crookston Meeting Is Love Feast, Sentiment Favoring Hammond.

Crookston, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Democratic county conference held here yesterday was a harmonious affair. There was a representative attendance from all over Polk county, East Grand Forks having the banner delegation. There was not a note of discord, eighteen delgates being elected to the state conference at St. Paul, and at the same time a strong county organization was formed, Henry O'Neill being elected county chairman.

No candidate was indorsed, but there was a strong undercurrent for Congressman Hammond for governor. P. M. Ringdal made a short address, but declined to take an astive part in shaping the gathering, giving as his excuse that he did not believe a Federal officeholder should endeavor to shape the policies of the party.

O'Brien Scents Party Victory.

State Chairman Martin O'Brien made a very earnest address, believing the conditions just right for the Democrats to sweep the state. He urged a clean campaign.

"We need throw no mud," he said, "as an abundance of entertainment of that character will be provided by the mud hurlers of the two factons of the Republican party. The time is opportune for the Democrats to rescue the state from the present spoils system, and the people will welcome the change."

The resolutions indorsed the clause in the resolutions of the recent anti-machine Republicans in Minneapolis, which censure the present state government, declare for the recall, initiative and referendum advocate a civil service system for appointive offices, a reduction of a number of the state boards, and a more businesslike administration of state affairs, and urge that the people vote on the pending amendments to the state Constitution.

The convention adjourned after a rousing address by A. C. Schmidt, who urged every Democrat to go home and work night and day to make more Democrats before the fall elections.

Marlin, Tex., March 25.—The New York National league team squad broke spring training camp here today. The team will return home in two squads, one led by Donlin and the other, the regulars, by Capt. Larry Doyle. Both will go to South Texas cities first for a series of games.

Listening to Temptation.

Chicago, March 25.—Followers of baseball were told today that Joe Weaver, shortstop of the White Sox, was considering an offer from the Chicago Federals. The dispatch said the new league had offered Weaver $30,000 for three years' service. The shortstop, it was said, already has signed a contract to play with the Sox.

WILL DISTRIBUTE MONEY

Judge Dancer of the district court has set April 18 as a date for a hearing on the matter of distributing the wrongful death fund belonging to the estate of Joe Moshe, who was killed in an accident at the Clark mine near Chisholm on Oct. 25 last.

John Sterle, administrator of his estate, has collected $1,828.80 from the Oliver Iron Mining company on a claim for wrongful death and has asked the court to make an order distributing it among the heirs. The money will be divided between a widow, Anna Moshe, 26, and her children.

HARMONICA TOO DEAR; BOUGHT A REVOLVER.

Charles Lepisto, 21 years old, went into a West Superior street pawn shop yesterday afternoon and attempted to purchase a harmonica. They were so high, that he changed his mind about buying the instrument and instead bought a revolver.

Patrolman Boland saw Lepisto with the gun and later placed him under arrest on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

In police court this morning Lepisto told Judge Cutting that he had already purchased a ticket for Floodwood and that he had purchased the revolver for use in the woods. The gun was not loaded when Lepisto was arrested, and Judge Cutting suspended sentence against the prisoner.

Washington, March 25.—Director George Otis Smith of the geological survey urged the house public lands committee today to report the administration bill for a system of leasing coal, phosphate and mineral lands in the public domain as a means of preventing private monopoly. Dr. Smith estimated that the present coal supply would be exhausted in 1,200 years.

AND STILL THEY COME!

Two more valuable organizations have indorsed the 1915 midsummer festival and pageant plan, and have appointed strong committees to cooperate with the general committee now being formed.

Last night the members of B'Nai B'Rith, a strong and influential Jewish organization, took unanimous action and appointed an excellent committee.

Before that the Y. M. C. A. had taken similar action, contributing also an exceptionally strong trio to be members of the general committee.

This makes twenty-two organizations that have indorsed the festival, representing almost every angle of public activity; and there are more yet to come.

It is not too much to say that never before in the history of Duluth has a project had such widespread official indorsement. Never before have so many organizations interested themselves officially in a plan for Duluth's welfare. Never before have so many citizens been drawn actively into a movement for the common good.

It is a big project, and to carry it out successfully demands all the energy and enthusiasm and initiative and enterprise that Duluth can muster. Under the admirable plan devised by the Retail Merchants' association, which has led to interesting so many lively organizations, machinery is being created that will give every organization and every individual a chance to get behind and push.

It's natural to regard Ireland at present as a house divided against itself; but it's quite as correct to picture it as a house divided against John Bull.

THE MINIMUM WAGE PLAN.

The fact that local business interests have been called upon to appoint committees to meet with the state minimum wage commission next month reminds us that the proposal of a minimum wage for women is before the state in such form that in all probability it will be a lively issue before long.

The legislature at its session a year ago provided by law for a minimum wage commission to investigate the wage situation and to make and enforce minimum wage schedules wherever, in the opinion of the commission, "the wages paid to one-sixth or more of the women or minors employed therein are less than living wages."

The law thus defines the term "living wages": "Wages sufficient to maintain the worker in health and supply him with the necessary comforts and conditions of reasonable life; and where the words 'minimum wage' or 'minimum wages' are used in this act, the same shall be deemed to have the same meaning as 'living wage' or 'living wages.'"

In brief, upon the conception that a considerable proportion of the women engaged in gainful occupations in this state are paid less than a "living wage," the legislature created this commission and gave it power to act.

It is a good deal of power—a very important, far-reaching power, that should be wielded with the utmost care and concern, and with full regard to all consequences, near and remote.

The idea of the minimum wage plan carries a powerful popular appeal. Legislatures and even grave and well-poised commissions react readily to the influence of public opinion. So what the public thinks about the plan may have a good deal to do with what comes of it.

The principle of it is simple. If workers are not paid living wages, then they are ill-nourished, not able properly to care for their dependents, and likely to be more subject to the hazards of illness and temptation. There is where society's interest in what seems to be purely a private matter comes in. It is good for society to have workers paid a living wage, and bad for it to have them paid less than a living wage. That is the theory on which legislative action is based.

Many plans that seem theoretically good, however, develop unsuspected awkwardnesses in practice. Maybe this would. It would affect mainly department stores and factories, and the proprietors of these enterprises are quite certain that the minimum wage plan would work out badly. They are not entirely disinterested, of course, but they know better than anybody what would happen from any given readjustment. And they predict that the adoption of a minimum wage in any industry would be bad for the workers in that industry. For one thing, they say it would tend to make the minimum wage also the maximum wage—in other words, to put all wages on that industry on a dead level, regardless of personal deserts. For another, they say it would drive many out of employment altogether, because they would not be worth the established wage, and so would have to be dropped.

The theory of the plan is, as we have said, strongly appealing to many, and what many think about it will have much influence in what comes of the investigation. So the public mind, no less than the minds of the investigators, ought to be made up very surely and only after careful and unbiased study.

And the fly—don't forget what to do to him.

THE MARVELOUS MONROE DOCTRINE.

What is the Monroe doctrine? Where is it? Is there such a thing?

Senator Sherman of Illinois having said that he was inclined to favor intervention in Mexico by the United States, Great Britain, Germany and France, the Chicago Tribune says:

> We trust that Senator Sherman was misquoted as to this statement. We cannot imagine a greater diplomatic mistake than to invite or to permit a joint military expedition by the United States and foreign powers into the territory of our next door neighbor. On the day that happens the Monroe doctrine is dead.

According to this reading, the Monroe doctrine is a law which forbids this country from accepting any help in settling the troubles of any nation in this hemisphere. Presumably, then, it is a law which requires us unaided to settle the troubles of every nation in this hemisphere which has troubles to settle.

What is the Monroe doctrine, anyway? If it is all that current discussion seems to imply, it is some monstrous sort of incumbrance that makes this country the guardian and tutor of every nation, large and small, in North, South and Central America, and that forbids our accepting the help of any European nation in carrying on this tremendous school.

But it isn't that, or anything like that. What it is, and all it ever was or can be, is a policy announced by this government nearly a century ago which forbids further colonization in this hemisphere by the powers of Europe. As stated by President Monroe in his message to congress December 2, 1823, it included this significant phrase:

> That the American continents * * * are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power.

That, and that only, is the Monroe doctrine.

It is to be hoped that there will be no need of any intervention at all. If intervention becomes necessary, joint intervention, whether by this country and European powers or by this country and other American nations, is no more in conflict with the Monroe doctrine than it is with the Indiana county option law or the British "cat and mouse" law.

Any man appointed to a consulship in Mexico these days would have a right to question the strength of his "pull" with the administration.

Rank Ingratitude.

Judge: "There is a young couple in our apartment house," he remarked, "that my wife and myself took quite a fancy to. They used to come in occasionally, and we got very fond of them."

"Quite so."

"I used to sit and think of how I'd like to do something handsome for them if I ever got rich. You know how a fellow will dream about those things. Ever sit and speculate on what you'd do for your friends if you ever got hold of any money?"

"Oh, yes!"

"Well, I'm quite a hand for dreaming that way. For one thing, I was going to give this young couple a fine party. They are both musical and this was to be an event of some magnitude. I figured I'd have Caruso to sing and Paderewski to accompany him. Some class there, eh?"

"Yes, indeed!"

"I used to dream by the hour of the big party I was going to give this young couple if I ever got rich. But they dished the whole scheme."

"How was that?"

"Gave a big party and left us out of it."

A Definition.

Life: Debutante—A girl who sleeps all morning, drinks tea all afternoon, and walks backward all night.

Bad Homes Cause Bad Boys

Richard Arnold in the Mothers' Magazine.

"Why isn't Edgar playing with you today?" the teacher asks as she watches her class at play. The answer comes readily, with assurance.

"He don't play fair. He says he's going to, though. We'll try him tomorrow."

Edgar comes from a home where Christianity and its facts are topics of daily discussion. He has been taught the tenets of the faith, he has been told ethical stories, he goes regularly to church with his father and mother. If his mother were told that her son was a sneak, she would not believe it. If she were told that the child republic of his school play yard was teaching him more about Christianity than she could, she would be still more incredulous. But such is the case.

Edgar is the embodiment of activity. He feels rather than reasons. He learns through the exercise of his senses, not by listening to what grown-ups tell him about life. To hear the story of the Good Samaritan helps him on his road to spirituality, but the fact that fifty children have by unanimous vote isolated him from their merry-making because he kicked a boy who was "down" yesterday, and appropriated one of his glass alleys, is a lesson in Samaritanism that goes to the boy's heart and makes him feel the things of the spirit.

His mother has unconsciously hurt his spirit by not watching and directing his home play. Edgar's mind is active, and he has been encouraged to play games with adults. It was most attractive to see the little chap last summer darting in and out of the croquet ground on the home lawn, playing as good a game as his elders, and winning, too, more than once. It is charming to see the round brown head bent low under the lamp light, close to father's, in an engrossing game of checkers. But the strain on the boy's plastic mind of meeting the adult mind in these games has been too great. Edgar cheated at croquet, to win by pushing his ball through a wicket or nearer the stake. He cheats at checkers, too, when father isn't looking.

Bringing about spiritual activity in children is vastly more productive in developing the life of the spirit than talking about being good. It is more important to help the child to learn how to make certain sharp distinctions in the spirit life for himself—this is right, that is wrong—than to try to pour into his soul our own adult conceptions of spirituality.

Marital Vacations Advised

Boston Globe: Thus can the tie that binds be strengthened, and thus can the deadly dullness be kept forever at bay.

Mrs. William Hodge, wife of "The Man From Home," who, like most successful actors, is on the road much of the time, strongly recommends what she calls "marital vacations" as a means of avoiding the too perfect intimacy which leads to the silent state of wedlock. Mrs. Hodge asserts that there are no stupid moments when she joins Mr. Hodge en tour for a few days, and adds with a merry laugh:

"No one can say of us, as we sit at a restaurant table vis-a-vis: 'O, that man and woman are married. How can I tell? Why, because they haven't spoken to each other all the evening.'"

Lots of folks working in double harness would gain clearness of mental vision besides getting something new to talk about if they would trot off alone occasionally.

Constant companionship with one woman may reduce her luster for the simple reason that there is little chance for contrast.

A very decent sort of man may also appear to deteriorate sadly under continuous inspection.

Let your husband go fishing!

Let your wife visit her sister in Worcester, Wisconsin or Wiscasset!

Separation, not unduly prolonged, revives appreciation if it has drooped, stimulates love, and paves the way to a resumption in the home of the conversation which charmed of yore.

"Silence is the perfectest herald of joy," remarks Claudio, a Shakespearean charactcd. "I were but little happy, if I could say how much." His words contain a truth.

They have no reference, however, to the chronic muteness of matrimony which is a harbinger of unhappiness, and sometimes a precursor of divorce.

The Seekers.

Friends and loves we have none, nor wealth, nor blest abode,
But the hope, the burning hope, and the road, the lonely road.

Not for us are content, and quiet, and peace of mind,
For we go seeking cities that we shall never find.

There is no solace on earth for us—for such as we—
Who search for the hidden beauty that eyes may never see.

Only the road and the dawn, the sun, the wind, the rain,
And the watch-fire under stars, and sleep, and the road again.

We seek the City of God, and the haunt where beauty dwells,
And we find the noisy mart and the sound of burial bells.

Never the golden city, where radiant people meet,
But the dolorous town where mourners are going about the street.

We travel the dusty road till the light of the day is dim
And sunset shows us spires away on the world's rim.

We travel from dawn till dusk, till the day is past and by,
Seeking the Holy City beyond the rim of the sky.

Friends and loves we have not, nor wealth, nor blest abode,
But the hope, the burning hope, and the lonely road.

—John Masefield.

Sure of Herself.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Do you think," asked the widower, "you could learn to love my children as you would if they were your own?"

"Oh, yes," replied the anxious maiden. "I think I should care more for them, really, than if they were my own, because I shouldn't have to worry so much about them if they got hurt or were sick."

Jude Johnson Placated.

Atchison Globe: "Why doesn't the Globe say something good about me once in a while?" Jude Johnson asked today. "You have been known so long as a very good man that repeating it would not be news," said the reporter, and Mr. Johnson looked immensely pleased and seemed satisfied with the explanation. A reporter must learn to be diplomatic.

Justifiable Mendacity

From the Omaha World-Herald.

Under what circumstances, if any, is a man justified in lying to his wife? According to what is described as "a judicial and judicious opinion," formulated by a Cleveland judge, "when a little lie will preserve the domestic calm he should tell it bravely and well."

"Why," the judge is quoted as asking, "invite trouble when a bit of clever invention will save a heartache?" The matter is of sufficient general interest and importance to warrant reproducing the illustration advanced by Judge Phillips to make clear idea:

"The other day Mrs. Phillips gave me the family scissors to take to the grinder. She wanted them fixed immediately. What did I do? Why, I carried them around all day, and they were still with me when I returned home that night.

"'Did you get my scissors fixed?' Mrs. Phillips asked.

"'I never hesitated. 'No,' said I. 'I couldn't get them today, but they will be ready tomorrow.' You see, my diplomacy fixed everything."

We take it for granted that Mrs. Phillips thereupon said: "Drat the repair man!" and that the pair sat them down in sedate happiness and exemplary conjugal accord to their evening meal. "The domestic calm" was saved and a "heart-ache" was avoided.

Suppose the judge had told the truth—that he had forgotten the scissors. Then what would have happened? His forgetfulness, very likely, would have become the fruitful theme for a high-pressure monologue. For it is evident that the judge, being able to carry around on his person all day long a pair of large, hard, heavy domestic scissors without once "thinking" of them, must be an extremely forgetful man. Oftentimes before his forgetfulness has found him out, and caused trouble. Mrs. Phillips would have reminded him of all these numerous occasions, accompanying the reminders with appropriate comments. And the judge, though he prides himself on his tact and diplomacy, is only human after all. In sheer self-defense he would have been tempted to convert the siege into an attack. Mrs. Phillips, being also human, has a human weakness. It may be only a little one, such as neglecting his buttons—but it would have served. He would have mentioned it—and might even have ventured further and made some cursory remark about the coldness of the soup or the frailty of the coffee. Then—but why uncover the harrowing details? Farewell to the domestic calm!

Unquestionably the judge chose the road that led—temporarily—to peace and comfort. But—temporarily! What if Mrs. Phillips finds him out—as she certainly must if she reads the newspapers? What when she beholds set down in cold type his tactful and diplomatic boasting of the manner in which he manages and deceives the wife of his bosom? What then? And even if it were not printed in the papers, how prone is a man's sin to camp on his trail and uncover itself and point its skinny finger at him at the most unexpected and inconvenient moment, when he has no chance to think it over and provide himself with an alibi. What does the judge do on such occasions? If he has a method that he has tried and will work, and that he feels he can recommend, why doesn't he name it? What right has he to lure his confiding fellow husbands half way down the primrose path of deception and then abandon them there, stuck in the mud—there are muddy primrose paths, you know—just when they most need his help?

Judge Phillips has said too little, or he has said too much. We should advise no young and inexperienced husband to trust unquestioningly to his rule without inquiring a little further into all the circumstances and contingencies that are likely to arise. We think that a much safer rule is never to forget the scissors.

Doctor Duty's Advice

From the Boston Post:

Don't knock your boss or the business you are in.

If you don't like your boss, tell him so—don't go rapping him behind his shoulder blades.

If you don't like the business your boss is in, get out of it. You can resign any day, you know—there is no string to you—the business will chisel right along after you have gone.

But for the love of Pete, don't let your boss keep you in three squares per day; don't let him keep on giving you an opportunity to pay for clothing, rent and other necessities of life, if you are going to stab him in the back.

If you can't be loyal, get out!

Likes English Baseball Reporting.

Letter to New York Sun: Sir—The great American people interested in baseball, writers, players and public, may with profit take a leaf from the English sportsman in regard to reports of sporting writers of games, behavior of players during the games and the attitude of spectators. Sporting Life, a newspaper devoted exclusively to sports in Great Britain, published an account of the baseball game played in England at which the king was present.

The account itself was clear and notably free from the offensive slang which seems to be the especial stock in trade of so many sporting writers. Odd as the game was to the mass of spectators and to the reporters, there was not the slightest attempt to belittle the game as a sport, and comparisons made with the national game of cricket were fairly and honestly made without flamboyant laudation of the British game.

Criticism of the coachers was much milder than it might have been. The writer contented himself with a statement that the British sport-loving public could not understand methods which might serve to put the other fellow off his best game.

Reading generally through the columns of the English sporting papers, no matter what the subject may be, one finds a dignified but not the less enthusiastic tone governing the reports.

Bombardier Wells was not a "big dub" or "hog fat." He was "carrying too much flesh," he was in "poor form."

The Americans "hit the ball among the spectators;" they did not "lambaste the pill into the peanut brigade."

I tell you we can learn a lot from our brothers across the water; and don't think I am one of them for a minute. I'm American to the backbone, one of my ancestors having played at musket ball with the British in '76.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Worrying over postoffice appointments has enabled Representative Perl D. Decker of Missouri to overcome a lifelong handicap. A little worry is the very thing he has been needing. Decker is 39 years of age, but until he got to worrying about his appointments he looked as if he would not be 24 until next autumn. This youthful appearance has caused him no end of hardship. When he first began to practice law he was of mature enough vision, but had the face of a youth barely old enough for "long pants."

It was not an uncommon occurrence for a prospective client to walk into his office, inquire for the lawyer, learn that he was "it," and then walk right out again. Naturally this got on Decker's nerves and there was no help for him. He might have raised whiskers as an aid to mature appearance, but he was too high principled and had too much self-respect for that. So he has struggled on the best he could against his face.

Lately Decker's postoffice appointments have caused him to lose several nights' sleep, lest he make a needlessly large number of enduring enmities among the unsuccessful candidates. One morning when he arrived at his office a friend of his said:

"Decker, you've aged in the last month about ten years."

"Hurray!" shouted Decker. "Mebby I'll soon look as old as I am."

* * *

The only representative, by the way, who has never allowed a postoffice to worry him is Finly Gray of Indiana. Gray's face is as solemn and seamed as a bloodhound's, but not because of worry over postoffices. Every man who seeks an appointment by Gray is required by Finly to sign a pledge binding himself to be "cheerful and loyal," no matter whether he gets the job or not. If he doesn't sign the pledge Gray won't consider him.

* * *

Gray follows another cute little idea in campaigning. He never speaks anywhere under the auspices of any county political committee. Instead he goes into a town, hires a telephone girl to call up every farmer who has a phone and tell him that the Hon. Finly Gray is going to speak that evening. He also has a few hundred little dodgers printed and hires boys to distribute them. Promptly at the appointed hour he gets up and speaks and tells the multitude that he does not work with political committees simply because politics is a thing that he can't get through his head. But his success at this line of procedure seems to indicate that maybe he is the craftiest politician of his district.

* * *

Representative Johnny Garner of Texas walked out of the house chamber at the close of the session one evening accompanied by a well-known stand-pat member who had that day been making a speech bewailing the tendencies of the times. He had undertaken to demonstrate that the country is gliding rapidly and surely to the eternal bow-wows.

Garner made no reference to the man's speech or his pessimistic views until they found themselves on the capitol terrace in the midst of a right successful March snowstorm. Before them lay a fairyland of trees covered with snow.

"Look 'ere, look 'ere!" exclaimed Garner, pointing to the beautiful scene ahead. "Lemme ask you something now. Isn't it a right nice world, or is it?"

* * *

Something had been said about the skill with which a certain cabinet officer can do some of the new dances.

"Yes," put in Martin Milford of the Indianapolis News, "I guess he's eligible, all right, for membership in the St. Vitus club."

* * *

William Jennings Bryan had occasion the other evening to call up the Washington office of the Associated Press. The telephone operator inadvertently gave him a saloon keeper.

"This is Secretary Bryan," began the secretary of state.

"The deuce it is," said the saloon keeper, who thought he was being kidded. "Well, this is President Wilson."

* * *

Representative Frank L. Dershem of Pennsylvania was a traveling salesman—a drummer—for nineteen years before coming to congress. But he doesn't look like the jaunty, ogling, back-slapping drummers shown in the comic weeklies. He looks more like the assistant pastor of a big church. In fact, he has been a Sunday school teacher and a prominent Christian Endeavor worker in his locality for some years.

"The main thing in selling goods," says Dershem, "is never to go in and ask if he wants anything. Just offhand the man will probably say he doesn't, and then he will hesitate to change his mind, lest he seem vacillating."

* * *

President Wilson has a human way of discussing commonplaces just as if he weren't president at all. For instance, the newspaper correspondents went in to see the president one morning following a severe windstorm that had raged all night, and the first thing the president said was:

"Well, I hope you fellows slept last night better than I did. I thought the wind was going to blow the house away. Every time I dozed off there was a rattle of the winds that made me sit bolt upright."

And so on. Now, when a man hasn't slept the night before, it is the most natural thing in the world to speak about it to the first people you meet. So that is what the president did. And it struck a responsive chord, for few of the correspondents had slept well, either. It pleased them to know that the White House windows rattle just as much as apartment house windows. But the average president would have thought it undignified to stop to speak of such trivialities.

"I Must."

Toledo Times: "I must," said Lord Nelson at Trafalgar; "I must," said Washington at Valley Forge; "I must," said Lincoln at Gettysburg; "I must," said Mark Twain, with bankruptcy clutching at his heart; "I must," says every great man and woman, sensing duty, opportunity, crisis and the larger success.

"I must," is God's vest pocket formula to you who breath his free air, and work in his workshops.

Daily every one of us faces tasks that we didn't expect and that we had rather not do. It is the order of circumstance. But just the minute that "I must" comes along, our program clears up and our work proceeds plainly and according to plan. That man is most satisfied with life who is most satisfied with doing what he feels is his best.

"I must!" All right, proceed.

Wanted—A Real Man for State Executive

Views of the state press on a much needed change.

Thinks It Good Suggestion.

McIntosh Times: The Duluth Herald has recently come out with a strong editorial in favor of Ole O. Sageng of Dalton, Otter Tail county, as the next governor of Minnesota. Sageng has been a member of the senate for several terms. He is a Democrat and appears to be the most likely candidate yet introduced by that party.

May Be Flint on Steel.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: "An editorial that will make Ole O. Sageng the next governor of Minnesota" is the sudden electrical discharge in state politics that is flashing throughout the state this week in dozens and scores of independent newspapers. It may "strike" and set the whole state in flames. Whether it does or not, there will be nobody in this neighborhood who will contradict the fair picture which The Duluth Herald last Saturday painted of the senator from Otter Tail county.

What Are the Conditions.

Buffalo Journal: Frank A. Day has sprung Ole O. Sageng of Otter Tail county as the Moses for governor and The Duluth Herald, the exponent of Democracy in Minnesota, has given him a testimonial which will look good to the voters under certain conditions.

Senator Sageng Indorsed.

Waseca Herald: The Duluth Herald suggests the name of Senator Ole Sageng of Otter Tail county as a Democratic candidate for governor. The suggestion is an excellent one. Ole is honest, able and fearless, and his legislative record is above criticism. If he were elected governor "economy and efficiency" would be the watchwords, the special interests would receive no favors and the laws would be enforced.

Would Make a Splendid Governor.

Little Falls Herald: The Duluth Herald and Fairmont Sentinel are booming Ole Sageng for governor. Sageng is a good man and would make a splendid governor.

Sageng a Little Different.

Morris Sun (Rep.): Ole O. Sageng, Otter Tail county's Populist senator, is being boomed by the Democrats as a possible candidate for governor on their ticket. Senator Sageng is a little removed from the ordinary political candidate. Imagine the eloquent words of The Duluth Herald applied to any of the numerous free-for-all candidates now in the field and the difference will be appreciated at once.

He Probably Would.

Lancaster Herald: The Duluth Herald is boosting Ole O. Sageng as a very likely Democratic candidate for governor. Yes, indeed! The "man behind the plow" might give a good many of the machine politicians a run for their life, and then it would be a pleasure to see the chagrin of the "invisible" forces which are at present so busy pulling the wool over the eyes of the voters of the state.

Putting It Flatly.

Fairmont Sentinel: Senator Ole O. Sageng will be the next governor of Minnesota.

To Lessen Unemployment

Frances A. Kellor in The Survey: It is time that the Federal government took steps looking toward a policy of distribution of labor.

The legislative committee of the North American Civic League for Immigrants, which has been at work on this matter for three years, has submitted the drafts of three bills to the department of labor.

The first bill provides for the establishment of a bureau of distribution in the department of labor, with power to establish branch offices, to be under a commissioner of distribution appointed by the secretary of labor.

It is empowered to promote the distribution of labor, to gather and disseminate information regarding opportunities and the demand and supply of labor; it is to establish labor exchanges and exchange reports and the central exchange is to co-operate with all state and city exchanges and be a central clearing house for them. It may investigate the activities and methods of those persons and corporations that procure employment for persons and corporations doing an interstate business or which requires their transporation from state to state.

It may also investigate complaints as to frauds and improper practices respecting the treatment of alien laborers and supervise their transfer from place to place, and make adjustments of such complaints. It is also empowered to co-operate with state, land and agricultural departments regarding settlers, and to distribute such information, and it may investigate the opportunities for investment in such lands for settlers and "colonists."

The second bill, therefore, provides for the licensing and regulation of every agency which furnishes unskilled laborers to persons or corporations doing an interstate business or which requires transportation from one state to another.

The third bill provides for the licensing of steamship ticket agents that do an interstate business.

What's the Use.

Philosophy from Uncle John in the Excelsior Springs, Mo., Standard: I wish I had a cent today, for every dime I've blown away in days of yore; I wish I had a nickle per, for divers silver bucks that were, in stacks galore. If, nowadays, I had a cent, for every nimble scad I've spent in blocks of ten. I'd buy a dozen corner lots, and acre tracts for garden spots—I'd keep a hen. * * * If I had only saved a dime, from every wheel I've spent in time of long ago, I'd strut around with cash to spare, and Oh, the wads of heated air that I would blow! If I'd been a diffent man and dealt upon the tight-wad plan, I'd now be rich. And then, as on my way I moved, I might be hated, or be loved—I wonder which. * * * It never does a speck of good to stop your job of sawing wood to hearken back—the future still belongs to me, so what's the use to take a tree, or fly the track?

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE PANAMA CANAL.

To the Editor of The Herald:
(Dedicated to Col. Goethals.)

Behold bright Panama!
Where meet the restless lips of oceans vast;
What mighty power, what law
Has joined their waters after ages past?
No more the mournful weep,—
Their palpitating hearts unite in peace
And from their bosoms deep,
There comes a happy laughter without cease,
Of Universal Peace.

Hail the great engineer
Whose master hand has moved the massive land:
To him we give a cheer,—
He did subdue the land at his command,
The land that stood between:
Now pass all nation's ships from sea to sea
Through our canal serene,
And passing know the nation of the free,
The Home of Liberty.

KEEPING THE GREAT SEAL UP TO DATE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am surprised at the half-heartedness with which you indorse the suggestion of a change in the great seal of Minnesota. Are we actually using an antiquated seal, adopted in 1858, showing the almost extinct red Indian and such a back number in water powers as St. Anthony falls? Perish the thought! Bringing the seal up to date should be urged at once by every progressive citizen.

We are entitled to the full advertising value of a representation on the seal of all our varied industries and activities, and Skillings Mining and Market Letter has not mentioned half of them. The seal could readily be doubled in size and room found on it not only for a head frame (whatever that is), the Duluth harbor, a vessel and a cloud of black smoke representing the steel plant, but also the Alworth building as Minnesota's tallest building, a few pine stumps indicating the timber industry, a gasoline tractor showing up-to-date farming, a few derricks to represent the sandstone and granite production, a locomotive, a street car, a loaf of bread and a jar of butter. Others will doubtless suggest industries I have overlooked, and we must be sure that no immigrant or capital stay out of the state through failure to see one of them on the seal.

And we don't want any foreign motto like "E'toile du Nord" on it, either. Let's have something appropriate and snappy like "Skoal to the Viking" or "Ish ka bibble."

Then let the efficiency commission arrange for a board to keep the seal up to the minute by dropping any industry that grows passe and putting on a live one. As I write, the awful thought comes over me that the great seal of the United States may also be a back number. Skillings to the rescue!

Yours truly, SALISBURY.

WHEN TO BEGIN GARDENING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A few days ago, in the columns of The Herald, one of your reporters inadvertently quoted me as advising to plant home gardens about the first of April. I do not wish any one to be misled into putting seeds into the ground before the ground is in proper condition to receive them. Now about the first of April, after the snow is off, is a good time to clear off any rubbish that might be in the garden, to secure fresh manure for the purpose of making the garden hotbed and ordering your seeds if you have not already done so, planning the general outline of the garden for the coming season and otherwise getting ready for the garden proposition. Do not mistake the advice of removing rubbish from the garden to mean that you should take the covering off of the strawberries or other protected plants so early in the season. The covering for the strawberries is for the purpose of keeping the frost in and keeping the plants back from development until danger of frost is past. Sometimes early in April the ground is sufficiently thawed out and sufficiently dry on the surface to be stirred or turned up. When these conditions exist it is a good plan to spade up the surface roughly in order to let in light, sunshine and air, which helps to warm up the soil. There is nothing gained in putting seeds into the soil until the season is far enough advanced for the plants to grow rapidly and steadily after they are planted. I might call attention of your readers in this connection to the week's school in home gardening which is to be carried on under the direction of the educational department of the Y. M. C. A. For membership in this class and information in regard to the date apply to Prof. Turner, educational director of the Y. M. C. A. Competent instructors will be secured for this course. Very truly yours,

A. B. HOSTETTER.

WANTS $500,000 FOR M. E. PASTORS.

Willimantic, Conn., March 25.— A plea for a half a million dollars more to provide for retirement of Methodist ministers was made by the Rev. Joseph B. Hingley of Chicago at the formal opening of the Seventy-fourth annual conference of the New England Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. Hingley said that when the board of conference claimants was organized in 1908, the church distributed $605,000 to retired ministers. The amount has grown steadily until last year it was increased to $1,100,000, but at least another half million dollars is needed at once, he said.

Rev. Dr. L. C. Clemens of Des Moines, Iowa, field representative of the board of claimants, spoke along similar lines.

"Postum for Mine"

Many a man and woman with coffee troubles has found that Postum is a sure and pleasant way back to health.

A doctor writes:

"I have been using Postum for the last seven or eight years, and think it has had a good deal to do with my looking younger than 55 years of age.

"I recommend it to all my patients, and those who have been using it have only praises for its taste and its good effects on their nervous systems; like me they have given up tea and coffee altogether."

Postum is a pure food-drink made of wheat and a small proportion of molasses—roasted and skillfully blended. It is absolutely free from the coffee drugs, caffeine and tannin—common causes of heart, stomach, liver, kidney and nerve disturbance.

Some people marvel at the benefits from leaving off coffee and using Postum but there is nothing marvelous about it—only common sense.

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be boiled. 15c and 25c pkgs.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder, requires no boiling. A spoonful stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

WORKING FOR HUMANITY

Senator Boyle Praises the Laws for Labor and the Unfortunate.

Dr. Phelan and G. Roy Hall Also Speak to Office Men.

That the spirit of humanitarianism is entering into legislation, and that more attention is now being directed toward the upbuilding and preservation of the health, comfort and development of manhood and womanhood, was the gist of addresses made last evening before the Duluth Association of Office Men. Senator James Boyle of Eveleth discussed the recent work of the state legislature in enacting such legislation, and Prof. Raymond Phelan, extension lecturer of the University of Minnesota, spoke on "The Industrial Trinity." G. Roy Hall, traffic manager for the Commercial club, spoke on "The Lake-and-Rail Rates." Senator Boyle's address in part follows:

Working for Humanity.

"We are coming to realize that the preservation of the physical, mental and moral health of our people is more important than the amassing of any other form of wealth. Capital, without men to work with it, is useless. Thus far, of course, being a rich and prosperous state, sparsely settled, with enough for everyone, we have given little attention to these matters. But now that our large population and great cities have brought to us certain social evils, we're beginning to think of man, what are the best things to do for the making of men, the making of future citizens. And the people of Minnesota, being progressive in their thinking, are ready to wipe out a social evil wherever it shows its head.

"Our children now, unless they have good excuse for not doing so, must go to school until they are 16 years of age. Children under 16 are allowed to work in very few of the employments of the state, in no hazardous employment. Profiting by the experiences of older states, we shall have no child-labor problems here.

"At the last session of the legislature our factory acts were remodeled and amended. Additional powers were given the state labor department. Dangerous machinery must be fenced and boxed and protected. Motors and gearing and belts and pulleys, etc., must be not less than six feet from the floor. Points of danger must be guarded. Hand rails and foot guards are required in many places. Stairways must be well lighted. The floor space in factories shall not be crowded. Scaffolds must be protected and sufficient means of escaping fire must be furnished. Regulating conditions under which females may be employed, additional rules were prescribed. In mercantile establishments, restaurants, lunch rooms and eating houses the working day is limited to ten hours. In mechanical and manufacturing establishments and telephone and telegraph offices it is nine hours. Female workers must be allowed at least sixty minutes for the noon day meal. Each worker must be provided with not less than 400 cubic feet of air space. Rules are laid down for proper ventilation and work rooms, toilets and dressing rooms must be kept thoroughly cleaned. Men realize that the quickest way to corrupt the life-blood of a state is to neglect the health of her women.

Compensation Act.

"During the last session of the legislature there was enacted an employers' liability or workmen's compensation act. This act has been criticized in many quarters. It has been criticized by lawyers, by employers and by employes. And yet I think I speak the truth when I say that most people are much better satisfied with this new method of compensation for accidents than they were with the old method and I venture to predict that we shall never go back to the old method, that the time is not far off when every state in the Union will have a workmen's compensation act and that in the very near future such a law will be enacted by congress. Living here in St. Louis county where annually many men are either mained or killed in hazardous employments, it often occurred to me that the money we spent to maintain our courts while they were busily engaged threshing out personal injury suits, added to the money paid to the employers' counsel and the employes' counsel for services rendered in such suits, was enough to adequately compensate all those who met with accidents in our hazardous employments.

Minimum Wage Law.

"There was passed at the last session of the legislature a minimum wage for women and children. This kind of legislation is new to the most of us. A legal minimum wage is based upon the principle 'that the state ought not to permit any considerable section of its citizens to live below the level of efficient, normal and reasonable life.' According to investigations made the least amount upon which a man and wife and three children can maintain physical, mental and moral health in any city of the United States is somewhere between $750 and $900 a year and a decent living for a woman wage earner is somewhere between $8 and $10 a week.

"There are those who think the minimum wage law unconstitutional. This objection has been urged against the eight-hour law, the child labor law, factory acts, accident compensation laws, and every other legal regulation which restricts in any way the freedom of contract between employer and employe. Seldom nowadays does this objection prevail against legislation of this nature. To protect the health, morals, and mind of the citizen against the injury resulting from an insufficient livelihood, is quite as important both individually and socially, as to protect his life against the assassin, his body against the bully or his money against the thief.

Mother's Pensions.

"Another law along the line of social reform is the mother's pension law. Many people feel, and I think they are right, that children should not be taken from their mother merely because she is poor. It is a good thing that we have orphan asylums. It is a good thing we have training schools for boys and girls who otherwise might be cast adrift. But no institution, no matter how well it is equipped therefor, no matter how efficiently it cares for these little ones, can take the place of mother. Just an ordinary mother is a better institution to rear children than the best orphan asylum in the state.

"If a woman is left alone with children under 14 years of age, upon proper application to the court therefor she may be allowed up to, but not exceeding, $10 per month for each child. Many men feel that it is better to spend the necessary money this way than toward the maintenance of institutions for the rearing of little children.

"So you see that Minnesota in recent years has been considering many of these social problems and studying methods for their solution. You men come in contact with the employer and the wage worker. You know both of them. You know industrial conditions. Each one of you should participate in governmental affairs. The exercise of the right to generally participate in the government will eventually wipe out any social evil that may confront us.

Dr. Phelan, pointing out the peculiar interest in labor of the employer, the worker, the consumer, and the citizen, declared that the citizen wants production at low human cost and without spoliation of natural resources. Farming without soil exhaustion, mining without waste, lumbering without forest annihilation and waste, cotton without tuberculosis, clothing and toys and artificial flowers with sweatshops, steel without the twelve-hour day—these are all in the production platform of the citizen. Still another plank calls for a fair sharing in the results of production, among laborers, capitalists and consumers. This citizen's ideal may be realized through the coming industrial trinity.

"Today, organization and the living wage are the prominent aims of labor, but workers are much divided as to aim and policy," he said. "At least four general classes are discernible. First, there is the great mass of the unorganized with no particular policy. Then there are the Socialists among whom there are divisions. Next, may be mentioned the labor unions, some organized on the trade basis, other on the industrial basis. Fourthly, we have the Industrial Workers of the World with their notion of class war, their idea of one big union, their preference for direct action and sabotage, their own plan for striking, and their dream of ultimate surrender by an exhausted, disgusted capitalist class.

"Should not the great mass of the people choose among these organized groups, or if not that, then formulate a new and definite labor policy? The trinity of the state co-operating with employer and worker may give us industrial peace and social justice. This harmony plan is followed in Europe particularly in Germany, to bring worker and jobs together, to administer industrial relief funds, to enforce labor lays. Wisconsin has copied this plan, and the minimum wage states (except Utah) are trying to put it into practice. The advantages of this triparty co-operation may be better labor legislation, a better feeling about such legislation and education of the public, employe, and worker with respect to one another's viewpoint. This plan calls call for and necessitates organization among employes, union among workers, and government courageously representing and enforcing the people's greatest thoughtfulness, wisdom and humanity. Through such a trinity of the people, the employers, and the workers there should come more national efficiency, more happiness, and industrial peace and justice."

LIVE SPORTING GOSSIP

By BRUCE

WAINO KETONEN and Joe Carr will wrestle at the Lyceum theater on the evening of April 2. This should prove a fine match. We are a booster for it. Ketonen, as we have said all along, is one of the greatest middleweights in the world. Carr is a fine wrestler, and he will make the Finn go.

Mr. R. Leslie Murray is promoting this contest. So long as an athletic contest is good the public generally little concerns itself with the promoters. It is the card that counts. We simply state that R. Leslie Murray is promoting to explain certain inconsistencies.

Earlier in the season, when he was plunged in the midst of the winter ice palace work and the "roses in the cheeks" movement, Mr. Murray bitterly derided the wrestling game as a "tainted" sport. Also he declared "I have never liked Joe Carr since the time he lay down for Walter Miller, in order that Miller's record could be kept clear."

Mr. R. Leslie Murray declared he was for clean sports and cared not in the least for those sports that smacked grossly of professionalism. He deplored the fact bitterly, one morning in his column, that "the people still fall for the old stuff," referring to wrestling.

Now that was no nice way, or not in the least being a good sport. It makes Mr. R. Leslie Murray look funny now. First he was bitterly, even vehemently opposed to wrestling; it was tainted, heavens, yes! But in two weeks the whole complexion of the game has changed. We are glad. We have always rather liked it. We are glad to ascertain that R. Leslie Murray should we say, Reverse Lever Murray—has changed his mind.

Les is a nice little fellow when he isn't mad at some one, and he is, after nearly three months of knocking, showing that he is a first class booster.

R. Leslie Murray is promoting the Carr-Ketonen contest.

We are for it. We wouldn't be small or picayunish enough to say that "we don't think the people of Duluth will spend a dollar and a half for the show," nor deplore the fact that "the walls of our fair city are littered up with wrestling pictures."

What's the use? The people don't like a poor sport. People as a whole appreciate being fair.

We think the coming match will be a good one, and, unlike the attitude of R. Leslie Murray, we are going to boost. Mr. Murray did his best to hurt wrestling—we still admire clean contests, no matter who promotes them. Because R. Leslie Murray is promoting a contest is no reason why we should knock.

Fays, this should be a dandy match.

Slave Driver Chance.

FROM Texas, which still retains some of its primitive wildness, comes the report that Frank Leroy Chance is having trouble with some of the Yankees. Maybe the proximity to Mexico is having its effect on the belligerent members of the Peerless Leader's squad.

Caldwell has left the camp and Chance says it will cost the pitcher $100 for this little indiscreet act.

"Kindness don't go with some ball players," wrathfully uttered Chance. "You have to beat brains into the heads of some of them. Some of these guys think they have it on us because of the Federal league. My guys will either behave or get out of the league."

Maybe He's Travel Weary.

BATTLING LEVINSKY got his the night before last. Robert Livingston Moha laced the light-heavyweight of New York town in artistic fashion. This suggests to us that Levinsky is car sick. He fights every night. Like a large theatrical troupe, it is considered a waste of time to have an idle evening. Maybe now Dumb Dan Morgan will give Levinsky several idle evenings, will take him to the country for some air, some dairy milk and fresh eggs. A change of scene might work wonders.

Sympathy Is Felt.

THERE is deep and genuine sympathy among the friends of Arthur L. Ryberg for the loss cold-handed death has brought to him. Mere words don't count in such cases. The suffering of the friend is the greater because he realizes how little he can do. Art Ryberg is one of the whitest and finest men who ever mixed in amateur sports in Duluth, and his friends are legion. This is merely an expression, we know, of the sympathy and deep sorrow of hundreds of friends, who share the sorrow of a regular fellow.

Youth Getting Impatient.

THERE is a gilded and precedent-established adage regarding the fact that youth will be served. But in lamping some of the players enrolled in the service of the two major leagues, it comes to us that youth must be getting rather impatient of waiting to be served.

There is Mathewson. He has served something like thirteen seasons. There is the immortal Hans Wagner and there is the grey-streaked Sam Crawford. Nap LaJoie isn't exactly in the spring chicken age, and Bender, Plank and Archer and Evers and Shulte and a host of illustrious others prance upon the stage of gilded deeds, perennial, pristine and lissome.

GIBBONS BOYS WIN FIGHTS

Mike Bests Christie and Tommy Beats Billy Miske.

Hudson, Wis., March 25.—Mike Gibbons, St. Paul, outpointed Gus Christie, Indianapolis, in a ten-round bout here last night. Gibbons had the better of seven rounds and the remaining three were even. The men fought hard from the beginning to the final bell.

Tommy Gibbons won from Billy Miske in the semi-finals. Tommy won seven rounds from Miske, but the defeated man is credited with one win, two going into the even class. Miske's inability to hit with his left proved his undoing.

Gibbons and Christie weighed in at 3 o'clock and neither tipped the beam at 160. The same was true of the semi-final men.

The main fight started with a rush and a pair of lefts to the face by each man. Mike landed one good left before the gong, but there was no shade. The next four rounds were awarded to the St. Paul man for his ability to land straight lefts.

In all of the rounds, Mike worked the left good. The sixth was even, Mike missing a number of swings and getting a hard left on the ear. Te seventh and eighth were a shade in favor of Gibbons. The ninth was even, Christie leading and forcing Mike to the ropes. The tenth was a finish blow. The round ended with them apart.

RAISE MONEY TO SEND TEAMS AWAY

According to Physical Director Al Olson, the Jingling Brothers' circus at the Y. M. C. A. Monday and Tuesday evening was a great success, both financially and socially. The concluding entertainment last evening was attended by an audience that filled the gymnasium arena.

Director Olson, who had complete charge of the circus, is very well pleased with the result. Enough money has been obtained from the receipts, he said, to defray the expenses of the various athletic teams that are to be sent to the different state tourneys this year. The first team to represent the local Y. M. C. A. will be the basketball stars, who will go to St. Paul Friday morning to compete for the state honors.

There were thirty-six separate features at the circus each night, and the entertainment as a whole reflected credit on Director Olson and the young men who participated.

CLABBY HAS TO PAY BIG DAMAGES.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 25.—It cost Jimmy Clabby, the middleweight prize-fighter $1,000 to avoid legal punishment for having beaten Charles Laurance, a policeman, in a street brawl Jan. 22. Clabby and Arthur McQueen, his trainer, pleaded guilty when they appeared for trial in police court yesterday and Judge White admonished them to pay for the damage done to the policeman, who declared he had lost thirty pounds as a result of the assault made upon him.

Clabby's attorney asked the policeman how much damage was done. Laurance demanded $2,000, but compromised at half that amount. Clabby and McQueen will be given suspended sentences.

Wolgast Going West.

Cadillac, Mich., March 25.—Ad Wolgast expects to appear in boxing bouts on the Pacific coast once each month, beginning with July and ending in October. Then he says he will return East and fight in Milwaukee during the winter of 1914-15. Wolgast is in receipt of a letter from Promoter Jim Coffroth, in which the Californian offers the Cadillac fighter a big slice of money to box four bouts before his club during the late summer and fall.

ST. PAUL FLASH SHOWS SUPERIORITY OVER CHRISTIE

FIRST ANNUAL HOCKEY BANQUET DATE IS FIXED

Players of Duluth Amateur Hockey League and Friends Will Dine at the Commercial Club on the Evening of April 2.

The first annual banquet of the Duluth Amateur Hockey league will be held at the Duluth Commercial club on the evening of Thursday, April 2. It is expected that there will be several hundred attending as the banquet will be one of the largest affairs that has been held in amateur sport circles for years.

John E. MacGregor, secretary of the curling club and one of the real boosters of sport of Duluth, will act as toastmaster and several of the prominent speakers of the city, probably including Bentley F. Neff and Frank Crassweller, will be called upon for short talks.

This season has been an epoch-making one in Duluth amateur hockey circles. As a matter of fact there are some followers of the game who believe that the organization of the Duluth amateur league has reached the stage of progression where league hockey is eminently qualified to supply the main winter sport feature here.

It is particularly desired that the banquet of next Thursday be a thorough success and that all those interested in the upbuilding of the game be present. This will be the first ambitious attempt of the officials of the league to hold a get-together meeting and every follower of amateur hockey in the city is urged to attend.

Has Been Great Year.

In the past, city league hockey has been played here without attracting a very great amount of attention. This season the enthusiastic boosters of the game worked out a strong organization, secured the backing of some of the largest commercial houses of the city, and started out to place the game on a sound basis—and the officials of the Duluth Amateur Hockey league builded better than they planned.

For years the games of the city league of Winnipeg have drawn capacity houses. Speculators have reaped large profits in the sale of tickets, so great has been the demand for seats at some of the most important contests.

The final three contests between the Lake Hardware Hockey team and the team of the Northern Hardware company indicated clearly to those who have fanned into flame the slow growth of hockey, the wonderfully awakened interest in the game. Another remarkable boost was the outcome of the contest between the curling club team and the Lakes, Northerns and Big Duluths.

Some of the more skeptical predicted an overwhelming defeat for the combined league teams. Therefore the outcome was in truth a real victory for the city league aggregations also plainly indicated the standard of hockey that has been played all season in the league circles.

Will Be Big Affair.

From the number of tickets that have been sold it is assured that the banquet of next Thursday will be a big affair. Not only will the members of every team in the league be present, but it is also expected that the followers of each team will be on hand.

The importance of the gathering of Thursday evening will be understood the better when it is stated that the real idea in holding the banquet is to formulate plans for next season. There are some ambitious plans for amateur hockey for 1914-15 and the banquet will, it is believed, give a decided impetus to the efforts under way.

HANDBALL TEAM FINALLY CHOSEN

Duluth Will Send a Crack Aggregation to St. Paul.

At a meeting yesterday of the handball committee of the Y. M. C. A., the makeup of the handball team of the local association that will meet the team of the St. Paul Y. M. C. A. at St. Paul Saturday for the state title, was definitely decided upon.

More players than were originally decided upon will make the trip.

Bill Wendlandt, Bill Dreves, Dr. Floyd Clarke and J. Strum will compete in the singles. This quartet is made up of the stars of the association, and if the St. Paul stars win the series they will have to travel some.

In the doubles, Bill Johnson, Clarence Olson, Alex Levine, Pete Petkoff, Dave Wisted and Fred Hanson will compete for Duluth.

This is the strongest organization of players ever gotten together at the local association. The men have survived the survival of the fittest test and have come through two tournaments as winners.

The Duluth boys will leave for St. Paul on the 1:55 Friday afternoon train and will be accompanied by a few rooters.

Hart Will Umpire.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 25.—William Hart of this city, a veteran pitcher and for several years an umpire in the Southern league, last night announced that he is awaiting a contract from President Tener of the National league to be an umpire in that organization for the forthcoming season. Mr. Hart said that negotiations between himself and Mr. Tener were conducted by wire and that Mr. Tener had agreed to his terms and had mailed a contract.

AMERICAN CREWS AFTER GOAT OF DULUTH CLUB

As National Champions Local Crews Will Have Hard Sledding.

Con Riley May Have Crack Senior Four and Eight at Philadelphia.

Jimmy Ten Eyck was in a thoughtful mood yesterday. The line of talk fell on the coming season and just what it held in prospect for the crews of the Duluth Boat club.

"Here's the idea," said James: "All of the clubs will be after us. The champion is always the target of everyone's attack. Detroit will break their backs training to beat us, for the city beautiful club has always cherished the happy belief that it had the best oarsmen in the West.

"Another thing—if Winnipeg goes to the National, it will behoove us to keep our eyes on that senior eight and four of Con's.

"I have been watching rowing races since I was a kid in knickerbockers, and take it from me in all these years I can't recall many strokes who possessed a more perfect judge of time and effort and a more cool and thorough knowledge of racing than this same Con Riley. He is a fox.

"That isn't all; not by any means. The Metropolitans and New York Athletic club and the Vespers—and others, mind, others, are after the goat of the Duluth Boat club crews.

Need Big Men.

"You can see what we are up against. That is one of the reasons why I want a bunch of boys around the 160 and 170 pound mark. We haven't enough candidates of this weight. The task before us is a huge one, for every Eastern and every Western club in the National Association of Rowing clubs is bent on defeating the Duluth Boat club.

"Our victory in the intermediate eight event at Peoria was considered more in the light of a happenstance, whatever that is. You know the Detroit Boat club threatened to send its eight up to the Northwestern at St. Paul last year, simply to show the rowing world that it could defeat the senior eight of our club.

"There will be a lot of oarsmen bent on showing us up at Philadelphia this year—and to avoid defeat we will have to do the hardest and most conscientious work that has ever been done by any of the crews in the history of the club.

"As to Kenora—well, there's another hard job. Con Riley was not at St. Paul last year, and without Con the Winnipeggers cannot muster their full strength. We want Con to compete against us; as a matter of fact, we desire to send our senior four against the Winnipeg senior four and our senior eight against that tried and true veteran eight of Winnipeg. In the event of the Winnipeg Rowing club having its senior eight and four at Kenora, the followers of rowing will see some race."

Duluth Also Has an Axe.

Realizing that Duluth will be the club they will all try to get this season, it might be stated that Duluth has an axe to grind at the expense of Winnipeg.

The year before last at Winnipeg the Winnipeg senior eight gave our then junior eight a rather bad trimming. Later in the same season the Con Rileyites also defeated our eight at the Peoria National. Now—

Duluth wants to meet the Winnipeg senior eight and give it one fine beating.

In 1909 at St. Paul Con Riley's grand old eight was beaten by St. Paul and Duluth. Con threw several men out of the boat, took over some new blood from the winning junior eight, and since then has been king of the regatta.

The local oarsmen and Ten Eyck are fervently hoping that Con brings his eight both to Kenora and the national, for most of the followers of the game hereabouts are fully convinced that we have an eight capable of taking the measure of the famous Winnipeg eight—and that our senior four can also defeat the four, or what is left of the Winnipeg four that won the Stewart challenge cup, emblematic of the world's championship, at Henley.

WITH ONE-SIDED RACE IN THE OLD LEAGUES FEDS MAY HOLD SPOTLIGHT

Lou Anger, the German soldier, who is at the Orpheum this week, was formerly a baseball writer on a Philadelphia paper, and is still one of the greatest fans in the country. Here is the way he sizes up the coming baseball season for The Herald:

"This season will probably be the first in baseball history in which the center of interest will not be confined to the two major leagues. Instead, the Federal league will be in the limelight from the opening game until the bell rings for the final contest, unless, however, the unexpected happens, and the new league does not live for the final game. Such a condition is not likely to come to pass. The Federals played their schedule out last season without the aid of the wonderful publicity accorded them this season, and also without the class of players they have enrolled in their ranks this season. If the race in the new league is at all close, interest will be as great or greater than will be shown in the race of the older organizations. Baltimore or Chicago should win the pennant in the Federal league. They look to be the class in that organization. If Tinker is permitted to keep Seaton, Chicago will have the edge, for he will have a pitching staff equal to any club in the country.

Seaton, Brennan and Hendrix as the backbone, will keep the Windy City team in the race all season.

Will Romp Home.

"The raid of the Federals on organized ball, upset all the hope of the coming season. As the race looks now, the Athletics and Giants will romp home, unless unexpected strength is developed in the other clubs. New York in the National league will be minus two valuable players, viz: Shaeffer and Herzog, but the pitching staff is intact, and their closest rivals of last season, the Philadelphia club is all shot to pieces by the loss of four star players and the possibility of losing a fifth in Kilfifer. This will make the going rather easy for McGraw.

"Boston will give a lot of trouble, while Pittsburg will be the only other club New York need worry about. In the American league the Athletics are the class, and unless accidents put their pitchers and fielders out of the game, they will have the pennant won before July is over. Washington may bother them for a while on account of Walter Johnson, but he alone cannot beat the clubs. If Griffith can develop another pitcher to help Johnson, then the Washington club may make the Athletics work a little harder for the pennant. Aside from Washington, no other club in the American league need be considered seriously.

"With the race in the National and American leagues practically over in midseason, the fans will naturally turn to the Federals for excitement, and the heads of the new league evidently had such a condition in mind when they went after their players. The pennant winners of last season were left practically alone, Crandall and Wilson of the Giants being the only regular players of that team joining the new league. Their loss will not be felt, for McGraw has Myers and McLean for back-stopping, and Crandall was only used as a relief pitcher last season. If the Federal league lives out the season with any degree of success, the moguls of organized ball won't hesitate very long in making overtures to the new league for an understanding, which will practically mean an amalgamation. When the American league was started some years ago, organized ball said it couldn't live; but as soon as it showed it was in the field to stay, they were invited into the fold, and history may, and probably will, repeat itself in this instance."

LAST TO QUALIFY.

Roller Skating Finals Will Now Be Settled.

Detroit, Mich., March 25.—Jack Woodworth of Washington was the last man to qualify for the grand final heat in the professional roller skating championship tournament, which will close tonight after a week of preliminary racing. Fred Martin of Milwaukee finished first in last night's semi-finals but was disqualified for fouling two of his opponents. Woodworth, finishing second, was declared the winner.

His time was 3:18 but the heat went one lap beyond the mile, owing to failure of the judges to stop the skaters at the conclusion of the fourteenth lap.

HEAR TALK AGAINST AND FOR SUFFRAGE

Members of House Elections Committee Discuss the French Bill.

Washington, March 25.—Woman suffragists and antis had another round of argument yesterday before the house elections committee—this time over the French bill to permit certain qualified women to vote at congressional elections. Both contingents numbered men among their supporters.

Rev. Olivia Brown of Racine, Wis., and Mrs. Clara Berwick Colby of Portland, Or., presented the case of the suffragists and Miss Lucy Price and Miss Minnie Bronson, the latter the secretary of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, declared a majority of the women of the United States did not wish to vote.

Representative French of Idaho, author of the bill, and Representative Sherley of Kentucky had a joint debate that interrupted the hearing and drew volleys of applause from both sides.

No Crisis in Peru.

New York, March 25.—The seriousness of the situation in Lima, Peru, where dispatches have reported a general strike and collisions between the opposing parties, has been greatly exaggerated, according to a cablegram received by Edwardo Higginson, a Peruvian consul general. The message said that congress was unable to assemble owing to the impossibility of obtaining a quorum, but that this was not to be interpreted in the sense of hostility to the provisional government.

FIRST SALT CELLAR SELLS FOR $28,000.

London, March 25.—A silver salt cellar from the late Lord Ashburnham's collection, was sold for $28,000 at Christie's auction rooms today. The treasure, which dates from the period of Henry VII, is believed to be the earliest standing salt cellar in existence. Its height with the cover is 12¼ inches, but it weighs only 30 ounces.

YAMAMOTO CABINET FALL CAUSES TALK.

Tokio, March 24.—The resignation of the Japanese cabinet yesterday has given rise to considerable discussion in political circles in Japan. The Radicals consider the disappearance of Admiral Count Gombel Yamamoto's cabinet as a blow to the system of clan government, and they are fighting the influence of the old conservative bureaucratic groups in behalf of what they term "a truer constitutional regime."

A statement was issued today by the government declaring that the cabinet had resigned on account of the failure of the house of representatives and the house of peers to agree on the budget. All of the opposition journals attribute the fall of the government to the naval scandal.

HOUSEWIVES "STUNG."

East end housewives have been hoodwinked by two clever female canvassers, according to stories which have reached the office of the Associated Charities.

Two women have been making a canvass of the East end and have succeeded in disposing of a large supply of soap.

The canvassers told a pathetic story about how they needed the money for half-starved children at home.

The soap offered for sale was of the "unparelleled" kind. It sold for 50 cents a bar and some housewives fell for several bars.

The matter would probably never have been thought of a second time if it had not been for the fact that one of the "victims" ran across the same brand of soap on a downtown bargain counter selling at 7 cents a bar.

In view of the fact that she had stocked up with $5 worth of the 50-cent stuff, it rather pained her. The proprietor of the store admitted that he had been selling the soap by the box to two women solicitors.

The matter was referred to the Associated Charities.

PECK'S FIRST WIFE TAKES CARE OF BODY.

Stamford, Conn., March 25.—The body of Prof. Harry Thurston Peck, who committed suicide by shooting, was removed yesterday to the home of his former wife, Mrs. Cornelia Dawbarn Peck, at Sound Beach, with the consent of Mrs. Elizabeth Peck, his second wife.

Among the effects of Prof. Peck, of which Mrs. Cornelia Peck has taken charge, are a number of manuscripts prepared, apparently, for publication. One of these was on "Platonic Friendship." In which the question is raised as to "whether a man and woman associated in their work day after day and year after year, can maintain a friendship wholly free from sex consciousness."

DEMOCRATS HARMONIOUS

Fifty-Two Delegates to the State Conference Are Chosen.

President Wilson's Achievements During First Year, Warmly Eulogized.

In one of the most harmonious meetings ever held by the county Democracy, fifty-two delegates to the state Democratic conference were named in the county conference at the city hall last night. They were uninstructed as to candidates but were instructed to vote as a unit. There was not a discordant note on any proposition brought up, complete unity seeming to be the desire of each man present, and that was the tone of the speeches. The city council chamber was packed and many had to stand in the hall. Many were from the range towns.

Resolutions eulogizing the president for his course during his first year of administration and William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, for his attitude, were adopted without dissent. The same set of resolutions contained a commendation of Congressman W. S. Hammond of the Second district for his work on the ways and means committee of the house and for his assistance to the administration. The speakers of the evening were J. D. Murphy of Tower and Andrew Nelson of Duluth.

The meeting was called to order by County Chairman Walter F. Dacey. J.

J. A. ("BERT") FARRELL.

A. Farrell was elected chairman of the convention and Victor Benoe of Hibbing was elected secretary.

The first matter to come up was a resolution introduced by Alfred Jaques, which was unanimously adopted and read as follows:

"We, the Democrats of St. Louis count, Minn., in county conference assembled, regretting the absence of Anton C. Weiss, one of our number, on account of his convalescence at Rochester, Minn., do hereby send this message of greeting, sympathy and good fellowship to him and express the hope that he may rapidly recover."

Following came a vote of thanks to the retiring chairman and secretary, Walter F. Dacey and Harris Bennett, after which W. J. North moved that a committee of five to select fifty-two delegates to the state conference be named. The motion carried and the committee was chosen as follows: W. J. North and Frank Jordan of Duluth, J. B. Connors of Hibbing, Charles Jesmore of Eveleth and Charles Eaton of Virginia.

W. E. McEwen moved that a committee on resolutions be appointed, which was done, with the following as members: John Kenney, T. J. McKeon and Alfred Jaques of Duluth, Dr. M. N. Triplett of Floodwood and J. H. Fleming of Virginia.

During their absence, at the suggestion of Walter M. Johnson, J. D. Murphy of Tower was called on for a speech and responded. He urged harmony, and asserted that this year in particular, with harmony and unity in the ranks, both county and state offices may be carried by the Democracy with ease.

Resolutions Adopted.

The report of the committee on resolutions, which was unanimously adopted, was as follows:

"We, the Democrats of St. Louis county, Minnesota, in county conference assembled, pursuant to the call of the Democratic state committee, take this our first opportunity to enthusiastically commend and indorse the progressive and statesmanlike administration of Woodrow Wilson which has brought to bear upon public questions an intellectual balance, a humane purpose, and an enthusiastic patriotism seldom equaled in the annals of our country.

"We cannot fail also at this time to commend and indorse the patriotic and efficient administration of the department of state by W. J. Bryan. Particularly, we indorse the policy of Woodrow Wilson and W. J. Bryan toward our neighbor people of Mexico.

"It is only fit and proper that the great American Democracy should sympathize with and encourage the people of Mexico in their struggle for liberty, freedom and equality against petty tyrants and feudal landlords. We should always remember that the struggle of the Mexican people is against a feudal system of land tenure which exalts Mexican land monopolists and crushes and demoralizes the common people. The sympathy of America should be, as it is, with the Mexican people in the struggle for progress and justice.

"We commend the Democratic congress for its loyalty to the people and its pledges in the passage of:

"First—A tariff reform bill which has reduced the burdens of the people.

"Second—An income tax measure which equalizes the burdens of taxation and increases the revenues of the government.

"Third—A Federal reserve bank act which does away with any monopoly of credits and puts the businessmen of the country on a basis of equality.

"We commend W. S. Hammond of the Second district of Minnesota for his faithful work upon the great ways and means committee of the house of representatives in assisting to perfect the tariff reform bill and the income tax law."

Unit Rule Ordered.

Then came the report of the committee on selection of delegates. It was adopted unanimously, after which a motion by T. J. McKeon to have the St. Louis county delegation to the state conference vote as a unit on all matters was carried. It was also decided that the chairman be empowered to select delegates to fill places of those who could not attend. The delegates selected follow:

Duluth—John Jenswold, A. C. Weiss, C. O. Baldwin, Charles McEwen, Andrew Nelson, F. J. Voss, Alfred Jaques, John T. Pearson, M. L. Fay, D. D. Murray, John Kenney, W. E. McEwen, Charles d'Autremont, Emerson Vokes, Harris Bennett, William Miller, Frank Makowski, Frank Jordan, John Brown, E. A. Tessman, Michael Lynch, George Neff, H. P. Curran, W. F. Dacey, E. R. Ribenack, John Hogan, O. G. Olson, E. A. Furni, P. McDonnell, Charles Hoar, Louis Levine, August Hagburg, P. H. Martin and W. R. Getchell.

Virginia—Michael Boylan, M. H. McMahon and Charles Eaton.

Eveleth—Charles Jesmore.

Chisholm—J. H. Harrington and A. H. Kleffman.

Hibbing—J. B. Connors, Victor Benoe, J. L. Lewis and Bryan O'Rourke.

Buhl—F. J. Daniel.

Aurora—Louis Tillman.

Ely—John Harri.

Tower—J. D. Murphy.

Floodwood—M. N. Triplett.

Proctor—Pat McCabe.

Gilbert—T. L. Morrison.

Nelson Speaks.

After it was decided to have the chairman, at his leisure, appoint a county committee of thirty-two, Andrew Nelson was called upon for a speech. Mr. Nelson, though entirely unprepared, responded with a talk that stirred his listeners to enthusiasm. Said he in part:

"There never was a time, I believe, when the Democracy of the country was more united and enthusiastic than now. There never was a time, certainly, when Democracy has been prouder of the constructive work of its head than now. We are united in commending, with pride, the progress and achievements of the administration. We are proud that we have a leader who, before he acts, does not inquire what the interests want, but does inquire what the people want and what will be to their benefit; and one who can answer that question in its entirety. And we can be proud of the man beside him, the peerless leader whom we followed with unflinching fidelity through eighteen years of strife and defeat, knowing his worth and pinning our faith to him.

"We are glad not only because our party has the opportunity, but that it has taken the opportunity to bring relief to the people. If our party had not done what was expected of it, it would not now be receiving the universal approval which it is getting nor would it be sweeping on to a congressional victory the nation over that is as sure to come as the elections next November occur.

Party in Minnesota.

"In Minnesota, if we name the right man, we will march on to victory as we did ten years ago under the leadership of the lamented John A. Johnson. History repeats itself. At that time the Republicans were disunited as now, and the defeated faction in the Republican party made it possible to elect a Democrat, and admittedly the greatest governor the state has ever had. The warring Republican factions now cannot and will not get together after the primaries. We have the opportunity, but unless we grasp it and name the right man, we are not going to win even with such an opportunity.

"The Democrats of the state are in a peculiar position as compared with the Republicans. With the latter party there is no dearth of men who want to be governor—not to save the state, but for their own selfish ends. With the Democrats it looks as though we will have to draft a man. It is clearly a case of the office seeking the man, and he must be a good, clean man to be chosen.

"If I see the signs of the times aright, I cannot understand, with the tremendous prestige of President Wilson with us, how we shall fail.

"It used to be said that the Democracy was not a constructive party; that it was a good enough opposition party but that was all. That has been dinned in our ears since childhood. That can no longer be said. It has developed that it is, above all, a constructive party. It has broken every nosback precedent that it has collided with. But to continue and to advance our victories, we must have men who will support the administration and not find fault about small matters. Let the cause be advanced; let us all get together behind the wheel and push along the great and noble cause of the people—not of the Democracy, but of the people. That is the new spirit that is permeating the nation and that has been aroused by the present administration. I am, and I know you are, proud to belong to a party which embodies that spirit."

MAINE BULL MOOSE FOR PROHIBITION

Would Submit Question to Nation for Final Vote.

Bangor, Me., March 25.—A strong stand for prohibition was taken by Maine Progressives at their first state convention here to nominate candidates. Their platform advocated the submission of the question of national prohibition to the people, and pledged the party to a straight, state-wide enforcement of the prohibitory liquor law.

Halbert P. Gardner of Patten, member of the Progressive national committee, was unanimously nominated for governor, and Morton T. Goodrich of Bingham for state auditor. These are the only two elective state officers. Their names will appear on the ballots by petition at the September election, as the party is not entitled this year to participate with Republicans and Democrats in the June primaries.

The platform declared for an "intelligent protective tariff, constructed on sound economic lines, laid out by a non-partisan scientific tariff commission." The Underwood tariff law was condemned as "unjust, unfair and sectional, and especially as discriminating against the interests of agriculture." The Payne-Aldrich tariff law was also condemned as not fulfilling the pledges of the Republican party.

SCENTS A SCANDAL IN MEXICAN TREATY.

Washington, March 25.—Charges that the treaty between the United States and Mexico creating the water boundary commission "involves a scandal," and that the state of Colorado has suffered direct damage of $17,250,000 because of the prohibition in 1896 under the treaty of the use of the flood waters of the Rio Grande, were made yesterday by Senator Thomas of Colorado. The senator urged his resolution to grant to Colorado the right to file suit against the secretary of the interior to determine ownership of the flood water.

Strike-breaker Sentenced.

Seattle, Wash., March 25.—Charles Killman, a professional strike-breaker who confessed that he had planted dynamite with the purpose of incriminating leaders of the teamsters' strike in this city, pleaded guilty of conspiracy and was sentenced to six months in the county stockade.

5,918,000 gallons Polarine sold last year

1,536,232 gallons more than in 1912

The constantly increasing use of POLARINE by thousands of motorists is indisputable evidence of its lubricating efficiency.

It affords perfect lubrication to all makes and types of motor cars, motor trucks, motorcycles and motor boats.

POLARINE maintains the correct lubricating body at any motor speed or temperature.

FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

POLARINE remains liquid at zero. POLARINE differs from all other makes of motor oils, in that it furnishes perfect lubrication to friction surfaces at extremes of temperature.

These essential characteristics obviate the necessity of changing oil for summer and winter lubrication—also the necessity of mixing kerosene, graphite and other injurious products with unsuitable and poor cold-test oil for the purpose of making it feed in winter weather.

Health and Strength Regained By Splendid Tonic Influence

The Season's Difference Affects All Manner of Life and the Human Body Needs Help Most of All

So many people use S. S. S. every Spring that it is really a message of health to those who wonder why they feel so utterly worn out when the trees begin to bud. Throughout the Southern States S. S. S. has been for forty years a trusted tonic for the early days of Spring. Of purely vegetable origin it combines elements which kindly influence the overworked blood vessels or overstrained nerve tissues. Its action is medicinal just as meat or milk is nutritional.

OUR WINTER INACTIVITY.

During the confined months of the winter season there are many of us who are less active. The liver is sluggish, the skin is dormant, the kidneys are overworked, the lungs are not called upon to breathe with sufficient depth and energy to satisfy the demands of the tissues for their needed amount of oxygen. And thus the body needs help, must have it. Experience comes to our relief, and what better guide could we select than the example of those who annually know exactly what to do—use S. S. S.

RETAINS ITS INDIVIDUALITY.

The wonderful tonic influence of this splendid blood purifier is traced to its ability to retain its individuality. It is acceptable to the weakest stomach, and yet it is not changed or converted or excreted until it has exercised its medicinal dominance throughout the blood circulation.

This is important. Some drugs have this same effect, but they remain in the system, a fruitful source of irritation and danger. S. S. S. does not remain in the system, for after having served the purpose as a medicinal action, it is excreted with the waste products, and this emunctory process goes on every second of time.

THE GREAT QUESTION OF HEALTH ANSWERED

BLOOD IMPURITIES BY NAME.

We are prone to think too much of names. When the muscles ache and the sciatic nerve hurts, and there are general pains the word Rheumatism leads one to forget that it is the blood as much as the nerves that are responsible for these pains. And S. S. S. proves this by its tonic influence in the blood. When the mind and body are jaded and utterly cast down with malarial infection, it is the blood that contains this poisonous influence. Here again S. S. S. asserts its tonic influence. And if from a sluggish blood stream, there are skin eruptions, blood risings, indolent abscesses and other evidences of accumulated body wastes, the medicinal action of S. S. S. gives ocular evidence of its medicinal influence.

A TRUTHFUL MEDICINE.

Not one particle of anything other than the native roots and simple preservatives are used in the preparation of S. S. S. It has survived many years of the most searching tests, and never in its forty and more years of usefulness has it ever been found otherwise than a purely beneficial medicine, helpful to the young, invigorating to those advanced in years, and containing just the amount of gentle exhilaration so much required by most women.

S. S. S. is strongly recommended in almost every community in America, and is sold in most drug, department and general stores.

But by all means avoid substitutes. Do not permit anyone to palm off something they claim to be "Just as good." Ask for S. S. S., insist upon getting it and you will thus avoid grievous disappointment. S. S. S. is prepared only in the Laboratory of the Swift Specific Co., 408 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. And for a special book on Catarrh or Rheumatism or skin diseases or blood troubles, write to our Medical Dept., who will be glad to give you special and personal directions in the use of S. S. S.

Your Manly Strength "Nature" Book Free

MY FREE OFFER TO MY MEN AND YOUNG MEN READERS.

My free offer is as follows: There are in existence today numerous creditable books relating to the much discussed sex science, and they range in price from $2 to $5, while my offer as given below is a free one.

I publish a little private compendium of 72 pages, pocket size, containing 8,000 words and 20 half-tone photo reproductions, which thoroughly covers the subject of sex, but only in its relation to manhood or vital manly strength, its legitimate uses, its wanton abuses, its loss and the causes thereof, its possible self-restoration and its permanent preservation. These are the vital phases of the sex subject which I find to be of most interest to all men, young or elderly, single or married, and I have therefore put into this little self-help book the very best that I can offer relating to that particular personal and private advice and information, which my 30 years' practical experience in this field has taught me men most seek, and through which they can get the most real benefit in respect to their own vigor and vital health. This, reader, is the book, and my offer is to send it by mail, absolutely and entirely free of charge, in a perfectly plain, sealed envelope, to any man or young man anywhere who writes for it (see coupon below), and there is not a particle of obligation of any kind whatsoever involved in making this gift offer to you. Over a million of these books have been thus sent to men all over the world who wrote for them.

The reason why I can offer this illustrated sex book free is that in one part I include a description of a little mechanical vitalizer of my own invention, which is for use by those of my readers who need some outside aid in the restoration of their manly vigor. However, that is a matter for each person to decide for himself. The book is complete and entirely independent of anything it says with respect to the vitalizer. Therefore please use free coupon and get the book by return mail. You will find it a valuable adviser in many respects. SANDEN, Author.

HE WINS—MANHOOD COUNTS.

Vital manhood and an abundant manly vigor is the greatest human asset of our day. Every man is entitled to be perfectly strong, vigorous and capable, just as nature intended he should, and if through the medium of my book I can show you how you yourself may become as vital, manly and forceful as the best man of your acquaintance, then I have merely given you a clear understanding of what nature is herself constantly endeavoring to tell and show you.

As to my vitalizer, it may or may not be necessary in your own case, but if you want to use it after reading the description, I will gladly make some liberal proposition so you may get one to try. This vitalizer, weighing only several ounces, is worn all night. It generates a soft, easy flowing FORCE which I call vitality. This FORCE enters your system at the small of the back, flowing thence through the kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder and organs, and diffusing itself to every part of the body. Over 260,000 Sanden vitalizers are now in use or have recently been used. It keeps up its gentle action while you sleep. Men everywhere have said it makes them feel better and stronger almost at once, that it often takes pain out of the back in a few hours, and 60 to 90 days' time is sufficient to restore normal vigor. With special attachments my vitalizer is used by women as well as men for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, etc.

If you live in or near this city, would be pleased to have you call. Hours, 9 to 6; Sundays, 10 to 1.

However, whether or not you ever use the vitalizer, at least you want the free book, so kindly fill in the coupon and the book will go to you, sealed, by return m. l.

AUSTIN WINS ON RECOUNT

Loses One Vote on Second Count of Chisholm Votes.

Now Has 398 Votes Instead of 399 as First Reported.

Chisholm, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The canvassing board consisting of John Dwyer, who was agreed upon as the third member by Attorneys Harry Austin and C. R. Woods, appointed by the court, late yesterday finished the recount of votes cast for president of the village March 10.

To the contesting parties the result was very disappointing but to the defendants the result was as anticipated. Attorney Nell Beaton representing Henry Fugere, the contestant, was present and Attorney Edward Freeman, represented Joseph Austin..

JOSEPH AUSTIN,
Chisholm President.

Austin Lost One Vote.

The recount gave Mr. Austin, whose title to the office of president was contested by Henry Fugere, 398 votes compared with 399 he was given on the original canvass. Each candidate lost one vote in Precinct No. 1, otherwise there was no change from the vote first reported, as Mr. Fugere gained one vote in Precinct No. 5, where Mr. Borlin lost one.

The recount by precincts showed the following:

VERDICT FAVORS FORMER TREASURER

Jury in Twenty Minutes Finds for Joseph Grant.

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A jury in the case of Great Scott township against Jos. H. Grant, former treasurer, in which the plaintiff sued for an alleged discrepancy of $2,200, returned a verdict for the defendant late yesterday afternoon after having been out but twenty minutes.

The discrepancy showed only because of technical errors in bookkeeping was the successful claim of the defense.

SWITCHING CHARGE MATTER NOT DROPPED

Virginia Council Will Press Roads Interested for Action.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Immediate steps will be taken by the city council to have the local switching charges rearranged. The matter was discussed by the council some time ago but nothing definite has been done up to the present time. Last night the question was again taken up and the officials of the Missabe and the Great Northern railroads, which are directly concerned, will be asked to meet with the council at an early date. Should they fail to do so the matter will be laid before the state railroad and warehouse commission.

The appointment of S. S. Williamson as auditor of the city's books for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1914, was reconsidered and the finance committee will make an investigation before an accountant is engaged. Mr. Williamson was appointed a week ago, but last night the question of his competency was brought up by two of the aldermen with the result that the appointment was reconsidered.

Mollan for President.

Following the regular meeting of the council there was a caucus of the new members and those who hold over in the committee room of the hall for the purpose of discussing the appointments to be made at the first meeting of the new council, which will be held on April 7. Nothing could be learned as to what action was taken with the exception that Alderman Fred J. Mollan was agreed upon for president of the council. The caucus is said to have been a harmonious one in all respects.

VIRGINIA MAY GET LARGE PLAYHOUSE

Possible Builders of Badly Needed Theater Look Over Field.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia may have a new opera house before the end of the present year. Representatives of outside capital have been here looking the ground over and are said to have been very favorably impressed. Should they find a suitable location and decide to build, a playhouse costing between $75,000 and $100,000 will be erected. Virginia at the present time has four theaters, two "movies" and two vaudeville houses. Another motion picture house is in course of construction.

Needed For Larger Attractions.

There is no place, however, where the large attractions can play and the new house is designed to be used for road shows exclusively. It is pointed out by those interested that Virginia has a population of about 70,000 to draw from and that on account of its central location and the facilities for reaching the city on the interurban line such a theater as has been proposed would prove a paying venture from the start.

EVELETH JUNIORS MAKE FINE RECORD

Average Percentage in All Studies for March Is 90.

Eveleth, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The junior class in the Eveleth high school attained an average of 90 per cent in all studies for March. This is said to be the highest average ever made in the local school and the class is proud of the honors won.

The average was based upon the standings of each member of the class in each subject. The other three classes were only a few points below and the average for the school is high.

In one previous month the juniors came within a fraction of a percent of reaching 90 but never quite attained it until this month.

ALL-STAR BOWLERS.

Crack Pin Smashers of Hibbing Have Organized League.

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—An All-Star Bowling league has been organized among the experts of the village for a brief series before the season closes. Each man will be required to put up an entrance fee of 50 cents. This money will then be divided half to the team having the highest percentage and half to the three players with the highest averages. Each team will play five games, there being six teams in the league. The teams will be composed of the following well known bowlers:

Furlong—All Nation: Lee McNulty, captain; Joe Rooney, Phil Tiebert, R. Kramer, C. Booth and Richard Thiel.

Finns: John Harlo, captain; Harry Cay, B. Burkman, John Rival and W. Ranta.

Jolly Germans: W. Messner, captain; Earl St. Jullen, M. Sontag, Joe Kaiser and W. Whyment.

All Stars: J. Kaiser, captain; E. Kaiser, H. Geiser, R. Geisselman and H. Dwyer.

Terrible Swedes: Odin Jackson, captain; Elmer Nord, E. Jackson, Chas. Johnson and Joe Collyard.

Oliver club: E. Waterhouse, captain; W. Brown, M. Peters, W. Kaiser and H. Martin.

The first game will be played Friday evening when the Finns will meet the Oliver club. Some high scores are expected in all of the matches as the individual bowlers are the pick of the various village teams.

VIRGINIA UNION DEPOT.

Plans Looking to That End Are Fairly Bright.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The regular meeting of the Commercial club will be held in the city hall tomorrow evening. Reports of several committees will be presented, chief of which will be that of the railroad committee. President W. A. McGonagle of the Missabe road, is said to have promised to co-operate with the club and that the prospects for a new depot are very encouraging.

HEADING MILL RUNS FULL BLAST.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. J. Rinnert, president and general manager, and Floyd Perkins, superintendent of the Gopher Heading & Manufacturing company, have returned from Cook and Ericksburg, where they looked over some timber. The mill made a record last week, four carloads of headings being shipped.

Discussed Underground Mining.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Men's Fortnightly club met at the public library last night. Wilbur Van Evera read a paper on the operation of an underground mine and the discussion was led by Charles Grabowski, assistant general superintendent of the Oliver Iron Mining company in the Virginia district.

Taken to County Hospital.

Chisholm, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Bowron of the Saw Mill location was taken to the county hospital yesterday by Officer Talboys to receive treatment. Mr. Bowron suffered a stroke of paralysis last summer and has since been dependent. His family of three small children and wife will be looked after by the authorities until Mr. Bowron is able to return home.

ANTON GERZIN IS PRESIDENT

Chisholm Man Is New Head of Slovenian-Croatian Union.

Next Triennial Convention Will Be Held in Eveleth in 1917.

Ely, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The eighth biennial convention of the Slovenian-Croatian Union, that has been in session here for the past eight days came to a close yesterday after one of the most interesting meetings of its history. The three subjects that caused the greatest discussions were: The adopting of the National Fraternal Congress' schedule of rates; the decision to hold the sessions of the union only once in three years instead of biennially, and the payment of all benefits for sickness or death from the central treasury instead of from the local unions. All were adopted. The convention of 1917 will be held in Eveleth.

Officers for the three-year term were chosen as follows: President, Anton Gerzin, Chisholm; vice president, Frank Gregorich, South Range, Mich.; secretary, Ferdinand Stefich, Calumet, Mich.; assistant secretary, Joseph Butala, Ahmeek, Mich.; treasurer, Michael Sunich, Calumet, Mich.; board of trustees, Vincent Arbanac, Calumet, Mich.; Anton Geshell, Calumet; Math Ozanich, Calumet; Frank Levstik, Aurora, Minn.; Joseph Stefanec, Calumet, Mich.

Board of Jurors.

Board of jurors: Joseph Spreitzer, Ely; Martin Mihelich, Calumet; and John Gazvoda of Calumet.

Supreme medical examiner: Dr. A. J. Kolhaas of Calumet, Mich.

The union is one of the youngest fraternal organizations doing business in Minnesota. It is incorporated under the laws of Michigan and has its headquarters in Calumet. Its business is exclusively among the Slovenian and Croatian people.

Secured Eveleth Meet.

Eveleth, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Agnich and Frank Bozich returned yesterday from Ely where they were successful in obtaining the next national convention of the Slovenian-Croatian Union for Eveleth, in 1917. Mr. Agnich formerly resided at Calumet, Mich., and it was his acquaintance with the members of the delegation from that city that swung the vote in favor of this city. Virginia also wanted the convention but lost out by one vote.

Anton Gerzin of Chisholm, newly elected president of the union, and a number of Calumet delegates accompanied the local men here and spent the day in looking over the city. The Commercial club, Mayor J. J. Gleason and other public officials sent letters and telegrams of invitation to the convention telling of the accommodations that the city could offer and the members who visited the city yesterday were well pleased with the city as the place for the next meeting.

ELY CLAIMS TIE.

Deny Two Harbors Won Recent Basket Ball Game.

Ely, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the local team claim an error was made in the reports from Two Harbors relative to the basket ball game played there last Friday night, according to the records of the Ely high school basket ball team. Instead of its being a victory for Two Harbors by the score of 30 to 28, it was a tie game, both scorers agreeing that each side scored 30 points.

This was the closing game for the Ely team. During the season they have defeated every opponent except Aurora at least one game. The fast Virginia high school loosing one game to Ely and Two Harbors lost one game and tied one with Ely. During the season Ely scored 251 points to their opponents' 194. In addition to the faithful work, much credit is due Prof. Bundlle for his coaching of the team during the season.

Still Curling at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—Considerable interest is displayed in the nationality contest that starts at the curling rink tonight. The scheduled games are the Irish, represented by Flanagan's rink, against the Dutch, impersonated by Klefman's rink; the English, headed by Dr. Bullen, against the Scotch, led by Dr. Blacklock; the French, skipped by G. L. Thoulin, against the Norwegians, headed by Lindberg.

DR. STUMM ONCE LIVED IN HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. T. W. Stumm, the St. Paul physician who dropped dead in his laboratory in Vienna last week, was a resident of Hibbing during the years 1901-02, leaving here for Chicago and then going to St. Paul. He was popular among the medical men of the village who were notified yesterday of his death.

Team Not Swamped.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the local city basket ball team who recently played Bemidji two games deny they were swamped as some reports printed, by such scores as 38 to 15 and 36 to 18, but that on the contrary the correct scores were 27 to 18 and 29 to 21. Every effort has been made to bring the Bemidji team here for a series of games but they absolutely refuse to leave their own floor. The local players are confident that they could wipe out the two defeats if the Bemidji boys could be persuaded to crawl out of their little shell and meet the Two Harbors team on a neutral floor.

COLD WAVE

The weather man made good this time on snow, which had been threatening for three days before it came. In fact, he made too good and now people are likely to believe his prediction for tonight, which is for a cold wave. The winds, too, will be brisk and northwesterly. There was some wind last night and the night was about as nasty as one would care to be out in. Then there was sleet and this morning rain, later turning to snow. And now a cold wave. March has still a week to go, and the only hope is that the lion will get sick soon.

The weather was cold a year ago today. The sun rose this morning at one minute after 6 and will set this evening at 6:27, giving twelve hours and twenty-six minutes of sunshine, three minutes more than yesterday.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance of marked intensity which is centered over Eastern Minnesota caused light to heavy rain or snow over the western lake region, Mississippi and Missouri valleys and the Northwest, and sleet over Northeastern Minnesota, also much warmer weather over the lake region, Mississippi and Ohio valleys. A cold wave has developed in the Northwest and will doubtless reach the Head of the Lakes tonight. Zero temperatures prevail in Western Canada.

LOST BOTH HANDS, ALSO DISFIGURED

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of Luka Lukich against the Mahoning Ore & Steel company for $50,000 alleged damages sustained in an explosion in a small toolhouse at the Mahoning mine on Nov. 25, 1912, began in district court this morning.

It is charged that Lukich was ordered by the foreman to build a fire in the toolhouse, that some employe of the company had negligently allowed a gasoline can to be placed in the building with an air attachment running so that the oil was forced out over the flow and that when the match was struck to light the fire there was an explosion. Lukich has been badly crippled, losing the use of both his hands and sustaining burns that have disfigured him for life. Victor L. Power appears for the plaintiff in the action.

FREE FAIR TRIP.

Open to Boy of Lake County Who Wins Competition.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 25—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. Thomas, as chairman of the Lake county development committee, has just announced that any boys living in this district will be eligible to compete for a prize which will consist of a free trip to the Minnesota State fair in September. The selection of boys will be made by the county superintendent of schools in accordance with the rank of the boys in an essay contest. Each boy making an application will be required to write an essay of not less than 400 or more than 700 words upon one of the following subjects: "Live Stock," "Corn," "Clover," or "Alfalfa." All these essays must be in the hands of the county superintendent of schools before May 1. The essays will be carefully marked and the winners announced on or before the first day of June. The committee in charge of this contest hopes that every boy in the community interested in farming will enter the contest in order to make the plan successful.

ELY WIFE-BEATER GETS NINETY DAYS.

Ely, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Mishmash was taken to Duluth today to serve ninety days in jail for beating his wife. About a year ago he was found guilty of the same offense, and was fined $40 and costs, which Mrs. Mishmash immediately paid for him. This time he was given a straight jail sentence.

May Invoke Injunction.

Buhl, Minn., March 25.—Reports are current of the intention of certain taxpayers to seek by injunction to hold up a lot of village improvements planned here this year on the ground the village cannot afford a heavy expenditure for paving and other improvements. Politics is alleged to be behind the movement to tie the hands of Mayor Doyle with an injunction. He was elected head of the city government in Buhl two years ago on a Progressive platform, promising the extension of municipal improvements. During the time he has been in office he has been instrumental in the establishment of a white way, and the laying of much needed pavement.

After Game Law Violators.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia Rod and Gun club is the first to get back of Fred B. Myers, recently appointed on the game commission, in the enforcement of the game laws. Yesterday Joseph Backus, president of the club, swore out complaints against two offenders before Special Judge Gillespie in municipal court. One is charged with having three bull moose and one cow moose in his possession and the other with having one bull moose stored away. Warrants were issued for their arrest and they will be brought to Virginia for trial.

Making Chisholm Audit.

Chisholm, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Otto Spies representing Temple, Webb & Co. of St. Paul, is making his sixth annual audit of the books of the recorder's office and municipal court. This firm was the first to make the audit after the big fire in 1908 and completed an audit at that time that dated back several years bringing the records down to April, 1909. A system was then installed which has since been followed and is giving good results.

MEN REJECT OFFER OF COAL OPERATORS.

Chicago, March 25.—Final refusal of the United Mine Workers of America to accept the terms offered by the bituminous coal mine owners of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois brought to an end here the joint wage scale conference of the men and employers.

Although the present wage agreement expires next week and there is no understanding under which the men have agreed to continue work, union leaders declared that a strike was not imminent.

The policy committee of the United Mine Workers has been summoned to meet here and the men's leaders announced that they expected it to decide upon a line of action that would prevent a labor crisis in the mines. The operators stated that the next proposition must come from the men.

WHY DOCTORS NO LONGER CLAIM TO "CURE" PEOPLE

A few years ago it was a common thing for the family doctor to say, "I will cure you in a few days." This cheerful prophecy often gave the patient new hope and courage but it is no longer good form. Doctors still "cure" malaria and a few other troubles in which their medicines have a direct or "specific" action on the virus of the disease. In other cases they simply give supporting medicine and keep up the strength of the patient until nature effects a cure.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure chlorosis and other trouble due to thin blood because they have a specific action on the blood, building it up, purifying and enriching it. This direct action on the blood also makes them the best supporting and strengthening medicine. If you are thin and weak, breathless after slight exertion, if you have palpitation of the heart, gas on the stomach, cold hands and feet, if you are nervous and easily irritated and show other signs of weakened vitality, try these strengthening pills at once and let the rich, red blood cure you. Get a box today at the nearest drug store and begin at once to build up your health. Write now to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."

THREE QUARTERS OF THEIR CAPACITY

Steel plants in the Chicago district and in the East are operating on a basis of about 75 per cent this week.

Though few heavy individual contracts have been placed of late, the volume of new business is said to be mounting up into a fair aggregate. Quotations are being well maintained with manufacturers adhering rigidly to their policy of quoting present prices for periods not to exceed three months.

With the resumption of building operations through the country, orders for structural steel have shown some improvement. The largest order placed in the Chicago district during the last few days was by the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railroad for 3,4445 tons.

Pig iron figures are being firmly held, with furnace men showing no disposition to contract far ahead on the present basis of quotations.

MOTHER! IS CHILD'S STOMACH SOUR, SICK?

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Agent, Wirth's drug store, 13 West Superior street.

FIVE MORE IN DISCARD

Duluth Saloon Licenses Will Be Reduced to 168 Soon.

Commissioner Hicken Opposed to Having Women in the Business.

Should the city council support the recommendations of Commissioner W. A. Hicken, head of the safety division, relative to refusing to renew saloon licenses, as is likely, the number of saloons will have been reduced from 183 to 168 during little more than a year of commission government.

Up to date the council has revoked or refused to renew eleven licenses and one went out by the death of the licensee. Of the dozen, two were reissued to others, leaving a net reduction of ten, or a total of 173 now in effect.

Five others are slated for the discard, which will mark the end of the reduction policy for the present, except for licenses which may be revoked for law violations. The reason assigned is that the commissioners feel that the city's finances will be too greatly crippled if any more are put out of business at this time. Each license costs $1,000 and it is asserted that the general fund cannot stand any further loss than the $15,000 represented by the fifteen licenses which have been or will be eliminated.

Monday afternoon the applications of Alexander Matel, 419 West Michigan street, and M. R. Timlin, 306 Central avenue, West Duluth, for renewal of their licenses, come up for consideration. Commissioner Hicken will recommend that they be refused and it is probable that he will be supported by the other members of the council. Matel and Timlin are said to have retained attorneys to handle their cases for them, but it is not thought that this will save them.

The licenses of Mrs. C. E. DeMars, 601 Garfield avenue, which is in the name of Charles Govin, and A. J. Erickson, Sixty-third avenue west and Grand avenue, expire in May. The safety commissioner will recommend that these be not renewed, as he will do when the license of Karl Lehto, 150 St. Croix avenue, expires in August. The latter was recently transferred to Lehto from Mrs. A. K. Mattson.

Commissioner Hicken stated that he is opposed to having women engaged in the saloon business and that he will make his recommendations accordingly. He said that two or more saloons now in operation are owned by women but that they might be given an opportunity to sell their places.

Public Hearing.
The city council will hold a public hearing on the ordinance designing as a residence district blocks 109 and 110, Sixth division, West Duluth, April 27, when it will have been advertised the required four weeks. It is claimed that the petition was started to prevent a hospital for crippled children being located in that vicinity. Others state that it could not be located in the building as under the building ordinance such an institution would have to be of fireproof construction.

This is the second contest over this point which has been raised since the new law went into effect.

CAPT. POTTS DENIED RELIEF BY SENATE.

Washington, March 25.—The bill to restore Capt. Templin M. Potts to the active list of the navy and promote him to be a rear admiral, was killed today by the senate naval affairs committee. Capt. Potts was "plucked" on the eve of his promotion, and several naval officers of note testified that his case was an exceptional one. The committee decided the bill set a troublesome precedent.

Chicago, March 25.—Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, for many years a leader among workers for woman suffrage, died at her home here today. Mrs. Potter was 47 years old. She will be buried, probably Saturday, at her former home at Elmira, N. Y.

TO COLLECT ALL GARBAGE

The bid of the Sanitary Garbage company to take over the garbage collection of the city was received this morning. No other bids were received in response to the city's advertisement.

The company offers to take charge of the collection in all parts of the city, except Fond du Lac, at prices substantially the same as those now charged by the city in its limited collection. It will purchase all the equipment of the city at a fair inventory price and operate the incinerator.

A contract of five years is specified, but a provision is inserted that the city can take over the collection at the end of three years, provided it will buy all of the equipment of the company. It agrees to have the system in operation by April 30, next.

The prices submitted include 10 cents a can for garbage, 10 cents per can or barrel for ashes, 10 cents a can or barrel for rubbish and $1 per load or $1 per hour for all garbage or refuse ordered removed by the health department. The company will remove all dead cats, dogs or horses free of charge if the owner cannot be found, the carcass to be the property of the company. The company will remove all waste paper or rubbish on Superior street between Eighth avenue west and Seventh avenue east if the city will furnish the cans. The company reserves the right to utilize the garbage as it sees fit, but will comply with the terms of the ordinance.

Another provision is that householders will pay in advance for tickets for their garbage collection. The company specifies that it will pay its employes every two weeks. Other provisions and conditions are included in the bid, which covers five pages. These will be carefully considered by Commissioner William A. Hicken, head of the safety division, and Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health, after which the proposal will be laid before an early meeting of the council.

The city is financially unable to install a free municipal collection of garbage, and will remain so for several years. The commissioners declare that the city collection is the only satisfactory solution, and that the letting of a private contract should be temporary, if a contract is let at all.

BOOST CANDIDATES FOR WILLARD'S PLACE

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, March 25.—Friends of the candidates for the United States judgeship for Minnesota made vacant by the death of Judge Charles A. Willard are beginning to arrive in Washington. Thomas D. O'Brien came here this morning in the interest of Chris D. O'Brien of St. Paul, who has the backing of the influential Democrats in the state.

J. B. Gilfillan of Minneapolis also is here, presumably in the interest of one of the many candidates from that city.

From present indications, no appointment will be made for some time. President Wilson will make a thorough canvass of all the candidates, and through Attorney General McReynolds will ascertain their qualifications before making a selection.

CHECK UP ON STAMP SALES

Notice was received at the local postoffice this morning in an order issued by Postmaster General Burleson that fourth-class postmasters will in the future receive an allowance for large stamp sales only when a special report is made to the first assistant postmaster itemizing the sale and explaining where the stamps are to be used.

This action has been taken by the department to guard against exceptionally large sales, which the authorities are unable to trace. Some fourth-class postmasters have been receiving credit for these sales and in most cases the stamps were not used in their local postoffice.

As fourth-class postmasters receive no pay, except on the cancellation basis, which pays the postmaster for the amount of mail handled in his postoffice each day, it is hereafter to his advantage to increase his sales and also the delivery business.

Another ruling by Postmaster General Burleson is to the effect that in the future packages sent by express by farmers to their nearest postoffice for delivery from there will be counted to the credit of the local postmaster. This will increase the percentage received by many postmasters in farm communities, it is believed.

OLGA GRAN TAKES STAND IN DEFENSE

Olga Gran, wife of Victor H. Gran, a local attorney, took the witness stand in district court this morning to tell her side of the story in the Gran matrimonial tangle which is being aired in the divorce court.

When court adjourned at noon today, Mrs. Gran had not reached that stage of her testimony touching upon the incident of her arrest with John R. Heino in the latter's office in the Sellwood building, Jan. 31, on a charge of adultery. It is understood that she will deny the charge.

Other witnesses examined this morning were W. G. Bonham, attorney; H. B. Knudsen, A. J. Powers, letter carrier; Mrs. Lillia Hakala and Edward Bouchey.

Attorney Bonham and Mr. Knudsen testified that they had made certain tests with reference to the office rooms occupied by Heino in the Sellwood building. Powers testified that between 2:30 and 2:40 o'clock on the day of the raid he delivered mail to Heino's office. He was unable to recollect whether he went into the office or dropped it through the slot in the door.

Edward Bouchey, erstwhile manager of the Imperial hotel, who testified against Gran yesterday, was called back for cross-examination this morning. He was obliged to admit, although objection was made by Attorney Goldberg, that he was the husband of the late Minnie Meyers of St. Croix avenue fame.

ROW OVER WILSON IN JERSEY LEGISLATURE

Trenton, N. J., March 25.—The lower house of the New Jersey legislature was thrown into an uproar today over a resolution introduced by Assemblyman Frank A. Foley, Democrat, protesting against the repeal by congress of the Panama canal tolls and the disorder was ended only by quick adjournment of the house without action on the resolution.

Subsequent to the introduction of a resolution, but prior to the uproar, Mr. Branegan, Democratic floor leader, offered a resolution deprecating the tendency of the house members to introduce resolutions criticizing the national government. This move by Mr. Branegan had reference not only to the Panama resolution, but also to a resolution introduced a few days ago by a Republican, criticizing President Wilson's Mexican policy.

The Branegan resolution was defeated, 14 to 43. Most of the negative votes were cast by members who believed that the Branegan resolution was an interference with the rights of individual members of the legislature.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

IMMIGRANTS FLOCKING INTO RED RIVER VALLEY

More Cars Over One Railroad So Far Than By June 1, 1913.

Bring Blooded Stock and Money and Are All Practical Farmers.

Crookston, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—To date more cars of immigrants have arrived on the Great Northern than were recorded up to June 1, 1913. The immigrants have not all been for Polk county, but scattered through Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Red Lake and Pennington counties. Ada, Norman county, reports the heaviest immigration experienced in ten years, and Mahnomen, Clay and Becker counties have had similar experiences.

It is the class of enwcomers, more than the number, that is significant. Mar Morford, a substantial farmer from Alexis, Ill., arrived recently with twenty-five head of Shorthorns, eighteen brood sows and a fine bunch of brood mares for the Rolsch farm, which he purchased last year. In addition he opened a fat bank account here. This is not an exception, but the rule. The Red River valley never received the class of newcomers such as are arriving this year.

Among the first inquiries of the newcomers is for good seed corn that is acclimated. Fortunately the cornraisers here last year anticipated the demand, and there is a vast amount of good seed corn available.

Paying Spot Cash.

As an indication of conditions financially this spring at the annual stock sale of K. O. Bolstad at McIntosh this week, out of a total of $5,060 worth of stock sold, all was for spot cash excepting $171. At the Gerret Smith stock sale here Tuesday, grade cows sold for from $85 to $100, and spring calves brought from $25 to $45. Everything was sold for spot cash. In addition a great deal of grade and thoroughbred stock has been shipped in from Iowa and Illinois this spring, showing a long step forward in increasing and conserving the stock in the valley.

G. J. Johnson, the Donaldson, Kittson county, banker, reports that the acreage of alfalfa on the Walter Hill farm is to be increased this spring by 1,000 acres. The farm already has several hundred acres which has produced big crops several years. The larger acreage is significant not only because it results from successful trial crops, but because of the available acclimated seed another year.

In addition over 100 farmers about Donaldson are seeding from two to 100 acres of alfalfa this spring, and the corn acreage will be greatly increased, more than doubled, says Mr. Johnson. A. E. Pfiffner, the Argyle banker says the same is true of Marshall county.

From Clay and Becker counties north to Roseau and Kittson counties, in response to letters to bankers, seed men and farmers clubs, it is believed the corn acreage this year will be doubled through this entire territory, while the alfalfa acreage will be increased more than ten-fold.

Getting Best of Seed.

Another very encouraging feature in the outlook for the coming crop year, is the diligence the farmers generally are showing in securing the best possible seed grain and corn. This is illustrated by the wholesale inquiries received by A. D. Van Sickle, the Marshall county world's champion oat raiser, who has received scores of prizes at the Farm Crops show here, at the Minnesota state fair, at the State Grain Breeders' association, and at every other show at which he made entries. Hundreds of farmers have had their seed corn and grain tested at the Northwest experiment station here, and practically all the farmers are having their grain tested or testing it themselves. This shows a big advanced step, the result of crop shows, fairs, school agricultural work, and the generally progressive tendency, the value to the crop to be raised this year being almost beyond estimate. With a large acreage ready for crop, plenty of moisture, the prospects are very bright throughout the Red River valley.

SPRING SHOOTING TO BE PREVENTED

North Dakota and Federal Government Will Co-operate in Matter.

Fargo, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The regulations against spring shooting in North Dakota will be strenuously enforced this spring. The state game board has placed a number of secret service men in those parts of the state through which the heaviest flights of geese are made across the state.

The law was fairly well enforced last spring and several violators were prosecuted. This year with both state and Federal enactments against spring shooting it is expected the violations will be fewer as the combined penalties are rather severe on violators and it is a rather dangerous sport. There will be a close co-operation between the state and Federal departments.

GOING TO IRONWOOD.

Former Rice Lake and Mill City Preacher Called There.

Conderay, Wis., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. J. A. Melrose, who has been preaching at Conderay, Radisson, and Winter during the last few months, has accepted a call from the Presbyterian church at Ironwood, Mich., and will leave for that city on April 1.

Rev. Mr. Melrose was formerly associate pastor with Rev. Mr. Bushnell of the Westminster Presbyterian church at Minneapolis, but resigned on account of poor health and was advised by his physicians to locate in the northern woods to recuperate.

Rev. Mr. Melrose was pastor of the Presbyterian church at Rice Lake, Wis., for five years previous to his going to Minneapolis.

His successor here has not been decided upon.

THIRD BOOTLEGGER TO PENITENTIARY

Another McKenzie County, N. D., Law Violator Is Sentenced.

Schafer, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tired of remaining in jail, Taylor Murray pleaded guilty to bootlegging and was given a penitentiary sentence. He is the third man sent to the state prison from McKenzie county recently on a plea of guilty.

It has been the custom of several people to secure supplies of liquor in Montana then make trips to McKenzie county with autos, peddling the bottles at different towns. One man made as high as a half dozen towns on a trip and had a regular route until the officials broke up his enterprise. There have been several prosecutions of liquor law violators by county officials and the business is being greatly discouraged.

EAST GRAND FORKS HAS SCHOOL BROIL

Some of Members of Faculty Have Declined Re-election.

East Grand Forks, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thirteen members of the local school faculty have refused re-election for the coming year. Several others are expected to take the same action, the result being the retirement of about two-thirds of the entire school faculty. Of those who resigned, five are members of the high school faculty.

An interesting school campaign is brewing in the city, and it will be fought out at the coming election.

TOO MANY CHURCHES.

Grand Forks Man Believes Protestant Churches Should Combine.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Discussing religious conditions particularly organization, Dean M. A. Brannon of the University of North Dakota, maintains that the Catholic church is the only one pursuing a wise Christian policy.

"Protestant churches of Grand Forks have an annual income of about $40,000 to $50,000 annually, which could be expended to far greater advantage through a single union church, as against the many different organizations that are now maintained," Dean Brannon says.

Dean Brannon contends that a thorough religious survey should be made to determine the best method of solving the situation.

THINKS HE IS SOLDIER.

British Columbia Man, Arrested at Grand Forks, Has Queer Ideas.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Laboring under the delusion that he has been sentenced to execution, and resolved to die "like a soldier," Andrew Skillie of Nelson, B. C., arrested here when he attempted to leap from a moving passenger train, stands for hours at atteention, waiting for a rain of bullets to end his life.

Skillie, once a soldier, assumed the correct "attention" position and had been maintaining that position for some time before discovered. Then he explained what was to happen, and he warned the deputy sheriffs against getting in line with the expected bullets.

"I know I don't deserve it, but I'll die like a soldier," says Skillie.

He will be deported.

SEEKS LARGE SUM.

Northwestern Underwriters Sue Park River, N. D., Bank.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northwestern Underwriters' association of Grand Forks has brought suit against the Farmers' Security bank of Park River for $48,327 damages, the result of the alleged conversion of notes belonging to the Underwriters' compny.

The suit grows out of the dealings of C. R. Verry, former cashier of the bank, and treasurer of the Northern Fire & Marine Insurance company, an association corporation with the Underwriters' concern.

The action will be tried at the next term of the district court of Walsh county at Grafton.

New Grand Forks Block.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another business block will be built here this year, a modern structure on lower De Mers avenue, replacing a row of frame buildings, and will be one of the most material improvements of the year.

Joseph Mahowald will construct the new block, which will have a frontage of 76 feet and will be 92 feet deep.

DIES AGED 98.

Woman Believed to Be Oldest in Minnesota Is Called.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral will be held Thursday of Mrs. Ellen H. Boobar, believed to be the oldest woman in Minnesota, who died yesterday at the home of her son, F. H. Boobar, at Fair Haven, aged 98.

Mrs. Boobar was born Feb. 28, 1816, in Maine, and came west after growing to womanhood. She arrived in Minnesota in 1858 and settled with her husband on a farm near Fair Haven. They have resided in that section continuously since that time. Mrs. Boobar has made her home with her son for the past several years. Besides this son, she is survived by another son, G. R. Boobar, and three daughters, Mrs. Anna Nason of Pine City, Mrs. Hattie Easton and Mrs. Hanna Fralick, both of Minneapolis.

KILLS DIVORCED WIFE.

Then Minot Man Goes to Jail to Seek Shelter.

Minot, N. D., March 25.—Enraged because Bertha McPheek, his divorced wife, would not return to him, Joe M. McPheek, yesterday shot and killed her at the home of Mrs. E. Shaw.

McPheek has a restaurant here. Mrs. McPheek told her friends just before she died that her husband had shot her.

McPheek went to the county jail and asked for a place to sleep for the night, saying that he was in trouble. The city police started a search for the slayer of Mrs. McPheek, and it was not ascertained for several hours that McPheek was in the county jail.

Mrs. McPheek is survived by two daughters, aged 17 and 7 years, and by a son aged 9.

Two Sentenced at Minot.

Minot, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two years in the state penitentiary for each were the sentences meted out by Judge Leighton to Roy Rogers, grain thief, and Gus Du Quense, burglar.

Du Quense goes to the penitentiary to join two pals, whose testimony, in his recent trial here, was largely responsible for his conviction. His pals each received a year's sentence, pleading guilty to the offenses charged against them.

WHEAT OFF ON HEAVY SNOW

Market Weakens With Timely Moisture and Lower Cables.

Flaxseed Gains Slightly on Good Buying By Crushers Near Close.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 25.—The market was quiet up to the close. May wheat closed ¼c off and July ¾c off. May durum closed ½c off and July ½c off.

Oats closed ¼c off at 36¾c. Rye closed unchanged at 55@57c for the best grades. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed 36¾c bid, and July at 38c bid.

Lower Liverpool and foreign cables, and rains through Kansas and other parts of the winter wheat territory, were factors in bringing about an easier feeling in the market today. The heaviest snowfall of the year was reported throughout North Dakota and the Red River valley. This moisture, experts say, will put the ground into excellent condition for seeding.

Eastern demand on this market was quiet, and there was nothing doing in the way of exports. Liverpool cabled that the call there for wheat is light, the market being affected by liberal and cheaper offerings from Russia.

The Chicago market was inclined to weakness today, with Armour and some of the other operators reported to be heavy sellers.

That prices moved only fractionally in the face of this budget of bearish news was the subject of comment. The explanation of the situation was that operators hesitated to put out short lines in view of possible crop damage scares in the winter wheat territory within the next few weeks. It is felt that it would be extraordinary if some factors did not intervene to impair the present high condition of the plant and reduce the yield prospects.

Primary receipts were better today, showing an increase of 174,000 bu over last year. Inspections at Duluth were light, amounting to 24 cars against 45 last year, and there were only 44 cars of all grains on the tracks for the day. The run continues at Minneapolis, wheat receipts there coming to 222 cars against 115 a year ago. With the liberal demand from millers, stocks there have decreased 300,000 bu in the last four days.

May wheat opened unchanged at 92⅝c and it sold off ¼c during the first three hours' trading. The July option opened unchanged at 93¾c, and it also weakened ¼c. There was very little doing in durum, and its May quotation weakened fractionally after opening unchanged at 91½c.

Flax Rallies at Close.

Business in flaxseed was quiet with trades mainly in small lots in the flaxseed market. The May option declined fractionally at around the opening as the result of some selling pressure and switching of trades to the more distant future. The July option held steady at yesterday's closing figure. Good demand from crushers was noted on the weak spots during the session and a bulge near the close brought the final figures up to yesterday's close in the near and slightly over in the distant futures.

An interesting incident during the session came in a wire from Winnipeg to the effect that a Duluth operator was bidding ⅜c over May on that market for cash flax.

Cables were featureless, Antwerp closing ⅝c up and Buenos Aires and London unchanged.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.62¼ and it closed ⅛c off at $1.62⅛ and the July option opened unchanged at $1.63⅞ and it closed ¼c up at $1.64 asked. The July option closed at $1.65¼.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.42 bid and July at $1.44⅞ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Receipts of Canadian bonded grain at Duluth during the present crop year from Aug. 1 up to yesterday aggregated 7,414,373 bu, compared with 8,995,442 bu up to the corresponding period last year. Wheat receipts were 3,185,425 bu, against 4,974,033 bu last year; oats, 3,115,391 bu, against 745,079 bu; barley, 735,103 bu, against 708,086 bu, and flaxseed, 378,454 bu, compared with 2,568,244 bu a year ago.

A wire from Fargo, N. D., received by Parker Paine today said: "Farmers and farming experts yesterday greeted the heaviest snowfall of the year with a feeling of relief. Throughout all the territory lying between the Missouri and Red rivers in North Dakota and extending well eastward of the Minnesota state line, from four to six inches of snow was received since daylight Tuesday. In the Red river valley more snow fell yesterday afternoon than has covered the fields of the valley at any time during the winter, and with moderate temperatures the ground has been put into excellent seeding conditions."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The wheat market opened with a moderate reallzing and prices ¼d to ½d lower, being influenced by the easier closing at Winnipeg yesterday and indicated favorable crop advices and easier London offers. Following the opening, the market was dull, but steady, and part of the early decline was recovered. Firmer Plate offers and talk of lighter world's shipments this week, with an improved demand for spot, helped to encourage support. At 1:30 p. m. prices were unchanged to ⅛d lower and later further declined to ¼d.

Corn opened ¼c lower and later further declined ½c with the undertone easier. Easier American cables yesterday, better weather reports from Argentina and freer Danubian offers caused a reduced inquiry for Plate. At 1:30 p. m. prices were ¾d lower.

A Chicago wire received by Baker said: "Cables are utterly indifferent. The domestic outlook is against holders. Cash demand is slow everywhere and conditions in the growing crop are excellent. It will evidently require some real crop deterioration to bring Europe into our markets as a buyer."

* * *

The Minneapolis cash demand was fair. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 1½@3c over May and velvet chaff at 1½@1¾c premium. Flour sales were light and millfeeds held strong. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from 92½c to 94c and No. 2 northern at from 90c to 92c.

The International Institute at Rome makes the wheat crop of Argentina, Australia and New Zealand 250,133,000 bu, a decease of 12 per cent from last year. Argentina's area of corn is 10,260,000 acres, or 8.4 per cent increase over last year. The flax area in India is placed at 2,723,000 acres, or 21.2 per cent less than last year.

* * *

Price Current says: "There is a deficiency in soil moisture throughout the entire winter wheat belt that may develop a critical condition, and an early spring rainfall is very essential to maintain the present crop prospect. Complaints are most general in the western portions of Kansas and Nebraska and in South Dakota. The fall rains were not so copious as in the Southwest, so that the most unfavorable prospect for winter wheat anywhere is in that state. Basing the normal subsoil moisture at 100 per cent, the percentage comparison as reported by our correspondents follows: Ohio, 100; Indiana, 96; Illinois, 91; Missouri, 90; Iowa, 79; Minnesota, 94; South Dakota, 71; Nebraska, 89; Kansas, 86; Oklahoma, 99.

The general crop with condition of winter wheat so far as it is apparent is still excellent. The growth condition based on 100 as normal is reported as follows: Ohio, 99; Indiana, 103; Illinois, 109; Missouri, 100; Iowa, 93; Nebraska, 95; Kansas, 100; Oklahoma, 102. Hogs slaughterings for week ending March 21 were 465,000, compared with 410,000 for the preceding week and 390,000 last year."

* * *

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: "It was the gossip of the corn trade after the close that the market showed signs of being over bought, and that a further setback was in order. The action of the cash markets was not exactly to the liking of the bulls and a number of them took profits on the bulge, and are awaiting a good break to get in again. To a number of wheat traders the market presented a tired appearance at the last, and they were inclined to look for a good setback before there would be much profit made on the buying side. Bears figure that there has been a fair sized long interest built up by the recent upturn, which would not take much decline to start liquidating, and with the present excellent crop prospects and slowness in domestic and foreign demand for cash articles, there was little on which to base a belief for higher prices in the immediate future."

According to figures compiled for the Port Arthur board of trade, the combined ports of Port Arthur and Fort William, with shipments of 203,328,129 bushels of grain in the navigation year of 1913, lead all ports on the continent of America in shipments of grain. Figures for the leading ports are as follows: Port Arthur-Fort William, 203,000,000 bu; Buffalo, 172,000,000 bu; Duluth-Superior, 115,000,000 bu; Montreal, 54,300,000 bu, and Chicago, 54,000,000 bu. The latest available for New York is $4,000,000 in 1912. Another fact brought into prominence is the remarkable increase in the shipments from these ports in United States vessels. In four years the amount of grain taken out of Port Arthur and Fort William by United States vessels has increased by approximately 500 per cent, while the increase in the amount taken in Canadian vessels during the same period has been 90 per cent.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Rule Lower in Spite of Cash Demand.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 25.—Wheat prices ruled slightly lower at the opening in both the May and July options today, although there was a comparatively good demand for cash grain. Rain and snow in the wheat districts in the Northwest and Southwest gave an optimistic tone to conditions for the coming season.

Wheat—May opened 91⅛c; high, 91¼@91⅜c; low, 90¾c; closed 90⅞c. July opened 92¾c; high, 92¾@92⅞c; low, 92⅝@92½c; closed 92½c. Cash: No. 1 hard, 94⅝@94⅞c; No. 1 northern, 92¾@93⅛c; to arrive, 92⅝@92¾c; choice to arrive, 93⅝c; No. 2 northern, 90¾@91⅞c; to arrive, 90¾@91⅞c; No. 3 wheat, 87⅞@89⅝c. Flax, $1.69⅛@1.61⅝.

The flour trade was active today. Prices unchanged. Shipments, 56,264 bbls.

Barley, 43@57c; rye, 55@56½c; bran unchanged.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Northwest Weather Makes Wheat Prices Ease Off.

Chicago, March 25.—Wheat eased off today influenced by more favorable weather Northwest. Relief had come for districts threatened with drought and there was promise of additional moisture. Dwindling stocks at Minneapolis, however, acted to a considerable extent as an offset. Opening prices were from the same as last night to ⅛@¼c lower and a slight further dip ensued but then the market reacted.

Predictions of rains for Kansas and Oklahoma added to the depression. The close, however, was steady at the same as last night to ⅜c off.

In corn the majority of traders seemed disposed to press the selling side. Shipping demand here was light, and denials of any large amount of Argentine new corn having arrived at Galveston failed to make much impression. The market opened ¼c to ¼@⅜c off, and rallied only in a half-hearted way.

Unfounded rumors that a cargo of new Argentine corn had arrived in New Orleans led to pronounced weakness. The close was steady, though, at a net decline of ⅜c to ½c.

Provisions showed sympathy with the weakness of cereals. First sales were unchanged to 2½c lower and an additional decline followed.

Wheat—No. 2 red, 94@95c; No. 2 red, 93½@94c; No. 2 hard, 93@93¼c; No. 3 hard, 92½@92⅞c; No. 2 northern, 95@96c; No. 3 northern, 92@96c; No. 2 spring, 95@96c; No. 3 spring, 94¾c.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

After Slight Gains Market Is Carried Down By Liquidation.

Dismal Comments on the Steel Industry Cause Late Slump.

New York, March 25.—Stocks sagged slowly today after making slight gains at the outset. The turn in the market was influenced by the spread of liquidation in the industrial shares. Professional traders were bearish and sold stocks confidently when opportunity offered. Pressure was applied steadily to the steel stocks because of unfavorable reports of conditions in the steel trade.

Poor railroad reports for February and the reduction in dividends on Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. Louis had an adverse influence on railroad stocks. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. Louis lost 3 and Pennsylvania, which controls that road, fell more than a point. Corn Products issues met with support after their early slump and the preferred recovered 3½.

Bonds were heavy.

The Corn Products stocks continued today the rapid decline which set in after the annual meeting yesterday. The preferred fell 4 points to 60, a loss of about 10 points from last week's close. The common declined 2 points to 7⅜. Bethlehem Steel fell 1. Changes otherwise were small, with a majority of slight gains.

Weakness overcame the market owing to lack of support for various specialties. The principal shares fell half a point or more below yesterday's close. Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Can. Consolidated Gas, Cotton Oil and Virginia-Caroline Chemical broke 1 to 1½.

The slump in Pittsburg, C., C. & St. Louis reached 13 points and the Eastern trunk line shares and coalers were unloaded freely after 12 o'clock. Liquidation of speculative accounts and broad professional selling carried down the whole list sharply.

Prices stopped falling when Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis rallied 5 points. Recoveries otherwise were inconsequential.

The market closed heavy. Prices wavered and fell back again, following the dismal comments by trade papers of conditions in the steel industry.

PENNSYLVANIA LINE REDUCES DIVIDENDS

Rea Explains That Flood Damage Amounted to $4,600,000.

Philadelphia, March 25.—The directors of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway company, the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg, today reduced the dividend of the common stock from 5 per cent a year to 3 per cent and on the preferred stock from 5 per cent to 4 per cent.

In connection with the announcement, President Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad made the statement that the annual report showed an increase of $4,600,000 in operating and maintenance expenses, "which includes the extraordinary outlays for replacements and repairing tracks, bridges and other facilities destroyed or damaged by the floods of March, 1913, so that, after paying its fixed charges and appropriations to sinking and other reserve funds, there remained only $630,065 as applicable for dividends."

"In view of the decline in the gross and net revenues of the company in the latter part of 1913 and so far in the present year, and as there still are large expenditures to be made in the current year for the flood damage of 1913, the directors deemed it prudent to reduce the dividend and therefore declared 1 per cent on the preferred and ¾ of 1 per cent on the common stock for this first quarter of the fiscal year, or at the rate of 4 per cent per annum for the preferred and 3 per cent for the common, as against 5 per cent declared on each class of stock in recent years."

IS HELD FOR BURGLARY

Herbert McCall Is Accused of Theft of Jewelry.

Herbert McCall, 37 years old, who was arrested in Superior Monday afternoon while in the act of pawning two watches with the Marcus Loan company, 702 Tower avenue, was arraigned in police court here yesterday afternoon on a charge of burglary in the third degree. He is accused of having burglarized the D. A. Miller jewelry store at 217 West Superior street on March 15 last, when $1,500 worth of jewelry was stolen from the display window.

McCall was brought to Duluth Monday afternoon and was held here all day yesterday pending an investigation into the report that the jewelry McCall had pawned in the Superior loan office was part of the property stolen from the Miller store about ten days ago.

All day yesterday Detective Irvine and Sergeant Roberg investigated the report and spent the afternoon in Superior. It was at the Marcus loan office that they found two watches and two others, one a lady's wrist watch, at the Averbook loan office, 429 Tower avenue. These, the police believe, are part of the loot taken by McCall from the local jewelry store. They have also been identified by Mr. Miller, the police say.

McCall asked for a hearing when arraigned yesterday afternoon and his examination was set for 10 o'clock Saturday morning. He is now in the county jail in default of $2,000 bail.

The two pawn tickets for the watches were found in McCall's coat pocket by the officers. They were made out to H. McDonald, as was a meal checkbook, which was also found in the prisoner's coat. An investigation disclosed the fact that McCall had traded an 18-inch electric fan with the proprietor of the Delmonico restaurant at Superior for a $5 meal ticket and $6.50 in cash. The police believe that the electric fan was stolen by McCall and they are holding it at headquarters in hope that the owner will appear and claim it.

NO RACE SUICIDE IN FLY FAMILIES

One Pair Can Produce 14,000,000 Cubic Feet of Flies Yearly.

Some startling facts concerning flies and their remarkable increase in numbers are revealed in a bulletin issued by the committee on pollution and sewerage of the Merchants' Association of New York, which is beginning an early campaign for the extermination of this pest. The importance of starting early in the "swat-the-fly" campaign is shown by the fact that one fly killed now is equal to the killing of billions later on.

"The progeny of a single pair of flies, assuming that they all live," says the bulletin, "if pressed together at the end of summer, would occupy a space of more than 14,000,000 cubic feet. This would mean a space as large as the Woolworth building."

Speaking of the damage done by flies, the bulletin says the annual cost due to flies in the United States is $350,000,000 each year.

The best way to exterminate the fly is by killing off the survivors of last year's crop—every one should be exterminated now or as soon as it is seen.

"The extermination of the winter fly is the duty of the housewife and of every one," the committee says. "Don't let one escape. Catch and kill them all. As soon as the weather warms up the 'hold overs,' will begin to propagate."

These bulletins are being sent out broadcast in a nation-wide campaign to exterminate the fly.

INVENTS DEVICE FOR STAGE ILLUSIONS.

H. J. Moorhouse, engineer on the United States engineers' tug, Essayons, whose home is at the Head of the Lakes, has just secured a patent on a device to produce illusionary effects on the stage. It is said Mr. Moorhouse will produce an act in vaudeville, entitled "The Guardian Spirit of the Lakes." It is said to be an act of great mystery in which no mirrors will be used.

FIELD MARSHAL OF BRITISH ARMY RESIGNS---OTHERS MAY FOLLOW HIM; ARMY DISRUPTION IS PREDICTED

Asquith Again Controls Parliament, But That Is All.

Premier Is Criticized for Retaining Seely in Office.

Army Council Has Yet to Act on the Situation.

London, March 26.—Premier Asquith was brought face to face today with a new crisis by the resignation of Field Marshal Sir John French, chief of the imperial staff and virtual head of the British army.

Other leading officers of the army were also expected to hand in their papers as a direct outcome of the repudiation of the guarantees given to army officers in Ireland. The premier yesterday declared that these guarantees were not sanctioned by the cabinet. Col. Seely, secretary of war, subsequently resigned from the cabinet, but the premier refused to accept his action.

Felt Himself Slighted.

The field marshal, who was one of the signatories of the memorandum to Brig. Gen. Hubert Gough giving guarantees to the army officers that they would not be ordered to fight the Ulster Unionists, regarded the repudiation of the document by the government as a slight on himself. For this reason he resigned.

The result of a meeting at the war office of the principal commanding generals of the British army was awaited with anxiety by the general public and in political circles today, as it was thought that they might take some step which would virtually disrupt the army administration.

In the North of Ireland, where the controversy between Nationalists and Unionists has been the cause of so much difficulty to the British government, there was no disturbance today. The two parties were seemingly content to await events in London.

More Trouble Ahead.

Although it was generally conceded today that Premier Asquith had regained the upper hand in parliament, the government is by no means altogether out of trouble. It has still to deal with the army of-

WANT "GOOD ROADS" DAY IN ILLINOIS

State Commission Would Imitate Plan Tried in Missouri.

Chicago, March 26.—Plans for a "good roads day" celebration on April 15, when citizens of the rural districts of the state will be asked to work on the roads after the fashion set last year by the governor and other citizens of Missouri, were considered today at the annual convention of the Illinois Highway commission.

Good roads advocates from all sections of the state attended the convention. It was suggested that the activities of "good roads day" be placed under the management of good roads clubs in the various counties, and that they extend the invitations for cooperation.

CONNAUGHT ORDERS MINERS RELEASED

Fines of British Columbia Men Also Are Remitted.

Vancouver, B. C., March 26.—Twenty-two miners, sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment following riots at Nanaimo, B. C., several months ago, have been ordered released by the duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, according to advices received here.

Following requests for an investigation, C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, went into the subject and recommended the release of the men as a matter of justice. The fines of the strikers, $100 each, also are remitted.

DYING BOY LAYS CRIME TO MOVIES

Lad Who Fought Terre Haute Police Dies of Wounds.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 26.—Ernest McWilliams, 15 years old, died today of wounds he received Tuesday in a forty-five-minute pistol fight with the police.

McWilliams was caught in the gun store of Ed Tetzel and the police suspected he was there for the purpose of theft. The boy, however, declared he was there to get even with Tetzel, who had refused him employment.

"I was not escared a bit," said the boy after he had been arrested, "but when I got hit in the leg it bled so much that I got dizzy and had to quit.

"I did not try to wound a policeman every time I fired. I shot over their heads. But I got mad whenever one would hit me with a bullet, and then I would try to lay one of them out."

McWilliam said he came here from Poplar Bluff, Mo. He said he planned the whole thing after he had seen, at a motion picture show, a portrayal of two boys shooting at a policeman in a store.

PAUPER-MADE GOODS BARRED

House Passes Bill That Also Hits Europe's Convict Shops.

Fine or Imprisonment for Sale of Forbidden Articles.

Washington, March 26.—After a vigorous partisan contest, the house passed a bill to bar foreign convict-made or pauper-made goods from competition with the products of American free labor. The measure, which now goes to the senate, follows a bill recently passed by the house forbidding the shipment of convict-made goods in interstate commerce into states which prohibit the sale of such products in the open market.

The importation of foreign convict-made goods has been prohibited generally under the tariff laws since 1890, but owing to the peculiar construction of the law it has been difficult to enforce, and labor representatives in congress declare it has been freely violated.

Under the measure now passed, all shipments of goods proved to be convict or pauper-made can be confiscated by the treasury department, through court proceedings similar to libel prosecutions under the admiralty laws.

Fine or Imprisonment.

In addition the bill provides that any "consignor, seller, owner, shipper, importer, consignee, agent of person or persons" who "knowingly and fraudulently" introduce or seek to introduce the prohibited articles into the com-

THREE CONVICTED OF BOOK SWINDLE

Will Be Sent to Prison for Defrauding Boston Woman.

Boston, March 26.—The jury in the so-called "de luxe" book case today returned a verdict of guilty against the three defendants, Glenn F. Farmer and James Powers of New York, and Samuel Rosenfield of Chicago.

Rosenfield and Farmer were sentenced to state's prison, the former for a term of six to eight years, and the latter for three to five years. Powers was given two and a half years in the house of correction.

The men were accused of conspiracy to defraud Mrs. Mary L. Rogers of this city, and of the larceny from her of $87,000 by inducing her to advance money for the purchase of what were represented to be rare volumes, and upon which she had been made to believe she would be able to make a large profit soon, when the editions would be out of print.

ADMITS SHOOTING TWO FOR 25 CENTS

Chicago Negro Confesses and Says He Cannot Sleep.

Chicago, March 26.—Louis Hairstrom, a negro, who confessed having killed Edward Denne and wounding Earl Hunkell in a North side saloon in a quarrel over 25 cents on March 8, surrendered himself to the police today.

"I have not had a good night's sleep since I shot those men, and I wanted to be locked up," Hairstrom said. "I can't get the crime off my mind."

NEW CARDINALS MAY BE CHOSEN IN MAY.

Rome, March 26.—It was tentatively decided today by the pope to hold a consistory either at the end of April or the beginning of May, unless unforeseen circumstances should intervene. It is assumed that about a dozen cardinals will be appointed.

CANAL TOLLS DEBATE BLOCKED IN HOUSE BY PARLIAMENTARY MOVE

Fitzgerald of New York Raises Conference Report Discussion.

Twenty Hours of Debate Agreed on When Bill Is Reached.

Washington, March 26.—The Panama tolls repeal bill was obstructed in the house today by a parliamentary situation rich in motions, roll calls, demands for a quorum and all the agencies of delay at the command of its opponents.

Just when the rules committee had agreed on an arrangement to parcel out twenty hours for debate between the contending factions and the first skirmish of the fight was about to start, the rivers and harbors bill, then the only obstruction to the tolls repeal bill, was temporarily displaced and a new stumbling block—a conference report on the urgent deficiency bill—was inserted.

A threatened filibuster on that prolonged the situation, and gave indications that the repeal bill might possibly be forced over until tomorrow.

Both Sides Fighting Hard.

Administration supporters, chafing at the delay, got their forces into position to take advantage of every tactical opportunity; the opponents drew on all their resources to hamper the measure.

President Wilson, confident of the success of the fight, received reports of the situation at the White House. Leaders assured him a safe majority would carry the repeal.

For two hours the urgent deficiency bill fight waged. The rivers and harbor measure then again was held up while Representative Kindel of Colorado spoke on his controversy with the postoffice department over the franking privilege.

It was nearly 2 o'clock before Representative Sparkman could call up the rivers and harbors bill.

The senate began its own debate with a speech by Senator Owen. Senator Lewis introduced a resolution for equal tolls for all.

The special rule on deadlock in the house divides the time so as to give ten hours for those supporting the repeal, to be controlled by Chairman Adamson of the commerce committee; five hours for the Democrats opposed, to be controlled by Representative Doremus oof Michigan; four hours for the Republicans, to be controlled by Representative Knowland of California, and one hour for the Progressives, to be controlled by Representative Lafferty of Oregon.

There was a tacit understanding that

$300,000 FIRE IN SIOUX CITY

Two Firemen Killed and Three Hurt By Falling Wall.

Thrilling Leaps Into Life Nets Made From Buildings.

Sioux City, Iowa, March 26.—Two firemen were killed, three were slightly injured and between $300,000 and $400,000 damage was done in a fire which swept the Quarter block at the southeast corner of Fourth and Nebraska streets, the heart of the business district, early today.

The dead are:

FRANK FULTON, pipeman, Company No. 1.

SEELEY LAWTON, driver for Fire Chief Kellogg.

The injured firemen are:

Ed Roth, captain hose company No. 3.

Kenneth B. Gantt, pipeman, hose company No. 5.

Capt. William Doyle, pipeman, hose company No. 2.

Caught Under Wall.

The firemen were fighting the flames from Fourth street when the wall fell, and two of them were caught under it and killed. It was nearly two hours before the men were missed by their comrades.

The flames rapidly spread through the Anderson building, and communicated to the Frank hotel, adjoining. Occupants in the hotel were warned and most of them escaped by the stairways. Three men in the hotel were cut off by the flames. They were forced to leap for their lives. They were caught in nets by the firemen and were uninjured.

Saved By Life Nets.

The flames swept through the hotel on one side, and on the other side of the Anderson building communicated to the three-story building on the corner occupied by the Moore Clothing company. Thrilling escapes from the third floor of the corner building, over the Moore Clothing store and the Central bank, were made by several men and women who leaped into life nets.

COPPER COUNTRY HAS EARTH SHOCK.

Houghton, Mich., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Earth shocks were felt throughout the Michigan Copper country about 8 o'clock this morning. No damage was done.

The disturbance is supposed to have been caused by an air blast in one of the mines, as such blasts are common in this district. They are believed to be explosions of imprisoned air in old workings.

One of these disturbances occurred last month in one of the deepest mines in the district, while members of the congressional investigating committee were exploring a mile below the surface. The main danger is to mine workers imperiled by falling rock.

CLARK HAS LEAD IN ARKANSAS PRIMARY

Little Rock, Ark., March 26.—Selection of candidates in the Democratic primary held yesterday in Arkansas for the offices of United States senator and representatives in congress from the three districts in which there were contests, still were undetermined today. Incomplete returns indicate that U. S. Senator James P. Clark was leading his opponent, William F. Kirby, associate justice of the state supreme court, by nearly 1,000 votes for the senatorial nomination.

Returns from three congressional districts were meager and indicated no result except in the Third, where J. N. Tillman of Fayetteville had a slight lead over his closest opponent, C. A. Fuller of Eureka Springs. J. C. Floyd, the incumbent, was not a candidate.

USE WARSHIPS IN COMMERCE

Plan Is Proposed in Resolution By Senator Weeks.

He Calls It Quickest Way to Boost South American Trade.

Washington, March 26.—With a view to developing communication between the United States and South America, Senator Weeks, Republican, of Massachusetts, today introduced a resolution requesting the secretary of the navy to prepare a plan for establishing a line of naval cruisers to carry passengers, freight and mail between New York, New Orleans and Valparaiso, Chile, and intermediate ports.

The resolution designates as the ships to be utilized for such service the cruisers Columbia and Minneapolis, and the scout cruisers Salem, Chester and Birmingham.

At present South American mails are sent at long and sometimes irregular intervals, and all American mails south of the equator are carried in vessels sailing under a foreign flag, said Senator Weeks, explaining his resolution.

"The service is very slow and this, it easily may be assumed, militates against the development of our trade with South America. If, later on, private capital undertakes a line over this route I should be inclined to withdraw the government line."

THREE KILLED WHEN AUTOMOBILE SWERVES.

Dallas, Tex., March 26.—Three persons were killed and three were seriously injured when an automobile swerved, left the road and plunged forty feet into a ravine near here early today.

Dr. Samuel P. Tipton, driver of the car, and Mrs. Katie M. Loving were crushed to death. Mrs. Loving's son, William, was so badly injured he died soon after reaching a hospital. Two women and a man were the other occupants of the car.

All were residents of Dallas.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon.

Senator Owen spoke in support of the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption.

Representatives of prison contractors told the interstate commerce committee the Hughes bill to restrict traffic in prison products was unconstitutional.

Senator Weeks introduced a resolution for a line of naval cruisers to carry mails, passengers and freight between the United States and South America.

Declined to take up at this time the proposed constitutional amendment to change the date of inauguration and convening of congress.

HOUSE.

Met at 11 a. m.

Rivers and harbors bill was hurried to completion.

Leaders agreed to twenty hours' debate on the Sims bill to repeal the Panama tolls exemption.

Public lands committee heard supporters of the bill to open oil and mineral lands of the public domain by a leasing system.

Judiciary committee heard William H. Ingersoll of New York speak in favor of a proposition in the trust's bill to permit manufacturers to fix retail prices.

Parliamentary tactics obstructed consideration of the Panama tolls repeal bill.

Debated the conference report of the urgent deficiency bill.

Huerta Officials Claim Victory, But News Is Meager.

Juarez Gets Word of Artillery Duel During the Night.

Even Courier Service Has Failed the Constitutionalists.

Washington, March 26.—This message, sent from Mexico City last night, was received at the embassy here today:

The state department had only a report from El Paso saying that up to yesterday afternoon results were still undetermined.

Other dispatches reported that there was absolutely no foundation for stories that danger threatened five Americans in the Tlahualillo district of Coahuila. Consular reports report all foreigners within the territory under Constitutionalist control as being protected.

Consul Garrett at Nuevo Laredo, just over the Rio Grande, reported today that an American boy in Laredo, Tex., was wounded in the cheek by a shot fired from the Mexican side.

Night Artillery Duel.

Juarez, March 26.—At noon an official report was received saying an intermittent artillery duel was carried on at Gomez Palacio during the night. There were no details.

An atmosphere of pessimistic anxiety enveloped Constitutionalist sympathizers here early today over the possible fate of Gen. Francisco Villa and his 12,000 rebel soldiers, who at last reports were engaged in desperate fighting at Gomez Palacio, a suburb of Torreon. Not for two days has an authoritative word come from the front, and press dispatches, which so far have been more reliable than the so-called official dispatches, have been as lacking.

Not even a courier has penetrated the desert between Torreon and Chihuahua, and no communication by wire, of any nature, has been received for forty-eight hours.

Doubt Report of Rout.

News dispatches from Mexico City, received here last night, declaring that the Huerta government war department had issued a bulletin to the effect

NEW MOTORCYCLE COSTS THREE LIVES

One Man Is Dead and Another and Boy Are Dying.

Hammond, Ind., March 26.—John Cooper, a 20-year-old East Chicago boy, got a new motorcycle yesterday and today he lies at the point of death in a Hammond hospital. Beside him is John Garic, also mortally injured, and not many blocks distant the family of John Glockski mourn his death.

Glosskski and Garic were returning from Chicago to Hammond after a fruitless search for work, when Cooper started home today from his first trip on the new motorcycle. Cooper did not see the men until he crashed into them. Glockski was instantly killed. Garic suffered broken bones and internal injuries and Cooper's skull was fractured.

EBERHART'S HAT IS IN THE RING

Announces His Candidacy for Re-election to the Governorship.

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the governorship to succeed himself. George F. Authier was appointed his personal manager. The governor's statement is a brief document in which he pledges himself to continue his efforts for the development of the state. The governor takes a slap at the recent elimination convention in a deft statement in which he says that his own candidacy will be submitted to the people of the state in accordance with the primary law.

He announces that his candidacy will determine whether the people of Minnesota will indorse a campaign of constructive policy rather than one whose perspective is bounded by personal abuse, slander and vilification of the state itself. He says that, believing in strict law enforcement, in a clean and dignified campaign, in an aggressive policy of state development and publicity, in the effective reorganization of the state departments along the best business lines of economy and efficiency with the budget system for making appropriations, and in a statewide primary law for the purpose of enabling the people to exercise the fullest measure of popular government, he announces his candidacy in accordance with the provisions of the primary law. The governor announces that he will, at another time in the near future, make a more elaborate statement of his position.

Referring to the primary law, the governor, in his statement says, concerning his candidacy:

"It will determine whether or not the present statewide primary law and the accompanying corrupt practices act, enacted at the last session of the legislature which I called for that purpose, shall be repealed and the old-time boss-ridden convention system be substituted therefore."

INCLINED TO FAVOR PLAN

Commissioners May Accept Bid for Collection of Garbage.

Believe Both the Citizens and City Will Save Money.

All members of the city commission have been favorably impressed with nthe proposal submitted yesterday by the Sanitary Garbage company to take over the collection of garbage and ashes in the city.

The indications are that if Victor La Mont, who submitted the bid for the company, can give the council assurance that he has sufficient financial backing to carry through the project and can furnish a satisfactory bond, the commission will award the contract to the company. They will meet with La Mont tomorrow morning to go over the proposition with him.

Commissioner Hicken and Health Director Webster this morning stated that they have analyzed the figures and that the people will receive the service for less than they are paying now. In addition to that they added that the city would save an expense of $6,000 or $7,000 per year and expressed the hope that it might be possible to segregate that amount each year to provide a fund for installing free municipal collection at the end of three or five years.

The other members of the commission expressed themselves similarly. They asserted that the proposal seems quite fair and appears to be advantageous to both the public and the municipality.

The Proposal.

The proposal submitted yesterday was as follows:

"We, the Sanitary Garbage company, will collect any and all garbage, ashes, or rubbish in any or all parts of the city limits except Fond du Lac, unless a dumping ground is provided there for garbage, ashes, or rubbish, for the sum of 10 cents per can or less of garbage, and the sum of 10 cents per barrel or less of ashes, and the sum of 10 cents per barrel of rubbish.

"The compensation to be collected from the consumer by the company.

"The company shall have the privileeg of utilizing any or all refuse from any or all collections.

"Any garbage, ashes or refuse that is ordered removed by any city health officer will be collected at the minimum rate of one dollar ($1.00) per yard or less, or at the rate of one dollar ($1.00) per hour for one team and two men where ashes, garbage or refuse has to be carried or gotten out of basements, or when not in convenient places.

"The night soil shall be collected at the rate per yard now specified by the city.

"All hotels, large buildings, or business houses that are not private residences, that do not wish to haul their own garbage or ashes, will be contracted for individually.

"The company agrees to furnish all labor necessary in disposing of garbage or ashes at the city incinerator or at any dumping ground used in disposing of ashes or dirt, and to pay all expenses in the operation and upkeep of the incinerator except in case of fire or damage by storms, winds or lightning, or any damage which may occur other than the ordinary wear and tear that is necessary to operate.

"Any wagons or teams owned by the city used for collecting garbage will be bought at the market value of same.

"The company will collect and dispose all collections of garbage or ashes according to the city ordinance and the company will co-operate at all times with the health department in enforcing every section of the garbage ordinance by making reports of any violations of any section of the ordinance.

Sanitary Wagons.

"The company agrees to use all sanitary wagons equipped with steel water-tight boxes with covers.

"The company shall not be compelled to collect ashes, garbage or refuse where there are no streets or alleys.

"The company will collect free of charge all street waste paper in cans that the city may wish to place on Superior street between Eighth avenue West and Seventh avenue east, providing that the city furnishes all cans or waste paper sacks sometimes used in street waste paper cans.

"Any dead dogs or cats found and ordered removed by any health or police officer will be disposed of free of charge for the city providing the owner is not known or found.

"Any dead horses owned by the city will be removed free of charge.

"The compensation for removing dead dogs, cats, horses or cattle shall be charged at the rate now specified in section 16 of the garbage ordinance.

"All vehicles used for carrying dead animals will be covered.

"Upon acceptance of this proposal by the city, the company will immediately make a survey of the whole city, establishing routes, giving instructions regarding the garbage ordinance and distribute tickets.

Must Have Tickets.

"All private families will be required to secure tickets in advance, as no collections of garbage will be made unless all drivers collect a ticket in advance, unless there should be no one at home, garbage will be taken and a record made of the collection, and two tickets will be collected at the next regular collection of garbage. Where it shall be inconvenient for customers to pay in advance for tickets for the first four weeks, the company will furnish the tickets, which will be collected for later.

"All tickets will be redeemable at any time for cash, and the name and address of each customer will be printed or written on each ticket, that the company may at all times keep an accurate check of all collections made or that should be made.

"The driver on each route will be furnished every day with the number and names of every customer of their route, to enable him to make regular collections.

"All of the employes will be required to keep themselves and wagons in a clean condition.

"Married men will be given preference to employment, also those now following this line of work.

"The company will carry liability insurance on all employes, that the city may be protected from damage suits.

"All labor will be paid every two weeks, except the first two weeks of every employe, which will be held back to guarantee good faith and fulfilment of their respective duties and contracts.

"The company agrees to have equipment in full operation on or before April 30, 1914.

"This contract shall be for five years from April 30, 1914, but the city has the right to take over this contract at the end of three years, providing the city purchases all equipment owned by this company at the market value of said equipment."

Opposition.

Local men engaged in the garbage business are opposed to the city letting a private contract. They set forth their position in the following protest, presented this morning to Commissioner Hicken:

"We, the undersigned, who are persons who have been engaged in some manner in the collection and disposal of garbage, ashes and other refuse in the city of Duluth, hereby protest against the proposal to let a contract for the exclusive privilege of handling of the garbage of the city of Duluth, pursuant to the call for bids issued by you on March 5, 1914, said bids to be received up to and including March 25, 1914, at 11 a. m.

"We protest against such action because the advertised call for bids does not embody within itself and does not provide for obtaining definite specifications upon which said bids should be made. The call merely states that the bidders are to submit their own plans and methods of handling, using the present city incinerator. We feel this will not insure competitive bids because there are so many details that have a material bearing on the figures for which the work could be done that no two of the bids are likely to be on substantially the same work. Moreover we think that we, who have been engaged in this work in the past in the city, should be considered in this matter and that a more thorough consideration should be given to the various methods of collecting and disposing of this material."

It is signed by C. Martin, L. A. Pearson, Horace B. Keedy, Gust Hohngren, Peter Shervey, M. McLeod, Henry Merrill, H. Lyons, O. Persgard.

DENIES ALL THE CHARGES

Mrs. Olga Gran's Defense Is She Is Victim of "Frame Up."

Brands as Falsehood the Testimony of Four Witnesses.

Branding as a falsehood the testimony of four men who swore that when they broke into the offices of John R. Heino, attorney, on the afternoon of Jan. 31, they found her in a compromising position with Heino, Mrs. Olga Gran, at the trial of the divorce action brought against her by her husband, Victor H. Gran, today made an absolute and unqualified denial of all charges of infidelity preferred against her. When the cross-examination of Mrs. Gran is concluded it is expected that Heino will take the stand.

Mrs. Gran not only denied having been caught in the arms of Heino at his office in the Sellwood building on the day of their arrest, but also disclaimed all telephone conversations claimed to have been intercepted by Gran and other witnesses by means of a telephone tap which Gran testified that he had secretly installed on his telephone line. The conversations are alleged to have taken place between Mrs. Gran and Hino and to have been intercepted by Gran and other witnesses who have testified.

"Frame-Up."

The defense as unfolded today is that the entire affair was a "frame-up" in which Gran, his friends and the police department all played a part. It is claimed that the arrest of Heino and Mrs. Gran was brought about for the purpose of furthering a design on Gran's part to have his wife placed in a compromising position with Heino in order that he might have grounds to sue his former business associate for alienation of his wife's affections.

Mrs. Gran today admitted that she was in Heino's office at the time of the arrest on the afternoon of Jan. 31. She testified that she went there for the purpose of seeking legal advice respecting alleged cruel treatment from her husband. She related with preciseness just how every minute of her time was occupied from the time she stepped into the office until police detectives and Gran broke into the room, denying that the relations between Heino and herself were anything but proper.

On the stand yesterday afternoon Mrs. Gran denied the stories told by Elizabeth Sandell, a domestic formerly employed at the Gran home with relation to midnight champagne suppers and drunken orgies at the Gran home during Gran's absence. Miss Sandell testified that Heino had been a frequent visitor during Gran's absence.

WRECK OF STEAMER MONROE IS BLOWN UP

No Bodies Are Brought to Surface By the Concussions.

Norfolk, Va., March 26.—The wreck of the Old Dominion liner Monroe, sunk in January by the Merchants' & Miners' packet Nantucket with a loss of forty odd lives, has been blown up by the revenue cutter Onondaga, which returned to port here today.

Four explosions of guncotton removed all of the wreck that was a menace to navigation, and the coastal lane again is free for deep-sea ships. No bodies were brought to the surface, and thus the statements of the divers that they had been swept out by the strong submarine current were verified.

The work of destroying the wreck was spectacular. Tons of water and debris from the sunken ship shot high into the air with every charge. The hulk now is covered by fifty-four feet of water.

SUICIDE? OR VICTIM OF CANCER? IS ASKED

Man and Wife Are Found Dead in New York Flat.

New York, March 26.—Whether Frank Lunow was a suicide or a victim of cancer, from which he had long been suffering, was a question, disputed by two doctors after Lunow and his wife were found dead today in an uptown apartment house. There was no doubt in the case of Mrs. Lunow. A rubber tube led from an open gas jet to her mouth. A physician had told Mrs. Lunow yesterday that her husband probably could not live through the night.

COMPLAINS ABOUT THE SUGAR TRUST

Louisiana Man Is Given Hearing By the President.

Washington, March 26. — Charges that the American Sugar Refining company has for twenty-three years monopolized the New Orleans sugar market by a "ruthless extermination of competition," and has depressed the price of raw sugar there fully $2,000,000, to the distress of the planters, were presented to President Wilson today by Donelson Caffery of New Orleans, who was presented at the White House by Senator Thurston.

More Trouble in Peru.

Washington, March 26.—Official dispatches from Lima, Peru, were summarized in this statement today at the state department:

"The Peruvian congress again failed to secure a quorum, owing to the obstructive measure of the anti-Le Guira party. Some street riots in Lima have grown out of the government disorder."

EATING RELIEVES STOMACH TROUBLE

A Prominent Physician's Advice

"Eat good foods and plenty of them. Dieting, in many cases, is almost criminal. Get back to normal. To do so you must have the proper quantity of nourishment. You need it for brain or physical work. Probably there is nothing the matter with your stomach except acidity. That is merely an abnormal secretion of acid in the stomach. Neutralize that acid and your stomach trouble will end at once. Neglect may mean ulcers if not cancer of the stomach. Do not take patented medicines or pepsin tablets for dyspepsia. Simply take a neutralizer of acid. Decidedly the best neutralizer is ordinary druggist's bisurated magnesia. You can get it at any drug store for a few cents. Take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water after each meal. The relief will be immediate." Advertisement.

WILL NOT REVOKE RICHARDS' PAROLE.

Des Moines, Ia., March 26.—Governor George W. Clark has refused to revoke the parole of "Bill" Richards, the former deputy United States marshal who is in jail here charged with having been one of three masked men who attempted to hold up and rob Mrs. H. F. La Fore, Monday night.

The governor declared he had no grounds for sending Richards back to the state penitentiary to serve the remainder of his eighteen-year-term unless the prisoner is convicted in the present case.

Richards still is being held by the police marked for "investigation." He was a deputy United States marshal for Southern Iowa for twenty years, prior to the conviction of three years ago.

BIG BANK DEPOSITS BY ALLEGED ROBBER.

Greenville, S. C., March 26.—John Radliffe was arrested by detectives near here yesterday in connection with the robbery of a Queen & Crescent express and mail train near Birmingham, Ala., on Feb. 19. He denies knowledge of the crime. Bank books showing deposits of $24,000 to Radliffe's credit in Greenville and Atlanta banks were found among the prisoner's effects, according to the detectives.

Two men recently were arrested in Atlanta in connection with the robbery, which is said to have netted three bandits $40,000.

UNWILLING TO CEDE RIGHTS

Commissioners Opposed to Selling Any of City's Water Frontage.

The city will very probably refuse to cede any rights which it may have on the Lake avenue slip by virtue of Minnesota avenue being platted along a portion of the dock line.

This became apparent this morning when the various members of the city council expressed themselves as being opposed to taking any chances of allowing any valuable water front rights to slip away. They will consider the matter at an informal meeting tomorrow afternoon but it seems certain that they will not grant any concessions.

The Gowan-Lenning-Brown company is planning to erect a large building on a site which abuts that part of Minnesota avenue along the dock line. They want to acquire 120 feet of frontage on the dock line by securing that much of Minnesota avenue. For this the company made a tentative offer of $500, which was raised to $1,000, with a statement that it might go to $2,000, according to the officials.

It was explained at the city hall today that the company several years ago instituted proceedings to Torrens its title. It is said that the matter was allowed to drag, but that it is the intention to push it through to an early conclusion. Their request of the city is that it shall not contest the action, according to the authorities, allowing any rights it may have to go by default, for which a consideration would be paid.

Following this conference the council will meet to consider the license ordinances which were introduced last Monday. It is stated that these will be shortened materially, as much extraneous matter can be eliminated in addition to what has already been cut out.

The matter of the applications of four employes, members of the engineering department, for raises will probably be thrashed out. The men have informed the city engineer that they have secured better offers from a railroad company and will leave unless they receive increases of $15 a month in two cases and $10 a month in two cases.

EIGHTY MOTHERS AT BABY PARTY

Had Eighty Different Theories on Way to Care for Infants.

"The only way to bring up a baby" was told by eighty mothers at a "baby party" held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Duncan McLean, 609 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. The eighty mothers apparently had eighty different views on the subject.

While the discussion lasted which, by the way was all afternoon, forty-seven babies listened, played and some times howled in unison. The only man present, Rev. William L. Staub, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, says he was unable to get in a word and that anyway his ignorance of the subject barred him from the discussion.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. W. B. Mallough, Mrs. C. M. Cook and Mrs. James Lanyon. Special luncheon was served for the babies. The program in addition to the discussion was as follows:

Vocal solo, "Slumber Boat" (Jessie Gaynor), Mrs. Oliver Olsen; vocal solo, "Sleep, Little Baby Mine" (Benee), Miss Mabel Melin; reading, "The Mother," Mrs. Eva Lawyer Parker; vocal solo, "Cuddle Doon," Mrs. A. G. MacAuley. Rev. W. L. Staub was accompanist for the afternoon.

DO NOT WANT SALOON REOPENED

A petition to prohibit the reopening of the saloon in the Grand hotel in case of reopening the hotel in the near future is being circulated today among residents of the district, and will be presented to Commissioner Hicken tomorrow. Action to have the petition circulated was taken last night at a mass meeting of the Scandinavian church people held in the Swedish-Finnish Baptist church last night.

The saloon was closed when J. J. Frey, acting for the owner of the building, brought proceedings against C. J. Petruschke, proprietor of the hotel, to collect alleged back rent and other alleged bills. The rumor that the place is to be reopened under new management in the near future had caused the temperance people to act.

Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom, pastor of the Swedish Mission church, who resides within a block of the hotel, said this morning that the petition would be circulated only among the residents in the immediate vicinity. He said that there was considerable opposition to the saloon when it was first opened, but that the action taken then by the church people was too late to prevent the granting of the license.

Congregations of the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church, Fifty-third avenue and Wadena street, and the Swedish-Finnish Baptist church, whose place of worship is in a building near the corner of Fifty-second and Ramsey street, are said to be much opposed to the saloon, and intend to co-operate in circulating the petition.

CHURCHES MAY UNITE.

The matter is to be put to a vote of the entire congregation within a few days.

The same question will be brought up before the quarterly conference of the Merritt Memorial M. E. church, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Halifax street, Saturday evening.

Are Still Curling.

One of the most spectacular games ever played at the Western Curling club took place last night between George J. Mallory and Kenneth McDonald. Plays which would turn such famous men as "Bob" Dunbar, Rochon and others green with envy, were made by both men on ice that was in excellent shape.

The final score was 7 to 6 in favor of Mr. Mallory. With the exception of one head when Mr. Mallory laid two stones the tally score showed only one for each. Draw shots were remarkable for their accuracy the final stones of the skips being in many cases drawn to the button and often cutting the opponent out of a possibility of laying three or four.

A game between Zauft and Wieland was also played resulting in the latter winning by a score of 11 to 6. It had been planned to close the rink today but owing to the continued cold another exhibition game between Mr. Mallory and Mr. McDonald will be played tonight. Wade and Hudson will also play.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mrs. William J. Ritchie of Bay View Heights left last evening for Glasgow and Edinburg, Scotland, where she will spend three months visiting relatives. Mrs. Ritchie was born in Glasgow and this is her first visit to her birthplace in forty years.

A conference of the United Norwegian Lutheran church is being held at Our Saviour's Norwegian Lutheran church today and tomorrow. The conference began yesterday afternoon and is being attended by pastors of the churches of Duluth and Superior.

PLAYED WITH DYNAMITE CAPS

Range Children Maimed—Father Brings Suit for $22,500.

Playing with dynamite caps proved to be a rather disastrous pastime for Joseph and Angela Mustar, children of Joseph Mustar, Sr., who lives on the Croxton location, two and one-half miles from the village of Buhl.

Nine-year-old Angela is blind in one of her eyes and her 11-year-old brother, Joe, is minus one or two fingers and a thumb as a result of a frolic with the explosive on a summer afternoon two years ago.

In district court today, three separate actions were brought to trial before Judge Bert Fesler and a jury, in which damages aggregating $22,500 are asked by Mustar from the Mesaba Electric company and Contractor John Runquist, who are charged with responsibility for the accident.

In one action, Mustar is suing in the capacity of guardian for his daughter, Angela, who lost an eye. In this suit $15,000 is sought. In another action, he is suing in the capacity of guardian for his son, Joseph Mustar, Jr., and is seeking $5,000. In a third suit, he asks for $2,500 for his own loss by reason of the accident to the children. The cases will be tried jointly.

The contractor and the electric railway company are held responsible for the accident, it being claimed that the dynamite caps with which the children played had been picked up from the right-of-way and that they were carelessly left there by the contractor.

Arnold & Pickering of Virginia are attorneys for the plaintiffs and the defendants are represented by Alex Marshall.

PERE MARQUETTE'S RATE IS ATTACKED

Chicago Board of Trade Claims Milwaukee Is Given Advantage.

Chicago, March 26.—The Pere Marquette railroad and its connections east of Buffalo, N. Y., and the Chicago board of trade appeared before a special examiner for the interstate commerce commission here today to present evidence in an action begun by the Chicago grain men.

The Chicago board charges that grain business of this port is seriously infringed by an unfair discrimination in favor of Milwaukee on grain rates East. Shippers from the north, according to testimony given by Chicago men today before O. F. Berry, special examiner, have the benefit of a 1-cent per hundredweight lower rate, which enables Milwaukee grain men to undersell Chicago and control a close market.

S. H. Benson, statistician for the transportation system of the Chicago board of trade, presented tables purporting to show that a differential of 1 cent granted on account of a transfer from Milwaukee to Ludington, Mich., by water was not justified, but that the rate should be the same as by the standard route from Chicago.

Counsel for the Pere Marquette road cross-examined Mr. Benson.

SCIENCE NEEDED IN ALL BUSINESS

Prof. David F. Swenson Talks to Large Class in Salesmanship.

Prof. David F. Swenson of the University of Minnesota spoke for nearly two hours last night at the Y. M. C. A. on "The Psychology of Salesmanship."

In the first part of his address, he brought out the fact that science is today indispensable in the conduct of any large organized business. The manufacturer of flour, the packer of meats, the preserver of foods must each have his chemist. The mining industry and the steel and iron manufacturing plant must have the geologist and assayist. And so it is through the list. The efficient business men of today are already recognizing the need of the science of physchology in the discharge of their complex duties in organized business. This, he said, is true because the psychologist has found his mission in the world and instead of dealing with abstruse and metaphysical questions and abnormal cases as he did in the past, he is applying himself to the everyday problems of practical affairs and interpreting the workings of the human mind under normal and simple conditions of everyday experience.

In the second part of his lecture he outlined the ways in which the mind works under certain conditions and showed very clearly how the science of psychology is making a very great contribution to the science of salesmanship.

More than 125 men, including many of the leading business men of the city, heard the talk. Next Wednesday night, Richard T. Close of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company will address the class on the same subject but from the point of view of the practical business man.

JUDGE MORRIS HAS A BUSY DAY

Returns From Minneapolis and Hears Several Minor Cases.

Federal Judge Morris returned this morning from the Twin Cities and besides examining applicants for citizenship, disposed of several minor court cases and is this afternoon hearing the admiralty case of the Gilchrist Transportation company against the tugs Record and C. C. Adams, which belong to the Union Towing & Wrecking company. He expects to be here until Monday, when he will again return to the Twin Cities.

The Gilchrist company is libellant in a suit for damages, which was brought against the Union Towing company several years ago and which is now before the court for the first time. The libellant alleges that on June 17, 1906, the tug Record damaged the steamer Merida to the extent of $3,691.88 in a collision that occurred near the Rice's Point bridge while the steamers Merida and Antrim were being towed to the Mesaba dock. The libellant company asks for $3,691.88 damages.

This morning Judge Morris admitted the following to citizenship: Isadore Karon, Nestor Korkeamaki, Peter Hiltunen, Ole Smbrekson and Otto Tarum.

The case of R. C. Pickering against the Fort Henry Mining company was dismissed by the court, the plaintiff announcing that a settlement had been made by the defendant company.

Judge Morris shortly before noon discharged as bankrupts Alfred Baudin of Duluth and Peter Ongman of Carlton.

Frank Jordan and John Brown are named the executors of the state of Mary J. Fitzgerald in her will which was filed today. An estate valued at $3,500 will be divided between a husband and five children.

Judge Fitzgerald today appointed Walter Gonska as special administrator of the estate of Edward Donovan, who died March 22, leaving a small estate. The appointment was made on the petition of R. T. Williams, a friend of the dead man.

For swearing in a saloon yesterday afternoon Henry E. Erickson, 38 years old, was this morning compelled to pay a fine of $10 and costs. Erickson pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs or ten days in the county jail.

CHILDREN OF FIRST WIFE ATTACK WILL.

New York, March 26.—Three grandchildren have notified the surrogate's court that they will contest the will of the late Henry T. Cutter, who left upward of $2,000,000 accumulated through a chain of drug stores. The contestants all are children of Mr. Cutter's daughter by his first wife. They allege that the will, which leaves all the property to Mr. Cutter's second wife, was made under the influence of fraud when the testator was senile and incompetent. The contestants are James H. Montgomery, the dramatist; Mrs. Annie G. Noyes and Mrs. Katherine Cooley.

PETERSON "ARRESTED."

Recently Eliminated Gubernatorial Candidate Runs Afoul Police.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 26.—James M. Peterson, who was defeated as a candidate for governor at the Republican "elimination conference" here last week, was arrested last night, loaded into a patrol wagon, and taken to police headquarters, while spectators cheered. Mr. Peterson had clashed with two traffic policemen, who claimed the former candidate had violated the traffic ordinance, by insisting on walking diagonally across two intersecting streets. He was allowed to go on his own recognizance. Chief of Police Oscar Martinson later ordered the charge against Mr. Peterson dropped and he was not forced to appear in court today.

UPHOLDS FILING FEE.

Montana Supreme Court Rules Against General Electric Company.

Helena, Mont., March 26.—The General Electric company of New York will be obliged to pay a fee of $10,322 if it transacts business in this state, according to a ruling of the state supreme court announced here yesterday.

The company applied to the supreme court for a writ of mandate to compel the secretary of state to accept a proffered fee of $12 for recording the company's papers here, holding that the provision of the state law under which the state fixed the fee is invalid, as it imposes a tax upon property outside the jurisdiction of the state.

The court holds the fee demanded is not a property tax, pointing out it is graduated according to the par value of the company's capital stock without reference to the full cash value of the property owned by the corporation. It holds the fee demanded is a license tax "exacted of every corporation, domestic as well as foreign, engaged in interstate business, for the privilege of doing business within this state."

MINNESOTA STATE BANKS FORGE AHEAD

Reports Show Deposit Gain of $20,144,531 in Eleven Months.

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—In eleven months the state banks of Minnesota have increased their deposits by $20,144,531.64, making the total on deposit in these institutions $156,657,792.38, a showing that is regarded by Kelsey S. Chase, state superintendent of banks, as highly gratifying and also, with other items in his report, as indicative that labor and capital have been well employed. His call for reports at the close of business March 4 found forty more banks doing business than on April 4, 1913, with total resources of more than $180,000,000 and increase in the eleven months of $21,886,254.

One of the striking features of the report is the increase of 33 per cent in savings deposits, which, Mr. Chase says, is a remarkably large increase and would seem to indicate that labor, generally speaking, had steady employment. That business was fairly active he deduces from the increase in loans of $15,657,000.

Less Real Estate Holdings.

Particularly cheering is the decrease in real estate holdings outside of the bank property. Since he became the head of the state bank department, Mr. Chase has endeavored to lead the state banks out of the real estate business. The amount of such property still held by banks is larger than he would like to see it, but it steadily is going down while, in all the desirable items the figures are growing.

"Business men and all others interested in the material prosperity of the state ought to feel proud of the manner in which the wealth of the state is increasing," remarked Mr. Chase in presenting his report.

LOSES PART OF HIS ROLL

Somebody Relieves Him of $1,100 While He Sleeps.

Elias George, deputy sheriff at Houghton, Mich., took some precautions against losing a "roll" of $1,950 when he went to sleep in a rooming house at 610 Garfield avenue Tuesday night, but he failed to lock his door. When he awoke yesterday morning George found that $1,100 of his money had been stolen during the night.

George failed to report the theft to the police at first, but worked on the case himself during the morning. Yesterday afternoon he came to police headquarters and told the local authorities of his loss. Detectives Toewe and Bradley were immediately detailed on the case, and they learned last evening that George had failed to lock his room Tuesday night, and also that there were six other roomers in the building, besides George and his nephew.

The deputy sheriff from Houghton is planning to establish himself in business here, and he came to Duluth several days ago with his nephew. He had $1,950 in cash with him, but had taken every precaution since his arrival against losing the money. During the day George carried the bills in his shoe, and at night he would remove the money and place it in a pocket of his nightgown.

But when George and his nephew went to sleep Tuesday night they forgot to lock the door, and in all probability the thief merely walked into the room and took the money. Why he did not take all the money is a mystery, but when George awoke yesterday morning $1,100 was gone.

CANAL TOLLS DEBATE BLOCKED IN HOUSE

the debate on adopting the special rule would be more limited than first was proposed, and probably would be held to two hours or less.

Spectacular Fight Ahead.

Nearly 100 speeches have been prepared on both sides of the tolls question, and the fight promises to be the most spectacular since the Democratic administration came into power.

While the opening skirmish was on in the house, the first guns were being heard in the senate, where Senator Owen delivered a speech supporting the president.

President Wilson conferred with several congressmen before the house convened. Representatives Covington of Maryland, and Bell of Georgia, who are helping to line up the administration forces, told him there would be a majority of at least fifty on the passage of a special rule and of about 75 or 100 on the adoption of the repeal.

Move By Fitzgerald.

It was just as both sides were prepared for the beginning of the struggle, and house galleries were packed with an expectant crowd, that the new delay cropped up. Although the rivers and harbors bill was in direct line to be speedily finished to make a place for the tolls repeal bill, Representative Fitzgerald, one of the Democrats fighting the repeal, brought up the conference report on the urgent deficiency bill. A conference report always is in order under the house rules, so that delayed the rivers and harbors bill, which still had the right of way over the Panama bill.

FIELD MARSHAL OF BRITISH ARMY RESIGNS

ficers in Ireland under the new conditions established by the premier's speech in the house of commons yesterday. Brig.-Gen. Gough declares that this will mean wholesale resignations and the disruption of the army.

The premier's speech won back the support not only of the Liberals, but of the Irish and Labor members of parliament, by the stand it took repudiating the guarantee given to the mutinous army officers in Ireland that they might decide whether or not they would serve against the Ulster Unionists.

Will Resign Again.

It is now asserted that as soon as the government formally withdraws the guarantees given by Col. Seely, secretary for war, and Field Marshal Sir John French, the officers will again resign their commissions, and as one of them said, "This time in earnest."

There is also to be settled the question of what the army council will do. Brig.-Gen. Gough, commander of the Third cavalry brigade, in the course of an interview said:

"If Premier Asquith withdraws the guarantees, he will have to throw over the army council, and the government will be faced practically with the disruption of the army."

The Liberal press in the provinces, while indorsing what Premier Asquith has already done, insists that he must go farther and actually withdraw the guarantee given to the officers. These newspapers say the premier must make it quite plain to all officers of the army and navy that they must, under all circumstances, obey the orders given them.

Criticize Keeping Seely.

Many Liberals, too, think Premier Asquith should have accepted the resignation of Col. Seely, for he always has been suspected of being really more Unionist than Liberal in his sympathies.

The Liverpool Post, a Liberal newspaper, says that the month of June is given as the latest date for a general election. It intimates that as a result of intervention of King George, an agreement has been reached by the Unionists and the Liberals, under the terms of which the home rule bill and the Welsh disestablishment bill shall be passed with the understanding that a general election shall follow.

"The only thing not absolutely settled in the agreement between the parties," says the newspaper, "was whether the plural voting bill also should be passed. The difficulties in regard to this latter bill are likely to be surmounted, however."

Ewart May Resign.

The opinion prevailed in military circles today that the resignations were imminent of Field Marshal Sir John French, chief of the Imperial general staff, and Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Spencer Ewart, adjutant general to the forces.

This was regarded as the most likely consequence of the repudiation by the government of the memorandum to Gen. Hubert Gough, commander of the Third cavalry brigade in Ireland, which the two generals had been led to believe was approved by the cabinet.

Field Marshal French and Gen. Ewart were joint signers with Col. Seely, secretary for war, of the two repudiated paragraphs that brought about the resignation yesterday of Col. Seely.

Much comment was aroused today by a conference at the war office of all the principal commanding generals of the British army. Those present included Field Marshal French, Lieut. Gen. Ewart, Gen. Sir Horace Lockwood Smith-Dorrien, aide de camp general to the king, and Lieut. Gen. Sir James Moncrieff Grierson, general in command of the Eastern district of England, with headquarters in London.

Col. Seely and Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, also had a long conference with Premier Asquith.

Bar on Arms Illegal.

Belfast, Ireland, March 26.—The Assize court has decided that the government prohibition of the importation of arms into Ireland was invalid, because the Act of Union provided that all subjects should have the same privileges in respect to trade.

HOW YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

The statement is made that thousands wear eye-glasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunates, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona; fill a two-ounce bottle with water and drop in one Optona tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eye lids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders report wonderful benefits from the use of this free prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses, would never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eye-glasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.

merce of the United States, shall, upon conviction, be fined for each offense a sum not exceeding $5,000 or be imprisoned for not exceeding two years.

Defining the goods against which the ban is placed, the bill prohibits "any goods upon which or any part of which has been employed in any manner, the labor of convicts or of prisoners confined in any jail, penal institution, workhouse or other place of restraint, detention or occupation permitted, established and set aside to be utilized by or for criminals or detained persons in any foreign country, and whether the same be the product of the field, the quarry, or manufacturing establishment, any part of which, or the materials entering which, have been produced, treated, manipulated or manufactured at any stage, in whole or in part, by convict, pauper or prison labor or by detained persons in a foreign country."

Defines "Pauper."

The bill declares that the term "pauper" shall be limited to those persons who are held or confined in eleemosynary institutions at the public expense in whole or in part.

Various efforts to amend the bill in order to broaden its scope failed. Republican Leader Mann, early in the consideration of the measure, attempted to insert a clause defining "paupers" as all persons receiving wages of less than $1 a day. Yesterday he sought to include a provision prohibiting the importation of all child-labor-made goods. Speaker Clark ruled the amendment out of order, and upon an appeal was upheld by a vote of 229 to 112.

The right of the United States government to exclude from entry any class of goods, provided no attempt is made to discriminate as between nations, is undisputed, according to the state department authorities. Though without the text of the Hensley bill in its present form, based on a description of its general scope, those officials were confident that however objectionable the legislation might be to manufacturing exporting nations, they could not successfully maintain that it is in contravention of any treaty rights.

THE NEW BRITISH VICE CONSUL IN DULUTH

DAVID QUAIL.

Mr. Quail has assumed his duties as British vice consul in Duluth, succeeding the late Henry Taylor.

rived in Minot from Minneapolis Tuesday accompanied by Sheriff Edward Kelley. He immediately appeared before Judge Lynch and waived examination and was bound over to the district court under $1,000 bonds.

He was represented by Francis J. Murphy, and State's Attorney R. A. Nestos appeared for the state. Kemper says that the charge was trumped up by Peter Lee, who bought Kempster's stock last fall, succeeding him as proprietor of the bank.

REPORTS FROM CITY OF TORREON POINT TO REPULSE OF REBELS

that Villa was in full retreat, are not believed generally, but there is no doubt that their contents have added to the worry of the rebel officers here.

Manual Chao, military governor of Chihuahua, haunts the military operator day and night in hope of a fragmentary message even from Gen. Villa, telling of the fortunes of war.

The fact that all communication ceased so soon after the attack on Gomez Palacio, and that it had been coming freely during Villa's triumphant southward march, gave rise to misgivings in the hearts of Constitutionalist sympathizers as much, if not more, than any other agency.

Repulse Is Claimed.

El Paso, Tex., March 26.—That the rebels have been repulsed every time they have taken the offensive at Gomez Palacio, was the assertion made here today by Miguel Diebold, inspector of Mexican consulates.

Senor Diebold exhibited messages from Mexico City as his authority for the statement. One message declared the rebels have not even approached Torreon proper, but have had their hands full at Gomez Palacio, three miles distant. He asserted that the Federals are about to take the offensive, to which end a flanking movement is being started.

Terrazas Anxious.

Gen. Luis Terrazas, Sr., was in a state of great anxiety today over the fate of his son, Luis, who was reported under sentence of death at Chihuahua yesterday unless he paid 500,000 pesos to the rebels. No direct word of the fate of the younger man was received today.

He Says He Is Safe.

Douglas, Ariz., March 26.—Louis Terrazas, Jr., held captive by the Constitutionalists at Chihuachua, will not be executed under any circumstances, according to a statement made here by Roberto V. Pesquiera, a Washington representative of the insurgents who was in Douglas on official business.

In addition to asserting Terranzas would not be executed, Pesquiera announced that he probably would not be released under existing circumstances.

Pesquiera praised President Wilson highly, declaring the nation's chief executive was Mexico's best friend in the United States. He will leave tomorrow for El Paso for the purpose of conferring with Gen. Carranza upon his arrival at Juarez.

NORTH DAKOTA LAND ACTION IS REVERSED

Illinois Woman's Judgment Against Fargo Man Set Aside.

Fargo, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state supreme court has reversed the decision of Judge Pollock in the case of Emma C. Schinzer of Ashton, Ill., against John Wyman, a realty man of Fargo. About $50,000 was involved in the judgments and transfers of lands ordered.

On the trial before Judge Pollock of the district court it was shown that the woman had traded some lands with Wyman and later became dissatisfied, alleging they were misrepresented. She sought a retransfer of her lands and damages and won on every point.

Judge Pollock's remarks in announcing his decision startled the public by the bitterness of his strictures on Wyman. The supreme court says there was no fraud and the $50,000 judgment is set aside.

MANN ACT USED BY BLACKMAIL GANG.

St. Louis, Mo., March 26.—United States District Attorney Houts of this city announces that he has joined District Attorney Wilkerson of Chicago in a campaign to break up a gang of blackmailers whose operations are said to have been made possible by the provisions of the Mann act.

Numerous attempts to use the Federal act which prohibits traffic in women as a lever to extort money under threat of prosecution, have been brought to the attention of Federal officials, Mr. Houts declared.

ALL BYRNE TICKET WON AT PRIMARIES.

Pierre, S. D., March 26.—The entire majority Republican state ticket, headed by Governor Byrne, probably was nominated in Tuesday's primary election, according to returns today from all sections of the state.

Congressman Dillon was renominated in the First district, Judge W. G. Rice was nominated for congressman in the Third, and Attorney General Johnson, returns indicate, was nominated by a safe majority in the Second district.

HOPE TO SETTLE STRIKE AT DEPEW.

Depew, N. Y., March 26.—The state board of mediation was confident today of arranging a basis for settlement of the strike at the Gould Coupler works, where a regiment of militia is on guard.

Several shots were fired in the neighborhood of the plant early today. No one was injured and the militiamen did not return the fire.

The funeral of Stanislaus Skolonski, who was fatally shot during the attack on a work train Monday, was held today from the Polish Catholic church. Five hundred strikers marched in the funeral procession, carrying flags. The men were orderly.

TO URGE AMENDMENT.

State Foresters Will Work for Addition to Constitution.

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—Having adopted resolutions and elected officers, the members of the state foresters' association adjourned their convention late yesterday and left for their homes, determined to conduct an educational campaign that will insure the adoption of the forestry constitutional amendment at the November election.

"Once this amendment is adopted, we can begin a scientific forest era in Minnesota," said State Forester W. T. Cox. "The policy we want to start of putting non-agricultural lands into forestry means that a great natural wealth will be created which will add millions yearly to our school fund and that Minnesota will deal fairly with settlers."

The following officers were elected: President Dietrich Lange, St. Paul; vice president, E. P. G. Cheyney, Minneapolis; secretary, A. P. Buehler, St. Paul; treasurer, Phil H. Hanson, St. Paul.

Kansas City, Mo., March 26.—"Pure bred cattle will solve the meat problem," said E. M. Hall, secretary of the Central Shorthorn Breeders' association, at the sixteenth annual meeting of the organization here today. "It will not make meat a great deal cheaper, for that is impossible," he continued, "but it will do away with inferior meat and give plenty of meat at a fair price."

Take Soda for Acid Stomach or Indigestion—Try It

Indigestion, says a noted authority, is not caused by a lack of digestive juices, but by an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, which promotes food fermentation, thus retarding digestion. Then our meals sour in the stomach and bowels like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon, then we get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest; we eructate food, belch gas and have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us that to instantly neutralize these stomach acids and stop food fermentation we must get a package of 10-grain Sodagen tablets at any pharmacy and take one tablet any time followed by a tumbler of water, which immediately settles the stomach, absorbs the gases and sweetens the entire digestive system.

He states that men and women who can trace their disordered stomachs and indigestion to acidity should not hesitate to take this harmless antacid at any time, as it is simply a compound of Soda, Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate U. S. P.

THIRTY-ONE STUDENTS GRADUATED FROM CROOKSTON AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

MEMBERS OF 1914 GRADUATING CLASS.

Crookston, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Today the Northwest School of Agriculture graduated a class of thirty-one, 30 per cent larger than the class graduated last year, and concluded a year's work which in quality and enthusiasm was far above anything done in the past. The total enrollment of the regular students was 167, 20 per cent over last year.

The enrollment this year came from twenty-three counties, the majority, however, being from the Red River valley counties, every section of which was represented by good delegations which will result in the spreading of the influence of the school broadcast.

The work with the enrolled students, however, was not all accomplished. During the farmers' short course in February there was a large registration, and the farm crops show, which was managed by Supt. C. G. Selvig of the school as general chairman, and Prof. O. I. Berg, agronomist at the farm school, who acted as secretary, and which was attended by hundreds of farmers from all parts of Northwestern Minnesota who took advantage of the addresses and the show of farm products, good seed, etc., and became imbued with a new enthusiasm for better seed, better cultivation, weed eradication, rotation and an increase in corn, alfalfa and potato acreage, and increased stock and better stock on every farm.

The school of agriculture and experiment station combined have wielded a mighty influence throughout this section, and the sphere of influence is constantly widening.

Show Faith in School.

The faith placed in the school was well shown by the large attendance at the various commencement week events at the school, closing with the graduating exercises today. There were big crowds present at every event. At the school musical Saturday evening it was evidenced that students had acquired something aside from farm knowledge. The young ladies leave equipped to adorn as well as to make a home. They have the general essentials of farm knowledge, and the details of handling cream, making butter and a practical knowledge of domestic science which makes them competent to conduct a household and make a real home.

The young men leave equipped for their work. They have not acquired all the knowledge in the world, but they will make the Red River valley blossom as it has never blossomed before. They have learned to know that there is dignity in farming, that business principles apply just as they do in any other business. They will be equipped with the knowledge, and imbued with the spirit that the farm home must be a real home where the boys and girls have advantages, and which has attractions which will keep them on the farm in preference to the fickle call of the city.

Wednesday morning chapel exercises were conducted by the seniors in the auditorium.

Commencement Day Program.

For the commencement day program a special train was run from Crookston this afternoon, carrying many people from Crookston, in addition to several hundred who had gone out to enjoy the stock and corn judging, public speaking, cooking and sewing, butter making and carpentery and blacksmithing demonstrations in the morning, which were witnessed by large crowds.

The commencement day address was delivered by Dean L. A. Weigle of Carleton college, on "The Education for the Times," and was a masterful resume of the practical knowledge along specific lines which was the requisite for assured success in any line, and the practical application of that knowledge, with common sense, to fit exigencies which might arise and which would vary materially, dependent upon surroundings.

The balance of the program this afternoon was most creditable, and the musical numbers sandwiched between the class addresses were excellent, including numbers by the agricultural school band, directed by J. A. Merth; vocal solos by Miss Frances Hoover, director of music of the school, and a number by a mixed school chorus.

The class oration, "Highest Efficiency for Greatest Service," given by Darragh Geddes, president of the senior class, was a very fine effort, reflecting credit upon the speaker, the class and the school.

The diplomas were presented by Supt. C. G. Selvig with a few short remarks, in which he gave to the students the thought that their real work was just begun; that the school had equipped them with the tools with which to work out their own salvation. The program was fittingly closed with the singing of "Minnesota" by the audience.

The closing evening of the week will be the alumni banquet at the Palace hotel this evening, with plates laid for 100.

West End

BRANCH OF PUBLIC LIBRARY IS POPULAR

New Quarters Are Now Crowded Every Day in the Week.

As a place for spending idle moments and reading fiction or studying, the West end branch of the public library, recently moved to 20 North Twentieth avenue west, is proving a success. An average attendance of nearly 200 people for the first twenty-five days of this month attests this fact.

The branch is open every day of the week. During the week days it is opened at 1 and closed at 9 p. m. On Sundays the institution is open from 3 to 8 o'clock.

Nearly 3,000 men, women and children of the West end have taken cards entitling them to take books from the institution. This has created such a demand for books that the circulation at the institution is expected to exceed the number of books that have been kept in the branch. Many new books are being added to the shelves every week.

One feature that is being carried out by the librarian that is proving very popular with the children, is the "story hour" on Saturday afternoon. Miss Maud Grogan, librarian, gives the reading of a story to the little ones every week and these gatherings are attended by an average of about 150 children.

The institution was moved to its present quarters on March 1, and patrons of the library are of the opinion that if its popularity continues to increase in the manner it has since being moved, larger quarters may have to be secured as soon as the lease on this building expires.

PE-RU-NA LAXATIVE-TONIC

"I was taken with a severe headache and cold, which finally brought on constipation and bowel trouble. Physics of all kinds were used, and we were obliged to resort to the fountain syringe for help. I could drink castor oil like water, but it did no good. Salts were of no use. The doctors were puzzled. After using three bottles of Peruna I consider myself entirely well." Mr. John B. Capers, No. 610 Pecan St., Fort Worth, Texas.

Those who object to Liquid Medicine will find Peruna Tablets a desirable remedy for CATARRHAL CONDITIONS.

ADOLPH ANDERSON.

Adolph Anderson, chief deputy in the office of the city building inspector, holds one of the most responsible positions of the municipal administration and is busy the year round.

Probably the most important work done by him is figuring the strains and stresses of supporting members in steel and reinforced concrete construction, which is some job when the size of the buildings now being erected in this city is considered. And in the parlance of the day the builders and architects admit that he understands making these calculations. In many of the larger buildings the building inspector's office has had serious arguments to get the builders and architects to provide sufficient steel to conform to the requirements of the ordinance and the best practice. In these instances the increased amount of steel has been specified on Inspector Anderson's figures. C. A. P. Turner, designer of the aerial bridge, was among those who altered original figures, doing so in the case of the concrete columns of the Holland hotel.

Scarcely less important is his regular inspection of the elevators in the city. There are about 260, variously operated by steam, hydraulic pressure, electricity or compressed air, some used for freight and others for passengers. Each inspection has revealed dangerous defects in numerous lifts, which if left unrepaired, might result in dangerous accidents or loss of life. In the years Inspector Anderson has been examining the elevators in the city, their condition has shown great improvement. But in this branch of his work he has not rested upon past performances, but has acted on the basis that constant vigilance is essential to safety. He holds that many betterments yet remain to be made.

The chief inspector also does most of the field work, checking up all buildings to see they are being constructed in conformance with the plans filed in the office and examining all dwellings to learn if they are complying with the provisions of the housing ordinance. In the last year he found that many men thought that all that was necessary was to submit plans which fulfilled the requirements of the housing ordinance, after which they could proceed as they saw fit. But they ran against a snag in the person of Inspector Anderson and hastened to get into line to save themselves from arrest.

TOSSED BY ENGINES; AUTO DRIVER UNHURT.

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—A west bound passenger train struck an auto truck driven by Edward Wheeler yesterday, carried the truck and driver fifteen rods on the pilot of the engine, then threw them into the path of an east bound train, which wrecked the truck but tossed the driver to safety. He walked to a hospital where his slight injuries were dressed.

PICKETS DRIVE OUT BRICK WAGON MEN.

Chicago, March 26.—Fifty pickets of the National Brick Makers' union who went on strike several weeks ago, today surrounded the yard of an Evanston brick company and drove back teamsters who tried to leave the grounds with wagon loads of bricks. Threats were shouted at the drivers, but there was no violence. Fifty policemen were detailed to guard the teamsters.

Twelve thousand men are involved in the strike. Preliminary steps have been taken to arbitrate the dispute.

LITTLE DOING ON LONDON EXCHANGE.

London, March 26.—Slackness of business is expected in financial circles here to lead many members of the London stock exchange to drop their membership for a year. Twenty-one resignations have thus far been posted. The members have until April 14 to decide what they are going to do, as their subscriptions do not fall due until that date. Under the rules, members may retire for a year and resume membership without paying an entrance fee.

EVICTED STRIKERS APPEAL TO WILSON.

Steubenville, Ohio, March 26.—Officers of the United Mine Workers of America came here today to advise the striking miners from Colliers, W. Va., who last night were driven from their camp on the property of the West Virginia & Pittsburg Coal company, across the Ohio river to this place. Petitions were prepared to be sent to President Wilson and Governor Hatfield, asking the Federal and state authorities to intervene to allow them to occupy a camp in West Virginia. Sheriff Patterson of Brooke county had a large force of deputies on duty at the mines.

DECIDE ON RATES TO FRISCO FAIR.

San Francisco, March 26. — The Transcontinental Passenger association concluded today details of the rates for Eastern traffic to the Panama-Pacific exposition. The 1915 rates are said to be the lowest ever agreed on.

The round trip from points west of Chicago will be the price of the present lowest first-class one-way fare, the mileage in some cases being less than a cent. A time limit of ninety days is allowed, and tourists will be able to take in the fair here and the San Diego exposition on one ticket.

The railroad men were entertained by the exposition officials at luncheon today, and taken on an excursion around the bay, including a trip to the fair grounds.

When $100,000 is raised locally, a campaign will be made in the East for a $500,000 endowment.

A Message to Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 lbs. of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh.

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. Boyce's drug store and other good druggists have Sargol, or can get it from their wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh builder.

GRIEF-STRICKEN; ATTEMPTS LIFE

Larimore Woman, Grieving Over Daughter's Death, Takes Poison.

Larimore, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crazed by grief at the death of her daughter, aged 5, Mrs. Fred Rittenour of Larimore attempted suicide yesterday by drinking two ounces of carbolic acid. A doctor saved her but her condition is still critical.

Since the death of her girl, one of a family of seven children, Mrs. Rittenour has constantly bemoaned her loss, and several times, within the last few weeks, she had declared that she "soon would be with her daughter Rosie."

Mrs. Rittenour had drained half a bottle containing four ounces of the drug and had concealed the remainder of the poison in the bed clothing, where it was not discovered for several hours after physicians were called to care for her.

CROSBY ELECTION TO BE CONTESTED

"Wets" Claim Many Voted Who Were Not Entitled to.

Crosby, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town election held here on March 10 is to be contested and the paper in the case was filed with Clerk Johnston. When the result of the election was announced it was supposed that the "wet" element had won, but it develops according to a supreme court decision that on a wet and dry proposition the winner must have a majority of all votes cast which has changed the condition, and the suit has been brought by the wet element demanding a recount, charging that more votes were cast for license than were actually counted, canvassed and declared to have been voted for license, and that there were cast, counted and canvassed at said election a larger number of votes by persons unqualified to vote at said election, etc.

The petition not only attacks the license proposition but also contests the election of town officers. The drys claim that the saloonmen have broken faith with them in contesting the election of officers without first giving notice to the defendants and that from now on they propose to put the fight up to the saloonmen and carry it to a victory that is sure to be theirs.

FEARFUL HUMOR COVERED FACE-- RESINOL CURED

Itchy, Covered With Pimples and Most Unsightly, Instantly Relieved.

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 9, 1913—"About a year ago my face began to crack and get scaly in blotches. It soon got worse and my face was all spotted and rough, and it itched me very much at night, and caused me no end of discomfort. After a month or so, pimples and blackheads began to show, first in small numbers and then gradually covering my entire face. It was awful. The pimples were sore and the rash was itchy and my face had a most unsightly appearance. I tried different kinds of soaps, creams and massages and also a strict diet, but I could get no relief. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment caused me instant relief. By the time another jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap were gone, I can truthfully say that it was a complete cure. My face had assumed its former color and looks, due to Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. They are, I think, the best for any skin trouble." (Signed) Robert Troyana, 269 E. 21st St.

Resinol Soap and Ointment heal eczema and other skin eruptions, stop itching instantly, and are most valuable for pimples, dandruff, sores, burns, boils, piles, etc. For trial size, free, write to Resinol, Dept. 8-R, Baltimore, Md. A few unscrupulous dealers try to sell substitutes for Resinol. Look out for them.

ENGLAND SUES FOR KILLING AT THE SOO

Charges Violation of Treaty of Ghent in Woman's Death.

Washington, March 26.—Violation of the Treaty of Ghent, which restored peace between Great Britain and the United States after the war of 1812, is alleged as the basis for a claim for $25,000, pressed by the British government before the British-American pecuniary claims commission now in session here. Miss Elizabeth Cadenhead, a British subject from Kingston, Ont., was killed in the streets of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., by a bullet fired by a Fort Brady sentry at an escaping military prisoner. The suit was brought by the British government in behalf of Miss Cadenhead's heirs.

WILL KEEP PEACE IN COAL DISTRICTS.

Chicago, March 26.—The policy committee of the United Mine Workers of America have agreed upon a plan which is expected to maintain industrial peace in the bituminous coal districts of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. It was settled that the men are to remain at work under the present agreement and adjust the new scale in local district conferences with the employers, abandoning, at least for this year, any attempt to do so in a joint conference of the four states. Arrangements were made for a conference of Illinois coal operators and miners at Peoria, Ill., and it was said that conferences in other districts would take place immediately.

The wage agreements are made for two years. The present agreement expires April 1. Both miners and operators assert that there is no danger of a strike.

MINNEAPOLIS WOMAN ESCAPES DANGEROUS SURGICAL OPERATION

Mrs. Sinclair Finds Wonderful Stomach Remedy in Time to Avoid Knife.

Mrs. Sadie E. Sinclair of 418 East Lake St., Minneapolis, suffered from stomach derangements for more than six years. She became despondent and hopeless. She feared she would have to undergo an operation. Her complexion suffered along with her general health.

Then she discovered Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and took a course of treatment. The first dose brought results. She wrote:

"Only one dose and I slept like a log. And I felt relieved right away. If I should need any more medicine you may be sure I will send for it. It is a wonder one can be rid of such conditions without pain. And my complexion is clearing; they all speak of it—I was so yellow and brown before."

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy works quickly and safely. It clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and digestive tract. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations; many are sure it has saved their lives.

The remarkable success of this remedy has caused many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Probably it is known among your own neighbors. Ask them. Go to Wirth's drug store and ask about the wonderful results it has accomplished—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its remarkable effects.

BIG VERDICT FOR WALSH

Recovers $8,587 on the Russell Motor Company Transaction.

A jury in Judge Ensign's division of the district court yesterday afternoon awarded J. S. Walsh $8,587.41 damages for the alleged fraud of A. M. Russell and Asa Paine in inducing him to purchase Paine's interest in the now defunct Russell Motor company and afterwards advance money to the company. The verdict was returned shortly before 5 o'clock last evening after the jury had been out for nearly three hours.

This was the second trial of the case and the second verdict obtained by Walsh. More than a year ago, the case was tried before Judge Dibell and a verdict of $6,871.93 returned at that time against both defendants. Each defendant moved for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or a new trial. The motions for judgment were denied but new trials were granted. Walsh appealed from this order to the supreme court but the order of Judge Dibell for a new trial was affirmed and the case sent back to the district court.

The action is based on alleged fraudulent representations claimed to have been made by Paine to Walsh at the time Walsh was induced to take Paine's interest in the Russell company. The alleged fraudulent representations, he testified, related to the solvency of the company and to the extent of its business, assets and liabilities made by both Paine and Russell. He claimed that there was a conspiracy between Paine and Russell to defraud him.

Walsh purchased his interest in the Russell company in April, 1911. The company went into bankruptcy on Aug. 21, 1911.

THREE CONTESTED CLAIMS TO BE HEARD

Injured Employes Allege Settlement Has Been Denied Them.

Three contested claims under the workingmen's compensation act were filed yesterday in district court by disabled employes, who alleged that their employers have refused to settle with them for their injuries. The court is asked to set hearing dates on each claim.

Sam Vuin has a claim against the Cypress Mining company. While working at the Cypress mine on Oct. 21 last, he fell from an ore car and broke his leg.

Emil Clements alleges that while working for the Duluth Diamond Drilling company in Stuntz township he was struck by a plank which was dislodged from a scaffold. The accident occurred March 2.

Stephen Zvarik, while employed at the Leetonia mine near Hibbing Jan. 9 as a carpenter, fell forty feet from a trestle, receiving serious injuries. He has been unable to reach a settlement with the Leetonia Mining company, his employers.

INVITES A DELEGATE.

Jacobs, assistant secretary of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, an invitation to have Duluth send a representative to the annual meeting of the association, which will be held at the New Willard hotel, Washington, D. C., May 7.

One of the principal topics for discussion at the meeting will be "The Campaign for Medical Examination of Employes." Dr. Theodore B. Sachs, Chicago, will preside.

SEEK ADMINISTRATORS.

Two Ask Probate Court to Grant Necessary Papers.

Letters of administration are sought in two petitions filed yesterday afternoon in probate court.

Frank H. Dear, Hibbing mining operator, asks the court to be appointed administrator of the estate of his wife, Mrs. Caroline H. Dear, whose death occurred at Hibbing March 11. The estate is valued at $5,600.

C. E. Wallerstedt, Swedish consul stationed at Minneapolis, is seeking letters of administration on the estate of Johan Novell, who died Jan. 8 leaving property worth $530. Novell's heirs reside in Sweden.

MORE FREEDOM FOR FIRST CLASS CADETS.

Annapolis, Md., March 26.—Midshipmen of the graduating classes at the Naval Academy, during their final twelve months in the institution, will hereafter be treated as officers, and will be given privileges never allowed heretofore.

Under the new order the first class men may visit the homes of officers and places in Annapolis any afternoon of the week. They are allowed to accept invitations to luncheon and dinner on Saturdays and to luncheon Sunday without any special formalities, as has been the custom. Finally, the conduct grades are abolished so far as they apply to first class men.

Supt. Fullam said, in explaining the plan to the midshipmen, that there is to be no relaxation of discipline, but that the members of the first class would be expected to maintain it without compulsion in the same spirit that it is maintained by officers.

WARNS FOUR BIG TOBACCO COMPANIES.

New York, March 26.—The four companies into which the Tobacco trust was disintegrated by the decree of 1911, have been given until next Monday to present a plan for abandoning monopolistic practices which the attorney general considers are in violation of the decree. United States District Attorney Marshall told the attorneys of these companies at a conference that the government intended to put an end to present conditions by injunction or other means, but he promised to postpone action until Monday, at the request of the tobacco attorneys.

The government is acting upon the complaint of certain independent dealers who charge that a monopoly of the jobbing business in this district, which was enjoyed by the Metropolitan Tobacco company under the old trust, still exists, and that independent dealers are obliged to buy their tobacco at retail rates.

The corporations represented at the conference were the American, the Liggett & Myers, the R. J. Reynolds, the P. Lorillard and the Metropolitan Tobacco companies.

AMERICAN EXPRESS PLANS BIG BUILDING.

New York, March 26.—Announcement is made that the American Express company will erect a $2,000,000 office building on Lower Broadway. The building is to be thirty-two stories high and is to have a frontage of eighty feet on Broadway. It will run through the block to Trinity place, and adjoin the newly completed building of the Adams Express company. The site, now occupied by two five-story buildings tenanted by express companies, is estimated to be worth $2,500,000. Of the thirty-two floors, the express company will reserve ten floors for its own use, it was asserted.

NEW JERSEY KILLS ANTI-REPEAL MOVE.

Trenton, N. J., March 26.—The lower house of the New Jersey legislature yesterday defeated, 18 to 37, a resolution offered by Assemblyman Foley, Democrat, petitioning members of congress from this state to vote against the repeal of the Panama canal tolls.

The vote was taken at the afternoon session of the assembly, after the meeting had been hurriedly adjourned to end disorder brought about by an attempt to have immediate action taken on the resolution.

The speaker, at the afternoon session, apologized to Assemblyman Walter McDermott for ordering him removed from the house for not taking his seat during the uproar. The order was not carried out.

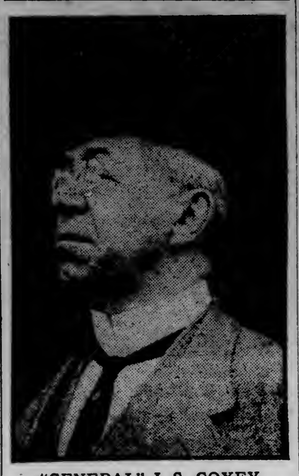
WILL LEAD ANOTHER ARMY TO WASHINGTON



"GENERAL" J. S. COXEY.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 26.—President Wilson has been warned of the departure for Washington of a second "Coxey's army," which it is said will start April 16 from Massillon, Ohio, the starting point of the first army twenty years ago yesterday.

"General" J. S. Coxey of Massillon, the leader, mailed the president a letter telling of his plans and inclosing a pamphlet on "the Coxey plan of setting the idle to work on market roads and other public improvements."

The "army" expects to arrive in Washington May 21, Coxey says, to petition the president and congress for measures which will give work to the unemployed.

DEPORTATION OF RICH HINDU SOUGHT

British Government Is Said to Have Asked Har Dyal's Removal.

San Francisco, March 26.—Har Dyal, former lecturer on Hindu philosophy at Leland Stanford university, was arrested here last night by the immigration authorities, charged with being illegally a resident of the United States.

It was said on high authority that Dyal's deportation is desired by the British government. While in this country he has advocated sedition in India and reports received here within a day or so were that an Indian malcontent was arrested with papers from Dyal, urging summary action. The arrest was made following an address by Dyal at a small hall in Fillmore street.

His culture, standing and independent means are expected to bring the whole situation regarding Hindus to a focus unclouded by any other issues. He is a high caste Brahman, descended, according to scientists, from the Aryan conquerors of India. He has an independent income, is highly educated and has circled the world in his travels.

The position of the local immigration authorities regarding Hindus in general, as outlined by the commissioner general of immigration, is that they are to be deported because, in the opinion of the authorities, they are not assimilable and because they are likely to become public charges, even if they have money when they land. Labor circles on the coast oppose their entrance on the ground that they will work for what is not a living wage for an American.

AUTO "DIES" ON TRACK; TWO DEAD.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—Mrs. Jacob Scherer of Denver and Robert Guard of Rivera, Cal., were killed and three persons were injured when the engine of George Scott's automobile "died" on a railroad track at the harbor and a freight train crushed the machine against an embankment.

The injured were Jacob Scherer, aged 76; Scott, a son-in-law, and the latter's son, Hammond. Miss Leontine Scherer and her sister, Mrs. Marie Van Deventer of San Diego, rolled away from the train wheels and escaped injury.

The party was at the harbor on a sight-seeing trip.

INTERCEDES FOR FRANK.

Jane Addams Urges Atlanta Women to Plead for Him.

Atlanta, Ga., March 26.—Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, has written to Mrs. Emily McDougall, Atlanta club woman and leader in the woman suffrage movement, asking Atlanta women to protest against the execution of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Pencil company, sentenced to be hanged here April 17 for the murder of 14-year-old Mary Phagan.

The Hull House leader in her letter, which was made public here, suggests that Atlanta women, through their organizations or petitions, seek to have the execution postponed pending further investigation to determine the guilt or innocence of the convicted man. Women's organizations here have taken no action on Miss Addams' suggestion.

Attorneys for Frank announce that they have completed an extraordinary motion for a new trial and that it will be filed shortly in the superior court.

Previous attempts to have the verdict reversed and the case remanded for a new trial have met with failure, the state supreme court affirming the death sentence. The extraordinary motion will be based on the claim of newly discovered evidence.

HERO OF FRISCO FIRE IS SUICIDE.

Montgomery, Mo., March 26.—John McClure, a former newspaper man of Missouri and California who gained distinction at the time of the earthquake in San Francisco by saving public buildings in that city by destruction by fire, shot and killed himself at the home of his sister near here yesterday. McClure, then editor of a paper at Fresno, Cal., was in the collector's office in San Francisco after the quake, and by an act of heroism prevented the spread of a blaze that threatened the building. No cause is known for his suicide.

CLAIM TO CURE LOBAR PNEUMONIA.

New York, March 26.—Discovery of a specific serum for the treatment of lobar pneumonia is announced by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

In a statement sent to physicians, the institute announces that it is prepared to treat patients suffering from disease in acute form. Results of experiments indicate the efficiency of the discovery in lowering the mortality from this malady, the statement says.

The work of evolving the serum out of many experimental cultures was under the direction of Dr. Rufus Cole, medical director of the institute, and has been in progress for the last three years. For the preparation of the serum a culture of the germs is prepared for injection into the blood of a healthy animal, the horse being used in this case.

Coincidentally it was announced from Bellevue hospital that a pneumonia serum developed in its laboratory was recently used successfully upon a staff physician of that institution.

ANTHRACITE DUST IS NOT EXPLOSIVE.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 26.—A series of tests concluded today by the Pittsburg station of the bureau of mines and representatives of the Pennsylvania mining department has showed that anthracite coal dust is not explosive unless fire damp is present, and even in the explosive mixture the dust is not inflammable. The tests also developed that the presence of anthracite dust tended to lessen the length of flame of an explosive fire-damp mixture.

REVISE NEW YORK BANKING LAWS.

Albany, N. Y., March 26.—The Van Tuyle bill, which would radically revise the state banking law and regulate and restrict private banking business, passed both houses of the legislature yesterday under emergency messages from Governor Glynn. There was no opposition to the bill. It now goes to the governor, who regards it as one of the most important measures of the season.

Health and Beauty Aids

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Lucile: Nowadays we all know scalp-health is essential to hair-health and the reward for keeping the scalp clean and pliant is an abundant growth of beautiful hair. Using this shampoo regularly keeps the hair healthy and insures a profuse growth: Dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of hot water, then pour this on the head slowly and rub briskly. This creates a thick, white lather that dissolves dandruff and excess oil and is very stimulating to the scalp-tissues and hair-roots. Rinsing leaves the hair and scalp sweet and clean and the hair dries quickly, with a rich, even color and soft fluffiness.

Justinia: Your mirror will tell you how powder clogs the skin and gradually ruins the complexion. In all my years as a beauty specialist I have never found anything to equal a common spurmax lotion. This spurmax lotion is inexpensive and easily prepared—just get four ounces spurmax from your druggist, dissolve in ½ pint witch hazel or hot water and your lotion is ready. This is invisible when on and is an excellent protection from cold, biting winds.

Ada: Your dull, unexpressive eyes will take on a delightful depth and brilliancy by the occasional use of a crystos tonic. This is made by dissolving 1 ounce crystos (to be obtained from any druggist) in a pint clear, cold water. For flooding the eye to remove foreign particles and to banish eye-strain, inflammation and soreness, the crystos tonic is very valuable.

Mrs. A.: It is foolish to countenance that fuzzy growth on your chin. Get a small, original package of delatone and with a little water mix enough of the powder to make a thick paste, then spread on hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes, rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Be sure you get delatone.

Aura M.: That over-fatness can be banished with ease and entire safety by using the parnotis treatment. This is prepared as follows: In 1½ pints hot water dissolve 4 ounces parnotis which you get from your druggist; let cool, then take a tablespoonful before each meal. Keep up treatment until weight is sufficiently reduced. This simple treatment does not require diet nor exercise, and when your weight is where you want it, the flesh will be firm and the skin smooth and free from sagginess.

Worried: I gladly repeat my wrinkle-banishing home-treatment, which all my friends have proven perfect. In ½ pint water stir 1 ounce almozoin, then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Let this jelly-cream stand until thoroughly dissolved, then apply to the skin at night and massage in well. Allow this to remain on over night, and in the morning wash off and apply more of the jelly-cream. Persisting in this simple treatment will give to you a smooth, velvety skin free from lines, and your complexion troubles will be at an end.

Emma L.: Your constant tired, "wornout" feeling is a positive indication of impurities in the blood and an upset liver. I would suggest a course of the kardene treatment, made as follows: Into ½ pint alcohol (never use whisky) put 1 ounce kardene, then add ½ cupful sugar and enough hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before meals. This tonic gently expels poisons from blood and restores full health and strength by building up the worn, wasted parts. Nothing equals the kardene tonic for clearing the skin of pimples and liver spots and curing headaches and kidney disturbances.

Mary B.: For your dry, itchy scalp I would recommend an occasional shampoo with canthrox (see answer to Lucile), then use this hair tonic once or twice a week: In ½ pint alcohol put an ounce quinzoin (from the drug store) then add ½ pint water. Dip ends of fingers in this tonic and massage gently and thoroughly into scalp and hair-roots. This will relieve that uncomfortable, itchy sensation, banish dandruff, and soon correct all minor scalp troubles. Your hair will then become soft, silky and of a rich, even shade.

Woman's Realm

Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, the well-known lecturer, club worker and professor of English who died at Chicago yesterday, has spoken in Duluth several times and was very well known here.

About six years ago Mrs. Potter lectured on woman's suffrage under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club. Two years later she gave a series of lectures at the First Baptist church. She filled the pulpit at Pilgrim church two Sundays during the absence of the pastor.

Mrs. Frances Boardman Squire Potter was born in Elmira, N. Y., forty-seven years ago. She was graduated from Elmira college and four years later married. Mr. and Mrs. Potter moved to Minneapolis and in 1900 Mrs. Potter became a teacher of literature in the East side high school there. The following year she became associate professor of English literature at the University of Minnesota. During the absences of the head of the department she filled his place. In 1909 Mrs. Potter resigned her position at the university to go to Chicago to be secretary of the National Woman's Suffrage association.

Mrs. Potter and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who was a prominent member of the organization, were said to have disagreed upon the policies of the organization and Mrs. Potter resigned.

About this time ill health compelled her to give up active work. She interested herself in some literary societies of the Federation of Women's Clubs. When able she worked with Mrs. Raymond Robbins of Chicago to organize the working girls of that city.

Friends of Mrs. Potter and club women of Minneapolis had hoped she would be able to return to that city to take up her residence, rumors of her improved health having reached them.

In addition to her work along educational, club and suffrage lines she found time to write magazine articles and fiction. Her novel, "The Ballingtons," published in 1905, won instant recognition. She was also an able violinist.

"SCOTS' NICHT."

Clan Stewart Entertains at Monthly Social.

The first of a monthly series of "guid Scots nichts" planned by the officers of Clan Stewart, took place last evening at Clan hall, 112 Fourth avenue west, and was attended by fully 400 people. The hall was packed to a stage that was almost uncomfortable, but the excellence of the entertainment made the participants forget that perhaps they did not have sitting room.

The first part of the evening was spent in listening to a program, consisting wholly of Scottish airs. It started with a selection of Highland airs by the Clan Stewart pipe band, following which was an address by Chief Angus D. Macauley. A duet for violin and piano was played by Melrose and Stafford; Harry Taggart sang "The Star of Robbie Burns;" Miss Margaret Linehan rendered "Loch Lomond;" "Jock o' Hazeldean" was a selection by Dr. James G. Annand; Miss Bessie Richards sang "Within a Mile o' Edinbro Town," and A. F. Melrose sang "Fifty Years Ago." Little Katherine McLean charmed the audience with her dancing of the Highland fling. The program closed with selections by the pipe band.

Following this refreshments were served and then followed a dance. In short, it was one of those evenings when

"The present seems less dismal and the future fair and bricht,
For you've struck earth's grandest treasure in a guid Scots nicht."

Tango Demonstrated.

According to Miss Nellie Stoughton, instructor in folk dancing, modern dances are all right, but the dancers are at fault. Miss Stoughton demonstrated the tango and the hesitation at an open meeting at Lakeside social center last night. She said the new dances are more difficult and graceful than the two-step or ordinary waltz and that generally they are badly danced.

Senator James P. Boyle addressed the meeting on "Progressive Legislation." He touched on the mothers' pension law, workmen's compensation law, initiative, referendum and recall. There were musical numbers and moving pictures.

WILL BE FIRST QUEEN TO VISIT AMERICA

QUEEN ELEANORE
Of Bulgaria.

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 26.—Queen Eleanore of Bulgaria, who some time ago declared her intention of visiting the United States, today announced that she would start on her journey from the Bulgarian capital during the third week of May. Her majesty will presumably proceed to Hamburg and embark there on board the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, which will leave that port for New York on May 21.

Queen Eleanore will be the first reigning queen to visit the United States. She intends to make a study of American institutions and people, in which she has always been greatly interested. Her majesty was much touched during the recent Balkan wars by the practical sympathy displayed for her suffering subjects by Americans. She made many inquiries among the Bulgarian soldiers, numbers of whom had been residents of the United States and had answered their country's call to arms.

It is stated semi-officially that King Ferdinand also will pay a visit to the United States, probably in 1915. He may see the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco. The plans for his majesty's trip are not yet definite.

THE NAME PROBLEM.

Club Women More Inclined to Use Own Names.

It is a subject of discussion whether a married woman engaged in public work should use her own name or the name of her husband. The California Club Woman says that as a general thing club women are becoming more and more inclined to use their own given names rather than those of their husbands. That publication says the new movement is not a declaration of independence on the part of the women as much as it is an italicization of themselves as individuals and as useful units in a social scheme.

The General Federation Magazine says:

"This insistence of an increasing number of women on their own individual cognomens is simply a little byplay or wayside skirmish in the great Feminist advance or evolution; but it is more important and significant than some persons suppose. In spite of the reactionary tendency among the General Federation leaders in this matter, we venture the prediction that in ten years the custom inaugurated by the first president of this organization and followed by all her successors up to three years ago will again prevail, and beautiful names of women will predominate among our officers and heads of departments. But parents should see to it that they give their daughters names having dignity and character, not the empty and absurd excuses for names that flourished a few years ago."

Tango Professionals.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ross who formerly lived here are now teaching the tango, hesitation, Texas Tommy and other new dances at Calgary, Alberta, Canada. They are also giving performances at Cronn's Tango Tea room in that city. At one time Mr. Ross was connected with the West End Star theater of Duluth. Mrs. Ross, who was Miss Blanche Leduc, sang at the Star.

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

"Mutt and Jeff in Panama" was the one-day offering at the Lyceum yesterday afternoon and evening, the creations of "Bud" Fisher's pen proved to be as amusing and interesting when inserted in a musical comedy, as they have been when seen in newspaper cartoons.

Mutt and Jeff, while sandwiched in a musical comedy, are a show by themselves and hold the spotlight a good share of the time. Their funny antics, so familiar to practically everyone, were along the same line as when shown in the cartoons. Little Jeff, who is always getting the worst of every deal with his tall pal, Mutt, has always had the sympathy of the Fisher patronage, and Mutt has always been an amusing tormenter.

Edward West as Mutt and Henry Washer as Jeff played the title rolls well. The chorus was large, well trained and comely, and the scenery was first class. Theresa McAdams as Cecily Crane proved an excellent singer and dancer and an all-round good entertainer.

Taken all in all the production was pleasing and well put on.

"The Quaker Girl," with its lilting melodies and fresh untainted comedy will be seen at Lyceum theater, Friday and Saturday, March 27 and 28. This popular musical comedy has been the vogue wherever seen and everyone leaves the theater whistling or humming the catchy, dreamy "Come to the Ball" waltz, or enthusing over the fresh beauties of the little Quaker Girl, Victor Morley in his original role has scored tremendously as Tony Chute, the debonair young boulevardier, who wins the heart of the Quaker Girl. Assisting him in his fun-making are such capable artists as Harry Macdonough, Jr., Bernice McCabe, Dixie Girard, Murray Stephen, Mlle. Corday, Connie Mack, William Blaisdell, Phil J. Moore, Carol Parson and Charlotte Manning. The chorus is unusually large and includes some stunning young women. One of the features of the performance is a special orchestra.

That American women who go to Paris for their styles get, for the most part, the styles of the underworld is the statement of Miss Sophie Barnard, who is at the Orpheum this week.

Miss Barnard was the prima donna with Raymond Hitchcock in "The Merry Widow," and has also been featured in such big musical productions as "The Merry Widow" and "The Gay Hussars." For years she has found it to her interest to study the newest styles of Paris, for she looks upon her clothes as part of her profession.

"Both in vaudeville and musical comedy, the newest styles are demanded of a singer," said Miss Barnard. "The women of the stage in a large measure set the styles. This is especially true in New York, where the new gowns in a production attract about as much attention as the new music or the new jokes. But it is a fact that the women who go to Paris for their styles get the styles of the underworld. These slit skirts and diaphanous gowns originated in the demi-monde of Paris. They reached the race courses and the theaters there, and they were eagerly seized upon by American costumers and American women. The real people of Paris do not wear these extreme styles, any more than the real people of New York support the Gay White Way."

MEN LAID OFF TAKE STRIKERS' PLACE .

Pittsburg, Pa., March 26.—With the arrival here today of 225 experienced trainmen, freight began to move more freely on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad, tied up since last Saturday by a strike of yard crews. Congestion was apparent at West Brownsville, the outlet of the Connelsville coke region, and new men were hurried to that point.

Railroad officials announced that the men were taken from the number who were recently laid off, through the operation of the company's policy of retrenchment.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Entrust Women With Money to Teach Them It's Value.

It's a peculiarity of men that they will make a great cry over the extravagance of women and do nothing to change conditions, when in a large number of cases the remedy for this is right in their hands. As a rule, women are extravagant because they do not know the value of money. They have never earned any money or anything that money buys, and they have never had the handling of any amount to speak of.

That woman do not know how to spend money to get the most of it is the excuse offered by husbands whose wives are always penniless, yet enabled to satisfy their needs by means of large accounts. These bills are settled at the end of the month without any demur, though they are often records of extravagance which seem to bear out the charge made by men against women. But it is not woman's fault as much as man's.

When his daughters have wanted anything that money buys, no matter how small the sum necessary, they have been obliged to go to their father directly, or by way of the mother, and ask for so much for this and so much for that. In some cases the amount desired is handed to them. In others they are instructed to purchase and have the bill sent to him. What opportunity does such a woman have to learn the value of money or anything about spending it to the best advantage? Absolutely none.

I do not advocate giving children money to spend in any amount. But I do think that a little pocket-money that a child can depend upon and is free to use as his or her own is a good thing. A woman, according to man, needs to learn something about the value of money. Is there any better time or place to learn it than when she is young and an inmate of her father's house? I do not think so. By making a child an allowance, which should not be large, out of which he or she is obliged to purchase certain necessities, some lasting lessons on the value of money may be impressed.

It is not unlikely that the first amounts of money given a woman to experiment with will be wasted in part, but a beginning must be made somewhere. In the long run, I believe women to be less careless with the money they have at their command than men. But the way to make them responsible in such matters is to entrust them with it and make them provide certain necessities of life out of it. When they fail to do this, it is time to call them extravagant.

REAL NEED IS A SAVIOR

Christ More Than Teacher and Philosopher, Says Dr. Hoffman.

Another Big Audience at Fourth of Revival Meetings.

One of the biggest audiences that has ever crowded into the Lyceum theater was present at the noon-day service today when Dr. John Hoffman, pastor of the First M. E. church, preached on the subject, "An Amazing Word." The gist of the sermon was that the purpose of Christ in coming into the world was to "save" mankind. Rev. R. E. Hunt, pastor of the First Christian church, led in prayer and the choir of the Endion M. E. church sang "Just For Today."

The immense crowds which have been attending the services this week have grown steadily and the attendance today was far above that of any previous meeting. It is believed that the total attendance for the week will prove the largest ever attained at the annual noon-day services at the Lyceum.

Dr. Hoffman spoke in part as follows:

"The longer I live,' declared the elder Alexander, 'the more I incline to sum up all my theology in a single sentence: "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."' No better resume can be given of the purpose and mission of our Savior. One may exalt His function as a teacher as a great ethical leader, as a matchless philosopher. We may speak in glowing terms of His incomparable leadership and His peerless character. Ideal and example both are in Him. His moral code has no equal. His flawless life compels the admiration of all. Noble as are these qualities ascribed to Christ, they do not quite fill out the content of our New Testament conception of Him. Upon those who stood nearest to Him, the Nazarene made the impression that He was something more than a teacher and an ideal.

"If sin can be reduced to ignorance, a mistake of the mind or a failure in the logical process, then we must concede that the supreme need of the race is the educator. Every sensible man recognizes that much sorrow, much suffering and much badness comes through lack of information. Many a child would retain its innocence and its freedom from some glaring defects of character had the parent but warned him in time. The sad thing, however, in life is that clearer information does not produce high character, if it did every physician would be a saint and every college-bred youth a paragon of excellence. The despair of humanity which registers its heart-broken sob in every smoking altar and lofty church spire is not due to the fact that we know too little. Ignorance is not sin and culture is not character. If it were, Byron would be a model of propriety and Aaron Burr an example of purity.

More Than Moral Perfection.

"Neither do we discover in the excellence of the personal life of Jesus His highest benefit for life. We join voice with all who would crown Him as the holiest among the holy and the mightiest among the mighty. The greatness of His personal character is beyond challenge. The sublimity of His moral perfection is without a duplicate. His superiority is as obvious as it is unanalyzable. No rhetoric has ever done Him justice. No orator has ever formed language equal to portraying the beauty and strength, the purity and kindness of His personal life. And yet there is something more in Jesus than an ideal of moral perfection never yet approached by man.

"That the world needs its teachers, its philosophers, its men of penetrating insight into its problems goes without saying, but the fundamental necessity of human life is a savior. In short, humanity will not employ its information aright or follow its ideal devotedly until some one comes who can deal directly and immediately with the soul.

"Our problem is a deeper one than imparting truth to the intellect; it is much more complicated than training the imagination; it is infinitely more complex than the development of the will; and it is certainly much more fundamental than the reorganization of the conscience. It has to do with the soul, the reality underlying intellect, emotion, will, conscience, imagination. Saving the race would be a comparatively simple task did it but mean correcting its logic but it means cleansing the impulses which root themselves far down in the spirit of the mortal.

"Salvation has therefore to do with the very source of will, of emotion, of intellect, of conscience. It is the moral action of God vitalizing the soul of men, cleansing him from moral weakness and perversity of desire. It means liberty within, peace within, enlightenment within, spiritual energy within, purity within as one entrusts himself to Christ he is conscious of a new sense of God, of a new joy power, of a new outlook upon life. It is a mistake to confuse salvation with imitation. It is an unwarranted blunder to make it consist in the acceptance of a creed or to refer its chief good to some future state. It is an action of God, within the soul of man in response to his implicit trust. It means forgiveness for the past, cleansing from defilement, and empowering for the future. It lays therefore the foundation for new habits and new ideals. It enthrones a new executive in the soul. It imparts a new and splendid impulse to the whole life. Jesus is the fairest manhood that ever our old earth saw but better still He is the God of Israel personalized, humanized and at work today cleansing the soul, enpowering the will, and emancipating humanity from its bondage to passions that are destructive, to motives that are unholy, and to aims that are sordid.

"He saved Paul and he became the apostle to the Gentiles. He redeemed Augustine and he became the theologian of the centuries. He set free Martin Luther and he became the evangel of a new world. He wrought saving grace in the soul of John Wesley and millions today rejoice in God. He touched the liquor-soaked body of Jerry McCauley and broke the shackles that bound him hand and foot and today thousands of hopeless and helpless have seen the better way and walked therein. Salvation is a glorious experience. It is a noble reality. It is a present power, it is for time as well as eternity, for earth as well as heaven. The supreme question for every man is, not what are my views of miracles, of immortality, of atonement but has Jesus Christ wrought in my soul this deep and radical work of moral cleansing and moral inspiration."

Dr. Hoffman's topic tomorrow will be "Throttled Convictions." The soloist will be Phillip Gordon Brown.

FATAL FIGHT IN RIG DURING RUNAWAY

Man Is Dead and Woman May Die—Two Arrests Made.

Independence, Kan., March 26.—William Petty and Andrew Medford, charged with taking part in a fight at Dearing, near here, last night, in which Preston Seeley was killed, Miss Isabel Stewart injured probably fatally, and Medford hurt seriously, were arrested near Wann, Okla., today and brought to the county jail here.

Petty, the authorities say, was riding in a buggy with Miss Stewart and Medford, the young woman's brother-in-law, when Seeley, standing on the rear axle, attempted to pull Petty from the vehicle. Petty's horse became frightened and ran.

In the fight that ensued while the speeding buggy careened from side to side, Seeley was shot dead, Miss Stewart was shot through the abdomen, and a bullet penetrated Medford's right hand.

Seeley is said to have been jealous of Petty's attentions to Miss Stewart.

WILL ATTEND RATE HEARINGS

Barnes and Hall Going to Interstate Commerce Commission Meeting.

Julius H. Barnes and G. Roy Hall, representing the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club, will go to Washington, D. C., tomorrow to attend rate hearings before the interstate commerce commission in which Duluth and Northwestern shippers in general will be interested. The first case will come up for a hearing next Saturday and will involve the free storage of goods on the Duluth waterfront, which, it is claimed, gives discrimination to Twin City jobbers, whose goods, after being brought up the lakes can be stored here free of charge, the various roads carrying goods to the Twin Cities thus vieing with each other to get the carrying business. It is hoped to put a stop to this practice.

On April 2-4 the commission will hold a hearing on the matter of a general advance of 5 per cent on freight rates throughout the country. This case was heard some time ago and after adjournment has been postponed three times at the request of the carriers who are asking the advance.

The last case that will be heard that is of interest to this section of the country is that on the divorcing of vessel lines and railroads. An order has already been issued to have such divorce take place July 1, but some of the lines, claiming that they do not compete, are asking for leniency, as the law leaves the matter to the discretion of the interstate commerce commission. This hearing will come up April 8 and 9.

Superior

Would Recover Taxes.

Attorneys for the Great Northern railroad yesterday afternoon filed a petition with the city asking for a refund of $73,491.72 of taxes paid on property within the city limits on March 31. The road claims the taxes were paid under protest and bases its contention that the railroad paid taxes to the state covering the same property.

Must Pluck Birds.

A stuffed owl and loon in the possession of the American Express company, which were shipped from Fort Frances to Superior by Frank Goodwin, will have to be shorn of their feathers if they are to be allowed to get into the country. Such is the contention of Ole Berg, local assistant customs officer, who says that the Federal statutes forbid the sending of game birds from Canada into the United States unless the feathers are removed. Goodwin purchased the two mounted birds as well as a large moose head in the boundary city.

TEACHERS REJECT PROPOSED UNION.

East Liverpool, Ohio, March 26.—Teachers in the public schools here today announced that steps were being taken to organize a labor union and they would seek affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

When the question was presented at a meeting of the teachers, it was voted down on the ground that affiliation with the Federation would tend to "lower the dignity" of the profession. A vote of thanks was tendered the Federation for its interest.

Pass Common Stock Dividend.

New York, March 26.—Directors of the Railway Steel Spring company decided today not to pay a dividend on the common stock. At this time last year a dividend of 2 per cent was paid. President F. F. Fitzpatrick said that on account of diminished earnings and the unpromising outlook for business in the immediate future, it had been thought best to conserve the interest of the stockholders by refraining from a dividend disbursement.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 29,

QUARTERLY REVIEW.

FOREWORD.

The lessons of this quarter have extended over six months or more of time, say from March, A. D., 29, to January, A. D., 30, and it was mostly in Perea on the east of the Jordan. During all that time the Master was preparing for the coming agony by doing His work for those who had had the smallest opportunity and would enable Him to be most effective. They not only needed Him as did the others but they knew they needed Him as did not those others over in Judea. Each lesson will suggest a special review truth.

THE LESSONS.

1. He Demands a Childlike Spirit. Mark ix, x.

It is the story of how He said the disciples must have the spirit of children when they had been disputing as to who should have the greatest honor in His kingdom. Two things are necessary. They must have that spirit and they must be able to appreciate it in others. Three outstanding characteristics of childhood are involved. They are trustful, teachable and free from the class spirit. They always recognize that an older person knows and they are ready to learn; they repose in the arms of an older person without fear; they make no distinction as to station or color—the prince will play with the peasant boy and the white with the black, asking no questions. They meet each other at the point of a common humanity. So must we.

2. He Tries to Multiply Himself. Mat. x, 5-23.

This He does by sending out seventy of His disciples, two by two, to do work similar to His own. The work needed to be done; the disciples needed to do it, for their own joy and training; He needed to have their fellowship in work as well as in the smaller daily experiences. The end was nearer, only a few months off. The lessons are obvious—that we still do multiply Him as we carry on His work; that we need that more than those whom we may serve, yes we need to take the gospel and our loving ministry to them more than they need it; that we must concentrate on the essentials, not wasting precious time in useless activities.

3. He Teaches Who Our Neighbor Is. Luke x, 25-37.

If the two fundamental things are love for God and love for our neighbor as for ourselves, then it is of paramount importance that we know who God is and who our neighbor is. Those formal Pharisees thought they knew perfectly. Their neighbor was one of their own crowd, no one else; even then he must be easy to reach, and he must not interfere with our own immediate interests. Jesus gives them an instance of a man in need, a man of their own race, a Jew, yet even their priest and a Levite ignored him because he was not of their official class or would interfere with their official duties or with their pursuits. So they left him lying where the robbers had left him bleeding. If you start in to make class distinctions you will narrow them till you are left to yourself with no sense of obligation to anybody. A Samaritan came by and showed that any one is a neighbor and has claim on you if he was in need, whether he be of the same race or calling or take your time and money or not. Any human being of whatever color or condition has claim on your neighborly kindness to the extent of his need.

4. Receives the Loving Ministry of His Disciples. Luke viii and ix.

Selections from these two chapters show three types of those who would serve Him. First are the women who have been healed of diseases and of evil spirits by Him. Three names are given, Mary Magdalene, Joanna, wife of Herod's steward, and Susanna. They minister to Him of their substance. The lesson for us is that we don't have to do anything but serve Him with what we have, be it little or much, of high or common quality. Next are three others who wanted to follow Him but didn't want to do so as much as they wanted to do something else. One would have done so, if Jesus had not been a homeless wanderer; another would wait till his father died and was put away; still another must go back and take one of those long farewells, tiresome and time-consuming, at home. There was a fourth, Martha, who put mere food first, and failed to give Him a chance to accomplish His higher purpose, as in the case of her sister Mary. There is one thing that must subordinate all other things to itself. That puts Christ first.

5. He Describes an Unfriendly Neighbor in Order to Teach God's Kindness. Luke xi, 1-13.

If a selfish neighbor, who has already gone to bed and his house is quiet, will get up and lend a friend some loaves of bread with which to feed some friends of his who have come in late but hungry, but lends them grudgingly, snarlingly, simply to be rid of him and to get back to bed, of course God their Father, who loves them and is constantly watching over them to see what they need, will answer their calls for help and do it without complaining. The urgent thing with us is to see that God sustains that relation to us. Once get hold of that idea and we can see what a hold we have in His benevolence and power.

6. He Disproves the Charge of Having Satan to Help Him. Luke xi.

If you don't like what somebody does, throw suspicions on his motives if possible. That is the devil's way and way of his dupes. Those men saw the miracle which Jesus did and knew it was a miracle, a benevolent one; they also knew it won the admiration of the people. For that reason they lost their hold on the people. Therefore they must nullify its influence, therefore call it a work of the devil. Jesus exposes them with three arguments—that the devil is not in the habit of helping his enemies to injure him; that if they are right that must also be the explanation of the work of their own people in exorcism whether it is actual or only apparent casting out of demons; that if it is such a work the person will be attacked again with sevenfold fury; that they see black with such perverted eyes as they have.

7. He Exposes Shams. Luke xi, 37-54.

One effect of being a Jew, member of the chosen race, is the conceit of being better by nature than other people. To have been better by grace would have kept them humble. One effect of rigid keeping of ceremonies was personal as well as race conceit. The Pharisee summed up all forms of conceit. That led to hypocrisy and He exposed them as being like a cup clean on the outside but foul within, and like a sepulchre with whitewash covering up the decayed bodies. But such conceit is not only static; it is dynamic. It utilizes its power over the weak or superstitious for selfish purposes and makes hypocrites and cold blooded and vicious tyrants. Listen to what He says it has done in their cases—made them oppressors of the poor. But most of all it made them partakers of the sins of their fathers because they had exactly the same spirit toward those who wanted to do them good.

8. He Seeks to Protect Them Against Fear and Injury by Faith in His Father. Luke xii, 1-12.

There was danger of infection with the characteristic evil of the Pharisees, hypocrisy, which He describes by the figure of Leaven. Leaven works steadily, insidiously, from particle to particle. They needed the shield of faith to keep them immune. There is a natural fear of death and of those who can bring on death. The antidote for that fear is a knowledge of the fact that God is their Father and has at least as much interest in their welfare as an earthly father has. The state of mind that is unwilling to recognize Jesus here will make it impossible for Him to own them there. The persecutions that were to come could not keep Him from standing with them in the severest trials.

9. He Teaches That God and Not Their Riches Is the Power to Trust. Luke xii., 13-34.

One may have all the wealth of the world and if one make it a matter of secondary importance to trusting in God one cannot have too much of it. When one wants to use Jesus simply as a means of getting what he is entitled to from others one perverts religion. But if he had Christ he would be able to endure losses and if the wrongdoer learns Christ he will do right. The man who thinks he can feed his soul on corn is denatured.

10. He Warns Them to Be Watchful Against Perils. Luke xii., 35-48.

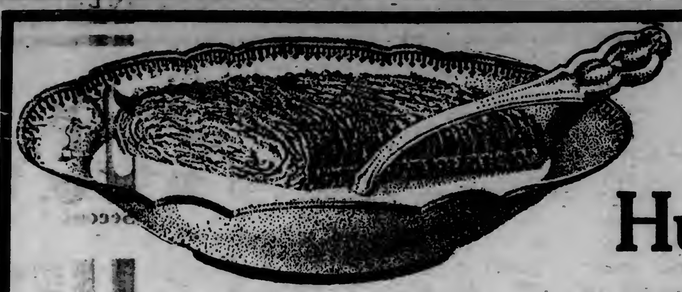
They were to be watching for the day of reckoning, the day of His coming, the day of death, the day of temptation, the day of disaster. What they had in mind was the day of His coming in power. The way to be ready is to be at work, to be girded up with purpose, determination, with resistance to evil. A state of readiness requires that one be in complete possession of all one's powers. One who drinks alcoholic liquors cannot be ready for the finer forms of work, cannot see dangers when they approach. He is dull to the calls of duty, the wishes of Christ and the dangers of temptations.

11. He Teaches the Lawful Uses of the Sabbath. Luke xii., 10; xiv., 6.

They said the Sabbath was made to control man while He taught them that He was the Master of the Sabbath. They went to the opposite extreme from us of the present day. We have the notion that the Sabbath was made for man to do as he pleases with it, even to destroy it, or misuse and pervert. It has two purposes, namely, to give everybody rest from habitual toil and to enable all to cultivate their religious natures with worship of God and kindly ministry to man. We are in danger of destroying it in the intrest of our love of pleasure and of money.

12. He Tells Them in "Lessons By the Way" What His Kingdom Is to Be Like and How One May Enter It. Luke xii., 18-35.

They needed enheartening and He tells them His kingdom is to spread over the world as the small mustard seed grows into a spreading herb, the reason being that it has life in it, and He also tells them it will permeate all of life, both individual and national, as the leaven, or yeast, permeates every particle of meal into which it is put. But the Jew thought they would be in the kingdom in virtue of being a Jew, while He taught them they have to strive to enter and make that the paramount interest, and many would fail because they made it secondary.



That Hungry Boy

must have something besides bread-and-butter-and-jam and books and sermons to grow on, to study on, to play on. For the growing youngsters nothing equals the food that builds muscle and bone and brain — a natural, elemental food — containing no yeast, no baking powder or chemicals of any kind—just the pure whole wheat grain, steam-cooked, shredded and baked. Better than porridges for children because the crispness of the shreds compels mastication which not only develops sound teeth, but is the first process in digestion.

Shredded Wheat

Always heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with hot milk or cream will supply all the energy needed for a half day's work. Deliciously nourishing when eaten in combination with baked apples, stewed prunes, sliced bananas or canned or preserved fruits. Try toasted Triscuit, the Shredded Wheat wafer, for luncheon with butter, cheese or marmalade.

VALUATION OF CITY PARKS

With the Playgrounds and Boulevards They Are Worth $1,651,100.

City Owns 382 Acres Kept for Pleasure of Its Citizens.

Duluth's parks, playgrounds, public squares and boulevard are valued at $1,651,100, according to an appraisal that has been submitted to Mayor W. I. LAPORTE SENDS MAN TO SEE 'MRS. GUNNESS'

Will Pay Expenses of Man to Neville, Sask.

Laporte, Ind., March 25.—For the fifth time the authorities of this country have been persuaded to appropriate railroad fare for investigation of a report that Mrs. Belle Gunness has been found. Clint Cochrane, a marshal when the Gunness "murder farm" sensation was being exploited, in 1908, left Laporte today for Neville, Sask., where the Northwest Mounted Police have under surveillance a woman homesteader who, they suspect, is the woman prisoner.

According to the reports from Canada, the woman was recognized as Mrs. Gunness by a man who went to school with her in Norway, some twenty-five or thirty years ago.

Four bodies taken from the ruins of the Gunness home were declared by the coroner, petit and grand jury, to be those of Mrs. Gunness and her three children, but the defense of Ray Lamphere, convicted of setting the place on fire, raised the theory that Mrs. Gunness herself set fire to the place and then escaped.

Masons Reach Colon.

Colon, March 26.—Sixty members of the Grand Consistory of the Louisiana and Jerusalem temple of New Orleans arrived at Colon on board the steamship Abangarez, to confer degrees in the Masonic temple now in course of construction here. D. W. Hermon, the newly appointed medical officer of the canal zone, and H. V. Butler, the port captain, also were passengers on the steamer.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of the ordinary cough more quickly, usually conquering it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for spasmodic croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma and bronchitis.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help relieve a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy has often been imitated, but the old successful mixture has never been equaled. It is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

DULUTH HAS NINETEEN THEATERS

Two More Being Built--To Fill Them All at Every Performance 25,000 Would Need to Attend Daily.

Duluth now supports nineteen theaters and motion picture houses, while two new theaters are being erected and a third is now being contemplated by a local realty company. This will make a total of twenty-two theaters by fall. Ten years ago Duluth had two theaters.

And should these theaters be filled at every performance nearly one-third the entire population of Duluth would need to attend the theater every day. The total seating capacity of the theaters is about 10,000 and including the two new theaters under construction, the total will reach 12,000. Considering that the theaters have from two to four performances a day, it can be seen that at least 25,000 people would be required to fill these theaters each day of the week.

The largest theaters are the Lyceum and the Orpheum, which seat from 1,500 to 1,600 people. There are 1,100 seats at the Empress, 1,100 at the Rex theater, while the new Grand theater now under construction will have 1,200 seats. The Savoy has 400 and the Alhambra in West Duluth also has 400 seats. The Happy Hour has a seating capacity of 350. The new Zelda theater now under construction and which will be confined solely to motion pictures, will seat 600.

YEAR'S RESPITE FOR CONDEMNED OHIOAN.

Columbus, Ohio, March 26.—A respite of a year and a day has been granted by Governor Cox in the case of Leslie Humphries, who was under sentence to die in the electric chair shortly after midnight next Friday morning.

The governor made it known that he will recommend to future governors that respites be granted from year to year, providing Humphries makes a good record as a prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary. His wages as a prisoner will be turned over to his dependent family.

The governor's action in the Humphries case is without precedent in Ohio.

GET THE COLD, PURE AIR INTO YOUR LUNGS ALL NIGHT AT THE WINDOW

A newspaper editor writes:

"One of your Doctor's Helps articles on palpitating heart fits my case. Your advice seems so sensible that I would appreciate having your opinion. I have been living a very busy life, doing virtually two men's work the last two years. I have been troubled with palpitation, also nervousness; and I notice my heart beats hard, especially after dinner when I stop a few moments and remain still. I also, notice the beating when I lie down. I rode a bicycle for a number of years, and was somewhat of an athlete in my younger days. I am now 46 years old and weigh 122, and my height is 5 feet 6½ inches. I notice at times, especially in the early part of the evening, that I gape very frequently, and when I open my mouth wide I hear a crackling in my ears. My tongue is coated and my heart is slightly enlarged."

From your description, it looks to me as though your system is all choked up with much poisonous matter that ought to be out of you rather than circulating around within your tissues.

The next thing your letter suggests to me is that you are so ultra-ambitious, like so many other hard-working Americans, that you are using up more vitality than your system is making.

If your ear symptoms were not present, likewise if you didn't gape so much and your tongue was clean, it is quite clear that you could get away with your present amount of work and feel well. But, with your system compelled to work with a lot of irritating poisons saturating every one of your millions of flesh cells, you are asking it to assume too big a job for ordinary comfort and health. It is no wonder you are nervous, with some heart signs after dinner.

Do this: When your week-end arrives swallow five grains of powdered calomel. Do this, say, about 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Follow in two or three hours by going to the drug store and having a half tumbler of castor oil fixed up in syrup of sarsaparilla and soda water. Then swallow this. Repeat this elimination treatment once a week for the next twelve weeks. Sleep with your head right up to the open window at night and get all of the cold, pure air into your lungs, you can every night—all night. This will enable your system to properly oxidize much of the food which has been going into you, but which has not been completely burned up into energy. If things don't come your way within the next twelve weeks on this regime, you need the care of your local physician. Your urine, blood, stools, etc., should then be examined closely and treated accordingly, which it is manifestly impossible to even attempt to do by the use of this mail route.

SEGREGATING THE FEEBLE-MINDED WOMEN AND GIRLS.

Seventeen thousand feeble-minded men, women and children has been the figure quoted as existing within the state of Pennsylvania. Only 2,263 of these are being kept in proper institutions and well cared for. More than 7,000 women of a child-bearing age are at large. Statistics show that each one of these women at large bears, on an average, eight children. Five children out of each group of these eight grow to maturity and produce children also. This means that within the next fifteen to twenty years a horde of 34,000 feeble-minded women capable of the reproduction of their kind will be at large throughout Pennsylvania, uncared for and leaving their trail of mental weakness and unhappiness in their wake. Feeble-mindedness is hereditary, and in the majority of cases, unless properly segregated and treated, the disease is utterly incurable.

WILSON GOES TO SEE STONE

Shatters Another Precedent By Call on Sick Senator.

Talks Over Panama and Mexican Questions With Him.

Washington, March 26.—President Wilson kept pace yesterday with his precedent-shattering reputation, and exemplified the human side of himself which he described in a talk to newspaper men a few days ago, by motoring to the home of Senator William J. Stone of Missouri, who had been sick, and having a chat about official business.

Senator Stone, who is the new chairman of the foreign relations committee, has been ill for several weeks, and only yesterday was able to be out for a short time. He had sought a conference with the president, who suggested that he visit the senator rather than have him go to the trouble of visiting the White House. Senator Stone agreed that such an arrangement would be fine, and when the president arrived at the senator's apartment the meeting was a most cordial one.

Discussed Mexico and Panama.

Senator Stone was eager to discuss the Mexican situation and the pending controversy relating to repeal of the toll exemption for American ships passing through the Panama canal. The president, it is understood, told the senator that the Mexican situation had undergone no change.

The tolls repeal matter was discussed at length, and a point particularly emphasized in the conversation was that South American nations were just as much opposed to the exemption from tolls to coastwise shipping of the United States passing through the Panama canal as was Canada. Argentine and Brazil, it developed, hold that their own coastwise shipping should be free from tolls if American coastwise ships are to enjoy that advantage. The South American governments argue that they are in the same position as Canada, and that so long as their ships are not engaged in over-sea traffic, coastwise ships of the United States would have a discriminatory advantage through canal toll exemption.

"Mighty Fine of Him."

"The president," said Senator Stone when asked about the visit of his distinguished caller, "merely dropped in on his way to the golf links. I have been laid up a long time, and was hear what was going on. The president told me about Mexico and we talked also about the canal tolls matter. It was mighty fine of him to suggest coming here. I had wanted to say a word or two about some Missouri matters, but I wouldn't do it in my own home. I deferred that until I am able to go to the executive office."

TERRIBLE LAWLESSNESS IN MINNESOTA—GOVERNOR'S INCAPACITY TO COPE WITH IT.

We get more distressed every day over the revelations that are being made by the Eberhart press of the wretched lawlessness of those Republicans who, discontented with Eberhart, sought to redeem the party by holding a state conference.

We gather from the very positive and very heated discussions of the Eberhart newspapers that this conference was about as lawless an enterprise as ever infested the state.

It was clearly in violation of the primary election law, we are told. And it is abundantly proved that it is in flat violation of the corrupt practices act. Doubtless, too, it is in contempt of the law of eminent domain; certainly it is in utter violation of the law of adverse possession; and beyond question it infracts seriously the laws against assault, mayhem, arson and burglary.

This is very serious. It is abhorrent to every conception of law and order that such things should be in this state. It is a shock to every well-wisher of the commonwealth that a condition of practical anarchy should thus have been brought about.

And, what is more painful still, the disclosure of these ugly facts brings into a startling new light the utter incapacity of our governor.

What was he doing—he who is charged with the enforcement of law and sworn to uphold the Constitution and the statutes in such cases made and provided—what was Eberhart doing while these outlaws were riding roughshod over the statute books and setting their unruly and lawless heels on every law that is held high and holy?

Was it not his duty to avert this calamity, to protect and enforce the law of the state? Most assuredly it was his duty. If it is not his duty to act as defender of the law, what is a governor for, anyway?

Clearly, Governor Eberhart was grossly derelict in his duty, to let this rampageous, contumacious, seditious and ungovernable "bunch"—a word much beloved by the defenders of the Eberhart faith and other interesting faiths—rampage riotously up and down the state in utter defiance of law and order and decency.

He should have stopped it. As the sworn defender of the law, it was his high duty to stop it. He should have called out sheriff's posses in every county where it was proposed to hold a county conference to pick delegates to the state conference. If that had failed, and the state conference had gathered despite the activities of the sheriffs, then he should have called out the militia and given orders that those riotous disturbers of the peace (of mind), Jake Jacobson, Gunnar Bjornson, Bill Lee and Jim Peterson, be harried out of their rendezvous at the point of the bayonet.

But—the worst is yet to come—we gather from the high indignation of the Eberhart supporters that the lawlessness of these rebels, which they liken to the I. W. W., is so heinous that it will be utterly impossible for Mr. Eberhart to accept their support and votes if he wins the nomination and emerges from the melee as the Republican candidate for governor.

It is a sad day indeed that we have come upon, when riotous lawlessness like this is tolerated in the great state of Minnesota through the supineness of a governor who, with the militia at his beck and call, failed to use it in support of the fractured and despised law of the land!

Why doesn't England send the suffragettes to Ulster?

AN INTERESTING MILITARY RULING.

Col. Seely, the British secretary for war, told the British officers in Ireland, in effect, that they did not have to obey orders which they deemed unreasonable.

That's interesting. Clearly it's an innovation, for Britain could hardly have graven so full her scroll of glory on such a principle.

It has one thing to commend it, at least: it's certainly democratic. The Liberals are democratic by profession, but if this is one of their ways of practicing democracy it might prove that there really IS such a thing as too much democracy.

For if subordinate officers can pass upon the reasonableness of the orders issued to them by their superiors, logically the rank and file should have the same privilege.

Then, if the colonel of a cavalry regiment on the battlefield waved his sword dramatically and shouted the order "Charge!" clearly the proper thing to do, in the light of the Seely principle, would be to submit the matter to a referendum vote by the troopers.

If a majority held the order reasonable, then the regiment could dash gaily in to glory—providing the enemy had not captured it while the plebiscite was in progress.

If, however, the majority ruled against the colonel's command, then of course something else would have to be done about it—always providing the enemy, working under older rules of warfare, had left anybody in the regiment to do anything.

It is impossible to get away from the idea that the human race is degenerating. Here is all this trouble in Ireland and no mention yet of a blackthorn.

"GUILTY, BUT INSANE."

The New York State Bar association is supporting a measure which, if it becomes a law, will make it no longer possible in that state for such a case as Thaw's to make a fool of the law and a mockery of the administration of justice.

The proposal is to amend the law governing murder trials so that when an insanity plea is successfully established, the jury may return a verdict of "guilty, but insane."

Then the defendant would be a convicted murderer, sent to an insane asylum because of his insanity. If he escaped, as Thaw did, there would be no possibility of a quibble anywhere about his return. He would be none the less a convicted murderer because of his insanity.

The jury in the Thaw case, if it was convinced that he was insane, had to choose between condemning a madman to death and rendering a verdict of acquittal. It chose to acquit. So Thaw is freed forever from the legal consequences of his guilt, except as the judgment that he is insane makes possible his incarceration as a lunatic.

Probably he is no more insane than thousands whose wits are not up to the handling of too much money; but the fiction of insanity is being kept up so that he may not escape scot-free.

If a verdict of "guilty but insane" could have been rendered in his case, the country would have been spared much.

The Women's Aerial league of England offers five thousand dollars to the first aviator to fly across the Atlantic. Anyway that will be enough to pay his passage back on a steamship.

A MATTER TO BE CAREFUL ABOUT.

Minnesota avenue forms part of the dock front on the point above the canal. The city's rights in the premises have long been a matter of dispute. A wholesale house, wishing to build, asks the city to abandon whatever right it may have to a part of this territory, and offers pay.

Commissioner Voss was quoted in The Herald last night as favoring legal procedure to find out just what the city's rights are before acting, because the city has mighty little water front rights as it is, and should not carelessly abandon any that it possesses.

That sounds like good sense. The city wants to help the wholesale industry all it can. That goes without saying. But if it has water front rights it ought to keep them. If it owns the property in question, it might lease, but it ought never to sell any such property, at least without a very careful counting of the cost. At any rate, since its rights are in doubt, the suggestion that they be legally determined is surely a wise one. Wise also is Mr. Voss's further suggestion that the city ought not to act hastily in the matter.

Somebody is advertising to buy a six or seven-room house, "Woodland or Lakeside." This looks remarkably like a scheme to catch votes from both places.

It is said that forty per cent of the babies born in the United States every year do not receive medical attention at birth. But then, they probably have to have enough later on to make up for it.

Senator Moses Clapp says that pretty soon there will be no Republican or Democratic party. Nobody will deny that Moses is very successfully imitating the furry quadruped that is credited with knowing in advance when a ship is going to sink.

AN OPPORTUNITY THAT IS A DUTY.

When the Democrats of Minnesota gather for a state conference Tuesday, they will be confronted by a splendid opportunity that is at the same time a high duty.

They have the golden opportunity of selecting as their candidate for governor a man who measures up to the state's great need of bigness and breadth and strong capacity.

No such man is now in the field.

No such man is likely to be in the field unless the Democrats put him there.

The state's need is great. The years of Republican rule have been years of waste, extravagance, appalling increases in taxation, and servitude to special interests.

On the one hand the Republicans offer the man under whom these fatal defects in state government have grown amazingly. On the other hand they offer a man who utterly fails to fill the high niche that is awaiting the right man. The Republican fight is between these two men, but such a contest can have little interest for those who are aware of the state's great need.

In the nation, the Democrats nominated and elected a MAN who fills his position in every sense of the word; who measures up to the high opportunities that awaited him; and who is meeting the problems that confront him with high courage and vast capacity.

In Minnesota, precisely the same opportunity lies before the Democratic party. They can, if they will, pick a man who can carry the primaries, sweep the election and clean up the state house and the state government.

They have many to select from—and they are men who are not scrambling for office. They have Senator Ole O. Sageng of Otter-tail county, Congressman Winfield Scott Hammond of St. James, Judge C. W. Stanton of Bemidji, Senator Thomas E. Cashman of Owatonna—men all of character and integrity and popular appeal. And they have others.

In the Republican party the situation is so embroiled that it is impossible to pick a big man. The choice lies between place-hunters of inferior caliber.

In the Democratic party the field is clear and unconfused, and it is possible for the coming conference, calmly deliberating for the good of the state, to select and draft a man who can not only win, but can meet the state's great need.

The state's need is great. The Republican offering is unworthy. The state turns with hope to the Democrats, and offers them a golden opportunity that is, at the same time, a solemn duty to the state.

Eight years ago a shameful Republican dissension opened wide to the Democrats the gate of opportunity, and through it came the splendid, well loved figure of JOHN A. JOHNSON.

Two years ago a shameful Republican dissension in the nation, rooting in Republican treachery to the public interest, opened wide to the Democrats the gate of opportunity, and through it came the upstanding, noble figure of WOODROW WILSON.

Today a shameful Republican dissension in this state, rooting again in Republican treachery to the public interest, opens wide again to the Democrats the gate of opportunity.

The eyes of the state are upon that gate, and upon the gathering of Democrats next Tuesday—which should be less a gathering of Democrats than a gathering of high-purposed citizens of Minnesota. Whether the state is to be rescued from its coil of waste, extravagance, treachery and misrule depends wholly upon the deliberations of that convention.

The Sex Phase of Feminism

Editorial in the Chicago Evening Post.

We advanced the belief the other day that feminism was primarily a human movement, impelled by the same spirit that has driven the race forward, seeking larger freedom and broader opportunity for self-expression and realization.

Had the human movement been guided from the beginning by the principle of sex equality, there would be no occasion today for feminism. But the human movement has been, hitherto, largely one of masculine assertion and feminine repression. It has been in control of men. Women have been able to keep pace with its rear guard only as men grudgingly conceded them, step by step, a greater liberty.

In the beginning man assumed a proprietary interest in the woman of his choice. He was able to retain this attitude because of his physical superiority and the need for exercising it in protecting his woman from the savage lust of other men. While she mothered the infant brood and kept the fire burning at the cave door, he did the foraging and fed the hungry mouths. For these services he demanded subjection. His was the right to roam in body and affection, hers the duty to abide by the cave and be loyal to her lord.

This attitude, once assumed and established, persisted. Hence the uneven progress of the race, with man forever extending his own sphere of freedom, enriching his own mind, creating his own world and conceding to woman only such liberties as were necessary to make her fit for the service and companionship he desired.

But in the day that he admitted her possession of a soul and of a brain he overstepped the limit of safe concession. All that has followed became at once inevitable. To avoid feminism, man should have kept the doors of school and college forever barred to women.

The feminist movement means that women are now endeavoring to overcome the handicap under which their half of the race has suffered. They are claiming for themselves the same liberty that man has long arrogated. They are entering vigorous protest against a man-made world. A sex movement was forced upon them by man's denial of sex equality. Politics and social customs will undergo some reshaping as the protest evolves its program and perfects its organization.

The Charge of the Seely Brigade

(Col. J. E. B. Seely, secretary for war for Great Britain, recently informed the officers of the British army in Ireland that it is the duty of officers and men in the army to obey all orders so long as the orders do not seem unreasonable to those to whom they are given; but that obedience to orders that seem unreasonable or outrageous is not expected.)

Half a league—
Quarter league—
Twenty rods onward—
Anywhere that they pleased
Rode the six hundred.

Irish to right of them,
Irish to left of them,
Irish in front of them
Oh, the quick shift they made!
Looked on and wondered.
Was there a man afraid?
Was there a man dismayed?
Every one wondered.

Theirs then to make reply;
Theirs then to reason why
They should be asked to die.
Thoughtful six hundred!

Stormed at with hoot and yell,
Swiftly they hid, and well.
Not a man blundered.

Seely gave word that they
All must at once obey
Orders in reason.
As to some other kind—
Must soldiers "go it blind?"
Never, if they can find Something more pleasing!

This was the Seely rule
Given the Army school:
"None should be such a fool
(This was its purport)
As to risk life and limb
Just for some fellow's whim,
Unless it seemed to him
Worthy of support."

'Rah for the British arms!
No more need war's alarms
Frighten the nations.
Under this new command
"Standing" troops will not stand
If they prefer to hand
In resignations.

Mouth Hygiene.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Do you know what a "dental cripple" is? It is a new term, at least to laymen, but one that we shall hear much of. It means a person with decaying teeth—an infected mouth.

Few people appreciate the handicap which imperfect teeth place upon a child, nor is the fact generally understood that a child with such teeth is a constant source of danger to others; that bad teeth are "catching" and that infection harbored by dental decay causes other diseases not popularly associated with teeth at all.

We are learning more about the importance of clean mouths than we knew before. The public is being taught that no one, child or adult, can be healthy unless his mouth is healthy and, of course, one's mental vigor depends in large measure on general health.

The Arrows of Outrageous Fortune.

Popular Magazine: Rastus was sorely wounded. From his face gore flowed in rivulets and in the outer covering of his substantial head there were sundry gashes and openings. He had been the victim of a brutal assault.

The physician who treated him for his wounds was sympathetic.

"Great heavens!" he said. "Somebody has beaten you up in a terrific manner. You must have been hit at least nine or ten times."

"Dat ain't no joke," said Rastus, who was still trembling. "I don't b'lieve I wuz able to git out ob de way ob anything dat wuz throwed at me."

"Then you ought to learn a lesson from it," suggested the doctor. "Hereafter, you ought to stay far away from people who indulge in this sort of thing."

"Dar ain't no chance," Rastus objected gloomily. "You know, boss, I ain't got de price of no divo'ce."

The Thieving Ear of Corn.

Breeder's Gazette: Twelve ears of corn will plant an acre. If one of the planted ears happens to be "no good" there is a twelfth of an acre missing. An acre of corn may be worth $30 to $40, so to discover a thieving ear is worth from $2.50 to $3.50. One can pick out the ears of poor germination at slight cost, if he will test his corn before he becomes rushed with spring work. And while about it reject the ears that although germinating do not send up strong, vigorous stalks. Lusty, vigorous young things grow surest into profit, whether they be pigs, lambs, colts or cornstalks.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Joseph Russell of Missouri fell into conversation with Champ Clark in the speaker's outer office the other morning and Champ told him with some amusement about the cause of the young congressman who wanted his help in getting a place on the ways and means committee.

"It showed a laudable ambition for him to aspire to one of the big committees," admitted Champ; "I couldn't help admiring the fellow's confidence in himself—but the thing was so ridiculous that—"

"I well remember just such a case when I was speaker of house in the Missouri legislature," cut in Russell. "There was a young fellow who got it into his head that he was just the man to go on the committee on revision of the laws—the most important committee in the house at that time. I tried to point out the absurdity of putting a green and untried member on that committee, but the young chap was so persistent and made my life so miserable that I finally had to appoint him to get rid of him. I must say, though, that he was smarter than he looked and—"

For he was the young man.

Representative Samuel M. Taylor of Arkansas went with a congressional committee to the northern peninsula of Michigan to investigate copper strike conditions. They were there into March, but the Northern Michigan winter showed no sign of letting up, and Taylor, who had spent practically all his life in a Southern clime, was completely disgusted.

When they got on the train for the return journey to Washington, he said:

"Well, I hope I never see any more sleighs or snow so long as I live. What I yearn for right now is the sight of a few blades of grass and a vehicle on wheels instead of on runners. Why, I'd give a dollar right now—give it gladly—for a glimpse at an Arkansas negro."

"I got you' dollah, Mistah Taylor!" said a voice from behind at that juncture.

It was the porter and when Taylor had taken a second look at him he recognized him as a man who had done many odd jobs about his home down in Pine Bluff, Ark.

Gladly he handed the porter a dollar. And the congressional party received every reasonable courtesy all the time they were on that Pullman.

When Representative Walter A. Watson of Virginia was attending the law school at the University of Virginia his chief instructor was John B. Minor, a famous law professor of his day.

At the opening of the term, Minor told his class that if any of them struck a snag in their work and came to him, he would try to assist them in any way he could.

A few days after that, Watson struck some pages in his text-book that seemed to have their meaning hid away beyond recall in a maze of phraseology. He read the lesson over and over again for about an hour and a half, and then it occurred to him that this must be what the professor referred to when he spoke of striking a snag.

Watson went to Minor's private office and told him what was disturbing him.

"How long have you studied over these pages?" asked the professor.

"Oh, all of an hour and a half," replied Watson.

"Let me tell you something," said the professor in a confidential tone. "For the last forty years I have never failed to devote at least two or three hours a day to that book, just to refresh my memory, and I wrote the book."

James Wickersham, the Alaskan delegate to congress, has an ambition to own every book and pamphlet published on the subject of Alaska. And it looks as if he would make good, for he has Alaskan books now until one can hardly get into his office. The list runs all the way from histories of Alaska in Russian—in Russian language, you understand, not Russian leather binding—on down to the complete works of Rex Beach.

Ed. Grillo, a well known sporting writer, used to play poker, and when he played he became completely engrossed in the game. One evening he was playing on the top floor of a Washington club when a fire broke out in the building.

Somebody in the cardroom saw the hose wagon backing up out in front and remarked:

"There seems to be a big fire here pretty close."

"Yes," murmured Grillo, "it's your deal."

A few moments later the door opened and an excited colored attendant said: "Gempman, y'all bettah git out! Th' buildin's on fire."

Grillo turned upon the man rather savagely and commanded:

"You shut that door, and keep the smoke out o' here, or I'll break your neck."

The Greatest of All Miracles.

Woman's World: Our latest miracle is radium. It was found by a woman. It changes all previous comparisons. It is the most valuable thing on earth. A bit of it on a pin point sends forth inconceivable emanations. It does many services, most interesting of which is its beneficent influence upon the new scourge of mankind, cancer. What we may expect of it finally, challenges the imagination.

A miracle that has become familiar is the X-ray. By it you may see the working of the human heart. A common miracle now is the flying machine. Man has invented wings that sweep him higher than the birds. What can be more wonderful than the wireless?

All these are wonderful. You may choose any of them as the greatest miracle—and then you would be wrong. For the greatest of all miracles is love—just common, old-fashioned love. A bit of it has more value and reaches farther than radium; it sees through things and shows the operations of the human heart better than the X-ray; it soars higher than the flying machine; and its tunes and silent voices annihilate distance more marvelously than the wireless. In these days electricity is in everything that is working for progress. In these days love is in everything that is working for human good. It is not only the greatest of the miracles but the most active of the agencies that are carrying forward the safety and sanity of the race. So put together your modern discoveries and inventions and love will outweigh them all.

Wanted—A Real Man for State Executive

Views of the state press on a much needed change.

That and More.

Isanti News: Should Governor Eberhart be re-elected next fall and serve the term he will have the title of governor of Minnesota for nearly eight years. He possibly realizes that it will take him at least that long to accomplish as much as John Lind did in a two-year term.

'Twouldn't Be Hard.

Biwabik Times: If Ole Sageng is nominated on any old ticket he will skin Eberhart.

A Logical Conclusion.

Greenbush Tribune: The Duluth Herald suggests the name of Ole O. Sageng of Ottertail county as a candidate for governor. So far as we know Ole has made a good clean record during the time he has served in the legislature, and would likely make a good record as governor if elected.

Is Practically So Now.

Northome Record: The Duluth Herald has started a boom for Senator Ole O. Sageng of Ottertail county as the Democratic candidate for governor. Unless the Republican party is mighty careful the Democrats will elect their governor this fall. Too much machine politics and many selfish office seekers are causing a split in the Republican ranks that cannot help but be favorable to the Democrats and with a strong candidate their chance for success will be assured.

It Might Be Worse.

St. Peter Free Press: The Minneapolis Journal doesn't like Governor Eberhart and it is working hard to effect his defeat. But it realizes that it takes a real strong man with whom to accomplish that feat. To find such a man is now the problem of the hour. Evidently it is not over enthusiastically in favor of the candidates already in the field and therefore suggested a number of new names from which to make a selection. In the meanwhile the anti-machine conference named W. E. Lee, one of the four candidates already in the field, as their standard bearer and the question now is will the Journal indorse the choice of that conference or will it rather give its support to the candidate to be named by the coming Democratic convention—Ole O. Sageng, for instance.

You're Right, They Have.

East Grand Forks Record: Ole O. Sageng is being boomed quite extensively by the Democrats for governor. The Duluth Herald comes out with a strong indorsement of Ole and the Fairmont Sentinel, Frank Day's paper, strongly indorses the Herald indorsement. With the bitter scramble for the governorship in the Republican camp and the animosity that will naturally follow after the primaries, the Democrats really have reasons for feeling hopeful.

Yes, Under Certain Conditions.

Deerwood Times: According to a report emanating from the conference hall of the state Progressive party, Congressman Lindbergh is being considered seriously as that party's candidate for governor. But that makes no difference. It's going to be one of three things during the coming campaign—Eberhart, an anti-machine man or a Democrat, with the chances favoring the latter.

Abolition of Poverty

Edward T. Devine in The Survey: We recognize that society now has potentially at its disposal, in our American communities at any rate, resources sufficient to enable a decent standard of living to be maintained in every class.

If this seems to involve various kinds of social action, such as shortening hours of labor, fixing a minimum wage, preventing the exploitation of women workers and child workers, extending woman's work in directions which are not injurious and restricting children's work in directions which are, taking the mentally defective under more complete social protection, organizing employment exchanges for the better distribution of labor, shifting the geographical location of industries, aiding the immigrant to find the place where there is a legitimate demand for his labor, providing for social insurance against dependence from death, protracted illness, and even unemployment, and above all modifying our elementary educational system in such a way as to increase substantially the efficiency, the earning capacity, of those who yearly enter industry, commerce, or agriculture—then we are ready to consider any and all such measures, if for no other reason because they are necessary steps, although by no means the only steps, in the abolition of poverty.

To Arms.

Who can be dull or wrapped in unconcern,
Knowing a world so clamorous and keen—
A world of ardent conflict, honest spleen,
And hot and swift desires that cannot turn?
Vivid and vulgar, with no heart to lean,
See how that drudge, a thing unkempt, unclean,
Laughs with the royal laughter of a Queen;
Even in her the eager fires burn,
Who can be listless in these stirring hours,
When, with athletic courage, we engage
To storm, with fierce abandon sterner powers,
And meet indifference with a joyful rage,
Thrilled with a purpose and the dream that towers
Out of this arrogant and thundering age?

—The Century.

The Self's Power.

From "The Power of Mental Demand," by Herbert Law, published by Paul Elder & Co.: Do not look too much to influences beyond, powers external to us. We are apt to look too little to the things which are within ourselves. Bound up within us there is a genius and a power of achievement, the depth and extent of which depends entirely upon us and our efforts. Growth, development, increase in power must come from within. The man or woman, to achieve, must be born again. Accomplishment is the result not of fitness, but of determination to be fit; not of preparedness, but of striving for preparation.

In Washington.

Pittsburg Post: "Senator, can you give me a job as janitor around the capitol?"

"Why, I thought you were slated for something bigger."

"I have been slated for several things bigger. Now I want to see if there isn't something I can really get."

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

J. L. Dickinson, who has been manager of the Woodward Clothing company since they started a store in Duluth, left yesterday for Sioux Falls, S. D., where he will engage in the jobbing trade.

United States Senator Alfred L. Colquitt of Georgia died at his residence in Washington this morning. He was 70 years of age and had been senator since 1883, previous to which he served six years as governor of Georgia.

There is much interest at West Duluth in the coming appointment of street commissioner. The following are candidates: J. Dass, O. S. Olson, George Hall, William Jeffrey, P. R. Haley, J. S. Palmer, A. Miles, William Swanstrom, John Pearson and Charles Olson.

Gold is reported to have been found on land owned by P. J. McCann, four miles north of Virginia. Attorney Watkins and George W. Martin of West Superior are interested in the find.

Capt. Marion Tinney, who was in command of the steamer Frank L. Vance last season, has been appointed master of the fine Northern line steel steamer Northern King, vice Capt. Campau, promoted to the new passenger steamer North West.

A carpenter shop, owned by S. R. Kerr and situated at Twenty-fourth avenue east and Second street, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $600.

A party of about twenty left Duluth yesterday for Tower to attend the "birch bark banquet" given at the Vermilion hotel in the evening in honor of J. Adam Bede, recently appointed United States marshal. In the company were Judge John W. Willis of St. Paul, Judge Nethaway of Stillwater, H. H. Hawkins of Thomson, C. P. Maginnis, F. H. White, Dr. Titcomb, C. O. Baldwin, F. L. Ryan, George West, J. E. Fuller and J. B. Geggie. About ninety guests sat down to the banquet. W. G. Bonham was toastmaster. John Dowling welcomed the guests and John F. Gleason responded. Speeches were delivered by H. H. Hawkins, Judge Nethaway, C. A. Towne, Judge Willis, C. P. Maginnis, Neil McInnis, John Owens, Charles A. McNamara and J. Adam Bede. Chief Wake-em-up delivered an address in Chippewa which, when translated, proved to be as eloquent and touching as any of the evening. He spoke in a clear, strong voice and his gestures were easy and graceful.

Enemies of the Workers.

New York Press: The cause of the toiling masses is always in danger of being compromised and prejudiced by agitators who make themselves conspicuous in every movement which is started to secure some remedy for evils from which relief, if obtainable, is fairly and reasonably sought.

The half-crazed anarchists, the ranter with ill-digested ideas and theories, the reckless and scheming adventurer, are only too ready on such occasions to come to the front, incite to foolish acts of violence and disorder, make inflammatory speeches, utter foolish or vicious threats and thereby create prejudice against causes which, if properly understood and rationally advocated, would evoke sympathy and obtain assistance and support.

They are loud-mouthed and loquacious and offer themselves readily for interviews with reporters for newspapers, and the wilder and more foolish the utterances of those interviewed the more pungent and interesting is the material provided for publication. This talk does not represent the sentiments of the majority, but it is printed and read as if it did.

Such men, whose mischief is sometimes only the involuntary result of disordered minds, but is frequently calculated for profit, are the worst enemies the men and women who toil with their hands can have and should be cast out by them at every opportunity.

The Real Test.

Chicago Record-Herald: "The Bosleys must have met with severe losses."

"Why?"

"They have had to give up their home and move into a cheap flat."

"That may not be an indication of losses. They may have merely found that they were living beyond their means."

"But Bosley told me yesterday that he was going to use his 1913 car again this year."

"Then the worst must have happened to them."

Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

MUD AND DUST.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In last night's editorials you mentioned that passengers coming from the Union station would get a better first impression of the city after the gateway to the city is cleaned up. It is my opinion that instead of the cleaning up Commissioner Hicken recommends that if he would get busy and have the mud cleaned up in front of the Union station so that passengers could get up as far as Superior street without getting covered with mud they would get a little better "first impression" than they are now getting.

After arriving at Superior street they will soon be too blinded with dust to know whether there is any mud to tramp through or not.

From one who got a good impression of Duluth, but not of the commissioner's ideas.

MAKING CRIMINALS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Under "Bought a Revolver" in your issue of March 25 is an account of a young man purchasing a revolver, a policeman arresting him for carrying a concealed weapon, which, by the way, was unloaded, and conviction in police court and then being let go on suspended sentence.

Here is another case of outrage by this pernicious law.

He purchases a revolver, which is a legal transaction for both purchaser and seller. He carries it unloaded. He certainly had a right to the revolver and to have it in his possession so long as he did not load it, and yet he is subject to the indignity of arrest, being pulled to police station and booked, and arraignment and conviction in court, and being let go out of town under suspended sentence. A criminal!

If this young man was legally arrested and legally convicted it is time such a vicious law was repealed. He is made a criminal because he made a legal purchase and then carried it unloaded.

REHEARSALS ON FOR MINSTREL SHOW

Y. M. C. A. Boys Plan Best Entertainment in Cabinet's History.

The boys' department Y. M. C. A. minstrel show, which will be held on Thursday and Friday, April 2 and 3, promises to be one of the best entertainments that the club has ever given. Practice has been going on for the last five weeks, and fifty boys, who will take part, are very enthusiastic.

The chorus of fifty boys has been under the direction of Mr. Batchelor, and their part of the program will add greatly to the success of the entertainment. The minstrels will be preceded by a one-act play, entitled "Pooling Father." This will be given by Edwin Scriven, Rollin Hawkes and Harold Smithles. The mandolin club and mouth organ orchestra will give selections, and moving pictures will close the first part. The following boys will take part as minstrels: Interlocutor, N. D. McLeod; end men, Bones, Stanley Lamb, and Sambo, Edwin Scriven. The opening chorus will feature the following songs: "Good Bye Winter, So Long Fall," "Sweet Memories," "Tennessee Moon," "I Love Her, Oh, Oh, Oh," "When the Roses Bloom in Dixie Land." Solos, "I'm Going Back to Carolina," Truman Brooke; "Bobbing Up and Down," Arthur Heim; "Wait Until Your Daddy Comes Home," Marshall Peterson; "There's a Girl in the Heart of Maryland," Charles Le Richeaux; "Mammy Jinny's Jubilee," Edwin Skinner; "Wher's That Dog-gone, Dog-gone Dog of Mine," George Ward; "At Uncle Tom's Cabin Door," William Smith; "Sailing Down the Chesapeake Bay," Jack Shields; "Down

Frederick Campbell will be the accompanist. The proceeds of the entertainment will go towards a kitchen at the boys' summer camp at Sturgeon lake.

The High School Bible Study class met at the boys' department last evening for dinner in addition to the regular club work. William Eklund of Rush Medical college, Chicago, made a short talk. Mr. Eklund is a former high school student, and was president of the boys' department cabinet for three years.

The club's committee will entertain a committee of fifteen this evening at the boys' department to talk over the plans of the Duluth Boys' exposition. The exposition is now a biennial event, and the enlarged committee this year will use all its efforts to make the exposition a city-wide affair. Every boy in Duluth is eligible to enter or do something.

A special Easter program is being prepared for the Easter vacation. Each of the committees will plan some special event, making the program continuous from morning until night.

The minstrel show boys will meet for practice Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

DIRECTORS APPROVE NEW HAVEN SCHEME.

New York, March 26.—Directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company, in special meeting yesterday, unanimously approved of the agreement recently reached between Chairman Howard Elliott and Attorney General McReynolds, which prescribed the terms and conditions under which the New Haven system is to disintegrate. Chairman Elliott was authorized to call a special meeting of the stockholders in New Haven on April 21, when formal action on the agreement will be taken. New Haven officials believe that the compact with the government will be ratified by a large majority vote.

"A WORD WITH THE LADIES"

By SAVOYARD

Washington, March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A witty and discerning writer, a French gentleman, perhaps, said that nobody was in favor of female suffrage except some long-haired men, who ought to have been born women, and some short-haired women who ought not to have been born at all. As for these English suffragettes they are crazy. Bedlam yawns for them. Not only that, they are of the criminal insane, the most dangerous class there is. Judged by what the turfman calls "form" your high-class Englishman is the first gentleman of the world, and he shows it in the fact that he has not allowed a single one of those crazy suffragettes to starve to death by obstinate refusal to eat. The sisters know he will never allow them to do so, and hence all this Tophet they have brought to the land.

Our suffragettes have got more sense and more decency. They do not purpose to be open and flagrant criminals and we must all honor them for that, yet they go about the thing the wrong way. They put themselves on equality with the negro and insist that they must reach the ballot by the same door the negro reached it. That proposition is absurd in law and indecent in manners.

* * *

As politicians these women who are plaguing congress about suffrage are so stupid in their method that we can hardly laugh at them. Whatever may befall the Democratic party the next twenty years it will have majorities in the legislatures of more than one-fourth of the states, and if the woman suffrage gang are going to fight the Democratic party because Democrats think woman in a political way, if they must go into politics, should have introduction more respectable than the negro had, they will never attain female suffrage by that route.

The United States, a government that has no right to confer suffrage on the citizen of any state, forced negro suffrage on the country. Ten years later every Southern state in which the negro vote was a formidable factor nullified the Fifteenth amendment. Then why do respectable women want to come in by the kitchen door along with the niggers?

* * *

The fact of the business is that not 20 per cent of the women of the United States care a rap for the ballot and I doubt if 10 per cent would vote for it if every one went to the polls and voted her real sentiments. Look at the Chicago primary the other day. In that town, the hot-bed of all sorts of isms, morally vicious, there are 600,000 legal female voters. Of these 150,000 registered, and of those only 60,000 voted. Most any prudent man—and all decent men—would rather be the son-in-law of Dickens' "Mrs. Jiniwig" than the husband of that stalwart and masculine female who hissed Tom Heflin so ostentatiously the other day in the room of the judiciary committee.

* * *

John Sharp Williams made the greatest speech on this subject the other day that any of our statesmen ever delivered himself of. His plea was that whenever the women of Mississippi wanted suffrage, and he was willing to open the polls to them and refer the thing to them for decision—if they voted for it he would do all he could to bring it about; but he denied that the states that want woman suffrage have a right to force it on the states that abhor it. What right has Colorado to say to Kentucky that Kentucky shall have woman suffrage? Kentucky don't want it—not 5 per cent of her women would vote for it.

* * *

California, I believe, has woman suffrage. What better off are the women there than the women of Ohio, or Kentucky, or Tennesssee, or Alabama? Judged by the records of the divorce courts in the woman suffrage states there is less domestic tranquillity proportionate to population than in the rest of the Union.

And judged by communities that are dry on the liquor question the suffrage states are a long way more moist than an equal number of states at the east of them, all of which have manhood suffrage.

* * *

Take the solons in the two houses of congress from the states where women vote and a like number from the states where men only vote and there can be found in the analysis no argument in favor of woman suffrage. Look you, in the 99 cases of 100 a woman, fit to be a wife, or a daughter, will take her politics from her husband, or her father. I grant you there are women, plenty of 'em, not fit to be mother, or wife or daughter.

Here is the trouble. Congress is a coward. Yet it has the courage of the suicide. It will cut its own throat at the command of the electorate any day.

And that is the devil of it—hence we are certain to have prohibition and hence is the danger of this woman voting damphoolery. Here is one of its "arguments" and like all the rest it is extravagance:

"The greatest battle that ever was fought,
Shall I tell you where or when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not,
It was fought by the mothers of men."

And when that battle was fought not a mother's daughter of 'em had the ballot, else it had not been fought.

LITTLE ICE IN GREAT LAKES

Interlake Navigation Expected to Open Last Week in April.

According to local marine men, interlake navigation will open some time during the latter part of April if weather conditions continue favorable. Although the Booth line will send out the steamer America April 12 for a down-lake trip, it is not expected that the interlake lines will attempt to begin navigation until the ice at the Soo and the floating ice fields in the lakes have disappeared.

The United States weather bureau in its ice bulletin of today states that there is not as much ice in any of the lakes now as there was a year ago. The ice in St. Mary's river is reported to be from 18 to 24 inches in thickness, while in Duluth harbor ice is 20 inches in thickness. The colder weather of the last week made new ice.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau and the meteorological service of Canada indicate that the fields have practically disappeared over the extreme western portion of Superior, but extend beyond vision off Keweenaw Point and solid fields are reported off Marquette, also over the eastern portion, where they are moving with the winds. The ice in Whitefish bay is solid. In St. Mary's river the ice ranges from 18 to 24 inches and is not snow covered. In Green bay the ice remains solid. In Michigan the only fields over the central or southern portions are off South Haven. The ice at the straits continues firm, except at the extreme east portion, where it is breaking off. In Huron extensive fields are reported from Presque Isle south to Thunder Bay island; over the central and extreme southern portions, also along the eastern shore. St. Clair river is open to Recors Point. The ice has been running freely from Lake St. Clair during the week. Over extreme western Erie the fields have broken up and are disappearing; there is more open water along the south shore and the fields are drifting with the winds. There has been no material change over the eastern portion. In Ontario the fields are rapidly disappearing and some of the harbors are open.

There is not as much ice in any of the lakes as reported last year at this time.

MME. CAILLAUX NOT ONLY ONE FAVORED

Another Paris Prisoner Is Given Heated Cell and Maid.

Paris, March 25.—Violent public and official protests against the favors to Mme. Caillaux by the authorities of Saint Lazare prison had their effect today when Mme. Witz, who is accused of a murderous attack on her husband, was transferred to a heated cell and given a maid to attend her.

Mme. Caillaux, after the ordeal of her long examination by Henri Boucard, and investigating magistrate, yesterday, passed a quiet day in the prison today.

The inquiry into the connection of former cabinet ministers with the postponement of the trial of Henri Rochette, the swindler, grows more and more complicated. The abstracts of the testimony supplied to the press appear to be far from complete. Unofficial reports of the investigation by the committee of the chamber of deputies allude to violent attacks on Joseph Caillaux, former minister of finance, as well as upon Former Premiers Briand and Barthou. No mention of these is made in the official version.

"No Intent to Kill."

"I never intended to kill M. Calmette, I wanted only to give him warning." This assertion was made by Mme. Caillaux as the climax of her dramatic story of the shooting and a recital of the events preceding the killing of the editor of the Figaro.

Mme. Caillaux's state of mind on the eventful day, her purchase of a revolver, and the last act of the tragedy, were set forth in detail by her before the examining magistrate, Henri Boucard.

"France and the republic have need of you. I do not want you to sacrifice yourself," read a note Mme. Caillaux left for her husband before going to the Figaro office. She feared he might commit an act of violence against M. Calmette, she said.

Mme. Caillaux also told of the luncheon with her husband on the day of the tragedy, the consequent nervous excitement she suffered, and the necessity of making a last effort to prevent the publication of some private letters.

W. C. T. U. GAVE $600 TO HELP HOBSON.

Washington, March 26.—First reports of campaign expenses in senatorial primaries under the new direct election amendment, have been made to the senate. Representative Hobson of Alabama sent in a detailed account of expenditures aggregating $5,367.34, of which $2,174 was spent in traveling and $2,618.19 in newspaper and other advertising. Contributions to his fund amounted to $1,825, of which $600 came from the National Women's Christian Temperance union. Representative Underwood, Mr. Hobson's opponent, has not made his report.

From South Dakota, Senator Crawford, who was defeated by Representative Burke, reported spending $2,065, while Representative Burke's list totaled $3,238.80. Senator Clark of Arkansas reported $360.30 and his opponent, William F. Kirby, $1,631.50.

Senator Shively of Indiana reported that he had spent nothing.

TWO MINNESOTANS FOR POSTMASTERS.

Washington, March 26.—The president nominated the following Minnesota postmasters: C. Reitemaier, at Albany; Charles S. Strout, at Monticello.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications. SPRING TRADE REPORTS GOOD

Wholesalers and Manufacturers Are Doing Big Business.

Large Orders Taken for Groceries, Hardware and Dry Goods.

Duluth wholesalers and manufacturers aver that they have no cause for complaint on the score of their aggregate trade so far this spring. Increases in volume of business are the rule in practically every line, and going upon the reports of salesmen, the outlook for the spring and summer months is regarded most encouraging. Provided that the season's mining operations start in as actively as now promised, a substantial increase in trade originating from over the range territory is looked for this season. North Dakota business is said to be fully normal, but if as large an acreage is seeded this spring as expected, and an average yield is secured, a marked revival, it is agreed, would result next fall. It is estimated that another good harvest would enable merchants out there to fully clean up their back obligations.

Good Trade in Groceries.

The volume of business being booked in grocery staples and specialties is reported by the Rust-Parker-Martin company of this city and the Twohy-Elmon Mercantile company of Superior, to be bulking up in substantially larger volume than last year. In going into price changes and tendencies, it is to be noted that sugars are off ten points. The market is weak at the lower basis, with orders being held down to cover immediate requirements only. It is pointed out that sugar is a relatively cheap article of food at the present, there being less difference between the cost of the raw product and the refined article than perhaps ever before known in the trade.

While coffee quotations are unchanged, their tendency is still downward. An effort is being made by producers to place everything in the cereal line, such as rolled oats and breakfast foods, upon a higher price basis, so that the lists in them are being firmly held.

A large trade is now being put through by jobbers in canned and dried fruits and staple, this being the season of heavy consumption, and also by reason of retailers having as a rule permitted their stocks to run low. Sales of tomatoes are especially heavy, and the market in them is stronger. Corn has weakened slightly.

Dry Goods Orders Satisfactory.

Future orders in woolen lines and mackinaws are advised by F. A. Patrick & Co. to be the heaviest in their experience. With the increased facilities afforded through the operating of the house's new factories, it finds itself in better position to take care of the large trade now offering than it was of the smaller volume a year ago.

Business in general lines is also being found satisfactory, and mail orders are coming to hand in liberal proportions. It is noted that retailers are availing themselves of the facilities of the parcel post largely in having goods forwarded to sort up stocks.

Hardware Quotations Firm.

The two local hardware establishments, the Marshall-Wells Hardware company and the Kelley-How-Thomson company, are preparing for heavy shipments to points in the West with the opening of navigation. There are said to be more car-lot orders to be filled this spring than ever before in the history of the trade here. Shipments of agricultural tools are now going forward freely. There have been no special changes in price lists during the last few days. Quotations in wire products are especially firm.

Harness Business Expands.

The Schuke Bros. company advised that encouraging reports are being received from its salesmen over the entire territory being covered. Immediate business in harness and saddlery is coming to hand liberally. Inquiry in all lines is good, affording every indication of a satisfactory trade throughout the spring and summer months.

The Northwestern Leather company also reported a satisfactory expansion in its trade. The market is firm in all leathers, with some further advances just announced by tanners.

Shoe Business Broadens.

Advance bookings in rubbers are advised by the Northern Shoe company to be greatly in excess of last year. Travelers are now out with their fall footwear samples, and they are said to be securing substantial opening business. Mail orders are good, showing that spring shoe stocks are already being well broken into. The company's factory is operating to capacity in all departments.

Liberal Furniture Bookings.

A substantial increase over last year in its volume of sales for the week was advised by the De Witt-Seitz company. Orders received included two carlots of mixed furniture, one from Northern Michigan and the other from a North Dakota point. Business from over Northern Minnesota is said to be showing perhaps the best relative expansion at present.

W. H. Seeley of Biwabik, Minn., was among the outside buyers in the warehouse today.

SANTA CLAUS BRINGS SUIT

Wants Pay From Salvation Army for Posing as St. Nick.

When Harold Olson decked himself out in a Santa Claus outfit and spent the holiday season in front of downtown department stores soliciting alms for the poor from the shoppers, he wasn't working for fun.

Olson contends that he has $246.34 coming from the Salvation Army for his services as posing as Kris Kringle during the yuletide season and for other work in the capacity of a solicitor of alms. Suit to recover the amount claimed to be due was begun in district court yesterday.

Olson declares that he was employed under an express contract that he was to receive 25 per cent of all the funds he could collect for charity. He charges, however, that the Army has not kept its word and that he has received only $69.50 for his services from March 1, 1913 to Jan. 1, 1914.

In addition to soliciting donations, Olson alleges that he distributed religious tracts, solicited contributions for two bazaars both of which were profitable to the Army, sold tickets for a moonlight excursion, and made repairs in the Army barrack at 1631 West Superior street.

DENIES ACCESS TO RAILROAD RECORDS.

Louisville, Ky., March 26.—Mandamus asked by the Federal government to give the interstate commerce commission examiners access to all files and records of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, was refused yesterday by Judge Walter Evans in Federal court. In his decision the court held that certain communications the railroad declined to produce were privileged between lawyer and client; that the Hepburn law does not give the interstate commerce commission power to make general examinations, and that the inquiry here is not along lines sufficiently specific.

United States District Attorney George Du Relle announced that an appeal would be taken from Judge Evans' decision. The investigation was undertaken in response to a senate resolution.

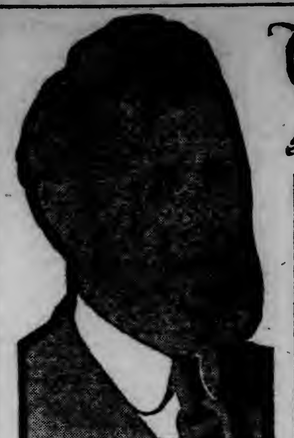
AGED 22; FACES LIFE IN PRISON.

Washington, March 26.—Harry Schaeffer, 22 years old, was sentenced to serve from twenty years to life imprisonment in Sing Sing for the part he played in the murder of William G. Martin, a miller of Toronto, Ont.

Schaeffer was indicted for murder in the second degree. He and another young man, still sought by the police, lured the miller to a furnished room, and after strangling him to death, robbed the body of jewelry and cash.

Railroad for Farmers.

Washington, March 26.—Secretary Lane of the interior department announces that he has authorized the construction of a railroad twenty miles long, south of Yuma, Ariz., to provide transportation facilities for the farmers and settlers on the Yuma irrigation project. The road will be built along the levee running south from Yuma and will be of standard guage. It is expected to be completed and ready for operation within sixty days.



The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers should apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Building, College-Ellwood streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Agnes X" writes: "I'm so dull and lifeless most of the time that I can scarcely accomplish my duties. I am colorless and have little appetite, suffer with headache and am far below normal weight. At one time I was quite plump and then I felt good all the time, so if you can prescribe something to increase my weight I think I shall soon be myself again."

Answer: For anyone in your condition there is nothing I can give that would be so effective as a thorough course of three-grain Hypo-Nuclane tablets. This little tablet supplies elements which increase the red blood supply and aid to extract the nutrition from food, improve the appetite, overcome nervousness, and plumpness with healthy color and strength return. They are packed in sealed boxes with full directions.

* * *

"Farmhand" write: "Please give me a prescription for my rheumatism. I suffer greatly. A friend tried your prescription, was cured, but can't remember it."

Answer: Here is my favorite prescription for rheumatism: Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half ounce; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., and syrup of sarsaparilla comp., 5 ozs. Take a teaspoonful at meal times and at bedtime.

* * *

"W. Z." writes: "I have such a very severe cough and cold and have not been able to get anything to help me. It is weakening my system."

Answer: Use the following and your cold and cough will vanish and you will soon be strong again. Get a 2½-oz. bottle of concentrated essence menthol-laxene and take every hour or two. This can be taken pure or made into a full pint of home-made syrup. Full directions as to use will be found on bottle. This is a mild laxative and will drive the cold from the system.

* * *

"Helen J." writes: What would you advise me to take. I suffer with indigestion, constipation, gas on my stomach, and my breath is bad. I am afraid of appendicitis."

Answer: Many cases of appendicitis are caused by neglecting just such troubles as you describe. You should start at once and take regularly for several weeks at least, tablets triopoptine, which are sold at all drug stores and are packed in sealed cartons with full directions for taking. The tablets are pink, white and blue. The pink tablets should be taken after breakfast, the white after dinner and the blue after supper.

* * *

"Lost Health" writes: "Sadly I confess that I am in need of a doctor's advice, and believing you can help one in my condition, I give herewith my symptoms: A general breaking down of my nervous system has left me weak, nervous, despondent, trembling dizzy spells, bad headache and a stiffening of the muscles and ligaments, causing an infirmity which is not due at my age."

Answer: Eat the most nourishing foods, omit alcoholic drinks, and take three grains cadomene tablets regularly for a month or two. Get the tablets in original sealed tubes with directions enclosed.

Miss Belva asks: "I am sorely afflicted and want your best advice. I am troubled with goiter and too much flesh or fat. How can I overcome the one and reduce the other?"

Answer: Many cases of goitre coming under my attention have yielded to treatment and disappeared almost totally. The ingredients in 5-grain arbolone tablets are used both to reduce goitre and to remove superfluous fat on the human body. I advise you to obtain a sealed tube with directions accompanying.

* * *

"Valeria" writes: "I am suffering with biliousness, stomach and kidney troubles. I am getting worse all the time. What shall I take?"

Answer: For the troubles you mention, the best remedy to purify the blood and act on the liver and kidneys is: Three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets). Get these from your druggist in sealed tube with full directions. These act pleasantly, and if taken regularly they will gradually effect relief. By purifying the blood your biliousness will disappear. If you are dyspeptic, you should take tablets triopeptine with the sulpherb tablets.

* * *

"Children"—Your children should be given the following to correct them of bed wetting: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic, 2 drams; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz. Give 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before meals. This is good for young and old.

* * *

Doctor: "I should be very grateful for a remedy for catarrh. I have suffered a great deal for the past year with bad breath, pain in my head and throat. Please tell me what to do."

Answer: I have found antiseptic Vilane powder to be the best remedy for catarrh of the head and throat. Many letters are received from people who are thankful to be cured of this dreadful disease. Go to any well-stocked drug store and purchase a 2-ounce original package of antiseptic vilane powder. Cleanse the nostrils thoroughly by snuffing from the palm of the hand a wash made by mixing one-half teaspoonful of the powder to a pint of water. Use this two or three times a day. In addition to this, use the following balm in the nostrils daily: One teaspoonful of vilane powder and one ounce of lard or vaseline. Use this treatment at intervals to prevent a return.

* * *

"Anxious Mabel" writes: "My hair is falling out so rapidly that I am very much afraid that I shall soon be bald. I have also a great deal of dandruff which causes my scalp to itch."

Answer: You can stop your hair from falling, stop dandruff and make your hair soft and fluffy if you will purchase a 4-ounce jar of plain yellow minyol and use according to directions. It will promote a healthy head of hair and bring back the intense natural color.

* * *

I. P. B. writes: "Can you please prescribe medicine which will relieve me of such distressing symptoms of kidney and bladder as the followings: Pains in small of back, soreness in region of bladder, frequent calls at night but scanty flow, with pain, burning and foul odor, puffing of limbs, etc."

Answer: Those seeking relief from kidney and bladder disorders should begin taking balmwort tablets, a very successful formula sold in sealed tubes with full directions.—Advertisement.

PLAIN TALK ON PAVING FROM WISCONSIN EXPERT

Recommends Many Improvements in System Followed Here.

Better Inspection Needed.—Maintenance Should Begin at Once.

Declaring that good pavements are an important essential for Duluth's advancement, Prof. L. S. Smith of the highway division of the University of Wisconsin has submitted his report relative to the handling of street improvements in the city.

Among his recommendations are:

The outlining of a systematic program for street improvements.

Expert inspection.

Reorganization of the maintenance and inspection force.

Installation of a municipal testing laboratory.

Systematic maintenance, beginning the day after the pavement is laid, including systematic maintenance of macadam streets by use of oil and of earth roads by use of split log drag.

A traffic census.

Greater use of concrete pavement on account of abundance of rock available.

Prof. Smith lays great stress upon the importance to any city of good pavements. He declares that perhaps no other single element can contribute so greatly to its development, declaring that it is not generally appreciated to what an extent good pavements may assist in making busy work shops.

Method Is Wrong.

He asserts that Duluth's method of selecting pavements is fundamentally wrong in that this is largely left to the abutting property owners, who are largely governed by securing the lowest first cost without regard to the maintenance charges. He says that this should be left to the commissioner of public works and the city engineer.

He points out that the selection of the proper pavement should receive the utmost attention, with the traffic conditions and the topography taken into consideration. He urges the traffic census in connection with a schedule planned for several years in advance. He declares that "such a traffic census will discover the need at certain points of paving several parallel streets in order to avoid the present traffic congestion. Some of the pavement failures in Duluth have been due to this abnormal traffic forced upon a single line of transportation."

He finds that Duluth's specifications generally conform to the best engineering practice but suggests a number of changes. These include the elimination of general clauses which make it more difficult for the contractor to bid and thereby increase the amount of his bid, limiting to 20 or 25 per cent the amount which the work of any contract may be decreased or increased, offer a premium for completion ahead of the time limit and collect damages for delay in civil actions instead of through penalties, inserting the right to take samples of material, and adding a clause stipulating that where any patent rights are involved the cost be included in the contract price.

Begin at Once.

Prof. Smith states that the time to begin maintaining pavements is the day after they are completed. He points out that European cities have learned this through years of experience but that American municipalities are sadly lacking in this respect, Duluth included. He says that unless this is done the public will continue to get 50 cents for every dollar expended.

He urges the best inspection possible, as it means money for the city. He states that dishonest or indifferent inspection means failure of the pavement. He gives three causes for poor inspection: lack of appreciation of the importance of the work; temporary nature of inspectors' employment, and appointments for reasons other than fitness for the job. He said that in 1912 Duluth's pavements cost $153,158 and that the cost of the inspection was $1,389, while in 1913 the cost of the pavements was $234,270 and the cost of the inspection $3,078. He characterized this as altogether inadequate.

Prof. Smith would increase the staff of the city engineer by adding three assistants who are competent engineers and another engineer to make topographic surveys in advance of the work for the next year. He suggests a maintenance engineer, who was recently added to the force by Commissioner Murchison, and would have under him three maintenance supervisors, each in charge of a division. Attached to the report is a set of instructions which he would have given to the inspectors and assistants.

Prof. Smith recently visited Duluth at the solicitation of Commissioner Murchison. He was hired to examine the specifications in order that they might be correct should any errors be found or any departures from the best engineering practice.

Mental Wonders at the Savoy.

The offerings of Albert A. Gamble, the mathematical marvel who opens a four-day engagement at the Savoy theater this evening, is remarkable as an exhibition of mental power. Mr. Gamble, a young man of 19 years, solves mathematical problems in his mind with lightning-like rapidity, marking the answer on a blackboard and then proving the same. He multiplies combinations of figures, tells his audience just how many seconds they have lived and what day of the week certain events occurred and arrives in a twinkling at other results that most persons would have to take minutes to find with pencil and paper. So wonderful are his feats that it seems he must possess the fabulous sixth sense or some other faculty entirely beyond the ken of ordinary man. In addition to this high-class feature act, Miss Irene Althane, comedienne, will appear in a baby impersonating number. Four reels of Warner's feature pictures that are the talk of the moving picture world will complete the program.

WILSON POINTS TO SUPPORT OF VIEWS

Says Entire World Regards Tolls Act as Treaty Violation.

Washington, March 26.—President Wilson declared today that with the united protest of the South American press, the opinion of the entire world was unanimously in favor of the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption.

The president told callers that the South American press had joined the opposition of European countries and regarded the Panama canal act as a violation of a treaty.

Mr. Wilson pointed out that perhaps there was a mistaken impression in congress as to his reason for desiring the repeal. He emphasized that it was not his own opinion alone that a mistaken economic policy and a breach of treaty was involved, but it was an universal opinion that an international situation needed correction.

TWO BROTHERS ARE ARRESTED

John and Calvin Danielson must appear in the juvenile court Saturday.

John and Calvin are not juveniles. On the contrary each is a man of family. Each has a wife and three children. John calls 2125½ West First street home and Calvin's place of abode is on Minnesota Point.

Both brothers are accused of having been derelict in their domestic duties. The welfare of the children in each family became a subject of interest to R. D. McKercher, humane agent, and he thought it would be a good plan to have a family reunion in juvenile court Saturday.

The charge against each is contributing to the dependency of minor children. The children may be made wards of the state.

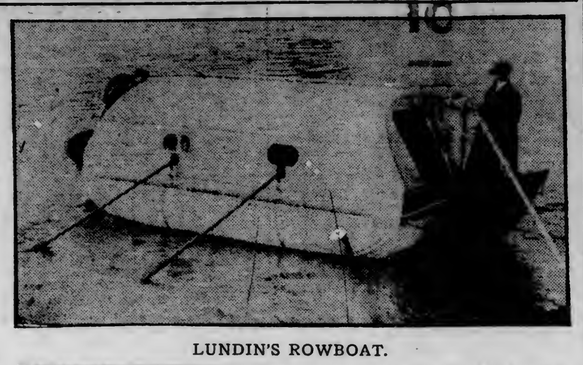
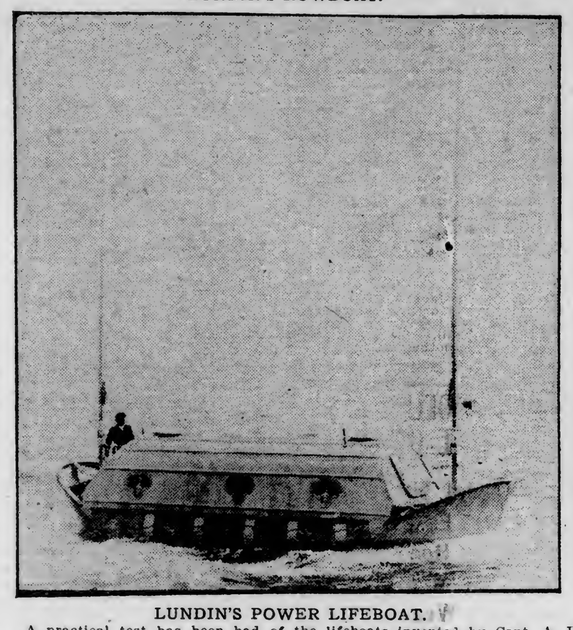
NON-CAPSIZABLE LIFEBOATS RECENTLY TRIED OUT



LUNDIN'S ROWBOAT.



LUNDIN'S POWER LIFEBOAT.

A practical test has been had of the lifeboats invented by Capt. A. P. Lundin of Long Island City. The test was given for the benefit of the inspector-general of the steamboat inspection service. There are three types of these boats. One is a 30-foot decked lifeboat equipped with a 24-horse power motor. This big boat has a dynamo which operates a wireless outfit, rigged fore and aft, which will send messages fifty miles in daytime, seventy-five miles at night and receive messages from an even greater distance. This boat is intended not alone to contain a large number of men—it was loaded with sixty-seven at the time of the test—but to tow other rescue boats.

The other type of boat is a 24-foot "housed in" lifeboat. This boat is non-capsizable. During the test it was turned upside down by the use of tackle and it righted itself at once. Moreover, not a drop of water was found inside. Forty men were loaded on this boat, which was then rowed up and down.

The third type of boat was an ordinary decked lifeboat holding sixty-one men.

The speaker, Abner Swan, will talk on "A Modern Prodigal;" the text to be found in Luke xv, 18, "I will arise and go to my Father."

Has Narrow Escape.

Al Cox, the 17-year-old son of Frank Cox, had a narrow escape from serious or fatal injury when the horse attached to his father's delivery wagon ran away with him yesterday. The boy had hitched him so that his heels struck the whipple-tree and he broke into a dead run at Twenty-fourth avenue east and Fifth street. Young Cox stuck to his seat and at the very edge of the steep embankment at Fourteenth avenue east managed to pull the horse to one side. Had the animal run forward several more yards he would have gone over the side of the deep gulch and only a miracle could have saved either driver or horse.

Suspect Is Released.

James Green, 34 years old, who was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing a coat from William Knox, was released later by Capt. Fiskett. It developed following an investigation that Knox had not lost his coat, although he first believed it to have been stolen.

Moral Decay, His Theme.

Rabbi Maurice Lefkovits will preach on "Symptoms of Moral Decadence" at the regular weekly services to be held at Temple Emanuel, Seventh avenue east and Second street, tomorrow evening. The services begin at 8 o'clock and are open to the public.

Dismiss Larceny Suspect.

James Forstrom, 23 years old, who was arrested yesterday afternoon as a larceny suspect, was released following an investigation by the police. It was thought that Forstrom had stolen the watch in his possession, but upon investigation it was learned that he had purchased the timepiece several days ago from a chance acquaintance.

County Enters Denial.

An answer to the claim of Robert C. McKinley for $690 against St. Louis county for gravel alleged to have been taken from his property for work on county roads was filed in district court yesterday by C. E. Adams, special county counsel. The county denies that more than $75 worth of gravel was taken and that this was used for the repair of roads which greatly enhanced the value of McKinley's property.

Would Replevin Car.

An action in replevin to recover possession of an automobile was started in district court this morning by George H. Wright against the Hudson Auto Sales company of Minneapolis and Harry T. Heberle, Duluth agent. Wright claims that the company unlawfully took possession of the car during the latter part of August 1913. If possession cannot be had, he asks for $1,550, the value of the car. He also asks for $500 as damages for depreciation in the value of the car.

Promise to Leave City.

Joe Powers, 38, and John King, 42, who were arrested by Patrolman Wood yesterday afternoon while in the act of selling some cheap jewelry to a pedestrian at Third avenue west, were this morning released by the police. The men promised to go out of the city at once, if they were given their freedom.

Must Turn Farmer.

Peter Carlson, who was arrested last night by Patrolman O. Olson for being drunk a third time in the last three weeks, will have to spend the next two months on the work farm. Carlson pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was given a straight sentence, without the alternative of a fine.

Kept Vicious Dog.

J. C. Anderson was yesterday afternoon found guilty in police court of harboring a vicious dog and was fined $5 and costs or five days in the county jail. He paid his fine. Anderson was arrested last Thursday on the complaint of A. J. Ahrens, 716 Garfield avenue. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for yesterday afternoon.

Plumber Arrested.

Daniel Ruben, 45 years old, 413 East First street, who was arrested yesterday afternoon by Court Officer McDonald on a charge of plumbing without a license, pleaded not guilty when arraigned this morning and his trial was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon. He was taken in custody while at work on some plumbing at 118 East First street, on the complaint of George Kreager, plumbing inspector.

Admit Being Drunk.

Patrick J. Fox and Elizabeth Fox were arrested by Patrolman Callahan last evening on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. They are accused of having created a disturbance in their home. The pair pleaded guilty when arraigned in police court this morning, but sentence was continued until 2 o'clock this afternoon, pending an investigation into their case.

BELL SYSTEM ENDS COAST PHONE FIGHT

Decree Conceding Government Demands Is Accepted By "Trust."

Portland, Or., March 26.—The so-called Telephone trust, by which the Bell system dominates the lines of Washington, Oregon and Idaho, was dissolved without a fight here today when a decree accepted by the telephone interests and conceding the government's demand was entered in the Federal court.

The decree adds another step in the peaceful reorganization of the so-called Telephone trust, and makes specific plans for the restoration of competitive conditions in the Pacific Northwest. It ends the suit under the Sherman anti-trust law brought here last July by the attorney general.

FEDERALS TEMPT YOUNG BASEMAN

Recruit in Cubs' Camp Gets Big Offer From Outlaws.

Chicago, March 26.—Fred Mollwitz, the promising young first base candidate with the Chicago Nationals, has received an offer from the Brooklyn Federals which he said he will accept unless the Chicago club increases his salary. This news reached Chicago today from Louisville, where the Cubs are to play this afternoon.

Mollwitz's offer was made by Mike Malloy, the Federal league scout, who, as Cub scout last year, recommended the young player, then in the Wisconsin-Illinois league, to President Murphy. The Brooklyn club promised to pay $3,600 a year with a three-year contract, while his present contract, in compliance with regulations of organized ball, provides for a salary of only $1,200 until he is accepted as a "regular."

Shortstop Weaver and Pitcher Scott of the Chicago Americans, who said they had received Federal league offers, have been ordered to join the section of the team traveling under the direct supervision of Manager Callahan.

MAINE DEMOCRATS HOLD CONVENTION

Hear Senator Johnson Defend Washington's Mexican Policy.

Portland, Me., March 26.—The formulation of a platform on which the candidate for governor, to be nominated at the primaries in June, will stand, was the principal task of the Democratic state convention today. State, district and county committees also were selected.

Charles F. Johnson, United States senator from Maine, praised President Wilson and defended the administration's Mexican policy, in addressing the convention. With reference to Mexico, Senator Johnson said:

"We have waited patiently because we are big enough to exercise toleration for Mexico to settle its turbulent affairs, hoping that a deliverer may appear among its people as one has appeared in the history of all nations. Realizing the impossibility of recognizing any government, particularly one which bears the name of a republic, but which owes its existence to assassination and cruelty, we have also fully realized that armed intervention meant war, with all its attendant suffering and misery."

He said that the refusal to recognize the Huerta government was justified by the belief "that out of the present disturbed condition will rise a better Mexico, guided by the spirit of constitutional liberty which we have encouraged and aided by our spirit of toleration and forbearance."

Senator Johnson declared that the new tariff law had not had an injurious effect upon any legitimate business, and that its benefits were not sectional. He characterized the income tax as "the most equitable tax ever laid on a people," and the banking and currency act as "a most beneficent law."

LEE FILES FOR THE G. O. P. NOMINATION

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—William E. Lee, choice of the Minneapolis elimination convention to oppose Governor Eberhart, filed today with Secretary of State Schmahl as candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. Mr. Lee mailed his affidavit to the secretary of state, with a check for $50 filing fee.

CREAM SHIPMENTS ARE INTERSTATE

Duluth Company Would Restrain State From Enforcing New Law.

St. Paul, Minn., March 26. — The Bridgeman-Russell company, Duluth cream and butter dealers, began suit in the United States district court today to restrain the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railway companies and the Great Northern and Northern Express companies from recognizing the so-called Johnstan law, and refusing to ship cream from points sixty-five miles or more distant from Duluth, unless it is carried in a refrigerator car or pasteurized. An order is asked, also, enjoining Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith from bringing any action to compel the carriers named as defendants to observe the provisions of the law.

This is the third attempt to nullify this law, but does not directly attack its constitutionality as the others did, asserting instead that cream shipped to the plaintiff from Minnesota points over the lines of the defendants passes through Superior, Wis., and for this reason, this business partakes of the nature of interstate commerce, which the state cannot regulate. Two St. Paul firms brought the former suits.

The hearing is set for March 30 at 10 a. m. in the Federal court at St. Paul.

HE WASN'T WORRYING.

Lippincott's Magazine: Three students sat on top of a high hill. One was a pessimist, one an optimist and the third had not declared himself.

While the first were warmly discussing their opposing theories of life, a sudden gust of wind simultaneously lifted off three hats and sent them bowling down the hill. The pessimist and the optimist gave chase, but their companion remained calmly sitting on top of the hill and watched the others running after the hats. Presently each procured his own hat and the optimist picked up also that of the third man. Then they panted back up the hill.

"Whew!" gasped the optimist, as he handed over the hat to him who still sat on top of the hill. "I guess you're an optimist, too. You didn't seem to worry any."

"Why should I?" was the dispassionate reply. "I knew that 'mine own shall come to me.' You see, I'm a fatalist."

LIVE SPORTING GOSSIP

By BRUCE

DARBY O'BRIEN is in Cleveland lining up the talent that has been speared and held coming season. Early in in sweet anticipation of the the coming month the collection of players will be started toward the training camp at dear old Oshkosh, famous in song and slap-stick comedy.

Before starting for the bucolic regions the Dook will have his Soxlets practicing on the lots of the Sixth city. By the time of the first exhibition game of the season the Irish Orator may be expected to have some definite line on at least some of the candidates for his team.

It will require a lot of weeding this season, for there will be few veterans to try for places.

Temperament Versus Cash.

TILLIE SHAFER, Garry will be glad to know, is thinking of playing with the Giants this year. Recall Tillie? The pink note kid; the California college graduate who possesses brilliancy on the baseball field and temperament off it.

"Guess I won't play this season," enunciated Tillie, some weeks back.

"Please come and play," begged the officials of the Giants. To supplement this request a bonus of $10,000 was hastily assembled.

President Hempstead of the Giants is in Los Angeles holding pleading interviews with Arthur—one of Tillie's other names. With viands spread before them the twain sit and argue the case. At times it must be great to be a baseball player.

It is a case of temperament versus the dear dollar, and we are stringing with the dollar to nose out at the wire.

Ferns and Spike Kelly.

OFFICIALS of the Twin Ports Athletic club will bid for favor and patronage with the Ferns-Kelly embroglio on April 7. Both of these boys are among the stellar performers of the welterweight class, though Mike Gibbons is generally recognized as the champion of the division.

Ferns is a rugged, slam bang fighter. He carries a wallop and his forte consists in tearing in. Kelly combines the qualities of a boxer and fighter and the two should give the fans some high class amusement.

On the same card will appear Jack Doyle, the latest acquisition to the Abraham stable. The Doyle boy has fought some of the best feathers of the East and comes stamped with class and confidence.

Mr. Ritchie Rises and Says:

THAT before Adolph Wolgast entered the ring for the affair at Milwaukee, which has now passed into ring history, he was slightly operated upon by a physician to create the impression that a foul had been committed.

"Of course," says the sagacious William, "the doctor examining Wolgast after the fight found evidence of a foul—but the foul was committed by another physician—and before the battle."

This merely goes to show that there are always two sides to every argument.

Tom Sharkey was operated upon before the first fight with Bob Fitzsimmons, and Gunman Earpp—or similar name—gave the decision to the marine.

Maybe Willie knows what he is talking about—and maybe he is talking through his bonnet.

He Sure Gets the Money.

SCANNING coastwise trading papers we notice where little Adolph Wolgast has been offered the princely, not to say munificent sum of $50,000 for four fights. Sometimes we wonder whether Wolgast is a capitalist or merely lucky.

Adolph may be beaten again, and he may never regain the lightweight championship—but he gets the money. Wolgast fights from gong to gong—that's the answer. He never stalls. This has been a great year for Wolgast, speaking of finance, and he is an ex-champion. He is one of the most successful we have.

Boosting for Handball.

DULUTH handball players and followers of the court game in general are rooting for a Duluth victory when the local players meet the St. Paul stars in the series that will determine the state title holders.

Bill Wendlandt is a handball bear; this chap is one of the best in the state, and if he is beaten the other fellow will have to go some.

Interest in the game has reached its highest mark this season. The construction of the two new courts worked wonders in increasing the number of players. Also there has been a live handball committee, which has been ably assisted by Physical Instructor Olson of the association.

Whether Duluth wins the series or not, a long step toward placing the game on a firmer basis has been accomplished in the arranging of the series.

Holding the state titular contests here next year would still further increase the interest in the game.

ISSUES NOTICE TO ALL CLUBS

National Baseball Commission Explains New Agreement With Fraternity.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 26.—The national baseball commission just promulgated a notice to all national agreement clubs. It follows:

"Section 18 of the agreement with the baseball players fraternity reads ment clubs. It follows:

"'Before a major league player shall be released outright or under an optional agreement to Class A or a lower classification his services shall first be tendered to all Class A clubs at a price not to exceed $1,000 and then to all Class A clubs at a price not to exceed $750. If he be a drafted player, the club from which he is drafted shall have prior claim to all other clubs in its classification.'

"When a major league club makes application for interleague waivers, it should at the same time notify the president of the league of which it is a member whether the player will be released unconditionally, outright or under an optional agreement if waivers are obtained. An outright release is construed to mean the player's transfer from one club to another, either with or without a consideration and without the retention of the right to recall him. In such case the player must first be tendered to Class AA and A clubs at a price not to exceed those stipulated in Section 18.

If it is the intention of the major league club to release the player under an optional agreement, then the amount of the option price shall not be less than $500, as stipulated in Rule 18 of the commission and not more than the respective amounts prescribed in Section 18 of the fraternity agreement.

"If the major league club and the claiming minor league club cannot agree on the optional price, the presidents of the leagues of the respective clubs shall determine the consideration, provided, however, it shall not exceed the amounts fixed in Section 18 above quoted.

"Section 18 does not change the system of returning drafted players as prescribed in Section 9, Article VI of the national agreement and regulated by Rule 32 of the commission in any respect.

"A drafted player who has not been claimed before Feb. 1 following his selection becomes subject to Section 18 when released by a major league to a minor league club."

RESERVE CLAUSE MAY BE INVOLVED

Federal League Attempting to Force Pittsburg Contracts Into Court.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 26.—Attorneys representing S. H. Camnitz, the Federal league agent enjoined temporarily last Monday from interfering with members of the Pittsburg National league team under the state labor contract law, yesterday filed a motion in chancery court here, asking that President Dreyfuss be required to produce in court all his players' contracts.

The Federal representatives contend that the complaint filed by the Pittsburg management is indefinite. George P. Whittington of counsel for Camnitz last night declared that the validity of baseball contracts containing the reserve clause would be subjected to a rigid legal test if the motion filed is granted.

New York, March 26.—Before returning to Chicago, President Gilmore of the Federal league, said he was well pleased with the progress of the Federal league park in Brooklyn, and said it would surely be finished by the opening of the season.

Baltimore, Md., March 26.—That the yearly salary of President James A. Gilmore of the Federal league is $15,000, is authoritatively stated here. This amount, it is added, was determined upon at a meeting in Chicago about a month ago.

SIMPLE LIFE FOR FIGHTER CLABBY

Middleweight Must Be Good as He Can Be for Three Years.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—Jimmy Clabby, the Hammond, Ind., fighter, who claims the middleweight title, will live a model life for the next three years if he fulfills the terms of an agreement he entered into yesterday. If he fails to live an exemplary life, he will be sent to jail for three years and will be forced to pay a fine of $500.

Clabby and his trainer, Arthur McQueen, were sentenced to three years in jail and to pay fines of $500 each by Police Judge White for having beaten Charles Laurance, a policeman, in a street fight Jan. 28. Sentence was suspended in consideration of the fact that Clabby agreed to pay Laurance $1,000 damages and to live an exemplary life.

According to the probation agreement outlined by Judge White, neither man shall drink, engage in controversy or visit any place where he may be exposed to temptation for three years. It is also stipulated that neither shall they stay out all night.

CHOYNSKI HEIR OF WEALTHY CHINESE

Bread Cast Upon the Waters Returns Again —Grateful Chinaman Leaves Small Fortune to Former Fighter.

Chicago, March 26.—Joe Choynski, former prizefighter, and now director at the Pittsburg Athletic club, has been lefe a legacy of$10,000 in the will of Jim Pon, a Chinese, whom the boxer befriended years ago. Jim Pon died a few days ago and his sons, Ned Ying and Bert Ying, wired to their old friend, Choynski. The boxer reached here today.

Pon's will named Choynski as executor and guardian of Jim Pon's sons, and awarded him a substantial part of a good-sized fortune.

Choynski's first act of kindness toward Pon was in sending his boys to school. Later when Jim Pon became wealthy he sent Ned Ying to China, where the boy married. When Ned returned to America, leaving a little Chinese wife and child, he was halted by the immigration officials at Seattle, but Choynski again came to his aid, explained by letter Ned Ying's American birth and had him readmitted.

Choynski has arranged to have Jim Pon's little grandson join his father here and also arranged, in accordance with Jim Pon's will, to have both Ned Ying's wife and mother taken care of in China.

CIONI IS ROLLER SKATE CHAMPION

Professional Title Holder of Italy Easily Takes Universal Honors in Big Detroit Meet, Which Lasted a Week.

Detroit, Mich., March 26.—Roland Cioni of Milwaukee, last night became professional roller skating champion of the world when he won an easy victory over four contestants in the grand final heat of the meet which began a week ago. Cioni previously held the title of champion of Italy.

Allie Moore of Charlevoix, Mich., who held the championship during the last year, jumped into the lead at the beginning of the heat and stayed in front for eleven laps when he weakened and dropped back to last place. Cioni, who made a poor start, trailed the field until the eighth lap when he came up almost on even terms with the leader. He went in front at the twelfth lap and easily outskated his rivals thereafter. The time of the heat was 3:06. The five contestants finished in the following order:

Cioni, Rollie Brinkheimer, Columbus; Rodney Peters, St. Louis; Jack Woodworth, Washington, and Moore.

NEW HAVEN FIVE WINS PIN TITLE

Team Events Over in American Bowling Congress Meet.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 26.—The five-man team contest of the American Bowling congress tournament ended list night with the Monko club of New Haven, Conn., victors. They were awarded the championship trophy and a cash prize of $600. The Dimlings of Pittsburg, in second place, received $450, and the White Elephants of Philadelphia, in third place, won $400. The absence of record-breaking scores was attributed to the fact that the loaded ball was barred from the tournament.

In the bowling in the last squad of individuals J. F. McCullough of Indianapolis, took second place in the standing of high singles, with a score of 663, twelve pins behind the high score held by William Miller of Detroit. Seven individuals shot better than 600 total yesterday, but McCullough was the only one to class among the leading ten.

CARTOONIST MADE HIT WITH CURLERS.

Coleman F. Naughton, cartoonist of The Herald, made a decided hit with the curlers of Port Arthur when he attended the bonspiel held in that city last January.

"Coley" didn't go in the official capacity, but as a member of one of the local rinks. While there he drew a series of cartoons which greatly appealed to the devotees of the great Scotch game in the Canadian city. As a token of appreciation they have presented him with a locket with a diamond setting, accompanied by an expression of thanks for his goodfellowship and his efforts toward making the 'spiel a great success. They state that they hope to renew their acquaintance with him at the Northwestern bonspiel to be held in Duluth next winter.

WOULD GIVE THE WORLD A CHANCE

Board of Trade Curlers Out With Another Challenge.

In view of the fact that this is freezing weather, the board of trade aggregation of curlers are right here with another challenge. It came over the phone, but whoever sent it was too excited to be understood clearly. However, this is the gist:

"If The World is not satisfied with the result of former games, the Board of Trade players hereby challenge The World to play again tonight at the curling rink, the loosers to pay for a barrel of flour to be given to the poor."

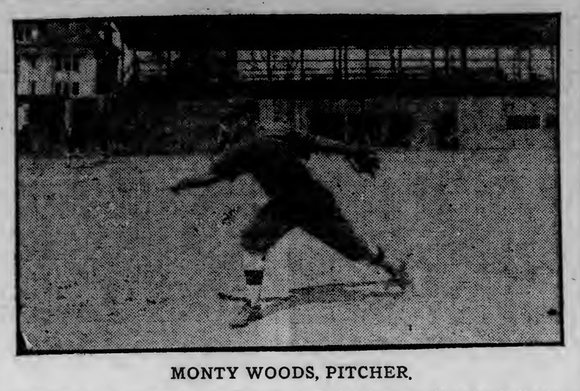
SIGNS UP WITH SOX FOR COMING SEASON



MONTY WOODS, PITCHER.

President H. A. Blume of the Duluth White Sox yesterday afternoon received the signed contract of Monty Woods, the southpaw who did valiant service on the slab for Duluth last season. Monty, who is spending the off season at his home in Bottineau, N. D., has been working hard all winter and is in fine fettle for the opening up of the bombardment campaign. It is claimed that his arm is in fine shape and that he will ping them over the plate with malice and forethought. Monty is popular with the Duluth fans and his return will be welcomed.

POLO DEFENDERS NOT DECIDED ON

Practice Alone Will Determine Personnel, Says Capt. Waterbury.

New York, March 26.—J. M. Waterbury, captain of the American team that will defend the polo cup this year, returned from England yesterday. He said that at present he had no idea of the make-up of the American team. Only practice, he said, would determine its composition. Mr. Waterbury thought Louis E. Stoddard would not appear on the polo field this season, but that Malcolm Stevenson, Foxhall Keene and Rene La Montagne probably would be in the tentative line-up.

Harry Payne Whitney, captain of the team which successfully defended the polo cup last year, came back with Mr. Waterbury. Mr. Whitney said that dislocation of his left shoulder from a hunting fall probably would keep him out of the game this year, although he might take part in the practice for the international matches as a member of a scrub team.

ARMY DIAMOND IS UNDER HEAVY ICE

Cannot Hold Opening Baseball Game on Saturday as Scheduled.

West Point, N. Y., March 26.—For the second time within a week a big squad of cadets worked industriously on the "Plains" yesterday in an endeavor to cut their way to bare ground through a six-inch coating of ice which covers the army's baseball diamond.

The men met with but little success and all hope of opening the local playing season Saturday with Rutgers as scheduled has been abandoned.

Unless favored with a warm rain soon, the army's opening looks to be a long way off. The cadets have been working indoors for a month, and are chafing under the enforced confinement.

IS UNABLE TO FELL NEGRO WITH GASPIPE

Would-be Bank Robber Has to Flee—Suspect Is Arrested.

Atlanta, Ga., March 26.—Pursued through the main streets of the city after he had been driven empty-handed from the Atlanta State Savings bank, a negro institution here, late yesterday, a lone robber escaped by forcing the driver of a buggy to gallop with him into the suburbs, where he disappeared. The bandit's dash for liberty followed a pistol duel with the conductor of a street car, which he attempted to board to escape the pursuing crowd.

Shortly before the bank closed for the day the robber, who was white and unmasked, entered the building and forced the negro bookkeeper, the sole occupant, to accompany him into the vault. When the bookkeeper refused to open the safe the robber attempted to beat him insensible with a length of gas pipe. The bookkeeper grappled with his assailant and the latter fled.

The police last night arrested a white man who gave his name as Edward R. Rynata and his home as Denver, Colo. The bookkeeper identified him, according to the police.

MAY HOLD CHURCH IN OLD SCHOOL.

Ely, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is understood that negotiations are under way between certain parties and the school board representing the section 30 district for the securing of the vacant school building at section 30 for church purposes. The work at section 30, will be in connection with the work of the Methodist church here and at Winton until other provisions are made for the new field. The building at present is on the ore bearing formation and will be moved to another site. Plans are being made for the holding of services there in the near future.

H. Laing of the Laing Hardware company of Gladstone, Mich., is spending a few days in Ely.

Proprietor I. G. Cox of the Exchange hotel was a Duluth visitor this week.

Miss Blanche Mitchell was hostess to a number of the young ladies of the auxillary Monday evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church was entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. William Richards.

Judge, Thomas Jury, is confined to his house with an attack of grip.

Yes, indeed, "WAVENLOCK is good for little folks." I use it because it keeps my scalp clean and healthy and makes my hair so bright and fluffy. My Papa and my Mama use it and say it's fine and just as good for girls and boys as for the grown-ups. We always have it in the house.

Wavenlock Hair Tonic

Cleanses the scalp of Dandruff and prevents its return, stops Falling Hair and instantly relieves the itching, burning sensation of the unhealthy scalp. With the regular use of this fine tonic comes an abundant growth of healthy, beautiful hair, just as nature intended. WAVENLOCK has a pleasing, delicate odor, is not greasy or sticky, will not stain.

All druggists sell lots of WAVENLOCK. Ask yours about it today.

VIRGINIA CLERK WILL RETAIN JOB

ALBERT E. BICKFORD.

Virginia, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is generally expected that as a result of the caucus of the new aldermen just held that City Clerk Albert E. Biedkford will be retained. He has held the position many years. The council is reported to be in a sort of a deadlock over the city attorneyship there being several candidates including the present city attorney, D. D. Morgan and Judge R. J. Montague, the latter being reported in the lead for the job. It is said the council took some ballots on the proposition. On the first ballot for the city attorneyship, Judge R. J. Montague received 4 votes and 1 each was cast for five other candidates. On the second ballot 5 votes were cast for Judge Montague. No further ballots were taken on the attorneyship. The council is badly split on the street commissioner split, and there is a fight on for the position of city engineer. The council was in session two hours and took seventeen ballots in all.

BUILDING DRY AT THE SIBLEY MINE

Sinking of Shaft on Ely Property Also Progressing.

Ely, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Workmen began yesterday on the new dry house being erected at the Sibley mine here. The dry will be constructed entirely of concrete and steel, and will have locker room for 300 men, in addition to having office room for the men connected with the mine. It will be one of the most modern on the ranges. About two months will be required for construction. The site of the new building is but a short distance from the mouth of the new shaft that is being raised in the Sibley mine from the tenth level.

Sinking Sibley Shaft.

Work is being pushed as rapidly as possible on the new shaft at the Sibley mine. Two shifts of men daily are now employed, with a possibility that the third shift will soon be started. The workmen have begun down in the mine, and instead of sinking the shaft are raising it from the bottom, tunneling up from the depths of the mine through the solid rock to the surface. Hoisting machinery is being installed in the mine to raise the steel work that is going into the construction of the new shaft. The new work is not interfering in any way with the other operations of the mine.

IMPORTANT THINGS WILL BE DISCUSSED

Hibbing Commercial Club Has Live Topics to Consider.

Hibbing, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The regular April meeting of the Commercial club scheduled for next Wednesday evening has been postponed for one week owing to the style show at the Powers theater that evening. Matters of great importance are to be brought up at the meeting on April 4. The extension of the electric line, regarding which several new details have been secured; the co-operation requested of the club in securing a state building for the exposition at San Francisco; the organization of a committee to protest to the county commissioners against the location of a joint county and city hospital at Virginia and advocate Wolf as a more central place and other matters. It is also probable some one will address the members on that night.

STILL CLAIM VICTORY.

Two Harbors Team Deny Ely Game Was Tie Affair.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local high school basket ball team deny that the recent game with Ely was a tie with the score 30 to 30 as Ely claims, but assert that 28 to 30 in favor of Two Harbors is correct.

Fillatrault was the official timekeeper and he was assisted by Bundle of Ely. At the end of the final period Fillatrault blew the whistle and both teams realizing the game was over prepared to leave the floor. After practically every member of both teams had left the floor Mackt for Ely threw a basket but as time had already been called according to all the rules of basket ball the basket should not have counted.

Regret is expressed that the officials did not get together and settle the dispute as the Two Harbors players and coach always desire to give square treatment to visiting teams.

In view of the fact that the basket was thrown after the timekeeper blew his whistle and nearly every member of both teams had left the floor Two Harbors feels perfectly justified in claiming a victory.

ELY ATTORNEY SEEKS LEGISLATIVE HONORS

JAMES W. OSBORNE.

Ely, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—James W. Osborne, for the past twelve years a resident of this city, has filed as a candidate for the legislature from the Sixty-first district. Since coming to Ely Mr. Osborne has been practicing law and has been closely in touch with conditions throughout the district he now seeks to represent. This district includes Virginia and Eveleth on the west and extends to Ely on the east.

FILING AT ELY.

Several Candidates for City Positions Getting Into Game.

Ely, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two candidates are in the field for mayor with prospect that there will be at least one more before the close of the filing season. Three seek the treasurership, L. J. White, Arthur Toms and Frank Church. Anton Kotchevar, Jake Skalla and John A. Johnson are in the field for assessor. Only two candidates have expressed themselves for municipal judge to date, John Schaefer and Thomas Jury. Two candidates are in the field for alderman from the First ward, James White and Mike Somero. The Second ward candidates seem to be slow in filing for aldermen, but in the Third ward it is reported that four men will be in the race.

SEEK SUMMER HOMES.

Many People Reported Inquiring About Lake Vermilion Sites.

Tower, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Beaudoin of Superior, while here Wednesday, inquired for Lake Vermilion frontage, for which, he says, there are numerous inquiries. He states large numbers will visit Tower the coming season and many will buy lake shore tracts upon which to build summer cottages.

Mayor Roland has left for a trip to the Pacific coast, to be absent several weeks.

J. D. Murphy has been a Duluth visitor the past few days.

Game Warden James of Ely was here Tuesday.

B. H. Hoyer, commercial agent of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, was a business caller here Tuesday. He reports prospects good for the tourist business for Lake Vermilion.

John Talle of Biwabik has purchased a site on Lake Vermilion from John Aronson near the narrows on which he will soon erect a summer cottage.

Jacob Korpi will proceed soon to repair the house he recently purchased on North Second street by shingling it.

Tower witnessed the heaviest fall of snow of the season on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. About a foot fell and wagons were discontinued and sleighs brought into service.

TWO HARBORS FANS ARE TALKING BALL.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Baseball fans have already began to discuss plans for the coming season. They declare that the first thing that is needed is a new ball park as the present location is too far from the central part of the city. The old skating rink on Seventh avenue has been suggested as a suitable location if the grounds can be secured. A new park would certainly place baseball on a paying basis and the lovers of the national game in this city hope that the present plans of the baseball committee will meet with success.

Two Harbors can boast of some fine teams in the last two or three years and one of the features is the fact that the players have all been developed from local talent. Practically the same team will be in the field again this year.

The following will try out for the team: John Woodward, Walter Griffin, Harry Johnson, Bud Ginter, Victor Westin, Henry Olson, Harry McDonald, Alex Johnson.

Mother's Advice To Her Daughter

A Real Live Doll to Fondle is Woman's Greatest Happiness.

The action of Mother's Friend makes the muscles pliant and responsive to expansion. Thus all strain and tension upon the nerves and ligaments is avoided, and, in place of a period of discomfort and consequent dread it is a season of calm repose and joyful expectation.

The appointment of street commissioner will be acted upon at the next meeting of the council, Monday, April 6. The Nashwauk Herald was named as the official paper.

CONTEST HALTED.

Action Involving Balkan Township Election Held Up.

Chisholm, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contests on the Balkan township election have been temporarily halted, two of the complaining witnesses having withdrawn their charges of erroneous voting and counting. The books of the township were turned over to the clerk elect, and Andy J. Sullivan yesterday. Good roads and township improvements are considered more important than continuous contests, hence the withdrawal.

PLUTOS COMING BACK.

Baseball Aggregation Already Seeking Games in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Communications have been received from the "Pluto Red Devil" baseball team asking that the local fans arrange two or three games with the sluggers of the village for July when they will be in Minnesota.

As the local team has not organized for the season no games have been arranged but it is expected that some action will be taken soon. Judge Thomas F. Brady is being mentioned as the logical man for manager and it is expected that he would accept the position. The ball park is being fixed up in splendid shape and everything will be in readiness for a big year on the diamond.

SNOW HELPS LOGGERS' WORK.

Chisholm, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Logging operations are again in full swing as the result of a foot fall of snow and colder weather. Mining contracts were only partly filled when the snow melted. The new snow gives a chance to start hauling again.

Tower Church Election.

Tower, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the St. James, Presbyterian church was held Tuesday evening. Reports of the pastor and various church officers were made. N. J. Benson was re-elected a trustee and the vacancy in the board of trustees caused by the resignation of O. W. Anderson was filled by the election of P. M. Atwood, the superintendent of the public schools. Albert Kitto was elected treasurer. After the business meeting a social followed at the manse.

To Discuss Myers' Plan.

Hibbing, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the important matters to come up at an early meeting of the local gun club will be a discussion of the plan proposed by Fred B. Myers of Biwabik, the new member of the state game and fish commission, in which sportsmen of the range are showing no little interest. Mr. Myers proposes to have the clubs of the range select their own game wardens.

He plans to have the Virginia and Eveleth clubs name one, the Aurora and Biwabik clubs another and the Hibbing and Chisholm organizations the third.

DOG SCARES BURGLARS.

Animal's Barking Drives Yeggs From Paynesville Postoffice.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 26.—An attempt to rob the Paynesville postoffice Monday night was frustrated by a faithful watchdog which was left in the place by the postmaster. The burglars were scared away after they had gained entrance to the place.

Entrance to the building was made by smashing the plate glass in the front door. At the crash the watchdog started a disturbance and after some little attempt to quiet him the yeggs fled. Crude instruments for the work were left behind by them. The robbers had broken into the Smith blacksmith shop during the night and secured a number of tools with which to do the job.

Sheriff Ben Schoener was notified by long distance telephone of the robbery and left Tuesday for Paynesville in an effort to locate them. Deputy Sheriff Archie Chisholm was here and he also returned to Paynesville.

RED LAKE COURT TERM IS BRIEF.

A TONIC FOR DYSPEPTICS

When food lies undigested in the stomach it ferments and gas forms. This gas distends the stomach and presses on the heart, causing a pain that sometimes arouses fear of heart trouble. The condition in which gas forms is caused by a low tone of the digestive organs and a lack of rich red blood resulting in deficient nerve force. It is a condition that calls for a tonic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic for the blood and nerves, have been used with great success in the treatment of this form of stomach trouble. Cold baths in the morning followed by brisk friction with a rough towel will help as they stimulate the circulation but a tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood, restoring the nerve force and making the stomach able to do its work gives the most lasting benefit. With their use the appetite increases, digestion becomes normal and improvement in the general health follows with certainty.

You are trying no experiment when you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cannot harm the most delicate system.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the nearest drug store. A copy of the diet book "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TO ANSWER ON FRIDAY

Accused in Alleged Jury Bribing to Have Hearing Then.

Three Accused Hope to Make State Show Its Hand.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The preliminary examinations of three of the men accused of bribery in connection with the acquittal of McLain Cooper of murder here will be held tomorrow. Tracy R. Bangs, counsel for Cooper; Harry Cooper, the acquitted man's father, and J. C. Mahon are the accused men who will appear tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock before Justice Phil McLoughlin.

It is expected that the first fight will come on the question of granting separate hearings. They have asked for independent hearings, and it is expected that State's Attorney O. B. Burtness will resist such motion.

The defense will endeavor to make the state show its hand in the hearings, as the defendants are in the dark as to what the prosecution has in the way of evidence, except so far as outlined by several affidavits, made by T. E. Sullivan, the self-confessed briber, who was bailiff in charge of the jury.

Sullivan's affidavits, too, do not go into any details as to how or when any money was paid to him to be used in the bribery of the jury, and this is one of the points which the defense hopes to bring out tomorrow.

Cooper Not Extradited.

So far no steps have been taken at Salem, Or., for the extradition of McLain Cooper, who is under arrest in that state. The deputy sheriff of Grand Forks county, W. J. Doty, who left this state ten days ago, had not reached Salem last night, according to telegraphic advices from the Oregon capitol.

Both Grand Forks county and young Cooper have engaged counsel to fight out the extradition proceedings before Governor West. The Oregon executive returned to Salem yesterday after an absence from the state of several weeks.

The term of the Cass county district court, at which the $50,000 civil suit against McLain Cooper and Harry Cooper, brought by the widow of J. F. Ross, young Cooper's victim, is scheduled to open next week at Fargo, and that fact will be used in the attempt to prevent his extradition.

BETTER FARMING MOVEMENT GROWS.

Fargo, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 1914 plans of the Better Farming association in this state have been outlined at a meeting of the field agents held here this week with Director Cooper. Every agent was present. The director is gratified with the results of last year and is planning a more aggressive campaign for 1914. There are more counties cooperating, but what pleases the director and the agents most is the large number of additional farmers in counties where the work has been conducted, who are joining in the work.

ENTRY TIME EXTENDED.

North Dakota Entrants in Pig Raising Contest Get Extension.

Fargo, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas P. Cooper, director of the North Dakota Better Farming association, announces that more time has been given the boys and the girls of the state to make their entries in the pig production contest. Instead of closing the date of entries April 1, they will be permitted up to April 15.

The entrants must be not less than 10 years of age nor more than 18 on July 1, 1914.

There will be $340 in cash prizes, $100 going to the winner and cash being paid to twenty-four of the most successful contestants.

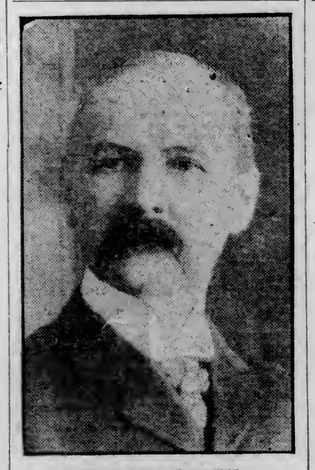
GILBREATH HAS NOT YET DECIDED

North Dakota Agricultural Commissioner Doubtful About Running.

Fargo, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Between two fires, the candidacy of Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Gilbreath for renomination is somewhat in doubt. A personal desire to retire to private life, devotion to his wife, who is in poor health, is being arrayed against the insistent demands of his friends that he continue in the office.

Since his last election it has been generally understood Commissioner Gilbreath wished to quit the position at the end of this term. He is now completing a full decade in the office, which from an insignificant position he has developed into one of the most important and influential in the state capitol building.



W. C. GILBREATH.

Ability Not Questioned.

Charged with many things by his political opponents in the heat of former campaigns, no one has ever intimated that the commissioner was short on gray matter. In fact, his bitterest detractors have always conceded his exceptional ability for the position.

In the many years he has been a resident of the state, Commissioner Gilbreath has made some careful investments which have resulted in a satisfactory manner. Far from needing the salary of his position he has an income sufficient for all his wants that precluded the necessity of further effort on his part of maintenance and comfort.

Auto for Best Wheat.

Helena, Mont., March 26.—An automobile worth $1,400 will be offered as a premium by the Montana state fair this year for the best wheat exhibited. After the state fair the grain will be taken to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco to help make the Montana booth revel in the grain for which it holds world's honors.

OLD ORE DOCK IS COMING DOWN

Marquette Structure in Use Since 1896 Being Dismantled.

Marquette, Mich., March 26.—The dismantling of twenty pockets of the old L. S. & I. ore dock at Presque Isle harbor has just been finished. As there are 200 pockets in the dock, that part of the structure that has been taken down is a tenth of the whole. The timber will be used for repair work on the dock structures and about the railroad property. The dock will be gradually taken to pieces during the winter seasons until the last of the superstructure is down.

Still Holds Some Ore.

The structure still carries some ore that was placed in storage the latter part of last season, but when this is loaded into the carriers this spring it will be finally abandoned for the purposes for which it was built, after eighteen years of service. The dock was erected, along with the construction of the L. S. & I. road, and went into commission in 1896. It was used for handling ore that year and also somewhat used last season. In the interval, however, it was largely rebuilt. In 1906 and 1907 the pockets were renewed, half of their number having been rebuilt each year, at a large expense, and the structure was also redecked twice. It is now pretty shaky and it would be unsafe to continue to use it much longer for handling ore.

WANT TEACHERS' AGENCIES LICENSED.

Fargo, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city commission will determine Monday whether those conducting teachers' agencies should be compelled to pay licenses just the same as managers of employment agencies. For many years the latter have been licensed. They now demand that the two teachers' agencies be brought under the same rule. A protest is made by the latter on the ground that they are not employing labor. The employment agencies insist filling positions for teachers is the same as filling those along other lines.

NORTH DAKOTA GUARD WILL LOSE CANTEEN.

Bismarck, N. D., March 26.—The canteen will no longer have a place in the North Dakota National guard. Governor L. B. Hanna opposes it, and F. L. Watkins, superintendent of the North Dakota Enforcement league, says he will procure its abolishment. Hereafter, both the state prohibition law and the Federal canteen law will be strongly enforced.

A mother's greatest treasure—her baby

Who knows, like a mother, the wonder and awe and delight of a baby closely held next her heart? Who, like a mother who has passed through shadows to bring into the world this fair little flower, can know so well the joy, the mystery and the blessedness of this experience?

But, alas, that so few of our babies stay with us! The empty arms and the aching hearts that they leave behind as they slip away! They could be saved—these cherished babies—if mothers would learn how to feed them.

Nature intended your baby to have his mother's milk. If you can't nurse your baby, do not try every food that friends recommend. Cows' milk won't do. It's too heavy for your delicate baby. It's full of germs. It brings death and disease to babies all over the country.

Nestlé's Food

is the nearest thing there is to mother's milk. Pure, rich milk is its basis—milk from healthy, carefully guarded cows in clean Dairies. This milk is so purified and modified, so changed, that even the frailest baby can digest it. Nestlé's is a complete Food in itself. All you do to prepare it is to add cold water and boil.

Send for Sample Box of Nestlé's Food Free

For your baby's sake, we want you to know the wonderful body-building qualities of Nestlé's Food. Your baby will thrive and grow strong on it, just as thousands of other delicate babies have done. In this box there is enough for 12 feedings. Try it. We will also send you our "Better Babies" Chart. Measure your baby according to health Standards, and see just how near he comes to being perfect. WHY DINING CAR CHEFS PREFER

KC BAKING POWDER

Those who have had cakes ruined by jarring the stove, slamming the oven door or a heavy footstep, may have wondered how the dining car chef can turn out such marvelous biscuits, hot breads and pastry when his oven is being incessantly jarred and jolted and shaken by the motion of the train.

To get pastry to raise and stay raised under these conditions, a baking powder must be used that continues to give off its leavening gas—that sustains the raise—until the dough is baked through.

Dining Car Chefs have found a baking powder exactly suited to their needs in K C and you will find it just as well suited to your requirements. K C is really a blend of two baking powders, one active as soon as moistened, the other requiring both moisture and heat to start the generation of leavening gas. No matter how moist and rich you make your cake, K C Baking Powder will sustain the raise until a crust is formed and all danger of falling is past.

K C Baking Powder is pure and healthful. It is guaranteed under all pure food laws, and is guaranteed to please you. And it is sold at a reasonable price—no baking powder should sell for more.

MARKET OFF NEAR FINISH

Wheat Weakens After Early Strength and Close Is Unchanged.

Flaxseed Declines on Lower Cables and Some Selling Pressure.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 26.—The market weakened at the close, with fresh easing up in coarse grains. May wheat closed unchanged and July ⅛c up. May durum closed ⅛c up and July ¼c up.

Oats closed ¼c off at 36½c. Rye closed unchanged at 55@57c for the best grades. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 36⅝c and July at 38c.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at 90⅝@90⅞c asked, and calls at 91⅛c asked.

After a weak tendency at the opening, the wheat market turned strong during the first three hours' trading today. Bullish sentiment was imparted through advices that the western section of Kansas is still without rain, and that moisture is badly needed there. In the opinion of operators, values will be stiffly held until rains relieve the dry spots in Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska. In the event of a liberal rainfall, many traders are of the opinion that the market will run off sharply.

Armour was reported to be selling May wheat at Chicago, and J. A. Patten was said to be a bear on wheat, corn and oats. It was intimated that Armour had paid the duty on 300,000 bu of Canadian No. 3 oats which he proposes to mix with domestic oats and deliver as standard on May contracts.

A feature noted at Chicago and Kansas City was the inclination of operators to get out of their May wheat and to pick up July. That is leading to a decrease in the spread between the two options. Elevators at Kansas City are reported to be taking advantage of the rapid advance in cash wheat to dispose of their stocks.

While Eastern inquiry was reported quiet by Duluth traders today, some business was worked. It is the general impression that the opening of navigation will not be as early as had been promised a week ago, so that with stocks at Buffalo and the seaboard being rapidly depleted, it is expected that jobbers and millers will be forced into the market more freely to cover their requirements.

American primary receipts today showed an increase of 195,000 bu over last year. Inspections at Duluth were 32 cars against 46 a year ago, but arrivals for the day just came to 35 cars of all grains.

Minneapolis receipts are being well maintained, mounting up to 288 cars, against 233 a year ago. Elevators there showed a decrease in stocks of 350,000 bu in five days.

May wheat opened unchanged at 92½c and it gained ¼c up to the final hour. The July option opened unchanged at 93⅜@93½c, and it advanced ⅜c. Trading in durum was quiet. The May option opened unchanged at 90⅝c and it strengthened ⅛c.

Flaxseed Turns Weak.

After absorbing some pressure at the opening, leading to price recessions of ½@⅝c, the market in flaxseed turned firm, and quotations advanced to within a fraction of yesterday's close. Trading was featureless with small offerings and buyers ready to pick up anything available. The close was on a renewal of selling with final prices showing declines of ⅜c.

May flax opened ¼c off at $1.62 and it closed ⅜c off at $1.61⅞ asked. The July option opened unchanged at $1.64, and it closed ⅜c off at $1.63¼ bid. The September seed closed at $1.64 nominally.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.41½ and July at $1.44⅜.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Broomhall had the following special Russian news: "There has been a recent fall of snow with the weather not cold, and the melting of this and recent rainfall is very beneficial over a large area. Interior receipts are large but arrivals at the ports are still limited and prices are maintained. Shipments from Baltic ports are large but the Volga region has very small reserves and the government is buying native wheat to feed the peasants. There is still much floating ice on the Azoff, and navigation is very slow. Spring seeding is commencing in the south."

* * *

The Minneapolis cash market was steady with the demand fair. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 1½@3c over May and velvet chaff at 1½@1¾c premium. Flour sales were moderate, but the high feed prices are permitting concessions in flour and this brought in a little scattered business. Cash No. 1 northern sold there at from 92½@92¾c and No. 2 northern at from 89¾@91¾c.

* * *

John Inglis wired from Norton, Kan.: "Through Sheridan, Decatur, Graham and Norton counties the surface is very dry. Continuous high winds are impairing the condition through the western and northwestern counties. Fields are badly whipped in spots. While the plant still retains color rain is needed. There were bad dust storms again today."

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Easier American cables yesterday and liberal offers of new American winter wheat, together with expectations of larger Russian shipments this week were offset here by the comparative steadiness in Winnipeg and expectations of light weekly shipments from Argentine, and at the opening the undertone was steady and prices unchanged. Following the opening, there was some disposition for profit and a slight decline occurred, but May was supported and the decline was of small moment. The general market is dull but steady.

"Corn opened with July ¼d lower and later there was a further decline of ¼d. Lower American cables, fine weather in Argentine and larger offers for distant shipments, helped the decline. The spot situation remains firm."

* * *

Broomhall's Portuguese agent cabled that it is expected there will be further imports of foreign wheat necessary to meet there present home requirements. The imports of wheat there so far this season was 3,848,000 bu against 1,344,000 bu the previous season.

* * *

Dryness continues in Southern Australia and seeding is being delayed. The visible supply remains large there but it is decreasing rapidly.

Argentine estimates wheat shipments for the week at 1,400,000 bu and corn at 425,000 bu.

* * *

Stores of grain in Port Arthur and Fort William elevators at the week ended March 19 aggregated 19,956,371 bu, as compared with 24,411,241 bu last year. There was also 7,393,690 bu afloat as against 9,469,888 bu a year ago. Wheat supplies were 11,418,382 bu, compared with 13,606,546 bu last year; oats, 4,318,710 bu, against 5,335,255 bu; flaxseed, 2,818,342 bu, against 3,339,037 bu and barley, 1,399,937 bu, against 2,130,401 bu a year ago.

* * *

The beginning of spring wheat sowing in Iowa this week marks the initial stage of a campaign in which it is estimated that approximately 20,000,000 acres will be plowed and sown. The harvested area of 1913 in this crop was 18,485,000 acres, with a total yield of 239,319,000 bu. The season of 1912 with an area of 19,243,000 acres produced 230,548,000 bu, and that of 1911 with 20,381,000 acres produced only 190,082,000 bu.

Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota have over 80 per cent of the acreage, most of which will be sown within the next six weeks. The requirements of seed wheat are about 30,000,000 bu.

* * *

Of the total remaining world's supplies of wheat, estimated at 234,342,000 bu, the amount available in the United States and Canada is placed at 149,342,000 bu. North America is therefore shown to be the main dependance of the wheat importing countries for supplies, and that it is thought by exports should make for higher prices later, in view of the fact that even if the present hopes of a bumper winter wheat crop in this country are realized, it will not be available for the market until the middle of the summer.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Gets Slight Spurt Owing to Cash Demand.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 26.—A demand for cash grain today caused a slight spurt in the wheat operations toward noon. Otherwise the market was featureless. Reports from the winter wheat districts continue optimistic.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Kansas Weather Complaints Put Wheat Prices Up.

Chicago, March 26.—Complaints that Kansas had received only a few light showers, and that the western third of the state was in decided need of moisture, gave the wheat market today an upturn. Brokers for a leading speculator were prominent in the buying. Sales were scattered. The market opened ½c down to a like amount up, and then gradually advanced.

Severe cold in the Northwest tended to avert any important setback. The close was steady at the same as last night to ⅛c higher.

Many dealers in corn leaned to a belief that the edge was off the demand for the present at least. Overnight sales from here were small. Prices started unchanged to ⅛c lower, reacted a little, and then sagged all around.

Covering by shorts led to a transient rally. The close, however, was weak at ¼@⅜c to ⅝c net decline.

Oats seemed disposed to hold about steady. The bulls contended that the cereal was relatively cheaper than other grain.

Weakness at the yards carried provisions lower. First sales ranged from 5c off to an advance of 2½c, but later there was a general decline.

LOSSES ARE RECOVERED

Slow, Downward Movement of Stocks Resumed at Opening.

List Drags Until Final Hour When Reaction Takes Place.

New York, March 26.—The slow, downward movement of stocks was resumed today. Steel was scaled down because of the definite reports of declining business and prospects of lower prices. The railroad list again reflected the influence of dwindling earnings. Lehigh Valley's February net revenue decreased $582,000.

Outside interest in the market was virtually dead, the moderate price changes being due almost entirely to professional operations.

Bonds were steady.

Union Pacific opened slightly higher today, but all of the other leading stocks were at or below yesterday's close. Trading was dull and recessions were confined to small fractions. Corn Products and Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, recent weak features, were higher.

The drooping tendency became better defined later, Steel, the coalers and some industrials running off sharply. Efforts to buy New Haven around its opening figure of 68⅜ disclosed a scant supply, the price mounting to 69¼ on the second transaction.

Uncertainty over the speculative outlook made the list drag although there was a suspension of the earlier professional selling. Railway Steel Spring sagged 2⅛ on the announcement that no dividend would be paid at this time. New York state and city bonds were firm and more broadly dealt in.

Selling of the International list continued in a more general fashion and some shares fell a point under yesterday's close. Large blocks of Steel were sold and it fell to 62⅛. Buying of tax-exempt bonds such as New York state and city issues was a feature of the limit bond dealings.

The market closed firm. Prices retraced their course slowly in the final hour, full recoveries occurring in Steel, Union Pacific and Reading. Room shorts were the chief buyers.

NAMES FLEET ENGINEERS

Pittsburg Steamship Company Appoints Motive Power Bosses.

Head of Lakes Men Present at Meeting Held in Cleveland.

Head of the Lakes men in attendance at the meeting of the Pittsburg Steamship company at Cleveland are: H. H. Brown, George Treviranus, P. B. Sullivan and J. H. Hearding of Duluth; J. C. Morrell of Superior; J. W. Kreitter of Proctor; Thomas Owens, G. W. Watts, H. E. Hansen of Two Harbors, and G. J. Quigley, O. W. Johnstone, John Sampson and J. W. Coria of Ashland.

Engineers were appointed at the session Tuesday and it was announced that C. A. Fletcher, chief engineer of the Frick last year, will go on a pension because of injuries and S. W. Armstrong of the Baker and E. W. Fox of the Perkins were retired to the reserve force under the age provision of the pension system.

E. C. Collins, traffic manager of the Pittsburg Steamship company, declares that the only record broken during the season of 1913 was the amount of ore carried by the Pittsburg fleet. In 1913 the boats of the company transported 17,155,000 tons as compared with 16,111,000 tons in 1912.

Neither at upper nor lower lake ports was dispatch quite as good as in 1912. The Northwestern dock led again with an average of 1 hour 22 minutes per 1,000 tons, the Iron Range being second with an average of 1 hour 43 minutes per 1,000 tons. At the unloading docks the Superior dock at Ashtabula led with an average of 1 hour 33 minutes per 1,000 tons, the P., Y. & A. being second with an average of 1 hour and 58 minutes per 1,000 tons. These records were the same at both docks in 1912 and 1913.

RETIRE FROM POLICE FORCE

Sergeant Fritz Pensioned and Patrolman Riedel Resigns.

Next Tuesday Sergeant Herman Fritz and Patrolman William F. Riedel will sever their connection with the Duluth police department.

Sergeant Fritz is retiring from active service on a pension granted him several weeks ago by the pension board of the Duluth Police Relief association. He has worked in the department nearly twenty-two years. Patrolman Riedel tendered his resignation to Chief Troyer last month to take effect on April 1 and he will complete his work next Tuesday evening.

Sergeant Fritz was recently reduced from a lieutenant. The January grand jury, after a three weeks' investigation of the police department, recommended punishment for Fritz and last month Commissioner Hicken and Chief Troyer announced that he would be reduced to the rank of sergeant. About a week later Sergeant Fritz made a request for a pension and it was granted by the board.

Patrolman Riedel was recommended for dismissal by the grand jury and he was given the chance to resign on April 1.

Telephone Operator Arthur Brigham will retire on a pension May 1 and Lieut. John Drannen will retire June 1.

STAY EXPIRES IN SHOLUND CASE.

The thirty-day stay granted Charles Sholund, proprietor of the saloon at 101 East Michigan street, who was convicted last month on a charge of keeping his saloon open before hours, expires this afternoon.

No action has been taken as yet by McCoy & Hanson, attorneys for Sholund, but it is probable they will ask for a continuance of the stay for at least thirty more days. The state supreme court is expected to announce its findings on April 7 on the writ of certiorari brought before it shortly after Sholund's license was revoked by the city commission.

Sholund was arrested on the morning of Feb. 18, together with another local saloon keeper and two Superior women, all of them having been in the front room of Sholund's saloon, where they were drinking. The other saloon keeper pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness the following day, while the two women failed to appear in court and forfeited their bail of $15 each. Sholund himself pleaded not guilty to the charge, but a week later was found guilty by Judge Windom, who fined him $100 or sixty days in the county jail. At the request of Charles McCoy, Judge Windom granted a stay of thirty days.

POSTAL DEPOSITS FOR MARCH ARE HEAVY.

Although four deposit days remain for the month of March, the total amount deposited at the postal savings bank up to last night already exceeds that of the total month of February by $2,082. During February deposits were $7,735 and up to this morning deposits of $9,817 had been made. The total deposits for March, it is expected, will not exceed those of March, 1913, when $13,500 was placed on deposit.

McPEEK FORGETFUL.

Alleged Minot Wife Slayer Cannot Remember Firing Shot.

Minot, N. D., March 26.—Joseph McPeek, held for the murder of his wife, has admitted, according to the statement of Assistant State's Attorney Carroll, his presence at the home of his wife, Bertha McPeek, when she was murdered early Tuesday. McPeek also admitted the ownership of the revolver with which Mrs. McPeek was shot and killed, but as to the actual shooting he maintains he "has been out of his mind several days" and cannot remember. The couple were divorced five years ago, then remarried and a repetition of their troubles brought another divorce suit within the last few weeks.

GOMEZ PALACIO IS TAKEN BY VILLA AFTER FOUR DAYS OF ALMOST CEASELESS BATTLE

LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES ARE HEAVY

Fighting at Times Carried Into Roads to Torreon Proper.

Rebel Commander Says City Will Fall to Him Soon.

Carden May Not Return to the Mexican Capital.

ATTACKING TORREON

Juarez, March 27—If information given out at military headquarters here today is correct, the rebel attack on Torreon is being made today. It was stated that Gen. Herrera had captured the Torreon bull ring, which is located in the northern edge of the city. Gen. Angeles was said to be directing a heavy artillery fire on the Federal garrison from the north.

Constitutionalist Headquarters above Torreon, March 26.—(Delayed by censors)—Gen. Villa and his rebel army, after four days of almost incessant fighting during which victory seemed first with one side and then with the other, occupied Gomez Palacio today.

Losses on both sides have been heavy.

The rebels delivered three assaults before permanent success was achieved, and at times the battle extended into the lanes leading into Torreon proper.

Villa predicts that he will have the latter city by Saturday or Sunday.

Joy at Juarez.

Juarez, Mex., March 27.—The receipt of newspaper messages from the front confirming the capture of Gomez Palacio caused the greatest rejoicing here. A telegram from Gen. Villa to Gen. Carranza reported the victory at Gomez Palacio and the repulse of the Federal attack on Laredo also was received. The message which was congratulatory in tone, was relayed by wire to Guzman, at which point Carranza arrived yesterday on his way to Juarez.

Carden May Not Return.

London, March 27.—Sir Lionel Car-

SUFFRAGETTES RAZE MANSION IN ULSTER

Have Begun War on the Unionist Leaders There.

Belfast, Ireland, March 27.—A suffragette arson squad early today burned down Abbeylands, the splendid country residence of Maj. Gen. Sir Hugh McCalmont, near Whiteabbey, on Belfast Lough. The house, although fully furnished, was not occupied except by caretakers. The loss is $75,000.

The suffragettes recently threatened to start war against the Ulster Unionist leaders because of the refusal of Sir Edward Carson to support the suffrage movement.

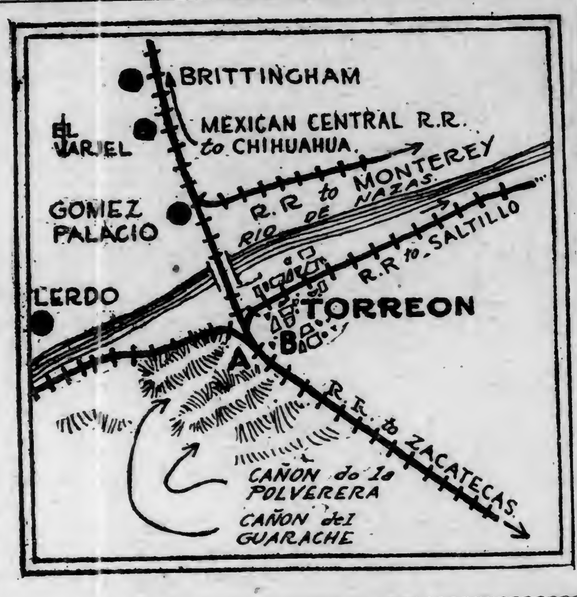
The grounds of Abbeylands, which is only four miles from Carrickfergus, a British army station, have been used recently for drilling the Ulster Unionist "volunteers."

DEADLOCK AT ALBANY OVER MONEY BILLS

Albany, N. Y., March 27.—Differences between the two houses of the state legislature over the annual appropriation bills were far from settlement this morning, although "official noon" was the hour fixed for final adjournment of the legislature. Members of the two houses were in conference all night endeavoring to agree upon many contested items.

An extraordinary session seemed probable, according to legislative leaders, who said that the conferees were practically deadlocked on the bills as passed by the lower house.

SCENE OF CRITICAL BATTLE IN MEXICO



"VILLA DEFEATED."

Washington, March 27.—Complete defeat of Villa and the Constitutionalist forces before Torreon was reported to the Mexican embassy here today in a dispatch from Senor Portillo y Rojas, minister of foreign affairs. Minister Portillo's dispatch, confirming an earlier one from the Mexican consul at El Paso, says the Constitutionalist forces were decisively repulsed and driven back several miles from their positions of vantage.

FINAL BRIEF FOR HARRY THAW FILED

Charges New York With Misusing Extradition Laws.

Concord, N. H., March 27.—The final brief on behalf of Harry K. Thaw on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus and for admission to bail pending a decision of the matter of extradition, was filed in the United States district court by counsel today. The brief concludes:

"The purpose of the state of New York being to return Thaw to Matteawan, it is making a misuse of the extradition laws to accomplish its end. Thaw should be discharged."

DEPORT SEVEN FROM THE COPPER COUNTRY

Armenians Imported By Calumet & Hecla Are to Leave.

Houghton, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seven Armenians imported by the Calumet & Hecla Mining company to take the places of striking copper mine workers, have been ordered deported by the Federal department of labor as alleged violators of the alien contract labor law. An immigration inspector arrived today to take charge of their deportation.

PROMISES EARLY END OF STEEL HEARINGS

Tapline Case Matter Will Be Withdrawn From It.

New York, March 27.—Close of the hearings in the government dissolution suit against the United States Steel corporation at an early date was promised today by the announcement that the government would withdraw all matter pertaining to the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the so-called tapline cases.

Attorneys for the corporation declared yesterday that if this evidence were introduced they would combat it with testimony which might take six months to hear. The government, it is supposed, has finished its case and hearing of the testimony for the corporation is drawing to an end. Nearly two years has been taken by the hearings so far.

ANOTHER WESTERN FUEL SUIT PLANNED.

San Francisco, Cal., March 27.—The United States attorney announced today that the government would start suit against the Western Fuel company in about two weeks for the recovery of $272,843.24 for duties on imported coal alleged not to have been paid, and drawback alleged to have been misstated.

This complaint grows out of the recent criminal prosecution of officers and employes of the company for conspiracy to defraud the government out of customs duties on coal. Three were convicted and sentenced. An appeal now is pending.

MAY ABANDON FINERY TO HELP WELLESLEY

Class of 1914 Talks of Giving Price of Gowns to School.

Wellesley, Mass., March 27.—Important records of Wellesley college, financial and scholastic, which were thought to have been destroyed when College Hall was burned March 17, were found undamaged today when a safe was opened. The safe had been too hot to touch since the fire.

Members of the senior class have begun a movement to eliminate the customary finery from the commencement exercises this year. If the idea is approved by the class, the young women will go without expensive gowns, and give the money which they would have spent for this purpose to the college.

DOWAGER EMPRESS OF JAPAN IS ILL.

Tokio, March 27.—The dowager empress, Haruko, of Japan, is seriously ill today at Numazu, a watering place southwest of Yokohama, where she resides in the imperial villa.

Her majesty is suffering from heart disease and her condition causes considerable alarm to the members of the imperial family. Several court physicians left today to attend her majesty.

The dowager empress is 64 years old. Her husband, Emperor Mutsuhito, died in 1912.

ASQUITH HAS NO SOLUTION

Puzzle Over Army Situation Unsolved at Cabinet Meeting.

Officers Are Determined Not to Obey Orders.

London, March 27.—No solution of the difficult problems confronting the British government was reached at the cabinet council this morning, and it was announced that another meeting of the ministers would discuss the matter before Premier Asquith made his appearance in the house of commons.

The lobbies of the houses of parliament were crowded and many rumors were in circulation.

Field Marshal Sir John French, who has tendered his resignation as head of the British army, was called into the meeting of the cabinet ministers today to discuss his position with them.

At noon it was announced that the statement on the subject which Premier Asquith had promised to give to the house of commons had been postponed until 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The session of the cabinet ministers was called at about 10 o'clock, and continued three hours. It was deduced from this protracted meeting that they found difficulty in repairing the rift in the organization caused by the blow given to it by the resignations of Sir John French, chief of the general staff and Lieut. Gen. Sir John Spence Ewart, adjutant general of the forces.

The two generals today seemed determined not to withdraw their resignations, as they considered they had received a rebuff in the government's repudiation of the guarantee which they gave to Brig. Gen. Gough regarding Ulster.

Army Officers Determined.

Dublin, Ireland, March 27.—Brigadier Gen. Hubert Gough, commander of the Third cavalry brigade, hurriedly left the Curragh camp for London this afternoon.

A majority of the cavalry officers at Curragh adhere to their determination to resign rather than obey orders and serve against Ulster. They are indignant at what they term the bad faith displayed by the government in repudiating the agreement made with Brig. Gen. Gough, commander of the Third cavalry brigade.

CONFESSES MURDER TWELVE YEARS AGO

Negro Tells Wilkesbarre Police He Killed Mary Quinn.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 27.—The mystery surorunding the murder of Mary Quinn at Scranton, twelve years ago, was cleared up last night, according to the police, by the confession of William Pegram, a negro, who was arrested here on a charge of attempting to assault white girls in this city.

Pegram, in his confession, the police declare, says he accosted the young woman on her way home from Hyde park, a suburb of Scranton, on the night of June 2, 1902. When she repulsed his advances he secured a mine sprag from a nearby colliery yard and felled her with a blow on the head.

After beating her into insensibility, the confession says, he dragged her into a clump of bushes, where the body was found next day.

Eleven Drown in Canal.

Brunsduettel, Germany, March 27.—Eleven workmen were drowned today when a suspended cable car fell into a lock of the Kiel canal, while they were crossing.

WILSON WINS FIRST ROUND IN HIS BATTLE FOR REPEAL OF PANAMA CANAL TOLLS ACT

REBATE CUT TO 20 HOURS IN THE HOUSE

Votes 207 to 176 in Favor of Administration Program.

Hour of Bitter Debate Precedes First Clash on Floor.

Speaker Clark Turns Against Party Leader at Crisis.

Washington, March 27.—President Wilson won the first battle of his fight to repeal the Panama tolls exemption today when the house, by a vote of 207 to 176, refused to continue discussion on the rule to limit to twenty hours the debate on the Sims bill.

At 1:15 o'clock Chairman Henry demanded a vote on the "previous question" and that brought the first part of the fight to a decisive point. Chairman Henry's motion for the previous question was adopted 207 to 176, and thus the house voted to shut off debate on the rule. Party lines were eliminated in the vote.

The balloting was preceded by an hour of impassioned speechmaking.

The special rule then was adopted, 200 to 172.

That put the Sims bill to repeal the exemption squarely before the house for twenty hours' debate and protected against intervening motions and amendments.

Vote on Previous Question.

The Democrats who voted against "the previous question," and thus against the administration, were:

Aiken, Brockson, Broussard, Bruckner, Caraway, Carew, Conry, Dale, Dietrich, Difendorfer, Donohoe, Dooling, Doremus, Driscoll, Dupre, Eagan, Elder, Finley, Fitzgerald, Gorman, Goulden, Graham, Illinois; Griffin, Harrison, Helm, Igoe, Jones, Kindel, Kirkpatrick, Lee of Pennsylvania; L'Engle, Logue, McAndrews, McDermott, Mahan, Maher, Mitchell, Morgan of Louisiana; Murray of Massachusetts; Murray of Oklahoma; O'Leary, O'Shaughnessy, Patten of New York; Phelan, Ragsdale, Raker, Sherwood, Stone, Taylor of Arkansas; Taylor of Colorado; Thomas, Underwood, Williams, Wingo and Speaker Clark—total, 55.

Republicans who voted for the previous question on the roll call, but changed his vote to "present" just before the result was announced.

Republicans who voted for the previous question and the administration were:

Bartholdt, Browne of Wisconsin, Gardner of Massachusetts, McKenzie, Madden, Steenerson, Stevens of Minnesota and Gillett of Massachusetts—total, 8.

The house disposed of routine business in less than ten minutes this morning and the rule to limit the Panama tolls debate to twenty hours was taken up.

There was no change in the senate in the status of the repeal bill there, which rests with the canal committee, awaiting developments in the house.

Senator Chamberlain, leading repeal opponent in the senate, was elated at the situation in the house.

"I was lonely when I started this fight," he said, "but we are gaining strength every day. It's going to be the old battle of '76 over again—the Tory element on one side and the masses of the people on the other."

Administration leaders continued to express confidence in the outcome of the controversy, predicting a substantial majority for the repeal. Some told the president today that they would have a majority of fifty on the rule.

Planned the Fight.

Administration leaders in the house went into executive session with Representative Adamson to plan the fight. Those who attended were Representatives Sherley, Adamson, Hardwick,

WOMAN 70 YEARS OLD WOULD KEEP OFFICE

Goes to Tell Wilson Enemies Seek New Postmaster.

Washington, March 27.—Miss Mattie R. Tyler, 70 years old, a granddaughter of Former President Tyler, went to the White House today to plead with President Wilson to continue her as postmaster at Courtland, Va.

Miss Tyler, who has held the post seventeen years, says she supports herself and sister on the salary of $650 a year, but that now "a clique of Virginia politicians" is trying to deprive her of the position. She did not see the president, who was occupied with the cabinet, but left a note asking for an engagement, which will be granted.

The postoffice department several years ago recommended another to succeed her, but she successfully pleaded in person with President Roosevelt.

GOES IN WHEEL CHAIR TO VOTE UPON TOLLS

CLAUDE L'ENGLE.

Washington, March 27.—Representative L'Engle of Florida, invalid, was wheeled into the house chamber today in his wheelchair and placed just to the right of the speaker's rostrum, so he could take part in the canal tolls disposition.

BROUGHT HOUSE TO FIRST VOTE IN TOLLS FIGHT

REPRESENTATIVE R. L. HENRY Of Texas.

MILLIONS PAID TO SETTLE FILM FIGHT

Eastman and Ansco Companies Effect an Agreement.

New York, March 27.—Representatives of the Eastman Kodak company and the Ansco company today confirmed the report that a money settlement, the amount of which they would not state, had been agreed upon in the matter of the Goodwin patent, over which the concerns fought for years until the Federal court of appeals recently decided in favor of the Ansco company.

It was said representatives of both concerns had agreed to keep the amount a secret. The suit involved the use of the Goodwin patent, claimed by the Ansco company, since 1898, and covers all cartridge films, film packs and cinematograph films made by the Eastman company.

It was said that the widow of Rev. Hannibal Goodwin, who invented the process, will receive a substantial sum as her share of the settlement. Mrs. Goodwin is 86 years old and lives in Newark, N. J.

The settlement will do away with an accounting by the Eastman company, which might have been forced to pay a royalty on every film it sold in the last fifteen years. By the terms of the settlement, it is understood, the Eastman company secures permission to manufacture the films under patent. Estimates of the amount paid in settlement run into the millions.

KELSEY CHASE WILL RESIGN STATE JOB

Bank Examiner May Head New Institution, It Is Said.

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kelsey Chase, state bank examiner, will resign his position within the next few days, and in all probability will be made president of the new People's State bank, the organization of which will be completed in less than a month.

Mr. Chase spent an hour with Governor Eberhart, at which time it is believed he told the governor of his decision.

Some of the St. Paul stockholders of the new banking institution, meeting last night, were told by Mr. Chase that he would make his resignation public in two or three days, after Governor Eberhart had had opportunity to decide upon a successor.

STRIKERS EXPECT CLASH WITH COURT

Return to Camp Whence U. S. Marshals Evicted Them.

Colliers, W. Va., March 27.—Restless and excited, the striking miners of the West Virginia & Pittsburg Coal company who returned to their camp here yesterday after being ordered out of the state by deputy United States marshals, in accordance with the edict of Judge A. G. Dayton, today awaited further action by the Federal authorities.

Deputy Marshal Elzie Williams gave them to understand that the tents again would be removed, but took no action pending instructions from United States Marshal Ned Smith at Fairmont, W. Va. The new camp is located near the coal company's store, and is closely watched by deputy sheriffs of Brooke county.

SEEK ILLINOIS MAN'S BODY IN THE RIVER

I. H. Trowbridge Missing From Ottawa, Ill., Since March 10.

Ottawa, Ill., March 27.—Plans for a search of the banks and shallows of the Illinois river were made here today in addition to the other attempts that are being made to discover the whereabouts of I. H. Trowbridge, a business man here and former state representative from Marseilles, Ill., who has been missing since March 10.

Fears were entertained that Mr. Trowbridge met death in the river, as tracks were found leading to a bridge. Sanitariums and hospitals in Chicago have been visited by Masons, of which order Mr. Trowbridge is a member, and Masons throughout this part of the state have interested themselves in the search.

His family is unable to give any reason for his absence.

DEATH DUE TO AN ACCIDENT

John Gustafson Was Not Murdered, Coroner's Jury Finds.

The theory that John Gustafson, the Duluthian who was found dead at 1:30 o'clock last Tuesday morning near the South Shore railroad tracks near Tower avenue, in Superior, had been murdered, was exploded at the coroner's inquest last night, when Mrs. G. Rosentstein, proprietor of a second-hand store at 503 Tower avenue, testified that he had bought a revolver and a box of cartridges at her store Monday afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock.

After weighing all the evidence carefully the jury decided that Gustafson came to his death by the accidental discharge of the revolver while in his own hands.

According to A. Hagland, 2709 West Second street where Gustafson lived, the latter had been suffering from kidney trouble for a long time and had been taking several different remedies for the ailment.

According to evidence given by Harold Holms, an employe of the Superior Box factory, South Superior, and Jerry Ingwalson, a motorman on a South Superior car, and others, Gustafson had gone to South Superior Monday afternoon where he sold a knife to Holms. Gustafson is said to have told Holms that he was going to deliver a razor to Furdell, another employe at the box factory, but as the latter was not at work that afternoon, he would have to make the delivery at Furdell's residence near Twenty-eighth street and Tower avenue.

In Cheerful Mood.

Ingwalson testified that Gustafson returned from South Superior to Superior about 2:05 p. m. Mrs. Rosenstien said that Gustafson appeared cheerful when he bought the revolver and said that he would return and make another purchase. From the time he purchased the revolver until his body was found no account of his whereabouts could be learned. It was decided that Gustafson made an examination of the weapon and that it was accidentally discharged.

J. E. Flynn, one of the coroner's jury said the night before he was called to serve on the jury, he had continually dreamed of dead persons. He said he abhorred corpses and had not seen one in six years.

Estate and Funeral.

As the deceased had made no will, his estate, which amounts to about $2,500, will be given to his only living relative, his sister in Sweden. Members of the jury who decided the cause of death are E. C. Wilbur, foreman; H. E. Juberg, J. E. Flynn, A. Kelly, B. Beeth and M. H. Giffen.

Funeral services for the deceased will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Downs undertaking rooms. Interment will be in the Greenwood cemetery. Members from the Superior lodge and Golden Encampment of Odd Fellows and the Knights of Phythias will have charge of the arrangements.

WILL MOVE RIFLE RANGE.

Decision Reached By Col. Resche and Mayor Prince.

The rifle range of the Minnesota National Guard on Duluth Heights, which residents of the West end have complained about, will be removed within another year, according to a decision arrived at yesterday in a conference between Col. F. E. Resche and Mayor Prince. The action was taken following the passing of resolutions by the West End Hillside Improvement club, and the Fifth Ward Improvement club, in which members stated that the range was a menace to public safety.

Col. Resche expects to have another location secured for a rifle range for the National Guardsmen within another year. Several locations are said to be in view, among these being places outside of the city limits northwest of Chester park and places east of Lakeside.

ANOTHER APPEAL FOR FIRE HALL

Improvement Club Wants Building Near the Ore Docks.

Members of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club will again take up the proposition of asking the city to build a fire hall in that part of the city which will serve the district in the neighbzorhood of the ore docks. The members say that a building costing about $1,000 and equipment costing about the same amount will serve the purpose.

Recommendations that the building be erected on the city's property on Thirty-ninth and Traverse street will be made. This property, say the residents, is situated near the heart of the district, and from that point it would be easy to reach any part of the territory.

The club will have its next meeting on April 3 at the Merritt school. In addition to considering the fire hall question the members will hear a report of its committee on the paving of Third street.

PETERSON FUNERAL WILL BE SATURDAY.

The funeral of John Peterson, 86 years old, who died yesterday morning at the home of his son, Carl Johnson, 730 North Twenty-fifth avenue west, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock from the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. Burial will be made in the Scandia cemetery.

Mr. Peterson is survived by two sons, Carl and Gust, both of this city. He has made his home with his son in the West end for the past eighteen years.

Funeral Saturday.

Funeral services for Elvine Nyman, the 11-year-old daughter of Leander Nyman, 2711 Helm street, who died Wednesday, will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. from the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church. Rev. C. G. Olson will officiate. Burial will be made in Lutheran cemetery.

Basket Ball Game.

The Spaa club girls' backetball team will play a return game with the Cooper alumni quintet in the Spaa club gymnasium this evening. The first game with the Superior team took place a week ago when the locals were defeated by a score of 17 to 4.

West End Briefs.

Jennie Margaret Schelb of Fond du Lac, the youthful pianist who will appear in a recital this evening at the Woodmen hall, is a guest ot the home of Mrs. Geaorge Jewell, 16 U. S. block.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pinger of St. Paul are guests at the home of Mrs. Pinger's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips, 414 Nineteenth and a Half avenue west.

Clarence E. Peterson of Vernon street, left yesterday for St. Paul, where he will spend two weeks visiting relatives.

Peter S. Paulson of Edmonton, Sask., Can., former resident of the West end is spending a few days in this end of the city renewing acquaintances.

Elmer Kogan of Allandale, Minn., is visiting relatives in this end of the city.

MUNICIPAL STORE HAS LITTLE TRADE.

Chicago, March 27.—Chicago's municipal store, where the needy were to purchase supplies at cost, has done a daily average business of $9.11 since it opened on Feb. 19, according to a statement by the city comptroller's office. Advocates of the enterprise admit that it has failed to fill any long felt want.

The store does not make deliveries and a rigid investigation is made of each prospective customer. These are the reasons advanced by Joseph Meyer, county agent, for the lack of a more extensive patronage. Many persons would rather trade elsewhere than to be looked upon by the county as though they were charitable patients, said Mr. Meyer.

The city council appropriated $25,000 for the operation of the store this year.

OFFICERS GO ON WILD-GOOSE CHASE

Richland, Mo., Forger Suspect Does Prove to Be Wrong Man.

Chief of Police Troyer and Deputy Sheriff McDonald found the wrong man at Richland, Mo., when they went there during last week to bring C. Howe, an alleged forger, back to Duluth to answer to the charge of having passed a forged check on the City National bank on March 4. A telegram was received at headquarters yesterday afternoon from Chief Troyer to the effect that their trip was a wild-goose chase and that they will be home tomorrow.

About a week ago a man giving his name as C. Howe was arrested by the Richland authorities and immediately the local police were notified. The American Bankers' association had sent out notices throughout the country requesting the apprehension of a man using the name of C. Howe on cashiers' checks on the specific charge of having forged a check on the local bank.

Chief Troyer sent a description of the man wanted here, and the Richland authorities wired back that the man under arrest there exactly fitted the description. Chief Troyer left for the Missouri city to bring the prisoner to Duluth. When he reached there Monday he learned that the man under arrest refused to go to Minnesota, and Deputy Sheriff McDonald was then sent to St. Paul, where he secured extradition papers from the governor, and on Tuesday left for Jefferson City to present these papers to Governor Major.

Yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff McDonald arrived at Richland, and upon investigation it was learned that the wrong man was being held for the local authorities. The suspect was arrested at Richland while attempting to cash a check, and it is probable that he will be arraigned in the Missouri city this week.

Chief Troyer and Deputy Sheriff McDonald are expected back tomorrow morning.

KEINZE AND OTHERS ARE TO BE EXAMINED

Apparent Shrinkage in Copper Company Assets Is Reported.

New York, March 27. — Maurice Deiches, receiver of the Aetna Indemnity company, which has a suit pending against the United Copper company, has obtained from Judge Hough in the Federal district court an order for the examination of F. Augustus Heinze, John W. McKinnon and John McGinnis before a special examiner for the purpose of attempting to unearth alleged assets. Receiver Deiches said that he had been informed that the United Copper company, just before the receivership, deposited $150,000 in a Montana bank to pay dividends to the preferred stockholders, and also that he had been unable to obtain satisfactory information regarding the apparent shrinkage of the assets of the United Copper company.

DUELLING BILL IS PASSED AT BERLIN.

Berlin, March 27.—By unanimous vote, the imperial parliament passed a bill providing that where a duel or a challenge to a duel has been provoked by dishonorable conduct, the offender shall be liable to imprisonment in a penitentiary instead of confinement in a fortress. The bill gives the courts discretionary power to deprive the offender of his civil rights.

This is the first occasion on which all the parties in the imperial parliament have been united on a measure to discourage duelling.

THIEF RIVER FALLS STORE BURGLARIZED

Watches, Revolvers, a Violin and Safety Razor Taken.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tuesday morning when A. Goldstein, who has a second-hand furniture store on First street east, opened up his establishment, he found that some one had broken into his store by the way of one of the side windows and had made off with numerous articles. He telephoned the chief of police to come down and investigate the matter. It was found that five watches, three revolvers, a violin and a safety razor were missing. The burglar made his escape through the back door, which was found open.

Mr. Goldstein had left the store Monday evening shortly after 9 o'clock, at which time everything was all right.

The violin, which was stolen, had been sold on Monday afternoon and was left in the store to be called for later. Mr. Goldstein had to refund the money to the purchaser.

Tomorrow last day of the "Golden Rule" bankrupt sale in the Columbia basement.

den, British minister to Mexico, today canceled his booking on board the Mauretania on which he was to sail from Liverpool tomorrow for New York on his return to Mexico City.

It is understood there is a possibility of Sir Lionel going direct to Rio de Janeiro to take up his post as minister to Brazil, instead of returning to Mexico. Nothing, however, has been definitely decided as to his future movements.

The only statement the foreign office would authorize was that Sir Lionel's passage to New York has been canceled and that no date has been fixed for his return to Mexico City.

Will Dismantle Tampico.

Douglas, Ariz., March 27.—Bottled up in the harbor of Topolobampo, the gunboat Tampico is to be dismantled by the Mexican Constitutionalists, according to advices that have reached here. The vessel's guns will be used on land in defense of Topolobampo, or sent to assist in prospective attacks upon Guaymas.

Since the Tampico entered the harbor of Topolobampo two Federal gunboats, the Guerrero and Morelos, have stood outside, awaiting an opportunity to sink her. It is reported that Federals are preparing to make a vigorous attempt to retake Topolobampo.

Two thousand Federals are said to have arrived at Tepic from Manzanillo and are ready to give battle to Gen. Obregon, in the hope of checking the Constitutionalist commander's advance southward.

WILSON WINS FIRST ROUND IN BATTLE FOR REPEAL OF TOLLS ACT

Foster, Flood, Henry, Covington, Sims, Hay and Palmer.

It was decided to center the attack on the attitude of Speaker Clark. The time was divided between Representative Adamson and Representative Hardwick, the former to make some discussion of the bill, but the latter to devote his speech entirely to a reply to Speaker Clarks statement of last night. This statement read:

"I am dead against the rule on the tolls question, and intend to vote against it. I will not stultify myself by voting for any such rule. I led the fight to liberalize the rules and practices of the house, thereby imperilling my political future. We won that long and bitter fight, and it was the first Democratic victory in eighteen years. Time and time again I declared that I would not advocate a thing when in the minority that I would not advocate when in the majority.

"On such an important and far-reaching measure there should have been at least a week for debate, with the unlimited right of amendment. Surely there is nothing sacred about the Sims bill, and there is no reason for this mad rush. I will not be a party to ramming such a rule down the throats of members."

"Clark vs. Wilson."

Some congressmen professed the view that the fight had taken the aspect of a contest between the president and Speaker Clark. They expected the speaker might take the floor to personally lead the fight on the rule, or might reserve his attack for the bill itself, unless forced to the floor to defend himself.

The galleries filled early. Mrs. Clark had a seat in the speaker's gallery.

An outburst of applause and shouting greeted Speaker Clark as he ascended the rostrum promptly at noon. He stilled the tumult, and the house rose as the chaplain prayed.

Speaker Clark warned the floor and galleries that an "acrimonious and exciting debate like this" should call for perfect order. He had some difficulty in quieting the house, but finally succeeded.

Representative Sherwood, Democrat, of Ohio, was the first speaker. He urged an amendment to dismantle the fortifications of the canal and absolutely neutralize it.

That Baltimore Plank.

The administration forces opened their fight in a 12-minute speech by Representative Adamson. He referred to the arguments in favor of the tolls exemption as "claptrap, poppycock and delusion." The Democratic platform pledge favoring exemption, Representative Adamson said, was written into the platform by "one of the leading friends of exemption." The chairman of the resolutions committee, he said, "was busy watching Tammany Hall and Wall Street for the protection of the people, but seems like he watched the wrong man."

As to the present foreign situation and its relation to the demand for the repeal, Representative Adamson said: "Who knows what the situation at this time may be, better than the president, who is peculiarly charged under the Constitution with responsibility for foreign affairs? Whoever fights this repeal now not only fights the honest equality and domestic economy of the government, and if disaster results he must take his place and share the odium and responsibility for whatever disaster may come."

Mr. Adamson declared he and Chairman Henry had conferred with Speaker Clark as to the drawing of the rule, and "understood that he approved it."

Republican Yielded to Underwood.

After more debate Representative Underwood held a whispered conference with Speaker Clark at the desk, and returned to his seat smiling. As he did so, Representative Campbell, leading the fight on the rule for the Republicans, surprised the house by yielding to Representative Underwood. The house burst into cheers, which continued vigorously for several moments.

As the house quieted down Mr. Underwood began:

"I am opposed to this bill, and naturally I am opposed to the rule for its consideration. I regret that the bill is before the house. I hope it will be defeated. But the president having laid this important question before the house, I believe it should be considered in the proper way.

Sticks to Platform.

"I have always endeavored to sustain my party's platform. I believe this plank of the platform is right. Believing this, there is but one position I can take; that is, to sustain the position expressed in my party's platform.

"I regret that I differ with the president of the United States and am compelled to differ with my colleagues here, but I say if we are to make a mistake in this matter, let it be one mistake. Let us not turn our faces against the battery that made a Democratic majority in this house first possible. There are fifty Democrats in this house today whose seats would be occupied by Republicans if it were not for the Democratic fight in the Sixty-first congress against the power of cloture."

Pleaded For Minority.

The Democratic leader contended for the right of the minority to be heard and offer amendments, and said he would agree to a rule to make the bill in order.

"With the bill thus before the house, the gentleman in charge could at any time move the previous question, and if he had a majority with him could cut off debate," said he.

"I do not question your honesty, but you are making a serious mistake if you adopt this rule, and I would not be worthy of the commission you have given me as your leader if I did not have the courage to stand here and tell you so," he concluded.

Mr. Underwood again was cheered as he took his seat, and that seemingly closed the debate against the rule.

Representative Hardwick, Democrat, of Georgia, then was recognized to close the debate for its adoption.

Doctrine Above Platform.

"The gentleman from Alabama appeals to his colleagues on this side to support a Democratic platform," said Representative Hardwick. "I appeal to you to support Democratic doctrine as it has been since the time of Jefferson, and this provision which we propose to repeal is no more Democratic doctrine than if you wrote a high protective tariff plank into a Democratic platform."

Turning toward the speaker's dais, and pointing toward Speaker Clark, Mr. Hardwick shouted:

"The distinguished gentleman from Missouri, whom we all love, joined last night in an eleventh hour assault on the administration and his own party. I will ask the gentleman whether he does not know that if he tears Woodrow Wilson down, no Democrat can stand? Doesn't he realize that he must support this administration or be turned into the wilderness for forty years more?"

As Mr. Hardwick concluded, Chairman Henry moved "the previous question," and a roll call was ordered.

DECIPHER RECORDS OF NEBUCHADNEZZAR

Babylonian Students Open Research Avenues at Yale University.

New Haven, Conn., March 27.—Inscriptions on clay cylinders in the Babylonian collection at Yale university have been deciphered, it was announced today, and much information for students of biblical chronology has been obtained.

One cylinder inscribed for Nebuchadnezzar, who reigned B. C. 605 to 561, recounts his deeds with reference to the restoration and enlargement of the walls and moats of Babylon, and of temples and sanctuaries thereabouts. He records the rebuilding of Marchuk, recognized as the ancient Tower of Babel of the Book of Genesis.

Nebuchadnezzar adds, according to the translation:

"I sought and found the foundation stone of the temple of Lugal-Marada, my deity, and laid it upon the foundation stone of Naram-Sin, King, my ancient ancestor."

"Greatest Builder."

This ancestor presumably lived 3,000 years before Nebuchadnezzar. Uaram-Sin was the builder of Babylon and perhaps the greatest builder of all history. The Nebuchadnezzar cylinder was found near Nippur, on the Euphrates.

Another cylinder found by Arabs at the same site bears an inscription of Naram-Sin, and is probably one of the actual foundation stones of the temple of Lugal-Marada in Murad. The inscription says that Naram-Sin subduced nine hostile armies in a year and carried three of their kings bound before the god, Enlil. The record ends: "Whoever alters this inscribed stone, may the gods Shamash and Lugal-Marada destroy his estate and exterminate his seed."

"MUY SIMPATICO" IS ROOSEVELT'S LATEST

Natives of South America Have Given Him New Name.

New York, March 27.—"Muy Simpatico," or, literally, "Very Sympathetic," is the name by which Col. Theodore Roosevelt has become known in the regions of South America he has traversed on his trip. Frank Harper, the colonel's secretary, revealed this when he landed in this port yesterday from South America via London, bringing with him a tortoise for the New York zoological park and five cases of material for the museum of natural history, containing skins of mammals and a number of birds.

"The natives refer to Mr. Roosevelt in that way," he said. "They think he is a very fine fellow."

Col. Roosevelt, said Mr. Harper, should reach the mouth of the Amazon river in about two weeks, and expect to be back home some time in April.

Born in New Hampshire.

Boston, Mass., March 27.—A native of Hillsboro, N. H., Benjahin Franklin Keith, the vaudeville magnate who died at Palm Beach last night, had lived in New England all his life. Mr. Keith originated the "continuous performance" in vaudeville in this city in 1885. He began his career as proprietor of a small museum here two years earlier.

MOHAWK MINERS GET ULTIMATUM

Must Surrender Union Cards If They Want to Work.

Calumet, Mich., March 27.—A proposal submitted by a committee representing the men on strike at the Mohawk mine, offering to return to work if permitted to retain memberships in the Western Federation of Miners, was declined today by General Manager Dengler of the Mohawk.

Dengler declared the strikers must give up their union cards if they would return to work.

B. F. KEITH DIES SUDDENLY IN SOUTH.

Palm Beach, Fla., March 27.—B. F. Keith of Brookline, Mass., vaudeville magnate, dropped dead of heart failure at his hotel here at midnight last night.

Mr. Keith was 67 years of age, and apparently had been in the best of health. Mrs. Keith and Paul Keith, a son, were with him here. Mr. Keith and his son, Paul, had been discussing business matters in their apartments, and the latter, stepping outside for a moment, returned to find his father dead. The body will be taken to Boston.

Mr. Keith was married to Miss Ethel Bird Chase in Washington, D. C., on Oct. 29 last. They were spending the winter here.

UNEMPLOYED PASS THROUGH DENVER.

Denver, Colo., March 27.—One hundred and six unemployed men of "Gen." Kelley's unemployed army en route to Washington, D. C., reached the outskirts of Denver last night. They were met between Englewood and Denver by a squad of police. Tramway cars were waiting to convey the "army" into Denver and the city jail.

The men, however, pleaded hard to be allowed to continue their eastward journey, and declared they would leave at once. Accordingly they were taken to Alyria park in the suburbs, fed with beef stew, bread and coffee and escorted a mile out of town on their eastward journey. A guard was left with them to see that they really carried out their promise.

Two of the men whose homes are in Denver were allowed to remain here.

Got Five Recruits.

Colorado Springs, Colo., March 27.—"Are you hungry?" asked some one in the crowd of spectators at the station as the unemployed army passed through here en route from Pueblo to Denver.

"Yes," came the reply in a dozen or more voices.

"Well, here's something for you to digest," said the questioner. He threw a bundle of Socialist newspapers into the car as the train pulled out.

Five recruits to the army were added here.

BURNED BABY TO DECEIVE HUSBAND.

Chicago, March 27.—That Mrs. Annie Azombek, 22 years old, burned her baby in a kitchen stove to conceal the fact of its birth from her husband, who had been in Poland two years, is charged by the police, who arrested her. Mrs. Azombek admitted the child had been disposed of in this manner, but asserted Mrs. Frances Hreckos, who rooms with her, placed the infant, still living, on the coals. Mrs. Hreckos, who is the mother of three children, was charged with being an accessory.

Prophecy Nearly Right.

Springfield, Ill., March 27. — After waiting for many weeks for death, which he predicted would come to him on his 60th birthday anniversary, basing his expected end on the fact that both his father and grandfather had expired at 60, having also prophesied their deaths, George Bickel died at Pana yesterday one day behind schedule.

LARGE PARTY IS DEPORTED

Five Aliens From Duluth and Range Join Fifty-Seven Others.

Authorities Make Cleanup of Undesirables in Many Cities.

The five aliens from Duluth and the range towns, who were taken to Chicago last week by Brown McDonald, local immigration inspector, helped make up the largest single consignment of white slavers, women of evil reputation and persons likely to become public charges ever sent East for deportation. The party, which is to be deported today and tomorrow on ships leaving New York and Philadelphia, numbers thirty men and thirty-two women.

The sixty-two aliens were assembled in Chicago from all parts of the West under the direction of Inspector Mark L. Crawford, who took the party East with the assistance of Special Officer George Schubert of the Chicago division of the United States immigration service, and Mrs. Mary A. Boyd, Chicago's first policewoman, who acted as matron for the women members of the party.

The deportations represent a concerted movement on the part of the immigration authorities to free the West of its undesirable characters. For several months the immigration authorities have been securing evidence concerning the unlawful admission of immoral women into American ports. Their findings were checked with the police records at Chicago, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Denver, Duluth, Superior, Detroit and other lake ports.

Two special cars were used to take the men and women from Chicago. One girl, Hester Johnson, the youngest member of the party, is less than 14 years old, and in a stay of less than a year in Chicago she has been before the police on several occasions. Just before the train reached Philadelphia yesterday she attempted to jump from the rear platform.

Among the five aliens taken from Duluth, there were Marino Paparelli and his wife, Rebecca, who were arrested at Virginia last December. The latter was found in a resort, and upon investigation it was learned that Paparelli had been living on his wife's earnings. It was planned at first to bring a charge of white slavery against him, but this was changed and the deportation of the pair was decided upon. Although they came here from Canada, the authorities there refused to take them back and they are to be sent to Italy. The other three are men, two of them brothers. They were arrested on the range and are to be sent back to Finland.

Two of the party sent from Chicago, Florence Tyler and Frankie Miller, notorious women of the Chicago underworld, are to be shipped today from Philadelphia, while the remaining sixty have been sent on to New York and will be shipped from there tomorrow.

WANTS NEW LAW ON CUSTOMS APPEALS

Administration Would Carry 5 Per Cent Clause to High Court.

Washington, March 27.—Administration officials are determined that the validity of the 5 percent clause of the present tariff law, granting a 5 per cent discount on goods imported in American bottoms, shall be passed upon by the supreme court, and not finally settled judicially by the court of custom appeals, now the final arbiter in customs cases. Within the next few weeks a determined effort will be made in congress to enact legislation which will permit appeals to the supreme court from the customs court in important cases. Attorney General McReynolds has recommended such legislation, and members of the judiciary committees of both houses are understood to favor it.

Attorney General Overruled.

The board of general appraisers in New York recently decided that the discount must be granted, after the attorney general had rendered an opinion that it should not be allowed because, under favored nation treaties with other nations, goods imported in ships of those nations must be given a like discount, which would have the effect of granting a 5 per cent reduction on practically everything imported into the country.

The board held that the discount was applicable only to goods brought by American ships, and the importers have appealed to the court of customs appeals on that part of the decision. No appeal has been filed by the government, but it is expected that William L. Wemple of New York, the assistant attorney general in charge of customs cases, will take such action within a few weeks.

Must Hurry Up.

The customs court will meet again in May, and in the ordinary course of business the discount case would come up at that time, so unless congress acts quickly it may be decided and out of the way before legislation providing for an appeal to the highest court can be enacted.

GIVES BASIS FOR FAIR DEATH CLAIM

Washington Supreme Court Bases Decision on Laborer's Wages.

Olympia, Wash., March 27.—The state supreme court, in reducing from $17,500 to $10,000 a superior court verdict obtained by Mrs. Jennie Graham against a company in whose sawmill her husband, Eugene F. Graham was killed, holds that the award was excessive, because interest on $17,000 would amount to more than Graham's earnings as a laborer at $2.75 a day.

STEEL BUSINESS AGAIN IMPROVES

Market Is "Waiting" and Inclined to Greater Activity.

After having shown a slowing down tendency over a period of two or three weeks owing to a decline in the volume of new business, the situation in the steel trade in the Chicago and Pittsburg districts is said to be improving more especially in the way of structural steel and the smaller lines of products.

It is intimated that the Farrell, Pa., mills of the United States Steel corporation will again operate at normal capacity next week. The plate mill of the Carnegie Steel company has resumed and eleven of its open-hearth furnaces as well as the three blast furnaces, coking ovens and bar mills will also be in operation within ten days. The Hall blast furnace of the Republic Iron & Steel company has just been blown in. This was the last of the company's furnaces to start.

Touching upon the situation in the steel trade, John A. Topping, chairman of the Republic Iron & Steel company is quoted as follows in the course of an interview in the Wall Street Journal:

"I see nothing alarming or discouraging in the steel situation, although it is admitted that the market lacks 'snap' and is somewhat disappointing so far as current volume of new business is concerned. Present conditions, however, are substantially better than they were in December, both as to price and volume. The industry as a whole, I think, will show an operation for March close to an average of 75 per cent to 80 per cent of ingot capacity. Some mills will establish records above and others below these figures.

"The technical position of the market is encouraging as stocks are generally speaking, normal or less. Material ordered seems to be urgently wanted, many buyers continuing the hand-to-mouth policy heretofore pursued with respect to purchases. Some stimulus unquestionably will be given demand as soon as the country roads are in more passable condition for travel through the farming districts, and until this condition exists the usual activities in the way of spring repairs in the farming sections cannot be put in motion.

"In general, the market may be characterized as a waiting one with a disposition to activity, as all it needs is some reassuring or good news from Washington, Mexico or Europe to galvanize it into activity."

NEWS STAND IS BURGLARIZED

Burglars broke into the Lyceum News Stand, 16 Fifth avenue west, some time during the night and took $26.50 from the cash register and a drawer. Nothing else was missing this morning, according to Charles M. Cohen, proprietor of the store.

The burglars gained entrance into the store by breaking through an alley window. Large strings of pennants and fancy pillow covers, which were hanging over and around the window were torn by the burglars in breaking into the store. The men took $3.50 from the cash register and $23 from a cigar box in a drawer underneath the cigar stand.

Mr. Cohen believes that the burglary was committed by some men acquainted with his store and who knew where he kept his cash. He reported the burglary to the police upon discovering it when he opened his store at 7 o'clock this morning.

The association put itself on record as opposed to solicitors.

SIMPSON DEATH PROBE IS CLOSED.

Lexington, Ky., March 27.—The bullet wound that caused the death of Mrs. Laura Wilder Simpson, former Chicago society girl, who died here on Feb. 23 under what appeared to be peculiar circumstances, was inflicted at close range, according to the official report of two Chicago pathologists and a local physician. The report also said that no marks of violence were found on the body.

Mrs. Simpson was found on Feb. 22 by her husband, at their home here, with a bullet wound through the head. She died the following day without regaining consciousness, and two coroner's juries rendered non-committal verdicts, although both held that the case was not one of suicide.

The husband, Laurence Simpson, insisted on an investigation by a special grand jury. Circuit Judge Kerr held that the evidence did not warrant such action, but promised to bring the case up before the regular grand jury next month. Last Saturday night two pathologists from Chicago exhumed the body, and with the assistance of a Lexington physician made an examination, the report of which has just been made public. Local officials state that they consider the case closed. Mrs. Simpson was the daughter of Dr. W. H. Wilder of Chicago.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED HAWTHORNE'S MATE.

New York, March 27.—Albert Freeman, who was convicted with Julian Hawthorne and Dr. W. J. Morton of using the United States mails to defraud investors, and sentenced to five years in the Atlanta prison, has been granted a new trial by Judge Mayer in the Federal district court. In his decision, Judge Mayer stated that the new trial was granted because Michael Kehoe, who served in the case, was an improper juror in that he had "a prejudicial bias."

Freeman, who was sentenced a year ago, has been at liberty under $50,000 bail pending his appeal. Hawthorne and Morton, convicted by the same jury, served sentences of a year, which were subsequently commuted.

AFRICA FOR THE NEGROES

Bishop Heard Urges Claims of the Republic of Liberia.

White Men Cannot Vote or Even Own Land There.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27.—Whatever disadvantage the negro may suffer on account of color-caste prejudice in this country, there is at least one place in the world where he is both alpha and omega, where his color is an advantage and his race a blessing. That is in Liberia, West Coast Africa. Liberia is the panacea that will cure all ills from which the black man suffers in this country, as well as in Africa. This is at least the view expressed by Bishop William H. Heard, of the African Methodist Episcopal church, who returned to his home in this city after six years' residence in the Republic of Liberia.

Bishop Heard was United States minister resident and consul general under Presidents Cleveland and McKinley from 1895 to 1899. It was during these years that he became convinced and strongly advocated that the best way to solve the problem of race antagonism in this country was the deuortation of the American negroes to Liberia. Of this fact he is equally sanguine today, and he claims his idea is strengthened by the rapid growth and progress made by the people of Liberia along educational and Christian development.

Wants Industrial School.

The object of the present visit of Bishop Heard to this country is to complete plans for the establishment of a large and more thoroughly equipped industrial school modeled after the one of which Booker T. Washington is the head at Tuskegee, Ala. In speaking of his plans, Bishop Heard said:

"After years of contact with the native African, what he needs most today in order to civilize him is not so much Bible theory as practical manual training and to be taught the dignity of labor. Liberia has a population of 2,000,000 natives, foreign-born negroes from America and the West Indies included in this number. Thirty thousand are civilized, and about 52,-600 semi-civilized.

"For an industrial school like that of Hampton or Tuskegee no race appeals so strongly to the Christian world as the natives of Africa for this sort of aid—Christian education—and to no people do they make this appeal with so strong a right as to the Afro-American. No race was ever so plainly marked to help the natives of Africa. God never more plainly designated two classes to march together hand in hand to the working out of their own destiny.

Conversion Must Be Hastened.

"The longer the conversion of Africa is delayed, the harder and slower it will be in the end for the church of Christ to do its best and most effective work. Hence I deem it our duty here in America to do that work. The natives of Liberia less than a century ago were like the aboriginal Indian in America.

"Civilization may mean either his continued enlightenment or ruin. The only thing that can save him is Christianity and industrial education, and this is what is intended to be given the native African in the industrial school, which has already been established at Freetown, in charge of the Reverend Harvey C. Knight, an Afro-American, graduate of Lincoln university.

"The school, although under the management of the African Methodist Episcopal church, is being encouraged and receiving some little support from the Liberian government. The school is an absolute necessity. We are training the natives to become instructors, for they have an advantage in teaching the African, as there are several dialects spoken which are difficult for the foreigner to master intelligently. This, you see, is an advantage over outside missionary workers, and to this difficulty the native is the key."

Officials All Black.

The form of government in Liberia is modeled after that of the United States, with a president, vice president, cabinet officers, senate, legislature and judiciary, all of whom are black men, descendants of Afro-Americans or natives, many educated and trained in institutions of learning in Liberia. The present president, Daniel E. Howard, was educated in Liberia and is the son of a former slave from Norfolk, Va. The seat of government is located at Monrovia, a city of 10,-000 inhabitants, where there is located also the United States legation, consulates of France, Germany, England, Spain and Central America. Most of these governments have large commercial interests, which give the city of Monrovia quite a modern form of civilization, notwithstanding the climate is very unhealthy, caused from the lack of proper sanitation, hospitals and poor water supply.

The Constitution forbids the right of any white man to own real estate or vote in Liberia. This prohibition, therefore, makes Liberia the one spot, at least, where the black man discriminates against a man on account of his color.

BOUNDARY LINE AGAIN DISPUTED

Edward Swenson Would Know to Which State He Pays Taxes.

Contending that government dredging operations in the St. Louis river channel did not change the boundary line between Minnesota and Wisconsin, Edward Swenson, owner of an undivided one-half interest in lots which flank the river in Ironton, Fourth division, maintains that he still owns but 12.8 acres on the Minnesota side instead of 45.06 acres, as figured by the taxing officials, who placed the property on the assessment rolls on this basis.

In district court yesterday Swenson filed an answer to the delinquent real estate tax proceedings against him. He asks that the county auditor be directed by the court to apportion the delinquent taxes of 1912 on a basis of actual area only to the main channel of the river and allow him to pay his proportion. Swenson asserts that if the courts finally decide that his position is wrong and that the boundary line was changed by the dredging operations, the amount due from him could be put on the rolls as omitted taxes.

The question of whether the dredging of the river several years ago operated to change the boundary between the states from the center of the old main channel to the center of the new main channel has been dragging in the courts for some time. The United States district court has held that the dredging of the channel operated to shift the boundary, but this decision was reversed in the United States circuit court of appeals. The matter has been appealed to the United States supreme court for final decision.

Swenson wants his tax reduced from $572 to $168.66.

MOTHER LOSES BY FINDING OF WILL

Discovery of Last Document Deprives Parent of Estate.

Discovery of a document purporting to be the will of Edgar Day, who died Dec. 24, 1912, at Edmonton, Alberta, Can., will deprive the dead man's mother, Ellen Day, Bowerchalke, Wiltshire, Eng., from any share in the estate. Had not the will been found, the mother would have received the entire estate.

Day left property valued at $1,871 in St. Louis county. Believing that Day died intestate, the late Henry Taylor, British vice consul, petitioned the probate court to appoint Jacob Day, a brother, as administrator of the affairs of the estate.

The brother was appointed administrator of the estate and had almost wound up the affairs, when the instrument purporting to be the will of the dead man was found. J. R. Brooks, who is named as executor petitioned the court yesterday afternoon to admit the will and confirm his appointment as executor.

The mother in England is left out in the will. The instrument provides that two brothers shall each receive $500 and that the remainder of the estate shall go to his sister. None is mentioned by name in the will which was dated Dec. 21, 1912, three days before his death. The will, which is brief, reads as follows:

"Last will and wishes of Edward Day. 'I appoint J. R. Brooks, my administrator. I have a team, harness and wagon and money in the Imperial bank. To each of my brothers I bequeath $500 each. The remainder of my estate I bequeath to my sister.'"

LOEBS NOT LIABLE.

Get Favorable Decree From Jury in Injury Case.

The L. S. & S. Loeb company, owners of the Canal block, Lake avenue south, is held not responsible for injuries which Anton Johnson received on April 3, 1911, when he fell down the stairway of the building.

Johnson, alleging that the stairs were out of repair and defective, sued for $5,092 damages for the breaking of both bones of his left leg below the knee while attempting to descend. A jury in Judge Dancer's division of the district court yesterday afternoon returned a verdict for the defendant company, the owner of the premises. The jury visited the scene of the accident yesterday morning.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC REVENUES SHRINK.

San Francisco, March 27.—For the eight months ending Feb. 28, 1914, the Southern Pacific company showed a decrease in gross revenue of $3,201,127, and a decrease in the revenue in excess of operating expenses and taxes of $4,506,748.

During the same period there was an increase in operating expenses of $493,663, an increase in taxes of $811,-957, and an increase in total expenses and taxes of $1,305,620.

For the single month of February, 1914, as against the corresponding month in 1913, the decrease in gross revenue was $602,819 and the decrease in revenue above operating expenses and taxes was $464,810, while the increase in taxes was $77,879, and the increase in all expenses including taxes was $138,009.

MAY EXTEND STEEL CORPORATION CASE.

New York, March 27.—Prolongation until September or longer of the hearings in the government dissolution suit against the United States Steel corporation was threatened today when counsel for the government declared their intention to introduce into evidence the decision recently rendered against the corporation in the so-called tap-line cases.

The corporation's attorneys announced that if this were done they would fight the case with witnesses and evidence in this suit, which would take six months or more. The government counsel said they would consider the matter further before making a final decision.

Hearings have been in progress intermittently for nearly two years.

THIRTEEN GUILTY OF ELECTION FRAUD.

Jersey City, N. J., March 27.—Convicted of having made false election returns while serving on the Hoboken election boards in the primary election of September, 1913, thirteen election officers, eight Democrats and five Republicans, were sentenced by Common Pleas Judges Mark A. Sullivan and George J. Tennant to serve not less than eighteen months nor more than three years in state prison. The cases against two others were dismissed.

The sentenced men are William Maher, Leo J. Duffy, Gustave J. Ising, Alfred Lehman, William Burtis, Thomas F. Brady, Louis Baeder, Thomas O'Reilley, Thomas Mattheis, Job Brannelly, Joseph Cassidy, Patrick Connell and Jeremiah J. Ryan.

Ada, Minn., March 26.—At a meeting of the directors of the Farmers' Elevator company it was decided to make extensive improvements in their elevator here this year. An addition with a capacity of 20,000 bushels will be erected. This will give a total capacity of 60,000 bushels of grain. A grain cleaner will be installed and this will be operated by electric power.

DULUTH'S PROGRESSIVE STORE

Service Progress Success

The keynote of modern business is service. Service and success are practically inseparable. Success is invariably proportionate to the degree of service rendered. What is service? In general it is something done in the interest of another.

At the Glass Block it means considering the customers' interest first. Our policy is founded on service.

The old way of keeping dresses, suits, gowns, furs, etc., hidden behind mysterious doors or partitions and the custom of having the visitor subjected to a cross examination before her wants were ascertained is obsolete.

We knew there must be a better way, and after consulting the best store architects of the country, decided to entirely remodel our Ladies' Ready-to-wear department.

This has taken considerable time and lots of careful study, but at last it is finished and the new remodeled, thoroughly modern department will be ready for your inspection TOMORROW.

You will see an excellent example of a large and varied stock carried compactly. Very little of the floor area is taken up by the fixtures. There is ample space for selling and the comfort of customers.

The ability to see the full Glass Block assortment in the New Way Crystal Wardrobes will be a great advantage to you, because the garment you want is here in these wardrobes and you can be certain of finding it.

We have adopted this New Way of displaying coats and suits because it is right in line with the progressive spirit of the Glass Block Store. It is the first practical method of keeping these goods in plain view—yet protecting them from dust and keeping all their freshness intact.

You will also see a beautiful new shirt waist section and a "Baby Shop" especially designed for the floor.

There is so much to be said about this remodeled department that we could go on indefinitely telling you of its merits and beauty, but the ten minutes you spend on the floor will mean infinitely more to you because it will be your own personal experience with the convenience, the ease and satisfaction of shopping the New Way.

It will be a matter of civic pride to know that a large proportion of the new fixtures installed were made by our local show case factory. In fact, the Duluth company received the entire portion of the contract it could handle, at the time the order was placed.

This change has been made as an evidence of our deep appreciation of the splendid patronage extended the store and in accordance with our progressive policy.

Duffy's Again a Life Saver

MRS. H. COOPER

Here's a woman who grew weaker and weaker until chance led her to try Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and it came to the rescue, as it usually does. But read what she, herself, says:

"I wish to announce what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done for me. Some time ago I had a very bad attack of dysentery that lasted two months. I went to my doctor and he gave me powders and medicine, but it did me no good as I grew weaker and weaker—made me think I was getting consumption of the bowels. I had tried the best of brandies with no result, but good luck wanted it that my eyes fell on a Duffy Pure Malt Whiskey ad in the evening paper. I looked over it carefully and saw it was good for weak bowels—I at once bought a bottle, and before it was half used I felt it was doing good. To make sure, I finished the bottle and I was myself again. I cannot praise Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey enough for what it did for me. It is also good for indigestion and nervous neuralgia. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey was my life saver."—Mrs. A. Cooper, 2340 Putnam Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

SUES DISPATCHERS UNDER SERVICE LAW.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 27.—United States Attorney E. Lowrey Humes has entered suits in the United States district court against two train dispatchers and one assistant trainmaster of the Pennsylvania railroad for violation of the Federal act limiting the service of railroad employes to sixteen hours a day. The entering of suits against the persons in charge of train operation instead of the railroad is a new departure in this district.

A Doctor's First Question Is—?

"How Are Your Bowels?" A Simple Remedy That Guarantees Good Bowel Action.

LIEUT. G. W. VAUGHAN

Trace the origin of the commoner ills of life and almost invariably you will find that constipation was the cause. It is not to be expected that a mass of fermented food can remain in the system beyond its time without vitiating the blood and affecting the nerves and muscles. It congests the entire body.

The results are colds, fevers, piles, headaches, and nervousness, with its accompanying indigestion and sleeplessness. There is only one thing to do, and that is to remove the trouble; and when nature seems unable to do it, outside aid is necessary. You will find the best of all outside aids a remedy that many thousands are now using for this very purpose, called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Many hundreds of letters are received by Dr. Caldwell telling of the good results obtained, and among the enthusiastic letters is one from Lieut. G. W. Vaughan, of 623 West North street, Decatur, Ill. He is 72 and has had a bad liver and stomach since he came out of the army. He says he tried about everything, but never succeeded in getting permanent relief until he took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. He is never without a bottle in the house, and he is never without good health.

It has untold advantages over pills, salts and the various coarse cathartics and purgatives, for while these do but temporary good, Syrup Pepsin cures permanently. The effect of its action is to train the stomach and bowel muscles to do their work naturally again, and in a short time all forms of medicine can be dispensed with. It can be bought without inconvenience at any nearby drug store for fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter size being regularly bought by those who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington street, Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

SUIT BARES DUAL LIFE

Common Law Wife of Millionaire Sues for Estate.

Eccentricities of Louis P. Ewald Are Aired in Court.

Louisville, Ky., March 27.—Intimate details of the life of Louis Philip Ewald, late ironmaster of St. Louis and Louisville, which he devoted painstaking efforts and a small fortune to keep secret, are being revealed, almost five years after his death, during the trial of the suit brought by Ellen J. Golden, or Ewald, by which she seeks to establish dower rights in Ewald's estate, alleging she was his common law wife.

Ewald's estate was estimated to be worth about $4,000,000. He willed $15,000 each to nine brothers and sisters, most of whom live in St. Louis, and the remainder to Ellen Golden's three children, whom Ewald adopted. The woman is suing for a judgment for half the personalty and a widow's interest in the realty, aggregating approximately $2,000,000.

"Married" in 1890.

The plaintiff, on the witness stand, testified yesterday that the alleged common law marriage between herself and Ewald took place in St. Louis in March, 1890. Prior to leaving St. Louis to take up her residence in an elaborate home bought for her by Ewald, in an exclusive residence section of this city, she lived in Williamsport, Pa., Pittsburg, Washington, Chicago and Denver. More than 100 telegrams containing expressions of affection, purporting to have been from Ewald and addressed to the plaintiff under the name of "Mrs. E. J. Seaman" at a Detroit hotel, were read to the jury. The plantiff admitted she never was generally known as Mrs. Ewald.

Testimony at the trial, which began Monday, has disclosed the double life led by the eccentric millionaire ironmaster, who apparently had a mania for secrecy. Although Ewald operated a large iron foundry here for a score of years and accumulated several million dollars, he virtually was unknown personally in this vicinity.

Shunned All Notice.

He shunned even ordinary notice, made only such acquaintances as his business necessitated, and took no part in the city's affairs. He spent much of his time in St. Louis, and kept most of his banking accounts in that city. It was brought out that he frequently had $2,000,000 at a time on deposit in St. Louis banks. So great was his desire for obscurity that he seldom went outside his home or office except in a cab, even when he desired to go only a block or two.

Soon after Ellen Golden came to Louisville in the nineties, it was stated by witnesses, Ewald took her name and was known in the neighborhood as "John P. Golden." For the purpose of greater seclusion, it was testified, Ewald purchased a large, costly residence next to the one in which he installed Ellen Golden, and kept it vacant.

The trial of the woman's suit for part of Ewald's fortune is expected to continue for a week.

DRAWS HIS WAY OUT OF PRISON

Cartoonist Is Given Clemency By Governor Johnson.

Sacramento, Cal., March 27.—Evan Burton Johnson, who pleaded guilty to cashing a worthless check a year ago, and who was sentenced to four years, has cartooned his way from Folsom prison. His sentence has been commuted by Governor Johnson, and he will be released Saturday.

Johnson, during his incarceration, has drawn more than 200 cartoons portraying his views of penal servitude and politics. Some of the most powerful of his sketches found their way to the executive office, and moved the governor to investigate Johnson's case and extend clemency to Johnson, who is a former newspaper man.

COTTON BELT ROAD ORDERS 2,000 CARS.

St. Louis, Mo., March 27.—An order for the construction of 2,000 freight cars at a cost of $2,000,000, the largest order received here in recent years, was placed yesterday by the St. Louis Southwestern (Cotton Belt) railroad. All the work on the cars will be done in this city. Delivery will begin about the middle of May and will end in August, in time for the fall crop movement. The railroad officials announced the order was warranted by crop prospects and the general business outlook.

DISPUTE AT DANCE ENDS IN ONE DEATH.

Bingham, Neb., March 27.—As a result of a rifle duel here between George Rowding and Ralph Daily, Rowding is dead, killed instantly by a gunshot, and Daily, wounded, has been taken to a hospital at Alliance. The trouble between the two young men started at a recent dance where Daily, as floor manager, refused to allow Rowding to dance the "bearcat." The men fought with rifles.

WILSON APPROVES OF PAGE'S SPEECH.

Washington, March 27.—Having received a complete copy of Ambassador Page's recent speech in London, to which Senator Chamberlain and others took exception on account of references to the Monroe doctrine and the Panama canal, President Wilson told callers he thought the speech was perfectly proper.

WANT NEW MAINE CONSTITUTION.

Portland, Maine, March 27.—A nonpartisan convention to revise the state Constitution was favored in the platform adopted by the Democratic state convention. Approval of the national administration was expressed and a constitutional amendment permitting towns and cities home rule in taxation, was favored. Other planks urged a workingmen's compensation act, a fifty-four-hour law for women and "such legislation as will expedite the administration of justice in our courts."

SUPREME COURT AMENDS ITS RULES

Duluth Attorneys Receive Notices of Changes in Practice.

In order to conform with some of the statutes recently enacted, the state supreme court has amended a number of its rules. Notices of the amendments have been received by Duluth attorneys, who will be expected to comply with the new rules of practice.

A year ago the court made a general revision, intended to hasten the determination of appeals, allowing, under rule 1, cases to be placed upon the calendar by stipulation up to within a few days of the beginning of the term. But attorneys did not always agree as to the time for serving briefs upon each other, so an amendment to this rule compels the attorneys to include in their written stipulation, which must be filed before the case goes on the calendar, the agreement as to the service of their briefs upon each other.

Rule 4 is amended so as to make the practice regarding dismissals for failure to promptly prosecute appeals more simple, and to require the appellant to file with the clerk of the district court a list of the papers he desires to have transmitted to the supreme court. The practice heretofore had been either to request that many unnecessary papers be sent to the supreme court, or in some instances, to entirely omit the request for any papers.

Rule 16, relating to the setting of cases and the making of motions on term day, has been entirely stricken out, the matters contained therein being sufficiently cared for by rule 15.

A new rule was added earlier in the term which provides that when any member of the court is absent at the oral argument of a case, "such cause shall be deemed submitted to such member of the court upon the printed record and briefs therein," in other words, that all of the justices shall take part in the decision of all cases, whether they hear the oral arguments or not, the non-sitting justice reading the briefs and records, of course.

Rule 9 is amended so that attorneys in their briefs may refer either to the typewritten settled case, or to the printed record, in making citations.

BUTTER AND EGGS DROP

San Francisco Gets 50,000 Cases of Eggs From Foreign Markets.

Fresh California and Florida Vegetables Are Still High.

Weakness in the egg market continues, as shown in a further decline of 2 cents a dozen in their quotation to 20 and 21 cents a dozen today.

The heavy current receipts are held responsible for the slump. Marketings are said to be much heavier than current requirements, and as dealers cannot see their way clear to buy for storage at the present prices, supplies are accumulating on the leading markets. With an example before them of 50,000 cases of imported eggs laid down at San Francisco recently on a basis of 17 cents a dozen, the opinion is expressed in trade circles that operators cannot afford to pay more than 15 cents a dozen for April storage eggs. Data is furnished to show that Siberian eggs can be imported at Pacific coast cities at a cost not exceeding 17 cents after making the freight allowances.

"With the situation as it is today, it looks as if consumers should be able to buy eggs at 25 cents a dozen at retail next winter," said B. M. Ruse, sales manager of the Bridgeman-Russell company today. In that estimate he took into account storage charges and the grocer's profit.

Butter Cheaper Too.

Butter also is a cent cheaper, the best creamery being quoted at 27 and 28 cents a pound; first creamery at 25 and 26 cents. The market in butter has been a nervous affair during the last few days. It began the week low; then on liberal demand, prices ran up, only to drop again with a cessation of buying by dealers on the bulge. It is expected by the trade that quotations will hover around about where they are during the next few weeks till the season for storing begins. It is estimated that butter will go into storage in June at a figure not to exceed 25 cents a pound.

Statistics show that while the average New York price of the product last year was 32.2 cents a pound, the market in London was 25.6 cents, while the best Danish butter could be bought at 27½ cents a pound. With the possibility therefore of foreign butter being imported into this country at the basis named, it is thought only natural for dealers to aim to buy their storage stocks on a price basis at which they figure they should be able to play safe.

With the exception that new Wisconsin cheese is quoted ½ cent lower, prices are unchanged through that list. Production is increasing steadily with more factories going into operation, so that lower prices are expected in the near future.

Good Variety in Fruits.

Early California rhubarb and Cuban pineapples are fresh features on the market in fruits. Prices in each are necessarily high at the outset. Florida strawberries are slightly cheaper at 40 cents a quart. Oranges are still the headliner, according to the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company. Supplies are liberal and prices are unchanged.

Western box apples are tending higher, advances coming in some varieties today.

Quotations in green California and Florida vegetables have been advanced moderately on account of the unusually cold weather and frosts at some points in the South. New cabbage is now coming in plentifully, and it is selling at the same price as the Minnesota article, supplies of which are now nearly cleaned up. Remaining stocks of other last season's district roots, such as rutabagas and carrots, are also very low.

Prices of Minnesota potatoes are unchanged at 65 cents for the best. A slump in them is predicted with the rush of marketings by growers, expected within the next two or three weeks.

Small Poultry Receipts.

The market in poultry is firm on account of light receipts and small cold storage stocks. Only a few occasional coops of live birds are said to be offering on Michigan street at present. Costs of meats are just as they were. A further advance in pork figures is regarded as probable, owing to the small slaughterings of hogs at packing points.

ON NEEDS OF THE INDIANS

Indian Commissioner Sells Wants More School Facilities Provided.

Improvement of Health and Housing Conditions Is Required.

Washington, March 27.—The first report of Indian Commissioner Cato Sells gives considerable space to suggestions as to the needs of the Indian service, attention being invited to some of the larger questions which now confront the commissioner's office for solution.

Attention is called to the fact that the Indian country under the jurisdiction of the Indian office has an area as large as that of all the New England states and the state of New York combined. It is stated that there are approximately 300,000 Indians, whose combined property is estimated to be worth about $900,000,000.

Commissioner Sells says that the question of how this property may be conserved for the benefit of the Indians, and how they shall be taught to make the best use thereof and otherwise become properly equipped to take their place as citizens of the United States, are the great problems confronting the Indian bureau.

Inadequate School Facilities.

He says that among the details still to be worked out and which are now pending, he finds that, notwithstanding the fact that since 1876 the government has provided approximately $80,000,000 for schools among the Indians, there are today 10,000 Indian children without any school facilities whatever, principally in the Southwest, and more particularly among the Navajo and Papago Indians. That there are about 7,500 defective Indian children, either physically or mentally, for whose care and training no adequate facilities are available. Increased appropriations are needed, so that all Indian children may be provided with school facilities.

Deplorable Health Conditions.

The commissioner describes the health conditions among the Indians as deplorable. Under the jurisdiction of his bureau there are approximately 25,000 Indians suffering from tuberculosis, while the available Indian hospital facilities for all of these patients, adults and children, will not exceed 300 beds. During the past fiscal year 1,905 Indians were reported as having died from tuberculosis; this being probably not more than 75 per cent of the total number of Indians who have died from this disease during the fiscal year. Thirty-two per cent of all deaths reported from the reservations were due to pulmonary tuberculosis, as against 11.2 per cent occurring from the same disease in the registered area of the United States. The death rate among the Indians was 32.25 per 1,000, while the census bureau gives 16 per 1,000 for the entire registered area of the United States. Trachoma is referred to as a serious eye disease of which there exist more than 60,000 cases among the Indians. It is said to be very essential that additional appropriations be made to construct hospitals to check and control these diseases and to improve the Indians' health conditions generally, also to prevent contagion among their white neighbors.

The Housing Conditions.

Closely related to the prevalence of tuberculosis and trachoma are the housing conditions of Indians. It is estimated that there are approximately 8,000 Indian families without homes, who live in mud lodges, tepees and wickiups, a large number of them on dirt floors and under revolting conditions. There are thousands of Indian families who live in one or two-room shacks or cabins under sanitary conditions which must of necessity cause the propagation of diseases such as tuberculosis and trachoma.

Notwithstanding the fact that many Indians have been allotted large areas of valuable lands, ranging from 80 to 320 acres to each Indian, these deplorable housing conditions continue to exist. As the Indian owns tribal and individual timber valued at more than $80,000,000, the government has provided a large number of sawmills, located on various reservations throughout the Indian country. It is the commissioner's purpose to enter upon a vigorous campaign to improve the housing conditions of the Indians, whenever practicable.

Allotment of Lands.

The allotting of lands to Indians has been conducted ever since the enactment of the general allotment act of Feb. 8, 1887. It is estimated that there have been allotted to 180,000 Indians about 84,000,000 acres of their lands, and that there remains to be allotted about 39,000,000 acres of lands owned by them. There are nearly 120,000 unallotted Indians. The timber owned by Indians has a stumpage value of over $80,000,000. Approximately one-seventh of this value is in timber on unallotted land. One of the difficult problems which confronts the Indian service is the administration of these timber lands so as to provide a substantial revenue for Indians as agricultural development takes place within the reservation and yet not affect unfavorably the future, both as regards the timber itself and the water supply.

Commissioner Sells says that there are now pending at the various agencies throughout the Indian country, awaiting the determination of the heirs of deceased Indian allottees under the act of June 25, 1910, about 40,000 cases, which represent inherited lands worth approximately $60,000,000; that he finds in the office about 1,500 cases upon which final action has not been taken. The pressing need for a large appropriation to enable the office to bring this work up to date and continue same, is shown.

Industrial Conditions.

The immense opportunity for the improvement of existing industrial conditions of the Indians is referred to. The commissioner states that the Indians have more than 600,000 acres of irrigated lands; approximately 9,000,000 acres of agricultural land; and more than 50,000,000 acres of grazing land, and the government has appropriated approximately $10,000,000 in connection with Indian irrigation projects. Many able-bodied Indians who have valuable lands are wholly or partially without seed, teams or implements to utilize such lands.

GOOD MEALS AND RELIGION RELATED

Evangelist Says Proper Cooking Will Make Husbands Attend Church.

Washington, Pa., March 27.—That religion is as much a matter of the stomach in the case of men as of the heart or mind or soul, was the declaration of Robert L. Jones, an evangelist, at a meeting for women here. "There is just as much religion in making a good pie as there is in making a prayer," declared the speaker.

"Don't expect your husband to be anxious about attending a sunrise prayer meeting after eating one of your soggy old pies. Some women gad and gossip until dinner time and then you hear them say, 'Oh, my, it's ten minutes to 12 and I ain't got the old man's dinner yet.'

"Then they rush into the kitchen and feed the hard-working husband on canned goods, and wonder why he takes no interest in the revival meetings. The thing that man needs is a good, square meal, and I don't want to preach to him until he gets it.

"Some writer recently made the observation that every successful financier has been blessed with a wife who was a good cook, and I am convinced that many men have lost interest in their homes and the things in which the wife is interested because of poor cooking, they have dyspepsia instead of religion.

"I have sometimes advised wives never to talk to their husbands about religion when they were putting up stove pipe, and especially if the joints didn't fit. We often hear Christians quote the text: 'All things work together for good to them that love the Lord,' but let us not overwork the promise, for many times things would work together for more good had we used more common sense in our undertaking.

"Once when I made this statement a woman who spent most of her time gadding about, attending conventions and women's clubs while her husband was left at home to live on crackers and cheese, came to me after the meeting and asked what she could do if she couldn't talk to her husband.

"I told that woman to go home and make some decent pancakes once in a while. You laugh, but let it be understood this is no joke; it's part of my sermon and I will not say anything while in your town that I mean more than this very statement. I firmly believe good food is conducive to good morals."

WILL RECLAIM SWAMP LAND

Engineers Will Report on Drainage Project Near Meadowlands.

A special meeting of the county board will be held Monday for the purpose of confirming the report of the engineers and viewers, and taking other steps incidental to officially establishing County Ditch No. 2, a drainage project near Meadowlands, which will reclaim a large area between the White Face and St. Louis rivers. The land is fertile but too low for successful tillage.

The reports of the county road engineer, E. K. Coe, and of the viewers were filed with the county auditor several days ago. County Engineer Coe estimates that the cost of the project, including engineering and other incidental expenses, will be $43,107. The viewers' report shows the benefits to be $51,387 and the damages for land necessarily taken for right-of-way purposes $1,666.

About 90 per cent of the benefits will be assessed against the property to defray the cost of construction.

NEW RATES ON CEMENT HELD UP.

Washington, March 27.—Increases in freight rates on cement ranging from 1 to 2 cents a hundred pounds, proposed by railroads operating throughout the Middle West and Northwest, have been suspended by the Interstate commerce commission until July 30. The proposed advances average about 15 per cent.

Farlow Quits.

Boston, Mass., March 27.—The committee on publication of the Christian Science church has issued the following announcement regarding the retirement from the committee of Alfred Farlow:

"Alfred Farlow, after twenty-six years of active service in connection with Christian Science organizations, half of which time he was manager of the committee on publication, has retired from that position of his own accord, and for the future will be active in other lines of Christian Science work.

"He is now in good health, and has not been in the serious condition of ill health reported."

BORAH WILL HIT SENATOR PENROSE

Backs Up Dimmick for Republican Nomination in Pennsylvania.

Washington, March 27.—Senator Borah of Idaho, leading the movement to revive the Republican party by eliminating certain leaders, will make several speeches in Pennsylvania during the coming campaign, if his duties here permit. Indications are that Senator Cummins of Iowa, another conspicuous advocate of a restoration of the Republican party from within, will aid in fighting against the nomination of Senator Penrose.

Senator Borah will speak in the pre-primary campaign in the interest of J. B. Dimmick, the Republican opponent to Senator Penrose.

Penrose agencies are doing their best to induce Senator Borah to keep out of the state and indirect pressure of all sorts is being used to prevent him joining the movement that is daily gaining strength. The stand-pat followers are saying that the senator does not stand for protective tariff and that his advent in Pennsylvania will not be well received by Republicans. His position has always been for a scientific tariff bill, such a measure as protective tariff advocates say must be evolved.

The campaign in Pennsylvania is now attracting national interest. It was sure to do so after the primaries by the entrance of Roosevelt into the state in behalf of Pinchot. The place to make the real fight, it is argued, is in the primaries, by the assertion of the latent strength of sincere Republicans. If a thorough statewide battle is waged against Penrose, the advocates of a reform within the party believe he will be defeated.

Ernest P. Achesen of Washington, Pa., while here exchanging views with Pennsylvania members and his old associates, said that the nomination of Penrose would bring defeat to the Republican state and county tickets. Continuing, he said:

"If the Republicans put forward Penrose as typical of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, it will be the end of the supremacy of the party in the state, and perhaps in the country.

"There will be an anti-Penrose sweep in Pennsylvania, but I am not so certain that Penrose will not be nominated, unless the opponents of his system become more aggressive. If Penrose should be nominated, he will get less votes than Taft. Pinchot seems to be the strongest figure now, as Palmer is weak because of the patronage distribution.

"Dimmick's candidacy is growing very strong and all that is needed is a thorough state fight. If these real Republicans, as Borah and Cummins, put up to the people that the nomination of Penrose means that end of the party, I am sure that such speeches would have an effect. If Penrose had any interest in the party he would quit. The year 1914 will be memorable for the end of the Philadelphia brand of politics—Penroeism and McNichol and Vareism. These men and what they represent have reached the end of their era. They go into oblivion with the November election."

In concluding his statement, Mr. Acheson said he felt that Dr. Brumbaugh could not be elected unless he declares against Penrose.

Defy Blood Disorder BY Giving the Blood an Effective Bath

The word Medicine is one of the most abused in our language. There are certain medicinal properties just as necessary to health as the food we eat. Take, for example, the well-known medicine, S. S. S. This famous blood purifier contains medicinal components just as vital and essential to healthy blood as the elements of wheat, roast beef, the fats and the sugars that make up our daily ration.

As a matter of fact, there is one ingredient in S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating each cellular part of the body to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. That is why it regenerates the blood supply; why it has such a tremendous influence in overcoming Rheumatism, Catarrh of the Stomach and Intestines, skin eruptions and all blood troubles.

And in regenerating the tissues S. S. S. has a rapid and positive antidotal effect upon all those irritating influences that cause sore throat, weak eyes, loss of weight, thin, pale cheeks and that weariness of muscle and nerve that leads so many people into the dangerous path of stimulants and narcotics.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store, and in a few days you will feel bright and energetic. S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 203 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., who maintain a very efficient advisory department where all who have any blood disorder of a stubborn nature may consult freely.

S. S. S. is sold everywhere by drug stores, department and general stores.

Don't permit anyone to sell you a substitute. Insist upon S. S. S.

TO BE READY SOON FOR SEA SERVICE

Battleship New York Built By Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Washington, March 27.—The battleship New York will be ready for sea service shortly after April 1, next. This means that it will have taken the government just six months less time to construct the New York than it did the Newport News Shipbuilding company to build her sister ship, the Texas. Even though the Texas has already been turned over to the government, should the Brooklyn yard make good the time set for the completion of the New York, the vessel will go into actual commission a month ahead of the Texas.

This is an exceptionally good showing on the part of the Brooklyn navy yard. It has always been admitted that government built ships were as well if not better constructed as those turned out by private concerns, and now the Brooklyn yard has demonstrated that the government can build ships in less time than it takes private companies. Congress authorized the construction of the two vessels at the same time, but owing to the fact that the Brooklyn yard's estimates on the New York were in excess of the limit of cost, her keel was not laid until Sept. 11, 1911, while that of the Texas was laid on April 7 of the same year. This five months' start on the part of the Texas has been overcome by the Brooklyn yard.

The Texas went into commission technically on Thursday of last week, but she was not a completed vessel, for on the very day that she was turned over to the government by the Newport News company, Secretary Daniels ordered her to proceed to the Brooklyn navy yard to have installed upon her there certain magazines, which are not specified in her contract. To do this work will take at least a month and a half, so that the Texas will hardly be ready for service before May 1st, a month after her sister ship, the New York will have gone to sea.

The fact that the Texas had to go to the Brooklyn yard to have installed upon her certain magazines, caused an official of the navy department to remark: "There is this advantage, among others, in building ships at government navy yards. If after the contract for a ship is let, the constructors wish to add some improvements, they cannot do so without a lot of red tape. When any alterations or improvements are desired for ships being built by private concerns, a board has to sit to determine the amount the contractor is to receive for making the additions. This requires time and is a lot of bother, all of which is not necessary when the government builds its own ships. Take the case of the New York and Texas. The magazines to be installed on the Texas are of a new character. They were installed on the New York while she was building, but rather than go through the process of having a board decide what the Newport News company should receive for installing them, the department decided that it would let the Brooklyn yard do the work after the ship was turned over to it by the private concern."

FRECKLES

February and March Bring Out Unsightly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

The woman with tender skin dreads February and March because they are likely to cover her face with ugly freckles. No matter how thick her veil, the sun and winds have a strong tendency to make her freckle.

Fortunately for her peace of mind, the recent discovery of a new prescription, othine—double strength, makes it possible for even those most susceptible to freckles to keep their skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckles you have, the double strength othine should remove them. Get an ounce from Boyce drug store and banish the freckles. Money back if it fails.

Woman's Realm

Rev. F. W. Hovis of Endion M. E. church gave an interesting talk on "The Short Story" before the members of the Twentieth Century club yesterday afternoon. The Short Story class members were hostesses. Mrs. R. B. Liggett was in charge of the afternoon. She was assisted by Mrs. Leonard Young, Mrs. Carl Shapiro Mrs. J. F. Segog and Mrs. A. A. Fider. After the lecture tea was served.

Dr. Hovis was presented by Mrs. N. F. Hugo, president of the Twentieth Century club. He divided his theme into three divisions: First, "What is a short story;" second, "Why is there a short story," and third, "What is the place of the short story in literature?"

Answering the first question, "What is a short story?" Dr. Hovis explained it is neither a story that is short nor a part of an episode of a long story. A short story is a definite class of fiction. The plan of a true one can not be expanded into the plot of a novel. There must be unity of impression. Dr. Hovis explained, all parts of the story must bear upon the idea the author wishes to have stand out above all others. Unity of expression is another essential, for there must not be an unnecessary phrase or even word.

A Good Example.

Dr. Hovis gave Hawthorne's "The Minister's Black Veil," as an example of a real short story. In reviewing the story he pointed out that although it extends over a long period of time, many characters introduced and many solutions are offered to penetrate the mystery. Behind the heavy black veil there is a unity, a totality, that makes the minister and his uncanny veil pervade the whole story and not only pervade it but stand out clearly against a background that has for its purpose only the centralization of the theme.

Dr. Hovis thought the question, "Why is there a short story?" could be answered by the temperament of Americans who demand a concise presentation of facts that can be grasped readily without loss of valuable time. Early examples of what might be called short stories are the tales of Homer, certain books of the Bible and folk lore. The folk tales were necessarily short and stripped of unnecessary detail because they were handed down by word of mouth from generation to generation. About 500 years elapsed between the times when Chaucer and Boccacio produced their tales and the time Irving, Hawthorne and Poe wrote, but during all those years there was scarcely a piece of literature that could be called a short story.

In 1842 Edgar Allen Poe wrote a criticism on Hawthorne. This was the first time the attention of the public was called to the form of literature now so widely known as the short story. It was not until about fifty years later the expression "strenuous life" was coined, but the condition of life that led to the coining of the phrase was most likely at the basis of the short story, that was so specifically a nineteenth century American product. Kipling, Stevenson, Zola, Daudet, De Maupassant, Tourgenief and Tolstoi have all written short stories, but they may be regarded as disciples of the great American short story writers, Irving, Hawthorne and Poe.

No Right to Be Dull.

Dr. Hovis illustrated the demand of Americans for quick, concise ways by the story of Hugh Black, who was very much surprised during a visit to this country when many in his audience left the room because the first part of his address was uninteresting. The speaker explained that in England and Scotland it was assumed the talker had a right to be dull during the first fifteen minutes of his speech, but speaking of the Americans the visitor said, "If you're dry five minutes they get up and leave." An example of this difference in peoples is seen in the comparisons between the three volume novels of Nineteenth century England and the short stories of the United States.

Dr. Hovis said the place of the short story in literature is legitimate. There is a great demand for this phase of literature. Poe pointed out it was more valuable than a long story because it can be read at a single sitting. A story read piecemeal, as all long ones must be read, is not enjoyed as a unit, because between readings the mind is taken off the story.

About three-fourths of the short stories written are hardly worth reading, according to Dr. Hovis. Magazines offer attractive prizes in the hope that out of the vast number that will come to them there will be a few really worthy of the name. Magazines have to give short stories to their readers, because as the speaker of yesterday afternoon said, "The short story has come to stay."

MISS ELIZABETH HEIKKILA.

Teaching young and inexperienced mothers how to care for their babies is a work with which Miss Elizabeth Heikkila has been connected for the past two years in Duluth. It is her aim to make Duluth babies the last word in good health.

Miss Heikkila is the visiting nurse employed by the Scottish Rite Masons to conduct infant welfare work in those homes where mothers are more busily engaged in solving the bread and butter question than they are in rearing healthy children.

Every mother can learn something new from the consistory nurse. It matters not how much the mother may think she knows, she has not learned all that is to be known of feeding and all of the other items which help keep babies in their natural state of health.

From the number of mothers who daily appeal to Miss Heikkila for advice, it must be inferred that the work is well worth the while.

The work was begun in the spring of 1912. It has grown rapidly and last year it saw more than 300 babies under her care.

CHOOSING READING MATTER FOR A CITY

Too Great a Responsibility and Librarian Forms an Advisory Committee.

The advisory committee on the purchase of books for the Duluth public library met with Miss Frances Earhart, the librarian, yesterday afternoon at the library, and offered suggestions for purchases of new books.

The advisory board is a new feature in library work and is a result of the elimination of the library board, which was accomplished with the incoming of the commission form of government in Duluth. The elimination of the library board, left the responsibility of selecting books for purchase entirely with the librarian. Miss Earhart, deeming that choosing the literature for a city was too great a responsibility for any one person, suggested a voluntary advisory board. This has resulted in the forming of a board or committee of persons, who are especially well informed on books of various classes. In this way Miss Earhart receives suggestions as to the best books in foreign languages as well as those in English dealing with all forms of literature, science and arts. The committee is an informal one composed of ten or twelve persons and will be added to from time to time.

WILL TEACH TANGO AT THE EMPRESS

Can you do the tango, the latest sensational dance of the day? Every few years a new dance appears with a new dancing novelty and it becomes the dance of the moment.

Almost every dancer made an assault upon the turkey trot, and one step. Now they are making a try at the tango and many are surprised how easily it can be mastered. The more graceful and agile the dancer, the better the dance. With a little practice any dancer of the two step or waltz can master the tango in two to three lessons. This will be amply demonstrated at the Empress theater tonight when the fourth of a series of contests will be given at both shows. Of the seven couples listed to appear at the contest tonight two of them have had only two lessons and have practically mastered the dance. A lively time is promised at the contest as the couples are about evenly matched in dancing ability. Many entries refused to show all their steps to Contest Manager Allan when he was choosing the contestants, saying that they wished to keep them for the audiences tonight.

Vaudeville is the offering for the last half of the week at the Empress. The new bill which opened yesterday is one in which comedy predominates. Doly and Mack in a musical act are the best of the bill. The Clara M. Williams company in "The Substitute Umpire" present a good playlet and Caron and Farum do an acrobatic turn. Sigbee's dogs are unusually good for an animal act.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Quaker Girl."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

The one "un-Americanized musical comedy," is the way a famous New York reviewer described "The Quaker Girl," which comes to the Lyceum theater tonight and Saturday, with matinee Saturday.

The big musical comedy will be presented here exactly as it was presented for one year at the Park theater, New York, with Victor Morley in the principal male role. Eighty-six picked singers are in the company, which comes and goes in state by special train and carries enough scenic embellishments to stage two ordinary musical shows. The history of "The Quaker Girl" is pretty generally known by this time, but for those who have not heard of its ocean-to-ocean fame, it might be explained that the piece was originally produced by Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips of 414 Nineteenth and One-half avenue west. George Edwardes in London and appeared there for over two years, while another company was sent to Paris, where it scored an equal hit. The late Henry B. Harris was the fortunate manager to secure the American rights and he produced the musical comedy absolutely unchanged, but with an American cast, as a year ago at the Park theater, New York, where it remained the entire season, thence going to Chicago for a summer run. The music of "The Quaker Girl" is by Lionel Monckton, and the book is by James T. Tanner, while the lyrics are the joint effort of Adrian Ross and Percy Greenbank. Its story, unlike that of most musical comedies, is not a mere wood to string songs upon, but is a consistent narrative revolving around a little Quaker miss named, fittingly, Prudence.

Robert T. Haines will headline the new Orpheum bill, opening with the Sunday matinee. Mr. Haines was seen in vaudeville last season, but his sketch was not entirely satisfactory to him. This year he has a one-act play by no less a playwright than William J. Hurlbut, entitled "The Man in the Dark." It is said to be one of the best one-act plays seen in vaudeville in recent years. Mr. Haines' reputation as an actor is such that he needs no introduction.

The Duluth Orpheum patrons will this year see the Orpheum Road Show. Manager Billings received word yesterday afternoon that the Road Show would be in Duluth for the week of April 12. The Road Show is the only bill on the circuit that travels intact. It is the all-star show of the circuit, and is under the personal supervision of Martin Beck, the managing director. In former years the Road Show was booked for but twenty weeks each season, and the result was that only the twenty largest cities on the circuit secured it. This year Duluth has been included. It is not composed of seven feature headline acts, but is intended to be the best balanced vaudeville bill that could be selected from the acts available in the booking offices. Each act is supposed to be a leader in its particular line. If the bill includes a sketch it is supposed to be the best sketch on the circuit. If there is a dancing team, it is chosen from all the dancing teams on the circuit.

Manager Billings expressed his delight yesterday at getting the Road Show, and predicted a record-breaking week for the Duluth theater.

SCHOOL ROW CLASH.

Walsh County, N. D., Torn With Opposing Elements in Fight.

Park River, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bitterness has been aroused here over the clash between the county agricultural school and the city high school. Walsh was the first county to adopt the county agricultural school idea and Park River won the contest for its location. It became necessary to combine certain departments of the county and the city schools. The first transfer was the manual training and the domestic science departments over which no objection was raised. Then when it was proposed to place the literary societies and the athletic departments of the city school under the direction of the county, the friction began. Supt. Aygarn made such a vigorous protest that the school board did not re-elect him. Citizens took sides in the matter and there is a great deal of bitterness and a strong division of sentiment over the matter. It is proposed to turn over practically all the city high school work to the agricultural school.

NEW DAIRY BUILDING.

Addition to North Dakota Agricultural College About Ready.

Fargo, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dairy department of the North Dakota agricultural college will soon assume the importance commensurate with the size of the institution and the great interest taken in the industry in this state. The dairy building which was started last fall will be completed this spring and will be equipped with all the latest modern appliances.

A. O. Dahlberg of Troy, Pa., will soon arrive to take charge, having been selected at the resignation of Prof. Martin. The growth of the dairying industry in North Dakota during the last two or three years makes it imperative that a proper training of dairymen and butter makers can be had at the institution.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Women Should Be Satisfied With Married Life Customs.

It seems to me that many of the so-called women thinkers and doers of the present day allow themselves to be disturbed by some very inconsequential matters from time to time. The fact wouldn't be so marked if there was nothing worth while to command their interests and efforts. If they had settled all the large affairs to their satisfaction and ours, we shouldn't be so surprised at their attacking the unimportant things and attempting a clean-up.

But when there are hundreds of real live issues really begging for their ministrations, the attention paid those that make little or no difference either way, is nothing short of ridiculous. Here we have supposedly seriously-minded women rebelling at the word "obey" in the marriage service. Now they refuse to wear a wedding ring because it is not a general custom among married men. Again, they decline to assume the husband's name upon marriage for fear their individuality will suffer.

Of course, you may have the word "obey" stricken out of your vows when you are married, if it offends you. But it is not the wording of the ceremony that makes or unmakes married life. The way you have been trained, both of you, and the thought and effort you both bring to bear upon your lives together will be vastly more important.

If you think a wedding ring is a form of bondage—pray don't wear one. But don't think by discarding the outward symbol that you rid yourself of any of the duties, obligations and disagreeable features of marriage. Its' your husband's attitude toward you and yours toward him that combine to make or mar matrimony, not the wearing or refusal to wear a wedding band.

As for refusing to accept a man's name along with marriage and his support—that is only custom, too. But it has its advantages, together with the disadvantages some women affect to see it. It's an easy way of distinguishing the married woman from the unmarried. Under existing conditions, and as they are likely to exist for some time to come, this is rather essential.

Surely it is not necessary on the plea that a change of name imperils the individuality of a woman. Individuality is not dependent upon so trivial a thing as a person's name. Any woman whose name before marriage was an asset in a business or profession has no trouble in retaining it for those purposes. That seems to dispose of the only well-founded objection to taking a man's name.

PAVEMENTS DISCUSSED

Report of Prof. Smith Contains Much Valuable Information.

Recommends More Concrete and Better System of Maintenance.

Careful consideration is being given by Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, to the various recommendations contained in the report received by him yesterday from Prof. L. S. Smith of the highway division of the University of Wisconsin.

Prof. Smith recently visited Duluth to examine the city's paving specifications. In addition to suggesting technical changes, his report contains discussions of various pavements which will be of more than usual interest to Duluth, which still has miles upon miles of streets yet remaining to be improved.

The highway specialist urges more consideration for concrete and creosote block pavements, wider competition in purchasing sandstone blocks, favors brick pavements and recommends systematic maintenance of macadam roads by use of asphaltic oils and of earth roads by intelligent dragging.

"Because of the abundance, excellence and relative cheapness of broken stone and gravel within easy hauling distance, Duluth may well give more consideration to the merits of concrete pavements," states Prof. Smith. "At the present time approximately only three miles of the 123 miles of Duluth's paved streets are paved with any form of concrete.

"This pavement is well suited for a residence district and for a medium traffic business street, as well as for the main trunk roads, like Woodland avenue, leading to the outskirts of the city. This type of road can often be so designed as to serve as the usual concrete foundation for the more expensive types of pavement when justified by the future growth of traffic and property values.

Cost Reasonable.

"The cost of the concrete pavement in Duluth will be intermediate between the macadam road and the most expensive, like brick, asphalt or creosoted wood block. Though costing about the same as tar macadam, concrete promises to give far better service."

Prof. Smith then goes into detail as to the specifications as they deal with proportions and material, mixing, joints, subgrade, crown and drainage. He adds that "the fact that water content controls the contraction and expansion of concrete much more than the temperature has been an interesting development of recent months. This still more emphasizes the great necessity of securing a well-graded aggregate and hence a dense concrete to prevent excessive absorption of moisture."

Referring to sandstone block pavements, he continues:

"The topography of Duluth is such as to make the use of sandstone imperative on all its steepest grades. The Kettle River sandstone has been exclusively used and in most cases with excellent results. Instances, however, have not been lacking where very inferior blocks were furnished. Within the last two years several sandstone quarries of decidedly superior grades have been opened in Wisconsin, the nearest one being Stevens Point. Some tests which the writer made of this stone at the request of the city of Milwaukee have shown that the Wisconsin sandstone is much tougher and stronger than much of the Kettle River stone.

"It would provide wholesome competition and perhaps a superior material if the sandstone specifications were thrown open so as to admit and invite the Wisconsin stone."

Wire-cut-lug brick is recommended over re-pressed brick, as it is free of internal lamination, has square corners which makes the grouting more effective and permanent and has rough sides which furnish a better bond for the grout filler. Frequent testing is necessary, he says, and the purchase of a "rattler," costing $165, is recommended for this purpose.

Creosote Blocks.

"The suitability of a well constructed creosote wood block pavement for both high class residence districts and also for heavy traffic, provided such a street have a suitable grade, is universally conceded," states the report. "In view of the very low price paid for such pavements in Duluth ($2.42 per square yard in 1913) it is remarkable that the city has less than one and one-half miles of this type of pavement. The average price of such pavement in the United States, according to the census of 1910, was $3.10. It would seem that this type of pavement deserves a much wider adoption in Duluth in the near future."

"The most common cause for failures of any pavement laid on a concrete foundation has been the failure first of that concrete foundation," the report goes on to say. "This has not become known because of the fact that the foundations are covered up out of sight. In nearly every case these foundation failures can be traced directly to poor inspection.

"If the city expects to build moderate priced concrete pavements on some residence and lighter traffic streets, it is imperative that such work receive thorough inspection. Such pavements cannot be successfully built of the same material and by the same method used for concrete foundations.

"Perhaps the most common example of the ills resulting from poor inspection may be seen in the city's concrete walks.

"While concrete work has been cited as requiring honest inspection, every type of pavement in Duluth is dependent upon it also."

Maintenance.

The maintenance of macadam and earth roads is summed up as follows:

"More than one-half of Duluth's pavements consist of macadam, which, as a rule, was excellently constructed. A part of these streets has developed an excessive traffic and will need replacement in the near future by some more permanent and suitable pavement.

"Other cities similarly situated have secured effective and economical maintenance of macadam streets by the use of a yearly surface application of 40 per cent asphaltic road oil. The cost of such treatment, using about one-half gallon per square yard of pavement, should not exceed 2½ cents. After two or three years the amount of oil can be reduced. On a light traffic street such treatment not only preserves the surface, but to a very large extent prevents the formation of dust.

The Road Drag.

"Like all young, growing cities, Duluth has a very large mileage of earth roads whose only improvements consist in some grading, more or less adequate. It is a popular delusion that such roads cannot be made presentable and useable. As a matter of fact, where such streets have only the usual light traffic, a systematic maintenance by the persistent use of the road drag at the proper time is all that is required to make such a road satisfactory for nearly every day in the year. The expense of such maintenance should not be more than $25 to $50 per mile per year. The drag must never be used when the ground is dry, but preferably after a rain. The drag skilfully used will not only keep a dirt road properly crowned but will also maintain a fairly hard surface. Of course, if such road support any but light traffic, a macadam or some other construction will be found necessary. The use of a light asphaltic oil will sometimes give relief from undue wear and resulting dust, and should be tried in the outlying districts before asking such low priced property to stand the expense of an expensive pavement.

"Where such a pavement is really justified by the character and amount of traffic, it is the exception where increased property values do not result from the construction of a proper paving. Indeed, this is the only legal justification for the assessment of construction cost upon the abutting land owner."

SOLE SURVIVOR OF THE MERRIMAC

Last of Crew of Confederate Ironclad in a Poorhouse.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 27.—When William Durst, sole survivor of the famous crew that manned the Monitor when the cheesebox on a raft vanquished the Merrimac on Hampton Roads, back in 1862, celebrated that victory in Philadelphia, he little thought that still living was the last surviving member also of the crew of the Merrimac, the first ironclad that the Southern Confederacy thought was sure to sweep the Union fleet from the seas. That survivor is John McClellan, and he is an inmate of the Dauphin county almshouse, near this city. McClellan has been in the almshouse for several years, because his age prevented his working, and he had no other place to go.

McClellan was born in Ireland on May 1, 1831, and he is now rounding out his 83rd year. He joined the British army and fought in the Crimean war, and when it was ended he worked his way to this country, landing in New Orleans, where he had an uncle, captain of a steamboat on the Mississippi, and he gave McClellan a job as roustabout on the steamer.

He worked his way to Canada, and was there when the Civil war broke out, when he hastened to New Orleans and enlisted with the Louisiana Tigers, one of the most famous of Confederate regiments, and took part in notable battles.

After the ironclad Merrimac was built the question was how to man her, and volunteers were called for. McClellan was among the first to offer. From the time the Merrimac started on her first attack on the Union vessels in the Hampton Roads until she was beached and burned by her own crew, John was in the thick of the fighting. After the Merrimac was destroyed McClellan joined the Louisiana Tigers and remained a member of that regiment until Lee surrendered.

The leniency of the Union government to its prisoners so won the young Confederate that he thought the North must be a pretty good place in which to live, and he took up his residence in Philadelphia. He remained in that city several years, and in later years found employment in the steel works at Steelton, where he toiled in the mills as long as his health would permit. When it failed he decided to remain North, and applied for admission to the almshouse, which was accorded him, and he has remained there until he is almost at the end of life's journey.

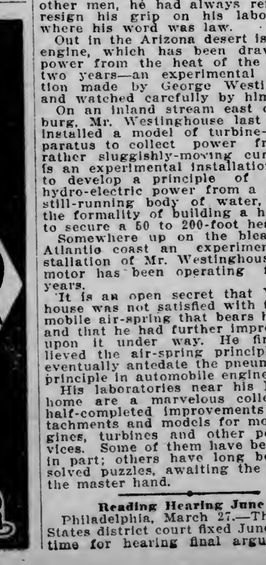
He tells of the fight between the two ironclads, and to this day will not admit that the Monitor had the better of the argument.

HURT PACIFYING HENS FIGHTING IN COOPS.

Clarion, Pa., March 27.—An attempt to separate fighting hens resulted in a serious wound for W. J. McEntire, a prominent poultryman of this city.

McEntire went into the coop to feed his chickens. Two old hens began to squabble and McEntire reached down to separate them, when a game rooster, who is the boss of the coop, took the motion as a sign of battle.

He struck McEntire on the wrist sinking one spur almost through the fleshy part and prouding a hole about three-quarters of an inch deep in another place. The hand and arm swelled and inflammation developed.



SECRETS LEFT IN THE MAKING

Number of Discoveries By Westinghouse Were Not Finished.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 27.—Men in mechanical engineering circles are asking each other what effect the death of George Westinghouse will have on a number of discoveries in the making. While Westinghouse, during the last few years of his life, passed over much of the management detail of his industrial interests to other men, he had always refused to resign his grip on his laboratories, where his word was law.

Out in the Arizona desert is a solar engine, which has been drawing its power from the heat of the sun for two years—an experimental installation made by George Westinghouse, and watched carefully by him.

On an inland stream east of Pittsburg, Mr. Westinghouse last summer installed a model of turbine-like apparatus to collect power from the rather sluggishly-moving current. It is an experimental installation, aimed to develop a principle of securing hydro-electric power from a peaceful, still-running body of water, without the formality of building a huge dam to secure a 50 to 200-foot head.

Somewhere up on the bleak North Atlantic coast an experimental installation of Mr. Westinghouse's tidal motor has been operating for two years.

It is an open secret that Westinghouse was not satisfied with the automobile air-spring that bears his name, and that he had further improvements upon it under way. He firmly believed the air-spring principle would eventually antedate the pneumatic tire principle in automobile engineering.

His laboratories near his Pittsburg home are a marvelous collection of half-completed improvements and attachments and models for motors, engines, turbines and other power devices. Some of them have been tested in part; others have long been half-solved puzzles, awaiting the touch of the master hand.

Reading Hearing June 3.

Philadelphia, March 27.—The United States district court fixed June 3 as the time for hearing final arguments in the suit of the government against the Reading company and others.

NEW ANTI-MAIMING DEVICES SHOWN

Not Patented and May Be Copied By Any Person.

New York, March 27.—Helping workers to keep both hands and all of their fingers is the purpose of an exhibit which has just been installed in the American Museum of Safety, 29 West Thirty-ninth street, consisting of the various methods devised by safety engineers to prevent maiming operators of press punch machines, the most vicious and together with woodworking machinery responsible for injuries to many thousands of workers yearly in American industries. The devices are not patented and may be copied and adopted by any mill or factory owner who values the welfare of his employes. One of the devices consists of a suction handle with which the operator places the metal to be punched under the ram, leaving his hands out of danger. In another the only possible means of tripping the press is by lowering a safety guard which will not go down if the operator's hand is under it. Again there is a lever which sweeps under the descending ram and pushes the worker's hand away in case he has forgotten to pull it away. Still another has two handles both of which must be pressed down to start the machine thus compelling the operator to have both hands out of the danger zone. The actual machines are shown in operation at the museum and a safety engineer is on hand to demonstrate them to the public.

THE 1915 MIDSUMMER FESTIVAL AND PAGEANT.

Within the last two days two more organizations have fallen into the procession for the 1915 festival, making twenty-four in all with at least a couple more to come.

The Office Men's association, which here as elsewhere is developing into a valuable medium for crystalizing public sentiment into public action, has appointed its committee, and so has the Duluth Curling club. The Curling club, though its activities ordinarily are confined to the winter, is made up from the biggest and best citizenship in the community; and both these organizations will be welcomed into the ranks of boosters for the midsummer festival.

So far, the project has gone along smoothly—almost too smoothly.

We feel a lack of something that seems needful to the complete success of any big project—criticism and opposition.

Where is the big movement that ever swung magnificently down the highway of success without bowling over at least a handful of objectors—and often a mob of them?

There never was such a movement, and probably there never will be.

Objectors stood around when Noah built the ark, you may be sure, and jeered at Noah. They said it was only going to be a little shower, and besides the ark wasn't built on the right lines and wouldn't hold all the animals and would turn upside down in the first gale.

There is no reason to expect that the festival project will have a history different from that of other big plans. There will be critics and opponents and objectors. They are to be expected; and we shan't be quite sure that the plan has really taken hold and sunk its roots deeply until they appear. They haven't been audible yet, but they will be—you may be sure of that.

They will declare that Duluth isn't able to carry out such a project; that it can't raise the money; that it isn't enterprising enough; that the plan would be a failure anyway, and wouldn't bring anybody here; that it would bring so many people here that we wouldn't have any way to take care of them; that it might rain all during the festival week, etc., etc., etc.

That such and similar objections will shortly be heard is as sure as that Noah built the ark and that the ark fooled its critics by making good.

Incidentally, why doesn't some enterprising English reporter interview Private Mulvaney on the army crisis?

CONTROLLING IMMIGRATION.

Nobody can say that this country has been niggardly of its hospitality to the people of other lands less rich in opportunities.

With very slight restrictions, its gates have been wide open to a great stream of immigration from all lands—except those peopled by Orientals.

And much of its best citizenship has come through these gates in the last half century.

Now, however, there is an unmistakable feeling that the time has come to draw the lines a little closer. There are people with doubts about our ability to assimilate much more miscellaneous immigration. They feel that perhaps it would be as well to limit immigration for awhile, until assimilation of recent immigration has gone far enough to encourage a restoration of the wide-open gate policy.

It is not easy, though, to decide upon a plan for this. Most of the plans now being considered are offensive to somebody. The Pacific coast would arbitrarily forbid Orientals to come, caring little how grave an affront the legislation they propose would be. There is a strong impulse in congress back of the measure to make literacy the test, and though it has arguments that commend it, it is hard to get around the injustice it involves when it shuts out worthy people who, though illiterate, are eager for knowledge and lack it only because of tyranny and oppression in their native land.

Professor Sidney L. Gulick has proposed a plan which, coupled with the unquestionably wise restrictions now imposed, would curb immigration without raising false standards or affronting any people.

He explains his plan, which has already been laid before the senate, in the Survey magazine. He proposes that the annual inflow from any country be limited to an arbitrary percentage of those from that country who have been naturalized, and of their American-born children.

While not picking out Orientals for insulting differential legislation, this plan would effectually bar out all Orientals. Moreover, it would tend to restore the current of immigration more nearly to the old and best conditions when the bulk of it came from Northern and Western Europe—from the Scandinavian peninsula, from Germany and from the British isles.

Applying a rate of five per cent, this plan would admit 405,000 German immigrants, when only 27,788 entered in 1912. It would admit 363,500 from Great Britain, and but 83,000 came in that year. It would admit from the Scandinavian peninsula several times as many as come from there now. But it would reduce Russian immigration from 162,395 in 1912 to a maximum of 94,000; and it would cut Italian immigration from 157,134 in 1912 to a maximum of 54,850. It would limit Japanese immigration to 220 a year, and Chinese to 738.

If the country feels that immigration should be restricted, it could hardly do better than to put its admissions on a basis corresponding to the percentage of immigrants that have become naturalized and have borne children on this soil.

It is interesting to know that Dr. Gulick will be in Duluth April 3, when those who are interested—which ought to mean everybody—will have an opportunity to hear his ideas described more in detail.

Whatever else may be said about this army mixup over in Merrie England, it will be generally conceded that "it's bad for the young British soldier."

THE CANDIDATE AND THE PRIMARY

Governor Eberhart announces that he wants to be governor again, and says, in effect, that the fate of the primary election system hinges upon his political future.

My, my! We do hope that isn't so! The primary election system is very, very important, and ought not to hinge on things so trifling as that. We can't spare the primary. If in order to keep it we must also keep Eberhart, we'd better keep him, of course. Better a thousand years of Eberhart than no primary.

But maybe it isn't so. Indeed, we suspect strongly that it isn't. After the first plunge into dismay and apprehension that the governor's words made us take, we bob up to the surface feeling a little more cheerful. Maybe it isn't so. Maybe we can get rid of Eberhart and still keep the primary. Time will tell.

Incidentally, here's something quite puzzling: the governor says he stands on his record, and his record is the very thing on which his opponents attack him. Now isn't that odd?

The statement that the United States senate has spent more than a hundred and sixty thousand dollars on investigations in the last few months would seem to offer promising ground for yet another investigation as to whether the country has got its money's worth.

THAT GARBAGE COLLECTION PROPOSAL.

A private company—identity of its backers so far unknown—proposes to relieve the city of all trouble about collecting garbage and handling the incinerator. It will take a five-year contract, agreeing to certain rates to be charged the public for taking care of its garbage and ashes.

And the commission now is considering this bid. It ought to—and doubtless will—consider it carefully and with full regard to all possible contingencies before acting upon it.

On the city's side it appears that money will be saved because some of its work would be taken over by the company. That is so much to the good.

The taxpayer, though, will want to know what effect it is going to have on him.

Will the service be as satisfactory under non-competitive conditions as it is now? If the city retains full power of regulation maybe it will be.

Will the cost to the householder be as little as it is now, or less, or more? That is yet to be determined. Probably it will be cheaper for some, and more expensive for others. One citizen, after studying the proposed rates, thinks it would cost him something over nineteen dollars a year, where now he is getting satisfactory service for fifteen. Probably he will not favor the change.

And then the many individuals now engaged in garbage-collection as a business—they ought not to be thrown out of business lightly, and without some pretty tangible gain.

If it is a shifting of cost from the city to the householders, we shouldn't favor that. The city's expenses are met by taxation, which everybody owning property—including non-residents—has to share. The home-owner ought to have the best of it, on the whole. No burdens should be shifted to him from the non-resident owner of idle property.

Clearly, there are a good many things that ought to be made pretty clear before the city goes into this deal. And especially it ought to be made plain that the home-owner will benefit by it—otherwise it ought not to be entertained.

It will be a severe shock to the superstitions of the country at large to learn that it is possible to swindle anybody in Boston on a book deal.

Uncle Eli on City Life

Youth's Companion: When Uncle Eli Gridley of Dewy Dale went to pay an overnight visit to his niece in the city, his wife, Aunt Susan, enjoined him to take particular note of Delia's clothes, the furnishing of her home, the kind of meals she gave him, and, in short, to gather every item of domestic interest, to be reported to her on his return.

When he got home again, Uncle Eli declared that he had followed instructions, although it had required close application and great diligence to do so. Delia had kindly explained everything to him and had even written down the unfamiliar words with their pronunciation for him.

"If I've got some of the names mixed up a bit," he remarked, with a twinkle of dry humor in his eye, "they ain't far enough out the way to do any hurt, and I did the best I could."

"All right," beamed Aunt Susan; "tell what you can recollect. I reckon Delia's got a fine home, hasn't she?"

"Elegant; it's built in the old Flanders fashion; the walls are paneled in Parmesan with trimmin's au gratin, and the furniture is mostly of the old puree style. Delia likes that better than the crepe de chine—says it isn't so florid. The floors haven't got any carpets — just rugs, dreadful costly ones that come mostly from Mayonnaise."

"Goodness me!" commented Aunt Susan, admiringly. "And what kind of clothes did Delia wear?"

"Awful handsome. Her dinner dress was blue Limoges trimmed with rows of bouillon; it had a little pergola round the neck made out of jardiniere, and she wore a beautiful ragout in her hair."

"O la!" gasped Aunt Susan.

"But the dinner—it beat the choir, Susan. The dinner set was of charmeuse, mighty pretty, and the victuals were fine. There was soup lingerie, roast beef a la foulard, spaghetti with medallions, potatoes pongee and a dandy Satsuma puddin' with bandeau sauce."

"Well, well," marveled Aunt Susan, as Uncle Eli, having reached the climax of his report, discreetly took himself out of the way, "to think of little Delia puttin' on all that style! I do wish Eli had asked her for the receipt of that puddin'—it's a new kind to me."

Prejudice.

He pricked his finger on a rose
And then went forth to warn
His neighbors of the bush that grows
A sharp and dangerous thorn.

"Beware," he cried, "that little tree;
It is an ugly thing,
For once it sorely wounded me,
And you 'twill surely sting."

And so he went along his way
Proclaiming loud his woes,
Advising everyone to stay
In terror of the rose.

And there are men who walk about,
With logic just as sound,
Of other fellows pointing out
The faults that they have found.

They bid us heed their cry of "thorn,"
And fail the rose to scan;
And they would blind us with their scorn
To what is good in man.

The Palm Tree of Capri.

George William Curtis: I knew a palm tree upon Capri. It stood in select society of shining fig leaves and lustrous oleanders; it overhung the balcony and so looked, for overleaning, down upon the blue Mediterranean. Through the dream mists of Southern Italian noons it looked up the broad Bay of Naples and saw vague Vesuvius melting away; or at sunset the Isles of the Sirens; or in the full May moonlight the oranges of Sorreno shone across it great and golden, permanent planet of that delicious dark. And from the Sorrento, where Tasso was born, it looked across to pleasant Posilippo, where Vergil is buried and to stately Ischia. The palm of Capri saw all that was fairest and most famous in the Bay of Naples.

Feminism.

Manchester Guardian: A feminine voice was heard from the steps of a crowded car, "Oh, get in, dear; some one will give us a seat." The next moment two ladies entered. The men in the car were on their mettle. They read papers sternly. Those who had no papers closed their eyes and pretended to slumber. The too-certain ladies glared down the car in vain. For half a mile the car went on. Then a man alighted.

"There's a seat for some one," said the guard.

"Don't take it, dear," said one of the ladies. "Some man will want it."

In the moment of defeat she triumphed.

Knew His Own Speed.

Lippincott's: A retail dealer in leather goods, doing business in Baltimore, wrote to a firm in Southern Massachusetts ordering a carload of the merchandise. The firm wired him: "Cannot ship your order until the last consignment is paid for."

"Unable to wait so long," telegraphed the leather merchant. "Cancel the order."

Expert Collector.

Washington Post: One difficulty in the way of buying Huerta off is that he's already collecting at the source.

What Cancer Is

From the World's Work.

The word "cancer," though it figures largely in popular speech, is used with less and less frequency in medical literature. There is probably no word comprehensive enough to include all the kinds of abnormal growths to which the human frame is subject.

Cancer is merely one shape in which this tendency to malformation manifests itself. The human body, in its ideal condition, is a symmetrical product. It consists of a multitude of parts, each developing, not only with reference to itself, but in perfect harmony with the rest of the organism. A subtle influence, known as the power of organization, regulates this highly important matter. An arm, a leg, a nose, a chin—any organ or member which one cares to name—does not develop independently, but preserves important relations with the rest of the body.

Our four fingers and thumbs have constantly in mind the rights of one another; when one reaches a certain size, it does not keep on growing, but stops; if it still went on, a single finger would reach a length of several feet in a lifetime.

Any observant person, however, is aware that this law is constantly violated. On almost any part of the body little independent growths start into existence. These are composed of minute groups of rebellious cells; small colonies which, for some reason, ignore this law of development and start on an independent existence of their own. They serve no physiological purpose; when harmless, as they frequently are, they are merely inconvenient blemishes; when dangerous they end by destroying life.

Mild manifestations of this lawless tendency are the queer formations commonly known as warts and moles. There are other more noteworthy protuberances, such as "wens," that grow inexplicably, frequently upon the scalp, reach a certain size, and then stop.

This latter growth belongs to the general class of tumors known as "benign." They are benign simply because, after developing sluggishly to a certain point, their growth is mysteriously arrested. Between benign tumors and the most malignant cancers there is only this difference: That the latter have the power of unlimited growth.

The true cancer, once started on its riotous career, keeps on and digs deep into healthy surrounding tissue and destroys it, until finally, for a variety of reasons, it kills the patient. In some cases a benign growth which has remained quiescent for years suddenly develops a new vitality and becomes malignant. There are those who maintain, though the occurrence is certainly rare, that a harmless wart may sometimes develop into a genuine cancer.

The point to be brought in mind is that all these abnormal growths are related; that the only thing that makes one malignant and another not is this tendency to keep growing. A genuine cancer, in its final stages, has another development; it no longer confines its activity to the original seat, but starts new cancers in other parts of the body. Certain groups of cancer cells break away from the primary headquarters, escape into the blood stream, and start new growths elsewhere. This is the phenomenon known as "generalized cancer." This condition is important in any discussion of radium. It may as well be said here that radium has no favorable effect upon cancer which has reached this "generalized" stage.

Evidence in Rebuttal.

The Popular Magazine: On the Saturday before the last mayoralty election in New York, Michael Flannigan was greatly distressed. He looked up his friend, Mulligan, and confided to him his fears.

"Mulligan," he said tearfully, "Pat Casey's going to vote the Republican ticket."

"'Tain't possible!" denied Mulligan.

"It's the truth if I ever spoke it," asserted Flannigan. "Pat Casey's gone to the devil. He's going to vote the Republican ticket."

"'Tain't possible," reiterated Mulligan, causing Flannigan to lose his temper.

"Don't stand there like a fool and tell me 'tain't possible!" shouted Flannigan. "I tell you Pat Casey's going to vote that Republican ticket!"

"Well," said Mulligan, absolutely bewildered. "I don't see how that can be. I saw him at mass this morning."

Man, as Seen By a Woman Editor.

Mrs. E. E. Kelley in the Toronto, Can. Republican: The average man will hold his nose cheerfully to the grindstone provided the right one does the turning.

If he is left to do the turning himself he is scarcely to be blamed if it is somebody's nose that gets ground.

The average woman is truthful, but she can tell a necessary fib without batting an eye.

The average woman can keep a secret, but if she wants it disseminated she knows where to deposit it.

The average married woman learns as much gossip from her husband as she does from her sewing circle.

Where One Fell Down.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Speaking of office boys the other day, Congressman Charles A. Kennedy of Ohio said that as a general rule they were strictly on the job in the matter of keen wit. An exception, however, was Johnny Smith.

Johnny had been instructed what to tell a certain caller, and when the boss came in the youngster's face was full of a self-satisfied smile.

"Mr. Jones came in a few minutes ago," announced Johnny, "and I told him that you had just left for San Francisco."

"That's good," responded the boss, with a commendatory smile. "What did he say?"

"He asked me when you would be back," answered Johnny, "and I told him right after dinner."

Who Says Hens Have No Brains?

Atlantic: "Hens have no brains," declared the wife of a modern farmer as she chased a fat old Wyandotte toward the roosting place she should have sought voluntarily.

Before I could challenge the woman's statement, the hen, by a brilliant strategic movement, completely eluded her pursuer, and with a triumphant cackle disappeared in the tall grass. The method of her escape showed brains, there could be no two opinions about that; but it was her cackle that should have settled any wavering doubt in the mind of her detractor, for that cackle was uttered at exactly the right moment; not an instant too soon, not a second too late. And it takes brains to know just when to cackle.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Wshington, March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin D. Foster of Illinois, once a doctor, now a representative, does watchdogging over the treasury, and seems to try almost as hard to save government money as "Dick" Austin of Tennessee does to spend it. Both he and Austin were members of a committee from the house of representatives that journeyed to Colorado recently to see about the coal strike at Trinidad. Foster was chairman of the committee and opposed any needless expense. He would not stand for taxicabs when they were going any place within walking distance, and insisted that private baths in a hotel are not only expensive, but are undemocratic and border on snobbery.

When they got to Colorado they met up with a former member of congress who knew them all, and who, just for old times' sake, offered to give them legal counsel.

After they had started homeward, the other members of the committee amused themselves by arranging fake telegrams from the ex-representative to Foster, asking for payment of $250 for legal services.

Foster pounded his chest and declared that he would never allow any such payment, but the others shook their heads gravely and said they feared he couldn't help it.

"If I did pay it," declared Foster, wrathfully, "it would be only the second time in my life I was ever stung."

"And what was the other time?" they asked, full of curiosity.

"The time I went into a restaurant and bought myself a caviar sandwich," replied Foster, savagely.

Representative Edmund Platt, who is a newspaper publisher of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., knows more things that are true about birds than anybody in congress.

Whenever he can collect a little spare time, Platt puts dull statecraft behind him and sets forth into the woods and fields to listen to the song and twitter of the birds. Sparrows, robins, flamingoes, storks, crows, wrens—no matter what kind of birds he sees, Platt knows them all by sight. If it's sitting still he can tell it by its plumage, if flying, by its gait. And if he can't see the stork or linnet or cockatoo or whatever the bird is, he can identify it by its song. A bird finds it practically impossible to fool Platt. The blackbird that tries to pass itself off on Platt for a quail would present an absurd spectacle.

Platt grew to mature manhood without knowing any more about birds than anybody else, and never even raised a pair of pigeons in his boyhood. He knew sparrows from humming birds and recognized one or two other varieties at sight, but that was about the total of his bird knowledge. One day, a few years ago, he visited the home of John Burroughs, the naturalist, who lives not far from Poughkeepsie. Burroughs made him a bird enthusiast and ever since then he has been paying close heed to the chirp of our little feathered friends.

Rarely does Platt venture out of the house without his bird book and his opera glasses in his pocket.

* * *

A bird may take the view of the one in the poem and assert: "Nobody knows but my mate and I where our nest and nestlings lie. Chee, chee, chee."

But that bird is wrong. For Platt knows.

One morning recently Platt paused in a little park on his way up to Capitol hill to fix his opera glasses on a bird that was going twee, twee, twee in a mighty oak tree. Innocent pedestrians stopped to look, wondering what manner of man or beast Platt had sighted in the tree. One old fellow, however, was smarter than the rest. As he passed he remarked out of the corner of his mouth to Platt:

"I've seen you practical jokers before. You'll stare up yonder a long time before you'll get me to look."

William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, and His Excellency J. J. Jusserand, ambassador of the French republic, have become almost chummy since Mr. Bryan landed his present position. Jusserand drops in on Bryan with the utmost informality whenever he feels like it, without waiting for diplomatic day, and whenever they meet they crack jokes with each other.

Not long ago Jusserand made a series of eight or nine informal calls on Bryan to talk over a little diplomatic project. They agreed on what should be done and everything was arranged, but Jusserand could not bring himself to depart entirely from custom, and so came around one afternoon to present his proposition in formal diplomatic language. This greatly amused Bryan.

"I'll think the matter over," said he, "but you have given me a severe shock. Why haven't you told me about this before?"

Representative James Francis Burke journeyed a time ago to the classic little college town of Grove City, Pa., to deliver an address on "Money." Shortly before the date set for Burke's address, something had gone awry with the reservoir system at the town and the board of health had been called on to find the cause of 1,100 cases of sudden illness.

But Burke knew nothing about the troubles with the water system, and the opening remark of the chairman of the reception committee was enough to startle even a sterner spirit than he.

"Glad to see you, Mr. Burke," said the chairman; "but our audience won't be as large as we had expected. Within twenty-four hours after it was announced that you were to speak here more than a thousand of our people were taken sick, and most of them are still in bed."

A Defi to Trouble.

Come, Trouble! Let me take your hat
And make you comfy by the fire.
There, in that chair where oft has sat
Your grandsire and his grandsire's sire,
Take ease. You're not the first, you see,
I've known of your poor-witted clan
That came to flout and pester me—
I am a trouble-hardened man.

You cannot bring a hurt so deep—
Unless I join my will with yours—
As to keep off my restful sleep
Behind the kind night's firm-bolted doors.
You cannot bring a grief 'twill last
Through many of life's changing years—
I've known your forbears in the past
And gave them all my surplus fears.

And thus—O trouble, but I'm glad
You came today!—always have come
Some of your tribe, with story sad
With countenance dour and glum,
Upon the eve of blessings rich
That marked an onward step for me—
Come, rest within my ingle niche,
O harbinger of good-to-be!

Wanted—A Real Man for State Executive

Views of the state press on a much needed change.

If the Democrats Don't First.

Fairmont Sentinel: If, in a moment of sense and sanity, the Bull Moosers should pick for governor a good, clean, high-type county option man like Senator Ole Sageng of Ottertail county, they would stand a chance of electing him. Hugh Halbert & Co. will do well to go into executive session upon this suggestion.

Might Eliminate Tourist.

Brown's Valley Tribune: Senator Ole O. Sageng of Ottertail county, and also the Populist party of the state, is just now being groomed as the dark horse candidate for governor. "When Ole gets his plowing done" we may hear from him about the matter, unless, perchance, in the meantime, the Populist party should follow in the wake of the two old parties and hold an elimination conference. However, in these non-partisan political days, Ole might make a run that would eventually eliminate the present "tourist" who occasionally occupies the gubernatorial chair in the interior of Minnesota's massive and majestic marble mansion.

Few at Least.

Carlton Vidette: Partisan politics seem to have been eliminated in most county policies—in fact, ever since Governor John A. Johnson was elected and made good, the party lines began to wobble. If the Republicans fail to unite on one or two candidates, some Democrat stands a fine show of occupying the governor's chair the next term. In this case, there is probably not another man in that party better fited for the job than Ole Sageng.

Ole's the Goods.

Biwabik Times: A few days ago The Duluth Herald used two columns to tell about the good qualities of Ole Sageng, famous as the "populist party of Minnesota." Ole is one of the wise men of this great state, and The Herald could not say too many nice things about him. He is straight and he is progressive to the point of being radical.

Why Ole Has Won.

Warren Register: The Duluth Herald is booming Ole O. Sageng for governor, and doesn't seem to care what ticket he runs on. Senator Sageng is a unique figure in Minnesota politics at this time. He is the sole survivor of the once powerful Populist party in this state—in fact, he is that party, for he has been able to elect and reelect himself senator from Ottertail county as the representative, nominally, of a party that long since became extinct everywhere else. But it is not a party name that has made Ole successful in politics, for his county long ago abandoned Populism—except when and where Ole was concerned. He has won in spite of the handicap of the party label he wore, because of exceptional ability, his clear-headed common sense, his inflexible integrity and his absolute devotion to the ideals he set up for the government of his official conduct. Any party would be proud to number him among its members and to elevate him to a place high among its leaders, if he would but say the word and come over and dwell in its tent. He has at times mildly flirted with the Republicans, the Bull Moosers and the Democrats, but in no such case was there even a suggestion of a sacrifice of any cherished principle on his part.

Only By Unpardonable Mistakes.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: There seems to be perfect harmony in the ranks of Minnesota Democracy (all except Dan Lawler), and we cannot see how the party can possibly get away from electing its state ticket from top to bottom this year.

Pursuit of Health

Walt Mason in Judge: Along the pike I sadly hike, clear to the county's borders; o'er sand and rock I daily walk—it is the doctor's orders. O'er hill and dale I hit the trial, and sigh, "If heaven pleases, this honest toil, close to the soil, will cure my twelve diseases." The farmer's pup would eat me up and chase me o'er the ridges; I'm full of scars where motor cars have knocked me off the bridges. But still I toil across the soil, where grinning jays behold me, until I lame my withered frame, because the doctor told me.

The doc's commands! When them he hands down from his whiskered jawbones, the patient bows and makes his vows that he'll obey the sawbones. No prince or king on earth, by jing! can make the people mind him, like our old doc; we never balk, but just obey, dad blind him!

He feels my wrist and mutters, "Hist! Your heart is out of kilter; your lungs are punk—this is is no bunc, your kidneys do not filter. You live too high, eat too much pie and porterhouse and cutlets; you'll have to change your habits strange, like other pampered muttlets. Hereafter eat a cold raw beet, which will sustain and cheer you, and when you're dry just cast your eye upon that hydrant near you."

No other guy beneath the sky could make me do his bidding. I'd say, "Ods death! Conserve your breath! I'm weary of your kidding!" But when the doc makes such a talk, I argue not nor question; I live on straw and hay and slaw, and jar up my digestion. For days and weeks I live on leeks and barks and leaves and grasses, while neighbors boast the luscious roast and buckwheats and molasses.

Folks say to me, "Oh, hully chee! Why all these crazy ructions?" And I reply, with heartfelt sigh, "It is the doc's instructions!"

No king or prince before or since the throne was first invented, or crowns were made of zinc and jade, and halidoms were rented, could make us bend our heads and wend on errands vain and silly, as does the doc, whose pregnant talk is flanked by potions pilly!

Cattish!

Lippincott's: Mollie met Muriel at the matinee one afternoon. They embraced enthusiastically.

"Oh, dearie," cried Molly, "I'm so glad to see you! I have scarcely been able to wait until I could see you, to congratulate you on your engagement to Harold! Why didn't you give me a hint as to what you expected?"

"Why," replied Muriel, "I——"

"Now, don't you dare to tell me," went on Mollie, "that you concealed it from me intentionally!"

"Why, I didn't, certainly," said Muriel. "I really didn't expect it myself quite so soon, dear."

"He is such a charming fellow," continued Mollie. "Weren't you just surprised to death when he proposed to you, dearie?"

"Why, I can't say I was," replied Muriel. "Why should I have been?"

"Well," replied the dear friend, "everybody else was."

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

Charles R. Fossett, who has been at works at Grand Rapids, Mich., for several months, is expected to return to West Duluth within a few days.

The city of Duluth wins in the water bond injunction cases. Judge Moer has sustained the demurrer. The first point raised, that the council has no right to increase the bonded indebtedness of the city above 5 per cent, is decided favorably to the council. The claim that the franchise of the present company is exclusive has been decided to the contrary by the supreme court and is not discussed by Judge Moer, who also finds that no unreasonable time has elapsed between the vote of the citizens in 1891 authorizing the issue of the bonds and the present action by the council.

Coxey's army has reached Louisville, Ohio, on its march to Washington. It now numbers 100 men and recruits are expected daily.

D. C. Anderson, who has been editor of the Carlton County Vidette for several months, has purchased the paper.

R. J. MacLeod's rink won the Big Duluth cup last evening at the Glen Avon curling rink over R. R. Macfarlane's rink, the score being 25 to 5.

At the city council meeting last evening, Mayor Lewis presented the appointments of A. T. McGregor for the two-year term and E. C. Little for the three-year term on the board of fire commissioners. Ellsworth Benham was elected assistant city attorney, receiving thirteen votes, and his salary was fixed at $1,500 a year.

Fred L. Ryan received his commission yesterday and will assume the receivership of the Duluth land office on April 1.

Holberg Bros., West end jewelers, have offered a handsome prize to the winner in an elocutionary contest to be held between pupils from the ten rooms in the Lincoln school.

G. A. Cousens, who runs a billiard hall opposite the Spalding, has received $135,000 as his share of the estate of an aunt who died in Ontario some time ago.

Fred Schofield yesterday assumed the management of the Woodward Clothing company's store at 224 West Superior street.

James Rooney, night telephone operator at police headquarters, has been succeeded by Joel Dwyer, formerly superintendent of the street sprinkling.

Not Very Important.

Lippincott's: An old Scottish gentleman who was a great enthusiast on the golf links and a young man who was equally enthusiastic about the game had spent the entire day in the field and had had some remarkably close and exciting games.

As they left for home the old man remarked, while his rugged face lighted up with a pleasant smile:

"Hey, mon, but it's been a gran' day!"

"It has," assented the young man.

"Think ye could come again on the morrow, laddie?"

"Well," answered the young man reflectively, "I was to be married, but I can put it off."

The Helpers.

I planted many seeds one day,
And then I had to go away
To make a visit; so I said:
"Oh, who will tend my garden-bed?"

The Sun said: "I'll tend it.
My warmest rays I'll lend it,
And when you come back home at last
You'll find our seeds are sprouting fast."

The Cloud said: "I will tend it.
My gentlest showers I'll send it,
And when you have come home again,
You'll see how gardens love the rain."

The Toad said: "I will tend it,
By night and day defend it;
No single bug or worm you'll see,
If you will trust its care to me."

When I came home, my garden-bed
Was just as safe as they had said,
And all my flowers were bright and green,
The finest garden ever seen!

SOCIALISTS AND WAR.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Some years ago when Germany and France were on the verge of war about Morocco the Socialists said a word or two and there was no war. A few years later Norway ceased to pay the salary to King Oscar and the royalty of Sweden were dancing the war dance, but the Socialists in Norway and Sweden resolved for peace and there was no war.

And it is clear to me that when the whole truth is known, that the mutiny in the British army is a direct result of the spread of Socialism. Even soldiers can be made class conscious.

T. G. L.

Duluth, March 25.

GUN IS OBSOLETE.

To the Editor of The Herald.

Talk about prophecies and things foreseen and anticipated in The Herald, what's the matter with this Ulster mixup?

Some time in 1904 The Herald used a wild-eyed yarn, "Peace Universal," in which this condition of soldiers declining to squabble was set forth. True, the time and place were a bit different, but that's a mere matter of detail. The fact is that it was perfectly patent to any one who used his thinker that a time would soon come when men, the plain men, would decline to be used as mere pawns and risk their lives and their principles and everything else for the simple whim or freak of some one who temporarily had or assumed some authority. And there'll be more of it yet and perhaps nearer home than Ulster.

Go put away your gun, it's an obsolete tool. Sincerely,

F. W. FITZPATRICK.

Washington, D. C., March 24.

A quotation from the article, which was written by Mr. Fitzpatrick in 1904, follows:

Le Morite, Paris, January 5, 1912.—The Austrian troops were massed at Dobrale. It was quite evident that this was no mere trial maneuver, though there had been great secrecy as to the movement and direction of the troops. Orders came from headquarters for the advance of artillery along the banks of the Drin and the crossing of cavalry. Then a spectacular event occurred. The orders were passed along the line, but not a man stirred. The officers were aghast. An old grizzled sergeant stepped out of the ranks and addressed the commanding officers. • • • He spoke in surprisingly well-chosen terms, accompanied by dramatic gestures, and was so impressive that not an officer made a move during the harangue. He said that the men knew perfectly well that the next step they made meant war. This was but a petty quarrel, and while the intention was perhaps but to make a demonstration that would bring the Servian government to its senses, no one knew when once the fuse was lighted, where or when the strife might end. It was more than likely that all of Europe would be involved. They (the troops) were fully aware of the awful action they were taking in thus refusing to begin hostilities. It meant possibly peremptory execution of the leaders and almost as serious results to the rest of them. But they had well weighed all the contingencies. Surely they (the officers) could not ascribe this decision to any cowardice on the part of the troops. They must know that he, at least, the grizzled veteran of many wars, would not from any personal motive of fear shirk what was his duty to his fatherland. But they must recognize and learn that that very duty to the fatherland was what impelled them to refuse to do that which was wrong and that would but redound to the detriment of the nation and the world. He made the startling statement that at that very moment the Servian troops were doing the same thing, and this was corroborated but a few hours after. He laid his rifle and accouterment at the feet of his commander, saying that thereafter there should be no more war among civilized peoples. A mighty shout arose from the ranks, and it was noticed that all but a very few of the officers joined in the waving of hats and jubilation that followed. • • •

WOMEN ROUGHHOUSE BOROUGH COUNCILORS

Suffragettes Raid Meeting and Police Refuse to Interfere.

London, March 27.—An extraordinary suffragette disturbance occurred at the Popular borough council yesterday, which had voted adversely to letting out council halls for suffragette meetings.

With shouts of "cowards" and other offensive epithets, a large number of women invaded that section of the hall reserved for the councillors. Bombs containing evil-smelling chemicals were exploded by the scores, and bags of flour and stones were flung at the members. The councillors were soon struggling with the infuriated women, many of whom were armed with bludgeons and bottles.

Shrieks and shouts, the smashing of glass and the splintering of chairs comprised one of the worst scenes of pandemonium in the history of the suffragette movement. The police were sent for, but for some reason refrained from interference.

Drove the Men Out.

The mayor retained the chair in a vain endeavor to resume the council proceedings, but finally the council beat a retreat, leaving the women in possession of the hall with a few Socialist members of the council, who remained to hear speeches delivered by Miss Zeile Emerson of Jackson, Mich., and others.

While Miss Emerson was speaking the council ventured to return to the chamber, and carried a resolution excluding the public from the chamber for three months.

George Lansbury, a member of the council and a strong supporter of the militant movement, fiercely protested against this proceeding as irregular, and threw the town clerk's books and papers to the floor, amid cheers from the suffragettes. The council meeting then adjourned.

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR WATERWAY FUND

Appropriations of $43,000,000 Are Carried By the Measure.

Washington, March 27.—After many days of debate, the rivers and harbors appropriation bill, carrying an aggregate of $43,400,000, was passed by the house without substantial amendment. The measure now goes to the senate.

WOULD REGULATE VOTE FOR CONGRESSMEN.

Washington, March 27—Federal regulation of elections of senators and representatives, on demand of citizens, is sought in two bills introduced by Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois.

"The right as well as the propriety of giving to the United States power to protect itself against the corrupt choice of its representative officers cannot be challenged," said the senator. "The election in Chicago in November, 1912, witnessed wholesale frauds in numerous precincts. It has been established beyond question that such frauds resulted in many thousands of unlawful votes being either improperly cast or improperly introduced into the ballot boxes."

NO EXTREME LEVEL OF WATER WANTED

Soo Business Man Says Power Company Simply Wants Protection.

T. H. Mackey, a leading contractor, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., formerly of Duluth, is in the city on business today and a guest at the Spalding. Mr. Mackey scoffs at the idea that the Michigan Northern Power company's proposal to dam the Soo river will work disaster to the shipping interests of Lake Superior.

"Heretofore," said Mr. Mackey, "as soon as low water was reached, the power company was shut off and had to suspend business. All that is desired now is to be permitted to maintain a certain working level, and there is no proposal to maintain an unreasonable level of water in the lake—merely to give the power company enough water to work with without interruption.

"Should the extreme level feared by Duluth and other parts of the lake be attempted, it would flood the streets of the Soo, for the level of the streets is below that of the present level of water, and its protection would be overcome by an extreme level. When we get a northwest storm there the water washes into the streets as it is."

VICTOR MORLEY BACK IN DULUTH

With an English roll to his trousers, a monocle, a bally suit of tweeds, and a Piccadilly accent, Victor Morley scattered a trail of "you knows" and "old chaps" from the Union station to the Spalding hotel this morning. Later he littered the hotel's lobby with elided "h's" while he renewed acquaintance with E. H. Lee, Dr. W. H. Salter and other members of the Smoozers' club.

Victor Morley probably has a larger personal acquaintance in Duluth than any other actor. During his visits here with "The Three Twins" and other musical shows, he met many Duluthians, and became one of the charter members of the "Smoozers." Since his last visit he has been in "Dear old Lunnon" and renewed his accent and his wardrobe.

Mr. Morley is here with "The Quaker Girl" company which will be seen at the Lyceum tonight.

PAID $1.25 A DAY.

Salvation Army Pot Tenders Did Not Work on Commission.

Persons who worked at the Salvation army pots on the streets during the holiday season in collecting money for the needy received not to exceed $1.25 a day for their services. Those who could afford it, gave their services free, and in no case did any of them secure a percentage of the receipts. "Santa Claus" got $2 a day for his work.

This statement was made by Ensign W. E. Graham of the Duluth Salvation army today, who says that he wishes to correct the mistaken idea that holiday workers obtained a percentage of the pot receipts.

In speaking of Harold Olson, who has filed suit against the army for services as solicitor on a percentage basis, he said:

"Olson's work was entirely with the Swedish corps in the western part of the city, and had nothing to do with the uptown headquarters. He made no arrangement with our office and performed no services for us. The merits of the case will be threshed out when it comes to trial, and I am sure Duluth people will find the army treated Mr. Olson fairly. What soliciting he did was for the Swedish corps building fund and had nothing to do with our relief work.

LOEW BUYS OUT VAUDEVILLE CIRCUIT.

Kansas City, Mo., March 27.—Marcus Loew of New York city, representing interests of which he is the principal stockholder, last night signed a contract to purchase the Sullivan-Considine vaudeville circuit and properties for an amount that will exceed $6,000,000. Mr. Loew will take over the properties Aug. 1 next.

The properties, which are scattered throughout the country, are owned jointly by George W. Considine and the estate of Timothy D. Sullivan of New York city. Thirty-seven theaters owned outright by the Sullivan-Considine interests, and 100 theaters which the circuit books and has interests in, were involved in the deal.

Mr. Loew, under the contract, will pay the Sullivan-Considine forces $1,500,000 for its "good will," and an inventory will be made for theaters and properties of the circuit at their present value.

Mr. Loew agrees to pay the amount the inventory calls for, which is estimated to be between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000. Mr. Considine represented his circuit in the transaction.

Mr. Loew announced he would combine the theaters involved in this deal with the houses he now owns. This will bring the number of theaters now controlled by him up to 200.

The houses involved in the deal do not include Mr. Considine's personal holdings in the Northwest, which Mr. Considine will retain and manage.

Mr. Loew announced that through his purchase he would be enabled to give vaudeville performers two-year contracts.

MISSING WELFARE WORKER KIDNAPED.

Chicago, March 27.—Edith Schubert, 17 years old, a social welfare worker at Brookfield, a suburb, who came to Chicago last Friday in search of a larger field for her endeavors, and disappeared, has been found destitute in a hotel in Cleveland, Ohio, according to a telegram received here by her sister, Mrs. Willis Melville. The girl is believed to have been taken to Cleveland by an unknown man, according to the message.

Miss Schubert is a member of the Sorosis society in Brookfield, and was active in its work, the object of which is to inspire higher ideals in young women. She expected to find employment in Chicago and return to Brookfield each evening, eventually establishing herself here to carry on her welfare work on a larger scale.

MOTHER! IT'S CRUEL TO FORCE OIL OR CALOMEL INTO A SICK CHILD.

"California Syrup of Figs" Can't Harm Tender Stomach, Liver, Bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "physic" that mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. Their children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing give "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow. It should be the first remedy given as it always does good, never any harm.

Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

WHAT THE HOUSEFLY MUST ANSWER FOR

Causes Terrible Loss of Life and Property Yearly, Says Lecturer.

The housefly is responsible for an annual loss of many million dollars and a death list aggregating many thousands yearly according to a statement made by Prof. F. L. Washburn in a lecture on "The Extermination of the Housefly" at the Irving Social center last night.

He said that nearly one-fifth of the deaths of children under 5 years of age in the United States could be attributed to the ravages of the fly.

The professor advocated a universal campaign for the extermination of the fly. He said the fly was the greatest distributer of filth and disease that the people had to contend with, and that it caused more cases of typhoid fever than any other insect.

"The house fly is the greatest menace," he said, "with the biting stable fly a close second. Both types are hardy and will increase in number with almost unbelievable rapidity.

"Counting every generation, one female fly in April will be effective in bringing into the word 214,557,884,320,000,000,000,000 flies, according to carefully calculated figures. At the end of the season this will mean that 6,000,000,000,000 will be living. Figuring each fly one-fourth of an inch long, if these flies were placed end towards end they would form a line which would go around the world at the equator 2,000 times.

"A community can be made almost flyless if individual householders would discover that they were partly responsible for the ravages of the pest one step would be taken in the right direction. In exterminating the fly I recommend that a poison spray be sprinkled on filth and other breeding places for the fly; that a poison milk formulation be used to entice it when free; that community campaigns be waged and interest aroused in school children. Details should be emphasized and Swat the Fly paragraphs should be run in newspapers to keep people enthusiastic. Then if filth were abolished and literature on the fly circulated there would be very little damage caused by one of the greatest detriments to health of the present day."

Professor Washburn delivered the same lecture yesterday afternoon at the Bryant school at which Mayor Prince presided. Dr. H. E. Webster presided at the meeting last evening.

This afternoon Prof. Washburn again gave the lecture at the Irving school, Commissioner Hicken presided. The lectures were given under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club.

CARRIER SERVICE FOR THE SUBURBS

Postal Stations Will Be Maintained at New Duluth and Gary.

Carrier service will be inaugurated in New Duluth, Gary and the steel plant district on April 1. One man will carry the mail for the district and later the number will be increased, according to the demand.

U. C. Tower, the postmaster at New Duluth, will no longer hold this title. He will become the clerk in charge of the office, and the office will also be known in the future as a postal station, where stamps, money orders and the like will be sold. A similar office will also be opened in the near future in the suburb of Gary.

The one mail carrier will carry the mail for both New Duluth and Gary. It is expected that this arrangement will suffice for some time to come. A number of mail boxes will also be installed at various corners in both suburbs.

"KIDS" DEFEAT "OLD TIMERS"

A rink made up of "kids" badly defeated a rink composed of "old-timers" at the Western Curling rink last night. The final score was 15 to 9. The youngsters piled up a score of nine stones before any were laid by the seasoned players.

The "kid" rink was skipped by Alex Donald. The other members of his rink were Thomas Quinn, third; Earl Donald, second, and Alec Anderson, lead. Kenneth McDonald skipped the rink for the "old-timers." The personnel of the rink was: F. H. Wade, third; George Mallory, second, and A. G. Macauley, lead.

Another rink of "kid" players will play another aggregation of seasoned players tonight.

DISCUSS FOURTH OF JULY PROGRAM

Several Merchants Favor Week's Celebration Rather Than One Day.

The West Duluth Fourth of July association will probably be revived this year with a view of celebrating the nation's birthday. R. J. Baker, president of the organization, said this morning that a meeting of the association would probably be called early next month for the purpose of deciding whether steps should be taken to celebrate this year.

"There are a number of merchants who would favor a celebration that would continue for a week instead of one day," said Mr. Baker. "The uncertainty of the weather for a one-day celebration makes many skeptical about going to any money outlay. A carnival or some feature which would attract the people of the city for a week would satisfy many of them far better."

The association has a small amount of money in the bank left over from a celebration two years ago. The other officers are Hugh Viou, secretary, and L. A. Barnes, treasurer.

Many of the details have already been attended to. The banquet will be held in Dormedy's hall on April 30 and the committee has decided to limit the tickets to 300 guests.

Charles Nash was arrested last night for trespassing in the railroad yards of the Canadian Northern railroad. Special Officer Cavanaugh claims to have found the man loitering among the box cars. He will be taken before the West Duluth court this afternoon for a hearing.

CROOKSTON AUTO CLUB HAS MEET

Officers Elected and Work of Year in Road Building Reviewed.

Crookston, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the Crookston Automobile club last evening Dr. G. R. Morley was re-elected president and other officers were elected as follows: Vice president, E. O. Hagen; treasurer, I. B. Fisher; secretary, C. M. Lumpkin; board of governors, the officers and W. R. Low, Ed Peterson, Sam Rosenthal, B. D. Keck and W. T. Carlisle.

The report of Secretary Walter Taylor showed that during the past years the club had cleaned up an indebtedness carried over from the previous year of $1,300, graveled six miles of road and assisted in graveling many miles, in addition to inducing town boards and the county commissioners to gravel a total of about twenty miles. The club expended in all $3,000, and has a small cash balance in the treasury in addition to owning $2,000 worth of road building machinery including a gas tractor, all paid for.

Preserve Pembina Trail.

On motion of P. M. Ringdal the president will appoint a committee consisting of Attorneys Hagen, Loring and Murphy to confer with other auto clubs and boards of county commissioners and the state highway commission relative to concerted action to preserve the old Pembina trail, opening up such portions of it as have been closed, and thus perpetuate the finest automobile road in the Northwest.

WEYERHAEUSER IS DANGEROUSLY ILL

Lumber King Is Sick With Pneumonia at Pasadena, Cal.

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frederick Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, widely known as America's "lumber king" and one of the wealthiest men in the United States, today was reported in private dispatches to be dangerously ill of pneumonia at his winter home in Pasadena, Cal.

Mr. Weyerhaeuser is 80 years of age.

RECOVER WATCH AND CATCH THIEVES

By an odd coincidence a $40 watch stolen from August Brown in Superior last night was recovered today and Herbert Mcleski and Leo Metkofski arrested by the Superior authorities on a charge of highway robbery.

At 10:40 o'clock this morning August Brown came to police headquarters and reported the theft of his watch in Superior last night. He was referred to Lieutenant of Detectives Norman Terry, who made a report of the case and promised to watch at local pawnshops.

Within three minutes Lieut. Terry called Pawnshop Inspector William Mead of Superior and reported the watch theft and asked the latter to be on the lookout for the timepiece in the various loan offices in Superior. He also gave Inspector Mead the numbers of the watch.

No sooner had Lieut. Terry finished telephoning than he received a return call from Inspector Mead, who said that the watch was at the Superior headquarters and that two men arrested early this morning as suspects were just at that minute trying to give the timepiece to Michael Brzonkala, a Superior attorney, if he would defend them in court. The latter was looking at the watch when Inspector Mead stepped up and, examining the numbers, found that they tallied with those given him by Lieut. Terry.

Meleski and Metkofski were then booked up on the new charge of highway robbery and Brown was ordered to come over to Superior at once and appear against the two prisoners. They will be arraigned this afternoon.

KILLED BY ENGINE AT BROOK PARK.

Hinckley, Minn., March 27.—John Norman, aged 35, was killed at Brook Park a few days ago by being struck by an engine. He was working with the extra gang, and it is presumed he did not hear the warning whistle. His remains were brought to Hinckley. No relatives were found.

Will Spend $100,000.

Chicago, March 27.—Mrs. George Base, president of the Chicago Woman's club, Mrs. Charles Henrotin and Mrs. W. P. Conger have been named by Mrs. Potter Palmer as a committee to advise with her in the disposition of funds approximating $100,000 gained from the sale of souvenirs at the World's Columbia exposition. It is likely the money will be used in some cause for the aid of women and children.

LEE SUCCESSOR OF BROOKS ON P. B. & W.

Philadelphia, March 27.—The board of directors of the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington Railroad company has approved the appointment of Elisha Lee as general superintendent of the road to succeed E. F. Brooks, who will retire April 1 under the pension rules of the company. Mr. Lee is at present assistant to the general manager of the Pennsylvania railroad lines east of Pittsburg. During the last year and a half he has been chairman of the conference committee of managers of the Eastern railroads which has been negotiating with various labor unions regarding the wage increases asked by firemen, trainmen and conductors.

Michigamme Election.

Michigamme, Mich., March 27.—The spring election here promises to be interesting although it is now indicated there will be only one ticket in the field. Several candidates for township offices have, however, announced their intentions of running on slips. The following Citizens' ticket was nominated at the caucus: Supervisor, Dr. I. Sicotte; township clerk, T. J. Schwendeman; treasurer, Ed G. Muck; highway commissioner, C. Strom; overseer of highways, Tenus Anderson; board of review (two years), Edward L. Elmes; constables, Isaac S. Allen, John Veale, John Diedrich and Jalmar Frederickson. Dr. J. C. Thomas was a candidate for the office of supervisor, but was defeated by Dr. Sicotte by a vote of 67 to 58.

Dr. Hoffman in Lyceum Address Warns Procrastinating Men.

The Fate of Felix Who Listened But Would Not Yield.

The Lyceum theater was crowded again today when Dr. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First M. E. church, preached on "Throttled Convictions" at the noonday service. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, led in prayer, and Philip Gordon Brown sang "The Publican." The noonday services will end tomorrow and standing room is expected to be at a premium.

Dr. Hoffman spoke in part as follows:

"A railroad wreck is a heart-rending sight. Twisted iron, shattered cars, mangled bodies, the groans of the dying, the pleading of the suffering, and the awful stillness of the dead try the strongest of men. The huge locomotive lying on its side and the brave engineer pinioned underneath begging for someone to end his misery. The fireman a little way off both legs crushed into shapeless pulp. Brave men moving about working with all the energy of fellow-sympathy. So vividly is it impressed on our memory it might have occurred but yesterday. Strong men wept and mothers sobbed. Children were orphaned and citizens went about their duties with the hush of death upon them. Terrible as is all this I ask you to look into a life where the ravages of sin and the ruthless slaughter of uncleanness have wrought their deadly work. Here is an immortal soul which came clean, and strong from the creative hand of God but now it is a wreck and a ruin. Felix felt the invisible movements of the spirit of God within his soul. He heard the impassioned plea of Paul and trembled. He listened while logic and eloquence made their combined appeal to his conscience and his reason. He heard, but did not heed; was stirred, but did not yield.

No Intelligent Reason.

"He had no intelligent reason for his peculiar attitude to this apostle of Jesus Christ. Listen! Paul reasons of righteousness. He is speaking of moral conduct as related to God and as it has to do with men. He is reminding this proud aristocrat of a duty that is never complete until it sweeps around eternity and girdles every man. Guidance by conscience is not sufficient. There is an absolute standard, an eternal ideal, and infallible criterion. It originates in God and includes every man. Felix trembled. Well he might. Righteousness is as high as God, as broad as humanity, as eternal as the infinite. Paul reasoned of self-control and Felix trembled. No wonder. This Jewish preacher penetrated deeply into the recesses of life. He reminded this voluptuous Roman that man must focalize his life energies on things worth while. The Epicurean and the aesthetic are as far removed from the Christian ideal as is the ascetic and the monastic. The wholesome character, the divinely intended personality is a well balanced appreciation and enjoyment of every legitimate good.

"Here are two vital words, righteousness and self-respect. They carry a divinity within them that startles the imprisoned conscience of the haughty Felix. His eyes droop. A flush o'er-spreads his cheeks. He trembles but does not yield. He offered no argument in rebuttal. He has none. Paul continues. He reasons of judgment to come. "It is all folly," we are told, "to talk about judgment to come." There is none, these wise ones say. It is all in this life, none beyond the grave. God is so good, so kind, so loving, so fatherly. He ought to be satisfied that we are as good as we are. Well, who knows the most about this matter? The men who have caught God's thought and translated it for us or the fellow who likes his little private indulgence and his occasional profanity. When I enter the temple of science my hand is thrust in that of Herschel and Lodge and I say: Lead me. If I enter the palace of art I put myself under the guidance of Angelo and Giotto and say: Teach me. When I enter the portals of the house of my heavenly Father I cry out to prophet and to apostle and to the fair, pure Son of God: Instruct me. Felix trembled. The ancients believed that that was nothing beyond the pillars of Hercules, but the mariners compass taught them better The word of God, the teaching of Jesus; the utterance of apostle leaves no uncertainty in the mind. The judgment is to come.

Money the Impediment.

"It is evident that Felix loved money more devoutly than righteousness. The oldest son died. The father and mother were greatly distressed over the loss to their home. They attended church, listened to the message of the word, tears filled their eyes and a great melting warmth their hearts but they would not yield to God. It cost too much to be a Christian yet the man's income was quite comfortable. Years went by. There was no God, no Bible, no Christ in the life of the home. The sanctions and restraints of religion were ignored. It cost too much to be a Christian yet the waywardness of one son, the dissoluteness of another cost an hundred fold more in one year than religion would in ten years. Money is invaluable when subordinated to the righteousness of God and a blessing when it serves the moral ends of life, but it is a curse when it comes between conscience and Christ.

"Perhaps Felix preferred his own pleasure and satisfaction to that of the right life and noble ambitions. God never begrudges us a good time. Christianity is not a funeral procession, it is a delight and a social task. The idea that receiving Christ, as Savior and as Lord, means an irksome and somber life is as foreign to the real spirit of the Christian view of conduct as saints are in hell. Pleasure, recreation, amusement are legitimate and necessary when they relax nerve, make healthy tissue for the body, increase one's mental grip and conserve and promote the highest moral interests of the individual and society. All other fun is too costly. It fills our jails, crowds our courts, wrecks our homes, ruins our bodies and causes the loss of our souls. A woman who had followed the pleasureable life exclusively came to her death. She never degraded herself with the vile and she never elevated herself with the holy. From one social function to another she flitted like a butterfly until one day the collapse came. Her death was as comfortless and morose as her life was devoid of beauty and generosity. It is the sinful, the selfish, near-the precipice pleasures that are destructive.

"For aught we know Felix would not yield for lack of moral courage. His wife was of the house of Herod. He could not endure her sarcasm and her ridicule just as many men today fear the taunt of their club and barroom friends who can tell the choicest brand of whisky but could not live the choicest life. Infinitely better to heed what some prating parson and old grandmother says than to go through life losing its best and ending in a wreck, a ruin, a hell at last.

"Felix trembled but he did not yield. He staked his soul against money, against pleasure, against the sneer of a woman and lost."

Dr. Hoffman's final address at these noon meetings will be delivered tomorrow on "Final Alternative." William H. Hancock, Jr., will be the soloist.

MARKET PRICE FOR ITS LABOR

City Will Not Fix Arbitrary Scale of Wages or Hours.

First Big Paving Job Will Be Done By Day Labor.

The wages of workmen employed by the city in making public improvements this season will be governed by labor conditions as they are when the job is under way, as would be done by any business concern.

Neither the wage scale nor the length of the working day will be fixed on an arbitrary schedule. Most of the men will be paid by the hour. Many of them have declared that they would rather work ten hours than eight hours, provided the compensation is in proportion.

Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, brought the matter before the council at the informal meeting held in the council chambers this morning.

The city will this year, for the first time, make a large street improvement by day labor instead of awarding a contract. This will be the paving of West Superior street from Fifteenth to Twenty-fifth avenues and probably to Thirtieth avenue. Commissioner Murchison placed the name of James Preston before the council this morning as his choice of a man to take charge of the work. He said that Mr. Preston preferred to be paid on the basis of 7 per cent of the pay roll for the work between Fifteenth and Twenty-fifth avenues and would reduce this to 6 per cent if the improvement is made to Thirtieth avenue under his direction. Mr. Preston has a high reputation as a contractor and would be very satisfactory to the commissioners. No decision was reached, but action will be taken at an early meeting.

Tomorrow last day of the "Golden Rule" bankrupt sale in the Columbia basement.

Superior

$50 for "Two Beers."

Joseph Lynch, a Tower avenue saloon keeper, served "two beers" on Tuesday. In police court it cost him $50 yesterday. Tuesday being primary election day all saloons were supposed to keep closed. Patrolman Holm walked into the place Tuesday morning and found Lynch, an employe of the place, and two customers to whom the beer had been served. Holm reported the matter and a warrant was issued for Lynch.

Want Lower Grain Tax.

Superior business men intend to back a petition to the legislature to lower the tax on grain stored in elevators in Superior. The contention is that the present rate is considerably higher than that charged in Minnesota, and that as a result elevators planned to be erected in Superior will be built in Duluth. It is said that the petition will be backed by the signatures of nearly every business man in the city.

Two Found Guilty.

Peter Marino and Frank Roberto, two of the men implicated in the assault on Patrolman Carl Huber on Christmas morning, who have been confined in a hospital since the assault, were yesterday afternoon found guilty by a jury in the district court and now face a term in the penitentiary. Joe Pardo, another member of the gang, will probably face trial next week.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEM.

Dr. Sidney Gulick Will Outline His Solution in Lecture Here.

On the evening of April 3 a lecture will be given in the Y. M. C. A. assembly room on a subject that is stirring the country and which will, it is believed, be of much interest to business men in general. It is the immigration problem, and the man who will be heard claims to have a solution of the problem. He is Dr. Sidney Gulick, who has been for twenty-six years a missionary in Japan.

Recently Dr. Gulick appeared before the immigration committee of congress and suggested an immigration law which deeply interested the congressmen. He is now talking to business men the country over, explaining his plan, which is to admit each year a certain number of immigrants from each foreign country, the number to be a certain percentage of the number of persons of that nationality now in America.

The lecture here will be free.

Indians Tap Trees.

Couderay, Wis., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last few warm days with freezing nights made ideal sap conditions, and the Chippewa Indians on the reservation are tapping the hard maple trees for their annual maple sugar making. Wednesday night's snow was welcomed by them. The prospects are that the season will be a short one, and very little sugar will be made for the market by the Indians in this locality.

Hoverstad, the agricultural extension worker of the Soo railway; G. A. Carlson of Erskine and L. A. Larson of Clearwater county.

South Dakota Bank Closed.

Pierre, S. D., March 27.—The state banking department yesterday took charge of the First State bank of McIntosh. It is reported the book assets are $40,000. The liabilities, outside of capital stock, are $30,000. The failure is said to have been due to several years of short crops.

OWEN URGES TOLLS REPEAL

Points Out Intention of Hay-Pauncefote Treaty Makers.

Shows Injustice of Taxing 10,000 for Benefit of One.

Washington, March 27.—While the opposing factions in the house were lining up today for the opening of the fight over the administration bill to repeal the tolls exemption clause of the Panama canal act, Senator Owen addressed the senate, supporting President Wilson's attitude in urging the repeal. He took the position that the exemption was in violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

"When the first draft of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was submitted to the senate, Mr. Bard of California, Dec. 13, 1900, moved to substitute the following article," said the senator:

"'The United States reserves the right in the regulation and management of the canal to discriminate in respect of the charges of traffic in favor of vessels of its own citizens engaged in the coastwise trade.'

Discrimination Refused.

"And the senate not only did not give a two-thirds vote in favor of such discrimination, but gave almost a two-thirds vote against. So the whole world knew that the senate had refused to amend the treaty by recognizing the right to discriminate in favor of vessels of its own citizens engaged in coastwise trade.

"With such a record before us, we could not face the world and interpret the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as permitting discrimination. We refused to put in a provision recognizing discrimination on Dec. 17, 1900; we had recognized in the Clayton-Bulwer convention of 1850 for fifty years for equal terms to the citizens of all nations; we recognized it again the Hay-Pauncefote treaty of 1901, confirmed by 72 senators to 6, and we refused to strike out of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty the neutralization agreed upon in 1850.

Not Coast Line Canal.

"The argument that the Panama canal is a coastwise canal for coastwise vessels is a strained construction. It is more than 1,500 miles from Galveston to Panama and still farther from Panama to Los Angeles. Is Hawaii also a part of our coast line and Guam and the Philippines? Great Britain could, owning India and the British Isles, with about as much propriety, claim exemption for her coastwise vessels going through the Suez canal.

"Ninety millions of our people have taxed themselves to build the canal and now less than 9,000 ship owners are demanding to use it without paying for the cost of keeping it in order or interest on the primary cost.

"There is no common sense or justice in the proposal that one American should have the right to tax 10,000 other Americans for his private benefit. I understand perfectly how a group of rich men, owning a monopoly in coastwise shipping, can stir up various organizations and patriotic Irish societies around seaports. It is the case of the three tailors of Tooley street, who resolved: 'We, the people of England,' etc.

No Chance for Stampede.

"The public sentiment of the United States is based on common sense—honor, wisdom, patriotism—and on established facts, and cannot be stampeded by a selfish propaganda nor by the expenditure of large amounts in advertising or inspired editorials. Neither can the United States senate or house of representatives be stampeded by cajolery or abuse."

Senator Owen referred to the senate roll calls to emphasize President Wilson's contention that the exemption was passed, not by a Democratic majority, but by a coalition of Democrats and Republicans.

ARE DEFRAUDING BANKS.

Swindlers Working Bad Check Game in Southern Minnesota.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27.—A number of country banks in Southern Minnesota have been defrauded of several thousand dollars by a gang of swindlers with headquarters in Minneapolis, according to city detectives.

Theotokis Voulgaris, accused of being leader of the gang, was arrested here last night. Several bank books, showing deposits and withdrawals on various banks, were found in his pockets.

It was the plan of the swindlers to open accounts in the smaller banks and check against them. The losses mostly are for overdrafts.

GLOBE TROTTER VISITS DULUTH.

George H. Allen, newspaper writer and globe trotter, who "has his washing done" at Clinton, N. Y., is in Duluth today en route for a sixth trip to China. Allen has "trotted" around the globe twice and has visited China and Japan five times.

Mr. Allen is a writer, lecturer and traveler, and has visited ever state in the Union. One of his most noteworthy efforts was his fight for the parcel post. He worked for the new system for several years and wrote a book entitled, "I Want a Parcel Post," which was mailed free to practically all the congressmen in the country, and to many other men of influence in legislation. Mr. Allen possesses a unique personality, has a great fund of humorous anecdotes and is loaded with valuable information.

PINE CITY MAN HAS STONE RELIC.

Pine City, Minn., March 27.—S. W. Runyan received one of his stone relics this week he picked up on the Snake river west of Pine City some time ago. It is in the shape of a monument and stands about two feet high, the top part being of granite and the base of sandstone.

Tomorrow last day of the "Golden Rule" bankrupt sale in the Columbia basement.

Held on Suspicion.

David Dorney, 36, and Paul Romsland, 32, who were arrested last evening, were arraigned in police court this morning on the technical charge of vagrancy. They pleaded not guilty and their trial was set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, bail in each case being fixed at $100.

In the meantime the police plan to make an investigation and to bring a more serious charge against the two men should evidence warrant it. They were under the surveillance of the police here for several days as suspicious characters.

Dormey had in his possession a check for $785 on the Fairview National bank of Fairview, Mont., while Romsland had a Fairview bank check book in his coat pocket. The authorities are in communication with the bank officials in the Montana city and definite information regarding the two men is expected at any time.

Dormey was taken into custody last night by Detectives Toewe and Bradley and Patrolman O. Olson, while Romsland was arrested yesterday afternoon by Sergt. Roberg and Bertillon Inspector Lahti.

OPPOSITION IS AROUSED

Many Opposed to Letting Exclusive Contract for Garbage Collection.

Woman's Council Members Want Free Municipal System Installed.

Strong opposition to the awarding of an exclusive contract to the Sanitary Garbage company for the collection of garbage, ashes and refuse in the city, developed at the hearing held by the city commission in the council chambers this morning.

Representatives of the Woman's council, private citizens and men engaged in the garbage business, some of whom were represented by attorneys, voiced pronounced objections. The delegation of women urged the council to devise means for free municipal collection, and if that were impossible, to institute a charge system similar to the Sanitary company's proposal. The garbage men declared that they had not been given a fair opportunity to submit bids, not having definite specifications on which to base their figures, and asserted that while they would be satisfied to have the city handle the collection, they should not be driven out of business through the award of exclusive privileges to any private company.

Safety Commissioner William A. Hicken and Dr. H. E. Webster, health director, stated that all interested had been given ample notice of the fact that the council would open bids, and that while several of the men now engaged in the business had inquired for information, they had absolutely refused to make any bids.

May Call for More Bids.

As nearly as can be judged from expressions of the members of the council at the hearing and afterwards, another opportunity will be afforded to bid on the proposition. At the time it was decided to ask for bids it was announced that the purpose was to obtain more definite information. It was stated that the commission would not feel bound in any way to award any contract, but that the intention was to get all facts possible. At this morning's hearing several requests were made for another chance to submit a bid. As the question is one of much importance, the feeling of the majority of the members of the council appears to be that no harm could come from delaying the matter, and that it might be the means of arriving at a much better solution of the problem.

Dr. Webster set forth the city's position relative to the garbage collection, presenting the bid of the Sanitary Garbage company in a favorable light. He believed that it would be a benefit to the city. Commissioner Hicken took a similar view, explaining that not only would the public derive an advantage through better service and a fair price, but the city would save $6,000 to $7,000 per year, which might be segregated as a sinking fund which would enable the city to establish free collection at the end of three years.

That a better price or better service would result was strongly denied by the garbage men and their representatives. C. Martin heatedly declared that the bid of the company called for $1 per yard for the removal of ashes and rubbish, while this was now being done by local men now in the business for 65 cents a yard. He cited several cases to illustrate the cheapness and reasonableness of the charges now being made.

He claimed that the force at the incinerator could be cut in two by compelling the wholesale houses to furnish their own helpers when hauling refuse to the incinerator. He claimed that the city's employes fall over themselves to help the teamsters of the wholesalers to unload, but offered no assistance to the private collectors. In answer to this Commissioner Hicken asked him if the wholesalers did not furnish much of the combustible material which provides the fire in the incinerator. Martin replied that they furnish considerable, but that the private individuals also bring much material for the fire. He stated that he had tried out one of the wagons secured by the city but that it was not practicable, requiring five men to dump it when it reached the incinerator.

Defends Service.

L. A. Marvin defended the service being rendered by garbage collectors in Duluth and said that the council should not take away their means of livelihood. John Helmer expressed confidence in the commission but voiced opposition to awarding the contract.

The representatives of the Woman's council were Mrs. Arthur Barnes, Mrs. A. E. Walker, Mrs. Jeanette Baldwin and Mrs. Z. D. Scott. Mrs. Barnes stated that the present collection is unsatisfactory and urged that if free collection cannot be obtained that the city go into the business along the lines proposed by the Sanitary Garbage company. Mrs. Walker said that she has found satisfactory the service and charges of the collector employed by her. Mrs. Baldwin suggested that the commissioners each make an allowance of the money available in their divisions to provide funds for free collection.

Attorneys E. J. Kenny and Thorwald Hansen claimed that other bids should be received, as up to the time of the meeting the matter had not received the consideration to which it is entitled. They believed that this would secure a more favorable offer than that submitted by the company.

The commissioners did not take any action upon the question this morning, but it will likely be considered again at the regular meeting Monday afternoon or the next day, at which it will probably be definitely decided what course the council will pursue.

NAVY BUYS MORE MINNESOTA BUTTER.

Hutchinson, Minn., March 27.—For the fourth successive year the United States navy has come to Hutchinson with a big contract for high-scoring butter. Last summer the Hutchinson Produce company filled a contract for 100,000 pounds scoring 95 or better. This year the Farmers' Co-operative creamery gets a contract for 50,000 pounds and the Hutchinson Produce company one for 150,000 pounds. No other town in the country sells as much butter to the navy as does Hutchinson.

SUIT RESULTS FROM STORM

Boat Owners and Lumber Dealer Sue Each Other for Damages.

Former Asks Damage for Loss of Time; Latter for Cargo.

Stormy weather on Lake Superior during the fall of 1912 is indirectly responsible for a lawsuit which was brought to trial in Judge Ensign's division of the district court this morning.

The case involves a dispute between the Johns Bros. company and E. E. Anderson over the delivery of a cargo of freight which was lost in a November storm.

The Johns Brothers company, a firm composed of W. T. Johns, Edgar R. Johns, R. A. Hoer and Fred W. Erickson, are owners of the freight boat Crescent and R. E. Anderson, defendant in the action, was engaged in the lumbering business in the south shore country.

During the month of November, 1912, the plaintiff were engaged to haul a load of merchandise from Duluth to the south shore. The arrangement was that Anderson was to send a lighter to Lone Rock to meet the boat and take its cargo.

The boat left Duluth on Nov. 27, 1912. When it arrived at Lone Rock, the lighter was not there. The Crescent went on to Ontonagon and the captain got into communication with Anderson. On the way back, the lighter met the Crescent at Lone Rock, and the cargo was transferred. The weather was stormy and the scow was lost shortly afterward.

The owners of the boat are suing for $800 damages for loss of time. The defendant counterclaims $1,500 damages for the loss of the cargo, alleging that the delivery was made at a time when the captain of the Crescent should have known that the trip to shore with the lighter could not be made.

RHODES SCHOLARS SCORE IN ENGLAND

Two Americans Winners in Oxford-Cambridge Meet.

London, March 27.—The annual athletic meeting between track and field teams representing Oxford and Cambridge was held at Queen's club today. H. M. Mackintosh of Cambridge, won the 100-yard dash in 10 1-5 seconds. V. B. Havens, a Rhodes scholar at Oxford from Rutger's college, was third.

E. T. Adams of Oxford, won the hammer throw with a mark of 127 feet seven inches. Adams is a Rhodes scholor from Baylor university, Waco, Tex.

V. B. Havens of Oxford, won the 120-yard hurdles in 17 1-5 seconds.

Shuts Fitz Out.

New York, March 27.—The appellate division of the supremecourt today affirmed the order of the lower court, which in effect prohibits Robert Fitzsimmons from boxing in public in New York state. Because of his advanced age, the state athletic commission ruled that Fitzsimmons should not reenter the ring. This order the court sustains.

SCHOONER AND SIX MEN LOST AT SEA.

Washington, March 27.—Loss at sea of the American schooner Hattie P. Simpson of Boston with her captain and five other members of the crew of ten was reported to the navy department last night in a relayed wireless message from the steamship Caracas, which has on board three survivors of the schooner.

The dispatch said the Simpson sank March 21, but gave no details of the catastrophe. It came from the Caracas, presumably the American steamer of that name bound from San Juan, Porto Rico, and was picked up by the battleship Kansas, now at target practice off the Virginia capes.

Dividend Passed.

New York, March 27.—The directors of the Norfolk Southern Railroad company today passed the quarterly dividend of one-half of 1 per cent on the outstanding stock. From 1911 to 1913 inclusive the stock paid dividends of 2 per cent yearly. Lately the road's earnings have been known to be poor, partly on account of damage sustained during floods.

Shame! Shoot the Old Suit! It's Easter!

Don't Be Shabby on Easter! I'll Make You a Spring Suit to Order For $15 That Will Make You Proud As a Peacock.

Say! You ain't agoin' to go out on Easter Sunday with that old winter suit? The crows will sure be on your trail. You've just got to be fussed up to feel right. To go out in that bright clean sunshine on Easter Sunday morning in the old, shabby Winter suit'll make you feel like you're tramping into a swell ball room with muddy feet.

I can make you the niftiest little Easter suit you ever saw, from the slickest new Spring fabrics, cut and fitted to your own figure and finished like a fashion sample. And it will cost you just $15.

I am part of the great Glasgow Woolen Mills. Our fancy, nobby, nifty Spring materials come direct from the looms to our 117 stores. We figure our materials in carload lots, where the ordinary tailor buys by the piece—or by the bolt. Think of what we save on the cost of material for a suit! There's no jobber's profit to add on—no sub-jobber's profit; no wholesaler's profit. And that's another big saving. Then, because we sell thousands of made-to-order suits in our string of 117 stores, we can afford to accept only a small profit on each. And there's another big slice off the price you pay. And then, fellows, when all this modern cost-cutting stuff is done, you get the swellest little suit of Easter clothes, made from regular $25 to $30 fabrics, right up to the tip of fashion, and the tax you pay is just $15.

Come in and let me measure you for a real Easter Suit. I'll save you a little ten-dollar bill and I'll make you a suit that will make a hit every place you go. Remember, you save ten dollars by looking up George H. Mills, Mgr., Glasgow Woolen Mills Store, 333 West Superior street. If you need a swell pair of Easter Trousers here's your chance. I'm making regular $5, $6 and $7 pants for $2.75 and they're peaches, too. See them!

U. S. COMMISSIONER AT CHICAGO MISSING

Mark A. Foote Has Not Been Seen for Five Days.

Chicago, March 27.—Mark A. Foote, United States court commissioner here for more than twenty years, has been missing from his home for four days, according to Mrs. Foote, who has asked the Federal authorities to make a search for her husband.

It was reported in the Federal building that Foote had been despondent because most of the business recently had been given to another commissioner.

Foote was among other attaches of the department of justice whose relations with Sol Lewinsohn, a fugitive professional bondsman, recently were investigated by a United States grand jury. Mrs. Lewinsohn, wife of the bondsman, it is said testified that her husband had made use of money in the Federal building in connection with the escape of Jack Johnson, the negro prize fighter, convicted of violation of the Mann act.

The grand jury held that the charges were groundless.

THIS idea of having the national amateur baseball title of the country decided this year—and each year to come—is a big one and also an excellent one. By this plan real baseball players will be developed and the inside stuff more readily learned.

Hugh S. Fullerton is sponsor for the idea. According to his plan the national championships will be decided late in the fall, about the same time the world's series is being played.

It has been proposed that the United States be divided into districts and that the various teams play for the championship of the district they are in. In this manner the elimination play would work down to a point where a tournament could be held to determine the best teams in the land.

As suggested in this column previously, it would be an excellent idea for Duluth to form a branch of the national amateur league. Every city of any size in the United States should compete in the nation-wide competition. This competition means that eventually increased interest will be developed among the various amateur teams in every section of the United States.

Looking at the Bostons.

FOR the first time down the trail of the woebegone baseball years some of the followers of the game are willing to concede the Boston Nationals some slight chance in the big parade that is about to start.

Years ago—in 1898 to be precise—Boston won its last gonfalon in the older league. Before that time the silken mansard had returned to Boston with the unerring instinct of a homing pigeon.

George Stallings has worked wonders with the Braves. The acquisition of Evers, even if Bill Sweeney is lost, means one of the best infields in the old league. Critics will follow Boston closely this season.

Can McGraw Win Again?

SOME fondly allude to John J. McGraw as the little Napoleon of baseball. One might poetically state that this season will witness the greatest test of the career of McGraw in one aspect at least—for the world waits to learn if the magical number of three pennants in a row can be increased by the rotund leader of the Giants.

Looking back over the path of the years it is interesting to learn that the trail leads back to the mellow years of 1885, speaking of baseball, before one encounters a team that won four consecutive pennants.

The old St. Louis team of the American association, the world famous St. Louis Browns, won the pennant in 1885, 86, 87 and 88.

Tracing down the long flight of the baseball years in the National league it will be found that twice the Chicago team has won three pennants in a row, and that the honor of winning three times running has also been won by the Baltimore Orioles, the famous old Boston Red Sox, the Pittsburg Pirates and the New York Giants.

No team in the long stretch of the years in the National league has been able to win the flag more than three successive years.

This season McGraw looks to have one of the easiest seasons of winning that has ever come his way. If he cops the flag the Giants will break the precedent of twenty-seven durable years and will perhaps also set a record that will hold for another span of years.

And it might be stated, also, that in the event of the Athletics winning the world's championship this season, that another record will go by the boards.

Better Stick to It.

RECENTLY the Yale Soccer football team won a game. This suggests the belief that perhaps, after all, Yale should stick to this game—at least till Brickley matriculates. For the last few years the authorities of Yale have been experimenting in the endeavor to find something that the New Haven institution can win. Chess and Soccer. Pretty hard lines, but then every collegian just worships a champion.

Welsh Is Sarcastic.

DURING the course of the Welsh-Rivers battle the Englishman taunted Rivers and suggested that the Mexican had forgotten to learn the first rules of the game. Now comes the matching with Leach Cross, and Welsh informed the Hebrew that he would leave the matter of weight to him. Besides being a cultured man it would seem that Mr. Welsh is also somewhat sarcastic.

The Hockey Banquet.

ON next Thursday evening the followers of the various teams of the Duluth Hockey league will gather around the festive board and do honor to the boys who have given Duluth the best league hockey it has had in years.

As this is the first banquet of the league, and as it represents a distinct epoch in hockey, it is particularly desired that those interested in the league and the future of the game boost the sport by their presence.

How About Mike Yokel?

MIKE YOKEL, the patient postmaster of the Jackson Hole country, is looking forward to a very interesting event in the Yokel family. Following this he is also looking forward to an interesting event with Waino Ketonen.

Whether Yokel will wrestle the Finn here or at Salt Lake City, is a problem. Public clamor will force the hand of the Jackson Hole marvel.

The world's champion is one of the greatest, one of the gamest of 'em all. The statement that he is no longer champion is a figment of imagination from the brain of the manager of Joe Carr, and deserves no serious consideration. Michael is the champ—and it might be mentioned that he is the man Waino Ketonen wants to meet.

What a battle it would be! Yokel has beaten Jordon, Miller, Turner, Carr, Harbinson and a host of others. The trail has narrowed and on the path overlooking the precipice of defeat stands the waiting Waino.

So great is the interest in a contest between Yokel and Ketonen that a party of Duluthians will make a long trip across the country, should the pair wrestle in Salt Lake City, the desert stronghold of the mighty Yokel.

SEATON MIXUP IS BOTHERSOME

Federals Embarrassed By Refractory Pitcher—Will Play Only With Chicago.

Chicago, March 27.—The determination of Tom Seaton, pitcher, to "play with the Chicago Federals or not at all," reported in dispatches from Shreveport further complicated affairs in the Federal league. Even Manager Tinker, though loath to do so, advised Seaton to join the Brooklyn team, said the report, but Seaton declared he would play only with his old teammate, Ad Brennan, who is definitely attached to the Chicago club. Seaton's declaration followed an announcement by President Gilmore that the pitcher rightfully belonged to Brooklyn and must play with President Ward's team.

The sale of Outfielder Cadwallader Coles to the Kansas City Federals, reported at local headquarters, was indirectly the result of the Seaton mix-up. Coles was to have been given to Brooklyn in part payment for Seaton's release to the Chicago team, but when the deal fell through, Manager Stovall of Kansas City made a bid for the outfielder and the transfer was made.

President Thomas of the Chicago Nationals did not take seriously reports that the Federals were after Fred Nollwitz.

Oakland, Cal., March 27.—Following news that two of his stars were in communication with the Federals, Manager James Callahan of the Chicago Americans ordered Pitcher Scott, Shortstop Weaver and Catcher Daly to report to him and the three players have left for Los Angeles. In their places, Pitchers Faber and Lathrop and Second Baseman Berger came to Oakland. Ted Gleason also arrived from the South to join the second squad here preparatory to the trip home, which starts next Sunday.

It is claimed that "Wildcat" tries continually for a knock-out and is a very willing mixer, a thing that Kelly likes. "Wildcat's" real name is Clarence McCubbins.

DEFIANCE WILL BE LAUNCHED IN MAY.

Boston, Mass., March 27.—The sloop Defiance, being built at Bath, Me., for the tri-city syndicate as a candidate for the defense of the America's cup, will be christened by Miss Frances Clark, it was announced today. The Defiance will be launched early in May and will be given its preliminary tryouts off the mouth of the Kennebec river.

Baseball Scores.

Washington, March 27.—The Washington Americans and the Philadelphia Nationals opened up a three-game series here yesterday, the locals winning the first game easily by a score of 6 to 1. Washington	6	14	0
Philadelphia	1	6	3

Louisville, Ky., March 27.—With Jimmy Lavender in excellent form yesterday, the Chicago Nationals had no difficulty in defeating Louisville, 6 to 1. Lavender held the Colonels to three hits and would have been credited with a shutout but for Zimmerman's error in the first inning. Score:

MORE RULINGS BY BASEBALL'S COURT

National Commission Mixes Up Fraternity Situation—Protest Coming.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 27.—The national baseball commission has handed down the following notice:

"Paragraph D of rule 17 of the national commission, declaring side agreements between clubs and players invalid, is hereby revoked. Subsequent sections of this rule will be relettered.

"This provision is eliminated for the reason that in conformity to the agreement with the Baseball Players' fraternity, all contracts between national agreement clubs and players contain a clause printed at the top in red ink warning the parties that if an investigation establishes that any agreement between club and player does not appear in or is not made a part of the regular contract, the club shall be fined, the contract annulled and the player unconditionally released."

New York, March 27.—A formal protest to the national baseball commission against its interpretation of the so-called promotion waiver clause of the national agreement probably will be made within a few days by the Baseball Players' fraternity, according to David L. Fultz, president of the fraternity.

Fultz in a statement declares that if the national commission ruling meant that a player drafted from a Class A club is to be returned to that club before being submitted to Class A leagues in case of release, the ruling is in direct violation of the "Cincinnati agreement." He said he was in telegraphic communication with members of the fraternity's advisory board in regard to preparing a protest.

JOHNNY EVERS WILL CAPTAIN THE BRAVES.

Macon, Ga., March 27.—John Evers has been chosen captain of the Boston National league team here by Manager Stallings, succeeding William Sweeney, who was sold to the Chicago National league club.

The Boston Nationals go to Atlanta, Ga., today for two games. Manager Stallings today announced the unconditional release to the Mobile Southern association club of Bradley Hogg, pitcher.

ST. LOUIS SERIES TO START.

Two Teams Will Open Spring Games on American Grounds.

St. Louis, Mo., March 27.—The 1914 baseball season will open here tomorrow with the initial games of the spring series between the local National and American league teams. The opening games, though originally scheduled for the National league park, will be played on the American league grounds, because they are in better condition.

The National league diamond, torn up by the winter soccer series, has been resodded, but the new earth has not yet become firm. The National league squad of twenty-eight players and trainers arrived here from the training camp at St. Augustine, Fla., yesterday. The American team is expected to arrive here tomorrow morning.

DECLARES ORGANIZED BASEBALL A TRUST.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 27.—George P. Whittington, of counsel for S. H. Cammitz, agent of the Pittsburg Federals, replying in chancery court here yesterday to injunction proceedings instituted by the Pittsburg National league club management, announced that an effort will be made to show that organized baseball is a combination in restraint of trade within the meaning of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Chancellor Henderson withheld formal ruling until Saturday.

BIGGEST INDOOR MEET IS OPENED

Many Competitors Begin Work at Northwestern University.

Chicago, March 27.—What is said to be the biggest indoor interscholastic track, field and swimming tournament ever held in the United States was opened today in the gymnasium at Northwestern university and will be concluded tomorrow night. High school and preparatory school teams from all parts of the Central states and one team from St. Augustine, Fla., were entered.

Among the cities sending entrants are Milwaukee; Pratt, Kan.; Culver, Ind.; Crown Point, Ind.; Evansville, Ind.; Abilene, Kan.; Chapman, Kan.; Attica, Ind.; La Porte, Ind.; Sheboygan, Wis., and Sedalia, Mo.

Among the Illinois entrants were teams from Chicago, Morgan Park, Momence, Warren, Byron, Princeville, Kankakee, Downers Grove, Ottawa and Desplaines.

MISSISSIPPI SOLONS VIRULENT BALL BUGS.

Jackson, Miss., March 27.—The Mississippi house of representatives yesterday passed a resolution expressing regret that rain prevented the baseball game between the Detroit and New Orleans teams, and extended the privileges of the floor to the members of the two teams.

Ty Cobb was invited to address the house.

Earlier in the week the house voted to recess yesterday because of the expected game.

ARGUMENT CAUSES BARBER'S DEATH.

Chicago, March 27.—August Anderson, a barber employed near the new Federal league park, got so excited yesterday while arguing the merits of the new league with Thomas Leach that he dropped dead while shaving Leach. Leach is an admirer of the Chicago Nationals.

He was so displeased with Anderson's admiration of the new league that when the barber sank to the floor with heart failure, Leach went to another shop to finish his shaving.

WANT KILLIFER TO APPEAR IN COURT.

Washington, March 27.—"Bill" Killifer, catcher for the Philadelphia Nationals, was summoned last night to appear in the Federal court at Grand Rapids, Mich., and show cause why he should not be enjoined from playing with the National league. The action was brought by the Federal league for alleged breach of contract.

TWO ARE VANQUISHED.

Noted Tennis Players Quickly Eliminated at Boston.

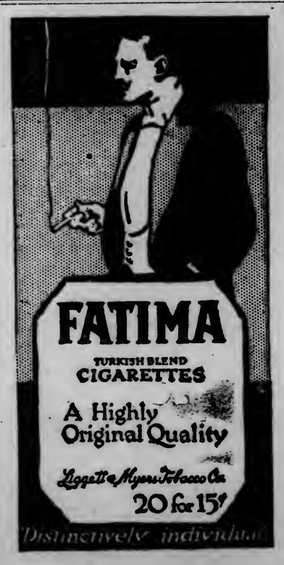
Boston, Mass., March 27.—W. A. Larned of East Orange, N. J., seven times national lawn tennis champion, and R. Norris Williams, second, of Philadelphia, the youthful internationalist, were defeated in an invitation tournament begun yesterday in the new covered courts of the cricket club. Larned was vanquished in the first round by J. D. E. Jones of Providence, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. Williams was defeated in the second round by H. C. Johnson of Boston, former state champion, 6-2, 9-7.

In the first round Williams won from G. C. Shafer, New York, 6-3, 6-1.

The survivors of the second round are C. F. Touchard, New York, and N. W. Niles and H. C. Johnson, Boston.

Change of Base.

Cambridge, Mass., March 27.—In the event of a tie in the Harvard-Yale baseball series next June, the third game will be played at Fenway park, the Boston American league grounds.



"KETONEN IS GREATEST MIDDLEWEIGHT"—CURTIS

Vanquished Wrestler Pays Tribute to Duluth Boy Who Conquered Him at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 27.—Waino Ketonen of Duluth, defeated Loren Curtis of Grand Forks, here last night after one of the greatest wrestling matches ever staged in the Northwest. Curtis won the first fall in 36½ minutes but Ketonen came back and won the second and third falls in 12 and 20 minutes respectively. It was a great victory for the Duluth man and the Duluth fans who took the long trip to Grand Forks will go home loaded with Grand Forks money. R. B. Liggett of Duluth, ("Bruce"), sporting editor of The Duluth Herald, refereed the match.

The people of this city were Curtis crazy and after Curtis' victory over Al Francis of St. Paul, believed him unbeatable. Curtis is a great wrestler but Ketonen is a greater one. Despite the fact that he was outweighed several pounds, Ketonen showed himself to be the best man at all stages and after the first fall went after Curtis like a mad man.

The opening fall came as a surprise to everybody in the house. Ketonen was caught by surprise in a hammerlock and his shoulders went to the mat after 36½ minutes of hard and fast work.

It was right here that Ketonen opened up with his whole repertoire of holds and tricks for the first time since he has come to the Northwest. Curtis seemed bewildered by the lightning manner in which the Duluth boy slipped first from one hold to another and in just 12 minutes the referee slapped the Finn on the back.

The third fall was bitterly contested, but Ketonen kept out of danger and opened up with more of his stuff every minutes. After 19 minutes of wrestling Ketonen got what looked like a dangerous wrist lock on Curtis. The latter made a great effort to get out of it and Ketonen worked one of the prettiest pieces of wrestling that has ever been pulled off.

Slowly relaxing his wrist hold Ketonen led Curtis to think that the hold could be broken and the Dakota boy put all his strength into the effort. Suddenly Ketonen let go of the wrist hold and before Curtis could guard himself the Duluth boy had clamped on a hammerlock and head scissors. After the match Curtis declared that Ketonen can beat any middleweight in the world.

This contest has been held usually in New York, but inability to secure grounds there for June 20, the date set, caused the change.

BOWLING TOURNEY ENDS

Detroit Man Wins Individual Event With Good Score.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 27.—The fourteenth annual bowling tournament of the American Bowling congress ended yesterday. The winners of the three main events were:

Five-man events—Monko club, New Haven, Conn.

Two-man—T. D. Negley and D. H. Vanness of Newark.

Individual—William Miller of Detroit.

Miller also won the "all-events" feature, his total for the nine games being 1,897.

Yesterday's bowling in the two-man and individual events was the most sensational of the week, a team of Buffalo bowlers going among the leaders, while R. Coffin of Bradford, Pa., took second place in the individual event with a score of 670. Coffin returned 236, 233 and 201.

Cavalry Wins Cup.

Camden, S. C., March 27.—By defeating the Camden C., team 12¼ to here yesterday, the polo team of the Eleventh United States cavalry captured the Cleveland cup, presented by Mrs. Edmund Burke, Jr., of Cleveland, Ohio. The winners scored fourteen goals, while the losers made only one.

CONDITIONS "VILE" IN GOTHAM PRISON

Word "Inuhman" Also Is Applied to Blackwell's Island.

New York, March 27.—Conditions in the Blackwell's Island penitentiary, a New York city institution, are described as "vile and inhuman in a report which Burdette G. Lewis, deputy commissioner of correction, has submitted to Mayor Mitchel in connection with the filing of a letter on the same subject by District Attorney Whitman with Dr. Katherine B. Davis, commissioner of correction.

Attention is drawn in Mr. Whitman's letter to the case of an inmate who, suffering from chronic heart disease, was obliged to work when physically unfit. The man's threat to commit suicide unless given medical attention, said the letter, resulted in his confinement for two weeks in a cell without medical care. Ultimately transferred to the hospital, the treatment alleged to have been given the prisoner was an occasional injection of strychnine by an incompetent orderly. Eleven days later the prisoner died.

PENNSYLVANIA'S ECONOMY KEEPS UP.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27.—It is stated at the offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad company that the policy of retrenchment and economy put to effect in the closing months of last year, will be continued until the number of employes on its lines east of Pittsburg and Erie has been reduced from 142,000 to 117,000.

The company confirmed reports that the number of employes had already been lowered in the last few months to 125,000.

It was explained that the traffic in October, 1913, when 142,000 men were employed, was about the same as in February, 1910, when 117,000 were on the payrolls, and that the company decided to reduce the number of employes to the 1910 basis.

The lines west of Pittsburg, it was further stated, are also affected by the retrenchment policy, but no figures were given out.

CUBAN DIES OF BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Havana, Cuba, March 27.—The existence of bubonic plague officially was confirmed when Carlos Arechaga, a Spanish boy 12 years old, died from the disease. He was the first victim officially reported. The body immediately was wrapped in blankets, impregnated with disinfectant, placed in a zinc casket and interred.

The other are officially declared to be suffering from bubonic plague. Both patients are in a critical condition.

The sanitary department invited all the physicians in the city to examine and study the case. At the same time, sanitary precautions for the prevention of the spread of the plague were being redoubled and the quarantine zone enlarged.

Dr. Wilson, chief of the United States hospital service, is enforcing extreme quarantine measures for passengers and freight for the United States.

Socialists Win Election.

Dresden, March 27.—The Socialists were victorious yesterday in a bye-election in Borna district, displacing Gen. von Liebert, imperialist, who was unseated in the reichstag owing to irregularities. The Socialists thus regain their previous total of 111 seats.

JANE ADDAMS AT BEMIDJI

Noted Chicago Woman to Attend State Charities Meeting.

Will Be Held in September and C. E. Vasaly Outlines Work.

Bemidji, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bemidji will entertain Miss Jane Addams, the famous Chicago Hull House settlement worker, Governor A. O. Eberhart, President George E. Vincent of the Minnesota university, and a prominent Eastern educator, to be decided upon later, at the state board of charities and correction meeting to be held here Sept. 24, 25, 26 and 27, if plans formulated by the local committee chairmen and President C. E. Vasaly and Secretary —Copyrighted by E. D. Waters.

MISS JANE ADDAMS.

G. D. Backus, president of the local board of the Associated Charities, introduced Mr. Vasaly, who said:

"I suppose you are all familiar with the scope of the state board of charities and correction. Its objects to some extent are implied in its name. We aim to touch on all social questions involved in the care of the dependent, unfortunate, and delinquent and, of course, all the related questions such as better housing, better supervision in medical ways, tuberculosis, its spread and all the live problems that come to do with charitable organizations, vice and crime.

First Meeting There.

"One of the reasons we have come here at this time is to talk over with you, in a general way, your needs along these lines so that we may make this meeting a great success. There has never been a meeting in this part of the state. There has been one at Duluth and one at Crookston, but none in this part of the state since the organization of the conference twenty-seven years ago. It is customary at these meetings to take up any special problem or line of work socially that might be helped by papers read or discussions made during the conference and we want to make this an especially successful gathering to stimulate interest in these problems in this neighborhood and other towns of this size. As a rule, towns of this size haven't taken as much interest as the larger cities, where there are so many more serious problems to be dealt with. However, we find them in varying forms in the smaller cities as well as in the larger ones.

"There is also, in connection with the conference, as you know, the boards of county commissioners. Under the law, the county commissioners' boards may each send a representative to this gathering and his expenses are paid by the county. This ought to mean a large meeting and there have been some very successful meetings of county commissioners.

"As to the entertainment of the gathering, it should be comparatively easy with such a committee as this. We want to get together speakers of eminence but you will find that a difficult task unless you begin early. The National Prison Association meets in St. Paul in October, a week later than the conference and we may be able to get some speakers who will be in Minnesota for that meeting, by co-operating with them. We want to make this gathering worthy of Bemidji which has an enviable reputation on being successful in entertaining meetings and conventions."

Secretary Davis Talks.

Following President Vasaly, Mr. Davis in part said:

"It is encouraging to Mr. Vasaly and myself to come up here and find a group of people so interested in promoting a state charities and correction. It may be interesting to you to know that the state last year appropriated a budget for running expenses of $1,500,000 and another million for improvements in the way of buildings, etc.

"We want this meeting to be helpful to you as well as to ourselves. We want to council together as to the best way to take care of the family when it is in need, the widow when she is left with little children, the feeble-minded boy or girl who cannot make progress in school, the drag on the community, the kind that set fire to your mill across the lake. The caring for those weaker members of the community is a problem in both county and city and we come together once a year to discuss how we can best do it. We might consider now the best way of getting your local people interested. There will be no use of coming up here if we can't get them out and get them inoculated with some of the ideas."

The state each year appropriates $500 for the annual meeting of the board, and Bemidji has guaranteed a fund of $200 to be used toward the expense of getting speakers here and also the expenses of the local committees, such as entertainment and publicity.

It was suggested by Mr. Vasaly that an excursion to the state sanitarium at Walker might prove interesting to the visitors, and his suggestion proved a popular one. A. E. Rako, who represented the board of county commissioners, said that he would very much like to have the commissioners take the trip to Walker, especially as the commissioners of Beltrami county have been sounding the sentiments of the people in regard to building a sanitarium for the cure of tuberculosis in this county, and they find there is a strong demand for such an institution. The state will soon begin work on the institution at Walker on improvements that will cost $180,000, this being the only exclusive sanitarium in the state for the tubercular.

When E. H. Denu, as chairman of the publicity committee, asked for information as to what would be expected of him, President Vasaly replied: "Bemidji has developed some publicity experts in the past few years, so I hardly think that committee should need any advice."

Those on Committees.

The names of the various chairmen and the committees they represent follow: Invitation, Mrs. T. C. Bailey; membership, Mrs. A. G. Wedge; information, Mrs. F. A. Wilson; entertainment, T. J. Burke; hotels and meeting places, F. S. Lycan; publicity, E. H. Denu; finance, H. C. Bower; county commissioners, A. E. Rako; secretary of directors, Mrs. A. E. Witting; directors, T. C. Bailey and Mrs. R. F. Murphy; secretary for the conference, Mrs. W. I. Dyer. G. D. Backus, president of the local board, and Mayor McCuaig also work with the committee.

Mr. Davis went to Minneapolis and Mr. Vasaly to the state sanitartum at Walker.

THROWN FROM HORSE; MANGLED BY TRAIN

Nick Lustilla Cut to Pieces on South Shore Near Chocolay.

Marquette, Mich., March 27.—Their attention having been attracted by a horse close to the track, the enginemen of the eastbound South Shore train Wednesday failed to see the body of Nick Lustilla lying on the track and he was run over and killed, between Chocolay and Gordon, about three miles below Chocolay.

Lustilla was driving a horse, bareback, from Marquette to Deerton, where he recently purchased a farm on which he was preparing to settle. It is believed that he was thrown from the animal's back onto the track and stunned, so that he lay helpless in the path of the train.

The attention of the enginemen was attracted by the horse at a considerable distance, and they observed it closely, interested to see what it would do, particularly whether it would make any move in the direction of the track. Thus it was that they failed to see Lustilla's body lying between the rails until it was too late to prevent the train from running over it. The body was badly mangled and death was instantaneous.

Lustilla was married, but had no children. The farm he was to work near Deerton was purchased by him only a few days ago.

FARMERS' NEEDS TO BE DISCUSSED

Get - Together Gathering Will Be Held at Bemidji Saturday.

Bemidji, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji Merchants' association and the farmers of Beltrami county will have a general get-together meeting at the high school Saturday to find out their needs and to try and make conditions better for the Beltrami county farmer.

Well known speakers from all over the state will talk on important subjects and a free banquet will be served at noon at the high school for the farmers.

The meeting will begin at 10 a. m., and E. A. Barker, president of the Bemidji Merchants' association, will preside.

In addition to the speeches and talks delivered by the outside speakers, Mr. Barker will call on the Bemidji merchants and also on the farmers to express their needs and also to suggest any ideas they may have.

Frank H. Gibbs of St. Paul, whose experience in agricultural propositions has made him famous, and who is employed by the University of Minnesota as a speaker for farmers' institutes and who is also holding official positions in many agricultural associations in Minneapolis and St. Paul, will deliver an address on onion growing.

W. H. Bofferding of Minneapolis, who is an expert on seeds, will speak on seeds. Mr. Bofferding's talk on seeds will be of much value to the farmers, as he will show just how to test and take care of seeds.

"Onion King" to Speak.

A. H. Jester, president of the Bemidji Onion Growers' association, and who is known as the "Onion King," will speak on co-operative marketing. Mr. Jester says that if farmers will bring their produce to Bemidji he will sell it. He also said that he could have sold many more carloads of onions last winter if he had been able to get them, but that he had to turn buyers away because he had no onions to sell, and that if the merchants and farmers will get together and work for each other they are bound to get results.

The three mentioned will be the principal speakers, but many of the Bemidji merchants and also the farmers will be given a chance to express their ideas.

A plan has been arranged whereby each town may have a speaker; that is, that each town represented shall elect a man to tell the Bemidji merchants just what they need.

BUTTE'S TENDERLOIN DISTRICT MAY GO.

Butte, Mont., March 27.—The closing of the tenderloin district here, the largest and most notorious in the Northwest, is believed to be indicated by a threat from Mayor Lewis J. Duncan in consequence of a damage suit brought against the Socialist mayor and other city officials by Harry Adams, proprietor of a saloon, whose place was raided by the police and $1,000 worth of liquor confiscated. The mayor has decreed that neither liquor nor music shall be had in the restricted district and the police have made repeated liquor raids. Mayor Duncan said last night that he might abolish the district because it resisted regulation.

GILBREATH DECLINES.

North Dakota Commissioner of Agriculture Is Not Candidate.

Bismarck, N. D., March 27.—W. C. Gilbreath, state commissioner of agriculture, who has been reported as undecided about running again, has reached a decision and makes a definite statement he will not be a candidate.

Commissioner Gilbreath states that the ill health of his wife precludes the possibility of his engaging in the campaign that would be necessary. The fact, he says, that several others are contemplating running for the nomination should he withdraw prompts his early announcement.

Commissioner Gilbreath calls attention to the growth of the state during the nine years he has been in office and he maintains that his department has been, in a measure, responsible for the advances made.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. BONDS ARE UP FOR APPROVAL

License Ordinances and Gowan-Lenning-Brown Petition Considered.

The bonds of Building Inspector S. F. Kielley and City Engineer John Wilson will probably be presented to the commission for approval at the meeting to be held this afternoon. That of the building inspector is $2,000 and that of the engineer is $10,000. The old council approved their other bonds, which did not expire until this spring.

At this meeting the license ordinances introduced last Monday will be considered. Mayor Prince will report that the city has been paid $725.34 insurance for fire damage to the armory Feb. 23.

Preceding the meeting the commission will hold a conference on the request of the Gowan-Lenning-Brown company that the city allow it to acquire 120 feet of Minnesota avenue, lying along the Lake avenue slip. It is expected that the council will decide to have the city's rights determined in court, the sentiment being that it should not lose any foothold upon harbor frontage.

HUGE MORTGAGE RECORDED HERE

Probably the largest mortgage ever put on record in St. Louis county was filed yesterday afternoon with the register of deeds by Swift & Co., meat packers, who executed an instrument for $50,000,000 to the First Trust Savings bank and Emily K. Boist. The mortgage embraces the holdings of Swift & Co. in fifteen states of the Union and will be recorded in every county where the company has holdings.

The big transaction is understood to have been brought about for the purpose of creating a bonded indebtedness not exceeding the amount of the mortgage, by which a sinking fund might be established to retire outstanding bonded indebtedness, liquidate other obligations and enlarge the company's plants.

The $50,000,000 bond issue will be created July 1, 1914, and will be marketed in coupon bonds of $500 and $1,000 denominations, and registered bonds of $1,000 and $10,000 denominations. The bonds will run for thirty years at a rate of interest not to exceed 5 per cent.

The mortgage was authorized at a meeting of the packing company's stockholders in Chicago Jan. 2. It is understood that $10,000,000 worth of the bonds will be issued immediately and that $25,000,000 will be issued from time to time as required and the balance of $15,000,000 issued upon security of property afterwards acquired.

TO OPEN BIDS ON ROAD NO. 4

Proposals Will Be Received Up to April 14 By County Auditor.

Thirty-Two Miles of Highway Estimated to Cost $112,500.

Contractors are taking a keen interest in County Auditor Halden's call for bids for the construction of State Rural Highway No. 4. The bids will be opened by the county auditor on April 11, and the contract will probably be let to the lowest bidder or bidders.

The call for bids notifies the contractors that they may submit proposals on any portion of the work or for the entire contract as one job. Bids will also be received on the construction of the road without graveling and on the graveling as a separate part of the work.

The call provides also that bids may be submitted on a unit basis. Under this arrangement contractors may figure on being paid for the actual amount of work done, whether more or less than stated in the engineer's estimate.

The road will extend from the intersection of the Culver and the Miller Trunk roads directly west to Floodwood and thence in a northwesterly direction to the Itasca county line. It will be about thirty-two miles in length, and when completed will be one of the finest highways in the state. E. K. Coe, county road engineer, has estimated the cost, exclsive of engineering expenses, to be $112,500. Contracts for the bridges have already been let.

The proposed highway is also known as the St. Louis county portion of the Duluth-St. Vincent road. It will be invaluable to the farmers of the Floodwood district as it will open up the first direct route from Floodwood to Duluth. At present there is no direct route.

All bids filed for the work with the county auditor must be accompanied by a check for not less than 10 per cent of the amount bid. The auditor reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Bids were called for last December on the project, but the proposals of all bidders were much more than the work should cost in the opinion of the county road engineer and were rejected.

SMOOTH AGENTS OPERATED HERE

"Rare Books" Unloaded on Duluthians at Fancy Prices.

Glenn F. Farmer and James Powers of New York and Samuel Rosenwald of Chicago, defendants in the so-called "de luxe" bookcase, who were convicted of wholesale swindling by a jury in Boston yesterday, operated in Duluth about three years ago and succeeded at that time in unloading some of their supposedly rare volumes on several Duluthians at fancy prices.

Rosenwald yesterday was sentenced to the state penitentiary for a term of six to eight years. Farmer drew from three to five years at the same place and Powers was committed to the house of correction for a term of two and one-half years.

The jury found the trio guilty of having conspired to defraud Mrs. Mary L. Rogers of Boston out of $87,000 by inducing her to advance money for the purchase of what were represented to be rare volumes, and upon which she had been made to believe that she would make a large profit soon, when the editions would be out of print.

DECREE SOON ON HICKEN CODE

Judge Dancer Hears Final Arguments in Contest Case.

Judge Dancer is expected to announce his decision on the contest filed against the legality of the Hicken liquor code election of Sept. 16 last some day next week. Final arguments and briefs in the case involving the contest were submitted to the court this morning by Harvey Clapp, city attorney, representing the municipality, and Hugh J. McClearn on behalf of W. W. Clayton, contestee.

The matter has been dragging along in the district court since last October, and when the case was submitted today the court intimated that an early decision might be looked for. All contested ballots have been submitted to the court under different classifications for a ruling.

UNDERWOOD SCORES BILL

Denounces Plan to Repeal Panama Canal Tolls Act.

Lays Move to "Un-American Spirit of Surrender."

Washington, March 27.—Representative Underwood of Alabama, Democratic floor leader in the house of representatives today delivered his speech against repealing the Panama tolls exemption, as urged by President Wilson. The scene of the leader of the house majority, who had led the successful fights for practically all the administration measures, combatting the position of the president, attracted wide attention. Mr. Underwood urged defeat of the Sims bill, which follows President Wilson's recommendation for the repeal of the tolls exemption. He declared the repeal was contrary to the platform of the Democratic party adopted at the Baltimore convention, and that an exemption favoring American coastwise ships did not violate the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

"Not for one moment do I believe we have violated a treaty," declared Mr. Underwood. "Our whole difficulty arises from the un-American spirit of surrender that some of our own people have exhibited toward this important question from the very beginning.

"Can any one tell us plainly why we surrender and what is to be accomplished by it? Are we to yield merely because the sentiment of Europe is against us? When has the sentiment of Europe ever been with us about matters of moment? When will the time come when we can expect to maintain and preserve our rights, political and commercial, with the acquiescent sympathy of European governments?"

Can Get Enough Revenue.

Representative Underwood quoted figures to show that the cost of maintenance of the canal and interest on the government's investment could be met easily without charging American vessels tolls and by charging foreign vessels a "fair and reasonable" toll. He compared the tolls charged by the British at the Suez canal with the proposed Panama tolls.

"The purpose of congress," said he, "in providing in the act for the opening, maintenance, protection and operation of the canal, 'that no tolls shall be levied upon vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States,' and providing further that it should be left discretionary with the president of the United States to exempt from tolls our ships engaged in foreign trade, was an effort on the part of congress to discriminate in favor of American shipping and to re-establish our merchant marine. This has been a policy of the Democratic party since the beginning of the government. The Democratic party has never stood for direct subsidies but has always favored subventions and discriminations in favor of our shipping.

Discriminating Duties.

"It was through discriminating tariff duties that our merchant marine was developed in the first three decades of our government's existence. The Democratic tariff law that is now on the statute books carries in it a discrimination amounting to a reduction of 5 per cent of the duties on goods imported in American ships.

"If we have built the canal for the benefit of an American merchant marine and not for the practical exclusive use of foreign shipping, we must adopt a policy of discrimination in favor of American ships, or we must in the end pay indirect subsidies to enable our ships to compete with ships of foreign nations. The subsidies and discriminations that European governments have given to their shipping interests have practically driven American ships from the seas.

"For the reasons given I believe that the Democratic party was both wise and patriotic when it announced a policy in favor of discriminating in favor of our coastwise ships going through the Panama canal and that there is no reason at this time why we should abandon a solemn promise made to the American people in one of the most prominent planks in our party platform."

Tomorrow last day of the "Golden Rule" bankrupt sale in the Columbia basement.

BERING RIVER COAL NOT GOOD FOR NAVY

Secretary Daniels Reports to Congress on Survey Findings.

Washington, March 27. — Secretary Daniels reported to congress today that coal from the Bering river fields in Alaska was unsuitable for use by the navy. Tests by the geological survey, by officials at Annapolis and aboard the naval cruiser Maryland, he said, all were unfavorable except that the Alaskan coal made less smoke. The report stated that the Bering coal was incapable of generating sufficient steam, and it is said could produce only 50 per cent efficiency of power.

Dr. J. J. Holmes of the bureau of mines, said in the report that Bering coal could be mined only at great cost, was full of faults, and was chiefly valuable if turned into coke and shipped.

HEINO ALSO DENIES CHARGE

Co-respondent Takes Witness Stand in Gran Divorce Case.

Denying the stories of clandestine meetings between himself and Mrs. Olga Gran and the charge that he committed adultery with her in his office, 307-308 Sellwood building, on the afternoon of Jan. 31, John R. Heino, co-respondent in the Gran divorce case, took the stand as a witness on behalf of Mrs. Gran yesterday afternoon. Up to a late hour this afternoon his cross examination had not been concluded.

Heino's story of what happened at his office in the Sellwood building coincided in every detail with what Mrs. Gran testified yesterday. He branded the stories of the four men who testified for the plaintiff as false when they declared that they found Mrs. Gran in a compromising position with him.

Heino denied that he had ever been ordered by Gran to keep away from Mrs. Gran. He also denied the story told by Miss Elizabeth Sandell, a domestic employed at the Gran home, who testified of midnight orgies at the Gran home during Gran's absence in which Heino and Mrs. Gran were participants.

Heino admitted that he had taken Mrs. Gran for automobile rides but he declared that it had always been at Gran's request and insisted that they were never out together without some third person along.

Heino also admitted that he had been kept informed of certain testimony which had been adduced at the trial before he was called as a witness in spite of the court's order than all witnesses for either side of the case be excluded from the courtroom during the progress of the trial.

Cameron Hughitt, official reporter of the municipal court who is sitting in on the Gran case, he said, had read certain portions of the testimony to him evenings.

GILBERT TO HAVE FAIR LABOR DAY

The Commercial Club Plans on Making Day Big One.

Gilbert, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plans set on foot by the Commercial club for an exhibit of agricultural and other products here next fall are meeting with much favor. The date selected for the exhibition is Labor day, Sept. 7. The plan is for an exhibit of agricultural, horticultural and other products from Gilbert and vicinity and in addition prizes are to be offered for the best garden, best lawn, best floral yard and best collection of trees.

Best Garden Prize.

Prizes are also to be given for the best garden and flower garden made by boys and girls under 16 years. The day is to be celebrated with a parade in which the local merchants will have floats. Some local and outside orators will speak, and a program of field sports for young and old will be arranged so as to make the day full of interest and merit the attendance of a large crowd. Gilbert has the reputation of making good when it comes to entertainments, and as this one is devoting attention to a branch which has not hitherto received a great deal of attention on the range, it is expected that it will attract a large crowd from other towns.

PLAN INSTITUTE AT GRAND RAPIDS

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A farmers' institute will be held here on Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18 and preparations are under way to make it a thoroughly representative affair at which matters more particularly of interest to farmers of this section will be discussed. The best speakers in the state are to be present and everything done to make the occasion one of practical value to agriculturists. Land clearing will be one of the matters given particular attention. The matter of co-operation will also be handled. Dairying, poultry raising and all other lines of stock production will be topics of discussion by people who have made a success of the different branches.

Get-together Meeting.

On the evening of April 17 it is the intention of those having the matter in charge to hold an informal get-together meeting at which questions pertaining to the work of the institute may be asked and will be answered by the instructors. It is also the intention to make such provisions for people coming from a distance as will cause them to be under the least possible inconvenience and expense while here. Supt. A. J. McGuire of the experiment farm has been made chairman of the committee on arrangements, and he has promised a more complete program for a later date.

POULTRY EXHIBIT BY YOUNG FOLKS

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first poultry show ever held in Itasca county at which stock raised by boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 years will be the exclusive exhibits will be held here, Friday, April 10. Any boy or girl between the ages stated who are residents of the county may send entries. Pens for exhibition shall consist of two female and one male bird and the following breeds shall be open to competition: Leghorns, Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons. All other breeds exhibited will be grouped in one class. There will be first, second and third prizes offered in the above classes, making fifteen chances for premiums in all.

Prof. E. G. Chapman, state poultry expert will do the judging and deliver an address to the boys and girls on the poultry industry, and will also talk to the older people in the evening on the same subject.

GRAND RAPIDS GUN CLUB TO SHOOT AGAIN.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—President D. C. Anderson of the Itasca County Agricultural association, and some of the members of the Grand Rapids Gun club, advocate the creation of a park at the fair grounds. There are about twenty acres comprised in these grounds, and they could be made into one of the most beautiful natural parks in this part of the state at a very small cost. A few years ago Grand Rapids had one of the best gun clubs in this section, but for some reason interest in it has been allowed to lag. It is now the intention to revive trap shooting, and as many of the votaries of the sport who were members of the old organization are still residents here, it is thought that the very best kind of a club can be gotten together. There will probably be a meeting called in the near future to perfect the details.

BRAY MINE WILL START UP SOON

Keewatin, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bray mine will resume mining operations about April 1 and a large force of men will be employed.

The mine has been shut down since last fall and the news that this mine will reopen is received by Keewatin citizens with joy.

The Bray will ship this season from its shaft and also from the open pit, where one shovel will be worked.

MANY DRILLS ARE NOW BEING WORKED

Biwabik, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not in years, if ever before, have as many drills been working in this locality as right now. There are twenty-six drilling outfits working between here and McKinley for the Oliver Iron Mining company, some belonging to the company and some to concerns employed by the company. The company is doing a lot of exploratory work on the Higgins' estate property, which revives the rumors that the property is to be taken over by the Oliver company.

Work is being done at the Ruddy mine, an independent, preparatory to again being mined and altogether the prospects are bright for a good season here.

BETTER SERVICE IS FARMERS' WISH

Virginia, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers living to the north of Virginia along the Canadian Northern railway want better train service and have asked the Commercial club to help them secure it. The station which is the most affected is Britt. It is claimed there are about seventy-five farmers adjacent to the station and that under present conditions they have no facilities for shipping their produce to this city, which is the natural market. The present service gives the people of that section only two hours in which to do their business here and they ask that steps be taken to have the early morning train, which is known as the "Winnipeg Flyer," stop at Britt, which will enable them to spend the entire forenoon here and return home shortly after noon. A committee will be appointed to take the matter up with the proper railroad officials and should it become necessary the railroad and warehouse commission will be called upon for action.

After Filthy Cars.

The sanitary condition of the cars on the Mesaba Electric railway furnished the subject for some discussion at last night's meeting of the club. Many complaints have been made as to the filthy condition of the cars and the lack of proper ventilation and it was the opinion of those who spoke upon the subject that this should be remedied. General Manager Newton of the railway company will be invited to attend the next regular meeting of the club, when the matter will be fully discussed with him.

The membership committee reported good progress. Over 150 members have already been secured and it is hoped to increase this number to at least 300.

TO DEBATE AGAIN.

Grand Rapids Team to Meet Alexandria Champions at Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The debate to be given at the high school tonight is the first of a series of entertainments to be given this term. The series includes, besides the debate, an interclass contest and a play under the auspices of the junior class.

The debaters and their coach, Mr. Carson, have been working faithfully since last October. This contest will be different from the last. Alexandria, like Grand Rapids, has won its place by successive victories, so all expect a hotly contested debate from first to last.

The matter of the purchase of the old Central school for use as a parochial school by Our Lady of Lourdes church, was taken up with the board by a committee of six representing the church and it will be definitely disposed of at a special meeting to be held next Wednesday evening.

Dr. P. P. Colgrove, superintendent, and W. H. Eaton, chairman of the board, left yesterday for St. Paul to attend a meeting of the state superintendents. While there they will make an effort to employ an agricultural instructor for the local schools.

Among the men to be appointed will be a township engineer, township attorney, fire wardens, overseer, road foreman, warehouse man and several other minor positions.

Considerable interest attaches itself to the result of the meeting.

Wm. Manley, Hotel Keeper, and Ellen Reddy Are Called.

Biwabik, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—If relatives can arrive in time it is expected the funeral of William Manley, the local hotel man, who died yesterday afternoon, will be held Saturday morning from St. John's Catholic church, with interment in Lakeview cemetery.

Ellen, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Reddy, died yesterday of spinal meningitis. The funeral will be held tomorrow from St. John's church.

FOR MISS FLYBERG.

Farewell Reception Given Prior to Her Leaving Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. L. J. Lehman entertained at a farewell party Wednesday evening at her home for Miss Elida Flyberg, who left yesterday for Milwaukee, Wis., where she expects to remain. The evening was spent in games and music, after which a luncheon was served. The guests were Mrs. M. Lenz, Mrs. J. Bailey, Mrs. Harry Kidd, Mrs. A. KILLED BY TRAIN.

Unknown Man's Body Found on Canadian Northern Tracks.

Virginia, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of an unknown man was found by a train crew on the Northern yesterday near Ellsmore, about thirty miles south of here. The body was lying face downward alongside the track and it was at first believed that the man had met with foul play. The body was left untouched and the matter was reported to Deputy Coroner J. H. Crowe and, together with Deputy Sheriff Artie O'Dea and Undertaker Gillespie, he went to the scene at noon to investigate. There was nothing to indicate that foul play had been used but that he must have been struck by a passing train. The body was brought here and an effort will be made to have the dead man identified.

PIONEER VIRGINIA WOMAN CALLED.

Virginia, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Catherine Armstrong, aged 73, a pioneer resident of Virginia, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. Peterkin, on Fifth street. She is survived by eight children, all of whom are residents of the Canadian Northwest, with the exception of Mrs. Peterkin. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made, but it is expected that it will be held from the Methodist church next Monday.

YOU CAN'T BRUSH OR WASH OUT DANDRUFF

The Simplest and Quickest Way is To Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

CLOUDY

Sunshine greeted Duluth as it got out of bed this morning and although clouds interrupted the gleams at times in general the early part of the day at least is pretty and worth while. But again comes the threat of snow. That is the prediction for tonight and tomorrow, and the general forecast is for unsettled conditions over most of Minnesota.

A year ago today was fair and cold. The sun rose this morning at 5:57 and will set this evening at 6:30, giving twelve hours and thirty-three minutes of sunshine, three minutes more than yesterday.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Zero temperatures prevail in the Red river valley and Western Canada, but the cold has moderated somewhat over the Rocky mountains and Eastern slopes. Light to heavy falls of snow or rain occurred Thursday or last night in Eastern Canada, the lake region, Ohio and Mississippi valleys, Western Gulf states, Montana, Utah, Nevada, Southern California, Oregon and Washington. Rain is falling this morning in Central and Southern states."

SHUT OFF THREAT BRINGS RESULTS.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the latest mandate of the water and light board ordering the employes to shut off the water and light of delinquent users has done more for collections than any method yet tried is the opinion of the clerks who have been busy for the past two days explaining to irate men and women the exact reason for the action. As a result of the campaign only fifteen unpaid accounts are now on the books of the department.

MUNICIPAL GAS PLANT AGITATED.

Eveleth, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Talk in favor of a municipal gas plant is being heard among the business men of the city. The council has already taken steps to acquire the power plant and those who are boosting the gas plant proposition claim that gas for fuel is just as essential to the city as electricity. It is said that the two plants could be operated economically in one building and under one management.

HIBBING DRAMATIC CLUB IS ORGANIZED.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The organization of a dramatic club for the study and presentation of plays during this and the coming season was completed last evening at the home of Miss Vera Bechtel. The club starts with sixteen members and it is probable that more will be included as the work advances. A committee was appointed last evening to select plays to be studied and report at the next meeting. The organization will probably hold its meeting in the library.

Hibbing Bowlers Banquet.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local bowlers were guests last evening at an enjoyable banquet held at Zant's cafe. Following a delicious menu H. Z. Mitchell, who officiated as toastmaster, called on the captains of the various teams for remarks. All predicted a successful season next year when the league will be reorganized and a longer schedule played. There is some talk of a post-season game between the two leading teams, but no arrangements have as yet been made.

BIDS IN HIS LAND.

Squatter Near Eveleth Allowed to Save His Homestead.

Eveleth, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—That sentiment is occasionally allowed to mix with business was proven at the time of the state land sale at Duluth, when the other bidders kept silent and let Alex Zigowski, who lives two miles from this city, bid in a tract of land on which he had "squatted."

Zigowski had lived on the land for a number of years and had made extensive improvements. He believed that he was homesteading state land. When he learned that the land was to be offered for sale he made a trip to the state auditor's office and was informed that he had no legal right to the land and that if he would retain his home he must bid it in.

At the sale the circumstances were explained to the other bidders and although the property was worth much more the squatter was allowed to buy it at the appraised valuation.

SUPERIOR TEAM EASILY DEFEATED

Two Harbors, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city basket ball team defeated the Badger team from Superior last night, 42 to 19. The game was fast and interesting, but the teamwork of the locals was too much for the visitors. Van Armen played a good game for Superior, but he was closely guarded and had little opportunity to break away for clean shots. Woodward at center for Two Harbors played one of the best games of his career and his basket shooting was nothing short of marvelous. Johnson at guard was also in the game every minute and held his man down in good shape.

The lineup was as follows:

Superior—	Two Harbors—
Van Armen	f	Graves
Murphy
McLain	f	Sullivan
Murphy	c	Woodward
Olson	g	Johnson
Cooke	g	Fillatrault

Summary: Baskets—Van Armen, 6; Graves, 5; Woodward, 6; Sullivan, 4; Fillatrault, 3; Johnson, 2; Murphy, 2; Olson, 1. Fouls—Woodward, 2; Graves, 1; Van Armen, 2. Referee—Conliff. Timekeeper—Dwan.

Over 200 members of the two lodges were present and Mr. and Mrs. Hayward were presented with a beautiful cut glass water set and tray and a pearl-handled carving set, the presentation being made by Dr. Isaac Van Domlin. BOAT CLUB HOUSE ALONG TROUT LAKE

Coleraine, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans are now well under way for a boat club building which is to be built on Trout lake by a company known as the Trout Lake Boat club. The company has set about to raise $5,000 in thirty days by selling shares at a par value of $10. The building is a two-story structure which will have a number of launch, rowboat and canoe stalls as well several living rooms on the first floor while the second floor will be taken up largely by a dancing pavilion and promenade.

The newly formed company has purchased the boat equipment of A. H. Grimpo, who has been in the boat business on Trout lake for the last three years.

WINSLOWS MAY WIN.

Take Two Out of Three Games From Virginia Bowlers.

Chisholm, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—By taking two out of three games from the Virginia City team Wednesday evening at the Ploof alleys here, score 2,500 to 2,420, the Winslow team bids fair to win the Mesaba Range Bowling league trophy. By eliminating such games as have been played by teams withdrawing from the association which means games played with the Cliffords and the Mohamis the Winslows now have the commanding position. The City team of Virginia would have to take the next three straight games from the Maras of Hibbing and their chances for doing this are none too rosy as the Maras team is bowling fast games now.

ON ROBBERY CHARGE.

Woodsman Arrested at Virginia Is Charged With Taking $110.

Virginia, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with robbing Gus Knauth and Alex Knauth in a Chestnut street rooming house of $110, Jay Fesenden was arrested yesterday and will have a hearing today. The three worked in the woods and came to town together. It is claimed Fesenden was fed by the others. The three occupied the same room, and when the two Knauths had gone to sleep, Fesenden is alleged to have gone through their clothes and touched them for all they had.

As soon as they discovered their loss this morning they reported the matter to Chief of Police Hice, and after a short search he located Fesenden and took him into custory.

When arrested he had no money in his possession, but after a searching examination by the chief he admitted having committed the robbery. A pocketbook containing $88 was found in a saloon and turned over to the police, and Fesenden confessed to having made an effort to conceal it.

GILBERT CHURCH MEET.

Affairs of Presbyterian Church Reported as Prosperous.

Gilbert, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Presbyterian church was held Thursday evening in Carlson's hall. About 100 were present. The reports of the various committees were read and election for the ensuing year held. The reports showed great progress and all societies showed a balance on hand.

The Ladies' Aid society has purchased the organ of the Virginia Presbyterian church. It is a pipe tone organ and they hope to have it installed in time for the Easter services. The Sunday school has an enrollment of 165 and the Ladies' Aid society has a membership of 28.

The following officers were elected: Trustees, D. T. Caine, F. P. Rutherford, L. L. Wilcox and Chas. Trengove; treasurer, R. E. Johnston; president of the Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. M. H. Stevens; superintendent of the Sunday school, Dr. W. H. Connor. Rev. G. S. Turner is pastor.

The evening was enjoyably spent and all were pleased to learn of the progress made, and the prospects for a more useful and prosperous year to come. Lunch was served by the Ladies' Aid society.

POISONS THAT IRRITATE

When the delicate machinery of the body is not working harmoniously, poisons are retained that should be expelled. These may accumulate in the tissues and cause irritation. Should this irritation affect joints or muscles you have rheumatism; if a nerve becomes inflamed you have neuralgia.

But if the system is kept toned up with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and no body poisons are retained, foods that once distressed you will be harmless, exposure will bring no rheumatism and neuralgia and even germ diseases need hardly be dreaded.

The lowering of the tone of the system which results from thin blood is easy to recognize. Weakness is always present, a tendency to perspire and fatigue easily, ringing in the ears, black spots passing before the eyes, weak back, dizziness, wakefulness and unrefreshing sleep. These conditions Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will correct.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. In this way the general health is improved, the appetite increases, and new ambition and energy is developed.

MARKET HAS SLIGHT BREAK

Wheat Closes Lower on Reports of Rains Through Southwest.

Flaxseed Declines With Liquidation Following Weakness at Winnipeg.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 27.—The market held steady up to the close. May wheat closed ⅛c off and July ¼c off. May durum closed ¼c off and July ¼c off.

Oats closed unchanged at 36¼c, and rye unchanged at 55@57c for the best grade. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 36⅝c bid, and July at 37⅜c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at 90⅝c asked, and calls at 91c asked.

Wheat took on an easy tone today after a strong opening on higher Liverpool cables, and prices sold off to fractionally below yesterday's close during the first three hours trading. A bearish influence was furnished in reports of liberal rains in sections of the Southwest, including through, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas. That led to some selling, but it was noted that fair support was met at the recessions.

At Chicago, the milling demand for cash wheat was said to be good. The weakness there yesterday was attributed to unloading of May wheat by a prominent operator, but it was intimated that heavy buying orders are expected in the July option, the foreign situation being regarded as such that Europe may be forced to buy wheat from America soon. It is conceded, however, that the market is likely to be very much a weather affair for some time now, in view of the enormous acreage under winter wheat. It is also pointed out that the acreage sown in spring wheat in the Northwest is likely to be the largest in years and that with abundant moisture, the seed will go into the ground under the best conditions.

The Liverpool market was sustained today through lighter Argentina shipments and expected moderate world's shipments this year.

Primary receipts made a close comparison with last year, showing a decrease of just 15,000 bu. Inspections here came to twenty cars against forty last year, and there were only twenty-three cars of all grains on the tracks for the day.

Receipts at Minneapolis were 201 cars, compared with 242 last year, and with the good milling demand met with, stocks there decreased 350,000 bu in the week.

May wheat opened unchanged at 92½c and it eased off ¼c during the first three hours' business, after selling ⅜c higher. The July option opened unchanged at 93¼c, and it also weakened ¼c. There was little business doing in durum, and after opening unchanged at 90½c, the May option in it sold off ¼c.

Flaxseed Sells Off.

Flaxseed turned weak shortly after the opening today, following a decline at Winnipeg. Selling pressure developed near the closing hour, resulting in a break of a cent. After the liquidation had spent itself the market stiffened up fractionally, leaving final prices showing losses for the day of ¾c.

The foreign markets were weak, Antwerp closing at ⅝c lower; London ½c off and Buenos Aires unchanged.

May flax opened unchanged, $1.61⅝, and closed ⅝c off at $1.60¾. The July option opened unchanged at $1.63¼ and it closed ⅝c off at $1.62⅝. The September option closed ⅝c down at $1.63¾ nominally.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.41 bid and July at $1.43¾ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Steady American cables yesterday and light Argentine shipments caused support in wheat at the opening here and values were unchanged to ¼d higher. Following the opening there was some disposition for profits stimulated by the decline in corn; expected ample world's shipments for the week and favorable weather advices from Russia, but support was again in evidence and the distant month advanced a further ¼d with the undertone steady. There is an increased demand for Australian and Manitobas and expectations are for a decrease on passage. These conditions encourage few speculative offers. At 1:30 p. m. prices were unchanged to ¼d higher.

"Corn opened with July unchanged and later there was a decline of ¼d. Disappointing American cables, favorable weather in Argentina, liberal Plate offers for distant shipment and a decline in spot here owing to a smaller demand helped to establish lower values. At 1:30 p. m. prices were ¼d lower."

The working of some export business in flour was reported by the Duluth-Superior Milling company today. Inquiry for flour in the East was advised to be light at present, with the larger jobbers holding off for lower quotations. Mill feeds are at present on the highest price basis in years, bran being quoted at $25.75 and standard middlings $25 a ton.

Argentine wheat shipments were 1,844,000 bu against 1,496,000 bu last week and 6,104,000 bu last year; corn, 198,000 bu against 554,000 bu last week and 1,783,000 bu last year. Visible wheat, 1,680,000 bu against 2,360,000 bu last week and 8,840,000 bu last year. Corn, 1,105,000 bu against 765,000 bu last week and 1,020,000 bu last year.

Broomhall estimates world's shipments, exclusive of North America, at 8,000,000 bu against 7,912,000 bu last week. Of this Europe will take about 6,400,000 bu. Total shipments last week were 11,968,000 bu and 13,520,000 bu last year.

Australian shipments of wheat were 2,440,000 bu this week and Indian shipments of wheat 96,000 bu. Estimates next week are for 72,000 bu.

The Minneapolis cash market was quoted steady, but the demand was somewhat slow. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 1½@3c over May and velvet chaff at 1½@1¾c premium. Flour sales were light. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from 92¼c to 93⅜c and No. 2 northern at from 89¾c to 91¾c.

Baker received the following wire from a Chicago operator: "Personally I can see no reason for May wheat holding its present premium over July any longer. There is no scarcity of cash wheat anywhere in this country at the present. Fall plowing for spring wheat indicates an immense acreage and with abundance of moisture in the ground we are not far from the time when we are liable to hear of prospects for a record-breaking spring wheat crop."

The Modern Miller says: "A limited area in Western Texas and Oklahoma is dry and requires moisture. Light rains in Central and Western Kansas have been beneficial. In general the Western states show splendid condition, with the plant well rooted. In the soft winter wheat belt the weather conditions have been highly favorable, and in the Southern districts, the wheat growth is above normal.

Bradstreets reported American shipments this week of wheat at 2,780,000 bu; corn at 134,000 bu. Since July 1 wheat shipments were 201,908,000 bu. Last year they were 176,739,000 bu.

* * *

The inertness of the wheat market is illustrated in its narrow movement for some time back. Taking the close at Duluth yesterday, the May and July options showed declines of ¼c as compared with a week ago, while May durum ran off ½c. Present quotations are up 6⅞c in May and 5½c in July over those ruling a year ago. Durum, on the other hand, is ⅜c cheaper. The higher range this spring is attributable to the smaller supplies of both winter and spring wheat remaining in the country and the market shortage in the last Argentine harvest, leading to a more bullish situation at Liverpool. It is also to be noted that the present firmness in the American markets is in the face of the largest winter wheat yield, taking acreage and condition into account, that this country has ever raised.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Firm Owing to Dry Western Weather.

Chicago, March 27.—Scantiness of moisture west of the Missouri river put firmness today into the price of wheat. The fact that cables were steady also counted in favor of the bulls. Prices opened the same as last night and rain led to a reaction, especially for July. The close was firm, ¼c off to 1-16c up compared with last night.

Trade in corn was active, but mainly in small lots. Commission houses were for the most part on the buying side, with shorts inclined to cover. The market at the outset varied from ⅛@¼c off to a shade advance, but afterward made an upturn all around.

Advices afterward that amended railroad rates in New England would enlarge the field for Argentine imports tended to bring about a setback, but the market rallied on account of lively buying for a house conspicuous of late on the selling side. The close was steady at ¼c to ½@⅝c net higher.

Oats showed a disposition to follow corn. Changes in price, however, were only slight.

In provisions the influence of liberal receipts of hogs was overcome by the strength of grain. The market after an easy start became noticeably firm.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Weak on Cash Demand and News of Rain.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27.—Rain in the southwestern grain districts, favorable reports from the Northwest and a small cash demand caused a weakness in the local wheat market today. A lower tendency in the July option was especially noticeable.

MOVEMENT DOWNWARD

Acute Weakness Displayed By Specialties and Close Heavy.

New York, March 27.—The slow sagging movement of the last few days continued during the morning. Transactions in the first hour, usually the most active period of the session, barely exceeded 30,000 shares.

Bears sought to make capital from reports of backward business conditions and extensive retrenchment by railroads, but were able to arouse little interest in speculation. The trend was downward. By noon the leaders were fractionally under the opening figures.

Bonds were steady.

The only stock to move more than a small fraction at the opening of the market today was Canadian Pacific, which declined a point. The market was listless, with a good undertone. Most of the leaders were a shade above yesterday's close.

The early market showed no signs of pressure, but neither was there any demand of consequence, so that prices fluctuated around a dead level after an indifferent opening. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. Louis declined 2 and the preferred a point.

Losses were extended all around owing to the acute weakness of special stocks. Lehigh Valley and Sugar declined nearly 3 points. Publication of more unfavorable railroad reports, including those of Union Pacific, Northwestern and Illinois Central, influenced the shaking out of slimly margined long stocks.

Purchasers were not willing to take stocks except at marked concessions from ruling figures, and prices accordingly gravitated further downward in the late afternoon. Business was in smaller volume than in the forenoon, but the effect on prices was greater.

The market closed heavy. Desultory selling affected special stocks all through the final hour with some increase of pressure toward the end on Reading & Southern Pacific. Lehigh met with some support, but its recoverys failed to check the downward trend of the balance of the list.

SUBSTANTIAL GROWTH OF DULUTH REFLECTED IN SCARCITY OF HOMES

Not in Ten Years Have Vacant Houses Been So Scarce.

Condition Indicates Rapid Increase in Population of the City.

Duluth Beginning to Realize on Its Many Industrial Advantages.

Duluth is growing—growing substantially and rapidly.

That the coming of the steel plant, the lake and rail decision, the development of the agricultural districts, new railroads and a score of other factors are finally having their long looked-for result, can no longer be questioned.

The growth is reflected in the scarcity of flats and homes which is reported by every real estate dealer and rental agency in Duluth.

Not in ten years has there been such a scarcity of vacant homes in Duluth, and this in the face of the "build-your-own-home" movement which has changed Duluth from a city of house renters to a city of home owners in a very few years.

Any one who has walked through the district north of Lakeside, or the suburbs of Woodland and Hunter's Park, or the hillside, or the West end, or West Duluth, or the steel plant suburbs during the last year or two cannot fail to be impressed by the remarkable number of new homes built in the last two years.

And in spite of this building movement it is difficult to rent a moderate-priced, desirable flat, apartment or house in Duluth, even at this time, a month before the opening of navigation and spring activities.

Improvement in the situation for house owners became apparent last fall and it continued through the winter, culminating in an unprecedented inquiry for housing accommodation since the beginning of the present month. It is reported by agents that the call has been so urgent that practically everything at all modern in the house line has been rented, that condition applying to every section of the city. In many instances dwellings that had been vacant for years have found tenants, and in some offices it has been found necessary to make up waiting lists.

That Duluth's normal surplus of homes should have been so rapidly reduced to the vanishing point is accepted as undisputable evidence that there has been an influx of outsiders here during the last few months. Commenting on that phase of the

$1,078 IS FOUND IN DEAD PAUPER'S SHOE

Shoe String Peddler Has Saved That in Two Years.

Chicago, March 28.—A bank book showing a balance of $1,054 and a money order for $24 were found in a shoe worn by Dan Shindlum, an inmate of the county infirmary, who died yesterday. He died without a word of his hidden wealth. So far as the authorities know, he had no friends or relatives.

Shindlum arrived in Chicago from Russia two years ago and became a peddler of shoestrings. The bank account is believed to represent his savings for that period.

CLAIM PAYMENT FOR STRATHCONA'S WORK

Executors of Estate Will Present Checks for $40,000.

Montreal, March 28.—Checks received by the late Lord Strathcona, formerly Canadian high commissioner at London for services rendered as a director of the Canadian Pacific railroad company which he never cashed but kept as souvenirs, will be presented for payment by the executors of his estate. The value of the checks is understood to be more than $40,000.

It was the boast of Lord Strathcona that he had never accepted a cent for his services as director of the railroad, and at the time of his death checks covering a period of thirty-two years, the length of his service on the board were found.

The executors of the estate now hold that the checks constitute a valid claim on the railroad company, and have filed formal claim.

ROOMERS IN ALTON Y. M. C. A. BURNED OUT

Building Is Destroyed While Firemen Are Busy Elsewhere.

St. Louis, Mo., March 28.—Thirty men were routed from their beds and had narrow escapes when fire destroyed the Young Men's Christian association building at Alton, Ill., near here, early today.

The men were asleep on the upper floors of the building, which was a four-story structure, and escaped by climbing down ladders and fire escapes.

With half the fire department fighting another blaze in the north end of town, the fire soon got beyond control and destroyed the Y. M. C. A. building, entailing a loss estimated at $75,000. No one was injured.

LAYS ARREST TO POLITICS

Former Wisconsin Official Is in Custody in Indianapolis.

Essmann Denies He Took Any of State's Money.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 28.—William Essmann, a former member of the Indiana legislature, is under arrest here charged with embezzling funds belonging to the state of Wisconsin, in which he now lives. Essmann, following the last campaign in Wisconsin, was made custodian of public buildings at Madison. He says he was manager of Governor McGovern's campaign, but subsequently he and the governor had a misunderstanding which caused him to leave the employ of the state.

Essmann asserts that he had charge of the distribution of the state's new statute books, and that when an accounting was made he could not account for 195 of the books. He says that is all the state has against him. He declares his arrest is the result of a political intrigue, and he is willing to go to Wisconsin without extradition proceedings.

Embezzlement Charged.

Madison, Wis., March 28.—Following the notification last night of the arrest at Indianapolis of William L. Essmann, former state superintendent of public property, on a warrant charging embezzlement, Officer Julius J. Krug left for that city today to bring him back. Krug was armed with requisition papers and a full statement of the facts in the case, and unless a legal battle is started there, Essmann will be arraigned in municipal court here Monday morning, according to District Attorney Robert L. Nelson.

The warrant for Essmann's arrest was signed by John H. Hayes, one of the bank examiners who made the investigation. The warrant was issued here last Wednesday. The embezzlement charge, it is understood, consists practically of two counts, one covering $246 and the other $234, misappropriations alleged to have been made in 1912 and 1913.

The complete report of the investigators is not on file. The total shortage is expected to reach several thousand dollars.

Essmann resigned by request as superintendent of public property, Jan. 26.

WASHINGTON BEGINS ACTION AT BERLIN

Urges Protection of American Investors in Oil Business.

Berlin, March 28.—Formal action was begun today by the United States government against the petroleum monopoly bill recently introduced in the German imperial parliament.

The first step taken was a written memorandum presented by James W. Gerard, United States ambassador, to Gottlieb von Jagow, the German foreign minister. This memorandum expresses the confident expectation of the United States government that certain injustices toward American investors contained in the monopoly bill in its present form will disappear before enactment.

The United States, it points out, has no wish either to intervene against Germany's establishment of an oil monopoly, nor to interfere with any price arrangement between the Standard Oil company and the German government, should such be under consideration. It expects, however, that American citizens who have invested capital in German enterprises—for instance, the Standard Oil company's German subsidiary concern—will be fully and fairly compensated for all investments canceled by the measure.

The German foreign minister did not reply today to the American memorandum, and he may be relieved from doing so by the death of the bill.

STATE BILLS ARE UNPAID

New York Assembly Precipitates Adjournment of the Legislature.

Row Over Appropriations Will Force an Extra Session.

Albany, N. Y., March 28.—The state legislature adjourned sine die early today, leaving unfinished business that will necessitate its return in extraordinary session.

The lower house quit business abruptly at 3:27 o'clock this morning, with the usual custom of sending committees to the senate and the governor notifying them of its intention to adjourn. At that time legislation embodying the annual appropriation bill necessary to the maintenance of all departments of the state was on the way from the senate to the lower house.

Previously the assembly had received from the senate the annual supply bill, coupled with another appropriation measure known as the "construction" bill, and had rejected both of them for the reason that they contained changes from the bills which the assembly had originated in accordance with the provision of the Constitution.

Senators Resentful.

Senators, regardless of party affiliation, expressed resentment when they learned unofficially that their co-ordinate branch had terminated its existence without notice, but they proceeded placidly on their way, ending their session at 5:35 o'clock.

Democratic Leader Murtaugh charged on the floor that the assembly's act had made an extra session inevitable, and put a wholly unnecessary expense burden on the people.

"I believe we could have got together on the appropriations," said Senator Frawley, majority leader. 'It was a grossly discourteous act to the senate and to the governor."

The appropriation over which the two houses disagreed, involved about $31,200,000. As amended by the senate, the total was $17,000 less than approved by the lower house. The supply bill and construction bill were slightly increased by the senate.

Charged Juggling.

The assembly's objections to the

"LATEST THING" IN CITY GOVERNMENT

Olean, N. Y., Is Granted Charter By State Legislature

Albany, N. Y., March 28.—Among the last bills passed by the state legislature before adjournment was one granting a commission charter to Olean.

In this bill the Democratic senate came face to face with the recall feature, and refused to pass the measure until the recall section, which would have applied to five commissioners, was removed. The bill then passed immediately, after having been held up for a week. The assembly, which is Republican, made no objection to the recall.

The Olean plan is declared to be the latest word in scientific city government. The five commissioners will be selected on a non-partisan ticket and a voter may express his first, second and third choice. They may retain a city manager, who will draw a salary, but the commissioners will serve without pay.

HOUSE HEARS ORATORY OVER PANAMA BILL

Adamson and Underwood Head Forces for and Against It.

Speaker Clark Announces He Will Attack It Tuesday.

Administration Forces Predict Passage By Safe Majority.

MILLER IS LIKELY TO OPPOSE REPEAL

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, March 28.—There is a possibility, almost a probability, that Representative Clarence B. Miller of Duluth wil vote against the tolls repeal bill. In his talks with his colleagues in the house, Mr. Miller has indicated that he is for repeal on economic grounds, but that he cannot quite get to the point where he will "yield to the dictation of England."

James Manahan, representative at large, is already on record as opposed to the bill, and there is a possibility that Representatives Smith of Minneapolis and Volstead will vote with him.

Representative Hammond, the Democratic member from Minnesota, announced some time ago that he was convinced that a mistake had been made in granting free tolls to the coastwise vessels, and that he would vote for a repeal bill.

The Republicans from Minnesota who will vote for the bill are Anderson, Davis, Stevens, Steenerson and Lindbergh.

Washington, March 28.—The legislative battle over the repeal of the free tolls provision of the Panama canal act was renewed in the house today, where administration supporters flushed by their victory in the opening contest yesterday, were jubilantly predicting that they would win when a vote is had on the repeal bill itself in that body early next week.

The contest in the house today was largely of an oratorical character, although administration and anti-administration supporters continued their efforts to strengthen their forces for the final struggle, which is expected to occur next Tuesday or Wednesday. When consideration of the repeal bill was resumed today, many members for and against the proposition were prepared to discuss it.

Alignment the Same.

The alignment of the contending forces in the house remained practically unchanged today. Representative Adamson, leading the fight for the repeal, declared the Sims bill would pass by a large majority. He predicted that yesterday's vote on the adoption of the special rule for the consideration of

RIVERS RISING IN NEW YORK

Many Towns Are Already Suffering From Serious Floods.

Genesee Valley May See Great Damage—Ohio People Anxious.

New York, March 28.—Spring floods have set in through the valleys of the state, and already much property damage is reported. The warm weather of the last few days has melted much of the heavy snow which fell earlier in the month, and this, with a steady fall of rain through the night, has swollen all the streams, many of which are out of their banks, flooding the towns.

At Troy the Hudson river has assumed flood proportions, and with the water rising rapidly merchants along the river front are removing goods to safety.

Bridge Carried Away.

Amsterdam reports part of the bridge which spans the Mohawk river there carried away by high water and ice, cutting off the southern section of the city from the main part of the town.

The Shenango and Susquehanna rivers are overflowing into the lowlands about Binghamton.

At Syracuse, Onondaga creek is leaving its banks and flooding miles of territory. Ithaca and Schenectady also report flood conditions beyond usual spring freshet marks.

At Schenectady the Mohawk is over the Sciota dyke and the lower streets of the city are flooded. Ice is jammed against the bridge connecting Schenectady and Sciota, and it may go out before night. There is also a heavy ice pack against the Erie canal aqueduct, four miles east of this city. The Rexford bridge has already been carried away. The river is rising rapidly.

Hudson is Rising.

Albany, N. Y., March 28.—The Hudson river is rising rapidly here and dwellers along the river front are moving to places of safety.

Serious at Binghamton.

Binghamton, N. Y., March 28.—A steady downpour of rain all night increased the gravity of the flood situation here. Early this morning the Chenango river broke over its banks, flooding the residential section of the city. The Susquehanna was at a point at daylight that imperiled the lower city. A heavy rain continued today.

Trouble in West Counties.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 28.—Towns in Western New York are threatened with a repetition of the disastrous floods of a year ago, when homes were TEACHER MURDERED NEAR POLAND, N. Y.

Body of Lydia Beecher Is Found at Border of Town.

Little Falls, N. Y., March 28.—The body of Miss Lydia Beecher, a high school teacher of Poland, N. Y., was found in a clump of bushes on the outskirts of that town today. She had been murdered with a knife, apparently after having been attacked.

The young woman left her boarding house last night to mail a letter at the village postoffice. When she did not return search for her was begun, but it was not until today that Henry Fitch, a farmer, driving along the road, sighted the body.

Miss Beecher was 21 years old.

PUZZLE: FIND THE RECORD.

I shall seek an indorsement upon the record of my administration, during which Minnesota has won recognition by all other states as leading in all lines of true progress and achievement.—Governor Eberhart.

HUERTA TROOPS ARE REPORTED IN FINAL STAND AT TORREON

Constitutionalists Expect Early Fall of City Before Villa.

Herrera Has Cut Through Defenses on the East.

Fearful Scenes During Four-Day Battle Are Portrayed.

Juarez, March 28.—1 p. m.—Heavy fighting continued in Torreon today, according to a telegram just received from Gen. Villa, who expected to have the city by tonight. He gave no details.

Juarez, Mex., March 28.—It was with the expectation that Torreon would crumble under the rebel attack today that officials here this morning resumed their tasks.

The last reports yesterday were that Gen. Monclovio Herrera had cut his way from the eastern side of the city through the business section to the bull ring on the north side; that Gen. Villa had set out with more troops from Gomez Palacio to join him and take supreme command, and that the Federals were making a final stand in the defenses on the west side.

An unconfirmed rumor at midnight had it that the rebels had taken the hill known as Cerro de la Cruz, an important defense, but verification still was lacking early today.

In Heart of City.

Latest advices from both Villa and newspaper correspondents indicated that the rebels had carried their assault into the very heart of Torreon and that the Federals were hard pressed. At that time it was Gen. Herrera's force of 4,000 men who were reported to have entered the town from the east and the counter march of Gen. Villa to Torreon from the north was expected to throw the Federals under Gen. Refugio Velasco into utter rout.

Former Prefect Executed.

Douglas, Ariz., March 28.—In retaliation for the killing of rebel captives at Guaymas, E. Monto Cruz, former Federal prefect of the west coast gulf port, was executed yesterday at Hermosillo, according to Constitutionalist dispatches received here. Cruz was turned over to the Constitutionalists by Greegorio Ozuna, former prefect of Lower California, who recently went over to the rebels.

Cruz, at one time a follower of Madero, joined the Huerta contingents and was so drastic in all measures of repression that it was said Sonora mothers were accustomed to quiet fractious children by the mere mention of his name.

Four Days of Fighting.

HOT BATTLE OVER LIQUOR

Illinois Towns Are Seeing Some Strenuous Campaigning.

"Wets" Claim Women Will Vote With Them in Aurora.

Chicago, March 28.—Reports from the many Illinois townships in which the local option question will be voted on at the spring elections indicated today that the most strenuous contests are being waged in the cities.

Nearly 300 townships will vote wet or dry April 7, and a review from different counties disclosed that the anti-saloon forces were having little organized opposition in rural and village communities, but that spirited contests were being waged on the dry program in the large communities.

Repeated assertion of anti-saloon leaders that the votes of women would be strongly against the liquor business were disputed in at least one city. Champions of the license forces in Aurora declared today that they expect to defeat the dry petition through the aid of women voters.

Wets Claim Aurora.

Their forecast was victory for the wets by from 1,600 to 2,000 with at least 2,000 women votes on their side. The anti-saloon prediction for Aurora was even more enthusiastic and was also based on the expectation that women would win the day.

Vigorous campaigns are being conducted in Quincy, Decatur, Elgin, Aurora, Rock Island, Rockford, Canton, Bloomington and Galesburg, as well as a host of smaller cities and villages.

Anti-saloon champions, reviewing the campaign today, expressed greater confidence of victory than did their opponents, who virtually conceded defeat in most of the country districts, and expressed little expectation of winning in at least three cities—Galesburg, Bloomington and Rockford.

SHOWS HOW ROADS LOSE BY FREE ITEMS

Brandeis Presents Figures for Commerce Commission.

Washington, March 28.—Louis D. Brandeis, counsel for the interstate commerce commission, in opposition to the proposed 5 per cent increase in railroad freight rates today submitted a statement showing that free services rendered shippers by railroads in classification territory result in serious depletion of the revenues of the roads.

The special free services under consideration by the commission were free storage, free warehousing, free loading and unloading of cars, free lighterage, free elevation of grain, and various other free terminal services.

Mr. Brandeis asserted that the cost to the railroads of these free services was so great as to absorb from 25 to 50 per cent of the freight rates receipts, and in certain instances more than the entire receipts were absorbed, resulting in a substantial cash loss to the roads.

SOCIAL WORKER IS TWO MEN'S VICTIM

One Arrest Made in Case of Edith Schubert of Illinois.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 28.—Police today arrested Joseph Cronin, aged 24, charging him with contributing to the delinquency of Edith Schubert, 17 years old, a Brookfield, Ill., social worker, who was found here yesterday after she had disappeared from Chicago, March 16.

Police charge that Cronin took the girl to his rooms on the night of March 26. Officers are still hunting another man who is wanted for luring the girl to Cleveland from Chicago. The Schubert girl is being held under guard at the Y. W. C. A.

GUNS FOR HUERTA BOUGHT IN EUROPE

Ten Million Rounds of Ammunition Also Secured.

Liverpool, March 28.—John Wesley de Kay of New York, former president of the Mexican National Banking company, sailed for New York today after successfully negotiating in Europe, on behalf of Provisional President Huerta, for 240 Creusot guns and 10,000,000 rounds of ammunition.

"Both guns and powder are to be dispatched to Mexico within a week, from France," said Mr. De Kay.

Among the other passengers on the Mauretania today were Irwin B. Laughlin, secretary of the United States embassy in London, and J. R. Ferguson, who goes to the United States as representative of a big Anglo-German syndicate seeking coal fields in the United States for the supply of ships passing through the Panama canal.

BLACKMAIL LAID TO GERMAN OFFICIALS

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, March 28.—Commissioner Schmidt, head of the police department for the suppression of vice, was suspended today on charges of blackmailing.

Investigations of charges that the "morals police" had been secretly receiving money for the protection of disorderly resorts have been in progress in several cities for months. Schmidt was implicated in the scandal by the testimony of a woman who revealed an extensive system of blackmail by the police.

Tokio, March 28.—The super-dreadnought Fuso was launched at Kure today. The vessel is of 31,000 tons displacement and 45,000-horse power. She will carry twelve 14-inch and sixteen 6-inch guns and will have four submerged torpedo tubes. Her estimated speed is 22 knots an hour.

MUTUAL LAUNDRY FOR RIVER FALLS.

Madison, Wis., March 28.—A community laundry has been started at River Falls by the incorporation here today of the River Falls Co-operative laundry company. If it should be operated successfully for one year, as judged by a committee, it will be entitled to the $500 prize offered by Dean W. A. Henry, formerly of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, who hoped in this way to encourage a movement for lightening home burdens for farmers' wives.

"CENTRALS" STRIKE TWICE AND CARRY THEIR POINT

Objected to Plan to Eliminate Overtime Work on Sundays.

Say They Could Not Make Living Wage Without It.

Proposed changes in the working hours for telephone operators of the Zenith Telephone company brought on two strikes of the operators today—the first occurring at 10 o'clock and lasting five minutes, and the second coming at 11:45 and lasting twenty minutes. Practically every operator working on those shifts participated in the strike, and the whole system was held up. The management is said to have made a complete surrender to the girls' demands after the second strike.

A petition stating the operators' grievances was presented to Manager McCullough by the strikers at 10 o'clock and he was given forty-five minutes to give his answer. According to Frank Randall, who acted as attorney for the company, the following notice was then posted by the manager:

"Until further notice, no changes will be made in operators' conditions. Conditions will remain as in the past.

"GENERAL MANAGER."

The announcement that "no changes would be made until further notice" brought little encouragement to the operators. According to statements made by them today they believe the company was arranging to bring operators from the Twin Cities to take their places.

Following the posting of the notice the girls returned to work, but later decided to go on another strike. Twenty minutes passed this time during which the whole system was tied up. The management then promised that no further attempt would be made to enforce the proposed conditions.

Operators stated to The Herald today that Manager McCullough used harsh language to the girls who presented their petition and that he ordered them back to the switchboards.

Cause of Trouble.

The trouble began early in the week when Manager McCullough announced that a change would be made April 1 regarding Sunday work and pay for overtime. The operators say this announcement was to the effect that the girls would be refused Sunday work in the future as overtime. After that date, they say, they were to be given but six days' work a week. At present many of them work seven days in the week and get $1.50 for work Sunday. This they say is necessary to make a living wage.

According to operators the wages are now from $22 a month for beginners to $32 a month for experienced operators. This they say is hardly enough to pay their board, room and other necessary expenses. An operator said today that she thought more than half of the girls pay all their expenses, and do not live at home. Sunday work they say is necessary if they are to make a living wage.

Manager McCullough, on the other hand, contends that the company is trying to improve conditions by giving the girls a day off during the week. He says also that no reductions in wages have been contemplated and that the operators would make as much under the new system as the old, as they generally take off a few days during each month.

Twenty-four operators consulted Attorney Hugh J. McClearn, who gave them counsel without pay. After their statement of their side of the question to him he drew up a petition stating their grievances and it was signed by the twenty-four operators.

The Girls' Petition.

This petition, which was presented to Manager McCullough, follows:

"We, the undersigned employes of the Zenith Telephone company, many of whom have been with the company for a considerable length of time, being aggrieved at the contemplated change in the hours which we will be required to work if such change becomes effective, and also in the matter of reduction of our wages, in that by said change we are no longer to be paid for extra time and Sunday work, protest against the same and submit the following as ground of our grievance and protest:

"That many of us have worked for the Zenith Telephone company for a number of years and have by such continuous employment become proficient in that particular line of work; that a number of us have to travel a considerable distance coming to and going from our work to reach our homes; that many of us are required to support not only ourselves, but others who are dependent on us; that the cost of living at Duluth is higher than it is in many other cities of the country, and that the wage now being earned by us is not equivalent to the wage paid women in other lines of employment. That by reasons of our continuous employment in this particular line, we have not qualified ourselves to do other lines of work. That the general rule is that employes who have continued for a number of years in a particular line of work increase in usefulness and the same is recognized generally by an increase in wages, or at least in the shortening of the hours which they are required to work to earn the same wages. That we, each and all of us, feel that the present scale of wages, as well as the schedule of hours which we are required to work is nothing more than fair, and that any change of either the amount of wages paid, or the hours required to be on duty would be unfair to us.

"We do not accuse the management of said company of being unfair, or of desiring to work a hardship on any of us, but we feel that the contemplated change is of such a nature that we cannot submit to the same without a protest and calling the management's attention to the facts herein recited, with a view to causing said management to reconsider the contemplated change and allow us to work the hours now required of us at the wage now received.

"We respectfully request, therefore, that the change which we have been informed was contemplated being made the first of April, 1914, be not made, and that we be allowed to work as at present."

BOYS' EXPOSITION MAY 8 AND 9

Committees Are Already Named and Work Is Outlined; Exhibits From Every Department of Work Will Be Displayed and Banners Will Be Given to Winners in Contests.

The Fourth Annual Duluth Boys' exposition will be held Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9.

The committee in charge will endeavor to secure a place down town so that every person will have an opportunity to see the class of work that the boys of Duluth can do.

The exposition originated with the Boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. It will again be conducted by them, assisted by the following committee: Ed Gieger, H. S. Vincent, F. B. Carey, Miss Gertrude Carey, Miss Jessie Case, H. Stenberg of the Duluth Central high school, S. A. Foster, Casslus Avery of the Industrial high school, Dr. R. W. Bowden, Edward Armstrong of The Duluth Herald, Miss Katherine King, Bryant school; Miss Margaret Culkin, social center; Miss Zelma Kaiser, Duluth library; Miss Edna Meeker, Associated Charities. Messrs. G. B. Gifford, A. J. Frey, J. R. Batchelor, N. D. McLeod.

The exposition will be open to every boy in Duluth under 20 years. They will divide into three groups, A, under 13 years; B, under 16 years, and C, under 20 years. Hundreds of boys will enter work and vie with each other in all kinds of competition. No prizes will be given, only ribbons representing first, second and third award. But these ribbons will mean that the owner excelled in his special line of work.

The plan of the committee is to give Duluth boys a chance to come in friendly competition with each other in anything in the world that a boy can do, or make, or collect. There will be six departments, which will take in everything in which a boy might be interested. The department of industry will include all kinds of manual training work, aeroplanes, boats, kites, wood turning, metal work and forging, engines, machines, electrical apparatus, motors, dynamos, wireless telegraphy, telephones, arc lights, mechanical, architectural and marine drawings. In this department will be found brass and copper work, leather work, baskets, burnt wood, pottery, paper work, stenciling, etc.

Collections.

Department 2 will take in collections, stamps, coins, natural history specimens, post cards, knots and anything else a boy saves.

Department 3 will feature art in all its branches, painting, drawing, pen and ink, crayon, charcoal, landscapes, animals, still life maps, sign painting and posters, designs of book covers, wall paper and photography.

The department of pets will be a popular one. It will include dogs, rabbits, pigeons, wild animals, Angora cats and poultry.

Department 5 will include domestic science, cake, bread, taffy, fudge, creams and beans.

Department 6 will consist of contests. Under this department there will be contests in music, including piano, violin and cornet, vocal, whistling, boys' chorus and a boys' orchestra. The contestants will be notified when they are to compete and on one of the evenings all the winners will participate in a concert and entertainment.

Under contests will come costumes, Indian, cowboy, Irishman, Dutchman, Italian, Scotchman, Norwegian, sailor and clown. The best basket ball team and the best baseball team. Under gymnastics will come drills and calisthenics. Squads wil be limited to sixteen boys and they will have ten minutes as a maximum time. The winners in this event will receive a banner for their school made in the school colors.

There will also be a department for writing, shorthand and typewriting.

Newspaper Stories.

In the literature department there will be writing of newspaper stories and the best of these stories will be published. The committee is considering the publishing of an Exposition special. Stories of not more than 1,000 words may be written on the following topics: "Social Centers in Duluth," "What I Know About Poultry," "A Home Garden," "Camp Miller, the Boys' Department Summer Camp," "The Commission Form of Government," "Duluth, a Shipping Center," "Duluth as a Sumer Resort," "Duluth Industries," a letter to a supposed outside firm telling the advantages of Duluth as a place to locate, "Sports for Boys," "Duluth Boys' Exposition," "The Kind of Boys' Club I Like."

Further information can be had from N. D. McLeod, secretary of the boys' department, or any member of the committee. Entry blanks can be secured from any of the committee and principals of the schools. Papers may also be turned into them.

Members of the central committee will have charge of the various departments and will be assisted by a larger committee as their department requires. Following are the committees:

Industry—Ed. Gieger, Casius Avery, B. S. Vincent.
Collections—G. B. Gifford.
Art—Miss Kaiser, Miss Culkin, Miss Case.

WILL ENTER A PROTEST

Commercial Club Will Oppose Raise in Lake Levels.

To make assurance doubly sure, the harbors and waterways committee of the Commercial club has determined to make formal protest against the raising of the Lake Superior level. At a meeting of the committee, held yesterday afternoon, it was decided to prepare a report setting forth Duluth's side of the case, showing that damage would be done, and what impediment to commerce would result, and forward this to Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the public affairs committee, who is on his way to Washington in connection with some rate cases. He will be asked to present the report to the international joint waterways commission at its meeting at Washington on April 7.

It was decided not to protest against a slight rise, but anything of a radical nature, it was determined, would be fought. Among those present at the meeting were D. A. Reed of the city water and light department, J. A. Little, Superior statistician, and J. H. Darling, retired United States engineer.

Duluth Will Send Big Delegation to County Convention.

All arrangements have been completed for the county convention of the Modern Woodmen of America, which will be held at Virginia on Wednesday, April 1.

The delegates from Duluth and vicinity will go to Virginia in a special train, which will leave the Omaha depot at 8:30 a. m. sharp, and arrive at Virginia at 11 a. m.

There will be about sixty-five delegates from Duluth, and a large number of the members who are not delegates, have signified their intention of taking the trip also. Delegates will be present from all parts of St. Louis county, including Virginia, Hibbing, Chisholm, Buhl, Kinney, Mountain Iron, Eveleth, Gilbert, Biwabik, Aurora, Winton, Tower, Ely, Soudan, Proctor, Midway, Kelsey, Floodwood and Duluth.

A keen interest is being shown in the proceedings by the members. A street parade will be held at Virginia. At least two bands, and several teams in uniform will be in the parade, and the "Duluth delegation" will be out in force, as it is expected they will be able to land the next convention for Duluth.

The convention will be called to order at 2 p. m., and it may be necessary to hold an evening session.

This county convention will elect delegates to attend the state convention which meets at Stillwater on Wednesday, May 6. The state camp will elect delegates to attend the head camp, which will convene at Toledo, Ohio, in June, 1914.

File Damage Claims.

Peter Antici of Carson Lake and Marin Travolovic of Hibbing filed claims for damages for personal injuries against their employer, the Oliver Iron Mining company, in district court this morning, claiming that the company had refused to settle with them under the terms of the workingmen's compensation act.

Antici alleged that his left leg was badly crushed and that his knee has permanently stiffened as a result of injuries sustained in a cave-in at the North Uno mine on Feb. 3 last.

Travolovic claims that he sustained serious injuries in an accident Nov. 15 at the Mississippi mine, for which his employers have not compensated him under the terms of the new liability act.

PERJURERS WOULD BRIBE

Judge Cant Warns Jurors in Gran Case to Guard Integrity.

Says It Is Evident That Somebody Has Sworn Falsely.

Jurors sitting on the trial of the divorce case in which Victor H. Gran, local atorny, is accusing his wife, Olga Gran, of adultery with John R. Heino, his former business associate, were admonished by Judge Cant in district court yesterday afternoon to carefully guard against outside influences or any atack which might be made upon their own integrity.

Witnesses on one side of the case have been committing perjury, the court stated to the jury shortly before the afternoon session was adjourned yesterday. On the theory that a witness who would wilfully commit perjury during a trial would not hesitate to resort to an attempt to bribe or otherwise influence a jury, the court asked the jurors to refrain from discussing the case with anyone. The case will be taken up again Monday morning.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said Judge Cant, " you have reached a stage of the case where you know some one is falsely accusing or fasely defending. You are face to face with false swearin either on the part of the accusers or on the part of the defense.

"You will readily understand, if you stop to think, that people who will falsify either on one side or the other, will not hesitate to reach and influence you, or some of you, and you must be constantly on the alert, until this case is finally disposed of, to see that no one of you is selected by anyone interested—selected as probably a weak person who can be influenced and made use of to throw the case either one way or the other.

In Constant Danger.

"The court has no suspicion that there is upon this jury anyone who might yield to a suggestion of that kind, but in a case of this character where we have to deal with such situation as confronts us, bear in mind that you are constantly in danger of an attack upon your own integrity.

"See to it, as the court implicitly believes you will, that no such thing shall be successfully accomplished through you, and that you keep yourselves strong and free from taint, so that when you come finally to consider and dispose of this case, you may do so according to your best and your unbiased judgment."

John R. Heino, co-respondent, was on the stand under cross-examination when court adjourned yesterday afternoon. In reply to questions put by A. E. McManus, attorney for Gran, Heino flatly denied all telephone conversations accredited to him by Gran's witnesses in which he is alleged to have made "dates" for clandestine meetings with Mrs. Gran.

In one of the conversations, which was repudiated by him yesterday, Heino is credited with having laughingly told Mrs. Gran that they were "too foxy" for the rest of them and in another he is alleged to have asked her to join with him in learning how to dance the tango. On cross-examination, Heino also denied the version of Gran and detectives on the matter of the raid which was made upon Heino's offices in the Sellwood building on the afternoon of Jan. 31, at which time, Mrs. Gran and Heino were arrested for adultery.

The criminal charges against Heino and Mrs. Gran will be tried following the divorce case.

situation, a realty man said today that out of ten tenants in an apartment building completed last December, eight are newcomers in the city. Similar experiences were reported by the management of other offices.

With the conditions as favorable as they are, there has been a noticeable stiffening up in rental figures of houses, flats and apartments. It is at the same time shown that housing accommodation is cheaper in Duluth than in the majority of American cities of the same size, and that tenants here are as a rule accorded far more privileges and conveniences for their money.

In a roundup of some of the offices handling rentals today, it was learned that there is at present a shortage of moderate priced houses in the city and it is the opinion that condition will be met in the building of a large number of homes during the season.

What the Agents Say.

J. D. Stryker of Stryker, Manley & Huck said: "We have very few vacancies, and in some cases we could have rented houses that became vacant several times over. This time last year we had several vacant places on our list."

C. F. How of the Fulford-How company said: "Practically everything that we have on our list is occupied. There are no vacancies in the Granville or Chatham flats for which we are the agents. I think the rental situation at Duluth now is in the most healthy position it has ever been in."

W. M. Prindle & Co. reported that they had a waiting list with everything likely to become vacant spoken for some time ahead.

H. L. George of the Little & Nolte company said: "We have been flooded with applications for houses, and are finding ourselves able to fill only a small proportion of them. I have never seen anything like it since I have been in the city."

W. D Underhill of the Cooley & Underhill company said: "There is a dearth of houses in the city at present. I understand that they are especially scarce in the West end and in West Duluth. It looks to me as if many people from outside points are being attracted here to make their homes."

John A. Stephenson said: "Counting our houses, flats and apartments, we have over 400 tenants, and we do not know that any of them is going to move on May 1. Our present vacancies consist of two frame houses undergoing repairs and one flat."

W. W. Fenstermacher of the Duluth Realty corporation said: "It is no trouble at all to rent anything in the way of a house nowadays. We are having people in looking up houses that are even thought likely to become vacant. I rented a place to a man today who will have to pay the rent on the premises he occupies till May 1."

STATE BILLS ARE UNPAID

amended bills, however, were based on an alleged juggling of the items. Chairman McDonald of the assembly ways and means committee said the framers of the senate bill had cut out about $500,000 for hospital and other necessary departments, in order to get money for carrying on two departments which the asembly wished to abolish—the state fire marshal's bureau and the department of efficiency and economy. It also was contended that some of the alterations were intended to cripple the so-called Republican departments, in the way of reprisal.

Confusion arose from cross-purposes between the two branches in its closing day, and many important matters of legislation failed of enactment as a result.

Thaw Figured Prominently.

Harry K. Thaw figured prominently in the later proceedings of the session. A resolution condemning the state authorities for their activity in seeking to extradite him narrowly failed of passage, while bills incurred by the state in this matter shared the fate of the other items in the rejected appropriation bill.

The probable date for reconvening the legislature already has provoked much discussion. It is the prevalent opinion that the session will be called late in the spring or early in the summer.

Four days of fighting, including three desperate assaults by the rebels, preceded Gen. Francisco Villa's entrance into Gomez Palacio yesterday. He established his headquarters on that side of the town looking toward Torreon, and within three miles of that great goal of the campaign.

The final and deciding assault was delivered Thursday. It was preceded by a bombardment, after which the infantry and cavalry dashed into the streets.

Rifles, machetes, pistols and hand grenades were used in a hundred different encounters in the narrow thoroughfares. The grenades, of home manufacture, were lighted with the cigarettes which are an unofficial part of the equipment of every Mexican soldier.

The wounded suffered terribly from thirst, and many died for the lack of water and surgical attention.

The dead of both sides were mingled in the streets, or found huddled under the piles of earth which had once been adobe houses or corrals, now wrecked by rebel shells. Veterans say that no more furious battle ever was fought in Mexico. It was a delirium. Gen. Villa did not stop to estimate his losses, but with characteristic energy began preparations to move on Torreon.

When Correspondents Entered.

The newspaper correspondents were permitted to enter the city with Villa. Everywhere rebel soldiers were engaged in rescuing the injured and taking them to the railroad. There were stretchers, but not nearly enough of them, but a stout pole, with a blanket suspended hammock fashion, sufficed.

Those with flesh wounds disdained to desert, and many a soldier, limping from a wound in the leg or with one arm supported in a blood-stained bandage, was seen among the stretcher-bearers.

Villa's first assault in force took place Tuesday. There was comparatively a small force of Federals in the city, and premature reports of victory were sent out. Soon, however, the Federals received reinforcements, and in the desperate fighting which followed the rebels had rather the worst of it, and Gen. Villa withdrew.

The next day, Wednesday, Gen. Angeles, the artillery commander, shelled the city all day and part of the night. Villa had learned that the Federal commander, Gen. Velasco, was concentrated in force in the town and was himself in the trenches inspiring his men to do their utmost, and the rebel leader, under cover of the bombardment, concentrated every available man for a fresh assault.

This was delivered on Wednesday night, but it was not decisive, although the rebels held the stone roundhouse and a few other natural defenses in the outskirts of the city.

Thursday night the third and final assault was delivered. Gen. Villa, grimy with dust and sweat, a red bandana handkerchief about his neck, participated. He rode up and down the lines, swearing and cheering, cursing and calling on the saints. At times he was calm and again in a fury. Through it all he urged his men forward, and all seemed to realize that the attack was the last one.

Blur of Blood and Fire.

Human flesh could not stand more of the heat, the thirst and hunger, and cruel scenes followed in succession until the whole picture was a confused blur of blood and fire, where men in their dying agonies whined for water or cried out uncanny "vivas," petitions to Our Lady of Guadeloupe, and then a jargon of delirium.

On the way into the city from El Vergel yesterday morning, and particularly in the streets of the town itself, Gen. Villa was constantly called upon to return the salutes of the wounded.

Some of these were limping, not to the rear, but to the front, to catch up with their comrades. Some of them, already placed on hospital trains, escaped and returned to their commands.

Others, regaining consciousness as they were being borne away in litters, promptly cursed their would-be rescuers and tumbled out, joining the scattered procession following in the train of the general.

"Viva Villa! Viva Madero! Viva El Constitution!" they cried in cracked voices from parched throats.

Remarkable Endurance.

The remarkable endurance of these peons and their mad obsession to return to the front, greatly impressed the Americans in the train of Gen. Villa. There were men in that strange procession with deep gashes across their cheeks, men with great masses of flesh torn from their backs or thighs, in uniforms literally soaked in blood; with arms and legs torn and lacerated, and blood-matted hair pasted over their eyes.

There was more than patriotism to inspire the rebel assaults, for behind them lay the most cruel desert in Mexico, and ahead, in the possession of the enemy, food and shelter and the cooling streams of the irrigation ditches.

The wounded in the outskirts of the city were the first to receive assistance, but the small hospital corps, although working heroically was inadequate to the situation.

The dead who fell early in the assaults or had been slain by Federal shells were the first to be buried.

Dragged Bodies to Trenches.

At every water car station there were groups of wounded. In plain sight of the dying, the dead were removed and the bodies dragged into shallow trenches. It will be necessary to incinerate many of the bodies of those who fell in the streets, as decomposition sets in rapidly here, and the business of fighting requires every available man. Gen. Villa is anxious that the bodies shall be disposed of quickly, to avoid a possible pestilence.

In the course of the battle there were instances of detachments, all of whose officers had been lost, running wildly about, calling for new officers to lead them, or joining other commands which were not leaderless.

Still other detachments, in the excitement of the fight, failed to hear, or deliberately disregarded, orders to fall back or seek some shelter observed by their calmer officers. They dashed unheedingly into barbed wire entanglements of the enemy's trenches, and were mowed down in heaps by Federal rapid-fire guns.

Battle Between Trains.

Another incident of the engagement was the meeting of two armored trains at long range. One was on a siding and the other on the main track. They exchanged shots like two warships, but with little damage, and the Federal train, which had the switch track, retired around a curve and was lost to sight. Gomez Palacio is a railroad town and is a network of tracks, which made the encounter possible.

Gen. Villa said yesterday that his hat was off to Gen. Velasco for his defense of the town. The conduct of the Federals was a credit to them as soldiers, Gen. Villa said, and Gen. Velasco had proved himself a man of resource as well as of courage. Three of his generals, it was reported, gave their lives in defense of the town—Generals Pena, Reyna and Anaya. It was reported also that Gen. Ocaranza was seriously wounded.

the bill to repeal the Panama tolls exemption—207 to 176—would be materially increased in favor of the repeal forces when the bill was finally voted upon.

Representative Underwood, the majority leader; Representative Fitzgerald, Minority Leader Mann, and other prominent members leading the revolt against the administration forces, brought every effort to bear today against the Sims bill.

Clark Will Speak Tuesday.

Throughout the day they maintained a continuous attack, interrupting and questioning the speakers favoring the repeal. Speaker Clark announced his intention to speak against the bill Tuesday.

A crowd which packed the house galleries was on hand early and remained throughout the day.

Representative Harrison, Democrat, of Mississippi, was one of the early speakers when the debate was resumed.

Although admitting his anxiety to "follow the president and comply with his wishes," Mr. Harrison said he could not reconcile his conscience to the president's view and surrender to Great Britain a principle of national honor and integrity.

"I prefer to vote my convictions, follow the platform of my party, and stand up for the integrity and honor of my government," he said, explaining his stand opposing the repeal bill.

Help Pacific Coast.

"Free tolls will aid the farmers and manufacturers of the Mississippi valley to ship their products down the Mississippi through the canal and to the Pacific coast at cheaper rates than are now charged by the railroads," he said. "It would open up another market on the Pacific coast, where there are natural manufacturing advantages for the cotton of the farmers of Mississippi and other Southern states."

In the lowlands of the Tonawanda, people are going to and from their homes in boats, owing to the overflow from the Tonawanda and Elliott creeks.

At Batavia the municipal sewage disposal plant is eight feet under water.

High water washed out a culvert on the Erie railroad near Attica last night, necessitating the dispatch of trains over the New York Central tracks. At Corning the Chemung river is ten feet above normal and has flooded the highways west of the city.

At Olean the Allegheny river has overflowed its banks, and the southern and eastern parts of the city are under water.

Genesee Valley Flooded.

Rochester, N. Y., March 28.—Flood conditions prevailed in the Genesee river valley today. The lowlands are already impassable, although the crest of the flood will not reach Rochester for forty-eight hours. During the last year this city has constructed retaining walls, and a repetition of last year's damage is believed to be improbable.

Ohio's Tributaries Rising.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 28.—Flood stages were reported from the Upper Allegheny river today because of melting snows and last night's heavy rain. At Warren, Pa., it was rising rapidly and much damage had been done. Trolley and railroad lines were reported in trouble and a number of factories had shut down.

Anxious in Buckeye State.

Columbus, Ohio, March 28.—With the Great Miami and Whitewater rivers raging, the Scioto climbing a foot an hour, and the Muckingum and Licking rivers out of their banks along the lowlands, anxiety was felt during last night of a recurrence of the disastrous floods of March 25-28, 1913.

A cessation of rainfall followed by colder weather early today, has checked the rise of all of the streams mentioned. Damage so far reported, has been confined to the southwestern section of the state, where bridges have been washed out.

Chicago Heights Flooded.

Chicago Heights, Ill., March 28.—Several hundred persons were marooned in their homes here today by a flood varying from two to seven feet in depth that submerged a low lying section of this town, twenty-six miles south of Chicago. Lack of boats hampered the relief work, but rafts were used to carry in food and bring out sick persons. Clogged sewers failed to carry off water that ran down surrounding hills. Steps were taken to guard against infection, as the water was stagnant.

Dangerous Hair Dyes!

When you see the words "Shake Bottle Before Using" on a bottle of hair dye, BEWARE! It means that it contains Sugar of Lead and Sulphur. And Sugar of Lead is deadly poison! Such preparations are not only sticky and greasy, but they rub off. Beware of many so-called "walnut hair dyes." These dangerous coal tar products are not made from walnut stains and are liable to injure the skin and affect the eyesight.

Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer is as clean and pure as water and contains no thick, heavy Lead and Sulphur that must be shaken up. It is absolutely harmless.

BE SAFE! — Use Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer — BE SURE!

Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer does not give the hair a "dyed" appearance because it is so mild. It makes the natural color come back in from four to eight days! Where the hair is just beginning to turn gray the grayness will simply disappear with one or two applications. All good druggists sell it at $1.00 per bottle. It is absolutely harmless.

FREE! Tell me the original color of your hair and I'll send you a trial bottle in an unmarked package so that you can prove what I claim. Kindly enclose five 2-cent stamps to cover cost of postage and packing. Mary T. Goldman, 174 Goldman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.

CAMBRIDGE WINS RACE

Defeats Oxford in Annual Contest By Four and One-Half Lengths.

Favorites Make It a Procession From Start to Finish.

London, March 28.—The Cambridge university crew today won easily from Oxford in the annual eight-oared race from Putney to Mortlake, on the Thames. The course was crowded with spectators.

The distance, four and one-quarter miles, was covered in the fast time of 20 minutes 23 seconds. Cambridge crossed the line four and one-half lengths in the lead.

The Cambridge crew had been the favorite throughout the training season and justified the predictions that it would win by making the race a procession from start to finish.

Cambridge won the toss for position and chose the Surrey side of the river, thus obtaining the advantage of shelter from the light wind that was blowing.

The oars of the Oxford crew were the first to grip the water, but the long stroke of the Light Blues immediately gave them the lead.

When the crews shot under Hammersmith bride, the halfway mark, Cambridge had a lead of two lengths. This was maintained until the boats approached Barnes bridge, where the leaders spurted and took another length lead.

A gallant effort then was made by the Dark Blues and the gap between the boats momentarily was lessened.

G. E. Tower, the Cambridge stroke, made a final call on his men as they approached the finish and Cambridge crossed the line with a lead of four and one-half lengths.

Although the Oxford crew had developed wonderfully since the men arrived at Putney for the final training for today's inter-varsity eight-oared race on the Thames, Cambridge maintained its position as a strong favorite with the waterside critics up to the start of the four and one-quarter mile contest.

The Light Blues had weight on their side and were uniform and well together. Their rivals were regarded as somewhat ragged. The crews follow:

Oxford—R. W. Fletcher, Balliol college (bow); 2, B. Burdekin, New College; 3, H. K. Ward, New College; 4, E. D. Horsfall, Magdalen; 5, J. B. Kindersley, Exeter; 6, A. F. R. Wiggins, New College; 7, G. W. Titherington, Queen's; F. A. H. Pitman, New College (stroke); H. B. Wells, Magdalen (coxswain).

Cambridge—D. I. Day, Lady Margaret (bow); 2, S. E. Swann, Trinity Hall; 3, P. C. Livingston, Jesus; 4, J. A. Ritson, First Trinity; 5, K. G. Garnett, First Trinity; 6, C. C. Clark, Pembroke; 7, E. V. Buxton, Third Trinity; G. E. Tower, Third Trinity (stroke); L. E. Ridley, Jesus (coxswain).

W.-I. LEAGUE TEAMS IN A SQUABBLE

Change of Venue Is Asked in Baseball Injunction Suit.

Green Bay, Wis., March 28.—Papers were today forwarded by John A. Kittell, attorney of Green Bay, acting for President Frank R. Weeks of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, to the circuit court of Marathon county in an effort to have the case, which the Wausau baseball club instituted a short time ago to enjoin the league head from transferring the franchise to the Freeport club, taken on a change of venue to the circuit court of Brown county, of which Green Bay is the headquarters. An answer will be filed to the injunction suit by President Weeks.

Orders were sent out today by President Frank N. Murphy of the Green Bay club to players under contract to report for spring training at the Northwestern university grounds at Evanston. The pitchers and catchers were ordered to report April 14 and the outfielders and infielders ten days later. Manager Bobby Lynch is endeavoring to arrange for exhibition games with the Rockford, Freeport and Racine clubs of the Wisconsin-Illinois circuit and with the Gary team. He will have a squad of twenty-six men to try out.

Austin Walsh, the outfielder who led the Wisconsin-Illinois league in batting last season, has not signed with the Chicago Federal league club, and Manager Lynch has made him another offer to play with Green Bay. Walsh wrote to Lynch to inform him he had an offer from the Federals that was four times as good as the one made earlier this year by the locals. He claims his salary is guaranteed for the year.

SEELY MUST QUIT AS SECRETARY FOR WAR

May Be Ousted Entirely From the British Cabinet.

London, March 28.—No solution had been found up to a late hour today of the situation caused by the resignations of Field Marshal Sir John French and Adjt.-Gen. Sir John Ewart from their positions at the head of the British army. The cabinet, however, still was hopeful that its difficulties would be overcome before it again meets the house of commons on Monday.

Should the chief of the general staff and the adjutant-general persist in their attitude, it is generally thought that Col. John Seely, secretary of state for war, will leave the cabinet.

In case the government should be able to placate the field marshal and the adjutant-general, the transfer of Col. Seely to some other field of activity probably will satisfy the Liberal and labor malcontents.

May Lose 900 Officers.

In the meantime the opposition of the army to employment in the coercion of Ulster is vouched for by no less an authority than Sir Edward Richard Russell, a staunch supporter of the government, who in a signed article in the Liverpool Post today says:

"It is a positive fact that when he visited the war office early this week, Field Marshal Lord Roberts had in his pocket a list of nearly 900 officers of the army who are ready to send in their papers."

The members of the cabinet separated today for the week-end and most of them have gone on visits to various parts of the country.

It was announced on Thursday, in a dispatch from Sofia, that Queen Eleanore would depart from Sofia for the United States the third week in May. It was intended, the dispatch said, to visit the people and institutions of the United States.

JESSE R. GRANT IS DENIED DIVORCE.

Goldfield, Nev., March 28.—Jesse Root Grant of New York, third son of Former President U. S. Grant, was denied a divorce here yesterday on the ground of desertion by Judge Somers. The court held that because Mrs. Grant chose to live at home while her husband went to a hotel, did not constitute a desertion on the part of the wife.

NOTICE STAYS THE FRANK EXECUTION.

Atlanta, Ga., March 28.—Notice that an extraordinary motion for a new trial for Leo M. Frank, former pencil factory superintendent sentenced to die for the murder of Mary Phagan, a factory employe, will be filed April 16, the day before the date set for Frank's execution, has been served on the superior court here. The extraordinary motion automatically will stay the hanging, but should it be denied, an appeal, it is expected, will be taken to the Georgia supreme court, which already has confirmed Superior Judge Roan in denying a new trial on previously submitted evidence.

GIVES MEDAL TO AMERICAN

England Honors Dr. Rice for South American Travels.

Days of Horror Spent By Explorers Are Recalled.

London, March 28.—The Royal Geographical society has awarded the king's gold medal to Dr. Hamilton Rice of Boston, Mass., for his work of exploration in South America.

Dr. Rice started from London in December, 1911, for Barranquilla, at the mouth of the Magdalena river, and twenty-five days later reached Bogota, capital of Colombia. From that city Dr. Rice and his party started for San Martin, 100 miles south of Bogota. For twenty-one months the party explored Southeast Colombia and Northwest Brazil, traversing almost 100,000 square miles of virtually unknown country. The trip ended at Manaos, Brazil, 1,000 miles up the Amazon river.

Days of Physical Horror.

Dr. Rice said afterward that the record of the party was one of physical horrors. Insects made existence horrible, there were periods of starvation and consequent mutiny and constant prevalence of disease.

A race of light-colored Indians was discovered, as was also a colony composed entirely of male Indians. For the most part, however, the region explored was uninhabited.

Progress through the country was extremely difficult, machetes being necessary to cut a track almost the entire way. In being forced to swim small streams, the members of the party were attacked by dangerous swordfish which inflicted ugly, septic wounds. From the result of one of these attacks, Dr. Rice suffered from poisonous ulcers and was compelled to operate upon himself by candle light, cutting his leg to the bone.

LAW MADE 4,000 CHILDREN IDLE.

FOR U. S. OWNERSHIP OF COAL MINES.

DOCK WILL BE EXTENDED

Clarkson Coal Company Will Build Addition of 400 Feet.

Handling Capacity Will Be Increased By 200,000 Tons.

Another addition to Duluth's coal dock capacity is announced.

The heavy expenditures made by the Pittsburg company, the Island Creek Coal company, the Berwind company and the Reiss company in Superior and others have apparently not been sufficient to keep pace with the tremendous growth of Duluth and Superior as a coal distributing center.

Fred W. Young, vice president and general manager of the Clarkson Coal company has returned from New York, where he went in company with Worrell Clarkson of St. Paul, the president of the company. While there plans were completed for the addition of 400 feet to the present dock of the Clarkson company. This will give the company an additional handling capacity of 200,000 tons for the season, making a total capacity of 600,000 tons.

The work will begin as soon as the ice is out of the harbor, some of the material now being on the way to Duluth.

"We still have 1,200 feet to go on our present property after the addition is made," said Mr. Young this morning, "so the company has not reached its limit of capacity in Duluth as yet."

NORTH DAKOTANS SCORE TWO ROADS

Allege Northern Pacific and Great Northern Hurt State.

Fargo, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alleging discrimination against North Dakota the realty dealers of parts of the state are indignant at the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern roads. These roads grant cheap rates to Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, but do nothing of that kind to assist the realty men of this state to secure additional immigrants and land buyers.

Soo Offers Cheap Rates.

The position of these roads is accentuated by the fact that the Soo has announced a cheap rate for North Dakota, effective May 1. It is assumed by the realty dealers that the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern must meet the rate at that date. The realty men along the Northern Pacific and Great Northern say they are entitled to just as much consideration as those along the Soo lines.

The Soo listed 3,000 quarter sections throughout the state and its immigration department is now advertising these lands in Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska and Wisconsin in an effort to secure purchasers and actual settlers.

FINDS HOME IN FLAMES ON RETURN.

When Mrs. B. V. Hollimon returned to her home at 223 East Sixth street about 11:15 o'clock last night, she found the fire department fighting flames in the building.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have started from an overheated stove. The floor and walls of the rear of the house were damaged to the extent of $40, according to Assistant Fire Chief Wilson. The loss is covered by insurance.

John Amutson, a neighbor, discovered the fire at 11:15 o'clock and he immediately turned in an alarm. Mrs. Hollimon was visiting friends during the evening and returned just in time to see the fire at its height. Her husband is a railroad man and is out of the city for several days.

DENIES CHARGE OF DESERTION.

Sam Mickelson, indicted by the January grand jury on a charge of having deserted his wife and two small children, was arraigned before Judge Dancer in district court yesterday afternoon on a bench warrant. He entered a plea of not guilty.

Mickelson was arrested by a deputy sheriff in a lumber camp in the northern part of the county. He is alleged to have abandoned his family on Dec. 31, 1913. The complaint was made by his wife, Sophia Mickelson.

Sues Traction Company.

For injuries received while alighting from a street car at Fifth avenue west and Superior street Jan. 26, Margaret Mercell wants $2,500 from the Duluth Street Railway company. An action for damages was started in district court yesterday.

The plaintiff says that her clothing caught in the gates of the car while she was alighting and that she was not released until the car had gone 100 feet. She claims to have sustained an injury to her right knee and a severe nervous shock.

Roosevelt in New Territory.

Rio Janeiro, Brazil, March 28.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his exploration party still are proceeding down the Duvieda river on their way to Manaos, Brazil, according to a dispatch received here from Col. Rondon, the representative of the Brazilian government with the expedition. The dispatch said the territory being traversed had never been explored, and that it was unlikely the party would again be heard from for a month.

Another section of the expedition, commanded by Leo E. Miller, naturalist of the American Museum of Natural History, will undertake a descent of the Parana river. The section through which this party will pass is wholly peopled and has telegraphic communication.

FARINGER BUYS LOT OF TIMBER

Farmer Near Floodwood Still Needs More for Buildings.

Floodwood, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. B. Robinson was in Duluth this week on land business and had a talk with County Auditor Halden in regard to the St. Vincent highway. Mr. Halden stated that he would do everything in his power to have the road completed this year.

E. C. Faringer, who is erecting buildings on his big farm east of town, has purchased all the timber in the district and is looking for more. Mr. Faringer has purchased the entire lumber yard of the Nygard mill at Poupore and is still in need of more with which to erect stock buildings on his farm. He has enough lumber on the ground now to erect a house, and building operations will be begun soon.

The erecting of the box mill at Gowan is being rushed along at a rapid rate and it is expected that everything will be in readiness for the manufacturing of lumber by April 1. Owing to the vast amount of timber delivered there during the past winter it may be necessary for the plant to put on a double crew during the summer months to manufacture the logs into lumber suitable for shipping purposes. The mill that is being erected is said to be a modern one in every respect, with abundance of power to meet the needs of such work, and it is expected to make some records in the manufacturing of box lumber before the season has advanced very far.

John Stokke, former mayor of the village and at present connected with the tie business of the Great Northern with headquarters north of Deer River, was in the village over Sunday on his way to Duluth, where he has been subpoenaed in the divorce case of Victor Gran, an old-time friend.

Settlers From Massachusetts.

Anton and John Strobel of Massachusetts, arrived Wednesday on their way out to their land which they purchased last fall in section 32-51-30. These boys have come to Floodwood district with the avowed intention of making it their future home, and will begin immediately the work of clearing up their land and putting it in shape for cultivation as quickly as possible.

On Saturday night last the contest closed for the submission of names for the new Floodwood hospital which will be conducted by Miss Hartvig, assisted by Dr. Mutrhead of the City drug store. Walter M. Murphy, assistant engineer in charge of the state ditching, was awarded the first prize by the judges, who were unanimous in their choice of calling the institution "The People's Hospital."

Floodwood will again be placed upon the map from a baseball standpoint. One of the fastest teams ever donning a Floodwood uniform will be seen in action in this village during the coming season. A permanent organization was effected, and it is the intention of the club to give a basket social in the big hall one week hence to raise funds to start the boys off.

N. A. Halstad has many fine logs left in the woods which he is having drayed out to the Prairie Lake road, which will be hauled by wagon later to the Stageberg mill.

Extensive improvements have been made to the sawmill plant of N. O. Stageberg during the winter in anticipation of a big season's cut. He has now a yard full of choice pine logs which will be manufactured into lumber during the summer.

C. A. Chennel, geologist, accompanied by the other members of his exploring party, came into town from the scene of their activities north of town.

John Strupy, C. T. Ireland, C. O. Spears and Frank Honeberger, Indiana men, arrived last week and will be engaged by the Coons Construction company in the operation of the big steam dredges during the summer.

To Have Model Farm.

R. H. Langhoff of Mankato, who has spent a month or so here and on the ranges, returned to his home Thursday. Mr. Langhoff owns some 200 acres of land, a portion of which is located on the shore line of Prairie lake, and it is his intention to begin improvements next fall, in the way of developing his tract of land into a modern farm.

The work of replacing old steel with new on that part of the Great Northern between Brookston and Swan River, and the changing of the signal system from the outside to a position between the double tracks is in progress, and it is expected a large crew of men will be working from Floodwood by the middle of next week.

Halvor Ostbery came from the winter's woods operations Thursday and says that he was caught in the big thaw with a few hundred ties, some posts, etc., left in the woods. He reports considerable stuff left in the woods up the Floodwood river on account of the sudden melting of the snow.

THE FINAL ALTERNATIVE

"If Not Christ to Whom Shall We Go?" Asks Pastor.

Last of Noon Meetings Held at the Lyceum Theater.

The noon-day services, which have been conducted throughout the week by Dr. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First M. E. church, came to a close today, ending one of the most successful series of meetings ever held in the city. Immense audiences have attended each day.

Dr. Hoffman preached this noon on "The Final Alternative," making an appeal for the acceptance of the divine teachings. Rev. George E. Silloway, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, led in prayer, and William H. Hancock, Jr., sang "I Am Praying for You."

Before his sermon, Dr. Hoffman heartily thanked the public for its interest and support of the meetings, the musicians for their help, and the press for its liberal space in reporting the services.

Dr. Hoffman spoke in part as follows:

"History and experience have confirmed this high estimate of Christ. The impression Jesus made on His disciples was two-fold—they discerned in Him perfect manhood and they recognized in Him perfect divinity. Much reasoning has been indulged to destroy the integrity of this New Testament conception, but it has never succeeded. Today Jesus Christ holds a place in the world's thought and the world's hopes greater and more significant than ever before. The serious and intelligent man cannot accept a reduced Christ. He does not now attempt to explain all the mysteries of the Incarnation any more than the anatomist those of the body, or the psychologist those of the mind. Every specialist recognizes the fringe of the inexplicable and remains in respectful ignorance of what lies beyond. Notwithstanding the fact of some aspects of the personality of Jesus which lie beyond the reach of reason, our earnest men find in Christ eternal life.

"It is immaterial to us today whether this insight into the unique excellence of Christ on the part of Peter was intuitive, impulsive, or a reasoned experience. Some of the greatest truths have been flashes, not inductions. The essential thing is that men who try the Lord Christ find it true. There is a religious force, a moral inspiration, a social impulse in the Son of God discoverable in none other. A finer appreciation of human values, a clearer conscienceness of world obligation, a deeper bond for social relations, these are resident in Christ. Yield to His moral power and at once the life experiences are incentive, incomparable in strength, universal in scope and eternal in duration. Crown Him as Master and immediately conscience acknowledges the finality and infallibility of His moral standards for life and character. Receive Him as Savior and the soul has a vision of love, of purity, of goodness obtainable in no other way. Millions testify to these facts, their reality and their blessedness.

The Sun and the Spark.

"If we contrast Him with the prophets we shall find we are comparing the sun with an electric spark. Invaluable as is the truth of the Hebrew prophet, it neither swings wide enough nor goes deep enough for the needs of a world creed and a world action. Defective in the love basis of conduct and inadequate in their conception of world brotherhood the prophets cannot be regarded as the final leaders of thought and as the highest guides in morals. No sensible man would deny the vital truth in the great ethnical teachers such as Buddha and Confucius. There is much of moral beauty in them as there is in the classical moralists of Greece and Rome. These keen-sighted men ascended to great heights and brought to earth much that was inspiring. Admitting all this, with a balanced study of ethnical faiths compels one to write over them inadequate in incentive, defective in ideal, narrow in range of motive and scant in resources for eternity.

"Certainly one cannot turn from Christ with His incomparable religious force, His moral inspiration, and His social impulse to materialism, to atheism, to aestheticism and to this much paraded philosophical religion. Materialism yields no adequate account of self-consciousness; atheism furnishes no description of personality; aestheticism affords no eternal standard of moral correctness; philosophical religion undervalues faith and necessarily loses emotional impulse. Your free thinker is so broad he is thin. Your atheist is so full of negatives he starves us. Your materialist is so stupid he amuses us. Your aesthetic is so superficial and affected he wearies us. Poor Huxley with his blow pipe, his crucible, and his chemical retort announcing that he will follow reason and nothing else and reducing religious faith to mere credulity. No physiological psycholist ever weighed a thought. An ideal will not squeeze itself into our crucible. A mother's love will not stand before our blow pipe. Friendship cannot be precipitated by a chemical reagent. The fact is that many of our noblest experiences such as taste, joy and love cannot be demonstrated by a Q. E. D. process. We have taste ourselves, we believe another has. 'I have felt,' declared Tennyson, and he was wise enough to accept the fact that others feel. Faith is as essential an element of life as is reason. Mystery is as evident in practical experience as it is in religion.

"We need a power mightier than sin. It is in Christ. 'I have made a fool out of myself and tonight I shall end it all.' 'Not so, Harry. Don't make a second fool out of yourself. Don't be a coward and leave your young wife and little girl to face the double disgrace of your shortage in account and your suicide.' The argument was of no avail. Harry shot himself. What he needed was the mighty love of the changeless Son of God. Forgiveness, cleansing, the fellowship of Christ—no man ever dies by his own hand with Christ in his life. We need a hope, a faith, an assurance that projects its carrying power into eternity. Here it is in Christ. Jesus did not discover immortality. He fits us for the highest, holiest eternity conceivable. He converts the close of life not into a tragedy, but a triumph. In Christ the soul moves up to this last mystery of the mortal glorious in its faith, joyous in its hope, and happy in its trust. If not Christ, to whom shall we go?"

DEBATE WON BY CENTRAL TEAM

Take Negative Side and Defeat Superior Normal School Students.

Supporting the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That All Judges Should be Made Subject to Popular Recall, Constitutionally Granted," the debating team of Central high school won a debate from the team of the Superior normal school at the assembly room of the high school, last evening.

Sidney French, Morris Desmond and Francis Whelan were on the Central team, while Willard Thorp, Irving Grover and Jacob Garon composed the normal debaters.

In the matter of presenting lucid arguments and logical facts, as well as in refuting the arguments of the opposing side, the high school debaters excelled their opponents. Also it might be stated that the members of the high school team showed a greater familiarity with the subject and took advantage of their openings better.

Principal C. G. Wade of Superior Central high school, C. E. Wallace of the Duluth normal, and F. G. Karmopp, supervisor of debating at Two Harbors high school, were the judges.

ONCE WORKED FOR WOODROW WILSON

Former Stenographer Is Arrested on Larceny Charge.

New York, March 28.—Miss Mary Hazen, a young woman of Trenton who declares that she was once stenographer to Woodrow Wilson when he was governor of New Jersey, was held in $1,500 bail in general sessions court on a charge of grand larceny.

Miss Hazen was arrested on the complaint of Mrs. Lora Studebaker, wife of a member of a manufacturing firm. Mrs. Studebaker claims that while Miss Hazen was paying her a social call several weeks ago, she left the room for a moment and when she returned Miss Hazen was gone, and so was a diamond ring worth $1,500, which had been on the bureau of the dressing room.

At Trenton, a few days later, according to Mrs. Studebaker's statement, Miss Hazen sorrowfully admitted her offense, and rendered a ticket for the ring, which had been pawned in this city. Mature reflection, the complaint states, caused her to present the matter to the district attorney. Miss Hazen, who pleaded not guilty, was released on furnishing bail.

SPOONER MAN UNDER ARREST

Returned From Thief River Falls, Charged With Stealing $85.

CONFESSES MURDER; STRANGLES HIMSELF

Admission Clears Up Bloody Rowboat Mystery at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., March 28.—Roy Morehead, a paroled murderer who confessed last night that he killed Everett C. West of Council Bluffs, Iowa, in a rowboat in Salmon bay on Saturday night, committed suicide by strangling himself with his shirt in the city jail early tonight.

After confessing to the rowboat murder, Morehead attempted suicide by cutting an artery in his wrist with a belt buckle, but prompt attention by the jail surgeon saved his life and he was removed to a padded cell to prevent further attempts to injure himself.

While the guard was away for fifteen minutes, Morehead ripped off his shirt, and tying it around his neck, strangled himself.

OPPOSE GARBAGE CONTRACT SYSTEM

West Duluth Commercial Club Declares It Would Be Unjust.

Members of the West Duluth Commercial club went on record last night as being opposed to the granting of an exclusive contract for the collection of garbage in the city. A resolution to that effect, to be forwarded to the city commission, was adopted following a discussion on the subject.

The principal objection to granting an exclusive right to one firm for the collection of garbage was made that it would deprive property owners of the right of taking the garbage away themselves or arranging with neighbors who own rigs to take the stuff away. They also set forth that the rates which the company submitting the bid had offered, were too high.

A system of garbage collection was indorsed by the club, providing such a system would not deprive individuals from making contracts with men who are already in the business or deprive owners of taking the stuff away themselves and allowed citizens to dump their refuse on the city dump under supervision of the health department.

"A monopoly in the collection of the refuse and garbage should not be granted to anyone," said David Sang. "That would not only work a hardship on some individuals now in the business, but would also deprive citizens from disposing of the stuff in a sanitary manner similar to what many are now doing."

The game was the second of a series of three which members of the Fitwell baseball team, all of whom are members of the rink, have planned to play with the seasoned players. OFFICERS RETURN; JOURNEY FRUITLESS

Week Lost in Proving Richland, Mo., Suspect Is Wrong Man.

After Chief Troyer and Deputy Sheriff McDonald had gone half way across the country in quest of an alleged fugitive, they found their journey useless when Fred B. Ferguson, teller at the City National bank, stated that C. Y. Coleman, at Richland, Mo., was not C. Howe, the man who operated in Duluth and who passed a forged cashier's check on the local bank last March 4.

Chief Troyer left Duluth last Saturday morning for Richland, Mo., where Coleman had been arrested the day previous while in the act of obtaining some money from the local bank there. He was thought to be the same man who operated in Duluth. The chief returned this morning from what has turned out to be a wild-goose chase.

The head of the local police department arrived in the Missouri city on Monday and learned that Coleman had hired the most prominent attorney in the little town of 800 inhabitants and was then planning to make a legal fight against being brought to Duluth. Chief Troyer then wired County Attorney Greene to prepare extradition papers.

Deputy Sheriff McDonald secured the requisition papers and went to the Missouri capitol. He was then ordered to wait by Chief Troyer, who had begun to doubt Coleman's identity.

Chief Troyer then made arrangements with the American Bankers' association to send Mr. Ferguson of the local bank to Richland to identify Coleman. Mr. Ferguson went to Richland and, after seeing Coleman, declared he was not the right man. Chief Troyer and Mr. Ferguson went to St. Louis, where they met Deputy Sheriff McDonald and the trio left Thursday evening for Duluth, arriving here this morning.

Three pupils, Leo Chaltain, Rufus Schindler and Walter Baer, were seriously burned by the flash and Miss Flo Barrett, the teacher, was slightly injured. Others suffered minor injuries.

TOBACCO GROWERS SPLIT $316,000.

Lexington, Ky., March 28.—The Burley Tobacco society, whose membership list held the names of more than 40,000 farmers in Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio and which was organized five years ago, practically ended its existence yesterday when checks for $316,000 were distributed among the members. This represents the final funds for tobacco pools which have resulted in the farmers receiving more than $20,000,000 for tobacco during the life of the society. The Burley Tobacco company, a co-operative organization, has succeeded the society.

PUPILS' CANTATA IS BIG SUCCESS

Amateurs Play and Sing Well Before Large Audiences.

"A Dream of Fairyland," a children's cantata, presented by sixty children of the Lincoln school at the French hall, scored a decided hit during two performance yesterday afternoon and evening, before audiences that crowded the large hall.

The two leading characters, Marion Baxter, who took the part of May, and Ruby Deathridge, who took the part of Neva, the two little orphans lost in the woods, were especially good. Their singing brought forth rounds of applause. Russell Anderson, playing the part of one of the bad fairies, also received an ovation with his singing.

The little Brownies, dressed in pussy-clown costumes, and the sprites, were a pleasing feature of the entertainment.

The success of the performance yesterday has resulted in a number of requests to have the cantata repeated. Miss Franc Adele Ensign, principal of the school, said this morning that these requests might later be complied with.

GOOD DEMAND FOR FLATS AND HOUSES

Influx of New Residents Is Cause, Say Real Estate Men.

Demand for real estate as well as for the renting of houses and flats is said by leading realty men to be keen in the West End. During the last two months the inquiries for vacant and improved property have been persistant, they say, and numerous requests for flats and houses from people who are contemplating moving to the city, have been received.

E. A. Swanstrom of the firm of Swanstrom Bros., Realty company, said that what the West end now most requires is a number of flats of four, five and six rooms, and houses of from five to seven rooms. Influx of new citizens has, he said, caused this new demand.

"The steady inquiry for homes to rent is not the only indication of a rapid growth of the West end," said Mr. Swanstrom. "We have had numerous inquiries for vacant as well as improved property, and during the last month have disposed of many good residence sites as well as residences.

"The values at the present time are probably at their lowest ebb. We are now contemplating the building of several new homes in this end of the city, and believe that there will be no trouble in disposing of them."

A number of other realty dealers of this part of the city have similar reports. All believe that the West end is about to see its most rapid growth within the next year or two.

WILL CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Swedish Baptists Plan Big Jubilee for Easter Sunday.

The congregation of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will celebrate its thirtieth anniversary on Easter Sunday. The anniversary will be made the occasion of a big celebration and to that end a number of former pastors have been invited to be present to speak.

Dr. Frank Peterson of Minneapolis, state secretary for the Baptist home and foreign missions, through whose efforts thirty years ago the local congregation was organized, will be the principal speaker. Among the other former pastors who are expected to be present, will be Rev. K. A. Lundin,

DR. FRANK PETERSON.

pastor of the Third Swedish Baptist church of West Duluth; Rev. C. Silene of Firth, Idaho, and Rev. Arvid Edstam of Kansas City, Mo.

The program for the celebration is now being arranged by Rev. Swaney Nelson and a committee of the church members. The history of the church will be read by one of the charter members.

The Swedish Baptist congregation had its first home in what is now known as "Bricklayer's hall," Nineteenth avenue west and First street. This building was used for twenty-six years as its house of worship. Its new handsome home was completed four years ago and the former building disposed of.

CHILD PIANIST HEARD IN RECITAL

Jennie Margaret Scheib, the 12-year-old pianist from Fond du Lac, who made her appearance in a piano recital at the Woodmen hall last night, was enthusiastically received by an audience which nearly filled the large auditorium. Little Miss Scheib showed that she is an accomplished musician and pleased the audience with her interpretation of difficult selections. On her program were numbers by Mendelssohn, Schumann, Scott, Raff, Schubert-Liszt, Schubert-Tausig, Dvorak, Rachmaninoff, Wienlawski and others.

The program also included readings by Miss Dorothy Patton and Miss Agnes May Johnson. Both readers received ovations and gave encores.

Miss Scheib made her third appearance in the city last night. Her previous recitals given here were three years ago and again last year.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH WILL HOLD MEETINGS.

The annual pre-Easter evangelistic services held in the Grace Methodist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will begin tomorrow evening. Rev. George E. Silloway, pastor of the church, will speak at all of the meetings.

It is planned to hold the services every evening of the two weeks except Saturdays. Special music will be rendered each night under the direction of the choir.

LEAGUE WILL FETE RETIRING MEMBERS.

The Swedish American National league will entertain this evening at Sloan's hall for retiring members who had charge of the midsummer day festivities last year, as well as for newly appointed members who will have charge of the celebration June 24 this year. The affair will be in the nature of a banquet. There will be several addresses at which an outline of this year's proposed celebration will be given. About seventy-five guests will be present.

Surprised By Friends.

Al Simpson, 1927 West Second street, was pleasantly surprised at his home last evening by a number of his friends. Dancing and games featured the evening's entertainment. The guests were: Misses Esther Hagen, Adeline Hagen, Vera Mitchell, Agnes Olson, Annie Ahle, Hulda Larson, Clara Hagen, Fanny Otto, and Messrs. Ray Messner, Leo Besser, George Sullivan, Al Simpson, Milton Mars, George Ulmond, Ed Martinson, Robert Marsh and Carl Meehee.

Afternoon Luncheon.

Mrs. O. Lindquist, 1912 West Second street, entertained yesterday afternoon at luncheon for a few of her friends. Covers were laid for eight. The guests were: Mrs. J. Beck, Mrs. F. Jensen, Mrs. O. Peterson, Mrs. P. Wallin, Misses H. Johnson, E. Murchy and H. Anderson.

Body Brought Home.

The body of John A. Johnson, 34 years old, 2426 West Second street, who died Thursday at Rochester, arrived in the West end yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, with interment in the Lutheran cemetery. Mr. Johnson was a foreman for the Pittsburg Coal company. He leaves a widow and two children.

TO ADVERTISE MINNESOTA

Literature to Be Distributed at Norway Centennial Exposition.

Moving Pictures to Accompany Lectures Given By Dr. Johnson.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many thousand pieces of advertising literature, published by the state board of immigration, will be distributed in Norway this summer during the Norway 1914 Centennial exposition. Clerks in the immigration office are busy packing large quantities of carefully selected literature, which will be distributed under the direction of Dr. Johnson, who has charge of the exhibit. Maps of Minnesota and highly illustrated literature will be featured; a great many thousand post cards showing Minnesota farm scenes in every section of the state will be given out, while crop reports showing Minnesota's wonderful corn yield, as well as other farm products, will be distributed. Some of the choicest grain, grass, corn, and other farm products will occupy a prominent place in the exhibit, and it is believed that much will be done to attract people in that country who are seeking a home in the New World.

Over a mile of moving picture films, and many stereopticon slides, showing Minnesota resources, will be taken along and used for illustrative lecture purposes in a specially prepared lecture hall. Dr. Johnson will give the lectures.

In addition to this, a registry system will be maintained at the booth, and parties who visit it will not only be registered, but will be invited to write to the Minnesota state board of immigration if they desire further information about the state.

Several thousand copies of a specially prepared book in the Norwegian language, giving the history and showing the resources of Minnesota, will be distributed at this celebration.

HYDRANTS FROZEN; DRY IS BURNED.

Iron Mountain, Mich., March 28.—Fire destroyed the Millie mine dry-house. Owing to the distance from the city and the fact that it is an inconvenient place for the department to reach, the structure was a mass of flames by the time the fire companies got there. To make matters worse no water could be gotten, as it was found that the hydrant was frozen. Even though water was available it would not have mattered much, as the dry-house was about ruined when the firemen arrived.

LET CONTRACT SOON FOR MINOT BUILDING.

Minot, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bids for the construction of the new Federal building in Minot have been submitted to the treasury department at Washington, and the contract will be let within a few days, according to the present outlook. There are four contractors bidding on the job, according to advices received here, and it is understood that three of them are within the construction limit fixed by the appropriation.

PLEADS FOR HIGH RATES

Daniel Willard Talks at Pittsburg Traffic Club Dinner.

John Barrett Urges Preparations to Use Panama Canal.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 28. — Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and chairman of the president's committee of railroads in official classification territory, at the annual dinner of the Traffic club of Pittsburg last night, argued for higher freight rates. John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American union, sounded a note of warning in connection with the Panama canal. Present at the dinner were many important railroad executives from New York, Chicago and other transportation centers.

"It has gradually come about that under existing conditions, rates now in effect in official classification territory do not yield sufficient revenues to properly meet the situation," Mr. Willard said. "It has been shown to the interstate commerce commission that thirty-five railroads in official classification territory have added to their property investments since 1910 for additional facilities and equipment more than $659,000,000, but as a result of operations in 1913, although the gross earnings were $186,775,000 greater than in 1910, while net earnings, after paying operating expenses and taxes were $16,311,000 less than in 1910, showing that not only had these companies failed to earn any return on the newly invested capital, but they had $16,311,000 less net as returns upon previous investments.

"Impossible Basis."

"It is unnecessary to say that no business enterprise can continue upon such a basis.

"It has been stated that the growing need of the country's commerce will require an additional expenditure by the railroads for equipment and facilities of upwards of a billion dollars a year for some years. The only way in which such money can be obtained is through private enterprise, and railroad investment must be made sufficiently attractive to secure new capital, else development will cease, and nothing can more effectually check the growth of commerce than insufficient transportation facilities.

"I think the necessity for increased revenues on the part of the carriers in official classification territory is not seriously questioned by any one at this time."

Discussing the "Panama Canal and Pan-American Commerce," Mr. Barrett said among other things:

"Use the Canal."

"The issue of the canal tolls which is now engaging Washington and the country is unimportant and secondary, as far as actual trade conditions are concerned, when compared to the importance of practical steps to use the canal for the upbuilding of the export and import traffic of the United States. While I cannot in any way, on account of my official position as an international officer, discuss the pros and cons of the tolls question, I can tell you there is not a great exporting or importing center of Europe, Japan, Australia and of Northern and Western South America that is not doing more to get ready for the Panama canal than our corresponding ports and centers of the United States, with the possible exceptions of New Orleans and San Francisco.

"The investigations I have carried on, both officially and personally, convince me that unless the traffic interests of the United States wake up and make extraordinary efforts, the canal will prove a far greater advantage during the earlier years of its use to foreign lands than it will to the United States."

SAYS WOMEN NEED POLITICAL POWER

Mrs. Kate O'Hare Declares They Could Then Protect Homes.

St. Louis, Mo., March 28.—Politics is the only instrument with which a woman can protect her home, according to Mrs. Kate O'Hare, Socialist and suffragist, who was the chief speaker at the largest of six meetings held simultaneously yesterday in the libraries of the city by the Equal Suffrage league.

In writing politics for a Kansas City newspaper and working for the uplift of the factory women of New York, Mrs. O'Hare said she had seen enough of politics to "sicken her for a lifetime" were it not for her realization of its usefulness as the woman's weapon.

"If St. Louis women had the power," she said, "they would stop paying 20 cents per capita for health and $3 per capita for police protection, and would reverse the rates of these tax assessments. Women are held responsible for the food they put on their tables, for the clothes their families wear, and for the conditions of sanitation in the home; yet women have no power to control the production of food, the manufacture of clothing, nor have they anything to say about plumbing and building rules."

Admits Mail Order Swindle.

WITHHOLDS ITS DECISION

Council Postpones Action on Ceding of Water Frontage.

Commissioners Loath to Relinquish Any Possible Dock Property.

The city council did not decide upon any course of action when it met informally yesterday afternoon to consider the request of the Gowan-Lenning-Brown company that the city cede its rights to 120 feet of Minnesota avenue, but the predominating sentiment was that the city should preserve any foothold it may have upon the water front, utilizing it for the greatest possible advantage of the community.

The avenue is platted between property on which the Gowan-Lenning-Brown company plans to erect a building costing $200,000, and the Lake avenue slip. It is strategically located and the conviction has been expressed by city officials that the city could establish its rights should the matter ever be litigated in court. This stand was taken at the time Former Mayor Cullum advanced a program for a system of municipal docks, asserting that the city should use this in firmly establishing itself on the water front. Judge Bert Fesler was then city attorney.

It was suggested at the meeting yesterday that in return for abandoning any rights it may have to the 120 feet in question, the company turned over to the city three lots immediately north of Morse street, with a frontage of 120 feet. It was pointed out that by combining this with the 60 feet of Morse street, the city would obtain undisputed frontage of 180 feet and the ground between Minnesota avenue and Lake avenue, on which it could later erect a warehouse should it so desire. This was considered to be more favorable than accepting a cash consideration. The city's suggestion that the company take a long time lease was not received enthusiastically. Another suggestion was that the company go ahead with its plan, agreeing to pay the city a stipulated sum should the city win out in court, while if the city lost that would be the end of the matter. This did not meet with the approval of all the commissioners.

As the question now stands it is still open and will be seriously considered at other early meetings of the council. The arguments that the city would derive additional revenue through taxation of the building; that the improvement would further the industrial growth of the city, and that it would better the appearance of Lake avenue, are not being overlooked, but the commissioners state that they will not be allowed to overshadow the more important and real issue, the conserving of the already too limited rights of the city upon the harbor.

STREET CAR FIRE CALLS DEPARTMENT

Short Circuit Sets Duluth-Superior Car Ablaze—Slight Damage.

The fire department was called out at 6:40 o'clock this morning to fight a blaze under the floor of a Duluth-Superior car at Third avenue west and Superior street. The men succeeded in extinguishing the flames before any serious damage was done.

It is believed that the fire was started by the short circuiting of the motor in front of the car. It stopped the car immediately and in a few minutes a fire was discovered underneath the flooring at the center of the car. There were but few passengers on at the time.

The damage to the car is very slight, according to Assistant Fire Chief Wilson.

KELLEY "SOLDIER" IS SENT TO JAIL.

Sacramento, Cal., March 28.—Edward Teesdale, one of the leaders in "General" Kelley's army of unemployed, was sentenced yesterday to six months in the county jail for vagrancy, of which he was convicted by a jury. The court denounced Teesdale as a menace to law and order, and remarked that if his authority permitted he would consign Teesdale to Africa, where "he would find more congenial companions among the gorillas"

CITY LEASE IS RENEWED

Water Department Will Not Move for One Year at Least.

Council Unwilling to Consider Building Propositions at This Time.

The city water and light department will occupy its present quarters in the Commercial building, Fourth avenue west and First street, for one more year and may remain for two years from May 1 next, under the terms of the lease agreed upon yesterday afternoon by the city council and N. J. Upham acting for the Commercial Building Realty company.

Under the lease the city must notify the realty company by Nov. 1, 1914, if it is decided that the department will vacate at the end of a year. If such a notice is not given the lease will run to May 1, 1916.

The quarters of the department are to be enlarged by the addition of the corner store room, for which $100 per month will be added to the $300 per month now being paid. This will bring the rent of the department to $4,800 a year, which does not include automobile storage charges made necessary because no room for them is available in the Commercial building. When the additional room is available W. B. Rittenhouse and his office force, engaged in making a valuation of the plant of the Duluth-Edison Electric company, will be transferred there from the Providence building.

Commissioner Merritt, head of the utility division, reiterated his dissatisfaction with the present quarters, asserting that a more suitable place should be secured as soon as possible. He pointed out that the rental is more than what it would have cost if the city erected a new building from among the propositions recently submitted to the council. The council was opposed to a new building at this time.

The twelve license ordinances which were introduced at the Monday afternoon meeting, were advanced to their second reading and will probably be passed next Monday. They will then be effective the first of May. Many miscellaneous licenses expire April 30 and the collections can be enforced under the new ordinances. Ordinances must lay over thirty days from the date of their passage and publication before they become effective.

An ordinance appropriating $1,800 for the purchase of a motor truck for the water and light department was given its first reading. The truck costs $2,700, but $900 is being allowed for the old machine.

An ordinance appropriating $950 for the printing of the annual report was passed and a resolution awarding the contract to the Greer Printing company was approved.

The bonds of City Engineer John Wilson and Building Inspector S. M. Kielley, in the sum of $10,000 and $2,000, respectively, were approved.

AUGUST BELMONT SAYS SON IS POOR

Testifies in Daughter-in-Law's Suit for Separation.

New York, March 28.—August Belmont took the stand yesterday to aid the case of his son, Raymond, who is being sued for separation by Ethel Lorraine Belmont, a woman well known in the Tenderloin. Mr. Belmont testified that his son had spent $13,836 since his marriage in November, 1912.

He said emphatically that there was nothing the matter with his son's intellect. He had been in the habit of paying all of Raymond's bills, he added, but the amounts paid out were charged to Raymond's account.

Edward Mooney, counsel for young Belmont's wife, kept up such a rapid fire of questions that Mr. Belmont asked the court to protect him.

The father admitted that he recently had sent $2,500 to Sir Bache Cunard, whom his son is visiting in England, and explained that he sent the money under an arrangement made when Raymond left New York.

Has Only $14,000.

Previous testimony for young Belmont had tended to show that he had dissipated his fortune, and having no reason to expect help from his father, was in a position to pay only meager alimony. His lawyers contend that out of $143,000 he has only $14,000 left.

The father testified that Raymond still maintained his kennels, paying a keeper $80 a month.

"Eighty dollars a month from an income of $612 a year is significant, your honor," Mooney said.

Mr. Belmont denied that he ever told his son that no matter what happened, he would always be provided with an allowance of $8,000 a year.

It was shown that Raymond Belmont had traded in stocks. A motion to admit the vouchers of these transactions was vigorously opposed by counsel for the defense, and finally it was agreed to adjourn until next Friday to give attorneys an opportunity to come to an understanding regarding the admission of these vouchers as evidence.

ALL BEGGARS AND UNLICENSED PEDDLERS

Should Be Referred to Associated Charities Says Miss Meeker.

Housewives might find it easier to be rid of fake solicitors and house to house beggars if they would but take the time to immediately notify the Associated Charities after receiving a visit from them, in the opinion of Miss Edna G. Meeker, secretary.

"The people of Duluth ought to take concerted action in this matter," said Miss Meeker. "It would be an easy thing to ask a name and refer the man or woman seeking assistance or selling wares without a license to the Associated Charities.

"Both begging and selling without a license are against the law and are unnecessary. If a man begs for something to eat and he really needs it, he needs more than the meal one can give him. He should be directed to the office which the citizens of Duluth have established to help handle the problem of caring for the applicant for alms. He may need work, medical attention, food, clothing. Perhaps he may need only advice as to how he may establish his own independence and become a respected and self-respecting citizen.

"If, after investigation, it is found that a man or woman needs a permit to peddle reasonable wares, there should be no difficulty in securing one."

STORK BEATS GRIM REAPER 2 TO 1

Duluth Has 2,047 Births and Only 1,056 Deaths in Year.

Vital statistics for the year 1913 for the city of Duluth, as reported by Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, show the births outnumbered the deaths 2 to 1.

The report, which has been filed for record with J. P. Johnson, clerk of the district court, shows that, during the last year, the stork made 2,047 visits to Duluth homes while the grim reaper invaded 1,056 times. For 1912, the number of births for Duluth was given as 1,965 and the deaths 1,070.

The vital statistics for St. Louis county for the year 1913 are 5,223 births and 2,254 deaths, as compared with 4,890 births and 1,959 deaths for the previous year.

HIGHWAYMEN ARE SENTENCED

Indeterminate penitentiary sentences were meted out by Judge Dancer in district court yesterday afternoon to George Yurcovich, Peter Kaich and Isaac Neguin, a trio of highwaymen who were convicted two weeks ago of having on the night of Feb. 20 held up and robbed Rudolph Baich of $9.50 and William Downes of $5.

The hold-up men and their victims had been drinking together in a saloon on Commonwealth avenue on the night in question. After leaving the saloon, Dones and Baich were followed and as they were nearing the Missabe bridge, they were set upon and robbed. Mikbe Oblin and Daniel Koruga, jointly indicted for the same offense with them, were acquitted of robbery in the first degree on one of the charges. The other indictment against the pair was dismissed by the county attorney yesterday for lack of evidence.

NEW ZEALAND FRUIT IS SOLD IN FRISCO.

San Francisco, Cal., March 28.—A portion of the first shipment of fresh fruit from New Zealand ever received on the Pacific coast was placed on sale here yesterday. The shipment consisted of 600 cases of peaches and pears. The peaches were condemned by the state horticultural commission because its quarantine inspectors found an unknown moth, but the pears passed muster.

Prohibition Beaten.

Annapolis, Md., March 28.—The bill providing for the submission to the voters of a constitutional amendment for state wide prohibition was killed in the house of delegates by a vote of 57 to 42.

KEEP THE EFFICIENCY COMMISSION'S WORK OUT OF POLITICS.

Those who have admired and applauded the work of the informal commission on efficiency and economy are noting with considerable alarm a tendency on the part of Governor Eberhart's supporters to use it for political purposes.

They are urging as a reason why he should be renominated and reelected the fact that he appointed this commission, which has done such good work.

Now that's dangerous. We can imagine nothing on earth more likely to make fruitless the hard and faithful and self-sacrificing work of the members of this commission than such a project as this, to drag it and its work into politics and make it the mere pawn of a personal political game.

The work of the commission—and it is good work and of great value—is now before the state for its consideration. It ought to be considered for itself and by itself. It ought not to be confused with the nasty turmoil of political wrangling now in progress in this state. It ought to be kept free and aloof from everything of the kind. It is not fair to the commission, not fair to the fruits of its labors, to drag it thus into the arena of politics to become a mere football of personal ambition.

It is true enough that Governor Eberhart appointed this commission and that he put good men on it.

But it is also true that at the very beginning of its labors the commission found itself heavily handicapped by the public suspicion that it was created solely to advance the governor's personal ambitions.

It could get no respectful hearing until it rid itself of this handicap. This essential job it did, though not without difficulty. It is to be hoped that it will not be necessary to tell the story of the difficulties it encountered in doing what it had to do to gain a respectable standing in the state.

Once it got clear of this stain, the commission did such good work that it attracted widespread approval, and this it had to have before there could be any hope that the legislature of 1915 would make this work effective by making it into laws. Because its work is good, it is very tempting campaign material to the Eberhart supporters, and it is plain that they have a mind to use it.

We hope they will forbear. If they persist, they will certainly spoil it all. In claiming for Eberhart the credit of this work and asking people to vote for him because of it, they will surely gain for him and for themselves the discredit of having made it a useless thing by turning it into a battered football of personal politics.

It would be far more becoming in Mr. Eberhart and his supporters if they would let whatever credit is due him for this commission and its work develop naturally, as it will if credit becomes due.

There will be precious little credit for anybody outside the commission members themselves until the plan they have devised gets made into law; and premature attempts to make political capital out of it will work more surely than anything else possibly could to render it impossible to make it into law.

And if it is not made into law, it all becomes vanity and a waste of time.

Some clay records by Nebuchadnezzar have been deciphered. Next they'll be finding some of his hoof marks in the old-time pasture lot.

A FREAK IN THE PRIMARY.

Now that the primary law has been approved by the courts, can anyone tell us why the office of county surveyor was kept in the partisan class?—St. Cloud Journal-Press.

We can answer that, and so can anybody else that has read the law. The answer is that it isn't.

Candidates for county surveyor are to file seven weeks before the general election, and all of them are to go on the ballot without party designation. The one that gets the most votes wins the office.

This freak in the primary law is due to Senator W. W. Dunn of St. Paul, who when the various amendments to the primary law were pending broached the proposal that the primaries, as well as the convention, ought to be done away with. Whether or not he was serious nobody can be sure, but he seemed serious. Most people thought, however, that his purpose was to travesty election reform.

At any rate, when the present law was pending he succeeded in getting a try-out of his plan on the office of county surveyor, which is how it happened that the law in that respect is as it stands.

An interesting minor feature is that while candidates for surveyor may file, they may also be made candidates by petition—which is a provision that ought to apply to all offices so that men who will not seek office can be impressed when the public demands it. Thus it will be possible for the office to seek the man, which it can't otherwise under the primary.

Some South Americans have named the non-boss of the Bull Moose party "Very Sympathetic." But they didn't see him at Chicago when Dear Will wanted the nomination.

A QUESTION OF RIGHT.

Powerful house leaders—Democratic, Republican and Rooseveltian—yesterday tested their strength against that of President Wilson.

They lost.

They lost because they were wrong. They lost because they forgot that they were not fighting Wilson alone, but national honor and the national good faith as well. They lost because they were fighting not only Wilson, but the people.

The people were behind the president because he is right.

It is a lesson to would-be party leaders: be sure you are right before you pit your strength against a president who, as everybody knows, is trying only to do the right, the honest, the just, the wise thing.

The outcome of the test vote indicates very clearly a victory for the repeal of the infamous provision in the Panama law which, in defiance of the nation's honor and of the nation's repugnance to ship subsidies, proposes a ship subsidy which is a flat betrayal of the nation's pledged word.

Nothing in the president's career becomes him better than this stand for national honor. Nothing in the careers of the congressional leaders of the three parties dishonors them more than their stand for national perfidy and dishonor.

Little unexpected coincidences are always cropping up. For instance, the initial letters of the three big leagues this year spell F-A-N.

WHAT AMBASSADOR PAGE SAID.

The senate now knows precisely what Ambassador Page said in London that time when the published reports of his speech produced an excitement in the light minds of some of the senators who, obviously, are very easily excited by trifles.

Mr. Page told the Britishers, in effect, that we did not build the canal for them, but that it added to the pleasure of building it that they would profit by it. "You will profit most by it," said Mr. Page, "because you have the greatest carrying trade."

Now that's all surely true, and polite, and unexceptionable. Who should we be glad to see profit by the canal, besides ourselves, if not our blood-kin among nations?

About the tariff, Mr. Page said we didn't lower that to please the Britishers, but for our own good; but it added to our pleasure in it that it would mean more trade with England.

This, too, is surely true and polite and unexceptionable. We didn't cut the duties to profit England, but it does not make us a bit mad to think that the lower duties will mean more trade with our sister Anglo-Saxon country.

Moreover, Mr. Page said we were glad to hear that the Britishers liked what President Wilson said about the Monroe doctrine. The president didn't say it to please them, but, speaking ambassadorily though informally, it pleases us to know that it did please them.

Who can take exception to that?

But, still more important, Mr. Page said some very pertinent things about that Monroe doctrine. Originally, it was that we wouldn't let Europe gobble any more territory over here. But now, gobbling territory has come to be a crude and back-number way of getting results. More subtle methods have taken its place: such as making investments and getting concessions in such a way as to acquire control over governments along with property interests. Mr. Page said that we don't like that any better than we liked land-gobbling.

And that is precisely what the president said at Mobile. Mr. Page put it that we'd "prefer" that no territory should be acquired on this hemisphere "in these new subtle ways." Some of the senators didn't like that word "prefer."

But, of course, that's diplomatic euphemism, mellowed by banquet warmth. It was just a nice way to put it, in the circumstances. What it means, translated into everyday language, is that we "won't stand for it;" and despite the softness of the phrase used, doubtless England so understood it.

The sum and substance of Mr. Page's offending is that he further cemented the good understanding between the two greatest world powers by dignified though whimsical politeness, and yet managed to convey our very definite determination in language that could neither offend nor be misunderstood.

If Carranza ever becomes president of Mexico and wants to limit immigration, he might bar all who can't spell Constitutionalists without stopping to take breath.

A SEED OF EVOLUTION.

When the interstate commerce commission was first established its powers were very few and feeble.

It took a generation to grow, but now its power over the railroads is all but complete—and shortly it will be complete.

An interstate trade commission is about to be created.

In the beginning its powers over interstate commerce will be very few and feeble.

But economic history is being made faster now than it was in the '80s and '90s.

Those who took Representative L'Engle to the house in an invalid chair so that he could vote against the rule to limit debate on the canal tolls bill may be pardoned if they decide it wasn't worth the trouble.

GETTING OUTDOORS.

How do you measure the coming of spring?

The calendar says March 21 is its beginning; but we listen to the calendar with our tongues in our cheeks.

On a recent warm day a poplar in the back yard pushed forth its fuzzy catkins, but there was a feeling that it would be sorry.

John Burroughs says that the safest measure is the first cheerful croak of a frog; and that's as good as any.

At any rate, spring is at hand—what do you propose to do about it?

You—if you are the average person—got a fair amount of fresh air and outdoor activity last summer, but when winter came you housed yourself up like a woodchuck preparing to hibernate, and the fresh air and outdoor exercise you got through the winter months you got because you couldn't help it. If you were not the average person, but a very sensible person, you got outdoors and walked and snowshoed and skiied and skated and were healthy and happy.

But now that the spring is at hand, there is no longer excuse for hibernating.

A country walk, even now, offers brilliant entertainment and splendid refreshment. A little later there will be a tremendous stirring in Nature's great workshop that will provide interest at every foot of the way.

When you hibernate, your blood gets thick and sluggish, you get "dopy" with self-poisoning, and you are grumpy and useless and disagreeable.

When you walk briskly in the open air, your blood gets clear and lively, your spirits rise and life courses eagerly through your physical, mental and spiritual being.

Soon the roads will be good—though muddy boots are a small price to pay for the invigorating influence on mind and body of a country walk—and then you can travel anywhere dryshod. There will be no excuse, then, for failing to give yourself the luxurious benefits of exercise in the open except laziness—if laziness is an excuse for anything.

A five-mile walk in the country doesn't cost a cent, but it's better than forty dollars' worth of doctors and medicine.

If Villa's winning streak continues, maybe the Federal league will wish it had adopted some other name.

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE WHO IT IS.

The other day a woman in St. Louis, while dancing, twisted one of her little toes.

At first it was thought that the toe was broken, and the news was flashed all over America and Europe—practically all over the world.

A doctor, after examination, found that there was no fracture, and quickly pulled the twisted toe back into plumb again.

And THAT news also was flashed all over the world.

It seems strange, doesn't it, that an accident to the little toe of a woman while dancing should be considered news worth girdling the globe with, like news of the illness of a president, a king or an emperor?

But it seems less strange when it is understood that the woman was Pavlowa, that her toes are her stock in trade, and that, as the Cleveland Plain Dealer puts it, "an injury to one of them is as important as a brain injury would be in the case of Mme. Curie or Dr. Montessori."

Emperor William has gone to visit Venice, and no doubt the Merchant there has been doing a big business in selling people new clothes for the celebration.

GOOD SENSE ABOUT THE COMMISSION PLAN.

Not long ago the Kansas City Journal, which is opposed to the commission plan of city government for Kansas City, quoted a paragraph from William Allen White's Emporia Gazette in which this sentence appeared:

> If the recall applied to systems of government rather than to officeholders, the commission fizzle would be voted out of Emporia in three shakes.

As William Allen White is a progressive citizen and a shrewd observer, this testimony, quoted as coming from him, seemed valuable, and many newspapers helped on its circulation. It is being used in many places by the enemies of the commission plan.

In a letter to the Springfield Republican, which quoted the sentence, Mr. White explains that he did not write it, but that it was written by Walt Mason, who has a column in the Gazette in which he writes whatever he pleases; and being an Old Guard Republican and a good deal of a monopoly and bloated bondholder by reason of his remarkable earnings as a poet, he writes very little stuff with which Mr. White is in accord. Indeed, White says that "Mr. Mason and I are very dear friends, but we have no political ideas in common." He points out that while the newspapers that are quoting him against the commission plan are innocent, the Kansas City Journal is not because it used the original shears, and knows that the opinion quoted as White's was not White's but Mason's.

Mr. White proceeds, then, to say some very sensible things about the commission plan, with which The Herald, after watching the plan in operation in Duluth for a year, agrees thoroughly:

> I do not believe that the commission form of government is an unqualified success. Neither is human nature an unqualified success. But the commission form of government does furnish an avenue for good citizens to get good government if they are willing to work for it. The council form does not furnish us so good a medium, and the experience of Emporia with the commission form of government upon the whole has been more satisfactory, to my mind, than our experience with the council form of government, though, of course, every form of government must reflect in a large measure the kind of citizenship that lives under it. The commission form of government encourages good citizenship by making it easy for good citizenship to express itself.
>
> The defect of the commission form of government is the defect of any other political panacea for human ills. Good citizens often think when they have a law that they have good government, whether it is the prohibition law, the initiative and referendum, the commission form of government, the public utilities commission, or what not. A certain type of good citizen is too likely to believe that, having secured the passage of a law, or adopted a charter, or secured the commission, his full duty toward God and man is ended, whereas in truth it is just begun. The commission form of government is a measure, not an end of good government. Whatever dissatisfaction there is with the commission form of government, and there is much in our community, comes from men who are not willing to use the weapon which they have in their hands, but expect the weapon to act automatically.

Apparently one of the Americans who emigrated to Canada during the last year was the chap who is always discovering Mrs. Gunness. Or is Canada planning on forming a colony of discoverers of the deceased?

EQUAL TAXATION AND EQUITABLE TAXATION.

In an outburst against the income tax the Philadelphia Public Ledger, which lately has come into the hands of Mr. Curtis of Ladies' Home Journal, Saturday Evening Post and Country Gentleman fame, lays down this very striking and suggestive economic thought:

> The simple, direct and EQUAL taxation prescribed by the great economists is set aside for a complicated, confused and unequal and unfair income tax, that no one can master.

In other words, from this viewpoint the tariff tax is an equal tax, and the income tax an unequal tax.

Well, that is true; but it is also true that the tariff tax is an inequitable tax and the income tax an equitable tax.

The tariff tax is "equal" because it is laid upon consumption, and therefore hits all substantially alike—high and low, rich and poor.

The income tax is "unequal," because it taxes some more heavily than others.

But the tariff tax is inequitable because it has utterly no relation to ability to pay, and the income tax is equitable because it is based wholly on ability to pay.

So there is as wide a difference between equality and equity in taxation as there is between justice and injustice.

Its equality, and therefore its lack of fairness, is the gravest offense of the tariff tax. The tariff tax on food, for instance, hits the poor man as hard as it hits the rich man, because one man's power of consuming food is much the same as another's, health and appetite being equal; and on the whole probably the poor man's consumption is greater than the rich man's, because his appetite is better.

It is equal, but not equitable, to make the poor man pay as much in support of the government as the rich man. Not only is the rich man's ability to pay much greater, but he should pay more because the government does him a far greater service.

On the other hand, the income tax is the fairest of all taxes for the very reason that, being unequal, it becomes equitable because it reaches men according to their ability to pay and therefore according to the benefits they derive from government and which they should pay for.

The other adjectives used by the Public Ledger to describe the tariff tax—"simple" and "direct"—are absurdly inapplicable, because the tariff tax is anything but simple, and it is not direct but indirect. And the attempt to parade an "equal" tax as an "equitable" tax is monstrous.

Yet that is the viewpoint of those who would take all from government and give back as little as possible—nothing, if they can so arrange it.

The London county council spent a hundred thousand dollars in the last year providing meals for children. Can the militant suffragists make an equal showing?

WISDOM.

> Economically, morally, hygienically, religiously, it is worse than a delusion. It is a blot, a blur, foul and unclean, on the bosom of the twentieth century. It squanders resources, increases taxation, raises the cost of living, breeds rebellion and discontent, genders anarchy, lowers moral ideals, spreads leprous vice, makes of religion a thing of grotesque hypocrisy, paralyzes missions, brutalizes the world.

We don't know Greene, but we will say for him this: that he is a person of amazing penetration and common sense, that what he says about militarism is true in every count, and that it reflects the sentiments, whether articulate or not, of millions of people all over the civilized world—which will not be truly entitled to the term "civilized" until war and militarism no longer blot its face.

If there is any special hurry to get a report on the battle at Torreon why don't they hunt up the moving picture men?

BACK TO THE PEOPLE.

When the beginner in literature—and who, having power to wield a pen and any facility whatever in stringing words together, has not been a beginner in literature?—starts writing "stories," a queer thing happens.

Instead of writing about things and conditions and people of whom he knows most, he writes about things and conditions and people of whom he knows least.

He sets his stage in a castle in England or France, and he decks his characters out in the trappings of royalty or nobility.

He writes of emotions and human experiences that he has never felt.

And then he wonders why he failed!

All this time he is unmindful of the real life all about him, full of richness and power and human interest. It is though he passed by a cool and limpid spring in his back yard to drink of a tepid and salty fountain in a Nubian desert.

Only failure can teach him the value of close and patient study of real things close by. The greatest in literature have dissected and written about the humanity all about them, and have left it to the young and fanciful to write about people and things they never have seen.

> A woman writer left New York recently to go back to the village where she was born. She was going there, she said, not in search of atmosphere, as some of her literary friends supposed, but just to live. Nor was she going back to her people to "uplift" them, as others of her city friends thought. The people back there in the valley, this woman asserted, were practising the ten commandments faithfully, and it would be a travesty to speak of uplifting them. She rather hoped to be uplifted by them. The attitude which this woman takes towards her people back home is exceedingly wholesome, exceedingly refreshing, and, incidentally, is the best way to get atmosphere. Many others of our popular writers and novelists might well follow this woman's lead. They might well go back to the people, not with the uplift, "holier than thou" attitude with which they now come—not to "study" them, "observe" them, but just to live among them, be one of them. It would do them good.
>
> The major part of the popular fiction of today has lost nearly every connection with real life. The average story or novel deals with unreal people and describes unreal situations. The advice to the writers to go out and live among the people might also be given to the editors and publishers of fiction, especially to our magazine editors. At present these editors seem to be printing their magazines for the taste and approval not of the public but of each other.

The lesson is good, the moral sound. Nobody who keeps his mind working while he observes the turbid torrent of current literature can doubt it.

Politics has lately gone back to the people, and is infinitely better for it. Literature should profit by this experience.

The War on Politocracy

Editorial in the Chicago Evening Post.

The great movement toward democracy in government has received in recent years a most able and a most thorough interpretation through books upon its various phases. Ostrogorski, Herbert Croly, Walter Lippman, Walter Weyl—the names of those who have contributed illuminating books are many.

To this series now should be added the volume entitled "Unpopular Government in the United States," written by Albert M. Kales, professor of law in Northwestern university.

Of this book, which has just appeared, we shall have more to say. But we would emphasize here its fundamental thesis, in order that those who are interested in the trend of government in the country today may judge for themselves of its probable interest and importance to themselves.

Mr. Kales tells of the great and unordered growth of the extra-legal processes of our government. He traces the development of that great system which we call the "party organization" or the "machine," and he effectively dubs the "politocracy." Governments by politics and politicians he shows to be the gravest peril of our democracy. The extent of the evil and the one most effective remedy for it he summarizes thus in his forceful "Conclusion:"

> The conflict between extra-legal government and the popular demand for a true democracy is as irresistible as was the conflict between the South and the North over the institution of slavery.
>
> Extra-legal government, like the South, represents a vast property interest, which ,while at first seeking protection, soon became aggressive in its desire to extend its power and institutions.
>
> As the North sought to live with the institution of slavery in the South, to compromise with it and to check it here and there, so we have been trying to live with extra-legal government, to compromise with it and to check it when we saw it in an especially obnoxious form.
>
> But as the fight against slavery was never settled till slavery was abolished, so the war on politocracy will never cease till some great national crisis has given birth to a new political philosophy and a sound practice under it, which will sweep extra-legal government from the field.
>
> That philosophy is summed up in three prosaic words: The short ballot. They are the emancipation proclamation of our government.
>
> The faithful and complete application of the principles underlying the short ballot in our local and state governments will be as important and perhaps as difficult a step for us to achieve as was the emancipation of the slaves.

In our judgment Mr. Kales has singled out and definitized in positive form a fundamental issue of the day. Whether the cure lies so completely in the short ballot as he believes we leave for further discussion.

But we most certainly agree with him in his general proposition that more evils than most of us know can and should be cured by that direct reduction of extra-legal government, of boss rule, of inefficiency, of ignorance, of irresponsibility that is found in the adoption of the "short ballot."

Sensitiveness

Youth's Companion: Those who are not sensitive by nature never become sensitive through experience. And sensitiveness is such a doubtful blessing that few born without it would take any great pains to acquire the quality. The most common conception of a sensitive person is of one whose feelings are easily hurt. In wounded feelings, unquestionably, sensitiveness gives its earliest manifestations; sensitive children are at times the unhappiest.

But at other times they are the happiest. Although they have griefs and pangs that their more "stodgy" playmates never know, they also enjoy in a higher degree the pleasant emotions of life; they have a keener appreciation of affection and of kindness, their spirits respond more quickly and eagerly to the stimulating influences of friendship and books and nature.

What they have especially to do as they grow older, if they are to make their sensitiveness an advantage to them rather than a handicap, is to learn self-control. When their feelings are hurt they must bear the wound stoically. They must learn not to let their ego obscure the cosmos. They must harden themselves against the rough knocks of life without becoming less accessible to the soft appeals.

Indeed, the paradox of sensitiveness is that the more successful a person is in conquering the vulnerability of his own feelings the more tender he grows of the feelings of others. When his sensitiveness becomes thus objective, it begins to flourish as an aid and enrichment to life. Then what is sweet and sound in nature and in art makes a deeper impression, gives a great pleasure, furnishes a livelier stimulus.

The boy who thinks he is morbidly sensitive must not despair; the chances are that he will become a man of quick human interests and keen and sympathetic understanding.

Every Author's Wife.

"What is the first step towards literary production? It is imperative, if you wish to write with any freshness at all, that you should utterly ruin your digestion."—H. G. Wells.

"What have you dined on, husband mine?"
"Chocolate creams and ginger wine."

"What did you take as an appetizer?"
"Haggis and Sauerkraut a la Kaiser."

"Didn't they give you any sweet?"
"Hard-boiled eggs and whisky neat."

"And your fruit, I trust, was overripe?"
"Doughnuts five with a pound of tripe."

"Have you had nothing at all since then?"
"Lobster and stout." "Then here's your pen,

You must do a chapter or two tonight;
Have a banana and start to write."
—Punch.

Modern Incomes the Best.

Vida Scudder in the Yale Review: One more lesson may be noted from the experience of the family. It is that a group which commands moderate resources yields the best results in character and capacity. In the home sustained by an income of $1,500 a year or less, the woman becomes too often a weary drudge, and the children dragging at their skirts rarely grow up to be a social asset. But the other woman, who commands retinues of servants, summer and winter residences, and an income of say, over $30,000 a year, is hardly better off. Queen over a small kingdom, if she is conscientious she knows no leisure; yet that kingdom exists for no end outside itself, and the social utility of the whole affair may be doubted. By actual observation, it is from the home of moderate means, where the mistress if competent can command some independence as her children grow up, that the best resources of the nation are garnered. Any close student of American life agrees with Matthew Arnold, that vast discrepancies in wealth make for a decline in civilization. The point is worth noting; for it strengthens the Socialist endeavor, to make moderate conditions, subject, of course, to reasonable variations in scale, general if not universal.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

A typical March snowstorm swept down upon the Northwest tonight. At St. Paul the snow is three to four inches deep and it is of varying depth at other points, heavy drifting being reported in some places. At Chicago there is four or five inches of snow on the level and street car travel is badly demoralized.

When the bids for the new Duluth Board of Trade building were opened, it was found that Butler Bros. were the lowest, at $135,700. M. P. Ryan of St. Paul came next, $136,000, and then George M. Deets & Co., $141,449. The bids do not include wiring or heating.

C. J. Burch, who has been in business at Harris, Minn., for some time, is expected to return to West Duluth soon.

Louis Defocas and wife left West Duluth today for their home in Canada, their daughter, Mrs. Louis Filiatrault, being on the road to recovery from a severe illness.

Harry Morgan is making a deal for the purchase of the tug Floyd and will put the boat in commission on Rainy lake.

J. C. Couderman has sold his interest in the box factory to his partner, Mr. Stevens, and has gone to Chicago to reside.

Rainy Lake City reports considerable excitement there owing to a rich find of coal made by George H. Hillyer of West Superior near the Lake of the Woods. The vein has been traced half a mile and is six feet deep. It is declared to be bituminous coal of a superior quality.

The engagement is announced of George E. Lewis, formerly of New York and now of Duluth, and Miss Annie C. Nicholson of St. Paul.

Charles H. Thornton has resigned his position as manager of the Costello Hardware company and has associated himself with C. E. Judd in the job printing business. He will attend to the financial and outside portion of the business.

Boyer Bros. have again assumed the management of the photograph gallery over 209 West Superior street.

Paul Cosgrove has returned to Winona after a two weeks' visit with Duluth friends.

R. A. Murchison, stenographer for the board of public works, has moved his desk into the building inspector's office. He has more room there and will do work for the city attorney.

J. E. Cooley has gone to Spokane, Wash., to inspect some property.

A Needless Supposition.

Baltimore News: Senator Smoot from Utah is the latest to announce that he is for suffrage. No doubt he has had his argument presented to him in chorus.

Unpardonable Stupidity.

Ohio State Journal: Many of our leading journals are so narrow-minded on the no-distinction-between-the-sexes propaganda that they recently announced that one of the suffrage leaders had broken her limb instead of her leg.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Raw Material of Happiness.

Former President Eliot tells the story of a poor woman who, in her last sickness, was visited by her minister. The good man, desiring to bring her thoughts to a religious focus, began by asking what chief blessings she could recall during her long and none too easy life. With beaming face and with the unmistakable accent of enthusiasm the patient replied, "My victuals!"

If not just the answer the dominie expected, it was none the less a good one. To be able to eat with relish three meals a day through a long life is a boon for which one may devoutly thank God. The trouble with most of us is that such a simple and yet such real blessings are apt to be uncounted. We demand some wonderful piece of good fortune, when numberless small pleasures are our continual portion.

Men need to realize that the raw material for happiness lies just at hand all the time if they will but reach out and take it. Gold can be refined out of the dust of the street of South Africa, and joy may be gathered from some very commonplace experiences if one has learned the art of doing so. There are melancholy people who ride in limousines in this world and some very happy people who walk.

Given one of these early spring mornings and a man with fair health and a clear conscience and you have the ingredients of joy. The walk to business, the crisp air, the crunching snow or gravel beneath one's feet, the kindly greetings of friends, the bloom in a florist's window, these things, to a normal mind, spell happiness. One understands what the sage meant when he exclaimed: "Give me health and a day and I will make the pomp of emperors ridiculous!"

Whatever the losses and disappointments of life many delights remain for those who are of a mind to accept them. The feast is spread and may be enjoyed by all whose digestions have not been ruined by highly seasoned and improper diet. It is the man of simple tastes and clean life to whom life is continually interesting. A current anecdote represents an old man in a Paris restaurant. The waiter, reciting his list of dinner dishes, closed with the formula: "Monsier wishes—?" "I wish," faltered the old man, "I wish—that I wish something!" I would sooner be in the bread line than in that old man's chair.

He who has learned, whatever his material estate, to recognize and enjoy the small, every-day pleasures is rich now and storing up a vast heritage of enjoyment for old age. Robert Louis Stevenson, haggard and bedridden, is our teacher in this regard. His brave words are a sort of gospel for the day for minds closed to the appeal of those common joys that are the bounty of God:

If I have faltered, more or less,
In my great task of happiness,
If I have moved among my race
And shown no glorious morning face,
If beams from happy human eyes
Have moved me not; if morning skies,
Books and my food and summer rain
Knocked on my sullen heart in vain,
Lord, Thy most pointed pleasure take
And stab my spirit wide awake.

A. MITCHELL PALMER—No. 1.

By SAVOYARD

Washington, March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Massachusetts was settled by the Puritans, New York by the Dutch, Delaware by the Swedes, Virginia by the Cavaliers, North Carolina by the Scotch-Irish, and South Carolina by the Huguenots. Into the "melting pot" they went, Catholic and Protestant, Teuton and Celt. "On form" where can you find a firmer foundation for a state than that upon which Pennsylvania rests? The bed rock is Quaker, but there, too, are Scotch-Irish and Dutch.

Of one of these I once wrote: "It is a hardy race—the Scotch-Irish. It defended Londonderry. It drove the Stuart from the British isles. It believes in prayer, and it believes in works. It has faith and can fight.

* * *

It was at Cape Breton and at Quebec. It was in the continental congress and in the continental army. It was in the infant navy and is in the adult navy. It sailed with Preble and fought with Decatur. It was with Farragut at Mobile and roved on adventurous seas with Semmes. It fought the victory at King's Mountain and participated in the triumph of the surrender at Yorktown. It helped to make the Constitution and did its fair share in the winning of the West. George Rogers Clark was of its blood and the victor of New Orleans was one of its heroes. It was with Stonewall Jackson at Second Bull Run and with George H. Thomas at Nashville. It triumphed with Grant, it surrendered with Lee. It believes in the family and in the home, in the church and in the school, and when it has girded sword on thigh it has put Bible in the knapsack."

And so these settled the lower countries on the Maryland and Virginia border in the Cumberland valley of Pennsylvania.

* * *

Near them were the "Dutch," a race that has the finest history in the stormy story of liberty. Great Caesar failed to conquer it and for scores of years it defied, and ultimately overcame Spain, whose soldiery was the bravest and whose purse was the largest and whose captains were the most consummate in an age heroic.

But when you commune with your God and know that soon you must pass over the river who of you would not sooner be that Quaker Sir Walter Scott depicts in "Redgauntlet" than any Douglas or Huntley, any Hamilton or Gordon—any crowned monarch or any belted earl even Scotland ever produced.

When Scott wrote the following lines it was to extol the fame of men who sought to make the earth a desert:

"Low as that tide has ebbed with me,
It still reflects to memory's eye,
The hour my brave boy, my only boy
Fell by the side of great Dundee.
Why, when the volleying muskets played
Against the bloody Highland blade,
Why was I not beside him laid!—
Enough—he died the death of fame;
Enough—he died with conquering Graeme!"

* * *

But Quaker ever knew his right, and while he was never gaudy in the trappings, pride and circumstance of war, repeatedly he went to war and his display of sedate courage on the fields of Mars is not surpassed by the veterans of any age or any clime.

The man I set out to write about is a Pennsylvanian and a Quaker and he has that iron, fighting jaw that Andrew Jackson and Stonewall Jackson had. There is just one thing in nature that can lick this fellow, Mitchell Palmer, and that is Death, who overcomes the king in his palace and the shepherd in his cot, the captain in the field, and the sage in the closet.

* * *

Baptist that I am, I'm Presbyterian enough to believe that when the child is born a task is set for him to do and I do believe that all of us are immortal till that work is done. Then we die. There never was "a mute, inglorious Milton." When God makes a Milton he gives him a song to sing, and Milton will tarry with us till he sings it. And there never was a Cromwell "guiltless of his country's blood," for when God makes a Cromwell—a stupendous undertaking, from human standpoint, He will fix it so that blood be purveyed for that tremendous fellow to let spill.

Mitchell Palmer was born about the time when the South had just recovered her legs and got her state governments back. It was the year that Greeley was defeated for president. He was from Northeast Pennsylvania, and of Quaker stock. But it is only a pistol shot from old Burke's, where dwell the Dutch, but a cannon shot from Lancaster, where abide the Scotch-Irish, and it may be that while he is distinctively Quaker in blood, and altogether Quaker in faith, he yet is akin in some branch of his family tree to the other two splendid races that made Pennsylvania.

* * *

Stroudsburg is in Monroe county and when that town was founded a Quaker, Obadiah Palmer, was the miller who ground the grist for the infant settlement. He married a kinswoman of Col. Stroud and for a century the Strouds and the Palmers have been of the leading families of Pennsylvania. From that Quaker miller is descended A. Mitchell Palmer, who within the last four years has sprung into such brilliant prominence on the stage of our national politics. His father, still living, was active in the industrial achievement of that section. The son received an excellent academic education, and was firmly grounded in those virtuous precepts every Quaker purveys for his offspring.

In 1891, at the age of 19, Mitchell Palmer was graduated from Swarthmore with distinguished honors. With money borrowed from men who saw the future before him, he took a course in a business college at Scranton, soon after which he became official stenographer of the Forty-third judicial circuit and he held the office several years. But he had time to devote to the study of the law and in 1893, at the age of 21, he was admitted to the bar. A partner of that eminent jurist, John B. Storm, once a prominent member of congress, Palmer at once attained an extensive practice and rose with wonderful rapidity in the walks of his profession.

* * *

For fifteen years he eschewed politics, except to vote his party principles. With the physical constitution of a giant and the correct habits of a Quaker family this young man worked as Jackson said Benton labored—"like an ox," and soon he was in the front rank of the elite of the bar of Pennsylvania. He even confronted the mighty John G. Johnson, head of the Philadelphia bar, one of the few lawyers who can speak English before the bench of the United States supreme court so that a plain man like you or I can understand what he is driving at. And repeatedly as they clashed, the great lawyer was conscious that the young fellow of 30 was worthy of even his skill and erudition.

* * *

Now we all know that for years and years the Democratic party of Pennsylvania was among the very valuable political assets of old Cameron and Matt Quay. When Palmer entered politics, however, his mission was to emancipate the party from this ignoble slavery and he succeeded. Today the Pennsylvania Democracy is a militant, independent, patriotic and formidable force.

This letter is longer than my syndicate allows. I shall take it up next for the succeeding Saturday paper, and try to tell you what a great man Mitchell Palmer is. He may be president some day.

IMPROVEMENTS AND RENTS

Must a Tenant Pay More If His Home Is Made Sanitary?

By BERNARD J. NEWMAN,
Executive Secretary, Philadelphia Housing Commission.

(Exclusive Service, The Survey Press Bureau).

Home ownership in the United States is decreasing. This is largely due to the growth in the number of tenant farmers. Outside of the farming class home ownership is increasing. But this increase may be only in name since the percentage of homes mortgaged has grown steadily greater since 1890. Owing largely to the spread of Building & Loan associations, the mortgage holder is slowly supplanting the landlord. There were, according to the census, 10,697,895 rented homes concerned with the renting of a house in the United States in 1910. Problems are thus of considerable importance to approximately 50,000,000 tenants, allowing five to a home.

What Does Rent Buy?

To the vast majority of tenants the important question seems to be the amount of rent. Few consider what the rent purchases in contenting themselves with the external appearance of the house, its location, the number of rooms and how they are papered. Even some of these factors have little weight with many tenants, if only the rent is low. This feeling is so strong that the tenant will often bear with all sorts of inconveniences and disrepair, grumbling at times to the agent, but rarely asserting his right to have the house kept in good condition. He will put up with leaky roofs, damp walls, wet cellars, or any one of a dozen other defects without protest. He fears that if he does protest, he will be told to move or else, insisting on having improvements made, his rent will be increased.

Few tenants regard rents from the right point of view. They estimate the amount charged as high or low, according to their incomes and not according to what it purchases in conveniences that are conducive to health and comfort. A man may pay only $10 a month for four rooms and yet his dwelling place may actually cost him more than that of some one else who spends $12 for the same number of rooms. The first may get a dwelling with poor drainage and an inadequate and ample water supply and a bath room as well. The second pays the smaller rent although in dollars it seems larger. In reality the extra amount is a health and comfort insurance as well as an economic saving. It buys the things that help to ward off sickness, to keep body strong and the mind alert. It helps to save doctor's and medicine bills to produce greater working efficiency in both husband and wife. Actual rent, therefore, should be figured not merely through comparing dollar spent with dollar earned, but also through making the dollar spent afford protection against sickness and pain and other and greater losses.

Do Improvements Make Rents Higher?

What is the improvement upon rents? It is true that in many cases when a landlord has been required to make improvements rents do go up, but it is not always true, and it is seldom true unless there are a number of other factors at work helping to produce this result. It is the popular opinion, however, that rents increase with improvements. People recall from personal experience cases which bear out this opinion. These few cases, perhaps impressed upon their minds by a sense of injustice, lead them to conclude that improvements are usually followed by higher rents. That this conclusion is wrong is indicated by a study of the effect of improvements upon rents made by the Philadelphia housing commission.

For two years the Philadelphia housing commission has been active in forcing the repair of defective properties. Some of the repairs were structural in character. Weak walls were strengthened or fire escapes were required. Others were of a sanitary nature, calling perhaps for the cleaning, filling and abandoning of yard vaults and the installation of water closets. Many were less expensive, consisting only of the laying of pipes and the placing of fixtures for additional water, or the repair of defective plumbing and leaky roofs.

The average rent was $12, although the extremes ranged from $6 to $50 per month. The average cost of the forced improvements amounted to about six months' rent. In some of the smaller properties where assessments were levied for street improvements at the same time the total cost to the owner absorbed a full year's return. In other cases where the houses were let for from $30 to $50 per month the cost of the changes averaged $100 per house. As the houses were improved upon the complaint of the commission, it was possible for the inspectors to get accurate data covering the rents paid before and after the changes were made. In all, 1,540 house records were secured. For 1,396 houses the rents did not change. For 126 the increases varied from 50 cents to $1. In each of eighteen cases there was a decrease of $1 a month. The study thus showed that only 8.18 per cent of the houses had higher rents after improvements were made, while 1.17 per cent had lower and 90.5 per cent remained unchanged.

Factors Controlling Rents.

It would be wrong to suppose that forced improvements did not affect rents at all, for the study shows a wide difference in the percentage of increase between properties in old and new areas. Information for 1,238 houses was obtained by block canvass. Of course, 503 were in the new area and 735 were in the old, yet the percentage of increase for the former was 16.3 per cent while for the latter it was only 5.8 per cent. In the older area also, the percentage of decreased rentals following improvements was 1.9 per cent as contrasted with a trifle over one-half of 1 per cent in the newer area.

The investigation indicates that definite factors operate to control rents and serve to check their increase. Principal among these are: First, the tendency of a neighborhood to work toward its maximum rental, which does not easily change after having been reached; and second, the supply of and demand for houses. The older a neighborhood is, the stronger is the likelihood that it has reached its maximum rental condition and that this rental will remain stationary even after improvements unless the number of occupants per house becomes greater. The foregoing figures would seem to indicate this. Moreover, the majority of houses in our cities are held as investments or for speculation. Few are privately owned. This creates a large competing class among tenants but it also creates a large competing class among owners. When the supply of houses exceeds the demand, as it does in Philadelphia by over 20,000 houses, the competition among tenants is reduced while that among owners for tenantsd is increased. Under such a condition the tenant, to the extent that he is willing to move when dissatisfied, controls the situation.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

A Good Detective Yarn.

ANYBODY BUT ANNE. By Carolyn Wells. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1.25 net.

In the study of his beautiful country home, Buttonwood Terrace, in the Berkshire Hills, a domineering and eccentric rich man was found murdered. The study, which had been built in as an addition, was impenetrable from without. No weapon was to be found, yet the man had been stabbed to the heart with some narrow, sharp instrument. A necklace of pearls, worth a fortune, was missing; and so was a deed by which the dead man had been about to give away all his wealth to the community for a library.

The mystery was complete. Suspicion darted here and there. The dead man's wife was young and beautiful, and obviously she had not been in love with her husband. There had been a family quarrel over his intention to give away his fortune, and his wife and his two grown children each had motive enough to be guilty. Circumstantial evidence touched them, and touched also a good-looking housekeeper who had expected the dead man to marry her, and who hated Anne Van Wyck because he had chosen her instead.

The mystery remained in complete darkness until Fleming Stone, a wonderful detective who has figured in Miss Wells's stories before, was called in. Then it was solved. But the reader's doubt is maintained until the last minute, and therefore so is the reader's interest. There is a pleasant romance also.

A Wild West Story.

THE FULL OF THE MOON. By Caroline Lockhart, author of "Me—Smith." Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1.25 net.

This rather cleverly written tale is flimsy and unconvincing enough, but it will interest those who are not too exacting. Nan Galbraith, tired of her smugly comfortable surroundings, breaks away from her family and the man she is expected to marry, to go West seeking adventure. She finds it in plenty, and it is liberally spiced with danger and excitement. In her innocence she plumps straight into the power of an evil woman-taming rancher, and has a narrow escape. Plenty happened afterward, but none of it would have happened if Nan hadn't been a singularly foolish and shortsighted miss.

For Mere Amusement.

THE BEST MAN. By Grace L. H. Lutz, author of "To Michael." Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1.25 net.

Miss Lutz, some of whose prior stories have been amusing and otherwise entertaining, gives to the public another book so full of entertainment and thrills that they are in evidence on almost every page. The story is highly improbable but not impossible, but that makes no difference so far as entertainment is concerned. It is written only to be entertaining and it fulfils its mission. An author who can write a story of the type of "The Best Man" and make you forget the improbableness of the situation and of the general lay of the story and actually enjoy the denouement, in the meantime passing through the exquisite misery of partisan anxiety, must be said at least to be a "good writer."

The story is about a United States secret service man, sent on a queer mission in which the welfare of the national government is involved, getting away with what he was sent after but with vengeful criminals hot on his trail, blundering into a church where a wedding party is waiting, being taken for the bridegroom who has—it is supposed—but a few minutes before landed from Europe after a ten years' absence, being married to a woman whom he never saw before, who reluctantly goes through the ceremony only to save her dead father's good name, and then after a chapter of accidents and the unrelenting pursuit of those whom he had foiled, finds that the marriage is the luckiest thing that has happened in all of his career, for he and his unknown wife have fallen heels over head in love with each other. The book is not only well written but well illustrated.

The Wonderful Thief Again.

THE RETURN OF THE NIGHT WIND. By Varick Vanardy, author of "Alias The Night Wind." New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.25 net.

When Lady Kate, the fair detective on the trail of Bing Harvard, alias The Night Wind, had found that he was a victim of circumstances and that he was innocent of the crimes charged to him, ending all by falling in love with him and marrying him, as the finale of "Alias the Night Wind," it looked as though it were all over with Bing. But here he is again in a return. You remember that one time Sir Conan Doyle—sans the "sir" at that time—killed off Sherlock Holmes in a struggle on the side of a cliff with one of the criminals whom he was sleuthing, both falling from the cliff untold feet to the rocks below, and everybody thought it was all over with Sherlock; but not so. Later the "return" began. Well here is Bing back with us again. He is just as foxy as ever and lands a few more of those who tried to make him call the inside of a penitentiary "home." All of this starts on the return of Bing and Lady Kate from their honeymoon trip. It is fully as exciting as its predecessor.

A "Woman Who Did" Comes Back.

THE SCARLET EMERALD. By John Reed Scott, author of "The Colonel of the Red Huzzars," etc. Philadelphia: The J. B. Lippincott company. $1.25 net.

This is one of the few works on the sex problem that has an excuse for being published. It tells frankly but delicately the story of a woman who has erred in her youth, but who by wise and conscientious conduct, lives above her past and regains a position of respect in society. Candor without vulgarity, necessary detail with proper selection and restraint, and absolute freedom from petty excuses are the most striking features of the author's treatment.

CAROLINE LOCKHART,
Author of "The Full of the Moon."

GRACE L. H. LUTZ,
Author of "The Best Man."

A few points of objection may be raised to what Mr. Scott considers "proper" conduct. When Mrs. Tremaine, a woman of beauty, blue blood and brains, associates upon the friendliest terms with her divorced husband, going to the same parties and dining at the same table in public, many readers will probable question her wisdom. Her rather free discussion of what are ordinarilly tabooed questions again may be questioned. But then things are all done unaffectedly and appear to be in perfect keeping with the woman's moral code. Whatever criticism it may cause, it must be said that her life rings true.

Orme Vendome, in the American diplomatic service, whom she eventually marries, is a broad-minded, big hearted man, capable and deserving of respect. He knows her past, respects her sincerity and seconds her best efforts to live above the past.

The faithful portrayal of character is probably the best thing in the book. The plot is scarcely important, although the situations are well drawn with a fine bit of description and much delightful sentiment.

A Pirate Tale.

THE WASP. By Theodore Goodridge Roberts. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.25 net.

"An honest tale for honest hearts;
Good men and bad to do and dare,
And lovers blithe to play their parts
Lay on to my salt sailor fare."

Yes, it's a story of the sea, or, better yet, a pirate story. But it differs from the stories of Captain Kidd, Treasure Island and others well known to lovers of a good salt sea yarn. The hero is a gentleman pirate—that is, by birth—and the other pirates of story range all the way from jailbirds, turned out of prison to seek their fortunes anywhere out of England to "Hellfire Hicks," one of the bloodiest and most brutal of the pirates that ravaged the seas in the latter part of the seventeenth century.

The proportion of description to dialogue and action is far too great to make it a really thrilling pirate tale, and the characters are kept a little too distant from the reader to make a warm acquaintanceship easy. Most of the characters have too short a hearing, and the reader is not worried enough over the fact that the fate of most of them is not revealed in the closing chapter.

The story opens well. A bunch of jailbirds is released from prison in London, having been purchased by a wealthy planter of the Island of Nevis. On their voyage they overpower the ship's crew and turn the vessel into a pirate ship.

James Burnham, the leading character, son of a wealthy English nobleman, has gone the pace—cards, drink, women—and is given a good sum of money by his father and told to leave England. He puts out to sea, gambles, drinks and is soon robbed and left on the shore to die. He falls in with a ship, the captain of which plans to sell him on the Island of Nevis. But he escapes and has some startling adventures, saves the life of the governor's daughter, and is received as a hero. His past is brought up through a duel and he leaves the island and falls in with the jailbird pirate crew. His ship, the Wasp, becomes the terror of the sea, and he has some hard fights and becomes one of the bloodiest of the bloody and kills Hellfire Hicks, one of the most dangerous of the pirate captains. It is fair light reading.

Home-Making Helps.

MAKING BUILT-IN FURNITURE. By Abbott McClure. New York: McBride, Nast & Co. 50c net.

MAKING A GARDEN OF SMALL FRUITS. By F. F. Rockwell. New York: McBride, Nast & Co. 50c net.

These two volumes, uniform with the excellent "House and Garden Making Books" put out by this firm, will be exceedingly helpful to those seeking light on the points covered.

The book on making built-in furniture is not a handbook telling "how to make your own furniture." It is assumed that you are going to have the work done by carpenters and joiners, and good ones. That taken for granted, the book will be found of much value by those who are planning homes and who wish to avail themselves of the beauty and conveniences of built-in furniture.

Every home that is a home has a back yard, and in that back yard, besides vegetables and flowers, there are small fruits. They do particularly well here, especially currants, gooseberries and raspberries, and no home should be without them. Mr. Rockwell's suggestions for selection of varieties, planting, cultivation, etc., will be found invaluable.

Among the Magazines.

The "New Spirit of the Century" is shown to fine advantage in the April number of the Century Magazine, which opens with Rudyard Kipling's latest story, "The Dog Harvey." There are six other complete stories. This number is called the modern art number because it contains a richly illustrated symposium on "This Traditional Age in Art," which is an attempt to describe and analyze. John W. Alexander, president of the National Academy of Design, asks and answers the question, "Is Ours a Distinctively American?" "The Painting of Today," "The Painting of Tomorrow," "The Point of View of the 'Moderns'", and "The Ancestry of Cubism" are written from different points of view by artists well known in their respective fields. The number has more than eighty illustrations, some of them in full colors. "The Island of Servants" is a colorful article by Julius Muller on travel in the tropics that will create envy in the breast of every one who has struggled with the so-called servant problem.

* * *

In Harper's Magazine for April—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt tells of a tribe in Sumatra where there is still a survival of matriarchy and women play an important part in affairs. There women own the land and houses; family names descend in the female line, and mothers are the sole guardians of their children. Young people make their own choice of matrimonial partners, but when the choice is made negotiations between the parents of the young couple begin and the price which the bride shall pay for the husband is determined, the sum paid for an ordinary man rarely exceeding $80. In writing of his investigations of the wonderful ruins in Yucatan, Ellsworth Huntington says that there is every evidence that there was once a city there with as large a population as the entire country now possesses and that these people were the equals of the ancient Greeks. In an article entitled "My First Visit to the Court of Denmark," Madame de Hegermann-Ludercrone tells of a delightfully informal visit to that court in 1878 and gives a pleasant picture of the home life of the king and queen. The fiction in this number includes: "The Back Door," by Clarence Day Jr.; "Stranlagh of the Gold Coast," by G. B. Lancaster; "Daniel and Little Dan'l," by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman; "Aunt Elizabeth," by Owen Oliver; "The Toad and the Jewel," by Katherine Fullerton Gerould; "The Crosbys' Rest Cure," by Elizabeth Jordan.

The Wide World Magazine for April contains a goodly number of interesting articles full to the brim with adventure that grips one. Leading the list is "The Hunting Down of Vasquez," by Carl S. Richardson. Another story with plenty of thrill is Guy Elliott Mitchell's "The Javelin Throwers." One of the weirdest stories that ever bore out the assertion that "truth is stranger than fiction" is Frederic Lees' tragedy of Milan. "Lost in an Underground Labyrinth." There are many other true tales as well as an abundance of interesting articles that also grip the reader.

The Strand Magazine for April contains many articles of unusual interest, as well as the usual amount of gripping fiction. Humor is the keynote of the April Strand. The first article is one on "The Humors of Winter Sports," entertainingly written by Eustace White and Fleming Williams; while Joseph Heighton writes of "Women as Wits," giving many notable examples that rank with man's best wit. An article that will interest every reader is one entitled "Postage Stamp Romances," by D. B. Armstrong. Other articles include one on "Nullos: The New Call at Royal Auction Bridge," by Florence Irwin; "Living Chess," by Mrs. Herbert Vivian, and "Reminiscenses," by Morley Roberts.

The April American Magazine contains the first installment of a new serial story entitled "Bamby," by Marjorie Benton Cooke. No country but America could produce a girl like Bamby—a creature of buoyant, splendid spirit and ingenious wit. "Bamby" starts out like a real story—a captivating love story full of comedy and adventure. A remarkable contribution to the new issue of the American is Mary Antin's article entitled "They Who Knock at Our Gates." Mary Antin is a brilliant young Russian Jewess who has only been in this country a few years. She gives in this article a wonderful presentation of the idea that our immigrants have the courage and faith of pioneers and that they are in many ways the best part of our population—an infusion of new blood of inestimable value to America. Other articles are "American Gambling and Gamblers," by Hugh S. Fullerton; "Seeing America," by Ray Stannard Baker; "An Adventure in Education," by Albert Jay Nock, and "The Slump in the Theatrical Business," by Walter Prichard Eaton.

"Face Value" is the title of the novel which opens the April month-end number of the Popular Magazine. The author is W. B. M. Ferguson. It is a remarkable story with a unique plot—a man offered a half million dollars to assume the identity of the person who makes the offer. A typical Popular story we should describe it, with mystery and plenty of action and plot. There is a shorter novel by Francis Lynde called "Pigskin Hydraulic," which narrates a young fellow's plucky fight against the oil trust.

The April Metropolitan contains the first of a series of articles about the Mexican situation by John Reed. The Metropolitan sent Reed to Mexico, and he is now with Villa's army in the field. This first article tells about the life of the men in Villa's army. "The Fruits of Good Government in New England" is the second of a series of articles by Lincoln Steffens about corruption in politics in New England. "Averting Revolution," by Robert W. Bruere, is a discussion of the problems of the working man. There are the usual departments and pictorial features, and short stories by Booth Tarkington, Gouverneur Morris, Peter B. Kyne, W. W. Jacobs, Melville Davisson Post and others. In this number begins "The Goddess Girl," an anonymous love story of Bohemia, which will run in three parts. This is one of the best fiction stories that any magazine has ever published.

The novel in the April issue of Smart Set, "The House in Demetrius Road," by J. D. Beresford, a novelist whose work is fast gaining important recognition in both America and England. Humor is provided by Frederic Arnold Kummer and Helen Talbot Kummer, whose story, "The Descent of George," is a screamingly funny account of a veteran of the Balkan wars stranded in America; Freeman Tilden, whose "Oh, Perfect Love" is a delicious satire on eugenic marriage, and Basil Macdonald Hastings, who contributes the first of a series of what may be called glorified Huckleberry Finn stories. This, called "The Tribe," is a real innovation in the Smart Set. It is the sort of boyhood reminiscence that every man delights to indulge in now and then, and will make the sourest of us chuckle.

For those who like a good magazine story, with brisk action, companionable characters, and strong situations, Women's Stories, month-end number for April, offers an opportunity too good to be missed. Ida M. Evans contributes a double-love-affair story in "Nineteen Wasted Minutes," which throws a good many side lights—humorous and otherwise—on human nature. How Meta ever managed to tell old Hiram all about the complicated little drama in her life, while they wrapped up butter and eggs for their customers, is a mystery, but nothing is left out in her bursts of confidence, and she has her own way of telling things—a mighty entertaining way, too. "When Jane Comes Back," by Augie Ousley, is a clever newspaper story which people are sure to like.

The April number of the Yale Review is distinguished by the variety of its contents, which range through the drama, biography, history, travel, problems of the tropics and rural life, personal reminiscence, Socialism, literary criticism, verse, and the Federal reserve act. Robert Herrick follows his widely-quoted article on the background of the American novel with a brilliant criticism of the current American novel. Miss Vida D. Scudder's "Woman and Socialism" discusses the "woman's battle" from a new and most interesting point of view. The distinguished economist, Prof. Sprague of Harvard, gives a clear and readable explanation of the banking plan about to be put into force by the government, and indicates the conditions upon which will depend its failure or success. Mr. Chapman, a member of the rural commission which last year traveled through Europe in search of information which might help to solve the problems of our country life, summarizes the results with much interesting comment. And Ellsworth Huntington contributes an illuminating explanation of the backwardness of tropical races. The first modern Hindu poet to achieve distinction in the West, Lees' tragedy of Milan. ROUNDING UP THE SPORT GOSSIP FOR THE WEEK-END CONSUMPTION

All Northern League Teams Will Have a Number of Young Players; Prospects Bright for a Banner Season; Ferns and Kelly to Meet at Superior.

BY BRUCE.

TALKING with Magnate Cavanaugh of the Grand Forks baseball team upon the subject of the approaching opening of the national pastime in our more immediate midst, we quote from sections of speech: "We will have but two or three at the most of last year's Flickertails on hand when the practice season opens. We think the changes we have made are for the better—that's why we made them. Perfectly natural, is it not? We hope it will work out that way.

"We have lots of air and loads of optimism up this way. Most of us think the league will be faster than last year—and last year it was faster than the year previous.

"There is going to be lots of new material—and lots of young material. If half the youngsters the various teams have on their contract lists turn out half as well as they have been touted, we will have a real race."

Eddie Wheeler, formerly of Brooklyn, St. Paul, Grand Rapids, Terre Haute and various other places located on the baseball map, will come to the Forks during the week and will complete the plans for the spring training of the Flickertails.

Jack Landry is in Superior completing the details of the Red Sox getaway, and good and faithful and likewise Peppery Lefty Davis is gathering up the loose reins of his team, preparatory to the chase for another flag.

Charley Kelly is also completing the various details incidental to the early spring matutinal and p. m. practices of the flock of baseball talent that has been gathered through the medium of money and wisdom chiefly furnished C. P. Conrad, billiard and pool prop.

Some one was quite rash enough to state that Kid Taylor of the Virginia team has fifty-five men and boys under contract. Some way or other the kid should manage to place a good team in the field.

There are those who profess the belief that Virginia will be well up in the race from the opening to the close. Up there over the brow of the long haul they have money, infinite patience, lots of time on thir hands and a large number of candidates—why in the world shouldn't they have a baseball team?

The Cantillons, Fargo and Moorhead, will be closely and even intimately associated the coming season.

Joe and Michael own the team—it will play when at home in Fargo and Moorhead, and there is little doubt but that the Cantillons will place some team in the field; leastwise that is their calculations, Cy.

Coming home under the bit of conservatism, permit us to state that we have a large list of young and untried men—and boys. This large troupe has been gathered after infinite pains and minute inspection. The season of twenty weeks over the Northern wheel is expected to be thoroughly successful.

Stage Manager O'Brien will take the troupers in charge within the next blithesome days and will endeavor to separate the sheep from the goats. Around many of the corner grocery stores the boys will be awaiting the news from the front.

Baseball talk is gathering in the highways and upon the byways. Harry Blume, Dear Dr. McCuen and "Coll" and the rest are thinking of the coming season and its joys and worries. It won't be so very long before the season opens, and another year of baseball will be upon us.

Our Friends, the Welters.

MESSRS. "Spike" Kelley—Irish? No—and "Wild Cat" Ferns, will be with us upon the approaching evening of April 7. These gents make their living by swatting and being swatted. Some boxers make their living by swatting others; and still others of the padded fist vocation make their coffee and money by swatting and also being swatted.

Whether Mr. "Wild Cat" Ferns takes the Biblical admonition regarding the better to give than receive act, seriously, is a matter of which we wot not of; but the fact remains that he has been in the habit of receiving equally with the giving.

Mr. Ferns is a rugged battler of the go as you please style, not catering to the six-day order, however.

The Ferns one prefers to end the battle as soon as possible and intent upon accomplishing this, generally sails in at the clang of the gong and flails away with little regard to what may happen to himself. As a matter of matter it does generally happen to the other one, the Gibbons case being an exception to the rule.

Being athletic young men of excellent physique and hard punching power, Messrs. Kelly and Ferns should put up one of the real bouts of the season.

Regarding Those Wagers.

IT was reported in the dispatches sent out from Grand Forks that large sums of money were wagered on the outcome of the Ketonen-Curtis contest. Nothing could be further from the truth. With the exception of a few small bets, there was no money placed, the Grand Forks followers of the game being opposed to betting in connection with wrestling matches, for one thing, and there being little disposition upon the part of the followers of Curtis to wager any money upon the outcome.

And Another Season Cometh.

PEERLESS Mel Sheppard is to run again this season. Who is he? Sheppard has been so closely connected with our Olympic game victories these speeding years, that he has become interwoven with the ceremonial rites.

For years this athlete has been one of the greatest of all the runners in the world. He is a veteran, old in athletic years, as athletic years go, and yet still possessing the enthusiasm of his younger days—and more important still, the ability to win.

• • •

Business and Glowing Pleasure.

MOST people, or at least some people, have the mental sketch of Charles A. Comiskey spending rolls of money in the acquirement of players. Somehow the spending of rolls of money and Charles Albert Comiskey travel through this dear world together.

Hark ye, then:

The Old Roman pays the smallest salaries of any magnate in the baseball world. He has been gloriously profligate in the spending of money in the fitting of a plant, all modern and mixed with steel and concrete; but when it comes to the payment of the slaves of the baseball world, as some of the more sentimental and sympathetic were wont to call the baseball serf, Mr. Comiskey has been careful and very near to himself.

Therefore the statement that Mr. Comiskey might go on a rampage and start hiring players from the ranks of the Federals with reckless disregard of salaries, causes some smiles.

Personally we admire and greatly revere this G. O. M. of the game—and at the same time smile at the statement of the financial running amuck.

DAVID'S WRONG HUNCH.

Herrmann Says Fraternity Has No Ground for a Protest.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 28.—August Herrmann, chairman of the National baseball commission, says that David Fultz, president of the Baseball Players' fraternity, has misunderstood the wording of the new rule in regard to the so-called promotion waiver clause, sent out by the commission, and that the rule is the very thing that the fraternity needed.

"I have written to Mr. Fultz and I do not believe any protest will be filed after he receives my letter," said Mr. Hermann.

TWO MITT CONTESTS WITH FIRST RATERS.

New York, March 28. — Sam Langford of Boston defeated Jim Johnson of Philadelphia in a ten-round bout here last night. Langford weighed 200 pounds, 26 pounds lighter than his opponent, but outpointed Johnson in eight of the rounds. Johnson took the third round by a good margin and held Langford even in the fourth.

Youngstown, Ohio, March 28.— Jess Willard of Kansas and Tom McMahon of Newcastle, Pa., boxed twelve rounds here last night. Willard, who substituted for Battling Levinsky of New York, on short notice, Levinsky being sick, was not in the best of condition and McMahon had a slight lead.

Tinker Sells Coles.

Shreveport, La., March 28.—Manager Tinker of the Chicago Federals announces the sale of Cad Coles, outfielder, to the Kansas City Federals.

INTEREST IS AWAKENING IN THE NORTHERN LEAGUE

Most Teams Will Have Young and Untried Material to Experiment With, and Little Can Be Learned Until Opening of Season---Superior and Winona Look Strong.

BY BRUCE.

Interest is emerging from the winter hibernation and coming out in the open of the Northern Baseball league councils.

Every manager in the league is rounding up his candidates in preparation for the spring training trip. As the Ides of March vanish from our midst the interest in the strength of the various teams increases.

Winona has the nucleus of a fine team in the campaigners of last year. Lefty Davis has not suffered extensively through the draft medium. Bell is lost and this player's departure for higher fields of baseball endeavor means a severe loss to the Pirates; but at that, the veteran Davis has what should make a grand minor league ball team.

With Fort William it will be a case of conjecture till the opening of the season. Conrad had a miserable team last season and the miserable team played miserable baseball, as is generally the custom with miserable teams.

It is said that Conrad has learned and profited by the lessons of last season. Secretary Kelly is authority for the statement that a raft of new and promising men have been signed, and that every indication points to a swell team. But, as has been stated, it is conjecture in the case of untried material, and it will require actual playing to convince in the case of Fort William.

Virginia Being Watched.

Kid Taylor, one of the most kidded individuals that ever appeared upon a local baseball field, knows baseball. The most rabid enemies of Taylor are willing to concede this. Well Taylor is the Virginia pilot and better things must be expected of the range outfit this season.

Spike Shannon, a prince of good fellows, as the word is used, made a mess of managing the Virginia team last season. This year things will be different—or should be—and with the wealth of material, untried though it is, the range team is picked for first division honors.

Jack Landry has most of the members of last season's Superior team on hand and the 1913 Red Sox possessed the potential strength of winning the flag.

If Landry qualifies as a real manager he should be in the hunt from the very start. As a matter of fact, judging from the last year's grading of players, Winona and Superior should be classed on paper as the choices for the coming season.

But baseball teams on paper and on the playing field are two quite different propositions. Most of the followers of the game believe that new material is going to cut quite a large swath, and in that event the calculations based upon the showing of some of the 1914 veterans may be offset somewhat.

The Cantillons will have a strong team at Fargo and Moorhead, for the time will be spent between the two towns. The owners of the Minneapolis American association team will make their Northern league possession a farm for the A. A. property, as was the case last year, and this fact assures the Fargo-Moorhead combination some good baseball.

Eddie Wheeler has already signed up a bunch of players for his team. While the majority of them are unknown to Northern league fans, Wheeler is an experienced baseball man and can be depended upon to pick some live ones.

Winnipeg Unknown Factor.

As to Winnipeg—please dope it out. Last year and the year previous the Canucks were woefully mismanaged. The Canadian team has a habit of starting great and then slumping. Winnipeg played in and out baseball last season. There are rumors of a change in management and also rumors of a fine line of ball players signed up; but in the case of Winnipeg, it is better to wait and see.

Coming down the baseball street to our own home—Duluth—it might be stated that the word conjecture is the best suited to describe the situation.

As in the case of several of the other teams, O'Brien has cast away some of the old material and is out to make the fight with new and young material.

The I. O. has a host of recruits signed to the pink contract form. All recruits come highly recommended—that's the reason they are signed for trial. Darby has some glowing preseason prospects—but the season has not started as yet.

Baseball fans in general around the home corral will approve of the course of the Dook. Some changes were needed here. A young ball team will hustle if nothing else, and that is the kind of players the fans want.

About all that can be said, when it comes right down to cases, is that with the largest amount of young material ever lined up by a minor league, the fans hope and wait with fervent expectancy for the development of some real baseball teams and a real race.

COPELAND BELIEVES IN AUSTRIAN MATERIAL.

New York, March 28.—Albert F. Copeland, recently appointed trainer in chief of the Austrian Olympic team, sailed yesterday for Vienna, where he will make his headquarters for the next two years.

Copeland said that while he did not expect to win the Olympic games at Berlin in 1916 with his Austrian athletes, he did hope to run the United States team a close second. He said he believed the Austrian athletes offered excellent material for a high-class team under modern training methods.

Yale Squads Practicing.

New Haven, Conn., March 28.—Yale's varsity baseball and track squads had their first spring practice on the Yale field today. Coach Quinby put the men through a sharp fielding drill. More than 100 men are now out for the track team.

BASKET BALL PAYING GAME

Indoor Sport at "U" Shows Profit This Year for First Time.

Lack of Training Defeats Track Team at Conference Meet.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Basket ball broke into the self-sustaining class of sports at the university during the past year, according to the financial statement given out early this week by the athletic board of control.

The annual statement also included a word of praise for the way in which Allan McBean, manager of athletics, transacted the board's business. For years, football has been the only sport on the campus that had any financial reason for existence. For a long time it has paid for all the other pastimes. This year basket ball broke in to the winning column by a small margin. The indoor game shows a profit of $5.96. Football shows a net profit of $14,680, but expenses entailed by other sports has brought its grand total profit down to $8,450. More than $20,000 was disbursed for football, but the track team ran second to the moleskin men, when it came to spending money. It cost $4,256 to make the track team worth while. There was a deficit of $3,300 in this department, the largest loss in the list. One of the items in the annual list of statistics is for the expenses of football scouts. Sig Harris and his brother detectives spent $320 on their trips into the enemies' country.

Pynn Chosen Captain.

At the annual meeting for the election of captain for the basket ball team for 1914-15 George Pynn was unanimously chosen for the leadership. Pynn came from Seattle, Wash., and is a junior dentistry student. In the course of his early athletic career, he came under the eye of Earl Currant, a former Gopher star, and started at Minnesota as a protege of Currant's. During the past season he has done consistent work as left guard with the Gopher basket shooters. Those interested in next year's Gophers feel that prospects are very encouraging. Although Sawyer and Robertson will be lost to the squad by graduation, many of the "M" men will return. Under the leadership of Capt. George Pynn, Stadsvold, B. Bierman, McGeary, Lewis, Giltinan, Petraborg and Crosswell will form the nucleus of a strong team. In addition there are a number of men who have not appeared often so far, who are certain to be in the contest next year.

Hampered by a lack of training, eligibility rules, and size, the Minnesota track team failed to score in the conference indoor meet, held at Northwestern last Saturday evening. The four men who constituted the team did their best, but the superior training of the other teams proved too much for the Gophers. Much to the surprise of the Minnesota team, preliminary heats were run in the half mile. The Gopher representative in this race, George Lindeberg, won his heat, but was unable to finish strong the next day and came in fifth. In the fifty-yard dash, Capt. Spink was disqualified after jumping the gun three times, so Minnesota's captain was unable to place in the event. At the meet, Minnesota's representatives were very few in comparison with some of the other universities in the conference, that had men entered. Illinois, the winner of the meet, had a team of thirty-six men, while Wisconsin's team was composed of thirty men.

Rifle Team Fourth.

By defeating the University of California, 957 to 952, last week, the Minnesota rifle team terminated its intercollegiate schedule, taking fourth place by a safe margin and coming within one point of third place. During the course of the shoots, the Minnesota men secured eight victories, losing but three matches, and those to the three intercollegiate leaders.

The annual interfraternity swimming relay run off Saturday in connection with the life trials, proved one of the most exciting athletic events of the season. Four fraternities entered teams—Alpha Delta Phi, Beta Theta Phi, Kappa Sigma and Delta Epsilon. The Betas won the race, and by winning, they took the cup away from the Alpha Delts, who won it last year. Each fraternity was represented by four men. Alpha Delta took second, Delta U third, and Kappa Sigma, fourth.

The annual girls' basket ball tournament to decide the interclass championship, will be held tonight. The sophomores and seniors will contend for first honors, while the freshman and juniors will play a consolation game. In addition to the games, there will be some exhibition dancing by the girls aesthetic dancing class, while the tournament will be concluded by a general dance. The university band will furnish the music.

THE LAKE HOCKEY TEAM HAS MADE GREAT RECORD

For Three Years the Same Seven Has Won Championships---Handsome Manley-McLennan Cup Goes to Team.

Under various names, the Lake hockey team, which this year won the city championship, has defeated all opponents for the last three years. There have been but one or two changes in the lineup in that time.

By the terms under which the Manley-McLennan cup was donated to the D. A. H. A., it was necessary that the two teams in first and second place in the percentage column of the league should play a series of three games for the possession of the cup.

So the Northerns, who finished the season as the league leaders, were defeated by their rivals, the Lakes, who had held that coveted first place all season up to the Ides of March, when they, like Caesar and all other ambitious would-be monarchs, met their downfall.

The championship games were as follows:

March 20—Northerns, 2; Lakes, 5.
March 21—Northerns, 5; Lakes, 1.
March 22—Northerns, 2; Lakes, 3.
Total scores—Northerns, 9; Lakes, 9.

The deciding game was played March 22, as it was the year previous, when the Lakes, under the name of the Duluth Curling Club Intermediates, won another overtime contest. Asher Taylor again shot the deciding goal.

Outside games played this year resulted as follows:

Feb. 12—White Bears, 2; Lakes, 9.
Feb. 21—White Bears, 2; Lakes, 3.
Totals—White Bears, 4; Lakes, 12.

CRACK COURT STAR BEATEN BY JAY GOULD

JOHNSON AND FORD WERE LIBERAL IN HOME RUN HITS

Each of These Pitchers Was Nicked for Nine Circuit Clouts, Which Was More Than Any Other Twirlers Yielded.

(By E. J. Lanigan.)

It possibly will surprise fans to learn that Russell Ford, who has gone over to the Federals, was in Walter Johnson's class in one respect last season, that respect being the permitting of home runs. The Yankee hurler allowed nine four-bag blows to be struck by his adversaries and so did the man whom the Chalmers jury of newspaper experts picked as the player most valuable to his team. Ford and Johnson were nicked for more circuit clouts than any other American league gunners. The players who touched the Chalmers car winner for homers were: Frank Baker (twice), Harry Hooper, "Buck" Weaver, Ray Schalk, Harry Lord, Joe Lake, Wheeler, Johnston and Joe Jackson. Four-hassock drives off Ford were obtained by Howard Shanks, Sam Agnew, Derrill Pratt, Eddie Collins, Gus Williams, Eddie Ainsmith, Wallie Schang, Sam Crawford and Joe Jackson. The last named probably made the longest home run of the year when he landed on one of Ford's spitters in the game of June 4 and hoisted the ball over the right wing of the grandstand at the Polo grounds.

Next to Johnson and Ford, Tom Hughes of the Nationals allowed the greatest number of smashes for the full distance. He was located for eight drives of this character. Bobby Groom of Washington had seven homers made off his delivery and these men had six: Baumgardner and Mitchell of St. Louis, Blanding of Cleveland, Brown of Philadelphia. Five four-baggers were secured off Caldwell of New York and Bush of Philadelphia, and four off Schulz of New York, Pennock of Philadelphia and Dauss of Detroit. The veteran Eddie Plank, one of the heroes of the world's series of 1913, was nicked for three four-baggers and so were Joe Boehling of Washington Earl Hamilton and Walter Leverenz of St. Louis, Willie Mitchell of Cleveland and Ray Collins of Boston, who are among the American league's cleverest southpaws.

"Chief" Bender had only one home run made off his curves last season, and that four-bagger, manufactured by "Ping" Bodie of the White Sox, added a defeat to the Indian's record. Other boxmen who allowed only one four-bagger were Weilman of St. Louis, Steen of Cleveland, Dubuc of Detroit, Walsh of Chicago and Bedient of Boston. Joe Wood of the Red Sox was even stingier than all these men previously named, for he refused to allow any one to get a homer off of his puzzling delivery.

Of the 158 four-baggers made in the American league in 1913, 35 were obtained off Washington's pitchers; 31 off New York's; 25 off Philadelphia's; 20 off St. Louis'; 19 off Cleveland's; 13 off Detroit's; 10 off Chicago's, and 6 off Boston's. The individual list follows:

Washington, 35—Johnson, 9; Hughes, 8; Groom, 7; Boehling, 3; Engel, 2; Gallia, 2; Drohan, 1; Harper, 1; Williams, 1; Schaefer, 1.

New York, 31—Ford, 9; Caldwell, 5; Schulz, 4; McConnell, 3; Fisher, 3; Keating, 2; Klepfer, 2; Clark, 1; McHale, 1; Warhop, 1.

Philadelphia, 25—Brown, 6; Bush, 5; Pennock, 4; Houck, 3; Plank, 3; Shawkey, 2; Bender, 1; Wyckoff, 1.

St. Louis, 20.—Baumgardner, 6; Mitchell, 6; Hamilton, 3; Leverenz, 3; Weilman, 1; Adams, 1.

Cleveland, 19—Blanding, 6; Mitchell, 3; Cullop, 3; Falkenberg, 2; Gregg, 2; Steen, 1; Kahler, 1; Baskette, 1.

Detroit, 13—Dauss, 4; Lake, 3; House, 1; Zamloch, 1; Dubuc, 1; Hall, 1; North, 1; Mullin, 1.

Chicago, 10—White, 2; Scott, 2; Russell, 2; Cicotte, 2; Benz, 1; Walsh, 1.

Boston, 6—Collins, 3; Bedient, 1; Foster, 1; Hall, 1.

MOFFAT WAS GREATER KICKER THAN BRICKLEY

Old Records Show That Princeton Star Was One of the Greatest Kickers in Football History.

San Fancisco, Cal., March 21.—Alexander Moffatt, or "Alex," as he was known to thousands of college men throughout the country, the famous Princeton university football player and captain of the early eighties, who died of pneumonia recently in New York city, was probably one of the most remarkable players that ever stepped on a gridiron.

Charlie Brickley of Harvard is the man in the football spotlight today, but Moffatt's achievements on the football field were even more remarkable, and are born out by the records, writes Franklin M. Morse, all-American halfback of 1893. Brickley is of heavy and powerful build. The Princetonian's record is the more remarkable for the reason that he was slight of stature.

Moffatt played at fullback and is one of the few men in the history of the American game who could kick a punt or a drop equally well with either foot. His choice of the foot with which he propelled the ball depended entirely on the circumstances. When the ball was passed back to him for a kick, Moffatt would use the foot furthest away from the men on the opposing side who were breaking through in an endeavor to block the kick. It was a rare thing indeed for one of Moffatt's kicks to be blocked.

He never juggled the ball when he caught the pass, but had a knack of placing his hands on it so that no shift was required, and to the onlooker it looked merely as if the ball was diverted from his hands to his toe without any stay in its progress. No man ever excelled him in the speed with which he got "rid" of the ball. Moffatt never took the step forward which is so commonly seen on the football field when the ball is kicked. Instead he took a little upward hop, so that after delivery of the ball he stood in the identical spot in which he had received it.

Moffatt's most famous performance was made in the Princeton-Harvard game of Nov. 17, 1883, which was played in Princeton, his remarkable record being achieved during only a half period of the game, the final. At that time the game was divided into two halves of forty-five minutes each. A brief synopsis of the play in this historic game as taken from the records as compiled by Parke H. Davis, the famous football authority and member of the rules committee, is as follows:

Second half—The second half finds the sides reversed, Princeton having a strong wind behind them. Moffatt dribbles and makes 10 yards before being downed. On the next play, standing 46 yards from the Harvard crossbar, he drops the ball squarely over. Harvard kicks off and Lamar, catching the ball on his five-yard line, starts upon the most brilliant run of the game, dodging from left to right, slowing up and springing forward until he clears the entire Harvard eleven and starts unopposed to the goal. Hartley overtakes him from behind and down he goes.

Harvard soon after gets the ball. Bonsal gets away for a run, but is tackled by Baker. Princeton gets the ball and Moffatt, at a distance of 40 yards, drops his second goal.

This style of scoring apparently disorganizes Harvard, for after their kickoff and a return by Moffatt they lose the ball. Moffatt, standing 40 yards from the line, drops a third field goal.

Harvard now uncovers a complicated series of trick passes, which takes the ball well into Princeton's territory. Baker by a clever run takes the ball out again, being tackled by Gilman. The ball is now thirty-eight yards from the line and to the extreme side of the field. Moffatt falls back for a drop kick. He gets the ball, but instantly is smothered by Adams, Kendall and Appleton, who are upon him. To the amazement of the crowd, the unmistakable sound of a drop kick is heard, and through a slit of daylight between two crimson jerseys shoots the ball straight and low. Princeton holds its breath lest the kick fall short, but with wonderful momentum the ball continues to rise and crosses the bar with three feet to spare, thus making the unparalleled feat of four drop kicks in one-half of a game from difficult distances and angles. The game shortly after closes.

Without in the slightest detracting from Brickley's splendid achievements, in making comparison, it is only fair to Moffatt to say that Brickley's average distance from the line when he made his goals was between 24 to 26 yards, and all of them from comparatively easy points. Moffatt, on the other hand, kicked from the 45, 40, 40 and 38 yard lines and from difficult angles, which substantiates Davis' assertion that Moffatt's feat is an unparalleled one.

Plating Defender.

Boston, Mass., March 28.—The framing of the America's cup defense sloop under construction at Neponset for A. S. Cochran of the New York Yacht club has been completed and planking was started today. The yacht, which has not yet been named, will be launched during the last week in April.

BOAT BUILT IN 1822 GOES DOWN.

Bristol, R. I., March 28.—The oyster steamer James Morgan, nearly a century old, filled and sank as she was entering the harbor yesterday with a full cargo. The steamer Amerique, also in the oyster trade, took off the six members of the crew before the Morgan went down. The James Morgan was owned by the American Oyster company and was originally a schooner. She was built at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1822.

COACH NICKALLS HAS STRINGENT RULES FOR PENNSYLVANIA CREWS

Cover Entire Working Hours of the Oarsmen and Their Diet--Intercollegiate Basket Ball Season Closes With Championship Five Undetermined.

New York, March 28.—Whatever may be the training customs in English athletics it is evident that Vivian Nickalls, the new crew coach at the University of Pennsylvania, does not intend to depart radically from methods in vogue at Pennsylvania in past years. It has been frequently stated abroad that the English amateur athlete and oarsman does not train with the same care or rigorousness that is observed in college athletic circles in this country. It is explained therefore that the success of the American athlete is due to the fact that he makes a business of what is viewed abroad as play or recreation.

Coach Nickalls does not apparently share these views, or at least believes in the proverb, "When thou art at Rome do as they do at Rome." He has laid down as strict a set of rules and instructions to govern the crew candidates as Charles Courtney or Jim Rice could prepare. The printed rules cover the entire working hours of the oarsmen and even the diet of the men is outlined. Permission can be gained only from Nickalls, should it be deemed necessary to temporarily break these rules, which are in part as follows:

Hours—Bed, 10:30; rise in morning, 7:30; breakfast, 8:15; lunch, 1; dinner, 7:30 (while on the river, earlier if possible). Every man must run before breakfast, the distance to be prescribed by the coach. Those living in college must get together and run on the track if possible. Those living at home must set out and run on the road.

No smoking allowed on any pretext whatever. Chewing of gum is also deprecated.

Lemonade, barley water, tea and coffee may be used for drinks, but use of sugar in moderation. Don't drink water with ice in it, and don't drink milk. Ice cream after meals may be eaten but once a day.

Don't eat pork, veal, duck, goose, wild fowl, oysters, crabs, lobsters or any shell fish. Don't eat too much bread. Chew your food well and eat slowly.

"If you wish to break any of these rules apply to the coach; i. e., you might want to go to a dinner, he will give you leave, but don't go without leave. Don't dance. If you are sick, tell the coach.

"If any of these rules are broken by anyone, whoever he may be, and it comes to the coach's notice, that man will be discharged from the rowing squad.

"You are on your honor. Be true to yourself and remember always that if you do not obey these rules you are hurting not only your self respect but every member of the crew of which you are a part."

Oxford-Cambridge Race.

It is more or less of a coincidence that the publication of these training rules as laid down by Nickalls should be made the day on which Oxford and Cambridge meet in their annual boat race on the Thames. Nickalls gained his initial reputation as an oarsman while at Oxford and in after years coached the varsity crews that rowed against the Light Blue. He was with his brother, Guy Nickalls, now coach at Yale, one of the best oarsmen ever developed at Oxford during the period of the inter-varsity races which extends back to 1841.

Since the initial race that year the eight-oared crews of Oxford and Cambridge have met seventy times. On the eve of the seventy-first race of the series the score shows Oxford has won thirty-nine races; Cambridge thirty, while the race of 1877 resulted in a dead heat. The course is four and one-quarter miles and the best time 18 minutes 29 seconds made by Oxford in 1911. American college regatta records do not touch these figures, for the intercollegiate regatta record made by Cornell in 1901 is 18 minutes 53 1-5 seconds for four miles, while the best time for the Harvard-Yale regatta was made by Yale crew of 1888 when the Blue won the four-mile race in 20 minutes 15 seconds. That the Thames course is faster than the New London stretch would appear to be indicated by the fact that the Harvard crew of 1906 was defeated by Cambridge by two lengths in 19 minutes 18 seconds, on Sept. 8 of that year, after Harvard won from Yale in a four-mile race at New London by a margin of nine seconds in 23 minutes 2 seconds on June 28 of the same year.

Basket Ball Championship.

Another intercollegiate basket ball season has closed with the championship five undetermined. In the East the race of the Intercollegiate league consisting of six of the leading colleges of the section, ended with Columbia and Cornell tied for first place. Each team won eight and lost two games. Yale was third with six games won and four lost. Princeton, Pennsylvania and Dartmouth followed in the order named. Because of faculty restrictions no attempt was made to play off the tie for first place, although both Cornell and Columbia players and undergraduates were eager to see the question of supremacy settled.

In the Middle West the conference race championship was won in impressive style by the University of Wisconsin five, which played the twelve-game schedule without meeting defeat. Of the nine college teams engaged in the titular tournament, Ohio state finished second, Illinois third and Chicago fourth. Northwestern, Minnesota, Purdue, Iowa and Indiana completed the order of final standing. The Wisconsin team apparently outclassed the other conference fives and the supporters of the Badger team would have been willing to back the combination against the winner of the Eastern tournament had such an intersectional contest been possible.

This was particularly true since at present a tie exists in games played between the Eastern and Western championship fives of past years. With this situation in mind an attempt was made early last winter by the Eastern league to arrange for a series between the winning fives of the two associations, but the conference directors refused to sanction an intersectional series just as they refused to permit Chicago to play Harvard in an intersectional football game during the season of 1914. The record of these East and West games shows that a slight advantage rests with the West at present. In 1905 the teams of Columbia and Wisconsin, the title holders of that year, met in New York, and Columbia won the game by a close score. At the close of the 1907-8 season, Pennsylvania, winners of the Eastern league series, met Chicago, the "Big Nine" champions in an intersectional contest. One game was played in Chicago and one in Philadelphia, and in each case the Western five was the victor by a few points, margin after a fast, brilliant display of individual and team basket ball.

New Gymnasium.

Leland Standford university is to have a new gymnasium, equipped with modern paraphernalia as soon as satisfactory plans can be prepared for the structure. The university also announces its determination to support any project of the associated students looking toward the construction of a concrete athletic stadium. This aid will be given by the trustees in the form of a loan of the necessary funds.

Yale Letter Winners.

A revised list of alumni and undergraduates entitled to wear the Yale "Y" shows that the aggregate total of varsity letter winners is 1,200. Of this number, 1,058 are graduates, 92 are non-graduates and the remaining 55 are undergraduates. The various groups of professions followed by these men are as follows:

Law, 197; manufacturing, 169; finance, 166; mercantile, 105; engineering, 69; medicine, 60; education, 54; agriculture, 35; transportation, 27; ministry, 20; art, 14; government, 13; literature, 13; science, 2; undergraduates, 55; unspecified, 53; deceased, 148; total, 1,200.

Of this number, 1,016 men won their "Y" in one branch of athletics, 169 men in two branches, 14 in three branches, and one man, W. W. Heffelfinger, '91; won the "Y" in the four branches as follows: Football, '88, '89, '90 and '91; crew, '91; baseball, '89, and track, '90 and '91.

Sports at Pennsy.

According to statistics prepared at the University of Pennsylvania, 1,121 students out of an eligible list of 3,387 participated in athletic activities during the past year. The enrollment by sports was as follows:

Football, 102; baseball, 144; track, 301; crew, 164; basket ball, 43; swimming, 68; soccer, 44; wrestling, 69; fencing, 39; golf, 19; gymnasium team, 16; tennis, 6; la crosse, 29; boxing, 48; cross country, 39.

Racing Shell for Exeter.

The Yale rowing authorities have presented an eight-oared shell to the Athletic association of Phillips-Exeter school, to be used by the young oarsmen now in training there. The shell is sixty-two feet long and is in excellent condition. This will be the first time that Exeter has ever been represented by an eight-oared crew.

KETONEN BACK FROM DAKOTA

Believes He Will Defeat Carr Next Thursday Night.

Walno Ketonen returned from Grand Forks last night, where he defeated Loren Curtis after one of the greatest matches in the history of wrestling in the Northwest.

Ketonen expressed himself as being pleased with the outcome of the match in Dakota and said that Curtis is one of the greatest wrestlers in the country. As for Ketonen's match with Joe Carr at the Lyceum April 2 the wonderful little Finn simply says that he thinks he will win. There will be many fans who are willing to back Ketonen at the ringside next Thursday night and the Carr supporters from Minneapolis will undoubtedly get a chance to place their wagers.

Carr will arrive in Duluth Tuesday with Henry Ordemann and will spend the rest of the time before the match working out here under the guidance of the big Swedish champion. Joe is prepared for the hardest battle of his career and is determined to keep his record clear, having never lost a match at 158 pounds. Mike Yokel will undoubtedly be matched with the winner of Thursday night's match to settle the middleweight title beyond any question of doubt.

J. L. Morrissey of the Lyceum theater, who is at the head of the Zenith City Athletic club, expects to have a capacity house for the match next week. Karl Lehto and Henry Cadreau will appear in the semi-windup, while a good curtain raiser will also be provided.

Fast Time Made.

Chicago, March 28.—Fast time in the sprints was made last night in the preliminaries of the interscholastic indoor meet at Northwestern university. Walker of Evanston academy covered the 440-yard run in :53 4-5, tying the indoor record. Thirty-five schools participated in the preliminaries.

KID PAUL ISSUES A WAR CHALLENGE.

Kid Paul writes: "Just publish from Kid Paul a challenge to the whole smear of canvas flies that are hanging around Curley Ulrich's arena. I would like a crack at some of those boys on April 7 or any date they name. Especially would I like a match with one Doyle. The bigger they are the better I like 'em."

This shows that the kid is possessed of aspiration if not discretion.

THE SOONER YOU ORDER, THE SOONER YOU'LL RIDE YOUR

1914 INDIAN MOTORCYCLE

Those who ordered at this time last year received their machines promptly—had their mounts ready at the opening of the riding season.

Those who ordered late were disappointed because they could not get immediate delivery—and the Indian factory worked day and night trying to keep up with a landslide of orders.

Therefore, we suggest to the man who wants his Indian early that he consult with us now—that he arrange for an Indian demonstration at our store.

We want to give our patrons good service, prompt deliveries, ample attention. Help us to do so by coming to see us NOW rather than later on.

AUTO POLO WILL BE PLAYED HERE

Duluthians Will Have a Chance to See Hair-Raising Sport.

During the present season E. J. Filiatrault of the Mutual Auto company promises to give Duluth the opportunity of viewing several auto polo games. Few people know what auto polo really is. As an illustration, a round rubber ball about ten inches in diameter is used and is passed around between the two goals at either end of the polo grounds with the use of two automobiles, an expert driver and two mallet men termed right and left mallets.

The game is called to order at a given time by the referee who must be fleet of foot and an expert in judging auto polo to keep track of the swift play that is made.

The Ford cars already equipped for auto polo have substantial iron guards on the front to take up the impact of a collison. The dash on the car is cut down as also the steering column, and two small jump seats are provided so that both the operator and the two mallet men on each automobile polo car can jump readily in case of a turn over. Massive iron hoops or half circles are bolted on either side of the frame of the car extending over the head of both the mallet men, and the driver, including also an extra hoop directly over the radiator or front part of the car so that in case, during the action of the play, that the car should turn over it will descrive a complete circle with the driver and mallet men protected and right itself to continue on its way in the game. An expert polo driver will not divert from his course in passing the ball forward to avert a collision, as collisions are expected and the guard irons must take up the impact of all collisions. Without any question of doubt it is one of the most hair-raising games of the modern day that has ever been invented, full of thrills and excitement. Offtimes speeds of thirty miles an hour are obtained and when one stops to think of a head-on collision it seems almost impossible to believe that the Ford car, which is used in this game, will stand the grief.

The Ford car is practically the only car that can be used in the game of auto polo for the reason that it is controlled entirely by the foot levers operating the planetary transmission and by a small release of the pedal permits the car to operate on high.

Several of these games are planned for the summer and they promise to create considerable interest among local automobile enthusiasts and others interested in sports.

PICNIC FOR OWNERS OF FORD AUTOS.

Arrangements are being made for the first gathering of the big family of Ford owners who will take part in a series of outings and picnics, which will be held the coming summer. The first of the series of the Ford outings and picnics will be held either at Black River Falls, Wis., which is located about eighteen miles south of Superior, or at Pike lake, depending entirely upon what the committee of arrangements, which will be selected from among the Ford owners, may decide upon.

The first prize to be given by the Mutual Auto company to the winner of the blind-time contest, which will be a part of this first outing, will be a complete extra tire, an inner tube with cover, having a total value of $19.55.

E. J. Filiatrault stated yesterday that the service car of the Mutual Auto company will carry along the necessary apparatus to furnish hot coffee and other refreshments on all these outings. Ford owners desiring to enter have been requested to register their names at the Mutual Auto company, in order that they may be notified when the first event will take place.

PREPARE ROUTES FOR 1915 TRAVEL

American Auto Association Makes Ready for Exposition.

Transcontinental inquiries received by the American Automobile association's touring board indicate that many of those who have in mind a journey to the Pacific coast in 1915, will journey westward over one route and return by a different itinerary. While 1914 will see a greater number of cross-country travelers than in 1913, the total in 1915 promises to be surprisingly numerous and warrants Chairman Frank X. Mudd of the touring board to predict that American interstate travel from this time on will count largely in vacation periods of many people who have been in the habit of wearing out tires on foreign highways.

In preparing for a comprehensive transcontinental service, the touring department of the national organization of automobilists has added to its material until there are now available three complete routes with a fourth to be added in the spring of 1915. Of these, the Overland trail is for about 95 per cent of the way the route of the Lincoln highway, which will attract a large amount of the cross-country travel.

The fourth new route will start east from Los Angeles and is by far the longest of the cross-country lines, being via Yuma, Phoenix, El Paso, Fort Worth, Dallas, Texarkana, Little Rock, Memphis, Nashville, Knoxville, Asheville, Greensboro, Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia to New York. This transcontinental route will be available throughout the year. Very little difficulty was experienced in its framing, as long stretches of good natural roads were found in Arizona, New Medico, and Texas. In fact, the one great problem of the American Automobile association's pathfinder was to select the "one best way" from the number of options offered at several points, notably east of Phoenix. For the first time the Southwestern and Gulf states will be placed on a through line across lower Arizona, New Mexico, and upper Texas.

The pioneer big route between Chicago and the Pacific coast was the "Trail to Sunset." This quickly made clear that for the San Francisco and San Diego exhibitions in 1915 there would be a great call for other routes, reaching the Pacific northwest as well as Central and Southern California. It was therefore decided by the American Automobile association in the early summer of 1912 to undertake the mapping of three complete lines in one season.

Starting in June the northern route through Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Bismarck, Butte, Missoula, and Spokane to Seattle was covered. The "Northwest Trail" was the first to give details across the continent by the northern route, and to supply specific information, including mileages, for reaching Yellowstone park from the north or Glacier park from the south. Equally complete notes were then taken from Seattle through Tacoma, Portland, and Sacramento, to San Francisco.

Immediately afterward, the Overland trail was traveled from San Francisco through Sacramento, Carson City, Reno, Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Omaha, Chicago, Cleveland, Erie, Jamestown, Elmira, Binghamton, and Kingston to New York.

The third line was laid down to Los Angeles via Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Ely, and Goldfield. No date has been set for the publication of these notes, due principally to road conditions in Western Colorado and Eastern Utah, which will doubtless be improved before the spring of 1915.

TOUR TO PROMOTE ROAD LEGISLATION

President Wilson of A. A. A. Will Make Coast to Coast Trip.

Within a period of thirty days, going by a northern and returning over a southern route, President John A. Wilson of the American Automobile association, this week will start on a visiting trip to the largest state and local clubs between the two coasts. Meetings and conferences between the head of the national body of automobilists and the officers in the several states will relate to questions of A. A. A. policy generally, and have particular reference at this time to Federal road legislation. Matters of special interest to the various states also will be passed upon, for it is the effort of the A. A. A. to further uniformity in all laws affecting the use of the motor-driven vehicle.

"This is going to be a source of great regret to me," said Mr. Wilson at the A. A. A. national headquarters in New York city just before starting, "that I cannot come in contact with all the officers of our 500 odd clubs on the present swing around the circle. However, the stones over this time will be seen, I hope, at a later date.

"There is one thing that I will endeavor to make positively clear to our members in connection with the important duty of assisting in country-wide highways progress. The A. A. A. is for a comprehensive development, which will include the feeder roads from the market towns to the farms. We are not seeking the through road to the detriment of the town laterals; but we do not believe that the township unit should receive road assistance from the central government. If the state, in meeting its growing road burdens, is entitled to relief from the nation, when it has been aided it should in its turn pass a percentage of that co-operation down to the county and township units, as they are civil subdivisions of the state which is the larger unit of the whole. A trunk road is nothing more than a connected chain of the most important intercounty roads. Modern roads trael for passenger and freight vehicles demands avenues of communication between important centers of population, irrespective of state lines.

"Incidentally, it is well worth while to keep at home the thousands who have leisure and vacation opportunities of becoming better acquainted with their own country, for our scenic attractions excel in grandeur what can be found abroad. Unfortunately, in many instances, these places are not reached by road.

"But I want to repeat that the tourist is secondary in the grand scheme of roads advance; we want to 'thread together the energies of the nation.'"

DURAY ENTERS 500-MILE CONTEST

Frenchman Who Eclipsed Burman Will Prove Hard Competitor.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 28.—Arthur Duray, the sensational Frenchman who eclipsed Bob Burman's high water mark of 141.73 miles an hour by attaining a speed of 142.9 at Ostend last fall, has entered the next Indianapolis 500-mile race at the wheel of a three-litre Peugeot, owned by J. Meunier, the Swiss chocolate king. The machine is the identical one that captured the Lesser Grand Prix at Boulogne last year, Boillot driving. Though but of 183 cubic inches piston displacement, it is easily capable of ninety-six miles an hour, because of which, together with its extreme light weight, it is expected to prove a most formidable contender.

Duray's Peugeot makes the third car of that make to enter the contest, the others being handled by Boillot, the European champion, and Goux, who won the 500-mile race last year. This outfit is expected to rule a favorite for the race, no equally startling combination having put in its appearance to date.

Duray also plans to bring over the big Fiat in which he established his world's straightaway record last fall, sending it against Burman's time both on the speedway and Ormond beach, provided he can make satisfactory arrangements with the factory. It is Duray's theory that he can reach 150 miles an hour with this creation if he ever finds a place to let it out. Ormond beach ought exactly to suit his requirements in this respect, it is thought. On the speedway, of course, he would hardly be able to do over 125, as anything in excess of that figure might send him over a turn into the next county.

An odd circumstance comes to light in the fact that, despite his French training and environment, Duray is a regular American, having been born in New York city some forty years ago. He returned to Paris when but a boy and has resided there ever since. His trip to this country next May will be the first he has ever made. English, by the way, is not in his vocabulary. He will thus present the queer spectacle of a native American who needs an interpreter to understand his countrymen.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 28.—Jules Goux, winner of the 500-mile race on the motor speedway last year, has written Carl Fisher, president of the course, that he expects to bring home the bacon again this year. "Bien que nous avons des voitures d'une cylindre plus faible, nous avons malgre cela l'espoir de gagner," he says. Figure it out for yourself.

$600,000,000 FOR CARS.

Auto Industry Not a Mushroom Growth, Says Willys.

"And still there are some people who insist that the automobile industry is a mushroom growth, subject to the slightest variations in business conditions and likely to take a fatal slump on the very shortest notice," said John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company of Toledo, Ohio, after reading a report made recently by a committee at a meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce. "To such people I can only say one thing: Read the report. There is enough information in this single document to set at rest the fears of even the most ignorant and the most confirmed pessimist. And the information is backed by the indisputable evidence of figures, too.

"The report shows that approximately $600,000,000 will be spent in this country during 1914 for automobiles. The developments of past years show us that the percentage of buyers who cannot afford to purchase cars is so small as to be unimportant. In view of this fact, the total shows a pretty good refutation of the claim that any money that might better be spent for bread is going into automobiles.

"Here's another set of figures that are interesting. The report shows that the combined horse power of all the motors built in the United States this year is practically 83 times as great as the 310,000-horse power developed by the great water power dam at Keokuk, Iowa. I know these figures are correct for the 50,000 Overlands which are being built in our Toledo plant alone have a combined horse power over 5½ times as great as the dam.

"The state of California has an automobile to every 26 inhabitants, registered in the secretary of state's office. In a single year we export $33,000,000 worth of automobiles. New York state alone has more cars registered than are in use in Germany and France combined; and both these countries plus faible, nous avons malgre cela have always been regarded as pioneers in the production of motor propelled vehicles.

"All these figures are authentic. There are scores of other compilations which might be made, showing that hundreds of thousands of people throughout the country are making a better living out of the automobile industry than they could otherwise hope for. And still some of our professional 'gloomers' claim they can see rocks ahead. It is to laugh."

USE DICTAPHONE.

Instrument Is Success in Route Making on Cadillac.

The average business man who prizes the dictaphone as a marvel of time-saving and efficiency, and who appreciates the delicacy of its construction, may find it difficult to believe that the instrument has been successfully used in a speeding automobile.

Yet this is precisely what was done in logging the route of a run of 122 miles near St. Louis, Mo. In this instance the dictaphone took the place of the laborious writing of notes bearing on landmarks, dangerous crossings, grades, sharp turns, etc.

After several trials, and before the pathfinding run was actually begun, it was found that the 1914 Cadillac was best fitted to carry the dictaphone and permit of its use while underway. The instrument was placed in the tonneau and the notemaker sat in front beside the driver, the tube from the dictaphone being carried over his shoulder. The practicality of the Cadillac two-speed axle in promoting smoothness and steadiness in running was admirably demonstrated on the trip, and although the dictaphone was in constant use while the car was running, not a single record was marred by vibration.

For the purpose of route-making this experiment proved that the dictaphone is far superior to the ordinary method of making written notes, for the record is complete and clear, practically because of the difficulty of writing legibly or rapidly in a moving autohobile.

VALUE UNDERESTIMATED

Mr. Peacha Shows How Auto Saves Money and Time.

"It has been recently estimated that 200,000 automobiles, exclusive of trucks, are constantly used in the daily business and professional routine of the United States," says J. T. Peacha Jr. of the Interstate Auto company. "If this be true, and I for one believe the number to be understated, the motor car has never received due credit as an economic force.

"All classes of people who, in their daily duties, have to move from place to place, such as clergymen, physicians, real estate dealers and commercial salesmen, admit the utility of the automobile, but I question whether many of them have ever reduced the saving of time to figures in dollars and cents.

"An automobile, strictly observing the speed limit, can cover daily fully four times the ground that a horse can cover, but let us say for the sake of the argument that it covers only three times as much.

"Let us assume that 200 people who formerly used horses in their vocations, save every day four formerly non-productive hours through the substitution of the motor car. It is conservative to assume that the value of their time will average $1 on hour. That amounts to $24 saving to each in a working week of six days and therefore a total weekly saving to those 200 people of $4,800, and a total yearly saving of $229,600.

"With 200,000 automobiles used for just such purposes as the 200 that I have cited, the total saving in time—measured in money—is something enormous.

"Of course, the difference in maintenance expense between a horse and an automobile needs to be considered, but allow a maximum margin for that and it is but a flea bite against the amount saved through increased efficiency."

NEAR MILLION MARK.

Car Owners in U. S. Ever on Increase, Says Manager.

"The day is not far distant," says Harry R. Radford, vice president and general manager of the Cartercar company of Pontiac, Mich., "when a million automobiles will be in the service of American owners.

"It only seems like yesterday that the automobile was a plaything for the frenzied few, a thing feared by its owner and detested by the populace. At best it possessed no more than a spectacular interest. Today, however, as you go down the crowded city streets or tour in the open country in any direction you discover that the automobile has entered into the social and business life of the country as no other one thing has done since the world was made. You observe through the open barn door of the prosperous farm a car standing ready for the errands or pleasure of the family. You see heavy truck horses only occasionally now on the streets of the city, the big fast moving and big load carrying trucks having replaced them. And the light delivery cars speed up and down making those quick calls which are so necessary to the economical delivery service of the big mercantile houses.

"Beside the small suburban home is the tidy garage which houses the car that carries the commuter to his work in the city. It has been the demand of the "common folks" for a useful car at moderate cost rather than the expensive tastes of the privileged class that has so developed the automobile in this country. We had these things in mind when we produced the new Model 7 Cartercar. This car has all the advantages of the gearless transmission—all the sturdy pull of the larger Cartercars yet it sells for nearly $500 less.

"These conditions are peculiar to America, too, for it bewilders the European observer to find the automobile accepted as an everyday necessity by what he would call the middle class people. In Europe the roads are the finest in the world, but comparatively few people can afford to use them except in the old-fashioned way. Here in our country, however, American inventive and manufacturing genius has scored one of the greatest triumphs by steadily reducing the cost of the strong reliable automobiles fit to cope with every condition that is liable to be encountered on the roads. It is right here that the new Model 7 Cartercar is making good. The strength of the gearless transmission makes the Cartercar equal to any emergency and its many speeds make it the most versatile of all four-cylinder cars."

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

"It is said that automobile touring is less popular than formerly. Physical and nervous strain from long rides, tire trouble and heavy expense are given as the reasons. This is a pity, for the pleasantest and most healthful way to travel is in the open air," says Joseph T. Peacha, Jr., manager of the Interstate Auto company, Franklin agent here.

"Long distance traveling by automobile to be successful must be accomplished without fatigue and without unreasonable cost or annoying tire trouble. This is entirely feasible as trips 200 and even 350 miles a day without taxing the strength of driver or passengers are made today.

"The car to own is an easy-riding car of medium size, whether used for long distance traveling, short trips or city work. The expense is less and the pleasure is greater."

Reo trucks will carry the sightseers of the world at the coming Panama exposition. It was a truck in Tahiti that brought about this decision. Last summer a cocoanut grower in that mid-Pacific island decided to buy a Reo, equipped with a special body, and start a "rubberneck" service in Tahiti. This special body was constructed in Frisco. The maker of it was struck with the originality of the design, and put together a replica of it for a Frisco sightseeing company. As a result of the performance of that rubberneck during the past few months, the Frisco corporation is ordering a complete fleet of Reos to serve during the coming summer.

Two-thirds of the Buick Motor company's output of 32,000 cars have been sold and delivered, according to a statement issued by R. H. Collins, general sales manager. Mr. Collins said:

"Our deliveries for October exceeded any like period, and while November ordinarily marks the beginning of the inactive season in motor cars, our November deliveries exceeded October. December lacked only a few sales of reaching the November volume, and January deliveries exceeded the average for October, November and December more than 33 1-3 per cent. Even with the high mark set for the previous four months, February greatly exceeded any of these former periods, and we believe has set a new mark for winter cash deliveries in the automobile world.

"Today we have bonafide orders on our books to absorb every car we will be able to build in March and April. Cash deliveries for the last week in February totaled 1,226 cars."

"A tendency among a large class of buyers to want something a little different than standard models, is handicapping the production of many automobile factories," says G. C. Frey of the KisselKar. "Of course, we have to meet this demand, just as do all builders of high-grade cars, but I believe many make a mistake in not buying the standards. It stands to reason that the designer has given considerable thought to the subject and adopted equipment that seemed to him, as an expert, to best suit the requirements of harmony, quality and good taste."

A recent photograph shows about forty "screen favorites" crowded on this truck for a short run. The managers of the Universal company declare that the truck is indispensable.

Grand Marais will receive five cars on the first boat leaving Duluth. A. M. Anderson of Grand Marais has purchased the first car of the 1914 class to be used at this thriving lake port town. He has declared that during the coming summer he is going to plan a pilgrimage to the head waters of big Lake Superior in his automobile. If it is necessary to hew a pathway in getting here.

MONARCH-ELECT SHORT OF MONEY

New King of Albania Arranges All Preliminaries on Credit.

Berlin, March 28.—Europe has found amusement in the financial embarrassment of Prince William of Wied, who was forced to arrange all the preliminaries of his ascent to the throne of Albania on credit.

Not until the last moment before his departure from Berlin did the young monarch-elect succeed in getting any of the $1,000,000 loan which had been arranged by the powers. The result was that he was unable to meet the bill of $750 for moving his personal effects and furniture to the palace at Durazzo. The shipment was entrusted to the German agent of the Austrian state railways, who finally obtained orders from Vienna to send the bills for transportation to the Austrian foreign office.

Austria also paid the railway fares and hotel bills of the new monarch on his round of state visits to the capitals of Europe and furnished the steamer to take him to Durazzo. The gorgeous uniform which the prince designed for his state entry was turned out by the Austrian court tailor, and the Albanian notables, who came to the prince's German home at Neuwied to offer to him the crown, borrowed in Vienna the money for the first payment on that necessary piece of royal equipment.

The crown consists of a circlet of gold set with turquoises, above which are six intersecting arches of gold, supporting at the apex the "white star of Skanderbeg." Skanderbeg was the Albanian national hero and last defender of Christian and national interests in the Balkans against the invading Moslems. He spent his boyhood as a Turkish captive and embraced Mohammedanism, but finally escaped to Albania, organized an insurrection, and established an Albanian principality which he successfully defended against both Turks and Venetians for twenty-five years during the fifteenth century. Prince William's son and heir, Prince Carol Victor, born May 19, 1913, will, it is announced, be renamed Skanderbeg and ultimately become Skanderbeg II of Albania, should the kingdom continue its precarious existence until that time.

Good judges of Balkan conditions here assign an existence of not more than ten years to the new kingdom, and the German foreign office is convinced that William may even lose his life within that period.

TAXI-CABS NOW IN OPERATION IN ROME

Rome, March 28.—Taxi cabs have made their appearance in Rome, with a scale of prices remarkable for their reasonableness. In the day time the tariff is 14 cents for the first half mile, and then 2 cents for each additional six hundred feet. At night these rates are increased to 16 and 3 cents respectively. Three persons may ride at these prices. Extra persons above three pay 8 cents a trip. Two hundred of these vehicles already are in operation, and it is probably only a question of time when the well known Roman one-horse cab will be a thing of the past.

IS PELLAGRA DUE TO PARASITE IN WATER?

Rome, March 28.—Dr. Luigi Lambon of London is again in Italy to prove his theory that pellagra, a disease akin to elephantiasis and sometimes called Italian leprosy, is due to a parasite in potable water.

Dr. Lambon is widely known for his studies of malaria. He has devoted five years to the study of pellagra and he has in his employ a man servant suffering with pellagra on whom he is experimenting to prove his theory that the disease is neither contagious nor incurable. He will devote his time here this spring almost entirely to the study of infected water in the effort to discover the supposed parasite and find a means of exterminating it.

It has been asserted for years that pellagra comes from excessive consumption of Indian corn.

SKELETON OF A DOG OF THE STONE AGE

Rome, March 28.—The only complete skeleton in Italy of a dog of the Stone age is now on view in the Ancona museum. The animal, following its master, is believed to have roamed the valley of the Po several thousand years ago. Dog and man were buried together, and their bones are today displayed in the ancient tomb from which they were unearthed.

This "canis palustris Rutimeyer"—to give this ancient dog its official name—evidently is a cross between the dog of today and the jackal.

The skeleton of the man also is highly interesting because of the peculiar manner in which it is hunched together. The thigh bones are bent over the abdomen and the arms raised, with the hands over the face. It thus shows a striking resemblance to the skeletons of the same period found in Egypt.

WILLIE'S REASON.

Philadelphia Telegraph: That the average youngster is usually there with a ready reason was demonstrated the other day by a story told by Congressman John R. Walker of Idaho.

The family was gathered in the den of a happy little home in an Eastern town. Father was reading the sporting page; mother was embroidering pink sunflowers, and Willie was supposed to be getting his lessons, but Willie wasn't.

"Willie," suddenly exclaimed mamma, looking up from her embroidery, "have you studied your geography lesson?"

"No, ma'am," was the frank rejoinder of Willie, who was listening to something that sounded like great joy from the street.

"You haven't?" severely ersponded mother. "Well, why haven't you?"

"Because," exclaimed Willie, "papa says that the map of the world is changing every day, and I thought that I would wait until things got settled a bit."

WRONG FONT.

National Monthly: Mrs. Smith had asked Mr. Smith more than fifty times (so she said) when he was going to varnish her kitchen oil cloth. Finally, in desperation, one Saturday afternoon, he donned his overalls and went at it. Monday morning it had not dried a bit.

"Something is wrong with the varnish, Henry. Where did you put the can?"

"I set it back on the cellar shelf," he answered absently from the depths of a newspaper.

She came back into the room presently with the can and stood in front of him ominously quiet, he thought, so he looked up. She held the can toward him.

"Can't you read, Henry Smith? You varnished that kitchen oil cloth with pure Vermont maple syrup."

NERVOUS MEN

Restored to Health and Vigor!

Progressive Medical Doctors say: Every normally constituted and healthy man has a natural and abundant endowment of potential energy or reserve nerve power.

Units of nerve energy are drawn from the blood and stored in the cellular substance of the brain and ganglia for use in the performance of involuntary functions and voluntary action.

In the condition of absolute and perfect health, these reservoirs of vital power of nerves are well stored, and potential energy is so abundant that the whole physical or mental being is filled and thrilled with the triumphant consciousness of power.

Such a man possesses personal magnetism, and unconsciously inspires those who come into social or business relations with him with a feeling of his easy mastery over almost all conditions. The "American disease" is Neurasthenia, "brain fag," debility. Call it by what name you please, for we do not treat the name, but we do successfully treat the condition, and restore the patient to that health which is essential to his social and commercial success if he is to fill a man's place in the world.

The Napoleons of finance, the captains of industry, the men of affairs, are the ones most affected. Perfect health, however, is all-essential to the man of lower position, as well as to the one who aspires to the highest. Many a man fails on account of a physical handicap to achieve the ambitions for which his natural mental qualifications fit him. The connection between mind and body is so intimate and their interdependence so marked that physical perfection is essential to the greatest achievement.

The nerve-vital diseases include nervous debility, decline, insomnia, melancholia, and diseases of graver nature which involve the brain and spinal cord and are of a paralytic nature.

The associated pelvic diseases are: Stricture, bladder, prostatic and kidney disease; varicose veins, hydrocele, rupture (hernia), lithasis (gravel), and diseases of the lower bowel.

We have made the cure of men our study. The effect of the treatment is to cure those diseases and to restore men to the full enjoyment of nature's best gifts to the normal physical and mental conditions that characterize health. NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LEE OPENS CAMPAIGN

Republican Candidate for Governorship Speaks at Thief River Falls.

Says Brewery Interests and Public Service Corporations Run State.

Thief River Falls, March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—William E. Lee of Long Prairie, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, opened his campaign here last night when he delivered his first public speech since the recent Republican elimination conference in Minneapolis picked him to enter the primary race against Governor Eberhart. He spoke in the Auditorium which was crowded and certainly received an enthusiastic greeting in the Pennington county seat. Before the meeting a large crowd thronged the streets while the City band added to the interest of the occasion by playing several appropriate airs.

The meeting was opened by a short address by Attorney Guy Halvorson, who introduced Mr. Lee.

From the time the candidate took the floor until the conclusion of his speech he held the large audience in rapt attention. After a few opening remarks in which he urged the people of this county to progress along the line of diversified farming Mr. Lee dealt with matters of state government. Almost his first statement along this line of thought was that "every dollar of the peoples' money should bring 100 cents worth in results." He showed conclusively that the state administration has not been getting full value out of the expenditure of the peoples' money.

Want Government for People.

"Government for the grafter, and government for the people are two different things," said Mr. Lee, "and what the people of Minnesota are now wanting is government for the people."

Mr. Lee went on to show what the machine that is now running the state consists of: Brewing interests, public service corporations and officeseekers.

"You could not blame the people for conditions when they did not know such conditions exist, said the speaker, but now the people have their eyes open, it is the peoples' fault if they allow them to continue to exist," he declared.

The audience showed great interest in the speaker's discourse, which was considerate and brim-full of common sense from beginning to end.

VISIBLE TO WORLD.

Escanaba Astronomer Says Delaven's Comet Will Be Easily Seen.

Escanaba, Mich., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Novack, astronomer, of Escanaba, possessor of the largest telescope in the state, says that Delaven's comet will be visible to the world, beginning next September, and will be visible for several months. The sky-traveler was first seen last October, and has been traveling towards the earth at a rapid rate ever since and is still coming, but it will not be visible to the naked eye until next fall. Mr. Novack has been watching the comet at intervals ever since it was first reported.

Mr. Novack a short time ago obtained a fine photograph of Mars when the planet was within 60,000,000 miles of the earth, which is as near as it ever comes. He also procured an excellent photograph of Saturn.

The Escanaba astronomer has recently completed an eighteen-inch lens, upon which he had been working for three and one-half years. The lens is one of a pair he will make for a big new telescope. He is about to begin work on the second one.

OLD NORTHERN PACIFIC ENGINEER BREAKS LEG

ROBERT H. CARR,
Beside His Engine.

Brainerd, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert H. Carr, who has secured leave of absence of a couple of months to visit California, is the oldest engineer in point of service on the Northern Pacific railway. He was employed as a fireman Oct. 1, 1871, was promoted to engineer June 1, 1875, and has been continuously in service since that time. He has the Brainerd-Morris passenger run. Mr. Carr was one of several railway men who received a generous bequest from the late Judge G. W. Holland. Standing over six feet, robust and strong, alert and vigorous, Mr. Carr is the type of an engineer who has as rare command of himself as he has of his engine.

Letters received by friends in Brainerd state that Engineer Carr found Friday, March 13, a hoodoo. Crossing one of Los Angeles busiest streets, Mr. Carr passed an automobile towing a disabled machine and the tow rope tripped him. He broke a leg and severely injured the other and is now spending the balance of his vacation on a bed of pain in a hospital.

During the season just closed the team won thirteen of the fourteen games it played, the record being all the more remarkable because of the strength of the opposing teams. The season's success was due largely to the splendid defense developed early in the season and the accuracy of the players in shooting baskets.

Gossip Places Him at Head of North Dakota Bull Moose.

Fargo, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—"We will have a complete state ticket in the field this fall," declared A. Y. More, national Bull Moose committeeman for North Dakota. While he declined to discuss the personnel, it is generally conceded that H. H. Aaker of Fargo will be the nominee for governor.

An aggressive campaign is to be continued over the state by the Bull Moosers. Following recent tours of the state by speakers, Bainbridge Colby of New York, now campaigning in the Pacific coast states, will be here about the middle of April for three or four addresses in leading cities. He will be followed by a number of others.

Sheldon Water Contaminated.

Sheldon, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—An analysis of the surface well and the artesian well water at the school building shows the former badly contaminated and entirely unfit for drinking purposes. Some effort will be made to secure a more wholesome supply.

EXTRADITION IS NOW UP TO HANNA

Unless He Insists, Oregon's Governor Will Not Honor Requisition.

Salem, Or., March 28.—After examining evidence submitted with relation to an application made by North Dakota authorities for the extradition of McLain S. Cooper, Governor West announced today he would forward the evidence to Governor Hanna, with recommendations that he withdraw his requisition.

Hanna to Decide.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of extraditing McLain Cooper from Oregon to face charges of bribery here, will again be presented to Governor L. B. Hanna of North Dakota.

Governor West of Oregon, who heard Cooper's side of the case, has submitted to Governor Hanna the full text of the evidence, and if the North Dakota executive still desires to bring Cooper here, it is probable that extradition will be granted.

New Man in Case.

At the Oregon hearing, M. H. McGruder testified that he, and not McLain Cooper, was with J. A. Sullivan on Jan. 24 last, in a Portland hotel, when a certain conversation was held in connection with the alleged bribery of the jury. McLain Cooper also sought to establish an alibi so far as the Portland interview is concerned.

If Governor Hanna does not insist on the extradition of Cooper it is possible the local charges of jury bribing will be dropped.

Dr. Johnston will succeed Dean John F. Downey, who will retire after more than thirty years' continuous service in the institution.

The selection of Dr. Johnston for this position, considered next in importance to the presidency of the university itself, is a new departure in the practice at the Minnesota institution, other important deanships filled in the last several years having been supplied through selections from outside the state.

STAGELAND

Lyceum

One has to look a long, long way into the theatrical past to recall the debut of that funny pair, McIntyre and Heath on the stage. They will appear in John Cort's eleborate revival of "The Ham Tree" at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday, April 3 and4 , with a Saturday matinee. They were featured and headlined in the best vaudeville theaters long before most of the other famous "teams" of stageland ever had been heard of, and their methods haven't changed much in all that time, for which their audiences rejoice exceedingly. Time has ripened and improved them and they are funnier this year, in the midst of their brilliant company, with which John Cort has surrounded them, than they ever were of old, when just two of them were able to pack the biggest vaudeville houses in the country, and they prove anew this year their ability to hold the stage alone almost ad libitum, without wearying their friends in the auditorium. "The Ham Tree" is an elaboration of their old vaudeville sketch into a rattling good entertainment with up-to-date music and it is claimed one of the most agile feminine choruses Ned Weyburn ever trained. This chorus was chosen for its ability to sing and dance, as well as to look pretty.

The performance is a modern musical comedy, running on high gear all the time to an accompaniment of laughter, and shows how well George V. Hobart, William Jerome and Jean Schwartz have done their work in furnishing funny situations, catchy songs and whistleable music, gorgeous costumes and new features. It does not take long to discover the significance of the title of the entertainment, for it transpires that a "Ham Tree" is an imaginary tree supposed to grow hams about 300 miles away from where a minstrel troupe is stranded with only a trunk, a bass drum and a Jews-harp, and it is only the hope of meeting the trees that keeps up the courage of the stranded pair as they tramp the ties. Duluth has seen the show before when it was under the management of Klaw & Erlanger and approved it. It has been elaborated anew by John Cort this season, with the jiggiest of music, gorgeous costumes, new features and a notable cast including Edward Wade, Arthur Barry, John Lorenz, Ted Holmes, Otto Appel Johnson, George C. Youngman, Edward S. Holden, Norman Woodward, Mildred Beverly, Lulu Wells and Mabel Elain.

Rachael Marshall's new play, "The Traffic," which will come to the Lyceum for a return date on April 5, 6 and 7, created a positive sensation in Chicago, where it has been playing nightly to crowded houses.

Rachael Marshall, the young author of the new piece, is a descendant of Chief Justice Marshall, a colleague and follower of Jane Addams of Hull House, a writer of many successful short stories, sketches and essays and a woman of intense sincerity and indomitable energy in the cause of her sex.

"The Traffic" deals with so-called white slavery, but approaches the topic from an industrial rather than from a strictly ethical standpoint.

That it has fulfilled the promise that it portrays the naked truth about the commerce in girls, but that it has surpassed expectations in the superiority of its company of players and in the stage craft of its presentation has been attested to by no less personages than Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britten of Hull House, Lieutenant Governor Barrett O'Hara of Illinois, Maj. Funkhouser of the Chicago police department, William A. Pinkerton and others prominently identified with social and public life of the city and state, who see in "The Traffic" a play that can accomplish much towards bettering a condition that has shocked all thinking men and women of the age. It created much comment in Duluth on its former appearance here.

Theatergoers will have their first opportunity of seeing Oliver Morosco's production of J. Hartley Manners' comedy of youth, 'Peg o' My Heart," Laurette Taylor's perpetual success which is now in its second year at New York's Cort theater, in the company which comes to the Lyceum in April.

Florence Martin will be found in the part of "Peg," a pet name given to a New York girl of Irish descent, who goes to make her abode with the Chichesters, an ultra-fashionable English family, in order to fulfill a will which has left her a fortune at the expense of the Chichesters. As only natural the English people take a dislike to the little Irish girl and try to make her life as hard as possible, with the result that she makes up her mind to return to America.

Just in the nick of time, however, Peg falls in love with Jerry, a very likeable youth who determines that she shall stay in England and as his wife, and the curtain descends to the music of wedding bells in the future, leaving Peg in the midst of a family which she has won.

The Chichesters are three in number—the mother, played by Miss Isabel Vernon; the son, Alaric, played by Mr. Colin Campbell, and Ethel, in the person of Maude Allen; Jerry, who falls in love with Peg, is Mr. Fred L. Tiden; an attorney who is to see that the will leaving Peg a rich woman is carried out is played by Reginald Carrington; the footman, Jarvis, is John Lyons; Miss Nelle Horan, as the maid, and Mr. Pell Trenton, as the married man who is in love with Ethel.

In "Peg o' My Heart," the producer has given an excellent stage setting, both in the costumes and scene of the piece which shows the living room of an English home in Scarboro, England. The standard established is costly.

Since the first announcement of the coming of "Little Women" to the Lyceum, unusual interest has been shown and already many mail orders have been received from surrounding towns. Marian de Forest, a well-known magazine and newspaper writer of Buffalo, has dramatized the book and William A. Brady, who made the production, promises that the breeziness and charm of the familiar story have been faithfully retained. Mr. Brady has been most careful in his selection of "types" to portray Jo, Meg, Beth and Amy, and all the other characters over whose joys and struggles so many millions of readers have laughed and wept. Special attention has also been given to a faithful staging of the scenes which are so well described in the book.

Among the attractions to be seen at the Lyceum during April is the Shuberts production of Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird," as produced at the New theater, and an excellent company in "Damaged Goods," the play that has caused so much discussion throughout the country.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and her company are one of the attractions at the Lyceum early in May.

BLOSSOMS FROM "THE HAM TREE" AND McINTYRE & HEATH AT THE LYCEUM NEXT FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

Orpheum

Headlining next week's bill at the Duluth Orpheum will be Robert T. Haines, one of the most widely known of modern American actors.

Mr. Haines has had previous experience in vaudeville. He left the so-called legitimate ranks to present a one-act play entitled "The Coward" which proved quite successful, but it was not entirely satisfactory to Mr. Haines. He was constantly looking for a new vehicle, and finally induced William J. Hurlbut to write "The Man in the Dark" for him. In this dramatic sketch Mr. Haines is said to be as happily cast as he has ever been in any of his more ambitious offerings. It is a comedy drama, and is said to be in a class by itself among such sketches this season. The man in question is a suave, bland and mysterious person with a Quixotic touch. He philosophises without preaching and is funny without flippancy. Vaudeville critics have almost universally praised both Mr. Hurlbut's sketch and Mr. Haines' work in it. The interest is said to be quite grippingly sustained until the final curtain, and the lines and situations are said to be of such a type as to cause the sketch to be ranked among the best one-act plays of recent years. Mr. Haines is supported by a company said to be fully adequate. The only feminine role is taken by Esther Van Eytinge, and she has been sharing honors with Mr. Haines in the playlet.

Mr. Haines is one of the best known leading men on the American stage, and has supported such actresses as Viola Allen and Mrs. Fiske, with both of whom he appeared in the principal male parts. He has also been featured in many dramatic productions.

The big comedy hit of next week's bill is expected to be offered by James McCormack and Eleanor Irving. It is called a "vaudeville breeze," being a little nautical sketch entitled "Between Decks." The sketch is for laughing purposes only and is said to fulfill its mission.

Song and dance acts are necessarily of much the same general type, but their success or failure depends entirely upon the personality of the performers. J. Hunter Wilson and Effie Pearson are said to have the necessary magnetism to attract an audience, and they have been one of the favorite team acts over the circuit this season. The Kramers will offer what is said to be a decidedly graceful gymnastic exhibition. The young woman is heralded as being beautiful in both face and figure, but nevertheless capable of performing her part in the gymnastic work which she performs with her two male assistants.

One of the features of the new bill will be the first appearance in Duluth of Miss Nina Barbour, known as "The Sweetshop Prima Donna." Miss Barbour was rescued from an East Side sewing shop in New York city by Mary Nash, the actress. She is a very slender and tiny young woman, but is said to have a remarkable voice of very low register. Her voice is a deep baritone and has created nothing short of a sensation on the vaudeville circuits this season. Miss Barbour has an offering somewhat different from the average vaudeville singing act. The turn is called "From Sweatshop to Music Hall," and faithfully depicts her own experience in New York city. The scene is laid in a room overlooking Trinity church, and in the distance are heard the strains of the organ. The girl begins to sing, and then the scene changes and she appears in evening clothes as she appeared at the Palace theater, New York, when she made her debut, and delighted New York vaudeville patrons.

A comedy sketch entitled "The Tower," will be presented by Mabel Florence, and Beresford Lovett. It is a new act on the circuit, coming to Duluth from New York.

The Belleclaire Brothers, two remarkable athletes who have been seen at the Duluth Orpheum on a previous occasion, will return next week with a new act.

The new Orpheum motion picture service known as the Hearst-Selig Pictorial Review will complete the bill, which will open with the Sunday matinee and continue all week with a daily matinee.

ROBERT T. HAINES,
Who Will Headline the Orpheum Bill Next Week in the One-Act Play, "The Man in the Dark."

AT EMPRESS

"A Hot Old Time," a tabloid musical comedy will open a four-day stay at the Empress with a matinee Sunday.

Play-goers are favorably impressed with this tabloid musical comedy. Its story is interesting, its features are said to be new and its music and lyrics are catchy. Among its features is the tango. The many song hits include the "Ragging of the Nursey Rhymes," "Lonesome Baby," "Mother's Gone to Join the Army," Ragtime Sailor Boy," "The Irish Tango," and others. The cast includes many well-known and principals, and the chorus has an array of pretty girls who know how to sing and dance.

Johnston, Howard and Lisetette will appear at the Empress beginning Thursday matinee, April 2. This team of merry tramps who perform "a feat or two, with a laugh or two, on a bar or two" is heralded far and wide as an amusing, entertaining, and laughable act.

Little Nell Burt, who was associated with William Farnum during his recent starring tour in "The Littlest Rebel," (Miss Burt playing the title role) is a stickler for detail and atmosphere, two of the most essential qualities known to stage craft. This season the little lady is appearing in vaudeville, playing a street waif in a comedy dramatic playlet, entitled, "The Redemption of Mame," and when it came to costuming the character, Miss Burt, accompanied by her mother, made a trip to New York city's lower East Side in search of the "real thing in waif's dresses" and after putting in three long hours, looking for "typs" they located a child of the right age and dress and secured the entire outfit and in doing so, created a "new belle of the bowery" as Little Nell dressed the waif entirely new from shoes to hat, and it is safe to say there was "some parade," on the bowery for a few days. Miss Burt will wear her cherished costume during her engagement at the Empress theater on April 2-3-4.

• • •

The Empress management for next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 2, 3 and 4, has booked Lillian Doone, a Scotch woman, who has been called "the maid of mystery" because of her telepathic powers. Miss Doone will endeavor to locate lost articles, missing people and to read things uppermost in the minds of those who come to seek her help.

• • •

Conspicuous among the acts booked for April 2, 3 and 4 at the Empress theater is the new feature, John A. West and his singing wolf. His offering consists of a collection of stories and musical selections on a variety of instruments, and he introduces a wolf, which sings to his horn accompaniment.

• • •

A story of the East, "Slaves of the Orient," will be the attraction at the Empress on April 5, 6, 7 and 8. The scenes are laid in Egypt.

• • •

"Marked Money," a play in one act which will be seen at the Empress theater on Thursday, April 9, 10 and 11, is by John J. O'Connor, author of numerous successful sketches and a newspaper man of wide experience.

AT THE REX

Something out of the ordinary is promised for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Rex. The title is "Won in the CClouds" and it might be called "Three Thousand Feet of Thrills," from the number of exciting events it shows. Lions and elephants are seen from an airship; there is a battle with natives from an airship and at the close of the three-part story, the whole native village is blown up with lyddite bombs dropped from an airship. The well known Knabenshue dirigible balloon was secured at a great expense to make this picture but the result is well worth the big money it cost.

Chapter X, of "Our Mutual Girl" shows the pretty Margaret selecting her Easter bonnet. Duluth Easter bonnetts may be radical but the New York Mutual girl bonnet is said to surpass the most radical.

Mary Pickford, the Duluth movie favorite, will delight Rex folks as "Tess," the wild, motherless little elf, in "Tess of the Storm Country." This is a play that brings out to the fullest "Little Mary's" quaint philosophy of life, at once humorous and pathetic. Tess is an elemental type of womanhood, a primitive heart struggling with modern conditions and the delicate tortutres of civilization. When Little Mary as Tess makes her plea "Dear Goddy: Please take my little white rabbit to Heaven," there is a something that brings both the tears and laughs. And when the Elder Graves denounces Tess and the fatherless child she holds to her breast—the last bridge is down and nothing counts but the heroism of Tess. Needless to say when Tess pardons the Elder with "When Woman Luvs They Always Forgives" told as only Mary can tell it on the screen, every woman will know it is true and the men folks are sure of it by experience. The end of the play leaves everybody happy and smiling for Tess finds the reward of her faith in a great love and happiness.

Fine Show at Happy Hour.

Two excellent acts of vaudeville together with several feature pictures are on the program for the Happy Hour theater for this evening and tomorrow. The vaudeville on the bill has pleased large audiences since they opened Thursday and are said to rank among the best that has played at this popular little theater this winter. Lane and Howard, the premier banjo artist as they style themselves, play a style of music that gives them a high rank among banjo players. They play all the popular airs and are also classy dancers thus giving a delightful entertainment. Shepherd and Edward in a comedy singing and dancing act are received with much applause. The portrait of Anita, a Mexican drama in two parts produced by the Majestic company, gives the Happy Hour an especially strong program for tonight and Sunday.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

William A. Brady is about to put over a new plai in the way of trying out plays. He has recently obtained the stage rights of Louis J. Vance's novel, "The Lone Wolf," and in the way of a try-out will produce it as a moving-picture drama first.

The revived play, "The Red Canary," will be seen April 6 at the Lyric theater, New York.

Amelia Stone and Armand Kalisz reopened a vaudeville engagement in London, scoring a hit.

Ruth St. Denis is said to be contemplating the abondonment of her present style of reptilian dances, in order to take up the modern ballroom versions of the terpsichorean art.

Lydia Kyasht, the dancer, is considering going into vaudeville as soon as her present engagement with the current Winter Garden production ends.

A. H. Woods has secured the latest play from the pen of Eugene Walter. It is an extremely sensational drama which is entitled "The Knife." The story tells of a surgeon who believes that criminals condemned to death should be made the subjects of vivisection for the good of humanity. He has made the discovery that by inoculating a human being with a certain germ he would procure a toxin that would be a cure for a much-dreaded disease. The surgeon's bride falls a victim to the wiles of a white slaver just before the wedding. Instead of killing the criminal, as was his first intention, he has him conveyed to a hospital, where he inoculates him with a deadly germ, and with the serum derived in this manner he is able to effect many cures. He is charged with murder, but the reports of many recoveries by means of his treatment comes just in the nick of time to effect his release on account of the good he has done.

Fanny Ward's present season in "Madam President" will come to a close at the end of this week. The same play will serve as Miss Ward's vehicle next season, when she expects to make a tour with it from coast to coast.

• • •

Charles Frohman has found a new piece for his star, Otis Skinner. It is Galsworthy's latest effort, "The Mob." Universal peace, the abolishment of armies and the substitution of reason for physical force are the underlying principles of "The Mob." Mr. Skinner will make his debut in the play at the National theater in Washington Oct. 12.

• • •

Lottie Collins, Jr., the daughter of the Lottie of "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-aye" fame, will soon make her vaudeville debut.

Andreas Dippel has contracted for the American rights of the new opera which Puccini is writing. Its title is sible for the book of "The Dollar Princwork of Willner, who is also respon- "The Swallow," and the libretto is the cess," "Gypsy Love" and "The Count of Luxembourg." Of peculiar interest in connection with this announcement is the fact that Puccini has in this instance for the first time overlooked the publishers of his previous works, G. Ricordi & Co. It will be published by an Austrian firm, who, it is claimed, are to pay Puccini $40,000 for it. He is also to receive half of the profits resulting from the publication end. The new work is to be ready in about a year.

• • •

Margaret Mayo, author of "Baby Mine" and "Polly of the Circus," is putting the finishing touches on a new comedy. "The Lookers-on," that Selwyn & Co. will produce. Miss Mayo's play deals with that rapidly increasing class of new-rich Americans, who believe their wealth will be an open-sesame to the inner shrines of the Smart Set, until they arrive and find the gates closed in their faces. Negotiations are in progress with one of the most prominent actresses in America for the leading role in "Lookers-on." It is expected that the play will be seen on Broadway early next fall.

• • •

Klaw & Erlanger have entered into arrangements with Henry Miller for a term of five years, by which they will jointly make a number of productions under the personal supervision of Mr. Miller. The organization will be shown as the Henry Miller company, and the first attraction to be exploited is Miss Ruth Chatterson in "Daddy Long Legs," by Jean Webster, which is at present in its Chicago season at Power's theater. Mr. Miller hereafter will have his offices in New Amsterdam Theater building, New York, where he will direct the stage affairs of this organization, and on those occasions when he goes on his own starring tours, as heretofore, he will continue to be under the management of Klaw & Erlanger.

• • •

Elsie Ferguson is still playing in "The Strange Woman," the comedy by William Hurlbut, in which she scored such a notable success at the Criterion and Gayety theaters in New York earlier in the season. It was planned that Miss Ferguson should appear in the new play, "The Unseen Empire," this spring, but as the production of that play was found to be of an unusually elaborte nature, it was decided to defer it until next season.

• • •

Selwyn & Co. have acquired Howard's Comedy theater in Chicago, and in future all bookings for this house will be under their sole management. The arrangement for this theater, together with existing agreements with John Cort for the Cort theater in Boston and the Cort theater in New York, will give Selwyn & Co. theaters in each of these important cities, in which to make any of their future productions.

"The Deadlock," featuring Edith Wynne Matthison, closed recently at Chicago.

According to rumors the principal reason for the abrupt closing of Cyril Maude's American tour next month is to be found in misunderstandings between him and George C. Tyler.

• • •

Francis Wilson will return to the stage at the end of this month, when he will give a new vehicle for the exploitation of his talents a try-out. It will be assisted by Amelia Gardner and Arthur Elliott. The try-out is to take place at Reading, Pa., and the name of the play is "The Myd Mystery."

Grace Filkins has started suit against the New Era Producing company, which is under the direction of Joseph P. Bickerton, and backed by the "baking powder king," William Ziegler. She claims that according to agreement she was to be starred in "The Rule of Three," one of the company's productions, but that the agreement was not kept.

Off again, on again. So it seems to be with the much talked-of revival of "The Girl from Kay's," which is being planned by Sam Bernard. However, the last report received seems to have a solid foundation. It is to the effect that the production will take place, opening in New York March 30, after a run of a few days outside. This report has received further confirmation in Cincinnati through a letter received by Al V. Lane from his daughter, Margy, who is to be a member of the cast. It is said that Gaby has been persuaded to give up her European trip for the time being for the purpose of assuming the role assigned to her in the production. It is further stated that she is to receive $4,000 per week for her services. She has also desisted from the first demands that Harry Pilcer, her partner, be assigned the juvenile lead. Cecilia Loftus is to play the title role. On the whole, the cast is one of the most expensive ever seen in any one production.

A curious situation arose in Brooklyn recently, when two theaters in that city announced the same play as the week's attraction. The houses in question are the Broadway and the De Kalb, and the attraction is Gus Hill's "Bringing Up Father." The Broadway is booked by Klaw & Erlanger, and the De Kalb by the Shuberts. On account if the existing rivalry between these concerns the situation is the more interesting. There were threats of a law suit.

• • •

Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks have entered into a contract to produce "Cordelia Blossom," a comedy in four acts by George Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester. The play is based, of course, upon Mr. Chester's very popular "Cordelia Blossom" stories. It will be produced upon an elaborate scale under the stage direction of John Emerson and have its first hearing Easter week.

C. E. Schmid, the manager of the German Theater company, has just returned from New York and is very much pleased with the results of his trip. Mr. Schmid was very cordially received by Rudolph Christians, manager of the Irving Place theater and formerly a prominent member of the Imperial Court theater in Berlin. Mr. Christians has consented to come to Cincinnati and will appear in one of his best parts before the German theater-goers of this city, Sunday, April 5.

Mr. Schmid was also the guest of August Luechow, the German theater king of New York, who spent quite a fortune out of his own pocket in order to uphold the institution. Mr. Schmid's negotiations with several New York theater magnates and the American representatives of the German theater firms proved quite successful. Mr. Schmid bought the rights of production of a good many of the latest dramas, comedies and operettas, to be produced in this city partly this season and partly next season.

One of the most interesting events of the present season will be the production of "Kaesernluft," a German military drama which was presented fifty-nine times in New York, a record which was never before reached in the history of the German theater in this country. "Kaesernluft" will be presented to the Cincinnati public in a very short time.

INSANITY TO BE THE PLEA

Porter Charlton's Defense Outlined By His Italian Lawyers.

Say Aberration Upset Normal Faculties of the Accused.

Como, Italy, March 28.—Porter Charlton, the young American, who killed his wife, Mary Scott Charlton, when they were spending their honeymoon here in June, 1910, has acquired a sufficient knowledge of Italian to avail himself of the privilege under the Italian law to be the first and the last to address the jurors before whom he is to be tried on the charge of murder.

Sympathy for the accused youth has been demonstrated frequently during his detention in the San Donneno jail, since extradition from the United States last August. While Charlton has been studying the language of the country his lawyers have been working up public opinion in his favor. The effect is apparent. Visitors to the jail are many and privileges have been granted to the prisoner by the director and keepers of the jail. His meals are served from the outside. Good food and daily exercise in the court yard of the palace of justice have kept him in fine health.

It may be mid-summer before the case is tried, delays being due to extended investigations undertaken by both sides.

Twenty Witnesses Subpoenaed.

Charlton's lawyers have been getting in touch with numerous witnesses in America. Twenty of them have been subpoenaed, and it is expected that several may appear personally before the court of assizes at Como to contribute their testimony as to the psychological condition of the accused.

While the case is new in the sense that it is the first time an American citizen has been extradited and tried in Italy, it does not differ greatly from the so-called crimes of passion so frequent here.

"Studying the terrible drama, we have become convinced and will demonstrate" says Charlton's lawyers in a sketch of the theories they will pursue, "that an obscure and inevitable fatality presides over these awful crimes, which go from love to death, from the idyl to the tragedy, by which a human life is suddenly cut short by the hand of a creature who loved, and who still passionately loves, and who after the crime remains terrified, weakened, and stunned by what he has done, incapable of believing that the blood was shed by him.

"Charlton, of weak character, inexperienced, overwhelmed by the artful attractions of Mary Scott, was captured by an almost pathological fascination, had his conscience weakened and enslaved and became the easy tool of incoherent and illogical excesses.

In State of "Moral Infancy."

"To prove this we have added to the documents of the trial the interviews with Dr. Procaccini, major in the royal navy, who traveled as royal commissioner aboard the steamer which brought Charlton from New York to Naples. Dr. Procaccini, after having studied Charlton for about two weeks, expressed the opinion that at the time of the crime he was in a state of 'moral infancy,' and therefore in a condition of not realizing the enormity of what he had done.

"In the majority of cases these crimes arouse the pity, not the severity of the jurors. If the accused is acquitted the reason will not be found in sentimentality or distortion of the human sense of justice, but rather in the conviction of the jurors that human agencies should not inflict further penalties upon the man before them who, having made a victim of another, is himself the victim of an inexorable fate.

"We shall prove before the court of assizes that the Charlton drama is due to aberration which upset the normal mental faculties of the accused. This will clearly appear from the interregation of witnesses, and our contention will be further supported by the testimony of Italian alienists."

EXTENSION OF ELECTRIC LINE

Minnesota Central Directors Decide to Build to Cuyuna and Beyond.

At a meeting this morning of the directors of the Minnesota Central Railway company in the Alworth building, it was decided to add about seven miles of trackage to the original plans of the Cuyuna range electric railway, so as to provide for a branch line from Ironton-Crosby to Cuyuna and beyond that village to the rich manganese district, including Manganese and Iron Mountain townsites. This will make the total length of the line from 42 to 45 miles, depending upon whether the line is run over the north range or the South range in connecting up the city of Brainerd with the range towns.

Joseph Ferrier, vice president and treasurer of the company, who is an experienced railroad contractor, and who will have charge of the construction of the new road, was authorized to put his engineering staff to work as soon as the frost is out of the ground, which will probably be in about two weeks.

George Reid, president of the company, reported to the directors that three groups of big capital in Chicago, New York and Boston, which make a business of financing electric lines, are ready to send their traffic engineers to the Cuyuna range as soon as the engineering work has been completed and profile maps of the route are ready. He said that while the company, under its franchise from Brainerd, must construct a street railway in that city not less than five miles in length, these five miles would really be part of a continuous interurban system, and that the only added cost, so far as Brainerd is concerned, would be the operation of extra cars within the city limits so as to give satisfactory service to the city. Mr. Reid estimated the population to be served by the road to be not less than 50,000 people within five years, not including the population of Brainerd, which he believed would be at least 15,000 people in five years.

In giving figures of traffic on Minnesota electric lines, Mr. Reid said the Dan Patch line, built for fifty-two miles from Minneapolis toward Rochester, was doing a business of $13,000 a month, or $250 per mile per month, and was considered a great success; whereas the Mesaba range road was doing a business of $21,000 per month, equivalent to about $600 per mile per month, a traffic more than twice as heavy as the Dan Patch line. He predicted that the Cuyuna range line would prove as profitable as the Mesaba range road.

PRACTICABLE DYEING.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Where there are many children in the family, it is economy to do considerable dyeing. Many a faded muslin can be made to appear in a fresh color. Light evening frocks can be dyed a darker shade and serve for school or afternoon wear. Remember to dye at the same time any extra piece of material to serve for altering or patching, as it is almost impossible to match a dyed material.

White or cream-colored ribbon or flowers may be given a beautiful shrimp-pink shade by dipping in water into which red ink has been dropped. Ordinarily liquid wash bluing used in the same way will tint feathers, wings, etc., a pretty pale blue.

HELD TO WHAT HE HAD.

Boston Globe: There is a young physician who has never been able to smoke a cigar. "Just one poisons me," says the youthful doctor.

Recently the doctor was invited to a large dinner party. When the women had left the table cigars were accepted by all the men except the physician. Seeing his friend refuse the cigar, the host in astonishment exclaimed:

"What! not smoking? Why, my dear fellow, you lose half your dinner!"

"Yes, I know I do," meekly replied the doctor, "but if I smoked one I should lose the whole of it!"

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"I am writing to let you know how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance. I suffered from a female trouble and always had pains in my back, no appetite and at times was very weak.

"I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day. Everybody is asking me what I am doing and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may publish this letter if you wish and I hope others who have the same complaint will see it and get health from your medicine as I did."—Mrs. A. HORNUNG 91 Stanton St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Was A Blessing To This Woman.

So. RICHMOND, VA.—"I was troubled with a bearing down pain and a female weakness and could not stand long on my feet. Of all the medicines I took nothing helped me like Lydia E. TYLER, 23 West Clopton St., South Richmond, Va.

Pains in Side, Could Hardly Stand.

LODI, WIS.—"I was in a bad condition, suffering from a female trouble, and I had such pains in my sides I could hardly move. Before I had taken the whole of one bottle of Lydia E. FACE BROKE OUT WITH PIMPLES

Would Enlarge to About Four Times Their Size. Itched Very Much and Cracked Open. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Short Time Cured.

R. F. D. No. 1, Thurston, Ohio.—"About a year ago my face broke out with small pimples. They were about as big as the head of a pin when first noticed, and would enlarge to about four times that size. A yellow fluid would gather in them and I could open them. This enlarged the sores and caused large scabs over my face. When it would commence to dry up it would itch very much and then crack open around the scab making a very sore spot.

"I tried several different salves and ointments but none of them did any permanent good. At last I sent for some Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I used according to directions and in a short time I was completely cured and it did not even leave a scar." (Signed) Miss E. Irena Thomen, June 16, 1913.

USES PITCHFORK TO KILL HIMSELF

Chisholm Man Hurls Body Against Tines and Is Impaled.

Chisholm, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Samuel Rogles, who has figured in the local courts because of ill-treatment of his wife, having been fined for beating her with a club, ended his earthly troubles in an unusual manner yesterday by impaling himself upon a stable fork in a neighbor's barn, near the Great Northern depot. He had apparently placed the fork against the floor, tines up, then hurled himself against the sharp points, the middle tine penetrating his throat and coming out through the neck on the other side. He had bled to death when found. Deputy Coroner Kirk was notified of the case about noon yesterday and after an investigation pronounced its suicide and deemed an inquest unnecessary.

At the last time Rogles was arraigned before Judge Masters for wife-beating, he was given a severe fine by Judge Masters and upon paying his fine was released.

Wife Arose Too Early.

His excuse for beating his wife at that time was that she was guilty of getting up early in the morning and getting her breakfast and after so doing leaving a hot fire when she went to work about 7:30. He admitted that he had worked but little and that he laid abed until late. He charged his wife with trying to set the house afire with the hot stove.

Mrs. Rogles has had a stormy career since coming to Chisholm. She was charged three years ago with causing the death of Joe Apich, her first husband, by poisoning him. No evidence at the grand jury investigation was disclosed to bind her over and she was released, but the society to which Apich belonged refused to pay over the insurance.

SCHOOL IS TOTAL LOSS

Superior Normal and Its Contents Reduced to Ashes.

Defective Wiring Blamed—Loss About $350,000—Duluth Aids.

The Superior state normal school was totally destroyed by fire which broke out at 11:15 o'clock last night entailing a loss on the building estimated at about $250,000 and its contents at about $100,000.

Defective wiring in an office adjoining the kindergarten department is believed to have started the blaze. It was in this room that the fire was first discovered by Tim Tubridy, the night watchman, who attempted to check the flames with the use of chemical apparatus in the building.

The alarms were turned in by Grace Geary and Leonard Moran, who saw the flames at about the same time. When the department arrived the fire had spread through the entire lower part of the building and was rapidly working its way to the top. By midnight the walls of the institution had fallen leaving the site a mass of smouldering ruins.

Every available fireman and all equipment in the city were called on to fight the flames which were being fanned to a high pitch by a strong northeast wind. Assistance was also secured from Duluth which sent over its hose cart from headquarters as well as Engine No. 2.

It is estimated that the fire will cost the state close to $350,000. The building was originally built in 1896 at a cost of $150,000 and last year an addition costing $100,000 was added, its furnishings consisting of laboratory equipment, chemicals, books, desks, chairs and educational equipment are a total loss.

No one was injured in the fire. The watchman was the only person in the building at the time the fire broke out, the last student having left the building at 9:30 o'clock. Considerable fear was held out that the high wind might drive flames to homes west of the building and the hundreds of watchers were kept back by a cordon of police.

The loss of the building will fall directly on the state. The state of Wisconsin carries all of its own insurance on public buildings and maintains a fund which covers such fires exclusively.

It is probable that the school courses will have to be discontinued for some time to come, unless provision can be made for taking care of the students in some of the local public schools or public buildings.

Plans will be made to have the building rebuilt at once according to statements made by officials of the normal this morning.

PREPARING FOR RUSH.

Transcontinental Roads Make Passenger Rates for 1915.

The railroads upon which will fall, the burden of transportation of everybody East of the Rockies who will go to the Panama exposition in San Francisco next year, have already made arrangements as to rates and time; and are announcing arrangements in a tentative way, because of the fact, they claim, that inquiries are already coming in thick and fast.

The Union Pacific has issued the advice that at a meeting of the Trans-Continental Passenger association, it was decided that excursion tickets will be sold March 1 to Nov. 30, 1915, with the return limit placed at three months. In no case will the return limit be later than Dec. 31, however. The tickets will be sold to San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles, and San Diego over the same routes and conditions as were the special season excursion tickets last year with the usual Shasta route and other arbitraries. The rates will be classes as follows:

From Missouri river points, $50; St. Louis, $57.50; Peoria, $59.25; Chicago, $62.50; Colorado, $45; and Utah, $45.

This will make the rate from Duluth just about the same as the Chicago rate.

DEBS IS COMING DURING APRIL.

The Socialists will bring Eugene V. Debs to Duluth some time next month to aid them in the primary campaign. The Debs meeting will likely be held in the Auditorium. Debs' well-known ability as an orator and campaigner, local Socialists believe, will be a big help towards increasing the Socialist vote in Duluth. Other prominent leaders of the Socialist party will be brought to this section of Minnesota, this being considered a fertile ground for the spread of Socialist propaganda.

The speaker for the annual May day celebration has not been selected, although the committee in charge is in communication with several prominent men.

An international dance will be given at the Auditorium next Wednesday evening under the auspices of the city central committee of the Socialist party. The central committee is composed of the English, Scandinavian, Finnish and Jewish branches.

Haiti Has Paid.

Washington, March 28.—The state department has been notified that the Haitien government last Wednesday paid the defaulted interest for February on its national railroad bonds, with the addition of the interest to March 24. The report did not say how the money had been raised.

TAKE SODA FOR SOURNESS, GAS OR INDIGESTION

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, gas, gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

To get instant relief he tells us to get a package of 10 grain Sodagen tablets at any pharmacy and take one or two tablets any time, followed by a tumbler of water which promptly neutralizes this irritating acid; stops fermentation; absorbs the gases and sweetens the entire digestive system.

A local down-town druggist states that these 10 grain Sodagen tablets are an old favorite antacid constantly prescribed because of their harmlessness, being simply a compound of Soda, Calcium Carbonate and Magnesia U. S. P.

The last week has been marked by music, lectures and club meetings.

The regular program of the Matinee Musicale Monday and the Request program of that club Tuesday evening ushered in a musical week that was brought to a close this afternoon by the vaudeville entertainment given by the student members of the Matinee Musicale with selections from the "Mikado," dancing and local hits, without which no vaudeville is complete. Rev. W. F. Hovis' lecture on the "Short Story" before the Twentieth Century club was the chief literary event of the week. If the talk on "The Extermination of the Fly" given by Prof. F. L. Washburn, state entomologist, is a good indication it must be that summer, or at least spring, is not far off.

The Dalcroze system of rythmic gymnastics will receive its first explanation and demonstration in Duluth Monday when Miss Minnie Lawson of Minneapolis will lecture on the subject and a small pupil will show the practical applications of the German professor's theories. There are very few social functions scheduled for next week and many of the club meetings will be confined to business sessions. The quiet of the next two weeks will come to a close with Easter Sunday.

EMINENT CHICAGO MUSICIANS WILL ASSIST APOLLO CLUB

RUDOLPH REUTER, PIANIST, STANDING. I. BERGER, VIOLINIST, AND HANS WAGNER, CELLIST, SEATED.

THE executive board of the Apollo club yesterday signed a contract which insures the engagement of the Chicago Trio for the annual concert, to be given in the First M. E. church on the evening of April 14.

The Chicago Trio is composed of three eminent concert instrumentalists, Rudolph Reuter, pianist, Isador Berger, violinist, and Hans Wagner, cellist. All of these artists are known as soloists with the Theodore Thomas orchestra, now known as the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Hans Wagner has toured with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Rudolph Reuter is engaged for an appearance with the same organization, under the direction of the conductor, Frederick Stock. Berger, the violinist, will appear as soloist with the orchestra in the fall on the occasion of their special concert given in the honor of American composers and American artists. On this occasion Glen Dillard Gunn, pianist, and music critic of the Chicago Tribune, will conduct the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Berger will present for the first time the new concerto by Henry Schoenfeld, one of America's foremost composers. The event will be unique in the fact that it is the first event on record of an American concerto being presented for the first time with an American violinist and American orchestra assisting.

Rudolph Berger began his career as a boy virtuoso, having a trio at the age of 15. Abroad he studied under Cesar Thompson, Wilhelmj, and Sauret, the world's greatest teachers of the violin. Since his return to America he has given many recitals and has presented as the triumph of his work a complete series of all the great concertos that have been written for the violin, from the seventeenth century to date. These he will next season give before several leading universities. Berger has written and had published many educational works, the most notable of which is his "One Hundred Fundamental Studies for the Violin and Bow." Before his American triumphs Berger won the first prize offered by the Brussells conservatory, in competition with violinists from all over the world.

Rudolph Reuter is another young American who not only achieved success in Europe, but was appointed by the Japanese government as the director of the Imperial conservatories recently organized by the progressive Japanese government. After some time in Japan he returned to Berlin, and on the advice of Frederick Stock, of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, came to America. Since his arrival here he has appeared many times in Chicago and throughout the Central West.

Hans Wagner, the cellist, has had wide experience in ensemble work and as a soloist. In addition to his appearances with the Thomas orchestra there is to be remembered his solo work in the Metropolitan opera house, N. Y., and various appearances at the Toronto festivals and in Minneapolis and St. Paul where he is a popular favorite. He toured the country with the famous Bernhard Listemann string quartet and for the last twenty years has been before the American public, a conspicuous figure. He for a long time played with the Thomas orchestra when Theodore Thomas was the director.

The occasion of the Apollo concert promises to become memorable in that it is the first appearance of this ensemble known as the Chicago Trio.

The program will be definitely announced within a week, and it will be arranged so as to allow the Apollo club to open the concert and then solos will be given by the members of the Chicago Trio, with two ensemble numbers. The Apollo club will give a number to divide the program, and will close their concert.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Husbands Should Be Blamed as Well as the "Other Woman."

Women in business come in for scathing criticisms every now and then. Only yesterday I heard all of them branded in no uncertain terms by a sister woman, a home woman, who is enduring the agony of a husband's neglect.

The business woman may not be any freer from the frailties of the sex than any other class. I am not claiming that she is. I do maintain, however, that her moral fiber will bear the closest comparison, and that she is as loyal to the other woman's interests as any woman taken individually or as a class. Some of her accusers are inflamed by jealous suspicions and the disposition to believe evil of everyone on principle.

To be fair and impartial it must be admitted that there are in business, as in every walk of life, women without scruple or principle. But they are not a considerable number nor peculiar to working women as a whole. They happen everywhere, and no less frequently than among the idle and protected class of women.

I was talking with a woman who was obliged to take steps to free herself from her husband because of unfaithfulness. But while she is severe in her estimate of her former husband, she was a thousand times more censorious of the flighty young woman in his office, who caught and held his unstable and worthless affection. But is there any reason why a mature man who has taken vows of faithfulness and responsibility upon himself toward one woman, should be excused or exonerated in a single particular, when his fancy lights upon another?

I do not believe in license or liberty for the unmarried, but what are vows for and for what the marriage ceremony, if not to impress men as well as women with their obligations, one to the other? If the married man in business lived up to the promises he made at the altar, a silly girl in his office with a pretty face, however maliciously inclined, could make little progress in a love affair with him if he kept his duty in sight.

While I have only blame for the girl or the woman who engages in a heart affair which she knows to be dishonorable, I am heartily sick of hearing the married woman score the "other woman" the heaviest for failings that involve her husband. It is human nature, no doubt, but a very poor quality.

MUSICAL LIBRARY.

Remarkable Collection at Philadelphia; Duluth Has Made a Beginning.

WHAT is perhaps the most remarkable musical library in existence is owned by Richard Warrington of Philadelphia, who has been making the collection for fifty years. There are more than 6,000 volumes, that include ballads, songs, carols and psalms. In addition to the volumes, there is a great deal of manuscript material. Mr. Wurrington had adopted a plan of copying material he can not possess. Material he has not had time to copy he has noted down with an explanation showing where it is.

At first the collector used the general histories of music, but he gradually centered his researches in what he has called "The Music of the Common People of Great Britain and America."

Mr. Warrington's collection has what many collections lack—the assembling of music, words and history. He says: "I claim that unless words, music and history are brought together, it is impossible to understand the subject properly."

It is the collector's desire that his library be secured for some institution where he could continue his work on it the remainder of his life. He thinks if he were spared a few years the collection would be complete.

Duluth has a nucleus of a musical library, the Reyner memorial library that was given in 1912. The collection is kept at the public library and is open for consultation to any resident of the city without charge. It includes history, biography, books on harmony and other related subjects, and music both in volumes and in loose form. It belongs to the Matinee Musicale, but the club may lend for public performance any piece or pieces, upon the deposit of the original value. The club may charge a small fee that goes to the fund required to keep the collection in repair.

DULUTH TEACHERS WILL HEAR OF THE POSSIBILITIES OF RHYTHM

A PLASTIC EXERCISE.

DULUTH will get its first glimpse of rhythmic gymnastics Monday. Miss Minnie Lawson, who will lecture here Monday on the Dalcroze system of rhythmic gymnastics, has completed a two years' course at the Jacques Dalcroze school in Germany. The course in the institution comprises several branches of sight singing and ear training, harmony—both theoretical and practical, the study of respiration and the study of gymnastics in association with the development of the rhythmic sense.

Two principles govern the scheme of movements made by the pupils of this system: (1) The movements of the arms are directed in consonance with the beats of the music, representing the metrical structure. The downward movement of the arms represents the strong beat of the measure. (2) The movements of the legs and trunk follow the course of the rhythmical structure and are adapted to represent each unit of progression as regards duration expressed by chords or by the consecutive notes of the melody.

This system is the outgrowth of the realization by M. Jacques Dalcroze that much of the theory of music that is taught remains nothing but theory. He wrote and produced a children's action play and saw how readily children learn words and music that are accompanied by movements of the body. He then arranged a simple system of movements to accompany and supplement vocal exercises. From this obscure beginning has grown the interesting system that is attracting the attention of educators.

Miss Lawson will give an explanation of the new theory at the Y. W. C. A. Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Music Teachers' Round Table of the Matinee Musicale.

MISS MINNIE LAWSON.

Miss Lawson will have with her a little pupil, who will demonstrate the application of the theories.

"CHARITY" THE THEME OF LECTURE BY NOTED ST. PAUL MISSIONARY

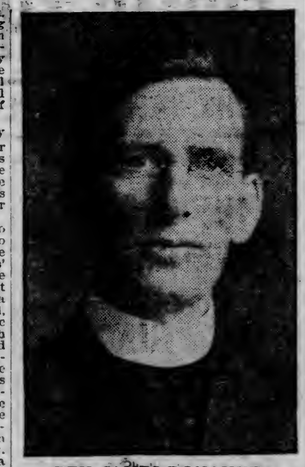
REV. JAMES DONAHUE of St. Paul, one of the most striking figures in social work in Minnesota, will bring a message to Duluth next Tuesday evening, when he will lecture on "Charity" at the Cathedral auditorium, Second avenue west and Fourth street, under the auspices of the Bishop's club.

Out of years of experience as city missionary of St. Paul and in other capacities, Father Donahue has brought interesting views of the scope and methods of organized charitable work. His lecture will deal with his experience and his conclusions, rather than with charity in the abstract.

Father Donahue is well known to Duluth people, especially those who have any connection with charitable organizations. When the mothers' pension law was before the legislature two years ago, he was one of its most active and ardent supporters. He is a deputy probation officer in St. Paul, and spiritual director of the Catholic Guild hall, an institution at which women strangers to the city may find temporary lodging, and is also president of the St. Paul diocesan Catholic Total Abstinence union. He finds time between his other duties to administer to the spiritual wants of the deaf of St. Paul and the vicinity. He was a visitor to Duluth when the convention of the Minnesota Association of the Deaf was held here last July. He has been active in the Minnesota Conference of Corrections and Charities and other organizations.

Keen interest is being taken in the lecture, not only by the Catholic people, to whom Father Donahue's message will primarily be directed, but generally by Duluth people interested in charitable work. Father Donahue's experience in St. Paul has been long and varied. As city missionary, he works under the direction of Archbishop Ireland, devoting all of his time to charity administration. He has behind him an organization of about 800 Catholic women, who maintain and personally direct many charitable institutions. He keeps in touch with the juvenile court and the other courts, administers material relief where necessary, and is the agent of Catholic charity in that city.

Father Donahue has written extensively on subjects relating to charitable work and though he has given little time to lecturing he has a forceful manner of presenting the subject in which he is so vitally interested. He holds that the chief handicaps in adequately relieving the poor are ignorance of the condition of the poor, and too great love of money on the part of those who have superfluous wealth. He has been successful in organizing the Catholic people of St. Paul for charitable work and in raising funds for supplying material relief, but above that through his efforts there is in that city an unusual personal interest taken in measures for the relief of the poor and an unusual volume of personal effort given Father Donahue in support of his work.



REV. JAMES DONAHUE.

SIGNS OF MORAL DECAY ARE SEEN BY RABBI LEFKOVITS

Self-Respect Swept Away By Shameless Dress and Behavior.

Frivolity and Dissipation Have Robbed Society of Dignity.

EXCERPTS FROM SERMON OF DR. LEFKOVITS.

Morally, we are on a downward grade.

It is not our drama that has declined, but our taste.

If anything has degenerated, it is not our literature but our morals.

Our tendencies are toward flippancy and shamelessness.

Frivolity in amusement has robbed society of dignity.

Demi-mondes are no longer distinguished from respectable women and girls on the street.

Dress, dance and play have become an absorbing quest and obsession.

Food is tame unless seasoned by a cabaret.

"Shamelessness in dress and behavior have swept away our self-respect. Frivolity in amusement and dissipation in the association of the sexes have robbed society of dignity. Mockery of all that is sacred and holy in religion and in life has undermined our spiritual stamina. The interaction of all these is degrading us into immorality."

The above statements were made last evening by Rabbi Maurice Lefkovits at the regular weekly services of Temple Emanuel in his sermon on "Symptoms of Moral Decadence." He severely attacked existing social conditions and compared life in this age with that of the Romans in the second century.

"Whither indeed are we tending morally?" asked Dr. Lefkovits. "The stage, said to be the glass in which a generation is mirrored, reeks with the dirt of the gutter and the stench of the sewer. Current fiction breathes the passion of sex coarseness and brutality. The daily press shrieks its murder stories and screams its social scandals in blinding black and blushing red. And the answer of producer and publisher is that 'business is business' and 'this is what the people want.'

"To our dismay it must be admitted that the producers of plays and publishers of fiction and news are correct. Plays of immoral themes are splendidly patronized; books and magazines that cater to indecency are among the best sellers, and the newspapers that print the vilest news and features have the largest circulation. Judge the situation from whatever angle and we find operating the ancient law of demand and supply. Publishing houses, like other corporations, must pay dividends. As long, therefore, as there is a demand for the vulgar, the obscene and the unholy, it will be satisfied.

No Demand for Art.

"To add to our dismay, the additional fact must be admitted that there is no demand for the artistic, the clean and the spiritual. The past few years have witnessed the utter failure of all altruistic attempts on the stage and in literature. Artistic presentations on the stage for art's sake starved to death. Publications of the highest order and literary value have gone begging even for book shelf space. Producers and publishers have thus been compelled to alter their policies in order to satisfy the popular clamor for the sensational, the sexual, the salacious.

"Morally, our generation is on a downward grade. If anything has declined, it is not our drama, but our taste. If anything has degenerated, it is not our literature, but our morals. Home life has disintegrated for those who are absorbed in the constant pursuit of sensational pleasure. Our tendencies are toward flippancy and shamelessness, and therefore, society has lost dignity and high-mindedness. Our tendencies are toward frivolity and mockery, and therefore, we are devoid of the artistic and spiritual. We must be passing through the moral conditions of the second century of the Roman era, which called forth the statements, 'Mockery and frivolity are the forerunners of immorality.'

"If it is considered that drama and literature are the surest mirrors of a generation, then the situation is easily analyzed. The typical audience, that is supplied with the typical insipidity or immorality of the present-day stage, is made up of the so-called tired business or professional man, his wife and his daughter. The tragedy of the tired business or professional man is that he is really tired of himself and that he is pampered by his equally tired wife and frivolity-made daughter. He is tired of himself because his daily labor, his constant and insatiate pursuit of the dollar and even his actual accumulation of wealth, bring him no inner satisfaction, and therefore, no happiness. He unfits himself for developing a taste for art, for music, for drama, that deal with the inner life. He takes no time to think of anything else but his business and his recreation. So, his jaded mind has to be fed on rubbish. The women folk pity him because he labors so strenuously. Therefore, they must accompany him in search of his foolish and absurd recreation.

"That is why we have in society the imitation, in dance and dress, of what we see on the stage. Mother and daughter employ the cheap and obvious methods to attract men in society that are stock-in-trade for drawing the tired husband and father in the show-house and the innocent youth into houses of ill-repute. Indeed, we are told that demi-mondes no longer paint gaudily or dress flashily, so that they may be distinguished from the respectable women and girls on the street.

Have Lost Dignity.

"Women dressed attractively in the past without being gaudy and shameless. We danced gracefully without being vulgar and sensational. We sang and played and held social intercourse during former generations without losing dignity and being dissipated. But now dress, dance and play have become an absorbing quest and obsession. Cafes are crowded day and night. Food is tame unless it is seasoned by a cabaret.

"That is how unwonted prosperity has dealt a killing blow to self-respect, dignity and high-mindedness. The less prosperous and the poor must, perforce, follow the pace of the rich. The rich give prestige to frivolity and shamelessness in dress and behavior. Obviously clothes of an obviously immodest cut must be imitated. Obviously sensual dances must be more vulgarized and carried to extreme. Therefore do the mirrors of stage and literature reflect a hideous picture of moral incompetence and degeneracy.

"The movements for social uplift, not of the faddist, but of truly spiritually-minded men and women, are a hopeful sign for the future. The striving for social justice, which has been the ideal of synagogue and church since social justice was first conceived by the prophets of Israel, is another hopeful sign. More important than these, however, must be a concerted movement on the part of synagogue and church to rid their institutions of their outworn theologies that cannot attract the frivolous and repel the mockers. Imbued with a genuine missionary spirit, they must begin to teach religion's new attitude toward life. The moral tendencies that now press us downward will vanish and new tendencies will take their place, to lift us upward to the most ideal moral heights."

Flowers Cheaper for Easter.

While the opinion has prevailed among a good many people in the city that the price of flowers would advance for Easter the idea is a mistaken one according to J. J. Le Borious, the only grower of cut flowers and plants in Duluth. On account of the stock being rather light around the holiday season the prices usually raise for Chirstmas, but Mr. Le Borious has on hand for the Easter season this year one of the largest stocks he has had for some years. Included among his assortment are the Easter lilies, hydranges, tulips, daffodills, and azaleas and it is because of this fine stock that he will be able to supply all his trade without any increase in prices whatever.

Amusements

AT THE LYCEUM.

"The Quaker Girl" and Victor Morley Provide Charming Entertainment.

"The Quaker Girl" presented at the Lyceum, playing this afternoon and which will be repeated this evening, is making its second visit to Duluth; and is being warmly greeted—and deservedly so.

Victor Morley needs no introduction to Duluthians who remember him from his work in "The Three Twins." Mr. Morley is at his best in "The Quaker Girl," and his best is some standard. There is never a dull moment for the audience during his presence on the stage. There is an atmosphere about him which makes it impossible to take him seriously. In the light comedy field Mr. Morley has few equals and no superiors among the actors in musical comedy.

Miss Bernice McCabe as Prudence, "The Quaker Girl" is sweet and pretty in the part, carries it well and consistently and has a pretty voice, which, while it lacks strength, possesses a demure quality that fits the part excellently. Miss Connie Mack—"miss" is attached to keep baseball from elevating the stage—is very good as Phoebe; Miss Dixie Girard as the Princess Mathilde is acceptable, and has a good voice. Harry McDonough, Jr., as Jeremiah is funny and limber. Mlle. Andree Corday as Mme. Blum is irresistible. William Blaisdell as the Parisian chief of police is fussy enough to suit and the other members of the company are in keeping with the principals.

As to the comedy itself, it may be said that it is tuneful and attractive in every way. So far as the setting and costuming are concerned it is complete. Somebody has said that it is an English comedy un-Americanized. That seems scarcely correct. It has been dis-Anglicized somewhere, for most of those that come from the other side of the pond without being diluted are painfully dull to the alert American mind; but in "The Quaker Girl" there is something different and it would seem that it has been doctored somewhere.

It will be repeated this afternoon and tonight, and if good clean comedy, catchy music, pretty girls and clever comedians deserve good patronage "The Quaker Girl' is entitled to it.

WHAT YOU CAN DO FOR YOUR HEADACHE

Little things often grow from a tiny seed grain of pain into a huge, mammoth headache. There are certain conditions which bring on a headache. One of these is the tendency to continually think about some uncomfortable feeling in or around one's head. In the old days it has been stated that the Chinese would put their criminals to a lingering death by the use of this method of pain. The criminal would be tied in such a manner that a drop of water above his head was permitted to fall, one a minute, on a certain part of his head. It was impossible for the criminal to avoid the falling drop. Each drop as it would strike the head would grow more and more uncomfortable. The poor victim's mind could not be diverted from the constantly recurring discomfort from the falling drop of water. Eventually the latter became an awful headache torture to the victim. The sense of torment grew to such proportions as to drive the victim eventually into unconsciousness and death. It is this identical principle which cuts the biggest figure in the perplexing matter of headaches.

The constant exercise of the painful or uncomfortable function of any one nerve without rest will eventually of itself bring about a physical disturbance to a very serious degree. The original disorder may be trivial at first. It is the constant recurrence that eventually grows into an awful torture. The matter of headache is so serious that there is no question but that every headache sufferer endures real pain. It isn't mere imagination. To some patients the headache sensation feels as if a nail were being driven directly into their heads. Its discomfort is of an exceedingly positive kind, and it may be brought on by many various conditions. One of the commonest causes of headaches is that of imperfectly digested food. This latter causes putrefaction within the bowel and sets up an internal poisoning of the entire system. This condition is known as autointoxication.

In a few cases the causes of headache can be traced to a physical injury upon the head at some period of life. Von Bulo, a noted German musician, who suffered many years from such excruciating headaches, asked that an autopsy be made to search for the cause. This latter was found to be a small nerve fiber, which had been pressed upon in the covering of his brain, the result of an injury when very young. Oftentimes a person engaged in hard mental work will develop a dread that their minds might give way because of a rather persistent tendency toward headache. This, of course, is more or less of a bugaboo idea, and should be dismissed without a second thought. So long as the body functions are controlled in a healthy manner and the mind is permitted to enjoy occasional personal diversions there is nothing serious.

There are innumerable other types of headaches, some resulting from general congestion of the blood, others from local pressure, from tight hats, any undue weight or congestion due to faulty eye conditions, oftentimes just a plain hunger headache. Each sufferer is a separate law unto himself or herself. The cause for each headaches must first be ferreted out.

It is necessary for every single sufferer from this condition to know that the greatest remedy and the most powerful method of cure are to get the mind engaged in some decidedly interesting occupation or line of thought. This may be somewhat difficult at first. However, so long as a patient raises every queer and uncomfortable feeling about the head to the dignity of a headache, and then keeps deliberately thinking and worrying and fretting about the head discomforts instead of distracting the thoughts from the subject, just so surely will the sufferer fail to utilize his greatest power for curing this condition. Drugs, bathing, osteopathic massage, diet—all have a sphere of usefulness. Head and shoulders above them all, however, is the power of will which deliberately finds some agreeable occupation of mind that will distract one.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Prof. E. R. James and Dr. Scammon Decline Offers From Missouri.

Successor to Dean Downey Selected But Name Kept Secret

Minneapolis, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Edmund R. James of the law school of the university, on Saturday announced his intention of remaining with the Minnesota faculty and declared that he had written the regents of the University of Missouri to that effect. Prof. James has been considering an offer made to him by President A. Ross Hill, to become the dean of the college of law of the University of Missouri. It also became known on the campus Wednesday, that Dr. R. E. Scammon of the medical faculty had turned down an offer from President Hill to join the medical faculty of his institution. Following close upon the announcement that Prof. E. M. Thurston preferred to remain at Minnesota, rather than join the faculty of the Yale college of law, this makes the third offer from other universities which members of the Minnesota faculty have refused within two weeks.

To Succeed Dean Downey.

During the early part of the week it leaked out on the campus that a successor to Dean John A. Downey has been selected by the advisory committee of the university, as the choice must be approved by the board of regents, the committee has refused to make known its nominee. However, they have intimated that he is a Minnesota man. Dean Downey retires at the end of the current school year on account of having reached the age limit, and will now be eligible to the Carnegie pension.

Garrick Club Formed.

A men's dramatic club has been established at the university, called the Garrick club. It is made up of twelve members, to which number its membership is limited. Each year several men will be invited to try out for the club from these new members will be elected by the active members to fill the club to its full quota of men. To encourage among the men of the university the study of dramatic literature is the main purpose of the organization. During the year they will stage one excellent play as well as several burlesques, which they will put on from time to time for the entertainment of the Men's Union. An important phase of the club's work is to keep in touch with the alumni of the different colleges. Already the Garrick club is assured of the hearty co-operation of these men in all their undertakings and old members of the Hasty Pudding club at Harvard, of the Triangle club at Princeton and of Mask and Wig at Pennsylvania, have become enthusiastic over the work.

Gigantic Cantata Proposed.

Prof. Scott, the musical director at Minnesota, is planning to put on a gigantic cartata, composed of the Men's Glee club, the Women's club and the University chorus. The girl's Euterpian club has already promised its support. It remains to be seen whether the men's club and chorus will be as pleased to take part in the cantata. Mr. Scott also plans to have the esthetic dancing class give an exhibition of their charming steps before the public. Besides this, there will be several fancy dances and vocal solos. The cantata will be put on at the Minneapolis auditorium about the middle of May, so that the date will not conflict with any of the senior affairs.

The Military Ball.

On April 24 the annual military ball will take place in the university armory. Contracts for decorations and refreshments have been awarded to the same firms as for the junior ball. The Shibley-Squires orchestra has been engaged to play a program of twenty dances. Between the sixth and seventh dances the crack squad will give a snappy exhibition of modern military movements. A five-course supper will be served between the twelfth and thirteenth dances. Bugle calls will announce the start of the grand march, and will sound before each dance, taps being played as a finale. Military full dress, consisting of a gray blouse and white serge trousers, will be worn by the cadet officers, while civilians will appear in evening clothes. Col. H. Lovering, who is in charge of the committee, announces that the tickets will go on sale immediately after spring vacation. The tickets will sell at $3.50.

To Play "Sweet Lavender."

At a meeting of the players, the new University Dramatic club, Monday, it was decided to put on Pinero's masterpiece, "Sweet Lavender," which had the longest run of any play given in England, and was the first play in any country to run over three years. The club intends to give one performance in Minneapolis before sending the cast out on the university week's extension circuit. Walton Pyre, who made such a favorable impression in his chapel rendition of "King Robert of Sicily," will coach the play.

Seniors' Class Play.

The senior committee on a class play has selected the "Campus Heartbreaker," by Rudolph Brosius, a junior academic, for the 1914 production. Walter Hughes has been chosen director of the production and already preparations are under way for putting it on in one of the vertown theaters, probably the Metropolitan, on May 15 or 16. There will be a reading of the play for all seniors in the near future, and the tryouts for the cast will be announced at an early date.

First Doctor of Forestry.

The first degree of doctor of forestry has been conferred by the university on J. V. Hoffman, who, so far as Prof. Cheney, head of the forestry college, is able to determine, is the first man in the United States to receive the degree. Mr. Hoffman took the degree of master of arts from the college two years ago. He then went West, and for more than a year has been connected with the Wind River, Or., experimental station. Last fall he returned. No member of the committee that granted the degree is a doctor of forestry, and no member in the faculty under whom the work was taken boasts the right to append the coveted title to his name. Mr. Hoffman's thesis was on the natural and artificial reproduction of pine.

Annual Fashion Show.

Cap and Gown, the senior girls' society, held its annual fashion show Wednesday evening in Shevlin hall. Among the models were Lea Capps, Alice Berry, Viola Bebe, Hazel Kimzo, and Florence Robinson. Cassie Spencer acted as interpreter, explaining each costume worn. Further entertainment was furnished by Cassie Spencer and Margaret Lloys, who appeared in the original skit, "Tom and Jenny." The spread, which preceded the show, carried out the Easter idea. Decorations were in yellow and white. Jonquils decorated the tables, which were lighted entirely by white candles in yellow holders.

CAVALIER COUNTY LEADS IN CLUBS.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cavalier county has taken the lead in the matter of organizing farmers' clubs, a county federation having been formed there. The county organization grows out of a district federation, originally comprising eight or ten clubs in one part of the county.

Splendid results obtained by the district body resulted in the formulation of a call for a general gathering in Langdon, to which delegates were elected by the individual clubs.

Can't Help But Admire Babies

Every Woman Casts Loving Glance at the Nestling Cuddled in its Bonnet.

A woman's heart responds to the sweetness of a pretty child, and more so to-day than ever before since the advent of Mother's Friend.

This is a wonderful external help to the muscles and tendons. It penetrates the tissues, makes them readily yield to nature's demand for expansion, so there is no period of pain, discomfort, straining, nausea or other symptoms so often distressing during the anxious weeks of expectancy.

Mother's Friend thoroughly lubricates every nerve, tendon and muscle involved and is a sure preventive for caking of the breasts.

And particularly to young mothers is this famous remedy of inestimable value. It enables them to preserve their health and strength, and they remain pretty by having avoided all the suffering and danger that would otherwise accompany

INDIAN RUNNER DUCKS.

Their Care and Feed.

By C. S. VALENTINE,
Poultryman and Duck Breeder.

The very special care of the Runner younglings covers the first week, for they must not be chilled, overfed or left without water. They chill easily at first and sometimes get cast on their little flat backs and may be unable to right themselves. Water of blood temperature should be the first supply, then stale bread lightly moistened in sweet milk. After a week bran, middlings and later cornmeal and meat scraps are added to the ration. Sprouted oats, chopped lettuce or cabbage or any available palatable green feed is a most important part of the ration whenever the ducks or ducklings are not free to range. Nothing, however, quite equals red or white clover or alfalfa, either grazed or supplied artificially. A new producer of green feed for yarded fowls is the Chinese cabbage, which looks like a two-foot lettuce and is extremely tender.

Those who can should permit wide range, with water privilege, after the ducklings are seven or eight weeks old, for this gives great muscular strength and lessens feed bills, while with mature ducks it is likely to increase the hatchability of the eggs. In general, bran, middlings, shorts and red dog are the main reliance to produce frame and muscular development. Maize, oats and barley meal (the latter two sieved while the ducklings are yet small) tend to add fat. Meat helps along both lines, and bonemeal helps to make a good frame.

Only Simple Shelter Needed.

Shelters may be of the simplest, but must provide comfort and equable conditions. These, after ample feed and water, being the key to success, and those birds which, when well matured are thus provided and allowed to order their own lives within these limits usually become the largest producers.

The greatest success I have known has come through using a barn basement for shelter, leaving food where the birds always had access to it and freedom to go and come at will. These birds were handled by an elderly woman, far past 80, known as "a good feeder." They produced for three years under her systematic care an average of practically fifty-three eggs from each 100 ducks daily—more, of course, in the summer than in winter. The best general average production of hens in any state in the Union (census report) is less than twenty-eight eggs per 100 hens for every day in the year, showing a balance in favor of the Indian Runner duck of twenty-five eggs per year.

OUR ROAST BEEF.

Where It Does, and Should, Come From.

By E. PARKER.

Did you know that between the years 1905 and 1913 the world's supply of beef cattle increased 11½ per cent, while the population increased 25 per cent—that is, it more than doubled? This is an interesting item to ponder on when the complaint is so often heard that since the free listing of beef in the new tariff law it is hardly worth while to raise beef cattle in the United States. A little mathematics, however, prove the latter idea to be rubbish.

First, because it has been proved that the British isles easily consume Argentine's surplus supply (which has actually diminished in the last two years) and, with the continent, take all Australia can send; second, because in five years Canadian cattle decreased 11 per cent. Thus experts are continually assuring us the United States need not fear Canada as a very serious competitor in the beef line. Although Mexico should be a good beef raising country, its present troubled state and frequent revolutions have naturally depleted all food supplies. Now, the result of noting these figures should convince the "would-be" beef raiser that there is something for him in that industry, especially when he considers that in 1907 we exported from the United States 423,000 head of cattle and last year only 24,000, because we could barely supply our own market.

Beef Preferred to Mutton.

Another singular fact not to be forgotten by the beef raiser is that Americans care more for beef than they do for mutton. In fact, pork and beef, according to reliable statistics, are the meats most in demand in this country, and when he also realizes that a rough estimate gives the population of most of the countries referred to as having increased 20 per cent in recent years and the cattle only 8 per cent, it cannot be called exactly a discouraging factor to take into account. Surely here is an opportunity for the small farmer to add to his bank account, especially where he does not happen to be near a good milk market, for milk, produced under modern requirements, in order to bring a sufficient profit should sell for at least 10 cents a quart. Thus the ambitious man, tired of losing money on milk, would do well to buy five or six Herefords or Aberdeen Angus cattle and, jointly with his neighbor, purchase a young Aberdeen Angus bull and raise calves for beef. These could be sold either as calves, yearlings or 2-year-olds, while each year one or two heifers could be kept to increase the herd.

THE BABCOCK TEST.

The Proper Way to Use It.

By A. A. BORLAND,
University of Vermont.

The Babcock test for determining the amount of fat in milk is simple, and the apparatus needed for testing consists of (1) milk, skimmilk and cream test bottles; (2) 17.6 c. c. pipette, (3) 17.5 c. c. acid measure, (4) cream scales, (5) centrifugal machine and (6) sulphuric acid.

How to Test.

The operation of testing is:

First—See that all glassware is clean.

Second—Have sample of milk or cream at 60 to 70 deg. F. and thoroughly mix by pouring the sample from one vessel to another at least three times.

Third—If milk, remove 17.6 c. c. with the pipette and put into the milk test bottle; if cream, weigh 18 grams into a cream test bottle.

Fourth—Fill the acid measure to the 17.5 c. c. mark with sulphuric acid having a specific gravity of 1.82 to 1.83. Pour acid into milk test bottle, which should be held in an inclined position and slowly revolved so that acid will come in contact with any milk that may remain in neck of bottle.

Fifth—Mix milk and acid by giving the test bottle a rotary motion. Avoid shaking. The casein at first coagulates, then dissolves, the color of the mixture gradually changing, becoming a dark brown color. Let the bottles stand two to five minutes; then shake again before placing in the centrifuge.

Sixth—Place test bottles in the centrifuge in pairs opposite each other so the tester will be balanced; start machine slowly; bring up to full speed and hold at required speed for five minutes.

Seventh—(a) Add hot water (180 to 190 deg. F.) to test bottles until contents come to lower end of the neck of bottle. (b) Whirl two minutes, as before. (c) Add hot water again until the lower part of the fat column is up to the 1 or 2 per cent milk. (d) Whirl one minute and read.

Eighth—(a) The readings should be made when bottles are at a temperature of 140 deg. F. When tests have been made with a hand tester bottles should be placed in water 140 deg. F. for five minutes before reading. (b) The percentage of fat is read directly from neck of the bottle. Milk, skimmilk and buttermilk tests are read from the bottom of the fat column to the extreme top, including the meniscus. (c) Cream tests are read from the bottom of the fat column to the bottom of the meniscus.

Ninth—Wash test bottles in warm water and alkali powder; then rinse three times in hot water.

COLD FRAMES AND THE EARLY GARDEN

Getting Ahead of the Neighbors.

By E. KNEELAND

The starting of vegetable and flower seeds under glass is fascinating in itself, and when once undertaken cold frames prove useful to winter over flowers and vegetables, besides furthering the development and ripening of plants started in hotbeds in order to hasten the spring season.

Frames and sash may be purchased already to set up and use and, not being expensive, are within reach of every one. The writer prefers the double glass sash, which are a little more expensive, but well worth the difference. Choose a sheltered spot for the frames, and if the ground is frozen too hard get a few barrels of rich earth from the local florist, filling in to the depth of nine inches in the back of the frame and grade off to six inches in front. Bank up outside the frame with leaves, straw, etc., to keep out the cold, and the long way of the frame should be north and south. If two frames are decided upon plant lettuce and radishes in one and in the other spinach, tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower and pepper plants. Have the soil fine enough to go through a garden sieve; then level the bed and mark out the rows three inches apart for the first frame, sow the lettuce and radish seed in alternate rows, sprinkle over some fine sieved soil, tamp gently, water with tepid water and finally put on the glass and keep warm and snug until the seedlings appear. Should the nights become very cold throw a stable blanket or some old matting over the glass.

As soon as the seedlings are up the sash should be tilted for ventilation during the middle of the day, when the sun is strongest, and as the plants develop remove the sash altogether for several hours daily. The radishes should be ready to pull in about thirty days; then thin the lettuce to one plant in every six inches. In the other frame run the rows across and plant five rows of spinach set six inches apart, beginning at the lower end, and devote the remaining space to cabbage, tomatoes, etc., either purchased in pots from the florist or started in boxes in the house and transferred to pots. When the lettuce is out of the way (the seed should be sown about March 1) clear the bed and plant two or three hills of cucumbers in a row a foot from either end; then fill up the remaining space with lettuce and radishes in rows six inches apart, the lettuce to be transferred to the garden. In this way your cold frames will pay for themselves the first year in pleasure and profits.

ROPE ON THE FARM.

The ability to tie a few useful knots and splice a rope is useful to the farmer as well as the sailor, and at times to people in all walks of life. The average person does not wish to spend the time necessary to learn a large number of knots, but he should master a few of those that are most useful, so thoroughly that he can make them at any time from memory. There are several ways of tying some knots and of making some of the splices and hitches, but the beginner should confine himself to the one method by which he can obtain the best results, even though it may not be the way which the expert would find quickest and easiest. Those who wish to tie the simple knots and make the splices of use on the farm, may secure, free of charge, a copy of Bulletin 136, entitled, "Rope and Its Use on the Farm," by addressing the Agricultural Experiment station, University Farm, St. Paul.

DEBTS ARE REPUDIATED

Nine Southern States Refuse to Pay British Bondholders.

Have Been in Default From Forty to Seventy Years.

London, March 28.—Nine Southern states of the United States now owe British bondholders a total of more than $75,000,000, not including interest, on account of debts which have been in default from forty to seventy years, according to a report of the council o fthe Corporation of Foreign Bondholders.

This association, organized forty years ago to protect the interests of holders of foreign securities, has for many years had eleven foreign states on its black list, but this year the republic of Guatemala, under pressure from the foreign office, has resumed payments after a default extending over fourteen years.

"The elimination of Guatemala," says the report, "leaves the unenviable distinction of defaulters to the republic of Honduras, and nine states of the United States of America; namely, Arkansas, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and West Virginia."

It has not been possible to obtain reliable information with regard to most of these debts, but it is understood that the loans were contracted for public improvements, and do not include confederate bonds or war debts.

With the exception of Alabama's debt, of which no reliable information is obtainable, the amounts owing British bondholders are estimated as follows:

Arkansas	$8,700,000
Florida	7,000,000
Georgia	12,700,000
Louisiana	6,000,000
Mississippi	7,000,000
North Carolina	12,600,000
South Carolina	6,000,000
West Virginia	15,239,370
Total	$75,239,370

Of these debts the report, which is signed by Viscount Goschen, the new chairman, says:

"It is indeed deplorable that these prosperous and progressive states of the great American Union take no steps to settle their defaulted debts, and it seems, to say the least of it, an anomaly that the United States should insist on compliance with its obligations by a country, like Santo Domingo when so many of the states within its own borders are not observing their own engagements.

North Carolina's Plea.

"The excuses put forward by these states for non-payment are manifold, but they may be generally classed under three heads:

"(1) North Carolina pleads that her defaulted obligations were contracted while the state was being administered by the Federal government after the Civil war. The answer to this, of course, is that the bondholders have nothing to do with differences between the states and the Federal government. One or the other must be responsible for the issue of the loans in question, and it is most unfair that the state should refer its creditors to the Federal government and that the Federal government should refer them back again to the state. Tennessee for many years adopted the same attitude as North Carolina; but the former was wise enough to realize that no state can maintain its position in the world of credit which attempts to justify the repudiation of obligations by excuses which, in the case of individuals, would not be tolerated in any civilized court of law, and therefore came to a settlement with the holders of its bonds.

Louisiana's Claim.

"(2) Louisiana alleges that there were irregularities of some kind or another in connection with the issue of most of her repudiated bonds. It would, of course, put an end to all credit if a state, on discovery that its own officials had acted incorrectly in the course of the issue of a loan, repudiated all responsibility for the money obtained from the public. There is, however, one issue, or part of an issue, known as 'baby' bonds, concerning which not even the foregoing excuse can be pleaded. In this case, in spite of the fact that the bonds are expressed on their face to be issued by the state of Louisiana in accordance with the state's Constitution, and although they are specially secured on arrears of taxes collectible by the state, which, it is admitted, were diverted to other purposes, payment is denied on the astonishing plea that the bonds were not guaranteed by the state.

Mississippi's Excuse.

"(3) Mississippi's excuse for not recognizing her defaulted debt is the worst of all. Between 1831 and 1838 the state issued two loans, for which she obtained full value and the proceeds of which were invested in the establishment and development of two banks. So long as the banks flourished and made good profits the interest on the loans was paid; but when, owing to over-speculation, bad times came and the banks got into difficulties, Mississippi made this the excuse for ceasing all further payments to the bondholders. For a state to repudiate its obligations to its creditors because the investments it chooses to make with their money do not turn out profitably is absolutely indefensible, and, as far as the council are aware, such an argument has never been resorted to by even the most backward of the Spanish-American republics."

The report intimates that a proposal is now before the foreign office to secure a settlement of the claim against Honduras, but very little hope is entertained of it being successful. The amount due by Honduras, including interest, is roughly $121,000,000. As no interest has been paid since 1872, and the rate on two of the loans was 10 per cent, the amount is largely made up of unpaid interest.

CONGRESS TO BE HELD AT SAN FRANCISCO

Brussels, March 21.—The Union of International Associations, composed of some fifty international associations, professional, scientific, technical, benevolent and political, has decided to organize a world's congress to meet next year at San Francisco during the Panama exhibition. It appears from a communication received from San Francisco that 202 various congresses have already been announced. The union's idea is that the world's congress should be made up of delegates chosen by the national and international congresses which will assemble in San Francisco. No effort has yet been made toward a program.

PERMIT REQUIRED TO CRIMINAL MUSEUM

London, March 21.—Because it was becoming as great an attraction for the morbid as the Paris morgue, the criminal museum of of Scotland Yard has been practically closed to all except those who can show some good reason for desiring to visit it. The museum has never been opened to the general public, but it has not been difficult to obtain admission. Now a permit must be secured from the second commissioner of police, and the visits can only be made on one of two days in the week.

During the past year it became quite the rage for society women to obtain permits to view the grewsome relics which the place contains, and complaint was made that the museum was being turned into a sideshow for the gratification of the morbidly curious. Some of the relics are decidedly ghastly, and these are displayed with a lack of reserve which according to the Scotland Yard authorities did not make fixed parties of visitors desirables. Besides the implements used in the commission of famous crimes, perhaps the most interesting exhibits in the place are death masks, formerly made of every criminal executed in England.

These pianos have captivated musical people everywhere.

GUARDING THE POTATO CROP

Active Measures Needed to Prevent Many Diseases---More Vigorous Varieties Should Be Developed By Growers.

More general and concerted efforts on the part of potato growers are needed to combat certain diseases which threaten to impair the vigor of the seed stock and to cause the deterioration of varieties, according to the United States department of agriculture's investigator. To open the way for more efficient measures of control for potato diseases that have not always been definitely understood a new bulletin is now issued entitled Potato Wilt, Leaf-Roll and Related Diseases. It can be had free on application to the United States department of agriculture.

The group of potato diseases treated in the new bulletin now raises a problem of increasing importance to practical agriculture in different countries throughout the world. Environment has a most important influence on crops in the several states and in foreign countries. Therefore, great care is needed to determine exactly which method of control is best in each specific instance where disease is present. The bulletin wishes particularly to emphasize the fact that the same system of seed selection and crop rotation that will free the potato fields of wilt, leaf-roll and curly-dwarf, will not only bring under control blackleg and some other diseases, but will insure the maintenance of the strains cultivated in their most vigorous condition and free from objectionable mixtures with other varieties.

Losses from the late blight and rot occur mainly in the Northern states. This causes particularly heavy losses during cool and humid seasons. In the states east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio this disease is particularly common. It is now successfully combated by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. It is also hoped that more disease-resistant varieties will soon aid in controlling this blight.

To the south early blight and tipburn play a greater role than the late blight in injury to the potato crop. Early blight is apparently not so common in the cooler and more uniform climate of Northern Europe. Nor does one find there that tip-burn is as common as here, where high summer temperatures combine with the injuries of flea beetles and other insects to cause excessive transpiration and its consequent marginal burning of the leaves. Here also the logical line of attack seems to be the production of varieties possessing heat resistance.

With the progress of studies of this problem other potato diseases have been recognized in the United States. Some of these, like the brown-rot, had doubtless been long prevalent, while others, like the blackleg, appear to have been recently introduced from Europe.

A new group of diseases came into prominence about ten years ago which had not hitherto been recognized as of economic importance. Soon after there occurred in Europe an outbreak of a disease known as leaf-roll. This affliction caused heavy losses in Germany and Austria and elsewhere, though it has not been as generally destructive as was feared. Whether it is the same as an American disease is still a subject of controversy. One of the main objects of the investigators of potato diseases in the department of agriculture is to distinguish between American and European troubles, so that if the disease originally occurs in this country it may be controlled, and if it originates in Europe, it may be kept out by quarantine.

The department's new bulletin contains numerous illustrations of new diseases that are to be feared by potato growers. If growers will realize more clearly the danger of the insidious losses suffered because of seldom-recognized diseases, and from diseases transmitted through the seed, they will be more eager to join a general campaign against these troubles. The final result will be to place the potato industry on a higher plane than it occupies today.

The types of disease distinguished as of some importance in the United States and especially treated in the new bulletin are the following.

Fusarium wilt—A disease characterized by the wilting of the plant. Widespread in America, but not yet identified from Europe.

Verticillium wilt—A wilt resembling the foregoing, often more rapid. Present in both America and Europe.

Leaf-roll—An inheritable disease marked by rolling of the leaves, reduced yield, and other symptoms. Probably not due to a parasite. Common in Europe and lately appearing in America.

Curly-dwarf—An inheritable, non-parasitic trouble in which dwarfing is a prominent characteristic. Found in Europe and America.

Rosette—A stunted or dwarfed condition of the potato associated with injuries of the underground stems and roots caused by a fungus; most conspicuous in the Western United States.

Mosaic—A condition marked by a mottling and distortion of the foliage. Not previously described, but present in Europe as well as America.

ACTIVE FARMERS' CLUB.

By B. M. GILE,
Agricultural Instructor in Bemidji High School.

The Turtle River Township Farmers' club which centers around Bass lake is to be congratulated. This club which was organized last August by the local agriculturist, certainly has a corps of officers and members who are in for doing things. When these people first met as a club they were strangers to each other. The women had seldom, if ever, met before. They now meet once a month and each one brings something to eat so that a splendid dinner is served. The women brushed elbows in the preparing of the dinner while the men talked of things which would improve the community and increase farm profits. Outside talent is invited to the meetings and new ideas and suggestions are received. The members are beginning to get acquainted and community interest is growing.

This is only one of the active clubs in Beltrami county but after seeing what it is helping to bring about there can be no doubt left in the mind of the most skeptical as to the value of organizing these clubs. Alfalfa culture, community interest, better farming, a rural mail route, and a telephone line, are some of the direct results, yet the club is only five months old.

HOW THEY KEEP BOYS ON FARMS IN KANSAS

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside John Leslie Simpson writes an article about the co-operation between parents and sons—particularly in Kansas where the importance of keeping boys on the farms is well recognized. Following is an extract from the article:

"The Kansas farmer sees to it that the boy has a certain amount of recreation and pleasure scattered through his days of toil.

"The son of the Kansas farmer is trained along financial lines from childhood up, so when he is ready to start the serious road of manhood and responsibility he doesn't have to plunge in the water, so to speak, without knowing how to swim a stroke.

"A Kansas farmer who had become fairly well off by his own efforts trained his boy along these lines When the boy was 11 years old he gave him a pair of colts, the boy to take care of them, and help with the other work to pay for their feed. When the boy was 16 the colts had grown into a fine team of work horses. The boy now had some pigs, calves, etc., besides the team, and took a real interest in the farm work. By the time he was 19 years old he had nearly enough equipment to farm for himself. He bought another horse with money he had made working for neighbors, got some tools and sets of harness, and rented twenty-five acres of land from a neighbor. He helped with the work at home, and farmed a little for himself. Later he rented a quarter section of land. At 21 he has a full set of farming tools, horses, etc., and has landed squarely on his feet. Next year he will farm the home place on shares. Here is a good example of how Kansas farmers save their boys."

DORMANT SPRAYING.

By R. C. ROSE,
Assistant in Plant Pathology, University Farm, St. Paul.

All orchardists should purchase their spraying supplies early so as to be sure to have everything on hand at the proper time. If left till the last minute, the shipment may be delayed for some time in transit and the spraying so delayed as to cause considerable loss to the orchard. It is very important that the spraying be done at the right time, for if applied too early or too late, its value may be greatly reduced. The mixtures used for dormant spraying are made much stronger than for later applications and hence should never be used after growth has started in the spring.

The dormant wash is especially important for orchards which have previously shown disease. The spores of the disease may live over winter on the dead leaves or fruit or in the crevices of the bark or the root-like mycelium of the organism may live over in the dead branches of the trees and thus be a continual source of infection for other trees. Therefore the logical thing to do is to cover the trees thoroughly with a fungicide that will kill the infection thread the minute the spores start growth in the sprlug. It is imperative that the trees be thoroughly covered with the spray or otherwise the work would not be worth while. As a secondary measure of precaution, all the dead and diseased branches should be pruned out and burned before spraying is done and the wounds covered with white lead to keep them from rotting while healing.

There are several different kinds of spraying compounds in use at the present time, the most important for dormant spraying are commercial lime-sulphur which is mixed with water at the rate of one gallon to nine gallons of water; self-boiled lime-sulphur (15-20-50) and copper sulphate, 2 pounds to fifty gallons of water. The first of these seems to be the most satisfactory and its use is gradually increasing each year. Further information on handling and applying spray mixtures is given in Bulletin 121 of the Minnesota Experiment station.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

By LE ROY CADY.
Associate Horticulturist, University Farm, St. Paul.

Pruning may be done any warm day now.

Is any attempt being made to put a windbreak and a few shrubs about the schoolhouse?

Topworking apple and plum trees is in order now. Use healthy cions on which the buds has not started.

Golden Bantam sweet corn is one of the best early kinds. Planted every day or so until July 1, it will furnish green corn throughout the season.

Good seed and good, vigorous, healthy plants are essential for success in vegetable gardening. They are obtained by careful management.

Sprays of pussy willows and cherry branches in water at this time of year are useful for decorating purposes.

Grow your own asparagus plants if they cannot be purchased readily. The seed is as easily sown as that of onions or radishes. Buy only the best seed.

Do not buy many novelties and do not expect too much from those you do buy. Some are worth while but many turn out to be old friends renamed.

If you grow vegetables for a local market plant only those of best quality, even though the yield is not quite as great as that of an inferior kind. Quality will pay in the end.

Plant a few white elm, hackberry, or basswood trees about the buildings for shade. They should be set as soon as the ground is settled and in good condition for seeding.

Soil has much to do with quality. Study your soil and use those varieties that do best on it. This is something that the individual must work out for himself.

A good useful flower garden should be a part of every vegetable garden. Cut flowers should be seen in the home as frequently as good pictures.

The hard maple is a splendid shade tree on account of its thick foliage. The change of foliage during autumn adds to its attractiveness. It is a much slower growing tree than some of the others.

TURKEYS.

By C. E. BROWN.
Poultryman, Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston, Minn.

The Bronze turkey is the most popular turkey with the farmers in America. It is very hardy, and lays a large number of eggs. The standard weights are: Gobbler, thirty-six pounds, hen, twenty pounds; cockerel, fifteen pounds; pullet, twelve pounds.

The White Holland, the Narragansett, and the Black are all splendid varieties, though smaller than the Bronze turkey. For markets that require small birds, these are more suitable.

AZOTURIA.

Assistant Veterinarian, University Farm, St. Paul.

At this time of the year azoturia is a rather common disease among farm horses. Horses that are kept in badly ventilated stables and fed on rich nitrogenous feeds without being allowed to exercise are the ones most often affected. This disease has been termed or called spinal meningitis by a great many people, but this name should be discarded as the spinal cord and its coverings are not affected. Azoturia is primarily a disease of the muscles, usually affecting the muscles of the hind parts, but many at times attack the muscles of the front limbs. As the disease progresses the kidneys become overworked in the attempt to throw off the poisonous material from the blood stream.

If this process is continued for a certain length of time the kidneys will become inflamed, greatly reducing the chances of the patient's recovery.

Symptoms.

The first signs of azoturia may appear soon after the animal is taken from the stable or they may fail to appear until the animal has exercised for several hours. Sudden lameness is usually the first sign to be noticed by the driver, this is seen by the knuckling over of one or both of the fetlock joints. The horse is inclined to hold back and is soon sweating profusely. If he is encouraged or forced to go further he soon loses control of the hind limbs and falls to the ground being able to rise again only with great difficulty. The paralysis may be so severe as to prevent the animal from getting to its feet again during the course of the disease. The most characteristic symptom of azoturia is the coffee-colored urine which has a very peculiar odor.

Treatment.

When tsis disease occurs while the animal is on the road he should be stopped immediately and if possible taken to the nearest stable. He should be well blanketed as the cold aggravates the disease. At times it will be necessary to use a stonebont in order to get the animal to a place of shelter. A veterinarian should be called as scon as possible as the medicinal treatment should be begun early.

Prevention.

Azoturia may be prevented by reducing the animal's feed while he is at rest. Bran mash should be given occasionally in order to keep the contents of the bowels from becoming dry and hard. The animal should be allowed to exercise in a lot or paddock for one or two hours during the warmest part of each day.

CHOOSING STALLIONS.

By J. S. MONTGOMERY,
Assistant General Husbandman, University Farm, St. Paul.

As the spring season draws near, the progressive farmer who keeps brood mares is confronted with the problem of choosing a stallion to which to breed. In many cases it is merely a question of eliminating the worst as there are many communities that are not supplied with a good stallion. In many other cases, however, the saving of $5 on a service fee plays an all too important part. Fifty-five per cent of the stallions licensed in the state are grades or less than grades, which shows that too many are neglecting the matter of patronizing a good sire, and are thereby reducing their profits. A saving of $5 on a service fee often means a loss of $100 or more when the colt is 2 years old.

When looking at a stallion it is well to ask yourself, "How much would he be worth as a gelding? If his colts are like him will they be good market geldings? How much improvement will he make when bred to the average farm mares?" The answer to these questions will decide whether the horse is a suitable sire or not. In answering them it should be kept in mind that good feet and legs are the first essential of a marketable horse. If the stallion does not have them he cannot be expected to produce them in his offspring.

The state license which the owner of a stallion must show is the best guide to the breeding of the stallion.

BUTTE-DULUTH'S LEACHING PLANT IS BEING ENLARGED

Expect to Produce Copper Sheets Around 6 Cents a Pound.

Crosscutting on 480-Foot Level of Butte & Zenith City.

Butte, Mont., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Sherwood of the Butte-Duluth company is authority for the statement that, if everything goes well, in time the company will be turning out copper sheets around 6 cents a pound. He makes this calculation on the theory that the leaching plant of the company will be enlarged to 3,000 tons in the near future. The company at the present time is operating a plant treating 110 tons of ore a day, but in the course of three months, he says, the plant now being enlarged to handle 1,000 tons a day will be in operation, and in time it will be enlarged to 3,000 tons capacity. He believes that the March cost of production will be around 7½ cents a pound and that the larger the plant the lower the cost of production. In regard to prediction that the company will eventually turn out copper at around 6 cents a pound he says that he went very thoroughly over the costs under different conditions and with due consideration as to the capacity of the plant and that was the conclusion reached.

Butte & Zenith City.

The management is engaged in cross-cutting on the 480-foot level of the Butte & Zenith City property. A big flow of water has been encountered and the pumping capacity has had to be increased. Supt. Newton says that after a careful study of the situation and after consultation with the principal owners of the property in Duluth it was decided to cross-cut on the veins north and south and abandon the idea of shaft-sinking for a time.

Zinc Plant Ready to Operate.

The plant of the Northwestern Metals company, which has been erected in the Helena district, is about ready to commence operations. If the plant is successful it will revolutionize mining throughout the world and make possible the treatment of extremely low grade zinc ores which cannot now be worked successfully by any of the present smelting processes. The process is an electrolytic chlorine gas one. The plant cost in the vicinity of $750,000 and has been in the course of construction for the past four years. The late J. Pierpont Morgan was interested in the plant to the extent of $60,000, and his estate retains the securities. The electric plant is said to be one of the finest in the West and will require from 1,500 to 2,000 horse power to operate. The operation of the plant will be watched with the greatest interest by all mining men, especially those engaged in the zinc industry.

Exhibit by Anaconda.

Vice President Kelly of the Anaconda Copper Mining company has made the announcement that his company will install an exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition. He says that his company will make a creditable showing in the mines and minerals section. It will include native ores from the mines of the company, together with the results of the various metallurgical processes. It will show each step taken from mining to the finished article, and in some measure should convey at a glance the importance of the copper mining industry. Mr. Kelly said that if Montana had an exhibit, his company would be pleased to contribute a mining department, but should the state not have an exhibit, the company will contribute a mining industry section.

Butte Central.

The Butte Central Copper Mining company reorganization plan predicted some time ago will probably be a reality in the course of a short time. The other day the property was sold to Ralph A. Gallagher for $7,200, and just as soon as the court confirms the sale, the preliminary steps will be taken to start the new organization in operation.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior company is pushing the development work on the 1,400-foot level of the Black Rock. The Four Johns claim has been entered a distance of about 50-feet from the line of the Black Rock mine, and the ore body has a width of some five posts, affording a stoping width of 35 feet of about 18 per cent zinc and 10 ounces of silver. There is a belief that this same ore body will be encountered on the 1,600-foot level.

Bullwhacker.

The Kelly filter press has been installed in the Bullwhacker plant for the handling of the slimes. There are twenty-four big leaching tanks in commission and copper is being turned out. After about three months, should the plant prove the success anticipated, it is intended to enlarge the plant to 500 tons capacity.

Butte-Alex Scott.

President Hugo of the Butte-Alex Scott property, who returned home after spending several days in the city making a thorough inspection of the property, said that the mine was showing up well on the 2,000-foot level and that the prospects are exceedingly encouraging. He reported that the drift on the 2,000-foot level was in 200 feet on the vein, showing righ grade ore. The vein is five feet wide, and a carload shipped assayed 9.3 per cent copper and a little over two ounces in silver to the ton.

Butte & London.

There is yet some uncertainty when the Butte & London property will commence operations. Upwards of two weeks ago the compressor, which the management is said to be waiting for, was shipped from the East, but it has not yet arrived. Little time will be lost when it arrives in getting to work, as everything has been in readiness waiting for the compressor for many weeks. Three weeks will be required to drain the shaft before an examination can be made to ascertain if the shaft requires any repairs after a close down of some six years.

North Butte.

The North Butte company expects that the big electric hoist which is to be installed at the Granite Mountain shaft will be shipped inside of the next two months. When it arrives the ground will be in readiness to receive it, and the work of installation will be completed with as little delay as possible. After the hoist is put into commission, it is expected that the Speculator shaft will be closed down for a general overhauling and the ore hoisted through the Granite Mountain shaft.

IN THE IRON RIVER FIELD

Outlook Indicates Increasing Output for Years to Come.

Corrigan-McKinney Mines to Expand Shipments This Year.

Of the 221 mines on the list of shippers in the Lake Superior iron region last year, forty-four were Menominee range properties which sent out 4,965,000 tons of ore, an amount 200,000 tons under the record established by the district in 1906. The Menominee range lies in the two Michigan counties of Iron and Dickinson and the Wisconsin county of Florence, the latter, however, possessing only three producers, but with, presumably, large deposits still undeveloped. Of the forty-four shippers, thirty-two were in Iron county, and these sent out 3,126,000 tons of the total of 4,965,000 credited to the district. The bulk of the Iron county production came from the Iron River field, the balance from the Crystal Falls country. A few years ago the shippers at Iron River and in the territory tributary to it could be numbered on the fingers of one hand; now they have increased to eighteen, and the output last year went close to the 2,000,000-ton mark.

Growing Output Expected.

The Iron River field has by no means reached its zenith. The outlook indicates a steadily increasing production for years to come, a fact recognized by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company, which at large expense has extended its line sixteen miles from Crystal Falls and will this year for the first time share in the ore traffic. Among the Iron River properties that will considerably expand their shipments the coming season are the Tully and Baker, twin mines of Corrigan, McKinney & Co., and which in 1913 sent out 41,000 tons of ore. The Tully is a new property, with a product of high grade. A second shaft has been sunk during the winter. Two hundred men are on the payroll. Much new ground has been opened at the Baker, where a large body of ore developed the last few months has added materially to the life of the mine. The Baker is employing 100 men. Both it and the Tully will increase forces with shipping in progress. The development of the Tully with benefit the Great Western mine at Crystal Falls. This property is idle now, with a stockpile of large proportions. The Great Western produces a low grade ore for which latterly there has been little demand. Mixed with the Tully ore there will be created a product which will be desirable for furnace use and will be easily saleable. This in turn will mean a resumption of operations at the Great Western.

Crystal Falls District.

While the Crystal Falls field has of late seasons been lagging behind its younger and more vigorous rival on the west side of Iron county, its production of 1913 will probably be doubled the next few years. Three mines are in course of development—the Judson of the Longyear interests, the Balkan of Pickands, Mather & Co., and the Carpenter of M. A. Hanna & Co. Two of these, and possibly the third—the Balkan—will join the ranks of the shippers this year. All three will be big mines and will greatly augment the production of the field, notwithstanding some of the old-timers are passing out of existence. The Judson is in need of miners and will, it is announced, finance the erection of dwelling houses for married men that enter its employ. The Mansfield mine, which last year shipped a stockpile of 190,000 tons, will send out no ore the coming season, having been abandoned by the United States Steel corporation. Whether the property will be operated again depends on the success of the fee owners in negotiating a new lease, a matter which at present is vague and indefinite.

Two other Crystal Falls properties stripped of their machinery and abandoned are the Crystal Falls and Fairbanks mines, members of the Corrigan-McKinney group. Their combined output last year was less than 10,000 tons. The Crystal Falls still contains some ore, but it is probable it will be years before the property is restored to activity. The Hollister, which in 1913 sent out 25,000 tons, also will not ship the coming season; neither will the Armenia. The Hollister is a small property with an insignificant showing of unusually wet ore; it had been operated by the M. A. Hanna & Co. The Armenia is a Corrigan-McKinney mine, which last year outputted 85,000 tons. Compared with seasons past, Corrigan, McKinney & Co. latterly have been operating their Crystal Falls group on a small scale. The company is building its own furnaces now, and with these in blast the Tobin, Dunn, Kimball and Great Western, members of the group, will, it is expected, be wrought vigorously, and the Crystal Falls ore production will be given a strong boost upward.

CALUMET & ARIZONA BUYS MORE CLAIMS

Deal for Higgins, Adjoining Calumet & Bisbee, Is Closed.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 28.—A mining deal which has caused great interest in mining circles is the sale of the three claims of the Higgins group, adjoining the three fractional claims of the Calumet & Bisbee, to the Calumet & Arizona mining company. The ground which also adjoins the White Tail Deer property of the Copper Queen company has been thoroughly proven through the recent remarkable showing of that mine, and the deal is considered the most important in the recent history of the Warren district.

One phase of the transaction which attracts great interest is the encroachments of the Calumet & Arizona upon the portion of the district which has always been considered "Copper Queen territory." This has become more marked since the Calumet & Arizona acquired the three fractions of the Calumet & Bisbee a few months ago. The company's plans as to development of the new ground have not been announced.

Another cheering indication of betterment in the Warren district is the distinct advance in the price of Wolverine & Arizona stock. The advance is based upon a solid foundation of merit, judging from reports concerning recent mine developments. A short time ago the company decided to increase its shipments from two cars weekly to a car a day, which is the amount now coming to the Copper Queen smelter here. In order to accomplish this result new air drills were purchased and put to work, the result has been exceptionally good. While the Higgins tunnel has been used as the working outlet for the property, there has been considerable development on the southern part of the hill recently and this has proved that portion of the property to the satisfaction of the stockholders and the public. The portion of the property over the hill from Bisbee, which has been proved, adjoins the Calumet & Arizona purchase noted above.

JONES & LAUGHLIN ACQUIRE LANDS ON CUYUNA RANGE

Take Forties Owned By Crosby, Nelson, Carlson and Others.

More Ore-Carrying Contracts Are Made By the Soo Line.

Brainerd, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports are heard on the Cuyuna range that the Jones & Laughlin interests have taken over a forty owned by George H. Crosby in the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 18, township 46, range 29, and a forty owned by P. H. Nelson, Carlson and others in the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 17, township 46, range 29. Another important report is that the tonnage is to go to the Northern Pacific railway.

The Hale-Bradley Exploration company of Deerwood has placed a drill in the east half of the southeast quarter of section 2, township 46, range 28, for George H. Wyman of Anoka. Cole & McDonald are operating a drill in section 1, township 46, range 29, on the Chisholm, Williams and Magoffin lands north of Crosby. The Northern Pacific railway will get this tonnage. M. Hobart of Minneapolis, owning a tract of 4,000 acres of land in Aitkin county, has a drill working in the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 30, township 51, range 26.

Pennington to Ship Heavily.

The Pennington pit mine is working steam shovels and making preparations for large shipments this year. An engine and boiler house is being built in the pit. Eventually, many believe, a shaft may also be put down and the ore trammed up the incline to the surface. This may be the last season of purely pit mining. John A. Oberg, Donald Quinlivan and other officers and stockholders of the Gopher Iron company of St. Paul, which owns an interest in the Pennington, were on the range this week, examining their various properties.

Next to Pennington is the pit mine property of the Cuyuna Iron & Manganese Ore company, situated in section 10, township 46, range 29. Drills were started about a year ago and a fine body of ore has been shown up, said to be an immense basin over 1,500 feet long, 500 feet wide and bottomed in good ore. One hole, down 525, is bottomed in good ore. The surface being shallow and the ground of a light nature, similar to the Pennington, the company is assured of having a most desirable pit mining proposition. Holes 42 and 43 are now being drilled and good reports are received.

The Cuyuna Iron & Land company has filed a release of option to Martha Fellerman, the land being in the southwest quarter of section 12, township 47, range 28. William Hoscheid and others have filed a release and quitclaim of option to Carl Madsen, the property covering the north half of the northeast quarter, the north quarter of the south half of the northeast quarter of section 11, township 44, range 30.

Contracts to Carry Ore.

Ore-carrying contracts entered into between the Iron Mountain Mining company, Gorham-Garbett company and the Soo line have been placed on record in Crow Wing county. This covers ore in the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 33, township 47, range 29. The ore will be carried at 60 cents a ton. The railway company agrees to put in spur and load tracks.

McCullough & Cheney of Minneapolis have the contracts for building the Northern Pacific extension from the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine to the Duluth-Brainerd mine. They recently were awarded the contract to build the bridge at Northeast Brainerd. The Soo line is reported as intending to do considerable double-tracking on the range to take care of its immense tonnage. The Northern Pacific, it is reported, may extend to Riverton and then, no doubt, the road will be run on south to Loerch, surveys for this having been made some time ago.

Wilcox Sinking Shaft.

The Wilcox mine at Woodrow, six miles east of Brainerd, is working a large crew and the shaft, a three-compartment timber shaft, is down about sixteen feet. Additional men were put to work on Wednesday. Considerable electrical equipment will be put in, the current being supplied by the Cuyuna Range Power company. Ray Seelye states it is contemplated to install electric turbines, four stage, two pumps of 1,000 gallons capacity each, also two auxiliary steam pumps. The compressor is to be of 1,000 cubic feet capacity, electric drives, Ingersoll-Rand to supply hammer type drills. The hoist is to be steam-driven, seven tons capacity. There are to be two skips. There are to be steam boilers of 300 horse power, return tubular type, to drive the hoist and auxiliary steam pumps. Underground the usual mine cars and stope cars, etc., will be used. Mr. Seelye's idea is to use considerable electric power for pumping and air compressor and have this backed by a reserve steam supply, thus obviating any possible shutdowns.

Chester D. Tripp of the Rogers-Brown Ore company and C. A. Stillman of the Iroquois Iron company were on the range this week, returning to Chicago Thursday. Mr. Tripp said the ore market was still unsettled. The end of this month will probably bring stability to the market. All the Rogers-Brown Ore company's properties were being worked in a most capable manner. The Armour No. 2 and the Kennedy are getting out large stockpiles.

Interests Change Hands.

There have recently been placed on record deeds bearing some of the most lengthy descriptions ever recorded. Charles Benner quit-claimed to John O. Juveland an undivided one-half mineral interest in the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 19, 47-29, also parts of section 7, 137-25, section 2, 138-25, sections 5, 27, 19, 138-25, parts of sections 31, 11 and 33, 136-26, parts of sections 9, 15, 21, 31, 33, 35, 136-27; parts of 31, 137-28, 15, 134-29 and 23, 134-28. John O. Juveland conveyed to Thorpe Bros. an undivided one-fourth interest in minerals in property in the same locality. Carl Madsen has sold to Clarence C. Skillings for $1,850 the north half of the northeast quarter, the north half of the south half of the northeast quarter of section 11, 44-30. The Minnesota Farm Land company has sold to Joseph J. Hennen an undivided 1-32 interest in lots 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, the south half of the northeast quarter, the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter and the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 11, 137-27. Harlan P. Roberts has sold to Thorpe Bros. an undivided one-sixth interest in minerals in the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 6, 138-27, giving a mineral quit claim deed.

Benjamin H. Joslin has sold to Kay Todd of St. Paul an undivided one-fourth interest in lot 1 of section 6, 46-26, the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 30, 47-29, and the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 33, 136-26. Joseph Chapman has sold for $1,750 an undivided three-fourths interest in lot 5 of section 5, 137-26 and lots 1 and 2 of section 4, 137-26.

Sold to Cross Lake Company.

The Shawmut company has sold to the Cross Lake Land company a considerable amount of property in the northern townships of the county. A lot of property was also conveyed to the Lake Emily Land company in the same locality. The Cross Lake lands lie in parts of sections 21, 23, 27, 31, 32, 33, 137-26; parts of sections 1, 2, 3, 12, 13, 14, 15, 19, 21, 22, 23, 25, 27, 28, 29, 30, 33, 35, 137-27. The Lake Emily Land company's property lies in parts of section 30, 137-25; parts of sections 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 24, 137-26; parts of sections 3 and 6, 138-25; parts of sections 1, 13, 25, 27, 35, 138-26.

Thomas A. Merritt has sold to the Cornish Iron company an undivided two-thirds interest of the south half of the northeast quarter and the east half of the southeast quarter of section 36, 44-32.

The Barrows mine has now over 20,000 tons in stockpile. The town will come in for considerable growth during the shipping season. The Adams mine at Oreland has about 2,000 tons in stockpile. At the Brainerd-Cuyuna mine, in the city limits of Brainerd, work is being carried on at the second shaft. The Cuyuna Sultana Iron company is proving up a good body of ore near the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine. The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs has about 10,000 tons of ore in stockpile. A 1,500-gallon pump is being installed at the 205-foot level. Ore is being hoisted from three levels at the Cuyuna-Duluth mine. A large stockpile is being accumulated. The Iron Mountain mine is expected to ship heavily this season.

FORTY MILLION TONS IN AJOS

Striking Feature of Annual Report of Calumet & Arizona.

It is probable that to the average stockholder of the Calumet & Arizona and to the investor in mining stocks, the references made in the annual report of that company to its New Cornelia property in the Ajos will prove of most striking interest. The details given concerning the ore findings at this property, now determined above 41,000,000 tons, with a great deal more of the area admittedly yet to be explored, are of very much importance and should establish firmly in the mind of the Calumet & Arizona stockholder that his shares are assured of increased earnings of $3 or more per year following the bringing of Cornelia into production.

The report says that work for the past year in the New Cornelia has demonstrated that the company has secured ore of the great low grade porphyry mines, which will be a source of long continued revenue to its stockholders. Following are estimates of the ore reserves in the New Cornelia:

	Tons of Ore.	Per Ct. Copper.
Carbonate	11,964,000	1.54
Sulphide	28,303,600	1.50
Total carbonate and sulphide	40,258,000	1.51
Available by steam shovel—
Carbonate	11,954,400	1.54
Sulphine	20,526,800	1.54
Total carbonate and sulphide	32,481,200
Not available by steam shovel—
Sulphide	7,776,800	1.40

The report says: "The carbonate ores, which form about 25 per cent of the total tonnage developed, will be leached. The copper may be precipitated from solution by metallic iron and produced commercially at a reasonable cost, but we are experimenting with a different method of precipitating the copper, which, if successful, will result in a great saving in cost over precipitating with iron and will also in a large part recreate the acid used in leaching. If this method proves practicable, it will of course, supplant our present plan of precipitating with iron. From actual experiments by flotation methods, our sulphide ores are found to yield a splendid recovery and we feel that a very high saving can be made on this class of ores, if we decide to use a flotation process."

The improvements made in Junction shaft, where concrete has made this structure fireproof and practically indestructible, assuring the maximum safety from interference with keeping all workings of the company under pump and undisturbed by water at all times; the readiness made for a very large year of development in Junction territory, the great things pointed out in the Cole shaft area, the headway in Briggs toward big things in this year, are among the strong features in the report division. These are topped by continued showing of high tenor of pounds in ore being mined by the company, an average of more than 105 pounds to the ton being maintained. It can be added that development made of ore since the closing of the annual report for 1913 has added materially to the splendid strength shown for the property in the report.

In the smelting division there is no hesitation about proclaiming that the plant "has no superior." The report bears out previously printed statements that the smelter is equal to all that may fall to its hand and that it will reduce costs of Calumet & Arizona copper during the present year.

UMATILLA GROUP PROMISES WELL

Arsenical Vein Shows Big Possibilities, Says Harry Bush.

Helena, Mont., March 28.—Three shots fired in a mine in the Umatilla group at Birdseye, have uncovered an arsenical vein, which, it is believed by Harry Bush, will prove to be one of the best discoveries in Lewis and Clark county for a number of years.

Assays of this ore give $70 to $124 per ton, with a promise of retaining values, Mr. Bush says in a letter addressed to the Independent. The property was taken over by E. R. Gamey of Toronto, Can., about three months ago, and active work was immediately started to place the mine on a shipping and milling basis.

A five-stamp mill has been erected with cyanide plant and foundation for an additional five stamps has been completed. The past few weeks an incline shaft has been put down fifty feet, all in good ore; also, another shaft is being sunk to cut another rich lead at depth. There are quantities of ore that will run from $10 to $15 per ton, but the crosscut from the shaft will open up the many veins, gaining depth all the time.

The stamps now in use will be replaced by ten fifty-pound stamps, and an additional five stamps installed with concentrating tables and the cyanide plant put in good shape for early action.

Acquires North Cliff Property and Will Start Drilling.

Keweenaw Copper has just taken an option of the North Cliff property and is now setting up two drills to explore the Ashbed lode. The North Cliff consists of between 800 and 900 acres and is located in the middle of the upper end of the Cliff mine, which is controlled by the Calumet & Hecla. It has the frontage of a little over a mile on Lake Superior, a length, running north and south, of about one and three-eighths miles, and a width of a mile, and is a mile west of the Phoenix subsidiary of the Keweenaw Copper company. Set off from the Cliff in 1858, it was mined up to 1861 on the northern end of the fissure vein that made the parent mine in 1849 the first dividend-payer in the district. A tunnel or adit about 1,700 feet long was driven and three shafts sunk, the deepest being 340 feet. This tract is largely held by the estates of the late John Senter of Houghton and Charles J. Hodge of Detroit. The recent developments on this lode have aroused a great interest in these dormant properties, another party having endeavored to secure an option just after the Keweenaw signed papers. The lode runs almost due east and west and has a strike of about a mile. As it dips to the north into the lake, it can be mined in the limits of mining practice. Cole & McDonald, the diamond drill contractors of Duluth, who are operating two drills on the Cliff, three miles southeast, will do the drilling. The high grade of copper disclosed by the reopening of the Garden City shaft and the satisfactory results of the diamond drill work at the Phoenix would seem to foreshadow that good values may be found on the North Cliff. A crosscutting will be made along the strike of the Ashbed. The recent report of the Cliff states that as soon as the drills have finished their work at the southeast end of that mine they will be transferred to the northern end, and they also will explore the Ashbed with the other lodes.

Changes in Drill Machines.

The type of drill used here in the Copper country has during the past three years and a half undergone a series of improvements, resulting in a much higher efficiency and a great saving in operating cost, the climax of all these betterments being what the miners call the "Baby Leyner." For over thirty years the Ingersoll-Rand drill, or more properly speaking, drilling machine, has been the standard, when Supt. Potter at the Superior successfully introduced the single man pattern, known as the "Butterfly," on account of the shape of its valve, which allowed a greater flow of compressed air at the initial moment of its action, thus causing the drill to strike the rock with a greater impact. This drill opened up more ground with a very great economy in labor and in power, together with a great convenience in handling, as the weight was reduced from 290 to 160 pounds. Soon after, General Manager MacNaughton gave a most thorough trial of all the single man drills, then in use, at Shaft No. 16 on the Osceola lode on the Calumet & Hecla and it resulted in the purchase of the Leyner water drill by the Ingersoll-Rand company, and in combination of the butterfly valve, the hollow drill for the use of the water to clean the hole of dust and to cool off the drills, the hammer action which permits of more forcefulness than the piston driven drill, and the single man size in a new type, the Leyner-Ingersoll. This has still greater speed and effects a still greater saving in costs. It is superseding almost all other patterns, and is exclusively operated at the Calumet & Hecla and its subsidiaries with the exception of a few of the old Ingersoll-Rand class on the Calumet conglomerate, which will be probably soon replaced. The Wolverine, Mohawk, Franklin, Winona, Hancock and some others have adopted it as a standard and are putting them into service as fast as they can be obtained. Almost all of the other mines are securing them as conditions permit. At first there were some objections from the men, but as soon as the rule now become a state statute, was made that there must always be two men working near to one another so that in case of injury or sickness there would be assistance near at hand, and as the pay was increased on account of the more difficult work, the men began to ask for these drills. The single man drill was given as one of the grievances that led to the strike, but this contention was not seriously supported.

The "Baby Leyner."

General Manager Lawton of the Quincy, while trying out these new models became convinced that the size and consequently the weight could be greatly decreased without reducing the efficiency and made suggestions to the company's representative, T. F. Lynch, who with the company's designers evolved the "Baby Leyner," a machine only weighing ninety-two pounds which with the exception of a few necessary mechanical changes is exactly similar to the Ingersoll-Leyner and which does the same amount of work. Besides the saving in the original cost and in the up-keep, the price of the steel of the drill proper is reduced one-half. The gain in convenience is very great and is appreciated by the miners. The Quincy has now 106 of these. It has been thought that the "Baby Leyner" is better adapted for the narrower veins, but further tests may prove this opinion to be a mistake. It is now being given a trial at the Calumet & Hecla and is giving good results both on the conglomerate and amygdaloid, but will be tested for a longer period before a final judgment is passed. The diameter of the drill proper is seven-eighths of an inch in comparison with that of one and one-quarter inches for the larger drill, but this is offset by using an explosive of higher power.

Naumkeag.

Naumkeag is continuing to encounter the coarse copper that with quite a little silver has been met with for about five weeks in the drift from the old adit or tunnel at the foot of Dakotah Heights close to Lake Superior. This drift is on one of the five or six branches of the Pewabic-Quincy lode that were disclosed by the adit and it yielded the best cores when cut by the diamond drill of all the lodes passed through. Although the vein is only five feet in width, the showing of the metal is very promising and one of the adjoining branches may also be found to carry copper when opened by a drift.

Franklin.

Franklin's drifts on the Allouez conglomerate have a length of about sixty-five feet and have maintained the same good quality as when cut by the crosscut. Lately quite a quantity of small barrel copper forming the matrix between the pebbles has been appearing in both faces. This is the first time that any of this form of copper, usually so common in conglomerates, has been encountered.

New Arcadian.

New Arcadian's new lode was inspected last week by Willard Smith, formerly superintendent of the Mohawk at the instance of President R. H. Shields. His report states that the disclosures to date will compare favorably with the average openings of like character on the Kearsarge lode, that the lode is mineralized for its full length and width, and that the latter averages from ten to twelve feet. Two mine managers of this district also at the request of the president visited the property and have expressed themselves in similarly favorable terms concerning the lode. The crosscut on the 600-foot level is finding the formations almost exactly the same as on the 750-foot level, it having made about thirty feet.

South Lake.

South Lake began the three-shift time this week as was done before the strike, the men relieving in place.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale, which has been working both shifts at all the shafts except No. 6, started the day-shift at the latter this week.

COL. JACKLING ON BUTTE & SUPERIOR

Recent So-Called Strike on 1400 Level Not a New Vein.

Butte, Mont., March 28.—Col. D. C. Jackling spent one day this week making a complete inspection of the mining and milling properties of the Butte & Superior company, paying particular attention to the recently developed ore bodies, and the improvements that have been made at the mill. He was accompanied on his trip by Supt. Bruce, and at the completion of the inspection trip he gave the following statement, which is of particular interest in view of conflicting statements recently sent East by local correspondents of Eastern mining papers:

"I found everything in the most satisfactory condition. The recent so-called ore strike on the 1,400-foot level of the Black Rock mine is not a discovery of a new vein, nor is it anything that was not expected.

"We merely opened up the ore body on the 1,400, which is an extension of the vein, as we have had it on the 1,100, 1,200 and 1,300 levels. We fully expected to develop this ore body, and would have been grievously disappointed had we not found it. We are not entirely through it yet, so we cannot state definitely its extent.

"However it extends a little further to the east than we looked for, and this was a pleasant surprise, as it meant the ore body was larger than we had looked for.

"The report of it being a new vein is not true. It is located on one of the regular veins of the Black Rock mine, and is in the Four Johns claim. This is a full and complete statement of what was found there in the course of our regular development work.

"The property is running now on a solid and scientific basis. The improvements made in the mill in the past two years have resulted in wonderful savings and increase in the earnings. We are not going to do any sinking at present. We do not need to. We have ore bodies blocked out above our lowest level that will last a long time under our present milling capacity.

"We are mining about 1,200 tons of ore per day in the actual mining time, and this, when change days and other things influencing operations are taken into consideration, means an average of about 1,100 tons per day for the actual calendar days of each month."

Col. Jackling left for Seattle en route to Alaska.

GOOD EARNINGS OF BARNES-KING

Earnings Per Share Now Averaging 72 Cents Per Year.

Butte, Mont., March 28.—Few mining properties in which Butte stockholders are interested present a more interesting situation or a better showing as to management than the Barnes-King.

During the eighteen months ending March 1 the earnings of the company from the North Moccasin property above the expenses of mining and milling amounted to approximately $180,000, or an average of $10,000 per month. Figuring these profits from the standpoint usually observed by corporations, this meant an annual profit of $120,000, or an earning of 6 per cent on the outstanding capital stock of $2,000,000 of the company. It meant the earning of 30 cents per share per year or 45 cents per share for the total of eighteen months.

The earnings as shown by the returns from the North Moccasin property for the months of January and February of this year were more than double the average for the eighteen months. They were about $24,000 per month, as against $10,000 for the whole period. Should this percentage be maintained for the other ten months of this year, it would make the earnings for the year $288,000, or 14 per cent on the total capitalization.

This would mean an earning for the twelve months of 72 cents per share, or about 40 per cent on the stock market value of the stock at present.

The fact that the management has been conserving its resources and using the earnings to clear off all the indebtedness, pay for both the North Moccasin and the Piegan-Gloster properties and put the latter into shape by using the earnings so that it may shortly become a producing mine, and thus add to the earnings, has kept any one from talking dividends, and this policy will be followed until the properties of the company at both Kendall and Marysville are on an operating basis.

President Goodale and the board of directors are bent on building up a great mining company, so that the par value of the stock will be once more restored and those who purchased the stock originally will see their first hopes realized.

INVESTIGATION OF IRON ORE INDUSTRY

Work Being Carried on By D. E. Woodbridge Nearly Completed.

Washington, March 28.—The third annual report of the national bureau of mines says that an investigation of the iron mining industry was continued during the year. This investigation includes methods of exploring for iron and measuring the ore in the ground, mining methods and costs, efficiency engineering and scientific management at mines, treatment of iron ores, safety measures in mines and sanitary precautions in miners' settlements, mine taxation and, in general, all the questions that arise in the iron ore industry from the prospecting of a deposit to the dumping of ore at the furnace. This work, which is now approaching completion, is being carried on by Dwight L. Woodbridge of Duluth. During the year two preliminary reports, one on "Accident Prevention at Lake Superior Iron Mines," and the other on "Sanitation at Mining Villages in the Birmingham District, Alabama," were compiled for publication. A complete bulletin on iron ore mining in the United States is being compiled and much of it has been written.

An investigation of the possibility of utilizing titaniferous magnetites in the electric furnace for the direct manufacture of iron-titanium alloys, such as are being used in making special grades of steel, is to be undertaken by the bureau.

GOOD RAINS BREAK WHEAT

Market Declines on News of Further Moisture Through Southwest.

Flaxseed Holds Strong With Buying on Strength at Winnipeg.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 28.—The wheat market broke sharply at the close today on selling brought about by reports of further rains in the Southwest. The opening was fractionally off and there prices rested until shortly before the end of the session, when a flood of liquidation set in. Liverpool cables were slightly off on favorable reports regarding the prospects of the European crop and freer Russian offers.

May wheat opened ¼c off at 92¼@92⅜c, and it closed ½c down at 91⅞@92c. July wheat opened unchanged at 93⅝c and it closed ½c off at 92⅞@93c. The September option closed ⅜c off at 88⅝c bid.

May durum opened unchanged at 90½c and it closed ½c off at 90c.

Oats closed unchanged at 36½c, and rye closed unchanged at 55@57c for the best grades. There was no market in barley.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 36½@36⅝c bid and July at 37¾c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at 90⅛@90¼c and calls at 90⅜@90⅝c.

The day's news was generally on the bearish order. There were further light rains through sections of Kansas, with more moisture also reported through Missouri and Nebraska.

Seaboard advices were to the effect that no export business was being put through, and there was a further easing up in the corn situation on expectations of more imports from Argentina.

Primary receipts for the day showed an increase of 70,000 bu from last year. Inspections at Duluth were in small proportions, amounting to 19 cars against 22 last year, and there was on the track for the day only 25 cars of all grades. The grain run at Minneapolis still continued, receipts there coming to 310 cars against 225 last year. Winnipeg reported arrivals of 240 cars compared with 216 a year ago.

Flaxseed Market Strong.

The market in flaxseed held firm, with a substantial volume of trading put through in the July option. A bullish influence in the situation was furnished in an advance at Winnipeg, attributed to the reported working of some export sales. Receipts of the seed up there were light, amounting to 24 cars for the day against 107 last year.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.60¾, and it closed ¼c up at $1.61. July closed unchanged at $1.62⅝ bid, and September ⅛c off at $1.63⅝.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.41¾, and July at $1.44⅝.

MARKET GOSSIP.

The following wire from Chicago was received by Parker Paine: "The important changing of holdings from May to July contracts for some time past has put the new crop month in a stronger position according to pit observers. There is more rain west over night but as yet reports do not indicate the extent of the precipitation in Kansas."

The Minneapolis cash demand was slow with the market quoted steady, but some concessions were reported compared with yesterday. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 1½@3c over, and velvet chaff at 1½@1¾c premium; flour sales were scattered and moderate. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from 91⅞c to 91⅜c and No. 2 northern at from 89⅝c to 91⅜c.

Baker had the following wire from Kansas City today: "A year ago Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri corn reserves on March 1 were about 216,000,000 bu which was practically all consumed before Nov. 1. This year reserves were 57,000,000 bu to supply a demand that ought to be fully 70 per cent as great as last year. Oklahoma had 35,000,000 bu last year, and this year 9,000,000 bu. Don't lose sight of this condition."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Disappointing American wheat cables yesterday and easier feeling at Winnipeg were offset here by expectations of lighter world's shipments as indicated by Bradstreets and a forecast of small American shipments to Liverpool. Opening values were unchanged. There continues a fair inquiry for Australians, and Plata offers as well as Indian are steadily held. During the trading, the market was extremely dull with some little decline. The favorable Modern Miller's report and the continued favorable European crop advices with freer Russian offers, served to check an advance but on the other hand the market displays a steady undertone. At the close prices were unchanged to ¼d lower.

Corn opened ¼d higher and later further advanced ¼d with the undertone steady. Firmer Plata offers, better spot demand and less favorable weather in Argentine helped the advance. At the close, July was ¼d higher."

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Easier on News and Market Conditions.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 28.—Heavier receipts, a lighter cash demand, favorable weather reports and slightly lower cables all tended to soften the local wheat market today. Only the better grades of No. 1 hard and No. 1 northern were booked by millers during the forenoon.

Wheat—May opened 90⅝ to ⅛@⅜c; high, 90⅝c; low, 90¼@90⅜c; closed 90⅜c bid. July opened 92¼@92¼c; high, 92¼c; low, 92c; closed 92c bid.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Eases Off, But Radical Decline Is Prevented.

Chicago, March 28.—Wheat eased off today on account of general rains Southwest. Commission house buying set in, however, as soon as the market had undergone a moderate dip. Decreasing stocks in this country and expected lighter world shipments had considerable to do with preventing any radical decline. Opening prices were ¼c to ⅛@⅜c lower, and a slight additional setback ensued before the market began to harden.

Minneapolis reports of enlarged country offerings Northwest had a bearish influence later. The close was steady, ⅛@⅜c under last night.

In corn there was a fair amount of buying orders, chiefly from out of town. Rain interfering with the Argentine harvest tended to help the bulls, but cash demand here and elsewhere was not urgent. Prices started unchanged to 1-6c higher, reacted somewhat, and then again rallied.

Afterward advices came telling of the weather having cleared in Argentina. The close was unsettled at a shade off to ⅛c up compared with last night.

Oats held steady. Offerings were moderate.

Lessened receipts of hogs gave strength to provisions. First sales ranged from 2½@7½c up, and there was a subsequent further advance.

TRADERS SELL MORE FREELY

Brunt of Pressure Borne By the Iron and Steel Group.

Prices Harden Near End Under Influence of Week-End Covering.

New York, March 28.—First transactions in stocks today showed an easier tendency. Trading was so light that the market came almost to a standstill five minutes after the opening. Lehigh Valley dropped nearly a point. The other active stocks receded in slight fractions with the exception of Reading, which made a small advance.

Injection of further bad features into the speculation situation, including the announcement of the heavy reduction in working forces on the New York Central system, caused the market to sag more rapidly on enlarged dealings. Losses of half a point or more were made by active stocks.

The market closed steady. Traders sold more freely today when it became evident that the successively lower levels of prices during the week had brought out a larger supply of stock. Further news of the far-reaching economies in force by the railroads and of sluggish trade conditions made the bulls timid, and they bought only when the fall in certain stocks threatened to unsettle the whole list.

The iron and steel group bore the brunt of the selling, the sharp decline in United States Steel resulting in hammering of stocks of independent companies. Although there were numerous weak points in the list at the day's low figures, prices hardened toward the end under the influence of the customary week-end covering.

Bonds were easy.

COPPER STOCKS FIRM AT CLOSE

Market Turns Firm on Good Buying—Keating a Strong Feature.

After opening weak and no liquidation appearing, traders in mining stocks at Boston were encouraged today and on fair buying, the market closed firm.

Butte & Superior closed unchanged at $34.75; Calumet & Arizona 25c off at $68; Franklin 25c off at $5.50; Granby 25c off at $87.75; North Butte 25c up at $27.25; Shattuck 25c up at $29.50; and Amalgamated Copper 38c down at $75.38.

Keating has been a conspicuous feature in Duluth curb stocks for some weeks past. Its quotation has been gradually strengthening on steady inquiry from apparently inside quarters at Butte. That has been brought about on expectations that a project for building a railroad into the mine during the coming summer will be consummated shortly. Three months ago the stock could have been picked up at around 95c, while today $1.50 was bid for it by brokers without anything coming out.

Trading was again active in Calumet & Corbin today. It closed strong at 30c bid.

M. W. Lee, the former well-known mining stock broker, is reported to have recently withdrawn his interests from the American Security company, and he is said to be arranging to operate a large farm near Sauk Center, Minn. Mr. Lee left yesterday for Sauk Center.

* * *

The annual report of Ahmeek for 1913, according to a wire received by Gay & Sturgis shows profits equal to $3.62 per share and the payment of $673,081 in unearned dividends, reducing the surplus to $706,128.

La Salle for 1913 shows a balance of assets of $158,827, compared with $240,659 on Jan. 1, 1913.

The Engineering and Mining Journal says editorially: "There is no doubt that during the last four years, the consumption of copper has been increasing more rapidly than the production, and that the present statistical position of the industry is very strong. It looks as if copper will probably become a dearer commodity in one, two or three years.

* * *

Referring to the present situation in mining stocks today's Skilling's Mining and Market Letter says: "Technically the mining stock market is in excellent shape, and a hopeful feeling prevails. But the hesitancy which obtains in general business, and all lines of industry, prevails in stock investment and speculative circles. All that is needed, apparently, is some good news to galvanize the stock market into activity. The best authorities agree that times are on the upgrade and while the progress at the moment may be slow, it is nevertheless healthy improvement. Meantime there will be a trading market, with the usual fluctuations. Mining stocks at present levels should prove good investments."

Weekly Report to Stockholders.

Work on the 100-foot level is gradually proving what we claimed when we struck ore on this level, that THE VEIN IS REGULAR AND GOING DOWN TO THE NORTHEAST UNDER THE JASPER RIDGE. This is what mining engineers stated it should do for a large hematite ore body. Drift is now in 70 feet east and west in the vein and we are still in this ore. The work on the 50-foot level shows it to be at least 70 feet wide north and south. Size of vein and regularity indicates one of the largest deposits ever found on this range. Everything in connection with this property is working out exactly as we had hoped. Stockholders who have visited the property recently are very enthusiastic over what they saw there. One of the very highest authorities on the Vermillion range made the statement some months ago that with depth we would find a red hematite ore body, and those stockholders who have been at the mine recently say there is every indication now that this is true. Samples assayed from this drift average 66.32 in iron.

WEST VIRGINIANS ARE STORING COAL

Predict Strike in the Ohio and West Virginia Fields.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 28.—Anticipating suspension of operations in the coal mines of Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia, railroads and manufacturing plants in this section have commenced to store coal. John Zalenka, secretary of the Pittsburg Mine Operators' association, with headquarters here, is authority for the statement that, in addition to the difficulties presented by the new run of mine law in Ohio, the miners of this sub-district have presented additional demands that make settlement almost impossible by April 1. Suspension will affect about 40,000 miners.

ALL IS ORDERLY IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Colliers, W. Va., March 28.—The arrival here of Maj. J. H. Sharnock of Governor Hatfield's staff to investigate conditions in the camp of the striking miners and to hear the complaints of the strikers of their treatment by county authorities, had a quieting influence in this entire section. The strikers hold that since they leased the ground on which their tents have been erected, they are within the law. There was no shooting from the hills into the town during the night, and the force of deputy sheriffs, reinforced late yesterday, had little to do.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE

New York, March 28.—Dun's Review says today: Expected improvement in trade conditions has not as yet materialized, and while indications of progress are manifest in certain directions, there still is a lack of uniformity in reports from the leading centers. A somewhat backward spring has militated against a normal distribution of seasonable merchandise.

The country's agricultural outlook constitutes a highly important factor and it is extremely gratifying that prospects for the winter wheat crop leave little to be desired. Similarly cotton is entering upon the new year under favorable auspices on the whole and prices of the great Southern staple have latterly shown somewhat less firmness.

News from the iron and steel industry—the foremost business thermometer—reflects a waiting attitude upon the part of consumers and new bookings this month will not equal those of February.

Failures this week in the United States are 343 against 248 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 38 against 25 last year.

Duluth, Minn., March 28, 1914.

We again take this opportunity of calling your attention to Calumet-Corbin and urge the immediate purchase of this issue. As we told you in our previous letter some 5 or 6 weeks ago, we made a personal visit and inspection of this property when the Calumet-Corbin became interested in it, and in company with engineers of the very highest standing in the country, and were readily convinced that under the proper management and with the necessary funds this property would earn dividends for the Calumet-Corbin stockholders and that the ore shown up not only equalled the selling price of the shares but was greatly in excess of the same. The development of the property not only is upholding the predictions of the engineers but is surpassing expectations and stamps the property a great big producer of high-grade ores and means a commercial success for Calumet-Corbin.

The past week's work is summed as follows in a wire from the manager at the mine to the home office:

Colorado Springs, Colo., March 27th, 1914.

Calumet-Corbin Mining Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Cut one foot $25.00 ore Noname vein in drift on tunnel level. Stope No. 1 producing $20 ore and Stope No. 2 producing $45.00 ore in west drift on the 200-foot level on the Noname vein. Expect to cut Noname-Oldbury Junction in week.

BENJ. F. HALL, Mgr.

We urge you to buy Calumet-Corbin now and buy it at the market. On our previous advice it was 18 to 20—now it is 30 to 31. This issue is becoming widely known every day and the past week has been an exceptionally active one from a market standpoint and the buying orders today outnumber the offerings 5 to 1. The stock is the most active by far on the Boston curb and today's bid were for some 3500 at 30c with nothing coming out. We also urge you to act at once for the reason that we are in position to know that matters of great importance and which will have a very favorable effect on the price of this issue are all but completed and delay will only mean paying considerably more for the shares.

We have never been connected with any issue which we felt positive would make money for the purchaser than this same Calumet-Corbin at this level. Buy from your broker or write, wire or phone us at our expense.

MORE MONEY IS AVAILABLE

Attorney's Decision Will Double the Amount of Street Work.

Vermilion Road May Be Improved During Coming Summer.

Instead of approximately $54,000 being available for the permanent improvement fund for 1914, about $100,000 is available, according to the opinion of City Attorney Harvey Clapp, as nearly as can be gathered from second-handed reports of a meeting held by the city council behind closed doors in the office of the works division with Vermilion road property owners this morning.

From these second-handed versions it seems that the city attorney stated that the council need not take into consideration the deficit of more than $60,000 which existed in that fund when the commission took charge last April, except that it should make provision to retire it on the installment plan, giving four years as a fair allowance.

Fesler's Decision.

It is said that the attorney's opinion is that this is what was meant by the decision which was handed down last fall by Judge Bert Fesler in deciding the Glenwood street storm sewer case. The contract was held up because the permanent improvement fund had been overdrawn, violating section 57 of the city charter, which provides that "whenever the expense and obligations incurred, chargeable to any particular fund of the city, in any fiscal year, are sufficient in the aggregate to absorb 80 per cent of the entire amount embraced in the tax levy for that year, together with 80 per cent of the amount estimated, in the apportionment of the current year to be received by said fund from other sources, including such amount as may remain in the fund from the levy of any prior year or years, no officer, board or official body of the city shall have any power, and no power shall exist, to create any additional indebtedness (save as the remaining 20 per cent of said tax levy is collected), which shall be a charge against that particular fund, or which shall be in any manner a valid claim against the city, but said additional indebtedness attempted to be created shall be a personal claim against the officer or the members of the municipal board or body voting for or attempting to create the same."

Part Paid Last Year.

Last fall part of the indebtedness against the fund was paid and it was estimated that some $54,000 would be available for the present season. Under the attorney's ruling about $100,000 will be available. It also explained that if the levy was $117,500 and that if only one-fourth of the $60,000 is paid this year, much more street work can be done than was at first thought possible, as the permanent fund will be nearly doubled. It also delays the time when the city will get on a cash basis.

When this statement had been made it is said that the Vermilion road property owners were informed that the city would undoubtedly be able to pave that highway this season. The nature of the improvement has not been decided, but the engineer will prepare specifications on several kinds of pavements, after which bids will be asked.

It is claimed to have been intimated that an objection would be filed against the council resolution ordering the improvement of the short block which would connect the First street paving with that of Vernon street. The grounds are alleged to have been that the cost would be too greatly in excess of the benefits to warrant the work.

Superior

Made Non-Coms.

Capt. E. Rossiter of Company I, Third Wisconsin National Guard, has announced the appointment of five men in his company to the grade of non-commissioned officers. Frank Dundon, Elmer Olson and Harvey Wiles were promoted to sergeancies and Leo Tgisko and Art Olson were promoted to corporalships. Warrants for their rank will be given the new officers at the meeting of the company next Tuesday.

Department's Good Work.

A fire started yesterday afternoon in a pile of boards near the Lehigh Dock No. 2 for a while threatened to do considerable damage. Sparks from an engine are believed to have caused the blaze. The fire department made a record run and had the blaze well under control before it had half consumed the lumber pile. The dockhouse contained a large amount of east-bound freight.

FEW TOLEDO PEOPLE RIDE FREE ON CARS

Company Refuses to Take 3-Cent Fares Pending Litigation.

Toledo, Ohio, March 28.—Only one-tenth of 1 per cent of patrons of the Toledo Railways & Light cars are taking advantage of the opportunity to ride free pending the result of injunction proceedings brought by the company against the city in Federal court.

An ordinance requiring the company to carry all passengers at straight 3-cent fares became effective at 12:01 this morning. The company instructed conductors to refuse 3-cent fares, but passengers who refused to pay more were carried free. Acceptance of 3 cents would be formal acceptance also of the low fare ordinance.

The hearing on the company's application for injunction to restrain the city from enforcing the low fare ordinance, on the ground that it is confiscatory, began this morning before Federal Judge Killitts.

COTTON BILL AGAIN PASSED BY SENATE

Amendment to Legalize Pooling Is First Stricken Out.

Washington, March 28.—After striking out the amendment legalizing pooling, the senate today repassed the bill to regulate trading in cotton futures.

The bill as passed yesterday, with a provision to legalize the pooling of cotton to raise prices, was reconsidered on the motion of Senator Smith of South Carolina, its author, because of objections. It was at first proposed to let the bill stand with assurances that the house would strike out the provision, but that plan was finally rejected.

Senator Kenyon declared the provision, in his opinion, legalized what the supreme court condemned as a violation of the Sherman law in the case against James A. Patten and others who were charged with agreeing to pool cotton and withhold it from the New York Cotton exchange in 1910, with a view of reaping $10,000,000 in profits.

Senator Kenyon, as an official of the department of justice, then had charge of the indictments against Patten and the others.

WHEN GUESSING IS EXPENSIVE

Saloon Keeper Will Have to Close for Two Weeks.

Saloonmen would do well to know when their saloon licenses expire. Guessing at the date may cause them the loss of revenue.

John Bietilo, 103½ East Superior street, thought that his license ran out April 15, but when he came to the office of City Clerk Charles S. Palmer this morning he learned that his permit to retail intoxicants at retail runs out April 1.

The law requires that saloon licenses must be advertised two weeks before being acted upon by the council. The application which he filed today will be presented Monday. It cannot be voted upon until two weeks from that time. As the license expires Tuesday night, Bietilo will have to close his saloon during the interim. Wherefore Bietilo's wrong guess will prove quite expensive.

MANY TAKING CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

Fourteen took the civil service examination for scaler clerk or bookkeeper and six for junior clerk at the high school this morning.

This afternoon the examinations for stenographer and for promotion to lieutenant of the police department will be given. Thirteen applications have been filed for the former and five for the latter.

The examinations for chauffeur and for rodmen, axmen and chainmen have been postponed until next Saturday morning. This was done because Secretary Ruben Johnson had too large a class of candidates to handle in one day, a total of fifty-eight applications having been filed.

GIVES PRINCETON $300,000 STADIUM.

Princeton, N. J., March 28.—Announcement was made today by President Hibben of Princeton university that Edgar Palmer of Rye, N. Y., a graduate of the class of 1903, has offered to build a stadium and present it to the university for use of the athletic association in time to be used for the Yale football game next fall. The board of trustees will formally accept the gift April 9.

The stadium will be built of reinforced concrete in the shape of the letter U, and will seat 41,000 persons. The estimated cost is $300,000, to be given entirely by Mr. Palmer.

WOMAN'S BODY IN MILWAUKEE RUINS.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 28.—The body of an unidentified middle-aged woman was found in the ruins of the Windsor hotel today. The hotel was destroyed by fire ten days ago and at the time a statement was given out by the proprietor that every occupant had escaped. The body was taken to the morgue.

SAYS RAILWAYS IN EAST FARE POORLY.

New York, March 28.—Dismissal of 25,000 men by the New York Central railroad since Dec. 1, said A. T. Hardin, vice president of that road, today, is only a barometer of the company's business.

"The reduction of forces was not arbitrary," he added. "It came about gradually as traffic, mainly freight, declined; and while I do not want to be a pessimist, I cannot see any immediate prospect that business will pick up and these men come back to work."

Mr. Hardin said this condition affected most of the Eastern railroads.

Gerold Is Convicted.

St. Louis, Mo., March 28.—E. Fred Gerold, former city treasurer of East St. Louis, Ill., today was found guilty of withholding city funds.

JURISDICTION QUESTIONED

Important Point Raised in Habeas Corpus Case of Grocers.

Many Misdemeanor Cases May Have to Go to District Court.

Whether it is within the jurisdiction of municipal and justice courts of the state to try misdemeanor cases in which the statute provides a punishment of ninety days or less in the county jail, or whether such petty offenses must, under a strict interpretation of the law, be tried under an indictment in the district court, is a question which was raised in habeas corpus proceedings brought before District Judge Cant this morning.

On March 16 last, Oscar Peterson and N. C. Bilsey, doing business as Bilsey & Peterson, grocers at West Duluth, were arrested under the so-called "short weight" statute on the complaint of Leo Burnell, who claimed that he purchased two pounds of dried apples and received but one pound and 13½ ounces. Before Judge Lanners in the West Duluth branch of the municipal court, Peterson pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $20 or serve ten days in the county jail. For the purpose of making a test case Peterson refused to pay the fine and was committed to the custody of the sheriff. Bilsey's case was continued.

"Short Weight" Statute.

The "short weight" statute in Minnesota provides that a violation may be punished by ninety days in the county jail. Guy W. C. Ross, attorney for Peterson, who obtained a writ of habeas corpus against Sheriff John R. Meining directing the officer to produce Peterson in court and show cause why he should not be discharged on the grounds that the municipal court had no jurisdiction over the case.

Under this law, the criminal jurisdiction of the Duluth municipal court, as well as other municipal and justice courts of the state, is limited to offenses punishable by not more than three months imprisonment in the county jail. Attorney Ross argued this morning that the courts of this state have held that a legal month was a calendar month and not a solar month of thirty days.

The attorney pointed out that beginning on Feb. 1, ninety days would be one day in excess of three months. He argued that if under this set of facts which might possibly arise the municipal court would be without jurisdiction to handle 90-day offenses, the court would be without any jurisdiction to handle such cases at all.

Judge Cant intimated that he would probably hold to his opinion, unless W. H. Gurnee, assistant city attorney, who appeared in court this morning to oppose the discharge of Peterson, could show him authorities holding to the contrary. The matter was taken under advisement for a few days. Such offenses would be properly triable in that event under an indictment by the grand jury in the district court. It is understood that the case may be appealed to the supreme court for final decision, no matter which way it is decided by Judge Cant.

If the supreme court should sustain a decision of the lower court in favor of Peterson, it would be necessary for the next legislature to amend the municipal court act so that it would have unquestioned jurisdiction over all ninety-day offenses.

STRIKERS ATTACK COLORADO TROOPS

One Man Is Reported Killed in Return of Fire.

Trinidad, Colo., March 28.—Striking miners attacked the detail of militia stationed at the Cedar Hill mine near Ludlow shortly after 11 o'clock today, according to a report received at local military headquarters. The soldiers, under command of Lieut. Lawrence, returned the fire, and one striker is said to have been killed and two wounded.

Maj. P. J. Hamrock and a party of officers left here at once in automobiles for the scene of the reported trouble. Militiamen have gone into the hills in an effort to effect the capture of the attacking party. Troops are being concentrated at that point.

GIRL'S "WHITE SLAVE" CHARGE DISMISSED

Lack of Commercial Feature Causes Dropping of Case.

Chicago, March 28.—Indications of the attitude of the Federal officials here toward violations of the Mann act in which the "white slave" motive does not appear, was given today when James L. Bruff, superintendent of the local bureau of investigation of the United States department of justice, declined to take action against F. C. Maston of Long Island City, N. Y.

Maston was arrested yesterday on complaint of a 26-year-old stenographer, who said that Maston took her with him to Kansas City and kept her there four days.

"I have taken no action, inasmuch as there is no element of commercialism evident in the case," said Mr. Bruff today. "Maston certainly meant no good to the girl, but apparently she did not object at the time, and she was old enough to know what she was doing."

Municipal Judge Uhlier refused to issue a warrant for abduction against Maston. Maston was detained at the detective bureau, where it was said that a state charge might be made against him.

WEYERHAEUSER IS SOMEWHAT BETTER.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 28.—Frederick W. Weyerhaeuser, the aged millionaire lumberman, who is ill of a severe cold at his Oak Knoll home, Pasadena, was reported improved today. He was resting comfortably, but his physicians said his advanced age made recovery a slow process.

WIRTH MUST BUY HIS WIFE $5 HAT.

Kansas City, Mo., March 28.—An Easter hat of the latest style that $5 will buy is to be purchased tonight for his wife by Walter Wirth, to avoid paying a fine of $500 assessed against him in the municipal court at Kansas City, Kan. Wirth was before the court charged with non-support.

"We've been married a year and a half," Mrs. Wirth testified, "and he has not bought me a hat in that time."

"Five hundred dollars," said the court.

"Let me off, judge, and I'll buy her a new hat when I get my pay check tonight," Wirth pleaded.

Judge Brady consented, stipulating that the wife should choose the millinery and spend as much as $5.

COMPANY TURNS DOWN MEDIATORS

"I Am Through With State Board," Says Manager at Depew.

Depew, N. Y., March 28.—General Superintendent George W. Hayden of the Gould Coupler works at noon today severed all negotiations looking to a settlement of the strike. His announcement came as a surprise to both the members of the state board of mediation and the representatives of the strikers, as a meeting between the company and a committee of the men had been arranged for this afternoon.

The company's refusal to recognize the union and its proposition to reemploy the men only as they were needed were distasteful to the men, and a modification of both of these clauses was sought.

Mr. Hayden's statement says:

"I am through with the state board of mediation. I have submitted a proposition to the men and they may take it or leave it. I will not meet a committee of the strikers."

REAL ESTATE NEWS

BRISK INQUIRY FOR RESIDENCE PROPERTY IS WEEK'S FEATURE

Outside Calls in Steel Plant District Forecast a Boom.

Platting of New 36-Acre Addition Has Already Begun.

Residence properties absorbed the main interest in the local real estate market during the present week. There was a marked improvement in the inquiry for homes and building lots, towards which all sections of the city contributed, and as the records show, several transactions were put through. Operators specializing in high class realties in the East end and normal school districts are looking forward to a substantial movement in them during the season. Negotiations are said to be already on the tapis for a number of desirable sites, and it is expected that some interesting sales will be affected within the next few weeks.

Inquiry from outside capitalists in the steel plant districts is said to be on the increase, and it is of so encouraging a nature, that a boom is confidently expected to develop out that way as the season draws on. A number of prospective buyers from the southern part of the state, and Illinois and Indiana points are expected here in the near future to study the situation at first hand.

The recent official announcement that the United States Steel corporation's Duluth plant would go into operation next spring, and the intimation that over $13,000,000 had been already expended in its erection, is said to have already had considerable influence in arousing interest in realty investments here.

The platting of the 36-acre tract recently secured by the International Realty Associates has been started, and as previously intimated, it is proposed to have the addition ready to offer on the market early in June. It is advised by the N. J. Upham company, who has the work in hand, that three new streets have been laid out in the western section of the property and that two more are planned for the remaining portion. The Snively boulevard, which will be widened to eighty feet, and the Colbyville road already run through it. The preliminary plan of the property provides for 140 lots of 50 by 155 feet each in size. The desirable location of the parcel for a residence section will be appreciation of the fact that its starting point at Victoria street comes within a block of the street car line.

Mr. Upham intimates that he is ready to receive suggestions for a name for the new addition and also for the five streets running through it. It is fully realized that the selection of an appropriate title is an important market factor in handling a real estate addition, so it is desired to have in hand a good list of names from which to make a choice

A. W. Kuehnow, president of the Gary Land company, reported the sale of ten building lots in Gary First and Central divisions yesterday to a syndicate of Indiana capitalists. It is intimated that the purchasers propose to improve in the erection of houses during the spring and summer months.

* * *

The Pulford-How company sold for John A. Johnson to Thomas E. Lee a house and lot on Seventeenth avenue east and Fifth street at a consideration of $5,550.

* * *

A good inquiry for residence and business property was advised by the Field-Frey company. Earnest money was received yesterday on two transactions.

* * *

The Cooley & Underhill company sold to Benjamin Beckman a brick and stucco residence at Fourth street and Twenty-first avenue east at a consideration of $7,300.

* * *

Charles P. Craig & Co. sold for the Lakeside Land company a building lot on Cooke street, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth avenues east and two lots at Lester Park. The Lakeside Land company has let the contract for a home at Lester Park for a recent lot purchaser.

* * *

The best season in years in sales of high-class East end residence property is predicted by the Little & Nolte company. That office has been in receipt of good inquiry for lots in its Mount Royal addition during the last few days.

* * *

A busy week was reported by the A. A. Fider company, resulting in sales of houses on Eleventh avenue east, between Fifth and Sixth streets, for the Karon investment company. The purchasers were J. E. Voleschek, Capt. Ward, William P. Waste, Mrs. Olga Antrobus and Mrs. Elsie Boettcher.

As showing the active call for moderate priced homes, it was mentioned by Mr. Fider that the present tenants of these houses, who will all be compelled to move by May 1, are experiencing difficulty in finding other dwellings in the district available for rental.

* * *

The Hoopes-Kohagen company sold five lots in its Park Drive addition near Chester park, and four South Colbyville acre tracts during the week.

* * *

William W. Fentermacher, president of the Duluth Realty company, commented on inquiry now in evidence for East end hillside properties. A notable feature in the situation there at present is the call for homes ranging in price from $3,500 to $5,000. As a result of the supply being far short of meeting the requirements, he predicted an extended building campaign during the present season. He reported the receipt of earnest money yesterday on the sale of a $3,000 house in the vicinity of the East Ninth street car line.

The contract for a $3,500 house, to be built at Seventh street and Eighteenth avenue east, will be let by the Duluth Realty company within a few days.

The Alliance Real Estate company advised the sale yesterday of a block of twelve lots in Ironton Fourth division to a Chicago investor. Three Exeter Farms tracts were also disposed of.

THE NEW GRAND THEATER.

Fawcett & Bergstrom, the contractors for the structure, now have the steel frames all in, and a start has been made in setting the terra cotta front. According to the plans prepared by Wangenstein & Gilluson, architects, the theater will be one of the most modernly appointed in the West, embodying a number of new features. INCREASED ACTIVITY IN BUILDING OPERATIONS

Architects Report That Many New Projects Are Under Way.

New Building Containing One, Two and Three-Room Apartments.

With twenty-one permits, involving expenditures of $40,970, substantially increased activity was shown in building operations this week. Architects and builders are generally in a cheerful frame of mind these days. While work has been a trifle slow in developing this year, they say that the outlook was never more encouraging than at present. It is said that house propositions that had in some cases been held up for more than two years are now beginning to take tangible shape, and that plans of some of them are likely to go out for figures within two or three weeks.

The largest permit of the week, $13,500, was issued to J. L. Lutes for a brick building and garage to be built on Sixth street, between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh avenues east.

Thomas A. Merritt took out a permit for a frame house he is building on Fourth street, between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh avenues east. It is to be noted that with two exceptions, all the permits in the week's list involved the building of homes.

A feature commented upon by Duluth rental agents and in general building trade circles, is the growing popularity of flats and apartments. The number of these in the city has swelled appreciably during the last two years.

With a view to catering to that public demand, a prominent operator is working upon a project to build a large flat building in which one, two and three-room apartments will be the feature. With the advance of new ideas in fittings and equipment, the smaller sized flats have been growing in favor of late. In all the large cities extending from New York westward, it has been found that one, two and three-room apartments have been rented in preference to the larger ones on the score of their greater convenience. The built-in bed, the kitchenettes and other conveniences, making possible the elimination of waste space, have been the main factors in popularizing small flats. These beds as now introduced are placed in the living rooms, making it serve a double purpose. They are concealed in a closet provided for them in the wall in such a way that there is not even a suggestion of their presence. They are said to be easily operated and absolutely sanitary. It is intimated that they are to be made a feature in the proposed flat building referred to, likely to be proceeded with here this summer.

W. H. Patterson is about to build a handsome home on Greysolon road at an estimated cost of $20,000. It will be of brick and designed on Colonial lines. The plans for it are being prepared by W. A. Hunt, architect.

Kelly & Williams, architects, are preparing plans for two rural schools to be built in the Floodwood district at a cost of about $5,000 each.

They have completed the plans for the proposed Pine City high school and will receive figures on it up to April 11.

The store interiors and fronts of the E. M. Stone and Victor Huot buildings on Superior street west are to be completely remodeled and work on them is to be started at once by Berquist Bros., who have been awarded the contract for each job. The fronts are to be of the latest type, the Kammer system being used. The floors are to be of tile with marble wainscotting, and the fittings in each case are to be finished in mahogany. The plans were prepared by P. M. Olsen, architect.

* * *

Edward P. Shurick, architect, will have plans ready to go out for figures next Monday on a brick and stucco duplex flat building. Bids will be taken on the general contract and on the heating and plumbing.

* * *

Percy Fuller is building a $5,000 frame and stucco home at Kenilworth Park. The contract has been awarded to Appleby Bros. P. A. Olsen was the architect.

* * *

The Hunter's Park Land company is building two handsome houses at Kenilworth Park at a cost of $6,500 each. Gustafson & Olson obtained the contract for one and A. J. Johnson for the other. P. M. Olsen was the architect.

The bids will be opened at the office of Mr. Olsen this afternoon upon another house to be built by the same company at Kenilworth Park.

The same architect has prepared plans and will receive bids up till April 4 for a two-story frame house to be built for Cecil Deighton at Hunter's Park.

Figures will be received by M. Olsen next week on a two-story frame and stucco house for C. E. Carlson at Seventeenth avenue east and Seventh street. It is estimated to cost $5,500.

The third floor of the Duluth Commercial club building is about to be remodeled with a view to providing additional dining rooms. Work upon it is to be started at once.
